Navy and gray flannels are charming, and nothing is so neat as a bolero, provided, of course, the wearer has small hips. Stout women should never wear boleros; their coats should reach at least three inches below the waist. Quite fetching are the little linen coats in white ecru or gray, but they must be strapped, lined, stitched and weighted, and, above all, they should be made by a good tailor.

The picture shows an up to date automobile coat. The material is mouse gray covert lined with bright red. The upper half is made close fitting by being laid in fine tucks, but at about three inches above the waist this fullness is allowed to flare to the feet. A stitched strap of the cloth comes below the arms in the fashion of a bolero and the lapels are held in place by means of buttoned straps. The sleeves are made in the bishop style, with long tight fitting cuffs.

The automobile cap is made of mouse colored leather, with the band of black patent leather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

'Tis Different In England.

"I suppose it's all right for Americans who visit Europe to talk with an English accent when they come home," reflected Uncle Allen Sparks, "but you never hear of any Englishmen talking through their noses and saying 'I guess' after they have spent a season in the United States and gone back home."

Hope.

"Say, pop, I've got to write a composition on 'Hope.' What is 'Hope,' anyway?"

"Hope, my boy, is the joyous expectation of being able to dodge our just deserts."

London's Passion For Luxury.

The tendency among the British middle classes is rather to live above their incomes than within them, says an Amsterdam newspaper. There is also a passion for luxury in London, and a desire to display, which seems a peculiarly stupid and useless desire in a huge city, where one seldom knows one's neighbors. And so, too, the cordial "pot luck" dinners of a generation ago have given place to ceremonial champagne functions, in which a man out of dress clothes is out of place.

The Trouble With the Cake.

When a cake contains too much flour or has baked too fast, it will sink from the edges or rise up sharply with a crack in the middle. If cake has a coarse grain, it was not beaten enough or the oven was too slow.

Some men owe all they have in this world to others and some owe a lot more than they have.

There are friends who will stand by you to the last cent—your cent, not theirs.—Wasp.

CONFECTIONS FROM GRAIN.

Wheat and Malt Used In the Manufacture of Candy.

A manufacturing plant in New Jersey, formerly used as a manilla paper mill, is now operated by a corporation engaged in the unique industry of making confections from wheat and malt, about the last materials in the world one would expect to find in candy.

In the earlier stages of the process the grain is fanned, ground and mixed in proper proportions. Then it is cooked to a mash, from which a thin sirup is squeezed by hydraulic presses and conducted to a great iron evaporator. Thence the sirup is carried in pipes to a vacuum pan. Here it is vigorously stirred and further evaporated. The thickened sirup is drawn off into huge, shallow tin pans, where it is cooled and hardened. Plain or flavored with peppermint, the mass is a rich golden brown in color. Combined with chocolate it is dark as the familiar caramel in the candy shops.

When a batch of goods is needed for the market, the stock in the pans is broken into pieces and put into a boiler surrounded by a steam jacket. It is reduced by heat to the consistency of taffy at an old fashioned candy pull. Skilled workmen shape the mass into long strips that lie like golden snakes on a board table.

They are fed to a cutting machine, a noisy little monster with an insatiable appetite for sweets. You could almost cover the machine with a hat, yet it turns out malt creamlets nearly as fast as a Maxim gun hurls a storm of bullets. The boys who carry the creamlets from the machine to the tables where they are wrapped have little time for meditation.

Every Woman Needs It.

There are times when every woman is tormented by itching skin and would give anything for relief. There is a preparation, known as Dr. Chase's Ointment, which is a prompt relief for these sufferings. Women prize it both for their own use and for its wonderful effectiveness in curing Baby Eczema, scald head chafing, and the various skin diseases of childhood.

She Knew How to Do It.

They were talking of the vanity of women, and one of the few ladies present undertook a defense.

"Of course," she continued, "I admit that all women are vain. The men are not. But, by the way," she suddenly broke off, "the necktie of the handsomest man in the room is up under his ear."

She had worked it. Every man present put his hand up to his neck.

Ready For the Rush.

They had been drifting about in the open boat seven days, and all were near unto death, when the half famished sailor in the bow leaped up and cried: "A sail! A sail!"

"What, a bargain sale?" shrieked the half dead woman passenger as she began fumbling for her purse.—Baltimore World.

An Oversight.

The visiting team came to bat for the last time and made eight runs, just enough to win. "Yah," shouted the victorious captain, "I thought you said you could see our finish at the beginning!"

"So I did," replied the other dolefully, "but I couldn't see your big inning at the finish."—Philadelphia Press.

SOME FACTS ABOUT YOUR HEART.

The human heart is composed entirely of muscles and weighs about nine ounces. It is the toughest organ in the body. It beats 70 times a minute, or 36 million times a year, and pumps 2½ ounces of blood each time. The most common ailment of the heart is weakness. This is caused by over exertion; the result of work, bicycle riding, breathing impure air or the excessive use of either tobacco or stimulants. The symptoms of this weakness are palpitation and irregular beating of the heart, smothering sensation, flushed face, burning feet, and pains in the breast. The best method of treatment for this weakness is to purify the blood, tone and strengthen the muscles, and build up the system generally.

This is just what you do when you take Merrill's System Tonic, a remedy manufactured by Merrill, the Druggist of Brantford, from a formula suggested by three of the most able physicians on the American continent, and dispensed with the same care given any of the thousands of prescriptions dispensed annually by this druggist. During the year 1900 more than 20,000 bottles of this valuable remedy were sold, and so gratifying and convincing are the results that you need no hesitancy in giving it a trial.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

THF LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE.

The Local Branch Holds Its Annual Meeting.

Officers Were Elected—A Practical Address Given by Mr. J. G. Shearer to Those Present.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance, was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. Parlours, with the President, Sheriff Hall, in the chair. The other members in attendance were Messrs. Shuck, Harrison, G. M. Roger, G. W. Bennet, W. Yelland and Rev. J. P. Wilson.

The secretary-treasurer, Mr. Yelland, stated that the total membership was 25, and in connection with the work during the year, pointed out that the only case calling for the attention of the Alliance was the fact of an excursion steamer running on Sundays down the river. On being admonished the owners desisted.

Rev. J. G. Shearer then gave a practical talk to the members, giving many useful hints as follows:

The Lord's Day Alliance is a voluntary association of Christian people having for its object the "preserving of the Lord's Day in its integrity and securing to the whole community the right to its full enjoyment." This the Alliance seeks to do by educating, arousing and organizing public opinion on the subject, securing the observance of the Day of Rest, and, where necessary, seeking such amendment of legislation as will make it effective. It does not attempt nor desire to enforce by law the religious observance of the Day, but only to secure to all the liberty to rest and the opportunity to worship.

It was formed to meet the serious perils threatening the Lord's Day. The greed of gold and the love of pleasure—both essentially selfish — have linked hands with irreligion to "paralyse the right arm of the Church of Christ" and to enslave many toilers. The greed of gold offers many seemingly innocent conveniences to selfish pleasure lovers in such forms as Sunday sale of drinks, tobacco, etc., Sunday local passenger traffic, ball games, concerts, spectacular exhibitions, variety shows, excursions, etc., all of which have already invaded our beloved land. The influence of many powerful corporations also tends to make inroads by business and labour on the integrity of the Lord's Day, and worldly society is invading the sacred hours with all kinds of social functions.

Again, the law that is meant to protect the Rest Day is, in some provinces, as at present interpreted, alarmingly defective. For example, in Ontario, corporations which control a great part of the commerce and industry of the country, are not in general amenable to its penalties, and only certain specified classes of persons are subject to the law. In these and other important respects the law is in a most unsatisfactory condition.

Perhaps the most serious danger of all is the seeming decay among Christian people of that regard for the sacredness of the Day, which ought to mark its observance, and the apathy with which they view the many encroachments made upon it.

These dangers are real and most serious, and affect, not merely isolated localities, but the whole country. Unless the Christian people generally appreciate the danger, we shall soon lose our hold upon the priceless boon of the Christian Sabbath.

Notwithstanding many hindrances the efforts of the Alliance have been crowned with a very large measure of success. No doubt very much has been accomplished through the pulpit, the platform and the press to arouse the public to a sense of the perils threatening the Lord's Day, and there are many signs of an increasing popular interest in the "battle for the Sabbath." Manitoba, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have Provincial Alliances that promise vigorous and effective work. Prince Edward Island and Quebec have a number of local Alliances, and will ere long consider the advisability of organizing provincially. In Ontario the Alliance has attained very great strength, having now nearly one hundred branches in as many centres of population. In Manitoba, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario very important amendments have been secured to Lord's Day legislation, and in Ontario effective resistance has been made to a large number of attempted legislative encroachments. In all but two of more than thirty cases of legislative effort, the Alliance in Ontario has been in whole or in large part, successful. Through kindly persuasion, public remonstrance or enforcement of the law, very many forms of manufacture and other kinds of labour, business and offensive pleasure seeking, have been prevented, or caused to cease, and thus large numbers of labouring people have been protected in the enjoyment of their Sabbath privileges. And what has been accomplished is but an earnest of what can be done if Christian people generally unite in support of the work of the Alliance.

Membership means that you are in sympathy with the Alliance's objects, that you wish to be identified with the movement, that you are willing to do all you can by prayer, by receiving, reading and circulating its literature, and by other personal effort, as time will allow, to promote its objects. There is an annual membership fee of at least fifty cents. No financial obligation beyond this rests upon members, though of course voluntary subscriptions, gifts or bequests are always welcome and helpful.

You owe it to the toiling masses of your fellow-countrymen to be a member. They need the rest of the weekly Sabbath; their physical, mental, moral and spiritual natures demand it, while the greed of gain and the love of pleasure would rob them of it. The Alliance stands for the defence of their right to its priceless benefits. No true friend of the nation's toilers will grudge the prayerful sympathy and practical aid that membership in the Alliance involves. "The liberty of rest for each demands the law of rest for all."

The interests of the Kingdom of Christ call for your practical support of the Alliance. The church cannot do its blessed work without the Lord's Day. The people cannot be reached with the Gospel if kept away from the House of God by labour or pleasure-seeking on the Lord's Day. The Sabbath is one of the bulwarks of Christianity. The Alliance stands for its preservation in its integrity. Those who love Christ, the Lord of the Sabbath, and His church, and the world He seeks to save through the church, will surely support the Alliance.

Further, it is a divine institution. At creation, God rested on the Sabbath and hallowed it. At Sinai, He wrote the law of the Sabbath in the very heart of the Decalogue, and afterwards by various prophets enforced its observance by His people. Jesus also taught its faithful observance both by example and precept, rejecting only some foolish ordinances of men that had gathered about it. The New Testament continues the weekly day of rest and worship, under the title of the Lord's Day, thus giving it a still higher character as commemorating the completion of redemption in the resurrection of our Lord. God expects us to observe this weekly Sabbath ourselves, and, as far as possible, to secure to others the same privilege.

A direct responsibility rests upon you in this matter. The people of each Province must themselves decide what shall be the Lord's Day of the future. Whatever laws they insist upon having they can secure. You, therefore, who read this will as certainly, by the measure of interest you manifest, take part in deciding this question as if you had a seat in the Legislature.

In view of these considerations, do you not feel it to be your duty to assist in the defence of the day that is at once God's Day and man's day? Religion, patriotism, philanthropy, and your own highest interests — love to God, love to man, love of country, love of home, love of church, love of liberty — all unite their voices in calling upon you to co-operate with the Alliance and to do all in your power to save the Lord's Day. To be apathetic, to stand aloof, is to aid and abet an implacable enemy alike of God, of humanity, and of Canada. May no reader of this be found so doing!

Officers for the ensuing term were elected as follows:

Pres.—Sheriff Hall.
Vice-Pres.—S. R. Armstrong.
Sec.-Treas.—R. Harrison.

The ministers of the town were elected vice-presidents ex-officio.

What It Means to Be "Educated."

Any man is educated who is so developed and trained that, drop him where you will in the world, he is able to master his circumstances and deal with the facts of life so as to build up in himself a noble manhood and be of service to those that are about him. That is what education means; that is what it is for. Knowledge of foreign tongues, a list of historic facts concerning the past, information poured into a man's brain—these things are not education. There are learned fools!

Where Bullets Flew.

The late General Wauchope used to tell a story of two Gordon highlanders, one of whom was going into battle for the first time. The crack of rifles was heard in front, and the bullets began to fly. The recruit, feeling that his hour had come, shouted to his mate in the first line:

"Dinna bob, Geordie! I'm ahint ye!"—London Answers.

ENGLAND RELIEVED.

The Guarantee Transferred to the United States.

NO SURRENDER BY ENGLAND

The Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, Drawn Up a Half a Century Ago, Was Defective in Mechanism. Which Proposed New Treaty Will Perfect—An American View of a Great Question.

Washington, Oct. 9.—There has been no surrender by England to the United States in the matter of the new Isthmian Canal treaty, according to the best authority possible. It is said to be equally true that the United States has sacrificed no principle in these negotiations, and the effect of contrary statements is depreciated as likely to seriously jeopardize the chances of the consummation of the convention, which shall finally and peacefully settle an issue that has been a source of danger for the past 50 years.

It is said that what actually has happened is that each side has preserved the underlying principles of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, and the new convention will provide for a waterway neutral at all times and open to the commerce of the world. The Clayton-Bulwer treaty, however, drawn half a century ago, has proved to be defective in mechanism for giving effect to this purpose. The new treaty simply provides this mechanism. England is relieved from the guarantee, which in her case was only troublesome, and which, being assumed by the United States in toto, is quite as effective.

As viewed from the American point of view even, there was no surrender on England's part in seeking the relief, inasmuch as the above mentioned principle is reiterated and affirmed as binding upon the United States. As for the form of the treaty, it may be stated that it embodies in substance the amendment to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which were adopted by the Senate, and beyond that the changes are believed to be textual, rather than substantial.

ROSSLAND STRIKE SERIOUS.

A. W. Puttee Sees Premier Laurier About Enforcing Alien Labor Law.

Winnipeg, Oct. 9.—A. W. Puttee, M. P., fears that their will be serious trouble in Rossland. Speaking to a Free Press representative yesterday, he said that the strike among the miners had grown serious, owing to the fact that the mine owners are importing large numbers of laborers.

"There were about 900 men on strike," said Mr. Puttee, "and they are beginning to feel that they are not protected by law. Laborers are coming in from the States in large numbers, and the Alien Law provides that, in cases where this is proven, the Government will deport the men brought in to work; that is, any man engaged on the other side to work in Rossland."

Yesterday Mr. Puttee waited on Premier Laurier at Government House, and, on behalf of the strikers, who had asked him to go to Ottawa with their case, presented Sir Wilfrid with the facts.

The Premier pointed out that if cases were known to exist in violation of the Alien Law, if the proper steps were taken to report them by competent parties, the law should be carried out to the letter, and the strikers given what benefit there was. Information for each case should be given.

TOWN NEARLY BURNED OUT.

Killarney, Manitoba, Visited by a Most Destructive Fire.

Killarney, Man., Oct. 9.—A destructive fire occurred in the business portion of the town yesterday. The Pritchard Block was the largest building destroyed. It was not insured, and was the heaviest loss.

The other losers are: W. Morgan, shoeshop, torn down; E. A. Leather, harness shop. $300 insurance on building, none on stock; W. C. Tait, tailor, and Chinese laundry, uninsured; John Sidore, harness shop, $250 insurance on the stock; J. H. Monteith, stationery and bookstore, and The Guide Printing Office, $500 insurance on both; the building formerly occupied by Cross & Co., valued at about $800; and uninsured, was destroyed; E. Sliter's residence was also uninsured.

NO DANGER.

There is no danger of throwing money away if you take Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure for rheumatism. In a little while you will say it is the best spent money you ever invested in your life. S. Donaldson, postmaster, Dufferin, P.O., Pittsburg, Ont., was lame for two years and could not get out of a rig. One bottle of Dr. Hall's, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents a bottle at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Schley Inquiry Drags Along.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—There were two new witnesses before the Schley Court of Inquiry yesterday. They were Commander Richard Wainwright, who commanded the Gloucester during the war with Spain, and Lieut. M. L. Bristol, who, as ensign, was a watch and division officer on the battleship Texas during that period. Lieut. Bristol had not concluded his testimony when the Court adjourned for the day.

C.P.R. Brakeman's Sad End.

Brandon, Man., Oct. 9.—William McIntyre, brakeman, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was instantly killed in the yards here, ten loaded cars passing over his body, practically cutting him in two.

AUSTRALIAN TARIFF BILL.

Provides System of Bonuses and Inter-State Free Trade.

Melbourne, Oct. 9.—In the Federal House of Representatives yesterday the Commonwealth tariff bill was introduced by the Right Hon. Chas. Cameron Kingston, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who congratulated the House that from this moment free trade existed among the states of the Commonwealth.

Mr. Kingston explained that the new tariff would be on lines of moderate protection.

He announced that the Government intended to introduce a system of bonuses instead of encouraging the establishment of new industries, especially in the case of locally smelted iron and locally made machinery.

Two Syrians Drowned.

Prescott, Ont., Oct. 9.—Monday night about 8 o'clock John Derby was hired to row two Syrians across the river from Ogdensburg to Prescott. One of the men lived in Ottawa, and the other, Harbib by name, had resided here during the past seven years. The latter intended returning to Ogdensburg with Derby. When near Prescott the boat in some unexplainable manner was upset. Derby succeeded in reaching the Prescott shore by swimming, but the two foreigners were unable to swim and perished.

Questions for Women.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will restore your nervous system and send the thrill of new life and energy through the body. It is above all a woman's medicine, as its invigourating influence on the nerves insures regularity in the functions of the bodily organs.

Punished for Inciting Arson.

Belleville, Oct. 9.—Abraham P. Brant and his wife Mary, Indians from the Tyendinaga reserve, were yesterdday sentenced for inciting David P. Brant to burn their barn in order to defraud the London Mutual Insurance Company. Brant was given one year in the Central, and his wife three months in the county jail.

Four Railroad Men Killed.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 9.—One of the worst wrecks in the history of the Mohawk Division of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad occurred at 1.50 o'clock yesterday morning in the village of Oriskany, seven miles west of this city. Four railroad men were killed in the wreck and one was injured.

TRIED TO ROB A BANK.

Determined Effort Made at Owen Sound Early Wednesday Morning.

Owen Sound, Oct. 10.—A determined attempt was made between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning to rob the Molsons Bank. The burglars burst open the door of the outer shed at the rear, one of them stood at the barred window and covered the sleeping clerk with a revolver, while the other burst in a panel of the door leading into the bank. This noise awoke Mr. Vandusen, junior clerk, who was sleeping in the bank. As he sat up in bed the burglar at the window shot at him, the bullet passing close to Vandusen; the latter returned the fire. They returned to the attack half a minute later, when another shot from Vandusen dispersed them. Apparently no one was hit. Vandusen notified the Central Telephone Office of what had happened and an alarm of fire was rung. The police are working on the case and some arrests are expected to be made today.

OUTBREAK REGARDED CERTAIN.

Russia Favoring Claims of Ameer's Fourth Son and Massing Troops.

London, Oct. 10.—"It is regarded here as certain that there will be an outbreak of civil war in Afghanistan," says a despatch from St. Petersburg to The Daily Mail, "arising from the claims of the fourth son of the late Ameer, Mohammed Ulier Khan, who is favored by Russia. Telegrams were sent to Kush to-day, ordering large reinforcements of Russian troops along the frontier to be in readiness, if necessary, to seize Herat."

Afghans' New Ameer.

Simla, Oct. 10.—Habib Ullah Khan has been officially proclaimed Ameer, and the accession has been accepted by his brothers and the Sirdars. All is quiet at Cabul.

ROYALTY ON THE WAY

Duke and Duchess of Cornwall at Ontario's Capital To-Day.

TORONTO READY FOR HER GUESTS

Heirs to the Throne of Empire to Be Loyally Received—Order of To-Day's Proceedings, Details of Procession and Civic Ceremony —Military Are in Readiness —A Trial Review.

Chapleau, Oct. 10.—The special trains of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall swung around the north shore of Lake Superior yesterday and headed to the southeast last night, are on the run down through the Province of Ontario for the City of Toronto.

North Bay will be reached early this morning, and the royal train will there be transferred from the Canadian Pacific Railway to the line of the Grand Trunk.

Brief stops for short formal receptions will be made during this morning at Orillia, Barrie and Newmarket, and the royal train is scheduled to enter Toronto at 2 o'clock this afternoon. From the time they left Fort William, early yesterday morning, the specials were kept going, except for such stops as were necessary to take water or change engines.

There were crowds at Schreiber, White River and the other towns set up on the rock-trimmed north shore, ready with a show of friendship for the Prince and Princess.

The early hours of the day were bright and warm, but the afternoon was raw and cheerless. The Duke and Duchess are both very enthusiastic over their western trip, and regret that they were unable to extend it.

TORONTO ALL READY.

Review Rehearsal of the Troops by Major-General O'Grady-Haly—Arrangements All Completed.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The result of the work by the citizens in decorating the city was amply apparent yesterday and last night, the illuminations being tested and found to be of the most brilliant character. The public buildings were especially fine and the trial displays evoked delighted exclamations of satisfaction from the thousands who witnessed them.

The city is full of distinguished strangers, among whom are Colonel Hon. F. W. Borden, Mrs. Borden and the Misses Borden, Hon. W. S. Fielding and the Misses Fielding, Lady Laurier and Lady Davies, who left Ottawa for Toronto yesterday morning.

During yesterday afternoon the troops at the Exhibition Grounds practised the review, Major-General O'Grady-Haly and staff being the saluting point. There were 4,000 or 5,000 delighted spectators, who witnessed these preliminary spectacles. Thirty-five bands were present and played for the troops, who numbered about 5,000 of all ranks. By nine o'clock last night all the visiting troops, numbering 10,000 in all, had arrived.

THE TORONTO PROGRAM.

Official Announcement of the Functions at Toronto To-Day.

Taken for an Anarchist.

Halifax, Oct. 10.—A man who was hovering about North street depot yesterday afternoon was taken by some of the officials for an anarchist. He was making inquiries about the Duke's arrival, said he was from Chicago, and had an important mission to perform. The police were communicated with, and the man, who was a retired British soldier, was arrested. After his identity had been made known he was released.

Coal for Royal Engines.

Sydney, C. B., Oct. 10.—The Dominion Coal Company received a rush order for eight carloads (160 tons) of coal, to be used on the engines hauling the royal train in Canada.

The Schley Inquiry.

Washington, Oct. 10. — In the Schley Naval Court of Inquiry yesterday Lieut. Mark L. Bristol completed his testimony begun Tuesday, and three new witnesses were introduced. They were Rear Admiral Henry C. Taylor, who, as captain, commanded the battleship Indiana during the war with Spain, Lieut. Commander Templeton M. Potts, who was navigator of the battleship Massachusetts during that period, and Lieut. Edward F. Leiper, who was on the New Orleans during the war, the last named being still on the stand when the court adjourned for the day.

No Danger of Wheat Blockade.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—When questioned yesterday regarding a report to the effect that there was danger of a wheat blockade at Fort William, Mr. MacInnes, assistant manager of the C. P. R., said: "The suggestion is very absurd. The elevator capacity at Fort William is 550,000,000 bushels, and there is only at present in store 1,750,000 bushels."

The Shamrock Barred.

New York, Oct. 10.—The New York Yacht Club yesterday formally declined Sir Thomas Lipton's proposal to race the Shamrock II. again next summer for the America's Cup.

FITFUL FITNESS

Expresses exactly the suitability of our Ladies' Coats for Autumn wear. Not only does this fitness refer to these perfectly moulded sizes, but to the general "get up"—the proper lengths, correct shades in all colours and, may we say, "chaste" styles. Nothing ever gaudy about Sutcliffe Garments. Then they have that look about them that says—I'm "man" made. Below are some of our worthy lines.

A SMART GRAY COAT

Of Dark Oxford, Firm Twill Cheviot, double stitched seams, semi-fitting back, new dip sleeve, fly front, stitched collar, lined throughout, 30 inches long. This is an astonishing smart coat, and only

FIVE DOLLARS.

ANOTHER GRAY COAT

Of similar cloth, but lined with silk, with good pearl buttons, high roll collar and revers, and slash pockets, giving a splendid jaunty appearance, for

SIX FIFTY.

A BEAVER COAT

In Black and Silver Fawn, the "taking" shade. These coats are neatly stitched, lined with twilled satin, are 28 inches long, semi-fitting back, stitched pockets and tabs, with coat or medici collar, for

EIGHT FIFTY.

TEN DOLLAR GOODNESS

In a Beaver of Black and Fawns, with tailored lap seams and jaunty pointed stitched pockets with flaps, correct sleeve, twill satin lined, large pearl buttons, vent back, high medici collar with revers, a stunner to our way of thinking, for only

TEN DOLLARS.

Think of these as just instances. Visit our department and you will find unexcelled values and unexcelled garments. We are told that our prices are most favourable to purchasers.

MILLINERY AT FAIR PRICES.

For chicness in Autumn and Winter Millinery you must visit our Millinery Parlours, where just that dash and chicness is combined in thoroughly good taste. Deft fingers are here to make up Hats to the original taste. Test us.

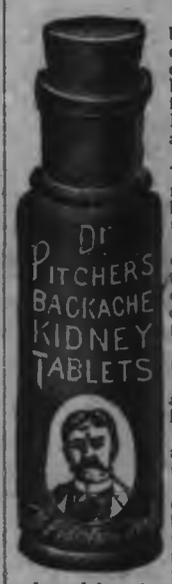
THE NEW REMEDY

For Backache, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.



There never has been a remedy introduced to the people of this country which has given such uniform satisfaction as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

The reason is plain. These Tablets are the result of Dr. Pitcher's long experience in the treatment of Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases in the hospitals of Detroit and his devotion to the study of Kidney diseases as his life's work.

There is no other remedy gives such positive assurance of a cure of backache, lame or weak back, swelling of the feet and legs, puffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, gravel, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding, irritation, frequent rising at night, high colour of the urine, pains in the joints and hips, drowsiness, bad taste in the mouth, specks before the eyes, dragging pain in the loins, Kidney weakness of children and old people, and all symptomatic indications of Kidney trouble.

If you have Kidney complaint in any form and are anxiously desirous of being cured, insist on having Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Price 50 cents a box, at all druggists, or sent by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

MARKET REPORTS.

Prices in Toronto Hog Market Have Lost Three Quarters of a Dollar in a Dollar in a Week—Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, Oct. 9.

British cables fail to respond to the advance in wheat in Chicago, and to-day Liverpool wheat futures declined ½d to ¼d. Corn futures came ½d lower. Paris cables quote wheat 5 to 10 centimes lower to-day, and flour at about a similar loss.

Hogs in the local market have taken a drop of 75c inside of a week, and the reason assigned is that the packing houses are looking for lower prices in England, which come with regularity about November in each year.

In Chicago to day December wheat declined 1c from yesterday's close; corn, ⅜c and oats ⅝c.

The American Agriculturist, in its final estimate of the wheat crop, places the total yield for spring and winter wheat at 732,000,000 bushels—460,000,000 winter and 282,000,000 bushels spring. The largest previous crop was that of 1898, estimated at 715,000,000 bushels. The Agriculturist gives the previous average of corn as 59.8 per cent., an improvement over its September estimate of a trifle less than a point.

An Ideal Ready made Food.

Prof. Naumann, a most eminent authority on chemistry and medical questions, says that cod liver oil is almost an ideal ready-made food. He says it is easy to digest, easily makes fat, and is also a medicine. Scott's Emulsion contains this oil so prepared that it is not at all unpleasant.

MR. JUSTICE BRITTON.

Formally Sworn in at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Wednesday Morning.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The Court of King's Bench, Osgoode Hall, was crowded this morning by a representative gathering of the bench and the bar, supported by a few ladies, on the occasion of the swearing in of Mr. Justice B. B. Britton, the newly appointed Judge to the Supreme Court, High Court and King's Bench of Ontario. On the bench were Chief Justice Falconbridge, Chief Justice Sir William Meredith and Mr. Justices Moss and Street. Dr. John Hoskin, K. C., on conclusion of the formal ceremony, extended the congratulations of the bar to the new judge. Mr. Justice Britton expressed his thanks in an excellent speech.

To Take over Harbor Works.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—A notice of motion has been presented by J. X. Peneault, calling upon the Dominion Government to take over the harbor works at Montreal, and place them under the Department of Public Works.

Coughs, colds, hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Vapo-Cresolene tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

THAT AWFUL DEPRESSION

Which Mrs. Gramery experienced is but the story that thousands could tell of their sufferings from Dyspepsia. Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets is the panacea.

"I have proved Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets to be the only effective remedy for my dyspepsia. I have used most everything I could hear of, but these tablets "touch the spot" and take away the awful depression and distress in almost quicker time than it takes to tell it. You may publish this that all sufferers from Indigestion and Dyspepsia may find the relief I did.

Mrs. M. Gramery, 52 Alice St., Toronto.

Sixty tablets, 35 cents.

THE LATE MR. WALLACE.

Executive of Grand Lodge in Ontario West Arranging for the Funeral.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The Executive Committee of the Grand Lodge of Orangemen in Ontario West held a special meeting yesterday in Victoria Hall to consider what arrangements should be made for the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order in British North America.

The interment will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a special train will leave the Union Station at 1 p.m., to accommodate the Toronto people. The interment will be in Christ's Church Cemetery, Woodbridge, and the Rev. William Walsh of Brampton, the Grand Chaplain of British America, assisted by Rev. H. C. Dixon, Grand Chaplain for Ontario West, will probably conduct the burial services.

The grand officers, the county officers and the district officers, will be in their official robes, and the other members will wear the badge. Wreaths have been sent by the Supreme Grand Lodge of British America, the Grand Lodge of Ontario West and the County Lodge of Toronto.

To Attend the Funeral.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Hon. D. H. McFadden, who is also Provincial Grand Master of the Orange Grand Lodge, left for the east last evening in order to attend the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace.

A Loss to the Country.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The local newspapers, without distinction of party, unite in deploring the death of N. Clarke Wallace as a loss to Parliament and the country. The Montreal Orangemen will send a large delegation to attend the funeral.

According to La Patrie, Mr. Arch. Campbell will again be the Liberal candidate in West York.

Tributes From Orangemen.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—At a representative gathering of Canadian Orangemen, at a meeting held last night, in Euclid avenue Orange Hall, under the auspices of Luther Western Pioneer L. O. L., 479, touching references were made in regard to the Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, and a suitable resolution was passed.

Dr. Sprodle Will Attend.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Dr. Sprodle, M. P., of Markdale, now Grand Sovereign of the L. O. L. of B. A., will arrive in the city to-night. He will attend the funeral on Saturday afternoon of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace. It was learned yesterday that Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, will send a wreath to be placed on the casket.

A New Departure.

A New, Effectual and Convenient Cure for Catarrh.

Of catarrh remedies there is no end, but of catarrh cures, there has always been a great scarcity. There are many remedies to relieve, but very few that really cure.

The old practice of snuffing salt water through the nose would often relieve and the washes, douches, powders and inhalers in common use are very little, if any, better than the old fashioned salt water douche.

The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease. Catarrh is just as much a blood disease as kidney trouble or rheumatism and it cannot be cured by local treatment any more than they can be.

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach an internal antiseptic treatment is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system, and the new catarrh cure is designed on this plan and the remarkable success of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is because being used internally it drives out catarrhal infection through action upon stomach, liver and bowels.

Wm. Zimmerman of St. Joseph, relates an experience with catarrh which is of value to millions of catarrh sufferers everywhere. He says:—"I neglected a slight nasal catarrh until it gradually extended to my throat and bronchital tubes and finally even my stomach and liver became affected, but as I was able to keep up and do a day's work I let it run along until my hearing began to fail me and then I realized that I must get rid of catarrh or lose my position as I was clerk and my hearing was absolutely necessary.

"Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh salve but they were no good in my case, nor was anything else until I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and bought a package at my drug store. They benefitted me from the start and in less than four months I was completely cured of catarrh although I had suffered nearly all my life from it.

"They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel I cannot say enough in favour of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and the tablets are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES.

The Proposal to Give Them Provincial Status—The Delegation Now at Ottawa About It.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Hon. F. W. G. Haultain, Premier of the Northwest Territories, and Hon. A. L. Sifton, Provincial Treasurer and Minister of Public Works, have arrived here to discuss with the Minister of the Interior and a sub-committee of the Cabinet the question of organizing the Northwest Territories into a Province. The conference is the result of correspondence between Hon. Clifford Sifton and Premier Haultain, during which the former expressed himself as follows: "Without at the present moment committing myself to any positive statement, I am prepared to say that the time has arrived when the question of organizing the Territories on a Provincial basis ought to be the subject of full consideration. It would appear to me that the better way of bringing the matter to a more definite position would be to arrange for a conference upon the subject between the representatives of our Government and a committee of Council representing the Federal Government. I shall be pleased to bring about arrangements for such a conference at any time that is mutually convenient." Mr. Sifton's offer has been acted upon, and Premier Haultain and his colleague are now in Ottawa to talk the matter over.

57—62 the Critical Age.

Height of vigour past — nature's power slowing down, vitality less, recuperative power less, endurance less. Stop the progress of decay, tone up the weakened nerve centres, impart vigour to the tiring brain, prepare for the crisis. A means of remarkable potency in the renewal of decreasing vigour is found in Ferrozone. It brightens up the whole being, imparts a sence of power and strength. By the use of Ferrozone, old age is pushed back twenty years. Ferrozone gives strength, vigour, endurance, vim. Ormond & Walsh have it. Get a box to-day.

THE LATE MR. WALLACE.

Executive of Grand Lodge in Ontario West Arranging for the Funeral.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The Executive Committee of the Grand Lodge of Orangemen in Ontario West held a special meeting yesterday in Victoria Hall to consider what arrangements should be made for the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Grand Sovereign of the Orange Order in British North America.

The interment will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and a special train will leave the Union Station at 1 p.m., to accommodate the Toronto people. The interment will be in Christ' Church Cemetery, Woodbridge, and the Rev. William Walsh of Brampton, the Grand Chaplain of British America, assisted by Rev. H. C. Dixon, Grand Chaplain for Ontario West, will probably conduct the burial services.

The grand officers, the county officers and the district officers, will be in their official robes, and the other members will wear the badge. Wreaths have been sent by the Supreme Grand Lodge of British America, the Grand Lodge of Ontario West and the County Lodge of Toronto.

To Attend the Funeral.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Hon. D. H. McFadden, who is also Provincial Grand Master of the Orange Grand Lodge, left for the east last evening in order to attend the funeral of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace.

A Loss to the Country.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The local newspapers, without distinction of party, unite in deploring the death of N. Clarke Wallace as a loss to Parliament and the country. The Montreal Orangemen will send a large delegation to attend the funeral.

According to La Patrie, Mr. Arch. Campbell will again be the Liberal candidate in West York.

Tributes From Orangemen.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—At a representative gathering of Canadian Orangemen, at a meeting held last night, in Euclid avenue Orange Hall, under the auspices of Luther Western Pioneer L. O. L., 479, touching references were made in regard to the Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, and a suitable resolution was passed.

Dr. Sproule Will Attend.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—Dr. Sprodle, M. P., of Markdale, now Grand Sovereign of the L. O. L. of B. A., will arrive in the city to-night. He will attend the funeral on Saturday afternoon of the late Hon. N. Clarke Wallace. It was learned yesterday that Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, will send a wreath to be placed on the casket.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASTICS.

The Physical Committee of the Y.M.C.A. have purchased several new pieces of apparatus for the gymnasium, which will greatly add to its appearance and equipment. A new spring board, 30 wands and 25 pairs of new one pound dumb bells for the boys, are some of the new arrivals and, after several days' test, have given the best of satisfaction. The boys, both juniors and seniors, are already attending in large numbers, and those contemplating taking membership are asked to join at once and get in the swing. There are at present 213 members enrolled for gymnasium classes and all are running smoothly.

LADIES' GOLF.

In the finals for the championship of the Ladies' Golf Club played yesterday afternoon between Mrs. Campbell and Miss Daisy Hamilton, a very close and exciting game resulted, the players being a tie at the 17th hole, Miss Hamilton winning out by one stroke at the 18th green. Miss Hamilton was one hole up the first round, the second round was tied as also were the strokes at the end of the match. This gives Miss Hamilton the Kendrey Cup for the third year, Mrs Campbell being runner up each year.

Miss Hamilton leaves for Montreal on Saturday to take part in the Royal Canadian golf tournament to be held there next week and will, no doubt, be one of the first eighteen to play for the Dominion Championship.

LACROSSE.

The Port Hope Guide in speaking of to-day's game in Stratford says: "The Ontarios have had a long season, indeed. They commenced practicing the first part of May and have been hard at it ever since—over five months. They have played thirteen matches so far, twelve of which have been victories, and they have scored a total of 101 to their opponents' 24. Six of these games were played on outside grounds, and the boys will go on the field next Thursday and play just as honestly as if they were on the home grounds, and if the referee is strict and impartial they can win right in Stratford. It has been a noticable fact, that the Ontarios play much better when away from home, and why should they not this time? The championship is now in sight, and you may bet your spare sox that the boys in yellow will never let it slip, without a desperate struggle, and when they get to this stage, we think it will require a better team than Stratford to overcome the lead of four goals."

WEDDED IN DUNDAS.

Marriage of Miss Annabelle Louise Laing and Mr. Charles D. Collins.

On October 2nd, at the Manse, Dundas, a very pretty wedding was celebrated, when Miss Annabella Louise, youngest daughter of Rev. John Laing, D.D., was married to Mr. Charles Durham Collins, son of J. D. Collins, Esq., of Peterborough.

The bride's father, assisted by her brother, Rev. A. A. Laing, performed the ceremony.

Miss Flora Collins, sister of the bridegroom, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. M. McMurchy, of Pittsburg, Pa., supported the bridegroom.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Collins, the Misses Collins, of Peterborough; Mr. Robin Collins, of Brockville; and Mr. Alex. Collins, of Toronto.

The Manse was beautifully decorated in red and white, natural plants and flowers.

Miss Mabel Steele played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bride entered the drawing room, carrying a bouquet of white roses, and dressed in white silk organdie, with bridal veil and coronet of orange blossoms.

The bridesmaid was also in white organdie, and carried a bouquet of roses.

The groom's presents were an opal ring set in diamonds, to the bride, and a gold bracelet to the bridesmaid.

After the ceremony the party were conducted to the drawing room, and partook of the wedding breakfast, where toasts and good wishes were exchanged, after which under a shower of rice, the young couple took their leave. The bride's travelling suit was of blue cloth, with grey hat. They will visit the Pan-American, Niagara Falls and other places before settling down in their future home.

Mr. Collins occupies an important position with the United States Steel Corporation in Pittsburg.

AN OTONABEE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Helen Louise Wilson and Mr. Charles C. Munroe.

The wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Wilson, Otonabee, of his daughter, Miss Helen Louise, to Mr. Charles C. Munro, accountant for the H. P. Kennedy firm.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's, church.

Mr. and Mrs. Munro left on the nine o'clock Grand Trunk express for a trip east, accompanied by the good wishes of a host of friends.

ANOTHER OCTOBER WEDDING

Which Took Place in Smith on Wednesday Afternoon.

An interesting event took place yesterday afternoon, at three o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Joseph McKee, Smith, when his daughter, Miss Maggie McKee, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter McKee, son of Mr. Gordon McKee, lot 9, 13th con. of North Monaghan.

The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Campbell of Lakefield, in the presence of about one hundred guests, including friends from Peterborough, Norwood, Toronto and Guelph. The house was most tastefully decorated with pink and blue silk bunting and natural flowers, and the ceremony was performed beneath a canopy of ferns.

The bride's gown was of white silk with garniture of chiffon and pearl trimming. She also wore a bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a handsome bouquet of white roses.

The bridesmaid was Miss Edith Tully of Smith, who was gowned in white organdie, with lace trimmings. The groomsman was Mr. Joseph Middleton.

The tables were very artistically decorated in blue and pink for the sumptuous wedding dejeuner which was served.

The bride's going away frock was of brown broadcloth, with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee left on the G.T.R. evening express for Buffalo and other points in the United States. On their return they will take up their residence at Balsam Valley, North Monaghan.

MARRIED.

MUNRO—WILSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, James Wilson, Esq., Otonabee, on Oct. 9th, 1901, by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M.A., Rector of St. Luke's church, Charles Cranfield Munro to Helen Louise Wilson.

THE RANGERS AT ROYAL REVIEW

Arrive Safely and Bestow-in Good Quarters.

NOTES OF THE ITINERARY.

They Join in the Great Royal Review To-day—They Held Their Own With Sister Corps—Attention Paid Our Military Representatives.

Toronto, Wednesday, Oct. 9th. — This has been the first day in camp of the 57th Regiment, and the proceedings so far have been not only interesting but of a satisfactory nature to the officers and men of the regiment. They are all in excellent spirits and not withstanding the hard work they have gone through already, they are bearing up bravely. None of the men have collapsed from fatigue and they are entering upon the work with the greatest enthusiasm. The send off that was given them at the Peterborough station was sufficient to inspire them with confidence in the heavy task that is before them during their few days stay in the city. A somewhat unpleasant feature of the outing was the delay at Peterborough which was very trying on the men, who were required to stand easy for over an hour and a half. They went through the ordeal nobly, however, and their conduct was very favourably commented on by all hands. The delay might appear to have been uncalled for, but the G.P.R. Company should be sympathized with rather than censured. It must be understood that the task of moving ten thousand men in one day to a single city from points at considerable distance apart and the greater portion of which came by the one road, is not a very easy one. The officials of the train, including Mr. Jno. Rose, travelling passenger agent of the road, were most courteous and attentive in their duties. They did everything possible for the comfort of their passengers, and their efforts in this regard were much appreciated.

The trip from Peterborough to Toronto was made without anything very extraordinary to relate. The officers occupied the rear end coach whilst commencing with No. 6 Company from the officers' car the companies occupied a car each forward. Then there was the baggage cars and the cars containing the horses completing the make up of the train which consisted of about ten cars in length, coaches and all. The men behaved in an excellent manner, guards, of course, were placed at the door of each car, but their duties were not very onerous. The men entertained themselves in various ways. Some of the more sensible endevoured to snatch a short snooze, others enjoyed a smoke whilst a social chat about trips of bygone years, was not out of order. No. 4 perhaps made the most noise of any. They occupied a Colonist Sleeper, and as they sat in the upper births with their legs hanging carelessly down they made things lively all along the line. Their Company song was sung with more volume than harmony, and at intervals along the route every one was assured that No. 4 was "all right."

The commissary department was excellently managed. The refreshments were very appetising and long before the train reached Toronto, everyone on board had been well supplied. The officer for the day was Capt. Bennett, the guard also being supplied by his Company. Toronto was reached at about 1.30 a.m. and as the men alighted from the train at the exhibition grounds, they were greeted by Lieut.-Col. R. W. Bell, late commanding officer of the regiment, and Capt. Vincent Eastwood, Quarter-Master, who had gone up the day before. The regiment formed up and the short march to the main building was commenced. The band struck up the regimental march and made matters exceedingly lively. Soldiers appeared at the doors of the various buildings, rubbing their eyes, and giving other signs of having been awakened from a much needed sleep. The main building was reached in due time and the men assigned to their quarters. The appartments for each company consisted of a sort of square space enclosed with a railing. On the floor a coating of oat straw was laid and, wrapped up in their several blankets, non-coms, and men rolled in after a rather wearisome trip and endeavoured to sleep the sleep of the just.

The officers were assigned to their quarters at the Central Prison, and were simply elated over the provision made for them. The staff occupied a room to themselves. The remainder of the officers occupied a large room in which handsome little iron beds were placed especially for them. They were provided with blankets but as all the officers brought special bed clothing, and as their luggage did not arrive at the Central Prison until very late, it was well unto 3 o'clock this morning before the officers made any pretence at sleeping, when they did consign themself to the tender mercies of dreamland, however, they slept very soundly and arose at about 8 o'clock. Breakfast was partaken of at about 8.30 o'clock and, the regiment reported on the parade grounds for duty.

THE STRENGTH.

The strength of the 57th is about 300. The band is not as strong as it perhaps should be, there being only about 30 of the band here out of a total of over 40. The officers are as follows: Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards, in command; Major Miller; Paymaster Major R. M. Dennistoun; Surgeon-Major Young, (attached from the 3rd Dragoons,) Quartermaster Captain V. Eastwood, Adjutant, Capt. Walker. No. 1 Company, Capt. W. H. Clurton; No. 2 Company, Capt. Clegg, Lieut. Bradburn; No. 3 Company, Capt. Mills, Lieut. McWilliams; No. 4 Company, Capt. Hounsell, Lieut. Cameron, Lieut. J. Hamilton; No. 5 Company, Capt. Bennett, Lieut. Matthews, Lieut. McLean; No. 6 Company, Capt. Hayes, Lieut. McPherson.

The Peterborough Rangers, as before stated, are quartered in the Central building of the Exhibition grounds with the following other regiments: 14th, of Kingston; 15th, of Belleville; 42nd, of Lanark; 45th, Victoria, and 46th, Durham.

The 57th are in the third brigade. The Brigadier is Lieut.-Col. John Hughes, of the 46th Regt.; the Brigade Major, Lieut.-Col. Hemming, and Capt. G. B. Hughes, son of Lieut.-Col. Sam. Hughes, is orderly officer. There are in this brigade, the 14th, 15th, 42nd, 43rd, 45th, 46th Regiments.

This morning the brigade practiced the march past, in which the gallant 57th acquitted themselves in fine style, and drew forth considerable applause from the spectators.

After dinner the entire division, consisting of about ten thousand men, participated in the same style of drill. It was a magnificent sight, and the grand stand was crowded with spectators. About twenty bands took up their positions across the race track from Major-General O'Grady-Haley, and the headquarters staff, whilst the troops moved past. Troops commenced to move by as each band played its regimental march. It took several hours for the entire division to pass. It included a half-dozen regiments of artillery, the same number of cavalry, and about 15 regiments of infantry. The 57th compared quite favourably with the other corps, although of course the Toronto regiments were the pets with the crowd. The men returned from drill about five o'clock, and have been taking matters easy since.

NOTES.

Capt. Hayes, the efficient chairman of the mess committee is receiving great praise for the excellent manner his department is being run. The officers of the First Hussars, of London, and the officers of the 57th dine in the one room at their quarters. The bill of fare is excellent.

Capt. W. H. Bradburn, and Lieut. W. T. Hall of the 3rd Dragoons, are up with the 57th as guests of the officers of the regiment. A representative of the Review and Examiner respectively, also accompanies the Rangers.

Warden Gilmour of the "Central," is most obliging, and cannot do too much for the soldiers who are his guests for a day or two.

Hon. J. R. Stratton paid the officers of the 57th a visit this evening. He was very warmly received.

The officers are mostly all out paying thei respects to friends around the city this evening. The men, too, are cut loose for the night, and while behaving themselves quite properly, are having an enjoyable time.

The band of the 57th is attracting considerable attention, although there are a number of excellent bands in camp.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, Chaplain of the 57th, is making himself very congenial amongst the officers and men.

To-morrow the men will be put through the march past in a like manner as they went through it to-day.

The 14th Durham Field Battery are holding their own with the other corps. The grey fire team is very lively.

A number of old Peterborough boys have visited the members of the 57th, and have been given a very hearty welcome.

CON. CLANCY HURT.

He Fell From a Second Story Window and was Severely injured.

Con. Clancy, who for the past seven or eight years has been employed at the local McLaughlin Carriage Company agency, which is now conducted by Mr. Robt. Leary, met with a bad accident this morning whereby he sustained serious injury.

Clancy was engaged, it seems, in removing a piece of rotten rope from the pulley, which hangs from an arm over a large window in the rear of the warerooms, when he placed a little too much weight on the rope and it suddenly broke causing him to overbalance and fall to the ground. He struck square on his feet and the jar was sufficient to badly injure his back. Just as he struck the ground the pulley fell from the arm and striking him on the head inflicted a dangerous gash.

The injured man was removed to his home on Stewart street, Ashburnham. Dr. Moher being in attendance. It is impossible to ascertain just for what extent he is hurt, as internal complications may arise at any time.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

October Store News

You can find everything here that helps to make this store the greatest and best store in the district. We want to emphasize the fact that you can buy medium price goods here as well as the best that money can buy, but you will find no trash. We positively refuse to handle anything but reliable goods.

DRESS PATTERNS.

You can get here your choice of the nicest patterns ever shown in this store. There are so many attractive shades and just the most comfortable and evenly woven cloths you could desire. They'll hold their colour and will not get pulled out of shape quickly. See them soon.

MILLINERY.

We are showing some particulary stylish Ready-to-Wear Hats just now. Some new American Ideas, the things ladies of fashion are wearing in New York and the other big American cities. And for those who want Hats made to order, there isn't the slighest doubt about it, you can get more genuine style and art in this store than anywhere else in this part of the country. If you haven't tried our Milliners you had better come and see what we can do for you.

JACKETS.

The uncertain weather is with us, and genuine winter weather is not far away. You'll want to look your best and be most comfortable. We have the right kind of Jackets—the ones that keep you cosy and comfortable, and protect your health, and giving you at the same time the air of a stylish dresser, and at prices that are sure to please you, too.

CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

One of the principle reasons of this store's great success and supremacy in Carpets is because we study styles in Carpets just as much as we do in Dress Goods, Millinery, or any other departments. People of taste know that carpet styles change just as much as other fabrics. For instance, this year Green is to be the rage, not only in carpets, but curtains, rugs, hangings and furniture—all show a predominance of green. Now what could be prettier than a soft, green carpet? Our association makes its beauty the memory of close, fine, rain-freshened turf, and fairly like moss and fern in some deep shaded place. WE are showing some beautiful soft, rich colourings of Green in carpets, hangings and rugs. Something decidedly different to what you have seen here-to-fore in carpets, and something that every lady of taste will welcome as a decided change from what they see in ordinary Carpet stocks.

DRESSMAKING.

Just a word or two about our Dressmaking Department. We have two High-Class Head Dressmakers with a staff of about 30 helps. A mammoth Dress Goods Department, with all the popular weaves to choose from. Trimmings of every description, and everything else that is required to make an up-to-date Dressmaking Department.

KID GLOVES.

We want to remind you that we make a specialty of Dollar Kid Gloves, Perrin's make, and every pair guaranteed. They are of fine finish, and their natural sizes will insure wearing without creaking or ripping. Good colours—from very light tan clear into black. Your size is here at a dollar. You might pay $1.25 for poorer gloves.

JUST THE HANDKERCHIEF

That you want and can afford to buy. Can't have too many. Here they are, plain or embroidered, wide or narrow borders and hemstitched. All of them rare quality linen, that will stand unlimited washing and use. Spesial low prices all through.

TRIMMING THINGS.

Much of the beauty and satisfaction of a dress depends on the trimmings. Every garment is more pleasing because of tasteful selection and use of trimmings. Here you'll find a broad range for your choosing and at prices to encourage buying.

THE EAST RIDING ANNUAL SUCCESS.

Another Successful Exhibition Held.

SIX THOUSAND PRESENT.

Favourable Weather—Good Exhibits and Large Attendance—Improvements to the Grounds—Notes of the Exhibits—Special Events.

The directors of the East Riding Exhibition evidently have the soft side of the weather clerk. Though their annual show is held late in the season, the weather is almost invariably fine. And yesterday was no exception. Though rain threatened, and a little fell, it was not enough to do more than lay the dust on the speeding track, and did not seem to deter a single person from attending The number of visitors was estimated at 6000, and the gate receipts were $1200. The entries in number were not quite up to the mark of last year, but the exhibits generally in the more important classes were the equal of any year. The East Riding Society seems to be in a healthy financial condition. They have at least had funds available for several improvements. A new cattle shed has been erected, the saw dust floor of the main building has been replaced by solid flooring, and one hundred new coops have been added to the poultry department.

There was an excellent exhibit of live stock, both in horses and cattle. Sheep and swine were well represented, as shown by the detailed list of exhibitors in another part of this article.. Among the swine was a Tamworth boar, said to weigh 800 pounds, and a Yorkshire sow seemed to be as large. The grain exhibit was considerably short of last year; the season was less favourable, and the number of entries was less than formerly. Mr. Humphries made a fine and tastefully arranged display of unthreshed grain. Roots, as is always the case in this district, were good, a new variety of turnip, the Kangaroo, being shown, and a 120 lb. squash, challenged admiration.

The poultry exhibit was excellent, many of the birds having been prize winners, or at least exhibits, at the Toronto Industrial, and Messrs. John McClelland and George Pratley of town, the judges, had their work cut out for them.

Inside the building the exhibit was not perhaps quite up to the standard of some years. The fruit exhibit was somewhat disappointing. While the show of apples in assortment was good, the other kinds were far below the mark—plums, pears, grapes, etc. The ladies' work was good, and the fine arts department was fairly well filled, but some critical visitors, in the Ephesian aspiration for new things, were inclined to say, and did say, that there would be some improvement if the same articles were not worked so hard—not made to do duty at too many annual exhibitions. There was a rather defective exhibit of domestic manufactures, home-made carpets and cloths.

The grounds presented a lively appearance. Tents of various improvers of opportunities, for commercial purposes, were scattered around, glass blowers, gasoline engines, merry-go-rounds, candy booths and dining tents—the ladies of St. John's Anglican church supplying excellent meals during the day. The Norwood brass band was present in bright uniforms, and evidently were working by the piece—their supply of music was so liberal.

The attention given to the interesting speeding events was divided with the militant display of the High School Cadet Corps, which was reviewed by Major Birdsall, and afterwards put through their paces in a very creditable manner by Mr. Graham, their drill instructor.

The live stock exhibit as remarked was good, both in horses and horned cattle. There was a strong competition in all classes of horses, roadsters, however, seeming to have the call, and the least attention being paid to the heavy draught class.

HORSES.

The exhibitors in the Roadster class were, W S Hamblin, matched team over 15 1-2 hands, matched team in wagon, two single horses under and over 15 1-2 hands, respectively, matched team for Grafton & Co's special; Wm. NEWS NUGGETS.

—So many of the citizens went to Toronto yesterday and to-day that business was more than quiet.

—A bunch of keys was found on Hunter street. Owner can have the same by applying to Lech & Sons, George street.

—Might as well have one! Charley LeGros gives away free a cute little pocket moustache comb, in a neat case, with every 25c. worth of work you get done in his Tony Tonsorial Parlour. Go and get one.

—Be good to your hair. Your cranium needs irrigating, and the scalp needs cleansing. Get under the electric hair brushes at LeGros' Tony Tonsorial Parlours, and you'll have healthy hair and free from dandruff.

—Although Charley LeGros is now doing the biggest barber business in town, he's hustling to do better. Another new luxurious chair, making the fifth, will be put in right away. Life is too short to have to wait in a barber shop.

—On the minute! When you're ready for a shave the experts at LeGros' Tony Tonsorial Parlours are ready for you. Four artists look after four of the swellest barber chairs in the country. You're shaved while you would be waiting your turn in other shops.

WEAKNESS

OF MEN AND WOMEN

Could we read the hearts of every man we meet, what a load of sorrow and despair would be disclosed. Indiscretions and Blood Diseases have caused more physical and mental wrecks than all other causes combined. They strike at the foundation of manhood; they sap the vital forces; they undermine the system, and not only do they often disrupt the family circle, but they may even extend their poisonous fangs into the next generation. If you have been a victim of early sinful habits, remember the seed is sown, and sooner or later you will reap a harvest. If your blood has been diseased from any cause do not risk a return later on. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure you and you need never fear any return of the disease. We will give you a guarantee bond to that effect. We would warn you sincerely against the promiscuous use of mercury, which does not cure blood poison but simply suppresses the symptoms.

WE CURE OR NO PAY.

Don't Let your Life be Drained Away, which weakens the intellect as well as the body. There is no room in this world for mental, physical or sexual dwarfs. Our New Method Treatment will Stop all Unnatural Losses, Purify the Blood, Strengthen the Nerves, Restore Vitality, and make a man of you. If you are in trouble, call and consult us. Consultation is Free. We treat and cure Drains, Blood Diseases, Varicocele, Stricture, Unnatural Discharges, Gleet, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. No cutting or operations. No detention from business. Everything confidential. Consultation Free. Books Free. Question Blank Free for Home Treatment.

NOT HIS FAULT.

A Man Who Became an Involuntary Train Robber.

"How I became a train robber on a midnight train between New York and Washington is one of the most thrilling experiences I have had recently," said a valuable member of Uncle Sam's staff of secret service men to a reporter yesterday.

"I crawled into my berth in Jersey City about 12 o'clock on a hot night, and after I had squirmed out of my clothes and was ready to cramp myself up for a sleep I became aware that I needed a drink of water very much. I, however, made no attempt to call the obliging porter and dozed off, still thinking of the drink of water which I did not have. You can imagine the sensation which went through me when, as the train was whizzing along, I was brought back to wakefulness by the realization that some one had spoken to me. It was a woman's voice, and her words, although spoken in a low tone, seemed to have made a deep impression on my brain. She had said:

"'Here, darling, drink this.'

"At the same time something cool touched my hand. I could not have been fully awake, for the only thing that impressed me was that here was my drink. I did not seem to realize where I was or to comprehend who was offering me the water. I simply raised up on my elbow and grasped the proffered draft. As I did so a delicate little hand released hold of a silver mug with a suddenness that spilled the water and the voice that had commanded me to drink uttered a startled exclamation. I heard the rustle of the curtains of some nearby berth, and then all was quiet.

"What was there for me to do? Nothing. I immediately saw that a mistake had been made, and I again resumed my slumber, with the mug as a bedfellow. It was a silver mug with a gold lining and had an artistic monogram engraved on its outer surface. The next morning I looked around me, after the car had been made once more into a day apartment. In the section adjoining mine there sat a very comely woman of youthful appearance, with a small, curly headed boy. I felt sure she was the owner of the mug, but how to get it to her I did not know. While I was deliberating the train stopped and the woman arose to leave the car. I hastened to my feet, fished out the mug and started after her. After tipping my hat and begging her pardon I said in my most unconcerned manner, 'I believe you are leaving your drinking cup.'

"The woman looked very stern and nearly took me off my feet by replying most positively:

"'You must be mistaken. That cup does not belong to me.'

"After she left the car I hastened to make a canvass for its owner, but no one claimed it, and as I proceeded the smile that began with my nearest neighbor gradually broadened to the whole car. I had robbed the train and couldn't help myself."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The cleaning of a horseradish grater puzzles some housekeepers. A whiskbroom is the thing.

One of the most useful articles a housekeeper can have is an ironing board cover made to fit the board and buttoning on one side like a child's dress.

Don't, don't, don't turn kerosene into the stove in order to light a fire. Keep an oyster can full of kerosene, and when you want quick kindlings dip a corncob or two in it.

Cracker crumbs, it is said, will clean tan suede kid gloves. Put on the gloves, take a handful of cracker crumbs and manipulate the hands as though you were washing them.

Mildew may be removed by applying to the spot castile soap shavings boiled down to a thick paste, scattering over this powdered potash, moistening slightly and bleaching on the grass.

To clean bedticking without removing it spread on the stains a paste made of soft soap and starch. When dry, scrape it off with a dull knife, sweep clean with a whisk and then wipe off with a damp, not wet, sponge.

Chased brasswork may be cleaned by first washing it in hot soap and water and then, after thoroughly drying, rubbing it with a lemon cut in halves. When it has the appearance of being clean, rinse in warm water, dry and polish with a chamois. Powders should never be used in cleaning chased brass.

A Remarkable Relic.

For the last 600 years there has been preserved in the Cathedral of Genoa an emerald vase of hexagonal shape. Its principal diameter measures 12½ inches and its height 5¾ inches. This article is secured under several locks, the keys of which are in different hands. It is but rarely exhibited in public, and that only on a decree of the senate. When brought out for exhibition, the vessel is slung to the neck of the officiating priest by means of a cord fastened to both its handles, and he never allows it to pass out of his hands. By an ancient decree of May 24, 1470, it is forbidden to touch the vase or go too near it. During the siege of Genoa, in 1319, this vase was pledged to Cardinal Luc de Fresque for 1,200 gold marks, but it was subsequently redeemed. A citizen of Genoa has written a book in order to prove that this vessel was a gift presented to Colomon by the Queen of Sheba.

Sleeping Rooms.

In all sleeping apartments where carpet is used, in the interest of health, an uncovered painted margin should entirely surround the room so as to prevent the accumulation of dust, possibly containing dangerous microbes in the cracks. If this border is regularly washed with water containing a disinfectant, it will also aid materially in purifying the room.

Not Overrated.

"I suppose," said the effusive lady who was visiting the Mecktons, "that your wife is sure that she has the best husband that ever lived."

"Yes," answered Meckton, with something like a sigh. "But at the same time I don't believe she thinks that is saying much for me."

A Knock out for Asthma.

You have had many disappointments, filled your stomach with nasty drugs, tried lots of things, but they all failed. Not being a stomach complaint, of course Asthma can't be cured by stomach medicine. But Catarrhozone cures Asthma; it gives it a tired feeling in about 15 minutes. Inhale Catarrhozone; it makes breathing easy, cures the cough, makes you well. Doctors say there is nothing like Catarrhozone for Asthma. 25 cents and $1.00.

The Baby Sick?

Then probably it's a cold. Babies catch cold so easily and recover so slowly. Not slowly, however, when you use Vapo-Cresolene. Then a single night is all that is necessary for a cure. You just put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and place near the crib. While baby sleeps he breathes in the healing vapor. Cold loosens, inflamed membranes heal, and all trouble ceases. It's a perfect specific for whooping-cough and croup.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Recommended and sold in Peterborough by H. H. Edmison, druggist.

MISS KUEHNE BEVERIDGE.

Female Sculptor Who Will Make a Bust of King Edward.

Miss Kuehne Beveridge, who, according to the cable despatches, has just received a commission to make a bust of King Edward for the library at Leeds, is probably the foremost female sculptor in the world. Some of her works are highly prised in Europe, and her success has been without stint. Miss Beveridge is the granddaughter of former Governor

MISS KUEHNE BEVERIDGE.

Beveridge of Illinois. Her mother is the Baroness von Wrede, wife of a German nobleman. In 1893 Miss Beveridge was married to Charles Coghlan, the actor, after a very short acquaintance. The marriage was opposed by the young artist's mother and Mr. Coghlan's sister, Rose Coghlan, but the lovers were obdurate. After one year of married life there was a divorce. Most of Miss Beveridge's life has been spent in London, New York and California.

Vigorous Womanhood

Made Perfect by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—A Common Sense Treatment Which Does Exactly What is Claimed of It.

The happiness of every home depends very largely on the health of the wife and mother. If she is nervous, peevish and irritable, worried by the little cares of every day life, and tormented by pains and irregularities that are sure to accompany a rundown system, there can be no happiness in the home for husband and children.

Too many women are victims of nervous exhaustion, and do not know it. They suffer from indigestion dyspepsia, nervous headache and sleeplessness, and drag themselves about the house feeling languid and tired out. The slightest mishap causes them to worry, and they feel gloomy and despondent.

Some women seem to think this a part of women's existence. Not at all. You can be healthy and and vigorous if you follow the advice of Dr. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author. He would not deceive you, and his treatment never disappoints. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is intended for just such cases as are here described.

It is above all a common sense treatment, which is approved of by physicians and laymen alike. By supplying to the thin, watery blood and weak, exhausted nerves the very materials of which nature constructs new nerve cells and new bodily tissue it gradually and certainly reconstructs and revitalizes the weakened and debilitated nervous system, cures nervous headaches and dyspepsia, and permanently overcomes the weaknesses and irregularities from which women suffer so much.

Mrs. Chas. H. Jones, Pierceton, Que., writes:—

"For years I have been a great sufferer with my heart and nerves. I would take shaking spells and a dizzy, swimming feeling would come over me. Night after night I would never close my eyes, and my head would ache as though it would burst. At last I had to keep my bed, and though my doctor attended me from fall until spring, his medicine did not help me.

"I have now taken five boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has done me more good than I ever believed a medicine could do. Words fail to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure brought about by this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is immensely popular among women, because it restores them to perfect, vigorous womanhood, and does so by naturally and gradually toning up and invigorating the system, gently regulating the bowels, and strengthening the action of the heart. Fifty cents a box; six boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanton, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Advice From Way Up.

"Understand me," said the balloonist to the parachute, "I wouldn't for the world encourage drinking habits in the young and innocent, but at the same time I don't think a drop would hurt you in the least."

Whereupon the parachute dropped.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Not Yet a Coquette.

Bertha never seems to know
Just the time I ought to go.

Bertha loves me, that I'm sure;
Bertha's coy—and immature.

Some day she will learn, no doubt,
It's the time to put me out.

May that be a distant day!
When I'm longing most to stay!

Wooden Ware.

"The wooden wedding," said Mr. Henpeck, "is the fifth anniversary, isn't it?"

"Not necessarily," snapped his better seven-eighths. "If one marries a blockhead, the ceremony itself"— But he fled to the cellar before she could finish.

A Cyclone.

Customer—What's the matter? Why is everything so upset? Are you moving?

Clerk—Oh, it's nothing! Mrs. Jones came in to buy a paper of pins awhile ago.

Lucky Poverty.

A certain young fellow named Gough
Contracted a very bad cough.
Now, he hadn't the dough
To pay doctor's bills, sough,
Unaided, he shook the cough ough!

Practice Makes Perfect.

She—Ferdy, have you ever loved before?

He (unabashed)—Why, of course, dear, else how could I now love you to perfection?

Views of El Reno.

When the men at the foot of the list go down to pick out their land, they can form some idea of what a woman gets when she is late at a bargain sale.

Night and Morning.

Hope is a beauteous morning plant. Man goes to sleep half dead
And wakes with great and glorious visions buzzing in his head.

She Called on Him.

Speakton—How on earth did you come to get engaged to Miss Strongmind?

Meekton—I didn't. She came to get engaged to me.

Makes a Difference.

"That girl was flirting hard with me two minutes ago, and now she won't look at me."

"Perhaps that's because she saw me come in. I'm her husband."

The Reason, Perhaps.

We often praise the faithful dog
Whose friendship will not balk,
He never lies nor gossips, but
He never learned to talk.

The Principal Indication.

"I presume you think I'm a hygienic crank because I'm always eating something in the line of health foods."

"Not at all. It's because you are always hungry."

Up to Him.

"Yes, Miss Cutting, that's a fine dog. Would it—aw—surprise you—aw—if I told you that dog knows as much as I do?"

"Not at all."

Uncertainty.

Today thou art a hero grand;
Tomorrow thou art "nit!"
True wisdom in this hasty land
Is knowing when to quit.

A Flatterer.

Clara—What an absurd flatterer Mr. Softie is!

Dora—Did he say you were pretty?

Clara—He said you were.

How to get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and Fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures, and why it cures. Call to-day and see him.

Spearing Muskrats.

The most destructive mode of capturing the muskrat is by spearing. Four or five rods of iron three or four feet long are secured in a cross section frame of wood or iron, and their points are well sharpened, and with this the hunter approaches the rathouse as quietly as possible, as the inmates are constantly on the alert and if alarmed grill quickly run down their spiral stairway and out into the lands. Stepping to the side of the house the hunter reaches up over it and plunges the spears down through it as far as he can push them. With a pick he pulls the house to pieces and frequently finds two or three muskrats, and sometimes more, impaled by the spears. This destructive method is, however, not looked upon with favor by the sportsmen, as it tends to drive the rats away from the more accessible parts of the marsh.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355.92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

TRICKPHOTOGRAPHY

SOME LIES THAT ARE TOLD BY THE TRUTHFUL CAMERA.

Simple Mechanism or Juggling With Perspective Brings Odd Results. The Man in the Bottle—Making a Fat Woman Thin.

The notion that the camera cannot lie has become one of the few fixed tenets of popular belief; but, while this opinion is true in the strictest interpretation of the phrase, yet the man behind the lens or he who has charge of the developing process can so manipulate the unsuspecting instrument or the equally innocent negative that were a camera endowed with the sense of perception it would never recognise its own handiwork.

Of late years trick photography and fake photographs have become distinct features of the photographer's art, and effects are easily produced which belie the subjects at which the camera is aimed. But the question naturally arises, How can this be done when the camera has to record the impression of things as they are? It is by juggling with the perspective or by simple mechanism only that these apparent phenomena in the photographic line are produced.

In the first place it is necessary to understand that there is a difference between trick photography and so called "fake" photography. The term "fake" photography is applied to the transposition of subjects from the original background to a new one in which the person or group taken may never have been. It is "trick" photography which is the more interesting, as it calls for a certain amount of cleverness and ingenuity on the part of the operator.

One of the best examples of this sort of picture taking is the photographing of a person in a bottle. Now of course no studio is possessed of a glass bottle large enough to hold a human being, and the dullest beholder must suspect a trick. The explanation, however, of the manner in which it is done is surprisingly simple.

In this instance a single plate is used. The subject to be taken in the bottle is first placed in front of a black background and taken with a carefully timed exposure of just enough duration to bring out the object distinctly. Then the empty bottle is placed against a dark background, and, after carefully adjusting the focus so that the object first taken may be well within the lines of the neck, bottom and sides of the bottle, a picture of this bottle is taken on the same plate at just twice the exposure of the first object photographed. When the plate is developed, the bottle naturally comes up first, with the first impression neatly inside, as it appears.

Some few years ago photographers were puzzled and members of the theatrical profession amused by the publication of a series of photographs of popular actresses who are noted for their ample proportions as much as for their ability to entertain large audiences. But in the pictures they were shown with sylphlike forms, although the productions were unmistakably photographs. At first it was claimed that the deception was caused by the employment of mirrors, but in reality it was merely taking advantage of one of the elementary laws of perspective.

A certain corpulent actress was posing for her picture in the studio of a theatrical publication. The photographer had placed her at a dressing table. But in order to create the illusion of a dressing room he found he would have to use a side piece. This he did and in choosing one took a screen on which was the lithograph of a weighty burlesque queen. Greatly to his surprise when the plate was developed the picture of the actress came out all right, but the woman on the poster was shown as having a tall and extremely thin figure. It then occurred to the experimenter that the camera had caught the refracted rays from the screen at a tangent, and the surface, being flat, consequently showed its horizontal lines considerably narrowed.

He then conceived the idea of reproducing in a similar manner the photographs of celebrities of ample girth, which made a decided hit.

Another mystifying spectacle is that of a person or group shown twice on one plate. This is done by covering half the plate for the first exposure and then utilizing the unused half for a second picture while the first is kept carefully screened from the light. By the employment of mirrors, many queer effects may be introduced, but that savors a little stronger of charlatanism.

The fake photograph is mainly the product of the exigencies of the modern illustrated daily and the general "cussedness" of celebrities when they ought to be together instead of staying far enough apart to be out of common focus. The fake photograph ought only to be used as a last resort, but they are so easily made that they are resorted to on the slightest provocation.

These photographs come into play mainly when group pictures are wanted, and the shears and pastepot go far to their making. For instance, suppose an ocean liner is to sail on which are booked a few senators, a duke, a party of jockeys and a popular actress. To get the picture of the pier and ship is an easy matter, but to be fortunate enough to obtain at the same time those of the well known passengers is a different matter.

This difficulty is got around by the photographer first getting the picture of the surrounding as a background and then taking on separate plates those of such of the voyagers required of whom they happen not to have a photo in stock. After these are developed the pictures of the individuals are cut out, after first being reduced to the necessary size, pasted on the desired background, and the whole is reproduced, generally in half tone. In this way are taken the pictures of the high divers who are cleverly transposed to the top of photographs of high poles or spring boards. As may be inferred by this "unprofessional" method, a subject may be placed in any background.

Then there are the freak photographs, a combination of fortuitous circumstances for which the amateur is generally responsible. But that is another story.

Strong Again.

The woman who knows the full value of health is the woman who has lost it and regained it; the woman who from being weak and sickly is once again made a strong woman. Half a million weak and sickly women have been made strong and well by the aid of Dr. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription." It cures the ills which weaken women. It regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It nourishes the nerves and so cures nervousness. It promotes a healthy appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

"I had female trouble for eight years," writes Mrs. L. J. Dennis, of 858 East College Street, Jacksonville, Fla. "Words cannot express what I suffered. I sought relief among the medical profession and found none. Friends urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I commenced taking this medicine I weighed ninety-five pounds. Now I weigh one hundred and fifty-six pounds—more than I ever weighed before. I was so bad I would lie from day to day and long for death to come and relieve my suffering. I had internal inflammation, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pain, and such distress every month, but now I never have a pain—do all my own work and am a strong and healthy woman."

Use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets with "Favorite Prescription" if the bowels are inactive or irregular.

FASHION FORECASTS.

Russian Blouses Are to Be Seen a Great Deal This Winter.

The Russian blouse has returned, both in its ugliest and most alluring forms. Velvet coats will be made this winter with the single revers and long skirt belted in with a tucked belt of some fancy material. Already many of the separate waists are being made bloused back as well as front. This style is becoming to a slender and girlish figure, but it should never be attempted by a woman who has any tendency toward stoutness.

There will be a great deal of Persian trimming used in street suits this fall, and, in spite of predictions to the contrary, faint touches of gold and silver. The metallic touches, however, will be dainty and not used in the profusion of last winter. Jeweled lace is another novelty which is being now used abroad and which will be seen on many of the handsomer fall gowns.

A very dainty fall gown is made of pastel blue cloth, trimmed with narrow black soutache braid and little silver buttons. The waist is cut out in the Russian blouse fashion, with a single revers and a collarless effect, from which rises a plaia chemisette and collar of the same cloth. The sleeves end at the elbow and are finished by long puffs of cream liberty silk. The skirt is ornamented by three clusters of the soutache braid, and perpendicular clusters of the same braid bead the full flounce. The narrow belt is of black velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Progress of Art.

Joakley—That's a clever bit.

Coakley—Yes; that's by Jetsam. He's a promising marine painter and, do you know, he started life as a humble lumberman.

Joakley—Ah! Once a hewer of wood and now a drawer of water.

Miss Quickstep—I declare I'm almost ashamed to be seen in company with Mabel Harkalong these days!

Miss Flyppe—So am I. She does such outlandish things. Look at her now blushing like a great, big, bashful boy!

EDITOR STOREY'S NOTION.

Theory on Which He Remitted a Fine and Raised a Salary.

"I was slashing copy on old Storey's Chicago Times many years ago," said one of the guests at a reunion dinner. "We had a correspondent in an Illinois town who simply would not schedule his matter, but as he generally sent good stuff we let him run on, slashing his stuff to suit the exigencies of the night. Besides, his stuff always suggested good headlines, and that was one of Storey's hobbies.

"On one occasion the correspondent sent up about 700 words which went into 100, with nothing over. On the 100 words I constructed a headline which was right up to the mark. The next day I was instructed to tell the man who made out the checks for the country correspondents to knock $5 off the correspondent's pay.

"When he received his check, he wrote to Mr. Storey saying that under ordinary circumstances he wouldn't kick about the deduction, but in this particular instance he did because the fool headline over the item made by a fool telegraph editor had infuriated the man whose name was mentioned in the dispatch and brought on a fight between him and the correspondent, the result of which was that the correspondent was fined $5 in the police court.

"Mr. Storey was a very just man when you got at him the right way. He instructed the cashier to send the correspondent the amount of the fine and raised my salary because the headline I wrote had caused a row. That was his way of encouraging a headline writer."

Every Woman Needs It.

There are times when every woman is tormented by itching skin and would give anything for relief. There is a preparation, known as Dr. Chase's Ointment, which is a prompt relief for these sufferings. Women prize it both for their own use and for its wonderful effectiveness in curing Baby Eczema, scald head chafing, and the various skin diseases of childhood.

Cities Without Slums.

Berlin has none of the horrible areas which disgrace London and so many other English towns. Even in the poorest quarters the dwellings are good, the streets well paved, clean and comparatively wide. It also has no slums in the English sense of the word. Kiote, in Japan, and Sevastopol, in Russia, both boast an absence of slums and paupers. In England the largest manufacturing town which is free from this reproach is probably Huddersfield, and after that would come Leamington Spa and London by the Sea.

There They Were.

"I am here, gentlemen," explained the pickpocket to his fellow prisoners, "as the result of a moment of abstraction." "And I am here," said the incendiary, "because of an unfortunate habit of making light of things." "And I," said the forger, "on account of a simple desire to make a name for myself." "And I," added the burglar, "through nothing but taking advantage of an opening which offered in a large mercantile establishment in town."

WHAT THE KIDNEYS ARE.

The Kidneys, two in number, are composed of a network of blood vessels and delicate tissues surrounded by a muscular coating. They are about four inches long and two inches wide. Their peculiar function is to abstract from the blood, fluid impurities. They act very much like a filter, the heavy portion of blood passing on through the veins and the watery portion draining out and down through the uretha into the bladder. Diseases of the kidneys consist of a lack of tone of the muscles surrounding the arteries and a lack of sensitiveness to the delicate nerves found in these organs, caused either by inflamation or general debility. Kidney diseases manifest themselves in the urine and also by a pain in the small of the back. Merrill's System Tonic exhibits the best form of treatment for any disease of the kidneys. It contains the healing and soothing properties of Bucha combined with the muscle and nerve toning properties of the hypophosphites. Besides it is a blood purifier and will remove from the system uric acid poisoning caused by kidney weakness and resulting in various forms of rheumatism. We don't weary you with testimonials, but we have more of them than most medicines. The use of one bottle will convince you that Merrill's System Tonic is an extremely valuable medicine of extra ordinary merit.

THE SPEEDING EVENTS.

The speeding events were run off under the direction of Messrs. Chas. Stapleton, and William Croft, town, and Jos. Whitney, Madoc, who officiated as judges. The track was in good condition and all the events were hotly contested. The running race especially was a "dandy", and horse men were delighted with the nip-and-tuck character of it, two of the horses at least ran as close as if they had been yoked to a Roman chariot.

OPEN TROT.

In this event there were three entries—Jas. Timlin's "Black Mack," I. Nattras' "Ladysmith," and Wm. McNeil's "Col. Watson." The contest resulted as follows:—

1 — Black Mack.
2 — Ladysmith.
3 — Col. Watson.

THE 2.30 TROT.

This event called up seven entries. The winners were as follows:—

1—"Village Boy," H. A. Boland.
2—"Edith D," John Kelleher.
3—"Wild Bill," Jas. Elmhirst.

THE RUNNING RACES.

This "party race" as one enthusiastic horseman termed it, was the last on the slate, and kept up the interest to a white heat. There were only three entries, and the decision of the judges was as follows:—

1—"Bob Miller," W. L. Taylor.
2—"Cheat 'em," P. Clunan.
3—"Flirt," Fred Milburn.

The novelty race was won by R. A. Nelson, W. A. Sherwin and L. A. Darling.

The prizes for the "Fastest walking team," fell to Henry Elmhirst, Chas. Faux and Henry Dunham.

The prizes for the best lady driver were won by Mrs. Henry Elmhirst and Miss Kelly, with T. Howard's horse.

Miss Skinkle won the prize for the best lady rider in saddle.

Grafton's special prize, consisting of a liberal donation of clothing, was offered to competitors in the agricultural class of horses. The three prizes were won by John Miller, W. S. Hamblin and R. A. Nelson.

"Matthews' special," prizes offered by the George Matthews Company, for hogs weighing from 150 to 200 lbs., suitable for the English bacon trade, was won by Mr. B. O. Morrow.

The exhibition altogether was a successful one and the directors have good reason for the satisfaction they feel over it.

IN LOVING MEMORY.

Of little Wilfred E. S. Trew, who was drowned June 27th, 1901.

Oh, sad and lonely is our home,
The long, long, weary day,
Life seems but just a heavy load,
Since Wilfred went away.

In early youth, God called him home,
We know His ways are best,
That up in Heaven our darling's safe,
Forever with the blest.

But, ah, the empty, aching void,
That's left within our home,
Since death's cold hand was laid upon
Our Wilfred for the tomb.

We had so learned to trust him,
We thought to have him still
When we were old, to lean upon,—
But such was not God's will.

Darling Wilfred, he has left us,
Left us, yes, for evermore,
But we hope to meet our darling
On that bright and happy shore.

There was an angel band in Heaven
That was not quite complete,
So God took our little Wilfred
To fill the vacant seat.

A LOVING FRIEND.

THE ACTORS' POSTOFFICE.

Schemers and All Outsiders Are Barred From Its Use.

Out of the thousands of professions that of the stage is probably the only one which can boast that a busy postoffice is maintained for its exclusive benefit. To those few laymen who know of this office's existence it is known as "the Actors' postoffice." To the members of the profession, for which it is intended, it is known far and wide as "The Mirror." No other letters but those intended for members of the theatrical profession are received at this postoffice, and a most rigid censorship is exercised. Outsiders and schemers who might try to use the office for their own purposes would fail at the outset, for their missives would be promptly sent to the general delivery.

The actors' postoffice was established many years ago in a corner of the office of The Dramatic Mirror, a newspaper devoted to the affairs of stageland. It has never been a very large office, but its business and importance to its clients have both increased to such an extent that it is now a recognized and necessary institution. It is also one of the busiest little offices in the United States, for nowadays no actor or actress troubles to give a private address. It is taken for granted that all correspondents know that the easiest and quickest method of sending a letter to a theatrical person is to send it to The Mirror office.

In this way the little office has become the clearing house for all theatrical correspondence. Most traveling theatrical companies furnish a printed route list, with the name of each town and the date at which each theater will be visited during the season, accompanied in each instance by the date. Thus the actor's friends know where and when to write to him at all times during the season. It happens sometimes that an acquaintance is not sure of the route, and this is where the little postoffice comes in. The letter is sent in care of The Mirror, which publishes each week a list of all letters received. These are held until called for or sent for. An actor who is playing in San Francisco, for example, will glance through the letter list and, finding his name there, will send a stamp to the postmistress, who will forward his letter to any place on his route, according to instructions.

If a theatrical manager wishes to communicate with an actor whose address he does not know, he sends the letter through The Mirror, feeling sure that it will reach him through that medium. Thus the little postmistress is kept busy, while many amusing incidents occur just outside her iron grating. She might tell some sad stories, too, if she were so minded, of letters that never came and humorous anecdotes of the pompous demeanor of some players who come to inquire for letters with as tragic a mien as though they were enacting a scene from "Hamlet." Pathetic is the daily recurring call of the actor who, in answer to an inquiry, has written to tell some manager "the lowest salary for which I shall play the part" and who hopes to be signed and returned. Each day he peers inquiringly through the grating, at first with easy self assurance, then more wistfully, as no reply is had. At last the poor fellow is forced to "consider silence a polite negative," and he retires crestfallen and disappointed.

Marriage or Divorcees

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—The House of Bishops, the Triennial Episcopal Convention, adopted a canon relating to the solemnizing of marriage, forbidding the marriage of persons divorced for any cause not existing before marriage, such as insanity, inability to execute a contract, the existince of a living wife or husband or like reasons. The whole subject is to come before the House of Deputies to-day.

Will Keep Canadian Cattle Out.

Edinburgh, Oct. 10.—Replying to an influential delegation representing Scottish agricultural interests, the President of the Board of Agriculture, Mr. Hanbury, said yesterday that so long as he was president of the board he would never consent to the removal of the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle.

MARTIAL LAW AT CAPE

Extended to Apply to the Whole Boer-Troubled Colony.

VIGOROUS METHODS EXPECTED

To Put an End to the Invasion and Rebellion the Objects in View—Result of the Premier's Visit to Lord Milner—How Martial Law May Be Modified.

Cape Town, Oct. 9.—The Gazette to-day proclaims martial law in the districts of Cape Town, Wynberg, Simonstown, Port Elizabeth and East London.

The proclamation is the outcome of the recent visit of the Premier of Cape Colony, Sir John Gordon Sprigg, and the Under Secretary of Native Affairs in South Africa, J. Rose Innes, to the British High Commissioner, Lord Milner. It places under military control the few points in Cape Colony hitherto exempted and the constitution therefore, is now suspended over the entire colony. The action taken probably foreshadows the commencement of vigorous measures which those on the spot are understood to believe necessary to end the war.

Martial law will be modified in its application to the ports, by leaving the docks, railroads and harbors under the control of the civil authorities. Military rule will be mitigated in some other respects.

Sergt. Wood Still Ill.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Sergt. John Truelove Wood, Canadian Scouts, is still dangerously ill with enteric fever, according to a cablegram received at the Militia Department yesterday.

Another Canadian Honored.

Quebec, Oct. 10.—Among the Canadians honored for their good work in South Africa, Capt. and Brevet-Major Charles MacPherson Dobell of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, son of Hon. R. R. Dobell, has been named a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order.

THE TIME EXTENDED.

Though It Expired Tuesday, Miss Stone Is Still Alive.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The time allowed by Miss Stone's kidnappers expired yesterday, yet she is still alive and uninjured. It is known now officially that her captors have granted a short extension of time — how much is not stated — and the officials feel that if the responses to the appeals of Miss Stone's friends do not cease or diminish there is yet reasonable hope for getting the money in season to save her life. The danger in the situation lies in the abatement of public interest which was generously manifested during the first few days following the issuance of the appeal.

Miss Stone's Abductors.

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—A trustworthy report locates Miss Stone's abductors on the summit of a mountain at Gultepe, on the Turko-Bulgarian frontier near Dubnitza. It is said that the kidnapping band numbers 18. Arrangements have been made to surround the mountain with Turkish and Bulgarian troops.

Fund Only $36,000.

Boston, Oct. 10.—Additions to the Stone ransom fund have practically ceased. Only two small cheques were received up to noon yesterday. The fund aggregates nearly $36,000.

THE AUSTRALIAN TARIFF.

Some of the Duties Proposed For the Colony's Imports.

Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 10. — The Commonwealth Tariff Bill, introduced in the Federal House of Representatives on Tuesday by Mr. Kingston, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in addition to the duties already cabled provides for the following duties:

Sparkling wines, 12 shillings per gallon.

Other wines, bottled, 8 shillings, in bulk, 6 shillings.

Manufactured tobacco, 3 shillings 6 pence per pound.

Imported leaf tobacco, 1 shilling 6 pence per pound, excise 1 shilling.

Cigars, 6 shilling 6 pence, plus 15 per cent. ad valorum; cigarettes, 6 shillings 6 pence.

Sugar, imported, £6 per ton; excise, £3, with a rebate of £2 if grown by white labor only.

Cottons and linens, 10 and 15 per cent. Furniture, 20 per cent.

FAMILY NEARLY KILLED.

G.T.R. Express at Forest Strikes Buggy Containing Four Persons.

Forest, Ont., Oct. 10.—Yesterday morning as John McKay, wife and two children of Plympton were driving out of Forest in a single buggy, they were struck by the G.T.R. express at the Main street crossing. One child was killed, and the others in the buggy were all badly injured. Mrs. McKay is probably fatally hurt, and the other child is in a very critical condition. The horse was killed and the buggy smashed to atoms. The streets were crowded at the time, as the fall fair was just closing. An inquest will be held.

Dorchester, N. B., Oct. 10.—The fast freight from Halifax on the Intercolonial left the rails near here while running a curve yesterday morning. The train traveled the sleepers for 300 yards, and then several cars went into a ditch. Two cars, containing 400 bags of cocoanuts consigned to Toronto, also a car of apples and a car of syrup were almost totally destroyed. The loss is about $2,500. The track was cleared during the afternoon. A broken flange caused the accident.

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

THE HEIR APPARENT

Welcomed by People of Ontario in the Province's Capital.

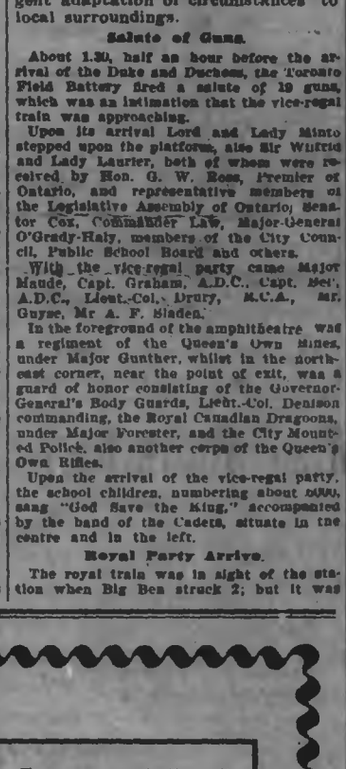
ENTHUSIASTIC DESPITE RAIN.

The King's Son Made a Triumphant Entry into Toronto, and Was Greeted by a Quarter of a Million Cheering Greater Britishers—Story of the Arrival and the Procession Through the Streets.

Toronto, Oct. 11.—Triumphant was the entry of George, Duke of Cornwall, and his consort into what he himself termed "the historic capital of Upper Canada" yesterday. Happy is the Prince whose throne has for its foundation the affection of a free and prosperous people. Bayonets there were yesterday, enough and to spare, for eleven thousand of the best soldiery of Canada lined the streets, but never a man of them was needed to secure for Britain's heir the reception befitting the coming of the Sovereign's son. The veteran correspondents who have accompanied the Prince and Princess in their world-wide tour felt a new thrill in the magnificence of the reception tendered by Toronto. Some of them had formed the opinion that Canadians could not cheer, and that for the full, round note of the hurrah one must go to the old land, to the Englishman to the manor born.

And yet, of the quarter of a million people who lined the streets through which the royal party passed yesterday, and who cheered as men and women never have cheered in Toronto before, not one in six was born in the old land beyond the seas; not one in six had heard the lark's matin song and the music of the nightingale, or had scented the hawthorn in the May morning. Yet here they were greeting with passionate acclaim a Prince who until that day had been to them but a name.

Personal some of it may have been, but the Prince himself would be the first to admit that it was the expression of loyalty to the throne and the empire.



DUKE OF YORK

Notwithstanding the enormous crowds, probably one-half of whom were from the townships, villages, towns and cities of Ontario, the proceedings passed off without a single hitch, while the cheerful orderliness was unexampled and unsurpassable. For the sightseers the spectacle could hardly be improved upon. The procession itself was capitally planned, and the entire proceedings were carried out with almost mathematical accuracy. It was, in fact, an intelligent adaptation of circumstances to local surroundings.

Salute of Guns.

About 1.30, half an hour before the arrival of the Duke and Duchess, the Toronto Field Battery fired a salute of 19 guns, which was an intimation that the vice-regal train was approaching.

Upon its arrival Lord and Lady Minto stepped upon the platform, also Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, both of whom were received by Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, and representative members of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, Senator Cox, Commander Law, Major-General O'Grady-Haly, members of the City Council, Public School Board and others.

With the vice-regal party came Major Maude, Capt. Graham, A.D.C., Capt. Bell, A.D.C., Lieut.-Col. Drury, M.C.A., Mr. Guyse, Mr A. F. Sladen.

In the foreground of the amphitheatre was a regiment of the Queen's Own Rifles, under Major Gunther, whilst in the north-east corner, near the point of exit, was a guard of honor consisting of the Governor-General's Body Guards, Lieut.-Col. Denison commanding, the Royal Canadian Dragoons, under Major Forester, and the City Mounted Police, also another corps of the Queen's Own Rifles.

Upon the arrival of the vice-regal party, the school children, numbering about 6000, sang "God Save the King," accompanied by the band of the Cadets, situate in the centre and in the left.

Royal Party Arrive.

The royal train was in sight of the station when Big Ben struck 2; but it was two or three minutes after the train was first sighted, during which the royal salute was boomed forth by the guns of the artillery, that it drew alongside the platforms. Cheer upon cheer rent the air from the thousands of children assembled, and as the Ducal party stepped out of the train the National Anthem was sung. The Duke and Duchess were received near the extreme west of the station and walked up the platform, to the mahogany suite placed in the covered projection from which the procession started, accompanied by Hon. G. W. Ross, Lord and Lady Minto and the lords and ladies in waiting.

The Duke and Duchess remained upon the platform for about 15 minutes, during which the children sang "Prince George," by H. H. Godfrey; "The Maple Leaf" and "Rule Britannia." Miss Vivian Spence presented the Duchess with a bouquet of red roses, intermingled with maiden hair fern and lilies of the valley, which was tied with a satin ribbon upon which were Canadian emblems. Chairman Spence presented the Duke with a specially prepared program of the choruses sung by the children, on the back cover of which are the names of the Reception Committee and the Musical Committee. A similar souvenir was presented to the Duchess by Trustee Kent. At the close of the choruses, Mr. A. T. Cringan, musical conductor, stepped forward and led the singing of the National Anthem, which was taken up by the children and the vast crowd, and could be heard 20 feet away by reason of the buzz and hum that arose from the crowd.

The Duke's Reply.

The text of his reply was:

Gentlemen:

The kind and sympathetic sentiments to which your addresses give expression are most gratifying to the Duchess and me, and we desire to thank you sincerely for these tributes of welcome.

At the same time we are anxious to acknowledge with feelings of deep gratitude the warmth and enthusiasm of the hearty reception given us to-day on our entry into the historical capital of Upper Canada, which has, I can assure you, profoundly touched us.

Passing thru your brilliantly decorated streets and witnessing your splendid public works, we are reminded of the value of that extended municipal government in the establishment of which this province led the way, and which it has so thoroly developed.

It will be a pleasant duty to convey to my dear father, the King, your declaration of loyalty and attachment to the Throne, and also the kind allusions to his visit to this province forty-one years ago which I find thruout the various addresses.

I rejoice to think of the prosperity, the material progress and intellectual advancement which characterise the general condition of Ontario at the opening of a new century, and that also by side with this progress is a spirit of deep contentment and unswerving loyalty.

The free and liberal institutions secured to the people of the Dominion have relieved them from the struggle for the right to manage and control their local affairs. As they have grown in power and influence, their aspirations have been lifted to a higher plane. Their patriotism has broadened and intensified. They have realised now closely they are concerned in the general welfare of the Empire.

In no uncertain manner they have shown their readiness to share in the task of defending its interests and maintaining its honor and integrity.

DUCHESS OF YORK

The deeds of your fellow-countrymen during the war in South Africa have indeed testified not only to the strength of your loyalty, but to the strong military instinct and capacity inherent in the sons of the Dominion. They have fully maintained the noble traditions of your forefathers who fought for hearth and home under the leadership of the heroic Brock.

I am glad that during our stay I shall have an opportunity of taking part in a review, and thereby adding to the experience I have already acquired of His Majesty's splendid forces in this portion of the Empire.

I have received with pleasure the address from the German residents of Toronto in which they testify to their appreciation of the advantages of British citizenship.

Thruout our long journey I have been interested to find in what high regard German emigrants are held as useful and industrious members of the community in the country of their adoption.

We have been looking forward with keen pleasure to our visit in your city. Perhaps I may be allowed to claim some special association with it in the fact that the name which it bore for forty years was identical with the first title conferred upon me by my dear grandmother.

The enthusiasm with which we have been received makes us certain that our expectations will be fully realised. (Loud cheers.)

The chorus sang another selection, after which the members of the Council were presented to His Royal Highness. This concluded the ceremonies, and Their Royal Highnesses departed at 4 o'clock amid thunders of applause and the playing of the National Anthem.

The Ladies Presentation.

A fanfare of trumpets announcing Their Royal Highnesses' arrival at Government House, had scarcely stopped reechoing, when the Duchess of Cornwall, accompanied by Lady Minto and several aides-de-camp, walked to the verandah facing the south, and there the presentation of the gold writing set by the ladies of Toronto took place.

FITFUL FITNESS

Expresses exactly the suitability of our Ladies' Coats for Autumn wear. Not only does this fitness refer to these perfectly moulded sizes, but to the general "get up"—the proper lengths, correct shades in all colours and, may we say, "chaste" styles. Nothing ever gaudy about Sutcliffe Garments. Then they have that look about them that says—I'm "man" made. Below are some of our worthy lines.

A SMART GRAY COAT

Of Dark Oxford, Firm Twill Cheviot, double stitched seams, semi-fitting back, new dip sleeve, fly front, stitched collar, lined throughout, 30 inches long. This is an astonishing smart coat, and only

FIVE DOLLARS.

ANOTHER GRAY COAT

Of similar cloth, but lined with silk, with good pearl buttons, high roll collar and revers, and slash pockets, giving a splendid jaunty appearance, for

SIX FIFTY.

A BEAVER COAT

In Black and Silver Fawn, the "taking" shade. These coats are neatly stitched, lined with twilled satin, are 36 inches long, semi-fitting back, stitched pockets and tabs, with coat or medici collar, for

EIGHT FIFTY.

TEN DOLLAR GOODNESS

In a Beaver of Black and Fawns, with tailored lap seams and jaunty pointed stitched pockets with flaps, correct sleeve, twill satin lined, large pearl buttons, vent back, high medici collar with revers, a stunner to our way of thinking, for only

TEN DOLLARS.

Think of these as just instances. Visit our department and you will find unexcelled values and unexcelled garments. We are told that our prices are most favourable to purchasers.

CANADIAN PRODUCE.

Some idea of the high position that the products of Canada now enjoy in the English market may be gathered from the following quotations from the advertising pages of a recent issue of the London Grocer, which the Canadian Gazette of London, has gathered:

(A Bristol firm). "Finest Canadian Apples. Prompt Delivery. "Our Lady of the Snows," 6 x gallons, 11s., London; "Miss Canada," 11s., Bristol.

(A Manchester Firm). Cheese, Fancy Ingersoll, Fancy Brockvilles and Bellevilles. New.

"The Finest Bacon the World Produces is Laing's," "Erl King Brand, Canadian Pea Fed Bacon."

(A London Firm). Butter, Canadian Perfect Creamery, "Springdale," 56 lb. boxes, 106s.; American, 60 lb. tubs., 96s., Siberian, 94s. Cheese, Canadian selected, 49s.; Goudas, Finest Dutch, 45s.

Slowly but surely the superiority of Canadian produce is asserting itself, and the process is being brought about, not by puffery, but by real merit of the articles. It therefore behooves Canadian producers to be continually on the alert to improve the quality of thei rgoods, and on no account to permit any article or package to be inferior to its professed character. There are rogues in all trades, but the wors tis the man who for example puts the little, wormy, defective apples at the bottom of the barral. He not only commits a dishonest act in the abstract, but he commits an act that has a tendency to discredit the honesty of Canadian fruits and Canadian shippers. It is also important that the greatest pains should be taken to pack goods in an attractive manner, and so that they will reach market in the best condition. The producer should in this latter regard co-operate with both the Dominion and Ontario Governments, which are doing so much to promote the interests of shippers and, consequently, producers.

The United States is certainly the home of many wild ideas. We all reprobate with the greatest earnestness the horrible act of the assassination of the President of the United States, and as becomes civilised beings demand the swift punishment the law provides. Even in such a calamity — such a henious crime — there is no room for unseemly vengeance. If we must combat a crime against laws and order, we must do it in a way to be consistent. It shows an unhealthy state of the public mind, a disregard of the restraints of civilization, when anything like popular approval can be got for the wild and barbarous proposal of a president of a Wesleyan University in Nebraska, that the body of Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, should be loaded with indignities and sunk to the bottom of the sea. This is worthy of the dark days, bygone forever, when malefactors were hanged, drawn and quartered, their bodies hung in gibbet chains or burned and their ashes scattered, and utterly unworthy of modern civilization, unworthy the dignity of a great nation like the United States. Hysterical Anarchists might propose something of the kind. The Chancellor of a Canadian University who would seriously propose what did the Chancellor of a Nebraska University would very suddenly find a lack of demand for his further services.

THREE YEARS HELPLESS.

Relief at Last for a Quebec Dyspeptic

Nobody can appreciate the extent of the joy and thankfulness that enters into the heart of a man or woman cured of Dyspepsia. The change is so great, from disease to health, from misery to happiness that only those who have experienced the transition can understand.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have worked this wonder thousands and thousands of times. Not only in Ontario, not only throughout Canada, but all through the United States, England, Scotland and Ireland, and wherever the English language is spoken.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the one rational way to treat Dyspepsia. They are composed of harmless natural digestants such as pepsin and diastase. On being taken into the stomach they act immediately on the food. They actually do the work of digestion, dissolving the whole mass of masticated food and preparing it for assimilation into the blood.

In this way the feeble stomach is left with little or no work to do. Time and opportunity is given it for what it has never had before since you've been born — a rest. Gradually it grows strong and healthy once more. Finally the time comes when it is able to resume work entirely cured. Then it is that the patient experiences that sense of delight and joy common to all who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I have had pains in my stomach due to Dyspepsia for three years," writes John Cornforth, of 103 St. Anne street, Quebec City. "I could get nothing to help me until I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets which gave me great ease from the start. My joy was indescribable when on continuing their use I was finally completely cured."

87—88 the Critical Age.

Height of vigour past — nature's power slowing down, vitality less, recuperative power less, endurance less. Stop the progress of decay, tone up the weakened nerve centres, impart vigour to the tiring brain, prepare for the crisis. A means of remarkable protency in the renewal of decreasing vigour is found in Ferrozone. It brightens up the whole being, imparts a sence of power and strength. By the use of Ferrozone, old age is pushed back twenty years. Ferrozone gives strength, vigour, endurance, vim. Ormond & Walsh have it. Get a box to-day.

THE BRITISH CABINET

Rumors of Impending Changes Rife in London.

BRITAIN WANTS THE WAR WON.

Denunciation of Lord Salisbury and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach—"The Little Englander" in War and Peace Must Absolutely Be Suppressed—A Cabinet Possessing the Country's Courage Wanted.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The Record-Herald has the following from London: Rumors of impending cabinet changes are growing out of the severe and almost universal criticism of the government voiced in the press. It has long been recognized that Lord Salisbury awaits an auspicious moment to retire in favor of Rt. Hon. Arthur Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, but it is now believed numerous other changes will take place.

Popular suspicion points to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach as the minister guilty of retarding military aggressiveness and thus prolonging the war. Many Conservative leaders also charge the Chancellor of the Exchequer with holding the national purse strings too tight. They say that his cheese-paring influence ought to be removed from the cabinet.

While outspoken condemnations of the government's alleged blunders and inaction are harsh enough, veiled attacks are much more violent. The war party threatens the Ministry in dead earnest. A prominent Conservative member of Parliament said to a correspondent to-night:

"Lord Salisbury's mistakes would turn the country into opposition, lock, stock and barrel, if the people did not know that they could not trust the other fellows. Great Britain wants the war won and demands that the Ministry hew to the line of its original policy, tho the pro-Boers howl till they are black in the face. The Salisbury cabinet has not done this. It has made concession after concession to the 'Little Englanders.' It even went so far as to begin the reduction of the army in South Africa in order to cheapen the war and thus shut the mouths of the roasters, who said the country was going headlong into bankruptcy.

"These cowardly relaxations from the sound military rule of augmenting your forces until you have the enemy whipped are responsible for our present embarrassment. We sadly need a cabinet possessing the country's courage and pertinacity."

The government is beginning to realize the folly of obscuring its point of view, although nobody expects it to adopt a different course, since newspapers are inexorably barred from the War Office, and whatever activity reigns there is concealed. The cabinet also refuses to take the country into its confidence. Meanwhile an angry public sentiment is in process of formation that would enthusiastically welcome an alternative Ministry.

Scouts in Ambush.

Hellbron, Orange River Colony, Oct. 7.—Thirteen of Kitchener's Scouts have been captured in a Boer ambush.

No More Troops Wanted.

London, Oct. 10.—Secretary for War, Mr. Brodrick, replying to Sir Charles Howard Vincent's offer to raise fresh troops or do anything else to assist the government, declines the proposal, and, in doing so, lengthily reviews the British position in South Africa, obviously in answer to the persistent and searching criticisms of the Ministerial journals and members of Parliament, that the government is languidly content to let the war drag on.

TAKEN FROM AMERICAN SHIP.

Force Used at Halifax on Deserters From British War Vessels.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 10.—Two British sailors who had deserted from the warship Niobe were forcibly taken from the American schooner Mist this afternoon.

Warrants for their arrest were issued by Admiral Sir Frederick Bedford, and an imperial government launch, having on board a squad of civil police and an armed escort of marines, went out to the schooner, which was lying in the stream. A demand was made for the men, and the captain of the vessel was prepared to give them up, but the sailors refused to come on deck. The police boarded the schooner and forcibly removed the men.

Previous to this action Admiral Bedford had consulted with United States Consul-General Foster about the matter. Mr. Foster thought the marines had better not go on board of the vessel, but gave his consent for the civil police to take the sailors. In compliance with the consul's wishes none of the marines boarded the Mist. The two sailors will be court-martialled on the flagship Crescent.

Smothered in Their Beds.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The three youngest children of Wilfrid Chapleau, a cold storage builder, living at 287 St. Germain-street, lost their lives by fire to-night. The parents and two older children had left the house for a short time, when a lamp in the kitchen exploded and set fire to the building. Albert, aged 6 years; Telesphore, aged 4, and Arthur, aged 18 months, were smothered in their beds. The damage to the house will amount to about $1200.

J. S. Thompson, proprietor of the Club cigar store, Winnipeg, has been arrested, charged with complicity in a robbery of registered letters from the Winnipeg postoffice.

Four trainmen were killed and three others were slightly injured in a collision of freight trains on the Chicago, Great Western Railroad, one mile east of Lombard, Ill., on Thursday.

Sir Frederick Young, K.C.M.G., is on his way to Canada, via New York, to attend the laying of a corner stone for an extension to the Kingston University, at Kingston, Ont., on October 15.

The Earl of Fingal and Capt. Cooper of the East Lancashire Regiment, who arrived on the Oceanic at New York Thursday, have come for the purpose of buying re-mounts for the British cavalry in South Africa.

There came near being a killing at the Rockton Fair on Thursday. A farmer named John Henderson, who resides in Beverly Township, was cut in the head with a screw-driver in a row with a man who was selling cheap jewelry. He was very seriously injured.

At Port Elgin, Ont., on Thursday fire destroyed the old Royal Hotel building, formerly used as a shoe factory, but latterly as an apple evaporating factory, and chopping mill. The loss, which is about $5,000, was partially covered by insurance.

At Quebec, Thursday afternoon a drayman, named Villeneuve, while driving from one of the wharves leading to St. Andrew street, was run into by a C.P.R. shunting engine and was thrown from his vehicle. Both legs were cut completely off, and the man was otherwise injured.

Giavinovitch, the Anarchist, arrested at Rome recently, after having been heard to threaten the lives of the Pope and of Cardinal Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State, has been sentenced to a fortnight's imprisonment for carrying deadly weapons and then to be deported to his home in Dalmatia.

Harper's Nitro-glycerine Factory at Ridgefarm, four miles from Oil City, Pa., was blown up on Thursday. The cause of the explosion will never be known, as the only persons about the place at the time were instantly killed. They were: Clarence Ward, aged 33, the manufacturer, and his assistant, Frank Gross, aged 25.

There was a rear-end collision on the Grand Trunk Railway Thursday afternoon about 1.30. The westbound mail train ran into a freight train at Harrisburg. The fireman of the mail jumped, but the engineer, John Roberts, Niagara Falls, stuck to his post and nearly lost his life. When the pitch-in occurred he was pinned under his engine, and the escaping steam threatened to scald him to death. To free himself he broke one leg at the ankle, fracturing the bones in a horrible manner.

A Remarkable Death.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 10.—Peter Seguin, jr., of Kinsteed, Sandwich East, aged 32, carried a small bottle of carbolic acid and two plugs of chewing tobacco in his hip pocket. The acid was designed to cleanse a cut in his hand. The bottle was broken, and the tobacco absorbed the acid. Despite the tobacco's peculiar flavor, he chewed the two plugs in two days, and for ten days tried to slake his parching thirst, with whiskey and water. Then two physicians tried in vain for two weeks to cure him, being puzzled at first to know the cause of his illness.

Seguin's throat swelled to several times its normal size, and the flesh became almost black. He suffered excruciating pain, as his mouth, throat and stomach were burned raw. The abscess, which formed on his lungs, broke and brought death yesterday.

NO DANGER.

There is no danger of throwing money away if you take Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure for rheumatism. In a little while you will say it is the best spent money you ever invested in your life. S. Donaldson, postmaster, Dufferin, P.O., Pittsburg, Ont., was lame for two years and could not get out of a rig. One bottle of Dr. Hall's, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containg ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents a bottle at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Schley Inquiry.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Just before the Schley Court of Inquiry adjourned to-day Judge Advocate Lemly introduced Lieut. J. H. Holden, formerly watch officer on the Scorpion, as a witness.

Other witnesses were Lieut.-Commander W. H. Schuetze, who served on the Iowa, and Lieut. A. W. Grant, who was on the Massachusetts, who testified concerning the general campaign of the flying squadron. Lieutenant Edwards, F. Leiper concluded his testimony begun yesterday.

What Shall We Eat

To Keep Healthy and Strong?

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruits and meats, is undoubtedly the best in spite of the claims made by vegetarians and food cranks generally.

As compared with grains and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digested and assimilated more quickly than vegetables or grains.

Dr. Julius Remusson on this subject says: Nervous people, people run down in health and of low vitality should eat plenty of meat. If the digestion is too feeble at first it may be easily strengthened by the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. Two of these excellent Tablets taken after dinner will digest several thousand grains of meat, eggs, or other animal food in three or four hours, while the malt diastase also contained in Stuart's Tablets cause the perfect digestion of starchy foods like potatoes, bread, etc., and no matter how weak the stomach may be, no trouble will be experienced if a regular practice is made of using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they supply the pepsin and diastase so necessary to perfect digestion and any form of indigestion and stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach will be overcome by their daily use.

That large class of people who come under the head of nervous dyspeptics should eat plenty of meat and insure its complete digestion by the systematic use of a safe, harmless digestive medicine like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, composed of the natural digestive principles, peptones and diastase, which actually perform the work of digestion and give the abused stomach a chance to rest and to furnish the body and brain with the necessary nutriment. Cheap cathartic medicines masquerading under the name of dyspepsia cures are useless for the relief or cure of indigestion, because they have absolutely no effect upon the actual digestion of food.

Dyspepsia in all its forms is simply a failure of the stomach to digest food, and the sensible way to solve the riddle and cure the indigestion is to make daily use at meal time of a safe preparation which is endorsed by the medical profession, and which is known to contain active digestive principles, and all this can truly be said of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

All druggists throughout the United States, Canada and Great Britain sell them at the uniform price of 50 cents for full treatment.

MARKET REPORTS.

Wheat Cables Are Lower and Chicago Market Was Dull—The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, Oct. 10.

Wheat cables declined again to-day, futures ½d to ¾d, and corn declined ½d.

Wheat was also lower in Paris by 20 to 25 centimes. Flour declined there also 25 to 30 centimes.

Chicago was dull to-day, pending the government crop report due this afternoon. It will show the condition of corn and other crops, but will probably take no account of the abandoned area. The important item will be the condition of corn, which it is expected will be somewhat better than that shown in the report of September 10, on account of the good weather during the month and the fact that the frosts came too late to do any appreciable damage.

A Lucky Windfall.

There must be some truth in these stories of big fortunes being held in trust by the Courts after all. The other day Mrs. Lucy Hales, of Hamilton received a windfall in that way. Her father a Port Hope brick-maker, died over 30 years ago, and as Mrs. Hales was then an infant, her share of the estate — some $200 — was paid into Court. The money was lost track of until a few days ago, when Mrs. Hales, in glancing over some old papers, learned that an amount was due her. She consulted a lawyer, and on Monday last was handed a cheque for about $900.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—Hundreds went up from town to Toronto this morning.

—James Cunningham was sentenced to five months in gaol this morning on a charge of vagrancy.

—A Rawdon farmer sold three pounds of ginseng in Marmora for $16. He found it in one little patch.

—The Kingston council have decided to use voting machines at the next municipal election, at a cost of $105 as rental.

—Work has begun on the extension of granolithic pavement on the west side of Reid street, from Simcoe to Charlotte.

—Never run a machine that squeals for oil. Oil saves friction, is an economy of power and spares the machine. Advertising is the oil of business.

—Macadam street crossings are a self-confessed failure. Within a short time after being laid these crossings are no better than the middle of the street, and it is too much to ask pedestrians, especially ladies, with absurd trailing skirts, to use such crossings.

—"Pressed Flowers from the Holy Land," is the title of a beautiful little booklet published by Harvey B. Green, B.D., of Lowell, Mass. It is a beautiful souvenir of the most interesting place on earth, and well worth the price charged for so large and interesting a collection. The price of the cloth bound and flower-filled book is $1.00.

Y. M. C. A. Evening School opens next week. Mechanical Drawing and Algebra on Monday 7.30 p.m. Be in at the start. Other subjects on the evenings announced.

A WORD TO MECHANICS.

A Good Opportunity for Home Improvement.

The classes in Mechanical Drawing and Algebra, which organise at the Y.M.C.A. on Monday evening, are of especial interest to you. They are within the reach of every mechanic who needs their help.

The instructors are well qualified to deal with the courses outlined. The classes will no doubt be large, but none too large for the newly provided accommodation. The class in Algebra will be a great help to those who graduated from the Drawing Class last year, and as an introduction to the study of Applied Mechanics.

Men who are struggling with correspondence courses will find these classes the help they need, which only is to be found in personal contact with the teacher. You should enroll your name at once.

Meeting to Organise an I. W. T. Club—The Sewing Class.

The members of the Young Women's Christian Association are invited to meet at the rooms this, Friday, evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of organising an I. W. T. Club in connection with which the illustrated Bible course, planned for the coming year, will be taken up.

The sewing class in connection with the Junior Department of the Young Women's Christian Association, will meet for the first time on Saturday afternoon, October 12th, at 3 o'clock. There is no extra fee for this class.

THE OMEMEE FAIR.

Although the Weather was not all That Could be Desired Still the Affair was a Great Success.

The Emily Agricultural Society's Fall Exhibition was held in the drivind park, Omemee, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The weather was very unfavourable on Wednesday, it having rained during the early morning, causing many who had planned to be present to remain at home, hence the attendance was not nearly up to the anticipations of the officers and directors of the Society. However, the Exhibition was a grand success, as regards the exhibits. Nearly every class was well represented. In horses, cattle, sheep, and swine, many fine animals were shown, and the judges had great difficulty in awarding the prizes. The poultry exhibit was also very fine.

The grain and seed exhibits were splendid, also the roots and vegetables. The fruit display was not large but the apples, grapes and plums on exhibition were second to none in size, or quality, in fact they were equal to those we saw at the Pan-American. The general and domestic manufactures and diary produce were very good, and second prizes were duly entitled thereto, by the superiority of their work.

The ladies, of course, were to the front as usual with their grand display of fancy work. Only for the ladies the Emily and all other Fall Exhibitions would fall flat. Their graceful appearance on the grounds and their beautiful work lend an enhancement to the exhibitions that the societies could ill afford to be without. It is suggested that some further special inducements to the ladies be offered at the next annual fall exhibition, and the society will be sure of a much larger attendance.

A BANNER TO BE PRESENTED.

The Federation of Labour Remembered by a Friend.

The Peterborough Union of the Federation of Labour, No. 9240, will be honoured to-night by the presentation of a handsome banner.

Mr. M. C. Tooley has had the banner he will present to the Union to-night, made to order specially for this occasion. It is of crimson silk, with gold bullion fringe, and bears the inscription, "Federation of Labour," half encircling clasped hands above, and the legend below the clasped hands consists of "Peterborough Federation of Union, No. 9240." The gift is a timely one, and the occasion will be one of unusual interest to the Union.

THE FIRST BOAT FROM LAKEFIELD

Came Down the Canal to Nassau Yesterday.

SUPERINTENDENT'S YACHT.

The New Booms are Being Placed in Position at the Various Dams in the Section.

The honour of being the first steamer to run over the section of the Trent Valley Canal between Lakefield and Nassau, is held by the steam yacht, "Victoria," which took the trip yesterday afternoon, coming down to the point where the upper section ends.

The steamer is owned by Mr. R. B. Rogers, and is being used by Mr. Conroy, contractor, for the purpose of placing the new booms at the different dams on the section, and thereby completing his contract.

Mr. Conroy with his crew, was accompanied on the trip by Mr. Francis the Division Engineer of the Trent Canal, and by Mr. Robson, who is timber inspector on the above contract.

THE PRICE OF FUEL.

Is There a way to Escape the Pennsylvania Monopolists?

The Globe says: "If the price of anthracite continues to rise it will become too expensive a luxury for the poor man, and necessity may force to the front some invention by which bituminous coal may be more extensively used for house heating. We have plenty of bituminous coal in Canada, and if it could be utilized so as to give relief to the householder we see no reason why the national railway should not carry it as specially low rates. If there is any manner in which the Canadian householder can escape from the Pennsylvania monopolists, he ought to have all the help we can give him."

Whereupon the Hamilton Times remarks: "What about peat? Has not that experiment up Peterborough way come to a head yet? A while ago it was said that gas could be produced economically from peat, and if that is the case the rest of the house-heating problem ought to be easy of solution. With peat abundant throughout Ontario, there should be no need to haul bituminous coal all the way from Nova Scotia nor to pay famine prices to the Pennsylvania monopoly for anthracite."

Whereupon the Examiner would remark that there is not much doubt of the Peterborough peat enterprise being a successful venture, and people who are paying through the nose for coal will be interested in being assured that peat fuel will in a few weeks be placed upon the Peterborough market, at a reasonable price. And there is every prospect that the problem of summer fuel will be solved by the introduction of gas made from peat. Still, we may have to sweat, or rather, freeze, a little longer under the high prices of the coal monopolists, for although it is practically demonstrated that our peat deposits may be made available for fuel, it will take perhaps a little time before a sufficient quantity is made available for general use, to influence the market. The action of the coal monopolists is however only hastening the day when the use of peat will restore a livable equilibrium of prices. We can reasonably pin our faith to peat, as an important element in the fuel of the future.

THE ROYAL CRUSH IN TORONTO

Women Painted and What is Worse With Torn and Draggled Dresses.

The following paragraphs from the World indicates the extremity of the crush that obtained to a greater or less degree throughout the city yesterday:

"At two o'clock so great was the crush on the south side of Queen street, opposite the City Hall, that several persons were pushed through a couple of shop windows. As a consequence there was a general crash of glass, which caused some little excitement, for the nonce. Fortunately, however, no one was injured. The crush on Bay street, in front of the City Hall, after the Duke and Duchess had passed up, was something terrible. Many women, children and horses were jammed together indiscriminately, and the wonder is that some children were not trampled to death. As it was one lady fainted, but fortunately strong men were there who carried her away from the crush, the boisterous young men who caused most of the jostling being compelled to subside. Policemen were there, mounted and on foot, but were powerless to control the respectably dressed hoodlums, who took a delight in making trouble. Batons were drawn, and at one time it looked as though some heads would be tapped, but finally the troublesome ones made their way out of the crowd. Women's dresses were torn and bedraggled, children screamed, and everyone suffered more or less. It was a terrible half hour for thousands.

HARD AT WORK.

Busy Operations at the Works of the Otonabee Power Company and the Cordage Company.

Work in the matter of power development at dam No. 5, is progressing rapidly, and all the available labour is being employed. Work has so far progressed that the first crib is ready for sinking.

From the energy with which the work is being prosecuted, the people of the town may rest assured that there will be available power developed at the earliest possible date. Depending upon this condition, the work at the buildings of the Cordage Company are being pushed with all possible vigour. All the mechanics that can be found are being employed, and everything is being done to make the works ready for operation at the earliest date possible.

CENTRAL MILLING COMPANY.

Contract Let and Work Begun on Their New Buildings.

Messrs. Finnie & Gordon have been awarded the contract for the buildings of the Central Milling Company, and have begun building operations.

The new buildings will be placed on the corner of George and Dalhousie streets, opposite the Ackerman Harness Factory. The structure will be of brick, 40 x 50 feet, and four stories in height, including basement. The basement will be of Longford stone, and rise four feet above the ground level. The contract for the machinary goes to the Stratford Mill Building Co. The capacity of the mills will be from 150 to 200 barrels per day. The contract of Messrs. Finnie & Gordon calls for the completion of their work by December 1st next.

Thus another industry for Peterborough is under way.

KILLED BY A COW.

A Young Belmont Farmer was Fatally Gored.

About ten days ago, Robert Merrian, jr., about twenty years of age, son of Robert Merrian, sr., of lot 27, con. 10, Belmont, went to the fields for the cows, the dog as usual accompanying him. The cows encircled the dog, and having attained a state of perfect fury, they appeared to be unanimous in a desperate effort for the dog's destruction by doing fierce battle with him.

The young man in order to rescue his dog rushed in among the cows, and was gored by one of the animals on the inside of one of his lower limbs, tearing the main artery asunder. The doctors were unable to take up the artery, and although the hemorrhage ceased for a time, it started again last Saturday, and he died on Sunday.

He was laid at rest on the 8th inst., by Rev. J. W. Bunner in the Maple Grove Cemetery, Havelock. The deceased was the picture of health, a model of manliness and most exemplary in character so that his untimely end is greatly mourned by a large circle of friends.

ARRESTED FOR HORSE STEALING.

A man giving his name as Alfred Firman was brought to town Thursday and charged with horse stealing. He claims to live in Belmont township and working on the boundary of Rawdon and Seymour for a Mr. Osser. On the 14th September Mr. Osser missed his man and horse from the stable and sent Mr. Phil Grimshaw in search. The man was found in Madoc but claimed that he bought the horse in Marmora. He was brought over to show the place of purchase and prevaricated a good deal. Arriving here, Osser was on hand and swore out a warrant and Magistrate Hubbell sent the accused to Belleville for trial.—Marmora Herald.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

October Store News

You can find everything here that helps to make this store the greatest and best store in the district. We want to emphasize the fact that you can buy medium price goods here as well as the best that money can buy, but you will find no trash. We positively refuse to handle anything but reliable goods.

DRESS PATTERNS.

You can get here your choice of the nicest patterns ever shown in this store. There are so many attractive shades and just the most comfortable and evenly woven cloths you could desire. They'll hold their colour and will not get pulled out of shape quickly. See them soon.

MILLINERY.

We are showing some particulary stylish Ready-to-Wear Hats just now. Some new American Ideas, the things ladies of fashion are wearing in New York and the other big American cities. And for those who want Hats made to order, there isn't the slightest doubt about it, you can get more genuine style and art in this store than anywhere else in this part of the country. If you haven't tried our Milliners you had better come and see what we can do for you.

JACKETS.

The uncertain weather is with us, and genuine winter weather is not far away. You'll want to look your best and be most comfortable. We have the right kind of Jackets—the ones that keep you cosy and comfortable, and protect your health, and giving you at the same time the air of a stylish dresser, and at prices that are sure to please you, too.

CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

One of the principle reasons of this store's great success and supremacy in Carpets is because we study styles in Carpets just as much as we do in Dress Goods, Millinery, or any other departments. People of taste know that carpet styles change just as much as other fabrics. For instance, this year Green is to be the rage, not only in carpets, but curtains, rugs, hangings and furniture—all show a predominance of green. Now what could be prettier than a soft, green carpet? Our association makes its beauty the memory of close, fine, rain-freshened turf, and fairly like moss and fern in some deep shaded place. WE are showing some beautiful soft, rich colourings of Green in carpets, hangings and rugs. Something decidedly different to what you have seen here-to-fore in carpets, and something that every lady of taste will welcome as a decided change from what they see in ordinary Carpet stocks.

DRESSMAKING.

Just a word or two about our Dressmaking Department. We have two High-Class Head Dressmakers with a staff of about 30 helps. A mammoth Dress Goods Department, with all the popular weaves to choose from. Trimmings of every description, and everything else that is required to make an up-to-date Dressmaking Department.

KID GLOVES.

We want to remind you that we make a specialty of Dollar Kid Gloves, Perrin's make, and every pair guaranteed. They are of fine finish, and their natural sizes will insure wearing without cracking or ripping. Good colours—from very light tan clear into black. Your size is here at a dollar. You might pay $1.25 for poorer gloves.

JUST THE HANDKERCHIEF

That you want and can afford to buy. Can't have too many. Here they are, plain or embroidered, wide or narrow borders and hemstitched. All of them rare quality linen, that will stand unlimited washing and use. Special low prices all through.

TRIMMING THINGS.

Much of the beauty and satisfaction of a dress depends on the trimmings. Every garment is more pleasing because of tasteful selection and use of trimmings. Here you'll find a broad range for your choosing and at prices to encourage buying.

COUNTY GOAL STATISTICS.

There Were 160 Prisoners Committed During the Year.

Of These 88 Were Sentenced to Various Terms of Imprisonment—Details Concerning Those Incarcerated.

The local gaol statistics for the year have been prepared and forwarded to the Ontario Government. The appended excerpts from the same are of interest:—

On the 1st of October, 1900, there were 15 prisoners in the gaol, and during the year 160 more were committed, including 15 females. Seven were under 16 years of age. Of those committed 105 "went up" for the first time, 16 for the second, 14 for the third, and 25 for more than the third time.

Twenty-three were committed as of unsound mind, of which 3 were females.

Twenty-four of those committed were acquitted on trial, 44 were discharged by order of Court without trial; 10 were allowed to go on suspended sentence, and 58 were sentenced to term as follows:—6 to the Central Prison, 2 to the Penetentiary, 2 to the Reformatory and 48 to the gaol. (One died in gaol while undergoing sentence.)

The periods of sentences awarded were distributed as follows:—Under 30 days, 16; 2 months, 8; 3 months, 7; 4 months, 2; 5 months, 2; 6 months, 16; 1 year, 1; 2 years, 2; 3 years, 2; Reformatory for boys, 2.

The maintenance of 24 prisoners was defrayed by the Government.

The nationality classification of the prisoners was as appended:—Canadian, 127; English, 10; Irish, 12; Scotch, 4; Yankees, 7.

Religious denominations — Roman Catholic, 41; Church of England, 37; Presbyterian, 19; Methodist, 52; Other denominations, 11.

Seventy-one of the prisoners were married and 89 unmarried.

Thirty of the prisoners could neither read nor write; 107 were temperate, and 53 intemperate.

The gaol expenditure was as subjoined:—

For food, clothing, fuel, etc.$1260.61
For Officers' salaries 1350.00

Total $2610.61

The daily cost per prisoner for rations was 12 3-8 cents.

The greatest number of prisoners confined in the gaol at any time during the year was 20, and the lowest number 10. There were 11 prisoners in the gaol at the close of the year on Sept. 30th.

Of the 160 prisoners who were committed to gaol during the year, 13 were charged with assault; 1 cruelty to animals; 1 detained as witness; 13 drunk and disorderly; 8 forgery; 2 horse stealing; 1 indecent assault; 1 frequenter bawdy house; 2 keeping bawdy house; 37 larceny; 23 insane; 3 murder; 2 perjury; 6 receiving stolen goods; 4 trespass; 31 vagrancy; 12 other offences.

WAIT FOR IT—WATCH FOR IT —STAY FOR IT.

The gala opening event of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company will take place in their premises, No. 403 George street, on Wednesday afternoon, October 16th.

The doors will be thrown open at one o'clock p.m. for the reception of the public, and a cordial invitation is herewith publicly extended to the whole town to be present.

This is to be a clothing store, pure and simple. The brand-new stock of high-class overcoats, ulsters and suits is arriving daily and being opened out as fast as the manufacturers can produce it.

The T. O. Rush Company wish to impress upon the public the fact that their stock has not been selected indiscriminately from the stowaways of a wholesale house, but has been specially made to their own order within the past few weeks, with up-to-date styles, designs and finish, in accordance with their own ideas of what first-class ready-to-wear clothing should be.

The store premises will be handsomely dressed and decorated for this opening event, and the services of the 57th Batt.. Band has been secured for a concert to be given at the store in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

Let there be no engagement to prevent you from attending this interesting event on Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 16th.

THEIR CORDIAL TREATMENT.

A Clean Health Bill—No Casualty List —Hard-worked but Happy—Home To-morrow Night.

Toronto, Thursday, Oct. 10th.—The 57th, to-night, completed their second day in camp, and their life during that time has not been one of idleness. They have been a busy lot of men, and notwithstanding the fact that they were through for the day at 6 o'clock, and could, if they felt so inclined, tumble into their bed of straw, there will be none who will do so. There is too much attraction down the city and tired and dirty as they are after a hard day's work they will see the day through.

The Central Building in which the 3rd Brigade is quartered is a very lively place. The men make the best of matters and on the whole they have enjoyed themselves to an immeasureable degree. There have been no cases of sickness of any sort and it is to be earnestly hoped that they will arrive home to-morrow night in the same robust health in which they left. They are becoming quite domesticated to their quarters, and as their rations are excellent, the utmost harmony prevails.

The men left their parade grounds at 9.30 o'clock this morning and marched down to the city to perform their portion of the work of lining the streets. They took up their position on Carleton street, between Young and Javis streets, at 10.30 o'clock, and remained in position until five o'clock in the afternoon. This indeed was a most trying ordeal to go through especially in view of the fact that it rained almost incessiently throughout the afternoon. The rain at no time came down very heavily, but sufficiently heavy to make it decidedly uncomfortable. By an excellent piece of forethought on the part of the commissary department, the men brought a neat little stock of sandwiches, which they managed to masticate while standing easy. The residents on Carleton street were very good to the Peterborough Tommy Atkins. In fact the boys became great favourites and fared a great deal better than many other corps. No. Four Company commenced to sing a tune, the air of which was "How dry I am." From where your correspondent stood, it was not clearly audible whether or not these were the words of the song, but the residents must have thought so, for they immediately appeared along the thin red line with a bucket of water and a number of glasses. The boys drank most heartily the health of the Carleton street residents. Nor was this all. The men were treated to fruit of a delicious flavour, which they devoured like wolves.

The rain ceased somewhat when the Royal party proceeded down the line. The 57th looked its best. Every man resembled a piece of statuary, but all eyes were centred on the Duke and Duchess. They smiled at intervals as they drove down the line, while the dense mass of humanity which swayed to and fro, cheered wildly.

When the Royal party had concluded their route, the regiments returned to their respective parade grounds, the gallant 57th having completed a march of about fifteen miles.

The 14th Durham Field Battery was engaged in lining the north end of Jarvis street. It might be here mentioned that there is in Toronto at present the largest brigade of artillery that was ever mobilized in Canada. There are ten batteries in all, and they presented a very striking appearance.

The 45th and 46th Regiments from Victoria and Durham respectively, and commanded by Lieut.-Colonel Sam and Lieut.-Colonel John Hughes. These two fine regiments created much favourable comment.

Lieut.-Col. E. B Edwards was field officer of the day for the 2nd Brigade; Capt. Hounsell is officer of the day for the regiment; Lieut. Cameron is subaltern for the day.

The colours of the regiment were carried by Lieut. James Hamilton and Lieut. McLean, the two junior subalterns of the regiment.

Lieut. E. O. Bradburn and Lieut. Ackerman, of the 14th Field Battery, were guests at the officers mess of the 57th this evening.

The regiment will not come home altogether, it is thought, as many desire to arrive in Peterborough early to-morrow night. Permission has been given to a number to leave on the local, whilst the Regimental train will pull out at about 11.30 p.m.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

LACROSSE.

Stratford, Oct. 10.—The Stratford Iroquois landed the intermediate C. L. A. pennant from the Ontarios of Port Hope to-day by a score of 10 goals to 2. The first game of the finals at Port Hope resulted in a victory for that team by 6 to 2, so that Stratford wins the round by 12 goals to 8. The weather was about as disagreeable as it well could be. It had rained all forenoon and the grounds were practically soaked. The rules of the C. L. A. that the round must be completed rain or shine had to be carried out, however, so both teams went into it determined to make the best of a rather unfortunate circumstance. At 3.15 when Referee Dr. Roberts, of Brampton lined up the teams the rain had abated somewhat, but the grounds were very wet. Notwithstanding this the players kept their feet with remarkable agility and there was very little sliding on the ground. Stratford had the best of the argument all the way through, for though at quarter time the score stood two all the visitors were unable to keep up the pace, and after that failed to score. Both sides used their bodies freely and there was considerable rough play, the honours in which were about evenly divided. The scoring started almost from the face off, the Ontarios getting first blood, Stratford took the next, Port Hope the third and Stratford the fourth, leaving the large attendance in a quandary at the end of the first quarter. In the second quarter the Indians got in their good work and scored four goals, making the round even and raising the stock of the locals' supporters to a very high notch. The remainder of the game was a series of scrimmages, most of the scoring being done from close quarters. The Ontarios proved themselves no easy proposition, however, and the locals admit that they had to play a stiff game for the coveted pennant. Jack McCabe's lip was badly cut necessitating twelve stitches being put in.

Reception for Soldiers and Citizens.

If other cities and towns have sent as large crowds to Toronto as Peterborough, we feel satisfied that a great many people will arrive in town to-night tired and hungry. THE INNS OF NORWAY

PLAIN AND WHOLESOME AND WITHOUT ANY FRILLS.

The Meals Are Formidable Affairs, and Salmon Is Always Served. Guests Are Expected to Eat Heartily and to Wait on Themselves.

At intervals of eight or ten miles along the public highway, usually in connection with the skyds stations, are inns where the traveler will invariably find the comforts if not the luxuries of life—plenty of food and shelter, bed and board. There is no upholstered furniture or velvet carpets or eggshell china, but always neat lace curtains at every window, sometimes in the windows of the stables.

A luxurious American will have to deny himself much that he is accustomed to at home and will encounter experiences and customs that are new and novel to him. But if he is reasonable in his requirements and behaves himself like a gentleman he will always meet with a hospitable although a homely welcome. The Norwegian hotel keepers measure our appetites by their own and give you so much to eat, particularly at the noon dinner, that you are stupid and sleepy all the rest of the day and snooze in your carriage when you ought to be admiring the scenery.

There is no style about the hotels, and the service is poor. The household work is all done by the landlord and his wife and daughters. There are no electric bells, and if you want anything you usually have to hunt for it and help yourself. It is the custom of the country for the travelers to make themselves at home, and you are sometimes compelled to look after your own luggage or it is liable to be left. But you will recover it again after a time. The people are honest, considerate and unselfish, but unpretentious in their hospitality. There are no locks on their doors, for none is needed. Burglars and thieves are absolutely unknown.

The bedrooms are barren of ornaments and easy chairs that we are accustomed to at home. There are no carpets and no rugs on the floor. All the appurtenances are plain and substantial, without any effort at show and very little idea of convenience. The beds are good, but usually the only cover is a comfortable seven or eight inches thick and as heavy and unwieldy as a feather bed. You can't tuck it in at the bottom or at the sides, and it is always sliding off to the floor. It is too much covering for an ordinary sleeper, and when the nights are warm, as they often are, you are compelled to choose between a chill and suffocation.

The pillows are another nuisance. There are usually a bolster of feathers about the size of a barrel and a little bit of a 4 by 9 pillow an inch or two thick, with pretty trimmings upon it. The big pillow is too big, and the little one is too small, and you solve the dilemma by rolling up your overcoat into a ball and using that instead. There is plenty of fresh, heavy, homemade linen—large, square towels that have been woven under the same roof during the long winter days.

The breakfast is abundant and often terrifying. You are at first confronted with five or six different kinds of cheese, an equal variety of cold meats, tinned fish, smoked herring and salmon, cold boiled ham, three or four kinds of cold sausage, strips of dried reindeer meat and half a dozen different jams and preserved fruits. You are expected to partake freely of that sort of provender and usually do so until you learn by experience that dried fish, boiled eggs, veal cutlets and other hot food will soon follow if you are patient. The coffee is usually good, and there is always an abundance of rich, thick cream. There is no warm bread, but five or six kinds of cold bread baked from wheat, rye and oat flour, besides the national "flatbrod," which no Norwegian table is ever without.

The dinner is a formidable affair after the fashion of the ordinary European table d'hote, with soup, fish, roast, salad, preserves and pudding, while for supper you get the same assortment of cheese, cold meats, fish, sausage and preserves that you have had for breakfast and two or three hot dishes. Fish is the staff of life and salmon the mainstay. It is served in some form at every meal, fried at breakfast and supper and boiled for dinner, with strips of cold smoked salmon of a deep rich color on the side at all meals.

The lakes and rivers are well stocked with salmon trout, which are caught in nets and kept alive in tanks until they are needed. You enjoy them the first five or six meals, but after you have had them seventeen or eighteen times in succession they begin to lose their relish. Beer is the ordinary beverage. Everybody drinks it. Claret and Rhine wine can be had at the larger hotels, but never any whisky, brandy or other strong liquors. Local option prevails throughout Norway, and in the country districts the sale of spirituous liquors is forbidden.

An Atchison druggist tells this story and declares that it is true: He had tonsilitis, but did not send for a doctor, as he knew he would be all right as soon as the swelling "broke." But his wife was worried and insisted on sending for a doctor. When the doctor arrived, he looked through his medicine case, and said he had nothing suitable for the patient; that the medicine he had was for the right side, whereas the swelling in the throat was on the left side. Then he hurried away to get his left handed medicine.

When in Bed

Put some Vapo-Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp and place it near the head of the bed. Then all the time the baby sleeps it will breathe in the healing, soothing vapor. The hard, tight cough loosens; the fever gradually goes down, the breathing becomes natural, and pneumonia is avoided. Every part of the throat and bronchial tubes are touched by the medicine. For the hard colds and coughs of children nothing equals Vapo-Cresolene. 9

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene Outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials sent upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 100 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Recommended and sold in Peterborough by H. H. Edmison, druggist.

AN EXPLANATION.

If you'll make a diagnosis when you're feeling sad and dreary,
As you would with any everyday disease;
If you'll simply question science as to why you're glum and weary
And everything seems dull and ill at ease,
Perhaps you will discover, after devious calculations,
The cause of all these symptoms which appall,
And you'll smile as you reflect, in spite of various irritations,
That it's nothing but the weather after all.

You'll find a sigh denoting neither sorrow nor contrition;
A tear drop's not indicative of care.
They are products of the meteorological condition,
Of extra moisture that is in the air.
So perhaps it's not in reason fortune's chance to be reviling
Or to vow life's store of happiness is small,
For when the sun comes out again, again we will be smiling;
It's nothing but the weather after all.

A Common Form of Indigestion

Which cannot be cured by ordinary stomach medicine—The kidneys, liver and bowels become deranged — Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pill.

By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intestines, as has been repeatedly shown in cases where the stomach has been removed and the patient has lived and digested food without the aid of the stomach.

It frequently happens that people who continually dose the stomach for indigestion and use pepsin and various kinds of digestive tablets and powders can obtain no relief from such treatment, because the real trouble is in the intestines, the liver and the kidneys.

There is fullness and pains after meals, coated tongue, headache, loss of appetite, pains in the limbs and in the back and shoulders, flatulency and constipation, frequently alternating with diarrhoea.

In cases of intestinal indigestion the liver and kidneys usually become clogged and sluggish in action, and poisonous impurities are left in the blood, which should be removed by these filtering organs.

There has yet to be a remedy discovered that is so prompt and thorough in curing intestinal indigestion as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. And as this is the most common and severe form of indigestion it can well be claimed that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most successful treatment extant for indigestion and dyspepsia.

Mrs. T. Woodley, Tyrone, Ont., writes:—"I was a great sufferer for a long time with indigestion and very distressing pains in my stomach. I was persuaded to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Their mild yet powerful action worked wonders in me."

It is not unusual for persons who have long been suffering from chronic indigestion, biliousness and constipation to be thoroughly cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which have by far the largest sale of any similar remedy. You may be skeptical, as others have been before you, but a single trial of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will convince you of their unusual medicinal value. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 5

Two Good Whistlers.

A story is told by a certain well known hunter which illustrates the skill some gunners acquire in the use of the bird whistle. On this particular day in fall the birds had not been flying well, and the gunners, who had been out since early morning, were one by one leaving for their homes. On his way home over the marshes one of them was on the lookout for grass birds and when he beheld a flock of them about to alight he at once crouched down in the tall grass by the edge of a creek and began calling.

It happened that another gunner, who was about to give up his day's work, heard the sharp and repeated whistling of what he supposed were grass birds, and quickly reloading his gun, he, too, picked up his whistle and began to call. First the man in the tall grass would whistle, then the man in the adjoining stand would answer, and this was kept up for a long time until it got so dark that had the birds flown past either gunner he could not have seen them.

Presently the gunner who was crouching in the tall grass ventured to rise and scan the marshes, when to his surprise and chagrin he saw the gunner in the stand do likewise. Neither wished to acknowledge that he had been deceived by the other's whistling, so they quietly disappeared in different directions without exchanging a word.

A Knock out for Asthma.

You have had many disappointments, filled your stomach with nasty drugs, tried lots of things, but they all failed. Not being a stomach complaint, of course Asthma can't be cured by stomach medicine. But Catarrhozone cures Asthma; it gives it a tired feeling in about 15 minutes. Inhale Catarrhozone; it makes breathing easy, cures the cough, makes you well. Doctors say there is nothing like Catarrhozone for Asthma. 25 cents and $1.00.

PLANT LIFE

A plant that grows in India, called Philotaxea electrica, emits electric sparks. The hand which touches it immediately experiences a shock.

Hyacinth and tulip bulbs lifted after the foliage begins to die and kept in a cool, dry place, then reset in October, will produce abundant flowers.

Old geraniums showing a tendency to bloom profusely should be stripped of at least half their buds as soon as they appear to prevent death from exhaustion of the plants.

Flowerpots can be rid of earthworms by pouring on the soil a warm decoction of wormwood and powdered horse chestnuts. The worms will come to the surface and can then be removed.

The marigold is a little weather prophet. If the day is going to be fine, the flower opens about 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning, but if wet weather is in store the marigold does not open at all.

Weak rosebushes may be made to grow by giving them an occasional watering with liquid manure. Care should be taken not to have it too strong. Applying once a week will be better than less often and of greater strength.

The sugar cane of China is said by botanists to be an entirely distinct species from that of India, and this fact is supposed to indicate that the development of sugar cane was carried on independently by two different nations at the same time.

Square Men, But—

In the mountains of Berks county, Pa., where Dutch shrewdness matches Dutch thrift, the proprietor of a hotel was bargaining for a supply of chickens.

"Now, look here, Fred," said the hotel man familiarly to the farmer, "don't you feed them chickens before you bring 'em here, and don't you let 'em get wet."

"All right, Charlie," said the farmer, "but I don't want to see 'em go hungry."

"That's all right, Fred, but I ain't a-payin' 12 cents a pound for corn, and I ain't a-buyin' water at the same rate."

"All right, Charlie, and I'll bring my scales along."

"No need of that, Fred. I've got good scales here."

They parted, and I asked the hotel man just what he meant.

"Oh, Fred's all right," he said. "He's one of the squarest men alive, but all the same I ain't a-payin' live weight for chickens stuffed full of wet corn and with wet feathers. But don't misunderstand me. Fred's a square man."

I walked down to Fred's farm. He was jolly and smiling. "Charlie's a fine fellow," he said, "one of the squarest men in the county, but I'm goin' to take them scales, all the same."

Two Odd Swedish Notions.

At the old fashioned inns and restaurants in Sweden it is customary to charge less for women than for men, on the theory that they do not eat so much.

At some hotels in Sweden a man and wife are charged as one and one-half persons if they occupy the same room. A husband and wife may travel as one and one-half persons by railway, and also by the post routes, furnishing their own carriage.

A Heart to Heart Talk.

"It must be nice to be sarcastic and clever," said the young woman admiringly.

"Not at all," answered Miss Cayenne. "It is an accomplishment that causes you to get rid of all your friends excepting those who are too dense to see the point of your remarks."

An Easy Straddle.

Gothamite—And then your Boston streets are so narrow.

Hubbite—It is quite a convenience to a person who is impelled to walk on both sides of them at the same time. He doesn't have such a distance to travel as he would if they were wider.

Wanted a Wife.

"No, sir, my daughter can never be yours."

"I don't want her to be my daughter," broke in the young ardent. "I want her to be my wife."

Not to Be Balked.

The Lawyer—The precedents are against you, madam.

The Lady—Well, sue them, too, then.—Indianapolis News.

How to get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and Fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of disease and by ramoving the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures, and why it cures. Call to-day and see him.

Catching a Feminine Fish.

"Do you really think there are mermaids in the sea?"

"Certainly," said the dime museum man.

"Then why hasn't anybody besides you succeeded in catching one?"

"Because nobody else was smart enough to bait a hook with the latest style of Paris hat," was the answer.

The Mean Thing.

Miss Passay—I dread to think of my fortieth birthday.

Miss Pert—Why? Did something unpleasant happen then.

In a ton of Dead sea water there are 187 pounds of salt. Red sea 93, Mediterranean 85, Atlantic 81, English channel 72, Black sea 26, Baltic 18 and Caspian sea 11.

A "HEROE'S" TONIC

For soldier or civilian South American Nervine proves itself the greatest of system toners, nerve healers and blood cleansers.

A battle-scarred veteran just home from the war in South Africa, who was all run down and weak, the aftermath of that dread yekit fever, says: "I found South American Nervine a remarkable medicine and heartily recommend it to everybody in need of a good tonic." It's a grand remedy for all "run down" people. One bottle gives great relief. A few bottles never fail to cure. 50

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

BAITING THE ENSIGN

UNHAPPY LIFE OF THE GERMAN ARMY CANDIDATE OFFICER.

The Petty Miseries and Humiliations to Which the Unfortunate Youngster Is Subjected by His Superiors In Public Places.

In Germany the prestige of the uniform is often bought at the price of petty miseries and humiliations. Hazing, when conducted in the intimacy of the military school, among youths of the same age, has at least the saving quality of privacy, but the baiting of the unhappy candidate officer, which is a feature of the German service, carries with it the added humiliation of being made to amuse both superior officers and the outside public.

The young candidate officer is obliged by the regulations to live with the officers, to take his meals with them and to pass all his leisure hours in their society. At the end of the day, tired out with the fatigues of a service still new to him, the poor fellow would rather go to bed. But no, he must follow them to the casino or the beer halls. "Come, come! A young fellow of your age to be tired! You mustn't!"

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant," he is bound to reply. "I mustn't."

"You're all right. You're going to be one of us. Only you must not get tired."

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant."

"Perfectly. You will come to the beer garden with us. We will pick up the others. We will show ourselves. Do you know, my boy, you don't show yourself enough, I have heard it remarked. You isolate yourself too much. It is not permitted in an ensign. When you get to be captain or major, you will go out when you please, but for the instant you must come out with us."

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant."

Entering the beer garden the officers join a group of friends, coolly abandoning the candidate to his fate, which is to find a chair and sit in a corner alone. No one notices him. He lights a cigar and sups a mug of beer. As no one addresses him and as he has not the right to open his mouth except to reply, "At your orders," he is silent. He finishes his second cigar. Suddenly one of the officers, pitying him, may hold up his mug of beer, saying, "To your health, ensign." He knows his etiquette. He rises, straightens up, and, as if moved by clockwork, raises his own mug to his lips and empties it at a single gulp.

Half an hour passes. Then a captain, it may be, will begin in a sympathetic tone, "I say, ensign, how old are you?"

"Twenty years old, Herr Captain."

"Donnerwetter! You are old."

"At your orders, Herr Captain."

"My faith, here's to your health, ensign."

The unfortunate youth rises, straightens up, empties his mug and falls to his seat again, in the midst of the most profound neglect. Suddenly he is roused from his dreams by a well known voice.

"I say, young man, how old are you?"

"Twenty years old, my commandant."

"Thunder! You are old."

"At your orders, Herr Commandant."

"Well, here's to your health, ensign."

Up, gulp and down again.

"The commandant has been chatting quite familiarly with the ensign," remarks some one.

"Ah?" says some one else.

"What did the commandant ask you?" says a third, as if overcome with curiosity.

"He asked me my age, Herr Lieutenant."

"I have often wanted to ask you the same question. How old are you?"

"Twenty years old, Herr Lieutenant."

"You are very old."

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant."

"My faith, to your health, ensign."

Up, gulp and down again. At last he imagines the hour of deliverance is at hand. It is time he ought, by the regulations, to be in bed. He starts to pay for his drinks.

"Where are you going, ensign?"

"I must go in. I have not permission."

"Go on, but no, my friend. Stay with us, quiet and comfortable. You don't need any permission so long as you are with us. We'll take you back."

"At your orders, Herr Commandant. Waiter, a beer."

Still higher officers at the lower end of the table, pretending to notice for the first time the silence of the young candidate, express the desire to hear him speak. How otherwise would they be able to judge his abilities?

One of his lieutenants begins with him.

"When do you go to the school of war, ensign?"

"Oct. 1, Herr Lieutenant."

"Do you know where you are to go?"

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant, I shall probably be sent to Hanover."

"Thunder, what luck!"

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant."

"My faith, here's to your health!"

Up, gulp and down again. Silence.

"When are you to be named officer."

"In eighteen months, Herr Lieutenant."

"How old are you?"

"Twenty years old, Herr Lieutenant."

"Thunder and hail, but you're old!"

"How old did you say you were?" interrupts still another as if burning with curiosity."

"Twenty years old, Herr Lieutenant. I am very old."

"You—oh—perfectly!"

And when the company breaks up this last officer will say to the others: "A good sort of chap, our ensign. It's a pity he is so impertinent."

The next morning, after drill, the doyen of the lieutenants will call him aside and make a little speech.

"I say, ensign, a lot of complaints have been addressed to me this morning in regard to your conduct last night at the beer garden. I give you a friendly tip, because you know it can't continue. I'm told that you talked entirely too much, that without being in any way invited you gave your opinion on a lot of subjects and that you pushed yourself into notice continually. You are still much too young, ensign, to permit yourself to have a personal opinion on this thing or that thing. You are still much too young, remember that!"

"At your orders, Herr Lieutenant."

A Grim Coterie.

A very grim gathering takes place every May at the house of a certain gentleman living in a large west end square, says London Tit-Bits. Many years since, when traveling in America, the host had the misfortune accidentally to kill a man, and ever since, on the anniversary of this tragic event, he has held a dinner to which are invited only such as, like himself, have unwittingly caused the death of a fellow creature.

Nothing tastes good. Nothing gives pleasure. The mind is dull and sluggish. The will is weak. Little things cause great irritation. What's the matter? The probabilities are that the stomach is deranged and the liver involved.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes a man who is run down and dispirited feel like a new being. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, stirs the sluggish liver into action, and increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so that there is an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

Mr. Edward Jacobs, of Marengo, Crawford Co., Indiana, writes: "After three years of suffering with liver trouble and malaria I gave up all hopes of ever getting stout again, the last chance was to try your medicine. I had tried all the home doctors and received but little relief. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I am stout and hearty. It is due entirely to your wonderful medicines."

BOLEROS.

Made of Lace and Embroidery They Are Ever Popular.

Pompadour lace embroidered boleros will be among the most fetching novelties of the winter. Boleros of all shapes will continue in popularity. Those of lace and mousseline de sole embroidered or appliqued with lace will be much seen on dinner gowns.

At present in the raised embroidery on batiste and linen used for wide collars soft pastel shades, royal blues and rich reds vie with each other for chief place in the smart dressmaker's favor.

A dainty petticoat is a necessity to the well dressed woman, and many are the devices used to ornament this portion of her wardrobe. Though nothing will ever supersede the silk petticoat, many pretty ones are being worn of luster cloth and mercerized goods. The flouncings are of every description. The vandyke accordion plaited flounce edged with ruching and falling over three rows of gathered ruffles is one of the most fascinating. The plaited ruffle is sometimes finished at the top with rows of strapped seams, or the plaitings may be alternated with gathered ruffles. In any case extreme fullness at the bottom is the quality desired.

The illustration shows a neat child's frock made of blue and white plaid. The little skirt is made of two wide ruffles gathered in clusters of three tucks and edged with a broad band of the red. These same clusters of tucks hold the fullness of the waist in place and appear in the sleeves, which are composed of two puffs, ending at the elbow. The double sailor collar is made of the red cloth, and the little chemisette is of ecru lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Ornaments on Saddles.

In the fifth century saddles were made so extravagantly magnificent that a prohibition was issued by Leo I., in which it was ordered that no one should ornament them with pearls or precious stones. In the sixth century the Emperor Mauritius required that the saddles should have large coverings of fur. The ignominious punishment of "bearing the saddle" had its origin in the middle ages.

Incontrovertible Evidence.

"Now, children, I want you all to remember that James Watt discovered the wonderful steam engine by simply watching the kettle boil."

"Please, ma'am, I don't just see how that could be."

"Why not?"

"'Cause watched pots never boil."

IRON AND STEEL RIDDLES.

Some Puzzles About the Metals That Science Cannot Solve.

In view of our apparently extensive knowledge of the nature of iron it may seem strange to still speak about riddles wrought in these metals. Nevertheless, in everyday practice, we are constantly confronted by riddles of one kind or another when dealing with iron and steel, particularly the latter.

Why is it that we can raise the strength of soft staybolt iron of, say, 47,000 pounds per square inch, to 60,000 pounds per square inch either by heat treatment or by repeated application of stress? Why is steel coming from the rolls or hammer weaker and less ductile than the same steel after left lying a day or two, or, better still, a week?

There is no doubt that many tons of suitable material have been either thrown out by mill people themselves or were rejected by inspectors because it failed to meet specifications, causing needless vexation and friction simply because neither the one or the other of the parties knew that steel is in a disturbed physical state after rolling or hammering, no matter how good the material, and should be left to rest, the longer the better. Now, what takes place in the steel during the period of rest?

Another riddle is that we can raise the elastic limit and ultimate strength by a successive application of stresses very much above the original strength. What law, if it is a law, governs this phenomenon? Personally, the author is convinced that many errors of design or inherent weakness of steel have been modified in their probable consequences and breakdowns averted by this peculiar property of steel to gain in strength if allowed to rest after having been subject to stresses within certain limits. It was the knowledge of this fact which enabled the author to fight for steel and defend steel for structural purposes at a time when that metal was not yet a favorite with the engineer by any means. We are all familiar with the discovery of cast iron getting stronger by tumbling in a tumbling barrel, but for all we know it is still an unsolved riddle what the conditions really are producing such effects.—Paul Kreuspointer in Cassier's Magazine.

Every Woman Needs It.

There are times when every woman is tormented by itching skin and would give anything for relief. There is a preparation, known as Dr. Chase's Ointment, which is a prompt relief for these sufferings. Women prize it both for their own use and for its wonderful effectiveness in curing Baby Eczema, scald head chafing, and the various skin diseases of childhood.

She Valued Her Head.

Henry VIII., after the death of Jane Seymour, had some difficulty in getting another wife. His first offer was to the duchess dowager of Milan, but her answer is said to have been: "I have only one head. If I had two, one should certainly be at his service."

Misunderstood.

"I would like a straw with this lemonade," said the lady at the table to the server of the beverage.

"Hey?" ejaculated the waiter, who was hard of hearing.

"No; straw, I said."

ant-Governor, made the presentation to Her Royal Highness

At the conclusion of the address, Miss Mowat, with a bow, handed the Duchess the case containing the beautiful gift. It was graciously accepted, with a smile, and Her Royal Highness seemed to be immensely pleased with it, and, in a few words, expressed her acknowledgments.

Animated Street Scene.

An animated street scene was presented to the people of Toronto and the thousands of visitors last night. The illuminations were on a scale of splendor never before attempted in Canada, and the populace who were out "seeing the Duke" added to the animation by a babel of noise which equalled Majuba and Pretoria days rolled into one. Locomotion was difficult, and, indeed, impossible for any but the most agile. The crowds formed walls of humanity on both sides of the streets, moving slowly, and almost barring the progress of vehicles at the corners.

The Royal Concert.

Escorted by the guard, Their Royal Highnesses arrived at the Hall at 10 o'clock. They were received in the entrance hall by Mr. A. E. Ames, one of the trustees of Massey Hall, and by Mr. Stewart Houston, the manager, who were presented to Their Royal Highnesses, and then conducted them up the red carpeted stairway to the Royal loge. The audience rose at the entrance of the Royal party and sang "God Save the King."

In the Royal loge were Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, Lady Mary Lygon, Hon. Mrs. Derek Keppel, Prince Alexander of Teck and Hon. Derek Keppel.

In the Vice-regal loge were His Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Minto, Major Maude, C.M.G., Captain Graham, Mr. Arthur Guise.

In the Lieutenant-Governor's loge were ductor, was presented to Their Royal Highnesses.

The Duke of Cornwall and York wore his full admiral's uniform, with gold lace ings, medals and cocked hat. To those who had seen his father in his younger days, it became a matter of frequent comment, how like the father is the son. The Duchess was garbed in black, a spray of pink and white roses being the only relief to her sombre dress. Her face, however, was brightness itself, and as she chatted with Ontario's Premier, that exquisite grace and unconscious dignity betokening the highly born, yet humble in heart, shone from her pleasant countenance, and it was evident that she was pleased with the cordial reception of Toronto city. Upon the departure of the Governor-General and suite, a slight shower came on, and when the reception at the station was over there was still a little rain falling. The royal carriage drove up to the platform closed but an intimation from His Royal Highness the Duke, to his equerries, signified that he was desirous that the carriage should be open. The Duchess and Duke then stepped into their carriage and were accompanied by Lord Wenlock, G.C.S.I. G.C.I.E., Lord in Waiting and Head of the Household.

All along the route an observant person could notice residents of the townships near Toronto. They came in early in the morning with their lunch baskets and fodder for the horses. They took up positions as near as possible to the point where the Duke would pass, and they held them as far as the law allowed. Many came in wagon loads of ten or a dozen, and particularly was this in evidence in the vicinity of North Toronto near the station. They were all patient and good-natured.

When the royal party followed the Governor-General's party on the route to the City Hall, the crowd on each side of the streets had magnified itself into wonderful dimensions. One cheer commenced at North Toronto Station and continued as far as the City Hall. There it took a rest and commenced again with renewed vigor as the royal party drove to Government House. If there was any lack of vocal enthusiasm at any place, the Duke and Duchess have visited, it was made up with interest in Toronto.

Those waiting for the royal party were much concerned as to whether they would come in an open or a closed carriage. The elements indicated the latter, but by the graciousness of Their Royal Highnesses, who preferred personal discomfort to the disappointment of such a vast crowd of citizens, the Duke and Duchess came along in an open equipage, and were generous in their appreciation of the plaudits in their honor. The brief stop for the presentation of the ladies' bouquet at the new pillars of the Queen's Park, north gate and the din of the students' welcome between St. George-street and Avenue-road, were the features of the royal drive along Bloor-street. The scheme of uniform decoration was noticed by Their Royal Highnesses, and an interest was taken by them in all the decorations along the streets.

At the City Hall.

From the City Hall steps nothing could be seen but several acres of umbrellas and uniformed lines of soldiers that lined Queen street, Bay-street and the entrance to the Hall. The umbrellas were lowered at intervals, but only for a moment or two, and then hoisted again against the continued assault of Jupiter Pluvius. The scene was thus divested of its natural charm, and inspiration and enthusiasm were noticeably lacking.

The guard of honor for the occasion was furnished by 100 men from the Royal Grenadiers, with the brass band and eight drummers. The guard was in command of Capt. Sloan and Lieut. Wilkins. The colors were in charge of Lieut. Hunter, and were guarded by Col.-Sergt. Eaton and Sergt. Bennett. The men were lined up in a double row from Queen-street to the upper level of the steps, leaving a carpeted passageway of about 20 feet up to the central arch, whereon were placed the two big chairs for the accommodation of Their Royal Highnesses.

The Royal Chorus formed up from east to west, in the main corridor, inside the Hall, and, at 2 o'clock, marched out and took their places on the grand stand. For the ladies, especially, the situation could not well have been more unpleasant, but everyone made the best of the affair. Nearly all had umbrellas, and kept them lowered.

At 2.40 o'clock, cheers announced the arrival of Lord and Lady Minto and escort, who received a cordial welcome as they passed, and continued over the route to return later, when Their Royal Highnesses arrived.

It was 3.25 when the advance guard of the royal escort appeared thru the Foresters' Arch, followed quickly by the carriages of the royal suite.

Their Highnesses Arrive.

A dull roar, which swelled to a mighty cheer, was heard as the royal carriage appeared, and speedily the royal pair were deposited at the main entrance to the square. They were welcomed by His Worship, who escorted the Duke of Cornwall, while His Excellency took charge of the Duchess, and saw them safely to the point allotted for them. The guard presented arms, and the crowd waved handkerchiefs, hats and umbrellas in one continuous ovation.

THE ROYAL CARRIAGE

The first incident after their arrival was the presentation by Miss Evelyn Cox of the bouquet from the city to the Duchess. The act was gracefully performed, and won from the Duchess a charming smile.

Two or three hitches occurred in the subsequent ceremonies, which occasioned much amusement to the spectators, and caused even Their Royal Highnesses to smile broadly several times. The first was when His Worship stepped forward to read the civic address. This would countless have been a most dignified proceeding only that the royal chorus took it into their head to sing the grand march from "Tannhauser," at the same time, and the effect was bewildering and evidently indescribably annoying to His Worship and Ald. Cox.

This is where the crowd had a good square laugh that compensated somewhat for the deluge they had been subjected to. The efforts of Ald. Cox to stop the music were immensely amusing.

His Worship paused two or three times in the reading of the address, and scowled as darkly in the direction of the chorus as his handsome lineaments will admit. Eventually the singing was stopped, but not till the chorus and the address were both almost concluded.

The address was signed by the Mayor, the City Clerk and the City Treasurer.

Conference Was Held.

A pause followed, during which a conference was held as to the best method of procedure in regard to the subsequent addresses. The matter was solved by the deputations from the various societies advancing and bowing before His Royal Highness, at the same time presenting their addresses unread to an aide.

At 3.45 the Duke began his reply to the united public bodies before him. He spoke for about 10 minutes, and altho his voice was strong the words were not audible Miss Mowat and party.

In the next loge were Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, Hon. Senator and Mrs. Cox.

In the special loge, immediately behind the Royal loge, were the Hon. G. W. Ross and Mrs. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan C. Ross, Hon. W. S. and Mrs. Fielding, Hon. A. G. Blair, Mrs. and the Misses Blair, Hon. Lieut.-Col. J. M. Gibson and Mrs. Gibson, the Misses Gibson, Hon. R. Harcourt and Mrs. Harcourt, Hon. E. J. and Mrs. Davis, Hon. John and Mrs. Dryden, Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton, Miss Howland, Mrs. Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Houston, Miss Houston, Hon. F. R. and Mrs. Latchford.

In special seats were the Postmaster-General and Mrs. Mulock, Hon. Dr. and Mrs. Borden, General and Mrs. O'Grady-Haly.

Among the city's representatives were His Worship Mayor Howland, Ald. E. B. and Mrs. Cox, Miss Evelyn Cox, Ald. and Mrs. Oliver.

Program for To-Day.

To-day the Duke will review the greatest massing of troops Toronto has ever seen, will inspect the city firemen, will receive a degree from Toronto University, and hold a Regal reception at the Parliament Buildings.

After the review, the royal party repairs to the Government House for luncheon. At 3.30 o'clock, the Toronto Fire Department will be inspected on University-avenue, while His Royal Highness is en route to Toronto University buildings, where he is to receive an honorary degree at 4 o'clock p.m. After this, accompanied by the Duchess and his suite, he proceeds to the Legislative Buildings for dinner, and here, at 9 o'clock, will hold a Regal reception.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The anniversary which was held here on Thursday evening, the 3rd inst., under the auspices of Zion Methodist Church, proved a success, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, which invariably prevails at this season of the year.

The ladies of the neighbourhood deserve credit for the manner in which the affair was managed. Everything passed off like clock work.

After tea had been served on the church grounds to the satisfaction of all the participants, who partook sumptuously of the inexhaustible provisions with which the tables were so bountifully laden, a programme, consisting of excellent addresses and appropriate music, occupied the latter part of the evening's entertainment, and was conducted in the church. The pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. McQuade, presided. Addresses were delivered by the following reverend gentlemen: Revs. Hyde, of Warsaw; Seccombe of Keene; and R. E. Robson. The latter, who was a minister on the circuit some few years ago, was visiting in this vicinity at the time, and expressed his gratitude and delight at being present on this particular occasion. At the close of the addresses, Mr. J. J. Crowe, one of the laymen, was called upon to give a report on the financial proceeds of the evening, to which he responded with promptitude and eloquence, and in conclusion stated that the people of Zion rode in no second-class car. The meeting was then brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

As a large quantity of provisions left over from this tea, a social was held on the following evening, at which quite a number were present, but even this was not sufficient to exhaust the store of supplies. The remaining eatables had to be disposed of by sale, Mr. H. A. Moore acting as auctioneer. When accounts and bills were audited it was found that the proceeds of the tea and social amounted to $75.55.

A STRONG COMBINATION.

Amalgamation of Two Insurance Companies.

The amalgamation of the Manufacturers Life and the Temperance & General Life Assurance Co. is thus referred to by an insurance critic:

"Amalgamations have for some years past been the order of the day in almost all departments of human activity and enterprise. The press has teemed with accounts of combines of almost all kinds of industrial enterprises. Banks, loan companies, trust companies and fire insurance companies have followed suit, and now the first move in this direction in Canada has been made among life insurance companies. It is not our intent on to discuss here the advantages or disadvantages of combines in the field of industrial activity, but in this case of insurance companies it is hard to conceive how the amalgamation of companies in good financial standing can be other than beneficial. Whatever may be the result in other lines of business, competition in life insurance has never had the result of enabling the buyer to purchase at a cheaper rate. It has always had the opposite effect and always must have. It has resulted in a higher expense rate both for obtaining and maintaining business. The demand for agents who can write business exceeds the supply, and as a result higher salaries and commissions must be paid. The quality of the business suffers also since in the necessity which each company feels for the securing a large volume of new business, the giving of credit has become universal and not so much care taken as should be to see that the insurer is able not only to meet the first payment but to continue to make his payments year by year—consequently the lapse rate is greatly increased during the early years of the policies. All these things tend to increased rates or decreased dividends.

"The number of life insurance companies in Canada is, moreover, increasing at a much greater ratio than the population. Eighteen purely Canadian companies reported for 1900 to the Department of Insurance at Ottawa. Seven of these have begun business inside the last ten years, and this year some three or four new ones are in the field.

"It has been clearly shown that the amalgamation is popular amongst the policy-holders of both companies. Many letters have been received, and with very few exceptions they have been commendatory. We might note as a further evidence that for the first half of the year the new business of each Company has been the largest in its history. Last year the total new business of the new Companies was $4,374,539. This year, so far, we have struck a $6,000,000 clip. That the confidence of our policy-holders and the public generally, as shown by the increased new business, is justified, will be very evident if we consider the matter for a few minutes. The gain in prestige, which comes from increased size and strength is readily recognizable. If it be remembered that we will have but one set of officers instead of two; that throughout our whole territory it will be necessary to have but one office in each place, when otherwise there would be two; that the Provincial and City licenses will be reduced by one half and other savings made in many ways in the administration of affairs, we will have to conclude that the amalgamation is in the direction of economy and necessarily therefore conserves the best interests of the policy-holders."

The Toronto Daily Star, in an editorial commented upon the amalgamation as follows:

"Careers like that of Mr. J. F. Junkin, who, beginning the insurance business on an equal footing with innumerable other agents throughout the country, worked his way up until the other day, at the age of 39, he was chosen manager of a powerful insurance amalgamation in this city, remind us that in this country every man is what he consents to be, and that in many respects this is the ideal country for young men. In the last few years a lot of comparatively young men have reached places of authority in the business world of Toronto.

"The amalgamation of the Manufacturers and the Temperance and General Life Companies produces a Company with the large business of $36,000,000 insurance already in force. The capital stock is $1,500,000, of which $300,000 is paid up. It is to the management of this strong Company that Mr. Junkin has now advanced from his post as manager of the Manufacturers Life.

"Mr. Henry Sutherland, manager of the Temperance and General Company, preferred, we understand, to withdraw temporarily from business, and will enjoy a rest. He is recognized in business circles as an insurance expert of the highest qualifications."

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The annual exhibition of the Townships of Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther was held on Friday, Oct. 4th, at the village of Apsley. The day was fine and great crowds turned out. The fair was a success, the exhibits in almost every class being up to the usual mark. Quite a few visitors were present from a distance.

The only special exhibit was the Singer Sewing Machines, exhibited by the company's representative from Lakefield, Mr. J. W. Smart, who did a good business, as usual.

The Methodists of this section are preparing to build a new church. They have already received quite a number of subscriptions. On the day of the fair they gave a tea in an empty store, and held a concert in the hall at night. From tea and concert they netted in the neighbourhood of $80.

Our popular physician, Dr. Alex. Bell, has been down to Peterborough on municipal business, accompanied by Councillor Wigg.

Ville Marie Bank Cases.

Quebec, Oct. 10.—At the opening of the Criminal Court this morning, motions were made by the tribunal for the postponement of the Ville Marie Bank cases to the next term on account of the grave illness of the ex-vice-president of the defunct institution, Mr. Lichenstein, who is actually living in Boston, Mass., and, because Weir, the ex-president of the Ville Marie Bank, who is actually in the Penitentiary of St. Vincent de Paul, has lost his memory. Justice Blanchet, after having carefully examined the affidavits accompanying the motion, decided at noon that the cases of Weir be postponed till April.

Koch's Theory Correct.

New York, Oct. 11.—Interesting experiments of much importance to the public health are being made at the Bacteridlogical Laboratory of the Board of Health. They are being held to test Professor Koch's theory that human tubercle bacilli will not readily infect cows or calves. So far the experiments have shown the theory to be correct.

When one reads of the methods in vogue in China and Japan of gathering and preparing tea for market, one almost shrinks from drinking tea, but fortunately "Salada" Ceylon Tea, Black or Green, is all pure unadulterated tea, cleanly prepared and healthful.

Half and Half.

"Have you suffered much from toothache?" asked the dentist.

"A little," answered the young woman in the chair, "but not much. My teeth, I suspect, are like mamma's. She has never had anything done to hers, and she hasn't an unsound tooth in her head."

"How are your father's teeth?"

"Poor papa! His are all gone. They never were anything but mere shells."

"Well," said the dentist, breaking it to her as gently as he could, "it's very evident that you inherit your upper jaw from your mother and your lower jaw from your father."—Chicago Tribune.

MARCH PAST THE DUKE

Nearly 11,000 Volunteers Reviewed by Royal Visitors.

CONFERRING LL. D. DEGREE.

A Misty But Brilliant Military Function on Garrison Common, Toronto—His Royal Highness Expressed Admiration of the General Bearing of the Troops—Other Royal Functions on Friday.

Toronto, Oct. 12.—The great review, which took place on Garrison Common yesterday morning in the presence of the royal party and 30,000 spectators will be remembered as one of the most stirring spectacles witnessed by Prince George and his consort in the tour of the world-wide empire. Lacking perhaps in experience and automatic precision when compared with the performance of England's solid squares at Aldershot, the flower of Ontario's militia acquitted themselves in a manner which called forth thunderous cheers from the spectators, and brought at the close words of the highest commendation from the royal guests.

The muster of troops at Exhibition Park was an inspiring one, compared with anything that has hitherto been seen in Toronto. Major-General O'Grady-Haly's desire was to have the greatest military spectacle Canada has seen. How far short, if short at all, of that aim yesterday's brave show of eleven thousand men came, modesty forbids the saying. One of the English journalists, who have accompanied the royal party throughout the tour, declared that Melbourne alone eclipsed Ontario's military showing at Toronto.

Barely thirty thousand persons visited the spectacle. Vastly more than a quarter of a million of people were anxious to attend, but the grand stand obstacle was insurmountable, while that portion of the grounds left free was so far removed from the saluting base that the populace saw nothing but bobbing helmets and glinting steel, confused the Duke with the colonel of the Grenadiers, heard nothing but the murmur of massed bands, and imagined rather than witnessed the marshalling of men. The main grand stand has held greater numbers on an ordinary Fair day. The second and cheaper stand was severely disregarded. As if in anticipation of the review conditions, holidaying Toronto lined the route of the royal parade to the park, and sought in a glimpse of the Duke and Duchess solace for all that they knew they would fail to see at the review.

The band of the 19th Regiment, St. Catharines, under the leadership of William Peel, was posted immediately to the right of the Duchess' stand, in the place of honor, and squads of mounted police and cavalry were drawn up on the right of the band. When the Duchess arrived in the state coach, the 19th band played a strain of "God Save the King," and the military guard presented arms. Accompanying the Duchess was Lady Minto. Her Royal Highness was greeted on the stand by the ladies who had preceded her and Mayor Howland, mounting the carpeted stairway, shook hands with her. For several minutes she remained standing, conversing with those around her, and taking in the scene before her. She was attired in sombre black, relieved by a bouquet of orchids at the breast.

"Here Comes the Duke."

The Royal Standard, fluttering from the top of the flagpole at the reviewing point, announced to the waiting multitude that the Duke was coming. He galloped into the grounds from the Dufferin-street entrance, accompanied by his gaily-uniformed staff, and the band of honor struck up the National Anthem just as he reached the stand. He wore the uniform of the Dublin Fusiliers, of which regiment he is an honorary colonel. The uniform consisted of a scarlet tunic, with a guardsman's busby, and, over the left shoulder, he wore the insignia of the Order of the Garter. On his arm was a mourning band.

After a wait of a few minutes, the Duke rode out to inspect the line. He was accompanied by his staff, Lord Minto and General O'Grady-Haly, in the scarlet uniform of the Guards, on his right, and the Duke of Roxburghe, in a glittering steel helmet and cuirass of the Life Guards, and others on his left and following him. He passed from around the left flank, and came up by the rear. The massed bands played the beautiful French-Canadian national air "O, Canada" as he went along the line at a slow pace. As the Duke passed each regiment he was saluted by the officers and the colors lowered.

When this duty was performed, His Royal Highness returned to the stand and dismounted to personally present the medals to the South African veterans, colors to the Royal Canadian Dragoons and Royal Canadian Infantry, and the Victoria Cross and sword to Capt. H. Z. Churchill Cockburn of the Body Guards.

Presents V.C. and Medals.

Capt. Cockburn was the first honored. He it was who led the Canadians who saved the guns at Kroomatipoort, and for this gallant act was granted the V. C. by a grateful sovereign. Capt. Cockburn saluted as he approached the Duke. The coveted trophy was pinned on his breast, the Duke shaking hands and speaking a few kind words to him as he did so.

Then Mayor Howland handed to the Duke the sword given by the city, and this was formally presented to Capt. Cockburn.

Next came Col. Otter, Col. Buchan, Col. Lessard and a long line of South African veterans.

The Duke then remounted, and took up his position at the saluting post for the march past. The bands were massed in several divisions, and as each division passed the Duke the band played their regimental marches. For the first cavalry division the march was "Men of Harlech," and for the artillery brigade the march was "O, Canada." The infantry divisions had many distinct marches, such as "Highland Laddie" for the 48th Highlanders, "Lincoln Post" for the Queen's Own Rifles, "Bonnie Dundee," "The Lincolnshire Poacher," "Here's to the Maiden," "Cock o' the North," "Garry Owen" and "The British Grenadiers" being some of the best.

Toronto Firemen Inspected.

Yesterday afternoon the reviewing of the Toronto firemen at work with their water tower, aerial ladder, and other apparatus on University avenue by the Duke and Duchess proved most enjoyable and spectacular. There were 150 men and 24 appliances participating in the display. The men wore their review uniforms, red shirts and new helmets. The chief and deputy chief were presented to Their Royal Highnesses, who expressed much pleasure and interest in the display.

Planted a Tree.

At a point just north of the Ridgeway monument in Queen's Park His Royal Highness alighted from his carriage for a few minutes and performed the ceremony of planting a maple tree, and then the royal party drove to the University.

AT TORONTO UNIVERSITY.

The Degree of LL.D. [illegible] the Duke by the Chancellor, Sir William Meredith.

The ceremony of conferring the degree of LL.D. upon the Duke of Cornwall by the University of Toronto was, as may have been expected, of a purely academic character, and quite without the gorgeous display which is usually associated with [illegible] function.

Ticket-holders for this function, which was fixed for 4 o'clock, began to arrive between two and three o'clock, and soon the hall was filled.

It was twenty minutes after four o'clock when loud cheers were heard, announcing the approach of Their Royal Highnesses. The band quickened out the National Anthem, and five minutes later the royal guests, accompanied by members of their suite, Their Excellencies, the Premiers of Canada and Ontario, members of the Provincial Cabinet and the University Senate, filed into Convocation Hall.

Received By Chancellor.

They were received at the entrance to the college by the Chancellor, Sir William Meredith, Vice-Chancellor Justice Moss and President Loudon, to the welcoming plaudits of hundreds of students and the general public assembled outside the building.

Just inside the pillars at the entrance, Her Royal Highness was presented with a large bouquet of York (white) roses by Miss Houston of Chatham, a graduate in arts of University College, who gracefully performed an act on behalf of the lady graduates and undergraduates.

Through the avenue of honor grace and beauty then passed to Convocation Hall, preceded by the senior and junior esquire bedells, Messrs. C. A. Moss and Eric Armour, B. A.

The procession entered in the following order, two by two: Capt. Bell and Capt. Graham, Major Dawson and Major Mantle, Miss Anderson and Miss Grenfell, Miss Derek Keppel and Mrs. Mantle, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lady Mary Lygon, Lord Wenlock and Miss Mowat, Prof. Ramsay Wright and Her Excellency the Countess of Minto, President Loudon and Lord Minto, Vice-Chancellor Moss and His Royal Highness, Chancellor Meredith and His Royal Highness. The robe from the hall after the ceremony was made in reverse order.

Two large chairs were provided on the dais, and these were occupied by Sir William Meredith, as chairman, who had on his right the Duke and Duchess and on his left Lord and Lady Minto. The remainder of the distinguished company stood to the right and left of the platform.

What They Wore.

The Duke and Lord Minto were gowned in the red robes of an LL.D., while the Chancellor wore for the first time the handsome gown recently presented by Dr. Bourke, one of the University trustees.

The Duchess was gowned in black and wore a bouquet of pink flowers on her breast. Lady Minto was gowned in a handsome cream colored costume, and likewise wore a bouquet of pink flowers on her breast.

The proceedings from start to finish lasted only fifteen minutes. They were opened by His Excellency, who presented the Duke to the Chancellor in the following words in Latin: "Most Honorable Chancellor and the whole of the University, I present to you this distinguished man, George

FITFUL FITNESS

Expresses exactly the suitability of our Ladies' Coats for Autumn wear. Not only does this fitness refer to these perfectly moulded sizes, but to the general "get up"—the proper lengths, correct shades in all colours and, may we say, "chaste" styles. Nothing ever gaudy about Sutcliffe Garments. Then they have that look about them that says—I'm "man" made. Below are some of our worthy lines.

A SMART GRAY COAT
Of Dark Oxford, Firm Twill Cheviot, double stitched seams, semi-fitting back, new dip sleeve, fly front, stitched collar, lined throughout, 30 inches long. This is an astonishing smart coat, and only FIVE DOLLARS.

ANOTHER GRAY COAT
Of similar cloth, but lined with silk, with good pearl buttons, high roll collar and revers, and slash pockets, giving a splendid jaunty appearance, for SIX FIFTY.

A BEAVER COAT
In Black and Silver Fawn, the "taking" shade. These coats are neatly stitched, lined with twilled satin, are 36 inches long, semi-fitting back, stitched pockets and tabs, with coat or medici collar, for EIGHT FIFTY.

TEN DOLLAR GOODNESS
In a Beaver of Black and Fawns, with tailored lap seams and jaunty pointed stitched pockets with flaps, correct sleeve, twill satin lined, large pearl buttons, vent back, high medici collar with revers, a stunner to our way of thinking, for only TEN DOLLARS.

Think of these as just instances. Visit our department and you will find unexcelled values and unexcelled garments. We are told that our prices are most favourable to purchasers.

MILLINERY AT FAIR PRICES.

NOT A FAILURE.

The Guelph Herald tries to comfort the faithful by saying that the northern tour of the Ontario Ministers has been "a most calamitous failure." It is surprising to what length Opposition journals will go to make what they conceive to be a point. The Herald doesn't know a thing of what it talks with such confident tone. What standard does it set up to judge whether the northern tour of the Ontario Ministers was a failure or not? It was no failure in any sense. The Ministers had a most enjoyable outing from a personal point of view. They saw great progress, they saw mammoth industries in operation and preparing for operation, involving the expenditure of millions of capital and the large employment of labour, as the almost direct result of the forward policy of the Liberal Government of Ontario. They found large and fertile areas of land capable of sustaining a large agricultural population. They found settlement progressing rapidly as a result of railway communication resulting in turn for the railway policy of the Government. They found everything tending to justify the wisdom of the policy of the Government leading to the development of the immense latent resources of the north country. They found every thing condemning the narrow obstructive policy of the Opposition whose leader showed his lack of faith in the new country by sneeringly calling it the "land of the stunted poplar." They found everything combining to justify the Government's forward policy and to discredit the retrograde obstructive policy of the Opposition. It was in this respect only, and from the Opposition stand point, that the northern tour of the Ontario Ministers could be regarded as a calamitous failure. What the Ministers saw and experienced in their northern tour was of the most encouraging nature, and it will bear fruit in an increased zeal, if possible, on the part of the Government to criticize its policy of development, which will bring into the sphere of practical commerce and industry the unbounded natural resources of Northern Ontario, and in the process stimulate and develop the industrial interests of the older parts of the province. The aim of the Opposition seems to be to work a political point in their own interests, no matter how much they may in so doing discredit Ontario in the eyes of the world, and obstruct the progress she is making under a Government which appreciates the resources of the country, and recognizes its obligation to do all that can be done to develop these resources and advance the importance and welfare of Ontario.

SPLENDID DISPLAY OF APPLES.

A special despatch to the Globe from Buffalo says:—Mr. Wm. Rickard, of Newcastle has just forwarded to the Horticulture Building, Pan-American Exposition, a very choice collection of Canadian fall and winter apples, amongst which are very fine specimens of the following varieties:—Alexander, Wagener, Northern Spy, Ben Davis, Blenheim, Pippin, Greening, Fallawater, Stark, Baldwin, Golden Russet and many others. This lot of fruit has been pronounced an especially fine collection by the experts who are engaged in judging the fruit at Buffalo. It has been a source of great satisfaction to the Superintendent that, in what has proved to be an off year for apples in the Province, by the assistance of such men as Mr. Rickard, of Newcastle, Mr. Dempsey, of Toronto, Mr. Graham, of Belleville, and many others who might be mentioned, such a creditable display of Canadian apples has been maintained.

Mr. Biglow, president of the Nova Scotia Horticultural Society, has just arrived at Buffalo with a large consignment of the famous Gravenstein and Tompkin's King apples. He has also a very nice assortment of apples of various kinds from the farm of Mr. Starr, as well as exhibits from many other growers in the Annapolis Valley. This exhibit from Nova Scotia, in connection with the fine display of fruits at present on the tables of the Ontario exhibit, is attracting great attention from the large number of visitors who are now attending Buffalo's big Fair.

PROF. HAND KILLED.

Explosion in His Fireworks Factory at Hamilton on Friday.

Hamilton, Oct. 12.—There was another explosion at the Hand Company's fireworks factory, West King street, yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Two of the 40 storehouses on the premises were blown up. Prof. William Hand, the head of the firm, was in the house which was first blown up, and it is supposed he was filling torpedo shells at the time. He was taken out of the place in a terrible condition. His face was burned black, and there was not a hair left on his head. He was conscious, however, but he declined to tell the cause of the explosion. He was attended by Dr. James White, who held out only slight hopes for his recovery. The poor fellow was removed in the ambulance to St. Joseph's Hospital. It was thought during the evening he might linger until morning, but between 9 and 10 o'clock Mr. Hand became worse and death ended his sufferings shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

The explosion in the storehouse in which Mr. Hand was at work caused an explosion in an adjoining building. The man in that building got off safely, however.

Prof. Hand was the founder and head of the fireworks firm which has become famous throughout the Dominion. He was about 60 years of age and an Englishman. His family includes W. Hand, who has charge of the Company's operations, and Mrs. H. P. Greay. Deceased was a member of St. George's Society and other societies, and was a most generous-hearted man. Not long ago the deceased's partner, Walter Teale, met a terrible death in the same factory, being literally blown to pieces.

Explosion in a Mine.

Fairmont, W. Va., Oct. 12.—An explosion occurred at the New England mine of the Fairmont Mining Company near here yesterday. Three dead have already been taken out, and six more are believed to be still in the mine, which is on fire. At the time of the explosion, twenty-five men were at work, but all but nine escaped. The explosion was caused by a broken lamp of one of the miners igniting the gas.

INSANITY IS INCREASING.

Statistics show that asylums are overcrowded with patients suffering from despondency and mental collapse, due to low vitality and impoverished blood, which cannot keep the brain healthy. "Climax" Iron Tonic Pills stimulate the brain cells and nerves, restore vitality and make new rich blood. Price 25 cents, at all druggists, or mailed on receipt of price. Are Willow Trees Lightning Proof?

"In all my forty years' experience with trees and plants," said a well known gardener, "I have yet to hear of a willow tree being struck by lightning. Spruce trees, whitewood and pine trees sometimes almost seem to attract the electricity, and oak and other large trees and even many small trees are often maimed and killed. But willow trees seem for some reason to be immune to death or injury in this shape and I have never seen or even heard of a tree of this family which lightning has ever struck."

Miller's Grip Powders Cure. Sold by W. Madill.

A New Departure.

A New, Effectual and Convenient Cure for Catarrh.

Of catarrh remedies there is no end, but of catarrh cures, there has always been a great scarcity. There are many remedies to relieve, but very few that really cure.

The old practice of snuffing salt water through the nose would often relieve and the washes, douches, powders and inhalers in common use are very little, if any, better than the old fashioned salt water douche.

The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease. Catarrh is just as much a blood disease as kidney trouble or rheumatism and it cannot be cured by local treatment any more than they can be.

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach an internal antiseptic treatment is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system, and the new catarrh cure is designed on this plan and the remarkable success of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is because being used internally it drives out catarrhal infection through action upon stomach, liver and bowels.

Wm. Zimmerman of St. Joseph, relates an experience with catarrh which is of value to millions of catarrh sufferers everywhere. He says:—"I neglected a slight nasal catarrh until it gradually extended to my throat and bronchital tubes and finally even my stomach and liver became affected, but as I was able to keep up and do a day's work I let it run along until my hearing began to fail me and then I realized that I must get rid of catarrh or lose my position as I was clerk and my hearing was absolutely necessary.

"Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh salve but they were no good in my case, nor was anything else until I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and bought a package at my drug store. They benefitted me from the start and in less than four months I was completely cured of catarrh although I had suffered nearly all my life from it.

"They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel I cannot say enough in favour of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., and the tablets are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada.

SETON-THOMPSON'S ARREST

With Famous Gun Charged With Violations of Game Laws.

Denver, Col., Oct. 12.—Ernest Seton-Thomson, the author of works on wild animals, and John Goff, the guide and hunter, who piloted President Roosevelt through the mountains last winter, have been arrested by State game wardens for alleged violation of the game laws.

The charges are that Seton-Thomson and Goff chased deer with dogs and that they baited traps for mountain lions with venison. The wardens allege that they have ample proof for conviction on both charges and promise to make revelations when the cases come to trial.

Seton-Thomson and Goff have been hunting in Routt County for several weeks. They say that they have not been killing game, much less violating the law, as alleged, and say that the only deer killed was one which Mrs. Seton-Thomson shot to secure an unusually fine specimen of antlers.

Wo'f To Pay Insurance.

Montreal, Oct. 12.—Greenshields, Greenshields & Henneker yesterday took out an action for $10,000 against the Temperance General Life Assurance Company for the amount of a policy on the life of the late Major "Gat" Howard, who was killed by the Boers in South Africa. The company have refused to pay the amount called for by the policy because Major Howard met his death while at war.

CRYING BABIES.

The Cry of an Infant is Nature's Signal of Distress.

Babies never cry unless there is some very good reason for it. The cry of a baby is nature's warning signal that there is something wrong. Every mother ought to get to work immediately to find out what that something wrong may be. If the fretfulness and irritation are not caused by exterior sources, it is conclusive evidence that the crying baby is ill. The only safe and judicious thing to do is to administer Baby's Own Tablets without the slightest delay.

For indigestion, sleeplessness, the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, diarrhœa, constipation, colic, and simple fevers, these marvellous little Tablets have given relief in thousands of cases and saved many precious baby lives. Do not give a child so-called "soothing" medicines, such only stupify and produce unnatural sleep. Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or other harmless drugs; they promote sound, healthy sleep because they go directly to the root of baby troubles. Dissolved in water these Tablets can be given to the youngest infant. Mrs. Walter Brown of Milby, Que., says, "I have never used any medicine for baby that did as much good as Baby's Own Tablets. I would not be without them."

Baby's Own Tablets are for sale at all drug stores, or will be sent direct on receipt of price (25c a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Where to Begin.

Mrs. Trotabout—I shall be off the greater part of the day, as I have joined the Society For the Suppression of Needless and Nerve Racking Noises.

Mr. T.—Good idea, my dear. Take the baby along with you.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock amounted to 60 carloads, all told, composed of 829 cattle, 1568 hogs, 1267 sheep and lambs, with about 50 calves.

The bulk of fat cattle offered to-day were of the common to medium classes, which were slow of sale at easier prices.

Good to choice well-finished butchers' and exporters were scarce. Prices for these were firm.

Prices for sheep and lambs were easy at quotations given below.

There was a large number of light feeding steers, from 800 to 1000 lbs. each, of which several farmers got supplies at reasonable prices.

Over 1800 hogs were delivered. Prices were easy at $6.50 for selects and $6.25 for lights and fats. Prospects are for lower prices for next week. It looks as the $6.25 would be the best price for selects.

Death for Lotter.

Middleburg, Cape Colony, Oct. 11.—Sentence of death has been passed on Commandant Lotter, the Cape Colony rebel, whose commando, composed entirely of rebels, was captured by Major Scobell south of Petersburg early last month. Lord Kitchener has confirmed the sentence.

Five of Lotter's comrades have been sentenced to the penitentiary for life. One, a youth, has been sentenced to 20 strokes with the rod, to be followed by imprisonment until the close of the war.

Had Neuralgia's Agony.

Cooking for a Few.

Small families are harder to cook for than large ones, because good cooking is impossible on most ranges when only a small quantity is needed.

"Cornwall" Steel Ranges, universally recognized as the best steel range made in America, are built in sizes to suit small families, and the small sizes are just as perfect bakers and fuel savers as their bigger brothers.

Ventilated oven. Asbestos lining. Deep fire-box. Clinkerless duplex grates. Full nickel dress.

Both coal and wood linings always sent.

Made in 4 sizes and 10 styles.

Light Without Flame.

If one or two pieces of phosphorus of the size of peas be inclosed in a small bottle half full of olive oil and kept for some little time, the air space in the bottle will become filled with a phosphorescent vapor. The phosphorescence will fade, but may be renewed by simply uncorking the bottle. Sufficient light will be given out to tell the time by.

Snakes and Noises.

It is a curious fact that there are certain kinds of noises which attract snakes. The whir of the mowing machine is one, and in six months as many as 120 cobras alone have been killed on a grass farm in India by getting in front of the advancing machine.

Obliging.

Fire Fighting in England.

In the smaller places in England horses have to be borrowed for the fire engines. Often thirty to fifty minutes are wasted in getting horses, which, when an alarm of fire was given, were at work at their daily duty. A considerable amount of time is also lost in finding proper harness for them. The horning of steam engines in country districts is a very difficult problem.

97—At the Critical Age.

Height of vigour past — nature's power slowing down, vitality less, recuperative power less, endurance less. Stop the progress of decay, tone up the weakened nerve centres, impart vigour to the tiring brain, prepare for the crisis. A means of remarkable protency in the renewal of decreasing vigour is found in Ferrozone. It brightens up the whole being, imparts a sence of power and strength. By the use of Ferrozone, old age is pushed back twenty years. Ferrozone gives strength, vigour, endurance, vim. Ormond & Walsh have it. Get a box to-day.

WHAT IRELAND DOES.

The Green Isle's Share In Supplying the World's Wants.

"It surely makes me laugh, this talk I see in the English papers and in yours, too," said Mr. W. O'Leary of Limerick. "'It's England supplies the world, and 'America supplies what England has not got,' 'England is worried over American competition,' 'English brewers are buying up American breweries to save themselves from American competition,' 'England, the great shipbuilding nation.' Don't you know that Ireland has a bigger brewery than all England? Don't you know that the shipbuilders of Ireland can buy and sell the shipbuilders of England and Scotland? Don't you know that the 'canny Scot,' who is supposed by American journalists to like his own harsh liquor, patronizes Irish products in preference to his own?

"Ireland has the largest brewing and shipbuilding concerns in the world. Ireland supplies half the British empire with handkerchiefs, collars, tablecloths and shirts and puts on British tables the choicest breakfast bacon and butter. The English usually conceal the identity of the last two named under the brand of 'Wiltshire' and 'Dorset,' but it is Irish, and the treasury officials can testify to it. Neither the Tyne nor the Clyde nor the Mersey shows anything equal to the shipbuilding concern of Harland & Wolff at Belfast. Yet there is nothing the English and Scots are so proud of as their shipbuilding. For years this firm has held the highest place in the world as far as tonnage launched is concerned. The yards employ 6,000 men and support a good sized town. The works cover eighty acres, and the Teutonic and Majestic, two of the most famous ocean greyhounds, were built there. It's a byword in the British navy that no breakdown of machinery, a thing so frequent, has ever occurred in any British naval vessel built in the Belfast yards.

"Nothing shoddy ever comes from Ireland. That is why the balbriggan is imitated by British and German manufacturers. Guinness of Ireland owns the largest brewery in existence. Their products pay £500,000 excise every year. There are 13,000 British breweries, but Guinness produces one out of every twenty barrels of beer credited annually to Great Britain. It is a funny thing, and a bad thing for America as well as Ireland, that many native merchants sell the poorer grades of American butter as 'Irish,' and pure Irish butter is sold as 'Dorset' or 'Danish.' Scotland—the canny Scots, who like none but their own liquor—drink 500,000 gallons of Irish whisky every year. Look up the statistics, my boy, and you will see that I have underrated the amounts that Ireland gives to England annually, not only for her consumption, but in most cases for the purpose of receiving an English brand before sale."

Tablecloths.

All housekeepers like to have tablecloths ironed with only one fold through the center. To keep them after this laundering they are best rolled on a stick. Each tablecloth has its own stick, as long as the cloth is wide when folded lengthwise through the center, the sticks being neatly covered with, first, several folds of flannel and afterward with muslin. When the cloth is ironed in one fold, one end is evenly pinned to the stick and the cloth loosely rolled on it, so that it will not crease. Afterward the whole is slipped into a long, narrow bag and laid in the linen closet, or in the long drawer of the sideboard, if that is kept for the purpose.

At the Change of Life.

This trying period in women's life usually comes between the ages of forty and fifty years and is marked by irrita, headache, dizziness, irregular monthlies, fitful appetite, forebodings of evil, palpitation of the heart and constipation. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all a woman's medicine because it helps her safely through this trying period. It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the functions of the feminine organs and tones and invigorates the whole body.

Flies Are Tough.

A fly is almost invincible. It will survive long immersion in water, will sustain the odors of sulphur and other disinfectants without apparent injury. Only turpentine, chloroform and ammonia and washing can get the better of a fly.

ODDITIES OF GENIUS.

Physical Failings That Fell to the Lot of Famous Men.

The face of Oliver Cromwell was disfigured with moles, pimples and warts. He must have been very proud of them, however, for when his portrait was being painted by Sir Peter Lely he swore he would not pay for it unless these facial disfigurements were quite clearly shown.

Hogarth, the famous painter, had a prominent scar on his forehead, which was the result of an accident in his early days. He made this appear still more prominent in a portrait of himself which he painted with his own hand.

The great Napoleon was subject to epileptic seizures, one of which it has been said lost him the battle of Waterloo.

Lord Byron, who was otherwise a magnificent specimen of a man, had a clubfoot of which he was anything but proud. If, however, it detracted from his appearance and hindered locomotion, it did not hamper his genius. Byron was possessed of a morbid fear of going out of his mind.

Indeed, all poets are said to be more or less mad. Cowper was certainly subject to fits of lunacy, as was likewise Chatterton, who killed himself in a fit of derangement. The same is true of Rousseau, Cervantes, Southey and Swift.

Alexander Pope was a hunchback, with a very caustic tongue, which once resulted in his being as good as told that he was "a crooked little thing that asks impudent questions."

Throughout his life Sir Walter Scott could only walk with a limp. As a boy he was afflicted with paralysis, which left him permanently lame.

The late James Payn, the novelist, was extremely deaf, in which respect he resembled Edison, the world renowned electrician and inventor.

Milton was totally blind when he produced the masterpiece of his marvelous genius. From his youth up he suffered acutely from gout, which was the primary cause of the loss of his eyesight.

As anybody could gather from his works, Thomas Carlyle was a chronic dyspeptic. A state of irritation appears to have been his normal condition, and, although in the absence of his peculiar ailment he might have been a far more amiable being, his writings would certainly have lost some of their most prominent characteristics.

Like Demosthenes, Charles Kingsley was afflicted with stuttering, but he did not cure himself of the failing as did the famous Athenian orator by practicing speaking with pebbles in his mouth.

Perhaps the most famous of European surgeons was also the most nervous. This was Billroth of Vienna, whose hands were subject to violent trembling. But he operated with such celerity that his hand had no opportunity of trembling.

The Children Eagerly Look for Their Dish of

Malt Breakfast Food

Each Morning.

Happy and cheerful reports of the wonderful work that Malt Breakfast Food is doing for growing children, come to the notice of the manufacturers every day. Many fathers and mothers declare that their little ones look more eagerly and anxiously for their dish of Malt Breakfast Food each morning than for anything else. All the children relish it and find it delicious and appetizing. Malt Breakfast Food is giving in every instance the happy results that careful parents look for—increase in flesh, purer blood, brighter eyes and greater bodily strength. We strongly advise parents to adopt the use of Malt Breakfast Food if their children are not showing evidences of healthy growth. Grocers everywhere.

THE GIRL PHILOSOPHER.

Her Story of Her Meeting With the Accidental Insurance Man.

"You know Tom," began the girl philosopher, twisting a new ring about her third finger.

"Yes," exclaimed the other two in chorus. "When is it to be?"

"You know Tom," began the other again, who would tell things in her own way or not at all. "And you know there was a fire at our house in which the old maiden lady on the third floor had her nose seriously burned. What I am going to tell you is related both to the fire and to Tom. It was the evening after, and I was practicing at the piano, trying to appear as though I were not awaiting him. Formerly, when waiting for the man whom I was going to marry, I would have been reading a book. But they all seemed to see through that. They knew very well that the book was a ruse and that I was just making up my mind what to say after the first greeting. So I ceased reading and nowadays practice on the piano."

"It is hard to know what to say after that greeting," remarked the fluffy haired girl.

"Is it?" asked the sallow young woman innocently.

"Yes," replied the philosopher. "One is apt to grow red and look silly. Then he always says, 'Well, what are you laughing for?' and you always reply, 'Nothing at all,' and then you giggle. He laughs in little jerks and asks you how you are. You say: 'All right. Ham't it been a perfectly lovely day?' I used to get a book just before he came and think out things to say during such trying moments, but now I play the bumblebee song or something which is not too noisy, for I always manage to hear every footfall on the veranda. That evening after the fire I was singing"—

"What risks you take," ventured the sallow young woman.

"So I failed to listen for the footsteps as usual," proceeded the speaker. "I had just reached a high note and was endeavoring to get that vocal quiver that is so fetching when some one directly behind my chair coughed slightly. It was so sudden that I forgot all about the line of action I had planned. I had intended to be cool to him, for you see, I was most—er—cordial the evening before. You should never be too cordial to a man twice in succession, you know."

"I know," answered the fluffy haired girl, with a conclusive nod.

"But it was awfully sudden," said the sallow young woman. "Did you mistake him for a book agent?"

"No such good luck, or good behavior, either," admitted the philosopher. "I just said, 'Oh, Tom!' and I am afraid I left some of my new powder on his coat. He seemed to be about as surprised as I, for he backed away several steps and, removing my hands gently from his shoulder, remarked, 'I am afraid you are mistaken.'"

"What!" exclaimed the listeners.

The philosopher nodded vigorously and bit her lip as though she was about to laugh or cry. "It wasn't Tom at all," she finally gasped weakly, "but an accident insurance man who had come to see about the maiden lady's burned nose. The maid answered the door, you know."

"What did you say?" inquired the fluffy haired girl.

"I must have stammered a little, but I remember saying that I thought he was some one else."

"And he?"

"He said he wished he were."

"Impudence!" ejaculated the sallow young woman. "You really should tell Tom at once, for as long as you are wearing his ring"—

"But it is not his ring," said the philosopher, defiantly holding up her hand. "It's the accident insurance man's."

Her companions looked at each other in speechless surprise. The fluffy haired girl finally managed to inquire:

"When?"

"Since one week after he came out to inquire about the injuries of the maiden lady. Wasn't she a dear to poke her nose into the fire?"

Marriage at Thirty.

The celibacy question is a delicate one to discuss, but it seems to me that if by giving young workingmen a chance of lodging themselves comfortably and respectably when they first become self supporting you prevent them from getting married to girls as young as themselves and acquiring a quiverful of babies before they are well out of their teens far more good than harm is likely to result in the long run from this operation. Young men of the middle class at the present day rarely marry under thirty, many of them not till they are well past that age. So far as I can see, neither they nor society are the worse for deferring their nuptials. The lower you go in the social scale the stronger are the reasons against a man marrying young.

A Discouragee.

"I don't believe in feeding tramps at the door," said Mrs. West. "You feed them once, and they are sure to come back."

"Well, I don't know. I always give them bread when they come to my door, and I can't say I ever knew a tramp to come a second time."

"Oh, well, then, Yeast, you make your own bread, do you not?"

That was all that was said, and yet Mrs. Yeast went down the street like a straw hat on a windy day.

One of Florence's Jokes.

That genial comedian W. J. Florence had a habit of promising a man a fish or some game when he was about starting on a hunting or fishing trip. Day after day would pass, and the game would not be forthcoming. But almost every day a letter or telegram would come saying that Florence had not forgotten; that Florence was just about sending the game; that there was no cause for worry, as a fine fish or deer was on its way to the express office. At first this solicitousness would cause courteous letters and telegrams in return. As the delay got longer the victim would get impatient and would finally be literally haunted by huge fishes or deer, "with the compliments of W. J. Florence." Then some fine day, when it was least expected, the fish or deer would come.

Beef Tea.

It is the suggestion of a trained nurse, whose beef tea was most acceptable to a patient to whom in any previous illness it had been repellent, that the beef should be broiled before the juice is extracted. A thick, lean, juicy steak from the round is broiled over a clear fire perhaps two minutes on each side, after which it is cut up into small squares, put into a saucepan, covered with cold water and set on the back of the stove, where it should steep, not boil, for fully two hours. Remember not to add the salt until the dish is taken from the fire and serve it hot unless, of course, it is to be offered as cold or iced beef tea.

The Lesson of Health.

Is One Taught us by the Experience of Others.

Learn This Lesson Well and the Ravages of Disease Will no Longer be so Prevalent—The Story of one who has Been Benefited and who Offers her Experience to aid Others.

From L'Sorelois, Sorel, Que.

Among the multitude of ailments that afflict humanity there are few that cause more acute misery than indigestion or dyspepsia, as it is variously called. Both young and old are susceptible to its attacks, and its victims throughout the country are numbered by tens of thousands. Among the disagreeable symptoms which accompany dyspepsia and make it easily recognizable, are weight, uneasiness and a heavy feeling in the stomach after eating, a feeling of weariness, sick headache and dizziness, pains in the stomach, offensive breath, irritability, etc. Ordinary medicines will not cure dyspepsia. They may relieve its symptoms temporarily, but the trouble always returns and each time in an intensified form. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine which will thoroughly and effectively cure dyspepsia. These pills act not merely upon the symptoms but on the disease itself, through the blood, hence through the stomach, which is strengthened and restored to its normal functions.

Mrs. Alp. Lussier, a lady well known in Sorel, Que., is one of the many who have been released from the clutches of dyspepsia through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and in the hope that her experience will be of benefit to some other sufferer she gives the following story for publication:—"For over two years I was a sufferer from dyspepsia or bad digestion. The disease became chronic and I was an almost continual sufferer from headaches, heartburn and heart palpitation. All sense of taste left me and at times my stomach was so weak that I was unable to keep any food on it, and this caused me more distress than one could imagine. Although I tried several remedies, none of them gave me any relief, and I began to regard my life as a burden, rather than a joy as it should be. One day while reading I came across a case similar to my own, cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, so in the hope that I would receive similar benefit I decided to give the pills a trial. I had not taken the pills long before I could see that my hopes for recovery were being realized. By the time I had taken half a dozen boxes all symptoms of the trouble had disappeared and I was able to enjoy life as I did before being seized with the malady. I have no hesitation in saying that I think that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best known cure for dyspepsia, and I would strongly advise all sufferers to give them a trial.

The old adage "experience is the best teacher" might well be applied in cases of dyspepsia, and if sufferers would only be guided by the experience of those who have suffered but are now well and happy through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, there would be less distress throughout the land. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be had at all dealers in medicine or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEE BUZZES.

One-fourth of an acre may contain 150 colonies of bees.

An apiary should not be placed on ground thickly set with trees.

Bees secrete wax only when necessary to furnish storage room for honey or brood.

The secretion of one pound of wax necessitates the consumption of twenty pounds of honey.

When a queen is gone, it will be only a few days until the colony will cease to store much surplus honey.

Sometimes, toward the close of the honey season, the bees will destroy the queen cells or kill all of the queens but one, thus destroying the incentive to swarm.

Care must be taken to see that there is a queen in every colony. If she gets lost or is killed, another must be put in her place, as the colony will run down very fast if left queenless.

Never feed bees during the day, it matters not whether there be one colony or many. It causes confusion, and the bees frequently get cross and go to stinging anything they come near.

In getting bees that have swarmed back into a hive much loss may be prevented by stretching a piece of strong canvas on the ground and setting the hive upon it and then shaking the bees on it.

THREE YEARS HELPLESS.

Relief at Last for a Quebec Dyspeptic

Nobody can appreciate the extent of the joy and thankfulness that enters into the heart of a man or woman cured of Dyspepsia. The change is so great, from disease to health, from misery to happiness that only those who have experienced the transition can understand.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have worked this wonder thousands and thousands of times. Not only in Ontario, not only throughout Canada, but all through the United States, England, Scotland and Ireland, and wherever the English language is spoken.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the one rational way to treat Dyspepsia. They are composed of harmless natural digestants such as pepsin and diastase. On being taken into the stomach they act immediately on the food. They actually do the work of digestion, dissolving the whole mass of masticated food and preparing it for assimilation into the blood.

In this way the feeble stomach is left with little or no work to do. Time and opportunity is given it for what it has never had before since you've been born — a rest. Gradually it grows strong and healthy once more. Finally the time comes when it is able to resume work entirely cured. Then it is that the patient experiences that sense of delight and joy common to all who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I have had pains in my stomach due to Dyspepsia for three years," writes John Cornforth, of 168 St. Anne street, Quebec City. "I could get nothing to help me until I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets which gave me great ease from the start. My joy was indescribable when on continuing their use I was finally completely cured."

A Boat, a Sand Bank and a River.

Lord Coleridge, the famous lord chief justice, once recounted to Sir Mount Stuart E. Grant-Duff an incident of his earlier life. He had to cross examine an eminent professional witness about a proposed harbor. In the course of doing so he said, "But, Mr. ——, isn't there a reef of rocks that would be a great inconvenience to you?"

"Oh, yes," replied the witness. "Undoubtedly there is, but we propose to get rid of it in such and such a manner."

"Very good," rejoined Coleridge, "but when you have got rid of it, would there not be a very awkward sand bank to contend with?"

"Certainly," said the witness, "but against it we should provide thus and thus."

"Well," answered Coleridge, "but when you have removed both these obstacles would you not still have a great deal of trouble from the current of the river when in flood?"

"Clearly," was the answer, "but we should encounter that difficulty successfully by another expedient," which the witness proceeded to explain.

"You have seen the place, have you not?" said Coleridge.

"Oh, yes," replied the other.

"Well, I never did," was the rejoinder. "I have invented alike the reef, the sand bank and the river!"

CHERRY'S BAD HEART

Put him "down and out" so far as working was concerned, but Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart made a man of him again.

Heart weakness and fainting spells were so acute that Wm. Cherry, of Owen Sound, Ont., had to quit work. His sufferings were very great. One day a druggist said: "Cherry, try Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart; it must be a good thing for it has a large sale." He did so, and took five bottles. To-day he takes his place beside the other workmen, and does as big a day's work as any of them, thanks to this great remedy. 52

WAS KISSED BY ROYALTY.

Little Miss Irene Munro of Town had the Honour.

She was Asked to Present a Bouquet of Flowers to the Duchess and She did so.

Miss Irene Munro, the pretty little 11-year-old daughter of Mr. Robert Munro, of the Morgan House, had the honour of being kissed by the Duchess of Cornwall and York on Thursday during the reception ceremonies to the Royal party.

Little Miss Munro went up to Toronto some days ago for the purpose of witnessing the Toronto reception. She was the guest of her uncle, Mr. John Coats, Parliament street. On Thursday she was standing in the door way of her uncle's store, which is near the Civic Buildings, and just as Their Royal Highness had taken up their position, an officer of the Kilty's came up to Miss Irene and asked her if she would make the presentation of a beautiful large bouquet. The little girl readily consented and made her way to the Royal party. Upon handing the bouquet to Her Royal Highness, the Duchess of Cornwall and York, she was kissed by the recipient of the flowers, who inquired her name and where she was from.

Miss Irene was also kissed by Lady Minto whilst the Duke of York and Lord Minto both shook hands with her. She then withdrew into the dense crowd.

Miss Irene is very modest over the honour paid her, which was indeed an honour not accorded to many young ladies.

KENNEDY'S BANQUET OF BEEF

Some Idea of the Enormous Business Done at Kennedy's Meat Market.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy is bound to keep up the reputation he has acquired for having the greatest selection of butchered meats, and the cheapest place to buy it. A visit yesterday evening to his handsomely equipped meat market at No. 240 George street, was calculated to impress one with the very extensive stock he is expected to carry in order to be prepared for his enormous Saturday trade.

"Great Caesar, have you an army contract, Mr. Dencon?" was the remark addressed to Mr. Kennedy's busy manager.

"No, not exactly, but if the Provincial Secretary would like us to supply his public institutions with Kennedy's prime beef, I guess we could fill the contract from our abattoirs."

"You don't mean to say that you can dispose of all this meat to your local customers?"

"Umph, man! we expect to have to kill again early next week."

Strung along on hooks as high as the ceiling, and stretching the whole length of the store, were eighty-six quarters of dainty young lamb, a dozen quarters of mutton, and eight quarters of beef. Besides these, there were dressed hogs, side pork, quarters of veal, pork, plump fowl and various toothsome samples of fancy meats. But it was when Mr. Dencon opened the huge refrigerator, and asked us to walk inside, that the enormous extent of Mr. Kennedy's meat business became apparent. Rows upon rows of quarters of beef, in prime condition, were hung up, ready for cutting up or selling by the quarter. After a somewhat hurried count, it is safe to say that the refrigerator contained nearly one hundred quarters. And such beef! —the best young heifers and steers the country could produce. Many of them are specially bred for his local trade, with the result the beef is the most appetizing that a connoisseur could wish for.

Mr. Kennedy must be making great havoc among the cattle and sheep of the country. His extensive business experience as a live cattle dealer affords him opportunities for procuring the pick of the best herds and flocks for his Peterborough retail store. His all-day-Saturday bargain prices, by the quarter, have drawn great crowds of people to his store, who formerly scoured the market square for their quarters of beef, lamb, mutton and pork. His prices to-day were for lamb, front quarters, 6c. per lb.; hind quarters, 7c. per lb; beef in quantities of 50 lbs. and over at wholesale prices.

TOMMY ATKINS BACK TO TOWN.

The 57th Regiment Returned This Morning.

HAD A TEDIOUS DELAY.

The Boys Made a Splendid Showing in the Big Review—Their Inspected the 57th and Complimented all Ranks.

The 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, returned at 9.30 o'clock this morning from Toronto, after having spent three full days in that city participating in the Royal review. As the regiment marched up George street somewhat unexpectedly, the boys were heartily received by the townspeople.

The Rangers are very tired. Every officer, non-commissioned officer and man will appreciate a good rest, but they bore up splendidly during their several days' hard work. The regiment was to have arrived home at about midnight last night, but owing to congestion of traffic on the C.P.R., and not any too brilliant executive work on the part of some person, a most extraordinary long delay occurred, to the discomfort of all ranks.

The 57th regiment was to have entrained at the exhibition grounds at 10.30, as before stated, but it was 6 o'clock this morning before they pulled out from this point, the men in the meantime having to lie down on a bedding of cut straw, their blankets having been handed in in accordance with the original order. An eight hour's wait after a very hard day's work, was trying, but even so the men were in good spirits throughout. When the train did get started it took it about an hour to get out of the Union Station, for the amount of backing up, standing still, going forward for a short distance, and shunting in general, was excruciating to those on board. Finally the train did pull out, and the run home was made very quickly.

Now that the men are all safely home, a word regarding their appearance and conduct, as well as their work in the review, might not be out of place. It can be said at the outset that it is questionable if Peterborough ever turned out a regiment that reflected more credit upon the town, than did the 57th on this occasion. Their conduct, above everything else, is deserving of the consideration of all. They behaved like gentlemen, bore their work manfully, and were the pride of their officers. As to their drill no better compliment could have been paid them than the remarks made by the inspecting Officer, Colonel Otter, and it must be understood that Col. Otter is a very severe critic. Their appearance, while not in physique quite up to that of a few other regiments, was smart, intelligent and stylish, and all things being considered, the Rangers won laurels for themselves.

Toronto, Friday, October 11.—The men crawled out of their beds of straw earlier than usual this morning. They put in an excellent night's sleep, all things being considered, and another day's hard work was ahead of them. The review of the troops by His Royal Highness was to take place at 11 o'clock, but the regiment left their respective headquarters at 9.30 o'clock, and the entire division was shortly placed in position and commanding officers stood proudly in front of their respective brigades, and altogether eleven thousand men including artillery, cavalry and infantry presented a sight seldom seen. The bands of the division lined up in front of the grand stand but, of course, considerable distance out, and kept up regimental marches throughout the four or five hours proceedings. After the review and the presentation of medals to South African veterans, the event of the day, the march past, was gone through. The cavalry came first, the field batteries next and the infantry followed. The 57th made a very creditable appearance, and compared quite favourably with the very best city regiments. Their marching was better than usual and their friends did not fail to give them due applause. When all the regiments had marched past, their respective bands joined them and a march down the city was the order of proceedure. It was about 2.15 p.m. when the 57th returned to the exhibition grounds where they were inspected by Lieut.-Col. Otter. It is quite infrequent that Lieut.-Col. Otter pays compliments to a regiment, but the work of the 57th drew from this officer a highly complimentry referrence. He said that he was much pleased with their appearance and their marching. He congratulated them upon the successful inspection they underwent and he hoped that they would continue their good work. The regiment was dismissed and the men were free for the day.

During the stay of the regiment in Toronto, they were visited by many old Peterborough people, as well as many from town who were up for the occasion. Lieut. McPherson, Lieut. Mc-Williams, and Corp. George Revell, came down on the local last night and went on through to Ottawa to play with the Peterborough Rugby team against Ottawa II.

Capt. Birdsall of the 40th Regiment, was one officer at least, whose enthusiasm was such that while his regiment did not participate, he was too loyal to stay at home. He was attached to the 57th, and became quite popular amongst all ranks.

Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, late commanding officer of the 57th, arrived in camp on Thursday night. Major Stevenson was taken on the strength on the same evening. Lieutenant-Colonel Rogers takes as much interest in the regimant apparently as he did during his tenure of command.

Wm. Herring won great praise for himself by reason of the efficient manner in which he discharged his duties pertaining to his office. Williams was chief of the commissary department of the officers. He is not new at the business and is looked upon as being the right man in the right place.

The two local newspaper men who accompanied the regiment to Toronto upon invitation of the officers, desire to extend to them their appreciation of the hospitality accorded them. Nothing was too good for the pencil pushers, and the trip to see the "Dook," will long be remembered by them with feelings of pleasure.

There may have been a great deal of kicking about rations, but no such complaint was heard from the men of the 57th. It is safe to say that no regiment had as splendid arrangements in this regard as the Rangers. Mr. Thomas Hooper had charge of the catering, and the men dined in a large tent that was capable of accommodating all of them.

The music of the 3rd Brigade was certainly the poorest of the three Brigades. This was due chiefly to the fact that the Brigade bandmaster insisted on having the massed brigade bands play a monotonous air, instead of allowing each band to play its regimental air as its regiment marched by, as was the case in the other brigades. The 57th greatly missed their regimental march.

Lieut. "Jim" Hamilton tells a rather amusing story of an incident that occurred in the march past. As the various companies were within a certain distance of the Royal party, the senior officer gave the command, "No. 1 Company (as the case might be), eyes right!" Well, Lieut. Hamilton, who was in charge of the colour party, cried out, "Colour party, eyes right!" A big coloured gentleman, who stood close by, could not understand the meaning of this, but obeyed the command, and rolled his great white eye balls in the direction indicated.

The officers of the 57th, one and all, are enthusiastic over the treatment accorded them by Warden Gilmour of the Central Prison. The warden is one of those genial sort of fellows that one soon becomes acquainted with, and throughout the stay of the 57th he was incessantly looking after the comfort of his guests. The freedom of the establishment, consistent of course with circumstances, was theirs, and the officers of the regiment were not slow in appreciating this hospitality. They have made the warden the present of a suitable souvenir in remembrance of the occasion.

There was one very disappointing feature to the average Peterborough citizen, in connection with the review. That was the absence from the affair of the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons. As the other cavalry regiments marched past the few Dragoons from Peterborough who went up to take in the event in an unofficial manner, looked grieved indeed. As one gentleman put it "There are the 4th Hussars that look like a "rag" regiment in camp alongside the 3rd Dragoons, and still they are marching past before the "Dook" whilst the Dragoons are at home." The fault is certainly somewhere and it seems a shame that the 3rd, the only Canadian regiment called after the Prince of Wales, which title the Duke himself is shortly to attain, should not have taken part in the review. Again they are the only scarlet uniformed regiment in Canada and would have made a very pretty appearance indeed.

The colours of the regiment as previously intimated were carried by Lieut. Jim Hamilton of No. 4 Company, and Lieut. McLean of No. 5 Company. It is always the rule that the two Junior Subalterns of any regiment shall carry the colours and as these two officers are the latest acquisitions to the Rangers the duty devolved upon them, and truly speaking it was a very proud duty to perform. The colours are always saluted by the officers whom they may be carried past. In this particular case the Duke was that important personage. He saluted very gracefully and a beam of satisfaction came over Lieut. Hamilton's face. When touching on the matter of regimental colours it might as well be stated that the Peterborough Rangers are badly in need of new colours. The present ones have answered the purpose splendidly but they cannot last forever. They have been in use for 34 years having been presented to the regiment at a review that was held at the western extremity of the town in the year 1867. They were the gift of the ladies of Peterborough and cost a handsome sum of money it is said. They have, of course, become tender with years and have to be handled with care, for, a respectable gust of wind would tear them into shreds. Here is a noble work for the ladies of Peterborough to undertake. Major Miller, it might be stated, is the only man in the regiment now that was in the 57th at the time of the presentation.

The Central Prison, as a place of abode for such a respectable lot of individuals as go to make up the 57th Regiment's list of officers, seems too funny for anything, as the girls say, but only those who have had the pleasure of participating of the hospitality at the Central Prison during the past few days can imagine the luxury the 57th officers lived in, compared with the accomodation afforded to the officers of other corps that took part in the review. The sleeping appartments were in the chapel, and amongst the articles of furniture in it besides a number of neat little iron beds that were placed therin for the occasion, there was a piano, an organ, a pulpit, benches and chairs such as are generally to be seen near the pulpit in any church. Heavy iron doors swung open admitted the inmates of the rooms, whilst the many windows were a net work of iron bars. The officers spent many of their spare minutes looking out of the windows to the yard below, enclosed by high stone walls, and in which the convicts strolled around at their various lines of employment. The piano came in very useful. An impromptu concert on Thursday night amongst the officers of the 57th, at which several especially invited guests were present, will be long looked upon as one of the most pleasant incidents in connection with the Toronto trip. Capt. Cockburn and Lt.-Col. Henning were in attendance and appeared to enjoy the entertainment very much. A lot of excellent talent was found to exist amongst the officers of the regiment.

The duties of the Quartermaster are at certain times the most onerous of any on the staff. One of these occasions is the present trip to Toronto, but Capt. Eastwood, the quartermaster of the 57th, was equal to the occasion. Every arrangement even to the most minute detail was provided for with great care. The transportation, the quartering of the men, the rations and other important features of the trip were admirably engineered.

Another responsible position is that of adjutant and in this respect Capt. Walker could not have done better work. Capt. Walker is one of the popular officers of the 57th.

The reception at the parliament buildings last night was attended by several thousand, it is said. Lieut.-Col. H. O. Rogers was one of the escort for His Royal Highness. Only two officers of the 57th took in the event. They were Lieut.-Col. Edwards and Lieut. Bradburn.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers and preparing them for their winter quarters. Nothing in the line of house decorating gives such life and glow to the rooms as flower-filled windows. NO LIGHT UNTIL MONDAY.

Everything Ready now Except the Concrete Which has not Dried out.

The citizens will have to put up with the inconvenience caused by the absence of the electric light in their houses and on the streets for only a couple of days longer. Of course the business portion of the town will be illuminated this evening, as usual, but by Monday night the entire service will be resumed.

The gap in the side of the raceway has been repaired in a substantial manner, as had the damage, which was done at the power house. The flooring of the flume has been replaced with a layer of concrete two feet thick, and in order to prevent its being undermined by the water again a wall of concrete five feet thick has been sunk to a depth of six feet at the entrance. The water will hardly work its way beneath this.

All the concreting has been finished and as soon as the cement has a chance to "set" the water will be turned on and the raceway put into commission once more. It is estimated that by Monday evening, the concrete will have hardened sufficiently to withstand the action of the water.

Under ordinary circumstances concrete will harden as quickly, if not quicker, under water than above it, but, as the water passes through the flume with great force, it was thought advisable to run no chances.

A BEAUTIFUL BANNER.

Presented to the Local Branch of the Federation of Labour.

There was a very large attendance last evening at the meeting of the local branch of the Federation of Labour. Twenty-five new members were initiated, raising the total enrollment to 136.

During the evening Mr. C. Tolley presented the members with the beautiful banner, which was described in yesterday's issue, speaking as follows:

It affords me very great pleasure to present your Union with this banner, which has been especially designed and made to order.

It is a pleasure to know that I have had the privilege of presenting the Union with its first banner, as a friendly token of my sympathy in your cause.

I hope that there may always be found rallying around this standard a strong body of intelligent and industrious workingmen, prepared to stand shoulder to shoulder for their rights, without resorting to injustice or intolerance.

A vote of thanks was passed Mr. Tolley on motion of Messrs. Robt. McGregor and John Gibson. The resolution will be engrossed and forwarded to Mr. Tooley.

The matters of placing flagmen at the C.P.R. crossings was discussed at length, the members deciding to ask the Town Council to deal with the C. P. R. in a manner similiar to the way the Grand Trunk had been handled in the matter.

Messrs. Tooley and McGregor were appointed a deputation to wait on other lodges in the town with the object of establishing a Trades and Labour Council in Peterborough.

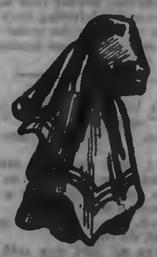
PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

October Store News

You can find everything here that helps to make this store the greatest and best store in the district. We want to emphasize the fact that you can buy medium price goods here as well as the best that money can buy, but you will find no trash. We positively refuse to handle anything but reliable goods.



DRESS PATTERNS.

You can get here your choice of the nicest patterns ever shown in this store. There are so many attractive shades and just the most comfortable and evenly woven cloths you could desire. They'll hold their colour and will not get pulled out of shape quickly. See them soon.

MILLINERY.

We are showing some particulary stylish Ready-to-Wear Hats just now. Some new American ideas, the things ladies of fashion are wearing in New York and the other big American cities. And for those who want Hats made to order, there isn't the slightest doubt about it, you can get more genuine style and set in this store than anywhere else in this part of the country. If you haven't tried our Milliners you had better come and see what we can do for you.

JACKETS.

The uncertain weather is with us, and genuine winter weather is not far away. You'll want to look your best and be most comfortable. We have the right kind of Jackets—the ones that keep you cosy and comfortable, and protect your health, and giving you at the same time the air of a stylish dresser, and at prices that are sure to please you, too.

CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

One of the principle reasons of this store's great success and supremacy in Carpets is because we study styles in Carpets just as much as we do in Dress Goods, Millinery, or any other departments. People of taste know that carpet styles change just as much as other fabrics. For instance, this year Green is to be the rage, not only in carpets, but curtains, rugs, hangings and furniture—all show a predominance of green. Now what could be prettier than a soft, green carpet? Our association makes its beauty the memory of close, fine, rain-freshened turf, and fairly like moss and fern in some deep shaded place. We are showing some beautiful soft, rich colourings of Green in carpets, hangings and rugs. Something decidedly different to what you have seen here-to-fore in carpets, and something that every lady of taste will welcome as a decided change from what they see in ordinary Carpet stocks.

DRESSMAKING.

Just a word or two about our Dressmaking Department. We have two High-Class Head Dressmakers with a staff of about 30 helps. A mammoth Dress Goods Department, with all the popular weaves to choose from. Trimmings of every description, and everything else that is required to make an up-to-date Dressmaking Department.

KID GLOVES.

We want to remind you that we make a specialty of Dollar Kid Gloves, Perrin's make, and every pair guaranteed. They are of fine finish, and their natural sizes will insure wearing without cracking or ripping. Good colours—from very light tan clear into black. Your size is here at a dollar. You might pay $1.25 for poorer gloves.

Brotherson vs. Carry.—D. W. Dumble (Peterborough) for plaintiff, moved to set aside non-suit entered by Longt. J., in an action for negligence tried at Peterborough, and for a new trial. Action by Andrew Brotherson, a labourer, of the Township of Otonabee, against James A. Carry and E. G. Lavelaure, contractors for construction of a section of the Trent Valley Canal, to recover damages for injuries received by the plaintiff while engaged in working for the defendants in such construction. A derrick used in the work fell upon plaintiff, owing to the alleged negligence of the defendants in not sufficiently supporting the derrick, and by reason of a defect therein. The plaintiff contented that there was evidence of negligence to go to the jury. Aylesworth, K.C., and D. O'Connell, (Peterborough), for defendants, contra. Reserved.

THE RECENT LICENSE BYLAW.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — Will you kindly inform us, if possible, why business men of our town who deal in household goods that have been used, such as furniture, stoves, carpets, sewing machines, clocks, etc., in connection with other new goods of the same kind, should have imposed upon them an extra taxation of ten dollars per year?

If you can give a satisfactory reason why this should be done, then why should dealers in stoves, dealers in sewing machines, dealers in musical instruments and all other dealers who deal in household goods to a more or less extent, be exempt from this taxation?

Why should dealers in household goods be looked upon as being in league with thieves any more than a dealer in groceries or in any other commodities?

Has there not been a lack of serious consideration and thought in passing a bylaw, that if carried out, will impose on about twenty good business men of our town this extra taxation, and also troublesome restrictions in doing business, while the other business men pay only their ordinary taxation, and are free to do their business as they see fit? Is this fair play? Is it encouraging to start, or keep in business here?

M. T. B.

Our correspondent raises what seems to be a pertinent question. The object of the council should be to make it as easy as possible for citizens to do business. To every question there are two sides, and to elicit all the facts the Examiner invites correspondence upon the above subject. If the Town Council in passing the bylaw, has acted without a full knowledge of the effect it would produce, it is to be presumed that they would like to know it, for they are to be credited with a desire to do the best they can do in the interests of the town, and all business interests.

WAIT FOR IT—WATCH FOR IT —STAY FOR IT.

The gala opening event of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company will take place in their premises, No. 402 George street, on Wednesday afternoon, October 16th.

The doors will be thrown open at one o'clock p.m. for the reception of the public, and a cordial invitation is herewith publicly extended to the whole town to be present.

This is to be a clothing store, pure and simple. The brand-new stock of high-class overcoats, ulsters and suits is arriving daily and being opened out as fast as the manufacturers can produce it.

The T. O. Rush Company wish to impress upon the public the fact that their stock has not been selected indiscriminately from the stewaways of a wholesale house, but has been specially made to their own order within the past few weeks, with up-to-date styles, designs and finish, in accordance with their own ideas of what first-class ready-to-wear clothing should be.

The store premises will be handsomely dressed and decorated for this opening event, and the services of the 57th Batt. Band has been secured for a concert to be given at the store in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

Let there be no engagement to prevent you from attending this interesting event on Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 16th.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSO.

Notes Concerning the Progress Being Made.

DIFFERENT CLUBS ORGANIZE

And the Names of the Zealous Officers who are in Charge—Days of Meeting.

Affairs in the Y.W.C.A. circles appear to be looking much brighter, and the work is being pushed forward zealously.

The series of Sunday afternoon gospel meetings will be continued to-morrow afternoon at 4.15 o'clock. These meeting will be continued weekly, and all young women are cordially invited to attend, not only for the help they may receive, but for the help they may give. The meetings last only for one hour, and are made as bright, interesting and helpful as possible.

The Alexandra Club met as usual on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and had their first regular gymnasium work, which they have commenced most enthusiastically. The club is making very satisfactory progress under its efficient little officers;

President, Zetta Jamieson;
Vice-President, Dolly Rundle;
Secretary, Maud Rountree;
Treasurer, Kathleen Kincaid.

The members of the Victoria Club were out in full force on Thursday afternoon for the opening of physical culture work and after a half-hour in the gymnasium had their regular club meeting, at which it was decided to limit the club membership to 70. Just here we would like to say that if any friends are especially interested in the work of the Junior Department, that interest might be manifested in a very special way by contributing some chairs for the club room, as the present supply is (extremely) limited. The officers of the Victoria Club are;

President, Banks Clementie;
Vice-President, Bessie Gillespie;
Secretary, Ethel Roberts;
Treasurer, May Edwards;
Pianist, Mattie Robertson.

The meeting next week is to be a business meeting, when reports are to be handed in, and a club constitution adopted. The club is one of which its members may well be proud, not only in point of numbers, but in its efficient officers and the spirit of good fellowship that prevails everywhere.

On Friday evening an I.W.T. Club was organized in connection with the association. The following officers were elected;

President, Miss Paterson;
Vice-President, Miss M. White;
Secretary, Miss Godfrey;
Treasurer, Miss Currie.

The regular club constitution was read and adopted. The club motto is, Isaiah 11, 2, and the club hymn "More Love to Thee, O Christ." The meetings are to be held weekly on Friday evenings, and conducted in the following order; Devotional exercises, business of the club, talk by the leader of the bible study. The bible work for the coming year is based upon Rev'd Laura H. Wilds' "Studies in the Life of Christ," and is to be illustrated by copies of the best pictures. All young women will be most cordially welcomed at the meetings.

All young women desiring to enroll for physical culture should make note of the following; The two divisions of the class will meet respectively on Tuesday evening, October 15th, at 7 o'clock, and on Thursday evening, Oct. 17th, at the same hour. Please enroll immediately, if you have not already done so, as it is desirable that all members of the classes be present from the beginning.

The class in dressmaking will meet on Thursday evening, Oct. 15th, at 7.30 o'clock. The class in bookkeeping and stenography on Wednesday evening at the same hour, and the class in composition and letter writing on Thursday evening, Oct. 17th, at 8 o'clock.

Attention is called to the class in English literature. The study for this year is Tennyson's "In Memoriam" and the class will be under the direction of Sheriff Hall. The services have been secured of thoroughly competent teachers in vocal and instrumental music, fancy work and wood carving.

SLANDER FOR PARTY PURPOSES

The Mail and Empire newspaper is distinguished for one thing at least. It has no successful rival, except, perhaps, the local organ of the Conservatives, in unfair and dishonest treatment of political questions, and vindictive and unfair treatment of political opponents. In its issue of yesterday was a tissue of incorrect statements and misleading insinuations, under the heading of "Water Power for Politicians." Every statement, it is safe to say, in this malicious article is misleading, when not actually false. The Mail knew that it was uttering an untruth when it charged Hon. J. R. Stratton with having an interest in the application for power at No. 5 dam, and it knew it was uttering an untruth when it asserted that the Government gave the Otonabee Power Company a lease of No. 5 dam at 60 cents per horse power. Mr. Stratton has no interest in the Otonabee Power Company, pecuniary or otherwise, except that common to all citizens who wish to see power developed; and the price per horse power specified in the lease is $2 per horse power—not sixty cents. The "awakened indignation" over the matter the Mail refers to, was confined to two local monopolists, supplying, or assuming to supply, light and power. They could supply no power for three or four manufacturing concerns which desired to enter into business, and if they had had any power they held it at a high price, while the Otonabee Power Company sought the lease of the dam for the specific purpose of furnishing power to these new manufactories at $15 per horse power. These monopolists waited upon the Government, and in asserting their claim that the Ontario Power Company was receiving undue advantage, either highly coloured or misrepresented the local conditions. The Government, however, under the circumstances, decided to give an opportunity of demonstrating whether, according to the contentions of these gentlemen, the Otonabee Power Company was getting preferential treatment, and decided to withdraw the order-in-Council granting a lease, and submit the lease of power at No. 5 dam to public competition. This was done, and these monopolists or any other person who wishes to get a lease of the power, has an opportunity of so doing. If they think the price charged the Otonabee Power Company is under the value of the power, they have an equal chance to secure it by offering a better price. In view of the fact that on the strength of the Order-in-Council, the Otonabee Power Company had gone to considerable expense in preparing materials, etc., for the work of development, is is only common fairness that, in the event of another person or company securing the right to the lease by a higher bid, the Otonabee Power Company should be recouped for the expenditure to which it was committed, or had actually incurred, and such a condition was imposed. The Otonabee Power Company is a bona fide company, ready and anxious to develop power for several manufacturing concerns, and also a surplus of 400 horse power to be placed at the disposal of the town to offer to manufacturers desiring to locate in Peterborough at a maximum rate of $15 per horse power. The Government desires that the powers on the canal here shall be leased only for bona-fide development purposes, and not be held for speculative exploitation. The application of the town council referred to by the Mail and Empire, was more in the nature of an informal inquiry and was not accompanied by a guarantee of immediate development operations, and the price quoted, $4.00 per horse power, was doubtless influenced by this condition. The town could not expect to get as favourable terms from an indefinite and informal application as from an application guaranteeing actual and immediate development, to supply actual and immediate power needs. The Mail's implied charge that there is political favouritism is as unfounded as the rest of its assertions or insinuations. The gentlemen interested in the Otonabee Power Company are Conservatives and Liberals; it is business and not politics that is their chief concern. The town is interested in the success of the Company for its success gives assurance that water powers long running to waste will be developed to supply power to manufacturing concerns which will either have to get power in Peterborough or go elsewhere. The lease to the Otonabee Power Company at No. 5 dam on the Otonabee river is in the public interests, and no "politician" as the Mail insinuates is "cornering the water power," the whole country is at liberty to secure power if it is open to anybody to tender for power at No. 5 dam, and there are three other dams where power can be developed. The Otonabee Power Company is receiving and will receive no favours; it can only get power, by making the highest bid for the lease; it only gets fair treatment in being recouped for the expense it has incurred, in case another tenderer gets the lease and with it the benefit of the development work already done. The Mail prates about public interests. It is only trying to promote party interests and by the most reprehensible means — misrepresenting its opponents in the most unscrupulous manner. A policy of slander has a good deal of recoil in it.

The strictures of the Mail in connection with "Water Power for Politicians," would come with better grace if that journal would explain how it is that the very paper on which the Mail and Empire is printed, is made by power on the Welland canal, for which the sum of 34 cents per horse power is paid. Just before the Tupper Government went out of power in 1896, it renewed to J. Riordan, connected with the Mail and Empire, a lease of land and 700 horse power at $240 per annum, or 34 cents per horse power. This is for practically available power, little or no expense being required for development. Has the Mail any condemnation for this transaction?

SPORTING PASTIMES.

LACROSSE.

Amongst the "Remarks on the Side," in last evening's issue of the Toronto Telegram, appear the following.

A. H. Stratton, the well-known Peterborough hockey magnate, is in the city.

Jack Renwick, secretary of the Port Hope Ontarios, arrived in the city this morning from Stratford, the scene of yesterday's battle for the intermediate championship of the C. L. A. Johnny seems quite satisfied with the result, even though his team were defeated, and says that under the same conditions Stratford would again beat Port Hope. He says that the heavy clay ground proved too much for the Ontarios, who are lighter than Stratford, and the heavy "going" told on their wind.

Port Hope really and truly think they can defeat Stratford on a good field, and so do a lot of other people. It is said a Port Hope gentleman will offer a cup to be played for on neutral ground, say Brampton, between the above teams.

"Dec" Roberts, who refereed the game and gave entire satisfaction, says that Port Hope people are the best set of losers he has ever met with. And so they are. This evening they are to be given a big banquet by the citizens of the town.

By the way, Port Hope should have held out for a sudden death game at Brampton—for Stratford would have agreed to this also. The trouble with the Port Hope club is that there are men on their executive who never played the game, wouldn't know a lacrosse ball from a football, and yet try to run the club.

If the C.L.A. do not bring up a residence rule at the annual meeting, Port Hope and Peterborough will amalgamate and play a combination team and a dandy it will be.

There are five cracking good men in the Electric Town, and they have four defence men there who play side by side, and cannot be beaten. No, neither "Father" Complin or Alf Terrill are among the four. This is no team to be picked from a Home for Old Men.

LIGHTNING FLASHES.

HOW THEY ARE EVOLVED AND THE ENERGY THEY POSSESS.

Inhabitants of Compactly Built Cities Have Little Cause to Fear These Mysterious and Destructive Balls From the Clouds.

Without doubt lightning was the first electrical phenomenon that was observed by human beings. To this day it remains the least known and least understood of natural electrical manifestations except, perhaps, the aurora.

There is a vast deal of popular misconception concerning the danger of lightning and the nature of it. The lightning flash is a discharge from a cloud at a high potential with reference to the earth. When the atmosphere is charged with water vapor and some eddy or current in its colder upper strata is deflected downward, causing condensation, exceedingly minute drops of water are formed, each bearing an electrical charge. The consolidation of these into larger drops results in a very great increment of the potential of the charge since the capacity of the drop varies with its diameter and the volume of the drop with the cube of the diameter.

The consequence of this is that it takes, for example, eight drops consolidated to make one of twice the diameter of the constituent drops, and the charge on the surface of the consolidated drop will be four times as great as that upon the surfaces of its elements. In this way, as the small water particles unite to form drops which fall as rain, the potential of the charge they carry increases until it attains enormous values, and the lightning flash leaps to the earth, which may be regarded simply as a body of very great electrostatic capacity. The discharge, which is called lightning, is apt to be more or less destructive, although the energy of an individual flash is perhaps not very great. Often the conditions are such that the discharge takes on an oscillating character, producing violent surgings of current. No very accurate measurements have been made upon the current involved, but it is taken to be of the order of 1,000 to 5,000 amperes. The electro motive force necessary to cause a flash a mile long is probably several million volts, and of course the power of the flash measured in watts is very great, but its duration is correspondingly short.

Protection of property and life from lightning flashes has been a subject that has entrained the attention of natural philosophers since Franklin sent up his historic kite. The net result of more than a century of attempt to secure protection has been the lightning rod in its more or less inefficient forms and the discovery that buildings of modern construction, having metallic roofs and often metallic frames as well, are practically immune from attack by lightning.

The total number of deaths due to lightning in any given summer is comparatively very small—in the ratio of about one to each 200,000 population in the United States. In cities the destructive influence of lightning is exceedingly small, although occasional fires are caused by it, especially where gas pipes abound.

Protection of electric circuits from lightning has been an interesting subject for research for a number of years, and several highly efficient devices have been constructed for this purpose. Today lightning is little feared by the station superintendent and should be very little feared by any one. The time honored rule that it is wisest to keep in the open and not seek the shelter of trees is one which common prudence dictates. Recourse to the feather bed of our ancestors, however, is no longer necessary except to quiet the nerves of timorous persons, while the ancient superstitions regarding handling steel instruments and sitting in drafts may be utterly disregarded. A modern building in a city is as nearly absolutely lightning proof and those in it are as nearly absolutely protected from lightning as is possible.

Wanted, Sharp Knives.

"I have often wondered where one could find the sharp knives of the world," said an observant citizen, "and really the problem is one of some seriousness, and one, upon reflection, is almost driven to the conclusion that there are no sharp knives in the world.

"Have you ever noticed how hard it is to find a really sharp knife? Stop the first man you meet and ask him to let you have his knife for a minute and listen to what he says about it. Nine times out of ten he will say, 'I have one, but it isn't very sharp.' You may pick out your men indifferently, and they will always tell you the same thing. If a man should ask me for my knife to sharpen a lead pencil or to use for some other purpose, the chances are I would say about the same thing, 'I have one, but it isn't very sharp.'

"And really the answer thus made is generally true. Men do not keep sharp knives. It may be because they do not need sharp knives or it may be a matter of laziness, but in any event they do not carry them around with them, or if they do they always give their friend a dull one."

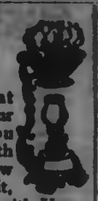
How to get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and Fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormsead & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures, and why it cures. Call to-day and see him.

How the Lover Looks at the Fire.

When a young Savoyard goes a-wooing, he pays considerably more attention to the admired one's fire than to her face. If she leaves the billets of wood undisturbed on the hearth, it is a sign that he is welcome, but should she place one of the blazing fagots in an upright position against the others it is a hint for him to take his departure.

That Spot.



Did you ever have that little tickling spot in your throat? Felt as if you could almost touch it with your finger, didn't it? How hard you tried to reach it, but couldn't! It's easy with Vapo-Cresolene, for you breathe it. There's nothing in the world equal to it for stopping those tickling coughs; and it's so pleasant, too. For asthma, croup, bronchitis, catarrh, and whooping-cough, it's the great remedy. 10

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. Vapo-Cresolene people, learning that you have read this, will send you, free, upon request, a 25 cent sample, which should last a life-time, and a booklet of 32 pages, containing testimonials from users of Cresolene, 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing "physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

QUEER OPTICAL ILLUSION.

An Interesting Experiment With a Pencil and a Wire Screen.

Professor R. W. Wood recently described a rather startling optical illusion which any one may see with a little practice. A lead pencil is held point up an inch or two in front of a wire screen with a sky background. If the eyes are converged upon the pencil point, the wire gauze becomes somewhat blurred and, of course, doubled.

As the gauze has a regularly recurring pattern, however, the two images can be united and, with a little effort, can be accommodated for distinct vision of the combined images of the mesh. As soon as accommodation is secured the mesh becomes perfectly sharp and appears to be nearly in the plane of the pencil point.

If now the pencil is moved away from the eyes, which are to be kept fixed on the screen, it apparently passes through the mesh and becomes doubled. If now the pencil is removed entirely, it will be found that the sharp images of the combined images of the gauze persist, although the eyes be moved nearer to or farther away from the screen.

Now bring the eyes up to within six or eight inches of the plane in which the mesh appears to be and attempt to touch it with the finger. It is not there. The finger falls upon empty space, the screen being in reality a couple of inches farther off.

"This," says Professor Wood, "is by all means the most startling illusion I have ever seen, for we apparently see something occupying a perfectly definite position in space before our eyes, and yet if we attempt to put our finger on it we find that there is nothing there."

One in Four Has Piles.

The Most Torturing Disease That Man has Ever Known—The Safest and Most Certain Cure is Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Of the grown-up persons you meet from day to day on in four suffers more or less from itching, bleeding or protruding piles. Mock modesty leads many to suffer in silence, others dread the surgeon's knife, and, believing an operation to be the only cure, neglect to be treated. Some have found out by actual trial that piles can be promptly relieved and thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

If you are a sufferer from this exasperating ailment and will once make a test of Dr. Chase's Ointment you will be greatful to the end of your life for having read this advertisement. It will certainly cure you, no matter what forms of piles you have, so long as you give it an honest trial.

It has been frequently remarked by persons who have used this preparation that it has probably relieved more suffering from itching skin disease than any remedy that the world has known. While remarkably effective as a cure for eczema and salt rheum, Dr. Chase's Ointment is unique as the only actual and proven cure for each and every form of piles.

Mr. W. D. Ketchison, Bailiff, 9th Division Court, Frankford, Hastings County, states:—

"I was troubled for thirty years with Itching Piles and Eczema. I could not sleep at night, and when I got warm the itching was terrible. Eczema covered my legs down to the knees—perfectly raw. I have tried every preparation I could hear of. Seeing Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised, I procured a box, and less than this one box effected a complete cure."

If you have not met with some one who has been cured of piles by Dr. Chase's Ointment, ask your neighbours about it. It is impossible to publish testimonials of persons that all readers know, but by asking your friends you are sure to hear good words for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is standard the world over and is guaranteed to cure any case of piles. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"HELPLESS WITH RHEUMATISM"

South American Rheumatic Cure, Mr. Barker says, worked a miracle in his case, and he expresses his gratitude in no uncertain sound.

Mr. S. Barker, of 9 Suffolk Place, Toronto, writes:—"It is only fair to my suffering neighbors to publicly express my great gratitude for the almost marvellous cure from Rheumatism effected in me by the use of South American Rheumatic Cure. For three months I was next door to helplessness, and my sufferings were intense, but one bottle of this great remedy saved me. It relieves in six hours. 50

THE MORBID PRINCIPLE OF RHEUMATISM IS URIC ACID.

Paine's Celery Compound DRIVES IT FROM THE BLOOD AND CURES THE DISEASE.

The Wonderful Medicine Does a Marvellous Work for Mr. G. J. McDonald, of Cornwall, Ont.

The ablest pathologists are of opinion that there is a morbid principle in the blood when rheumatism is present. This morbid principle is uric acid, which circulates with the blood and acts upon the joints and muscles, causing the pains and agonies of rheumatism.

Paine's Celery Compound is the only scientific remedy for the complete banishment of every form of rheumatism. If your joints are painful; if the knees, wrists, elbows or ankles are swollen, a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound will surely remove all your troubles and pains. A 64 page book "Diseases of the Nervous System and How to Cure Them" is sent free to any address by The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal. This book furnishes valuable Diet Lists for various diseases.

Mr. McDonald for the benefit of rheumatic sufferers writes as follows:—

"After giving your Paine's Celery Compound a thorough testing, I am pleased to say a few words in its favour. For three years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. It seemed to me that I was forced to endure all the agonies and pains that a mortal could possibly experience from that dreadful disease.

"While suffering I tried many of the advertised medicines and also doctors' prescriptions, but never found a cure until I procured a supply of Paine's Celery Compound. It worked like a charm — it seemed to strike at the very root of my trouble. I am now cured; all pains are banished, and in every respect I am a new man.

"I shall always consider it a pleasure and duty to strongly recommend Paine's Celery Compound to all who are afflicted with rheumatism."

A Fable.

One day as the Elephant was passing through the forest he came upon a Hare who had fallen into a pool and was shivering with cold, and in his good heartedness he stopped and called out:

"How, now, Mrs. Hare, but what is the trouble here?"

"Alas, but I fell into the pond and am almost dying with a chill!" wailed the Hare.

"Say you so. Ah, but we can easily remedy that. I will lie down beside you, and the heat of my body will soon make you warm and blithe again."

And the Elephant tumbled down with a grunt and a groan and observed that he was always cheerfully willing to put himself out for the sake of others, especially for the weak and helpless.

After a quarter of an hour, and not hearing from the Hare, he rose up to inquire if she felt better, and to his sorrow and consternation he discovered that he had crushed the life out of her as he laid down.

Moral: Our friends injure us more than our enemies.

Catastrophe of the Oneida.

One of the most extraordinary catastrophies that have befallen vessels of the United States destroyed the sloop of war Oneida in 1809. She was bound homeward, with a jolly ship's company, eager to see wives and sweethearts and native land once more, when not far out of port she was struck by the British steamer Bombay coming in. The stem of the Bombay cut off the stern of the Oneida. The ship was sinking rapidly, and guns of distress were immediately fired, but the Bombay steamed on her way and left the vessel to her doom. She went down, and all but one or two of her crew were drowned.

The captain of the Bombay gave no other reason for his conduct than that he had Lady Eyre, the wife of a distinguished British satrap, on board and did not wish to disturb her nerves with scenes of shipwreck. He was mobbed when he reached Yokohama, dismissed from the service, socially tabooed from that time on and died in disgrace a year or two later.

Unlucky Day Superstitions.

In Grafton's manual of his chronicles, 1565, the unlucky days, according to the opinions of the astronomers, are named as follows: Jan. 1, 2, 4, 5, 10, 15, 17 and 20 are unlucky; Feb. 26, 27 and 28 unlucky, 8, 10 and 17 very unlucky; March 16, 17 and 20 very unlucky; April 7, 8, 10 and 20 unlucky; May 3 and 6 unlucky, 7, 15 and 20 very unlucky; June 10 and 22 unlucky, 4 and 8 very unlucky; Aug. 20 and 30 unlucky, 19 and 20 very unlucky; Sept. 3, 4, 21 and 23 unlucky, 6 and 7 very unlucky; Oct. 4, 16 and 24 unlucky, 6 very unlucky; Nov. 5, 6, 29 and 30 unlucky, 15 and 20 very unlucky; Dec. 15 and 22 unlucky, 6, 7 and 9 very unlucky.

A Knock out for Asthma.

You have had many disappointments, filled your stomach with nasty drugs, tried lots of things, but they all failed. Not being a stomach complaint, of course Asthma can't be cured by stomach medicine. But Catarrhozone cures Asthma; it gives it a tired feeling in about 15 minutes. Inhale Catarrhozone; it makes breathing easy, cures the cough, makes you well. Doctors say there is nothing like Catarrhozone for Asthma. 25 cents and $1.00.

American's Superior Schools.

In spite of excessive decentralization and the lack of a regulative central authority America has, by making education a local concern, by confiding to each district the organization and control of its schools, by insisting on free public schools in the true sense of these much abused words, created a system which, in spite of its crudeness and obvious imperfections, may yet excite our envy, both as it brings education, secondary as well as primary, within the reach of all and as it is capable of infinite self development and progress, unshackled by the dead hand of ecclesiasticism and departmental routine. —London Chronicle.

SPIRIT SLATE WRITING.

How the Mysterious Sentences Are Prepared In Advance.

Spiritualistic slate writing, if cleverly done, always makes a marked impression on a magician's audience because it utterly baffles their efforts to detect the trick. They see a small cabinet suspended above the stage by means of cords or ribbons. It has an open front and is empty. The magician turns it around so that every part of it may be seen and taps it inside and out with his wand to show that it is hollow.

On a stand near by he has a small easel, a common school slate, a bottle of india ink with a quill pen in it and a few sheets of ordinary white writing paper. All these he passes around among the audience for examination. Then he fixes a sheet of the paper to the slate by means of wafers, places the slate on the easel and the easel in the cabinet, together with the bottle of ink, the latter having the pen still in it.

Having allowed the audience to see the articles thus arranged in the cabinet, he throws a large silk handkerchief over it. Mysterious sounds are immediately heard, and the cabinet shakes as if some living thing had entered it. When the sounds and the shaking cease, he removes the handkerchief, showing an inscription written in bold black letters on the paper and the pen not in the ink bottle, but lying on the bottom of the cabinet. He then removes the paper from the slate and passes it around for examination, when the writing is immediately recognized as having been done with India ink.

The explanation of the trick is simple. The writing was done in advance by the performer, the fluid used being a solution of sulphuric acid of the purest quality. To make the solution 50 drops of the concentrated acid are added to one ounce of filtered water. Writing done with this solution is invisible until exposed to heat. When so exposed, it comes out perfectly black, looking exactly like dried India ink.

The heat is applied by means of an electric current running over wire with which the slate is wound. The cords by which the cabinet is suspended conceal copper wires, which conduct the current to the slate. Black silk threads suitably attached enable the performer to make the sounds in the cabinet, to cause the cabinet to shake and to jerk the pen out of the ink bottle.

Several sheets of paper are prepared in advance, each with a different inscription, the performer telling one inscription from another by secretly marked pin pricks.

Successful and Pleasing Work When the Diamond Dyes are Used.

Do You Wish to See the DIAMOND DYE MAT AND RUG PATTERNS?

The mothers, wives and daughters of Canada, who buy fully eighty-five per cent. of all goods consumed in the home, should be extremely careful when they purchase dyes for home-dyeing. Some dealers for the sake of large profits are selling poor imitations of the Diamond Dyes, under other names, assuring their customers they are as good as the genuine Diamond Dyes. This low form of deception should be watched by all. In every case insist upon getting the genuine Diamond Dyes; the name appears on each package. If you would like to see the newest designs for mats and floor rugs send your address to the Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will send you free by mail sheets of the "Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns."

Keeping at It.

There is a very old but very good story about a boy who was engaged one winter day in putting a ton of coal into a cellar. His only implement was a small fire shovel. Noticing this, a benevolent old gentleman expressed surprise and commiseration.

"My son," said the gentleman, "you surely do not expect to put in all that coal with that little shovel?"

"Oh, yes, I do," replied the boy cheerfully. "All I have to do is to keep at it."

There is a lesson in this story for young and old, and it is exemplified in the lives of the great men of the world. It is a mistake to suppose that the best work of the world is done by people of great strength and many opportunities. "Keeping at it" is the secret of success. —Exchange.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,335,92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,273.76.

THOMAS AND NANCY LINCOLN.

"'Tis ni ter thankless carried," prayed
This kindly, reverent man,
Content to hold a lowly place
In God's ordered plan:
Content by prairie, wood and stream
The common lot to share
Or help a neighbor in his need
Some grievous weight to bear,
Then trustfully resigned the life
That had fulfilled his prayer.

And she in Indiana's grave
This many a year who lies—
Mother and wife whose yearning dull
Looked chilly from her eyes—
Who, dying, called her children close
As the last shadow fell
And bade them ever worship God
And love each other well,
Then to her forest grave was borne,
The wind her funeral knell!

So done, so lone, who could have dreamed
The boy her bed beside Forth from that cabin door would walk
Among earth's glorified?
But, lo, his name from sea to sea
Gives patriotism wings;
Upon his brow a crown is set
Grander than any king's,
And in them hearts among his dear
Tender remembrance brings.

Ah, still the humble God doth choose
The subject to confound;
Still them that fear and follow him
His angels encamp around,
And while by Indiana's woods
Ohio, murmuring, flows
And Illinois' queen lovely shine
In sunset's parting glows;
While Lincoln's name is dear, our hearts
Will believe their repose.

THE SHROUD OF THE SEA

A Thrilling Story of Marine Adventure....

"You don't believe me. Well, look for yourself." The speaker pointed to where a greenish patch stained the rich blue of the sea, close under the cliff.

The other glanced supercilliously in the direction indicated. "I see nothing," he said, "that might not be caused by a shoal of small fish or a patch of seaweed. It is probably another of those blunders into which your too lively imagination has led you." He spoke with a sarcastic emphasis which made the younger man flush hotly.

"I tell you, Haynes," he replied sarcastically, "there is no mistake about this thing. Ask Julio. There is not a fisherman on the coast who doesn't believe in the manta rayo."

Haynes turned a cold gray eye upon his subordinate. "Do you mean to tell me, Leigh," he said, "that you are going to bring forward the superstitions of a parcel of ignorant Mexicans as proof of scientific fact? I hardly think Mr. Grant would be pleased to hear you talk so."

"I think," said Leigh quietly, "that your attitude in the matter is more to be deplored than mine."

Haynes came as near losing his temper as his cold nature ever allowed him. "The burden of proof is with you," he said acridly. "Bring a specimen of your precious rays aboard. Then you can talk. But"—with a fresh sneer—"I forgot. According to Julio, the beast is too terrible to be caught. I suppose I shall have to go and examine your green patch myself. Perhaps a few specimens of it in a shrimp net will set your mind at rest."

Leigh's eyes gleamed, but he made no reply, and, Haynes leading the way, the two men returned to their boat and pulled to the yacht.

* * * * * * * *

Mr. Harold Grant was a millionaire who spent his millions wisely. His hobby was sea exploration. A new fish or an uncharted island was more to him than any pleasures land offered.

Mrs. Grant had been dead for years, but Nellie Grant, a pretty girl of twenty, accompanied her father on his long cruises in his splendid 2,000 ton yacht, the Athena.

Dr. Haynes was in charge of the scientific side of these expeditions. Young Frank Leigh had been lately chosen by the millionaire as assistant naturalist. This was his first voyage, and he thoroughly enjoyed the work. He would have been quite happy if it had not been for the strong dislike his superior had conceived for him and which he wasted no opportunity of showing. The fact was that Haynes, attracted as much by the young lady's prospects as her beauty, had made up his mind to marry Miss Nellie, and he was furious with Frank for his manners, looks and youth, in all of which points he felt his own inferiority.

When off Samoa, some weeks before, Frank Leigh had caught a fish which he imagined to be a new species and wished to name after Mr. Grant. Haynes had succeeded in proving that the fish was already classified and had never ceased to taunt the younger man with his mistake. Now that Leigh imagined himself on the track of some discovery he was giving his top[illegible] rein.

The Athena lay in Guaymas bay, on the Pacific coast of Mexico. It was here that Leigh, who spoke Spanish, learned from a fisherman, Julio Montijas, of the manta rayo, a creature which seemed peculiar to a short stretch of this volcanic coast and of which he could find no description in any work on the subject.

At dinner that night Haynes began again. "Leigh," he said, "you will have to hurry up and catch that pet nightmare of yours. I hear we sail the day after tomorrow."

"What nightmare are you talking about?" inquired Nellie, with interest, looking at Frank.

Haynes cut in: "Oh, Leigh and one of these Greaser fishermen have invented a new sort of devilfish. They have even decided where it lives."

Every one stopped eating and listened. Frank got hot and uncomfortable.

"What is the creature?" asked Mr. Grant.

"It is what the fishermen call the manta raya, or striped mantle, Mr. Grant," said Leigh. "Another name for it is 'shroud of the sea.' So far as I can understand, it is a creature of the octopus family, but has this remarkable peculiarity, that it does not live like other large cuttlefish on the bottom, but hangs just below the wash of the sea, ready to ingulf anything that floats across it. Its body is wider and thinner than that of the octopus, and I should fancy it is an even lower organism, partaking more of the nature of the flytrap among plants. Some of the men declare it grows large enough to pull down a boat. There is little doubt, however, that it can catch and [illegible] a swimmer. A man called Jimdolos testified to so lost his life, and the very spot where it happened is near where we are anchored."

"What a dreadful creature!" broke in Miss Grant. "Do be careful where you bathe, Mr. Leigh."

"No need to warn Leigh about that," said Haynes. "He wouldn't even row with me today to the place where this monster lurked."

The yacht's second officer, a man called Henson, smiled. So did one or two others. Haynes went on, encouraged:

"Tell you what I'll do, Leigh. Tomorrow morning I'll have out the small dingey and row to the fatal spot, and I dare you to come with me and bathe off the rock near by."

"I must decline to do anything of the sort," said Leigh very quietly. "But I will follow you in the skiff and only hope you will not need my assistance."

"Better not," said Haynes offensively. "The pretty creature might catch you as well."

Henson laughed again. Nellie looked uncomfortable. Fortunately dinner was just over.

Later Mr. Grant met Leigh on deck. "Leigh," he said, rather sharply, "I hope that you have some grounds for your assertions at dinner. Haynes thinks it is all nonsense, and you know how I dislike any unpleasantness of this kind. Have you seen the creature?"

"Julio Montijas pointed out to me a green patch which lies always behind that pillarlike rock under the cliff. He says that his cousin Leudejas was upset near there from his boat and that this green patch closed over him and pulled him down."

"Humph! I don't think much of fishermen's tales!" said Mr. Grant.

Leigh went to his bunk feeling sore and unhappy.

* * * * * * * *

Half a dozen people, including Mr. Grant and his daughter, were on top of the cliff next morning when Haynes, in a bathing suit, came pulling across from the yacht in the dingey.

Nellie, with her fieldglasses, watched Frank Leigh stowing a couple of large brown jars under the thwarts of the skiff. Then he got into her and followed.

It was only a quarter of a mile from the yacht to where the great rock rose in the purple shadow of the cliff. The merest ghost of a breeze stirred a dainty ripple on the surface of the water and added brilliance to its reflection of the blue above.

Haynes jammed a boathook into a cleft of the rock, looped the boat's painter around it, and, letting the little craft swing with the tide, prepared to dive over the stern.

At that moment Nellie Grant, whose eyes had been fixed on that puzzling greenish patch which still swayed uncertainly beneath the ripple, screamed:

"Father, it's moving!"

Haynes heard the cry and looked up. The strong light on the water made it impossible for him to see below the surface as those on the cliff could.

"Hold on, Haynes!" came Mr. Grant's voice strong and clear from above.

"Get back to the rock!"—screamed Nellie.

Haynes looked around him. The purple of the limpid water was changing to an ugly greenish yellow hue. He stepped hastily back to the bow, untied the rope and began pulling the boat back to the rock. In his haste he pulled the boathook loose. The boat, released, began softly moving into the channel between the rock and the base of the cliff.

Haynes jumped for the oars. He was conscious of loud shouts from the top of the cliff. The water swirled around the boat like the mouth of a whirlpool. He got the oars into the rowlocks and began pulling desperately. But, at the first stroke, he became aware that the blades were fast in a tangle of something. He tried to wrench them free. One broke in two, the other was torn from his grasp. The weed—yes, it was nothing but seaweed—was rising to the surface all around him. How silly to be frightened by a mere raft of seaweed! But what an ugly color it was, striped with dull brown and livid green! And what a lot of it! Ugh! It was rising and climbing on to the boat. Great, flabby, dripping, half transparent leaves were wrapping themselves all around the stern. They were crawling over the bow too. And the boat was lower in the water. It was sinking, gradually being pulled under.

Haynes sprang to his feet again and with the broken oar began striking savagely at the monstrous thing which was enveloping him. He might as well have beaten the sea. The blows glided off the tough, slippery surface. Slowly, but with a deadly, relentless perfidecity, the living shroud of death rose on every side, and inch by inch the boat drew down till the water was but an inch from the gunwale.

The watchers on the cliff were silent now. They stared, frozen, at the creeping horror below.

At that instant something else glided into the scene of action. Leigh, standing in the skiff and guiding it skillfully with a paddle, shot up. Keeping carefully clear of the wide set tentacles of the rays he quickly flung one of his brown jars against the bow of Haynes' boat.

A hissing steam arose, and a brilliant flame played across the surface of the water. The clammy hands relaxed. A sob of relief came from above. But the vast weight which still clung to the stern of the dingey was rapidly pulling it under. Leigh seized the other jar and smashed it against the stern post. More folds fell away, the water bubbled and turned black as the scorched monster emptied his ink bag.

But the dingey was full and sinking.

"Jump!" roared some one above. Spurred by terror, Haynes sprang ten feet, clear of the eddying coils, and Leigh pulled him, panting, into the skiff.

* * * * * * * *

"I've used every bit of potassium in the laboratory, Mr. Grant," said Leigh apologetically, when he met his employer on his return to the yacht.

"You need common sense, my boy," returned Mr. Grant, shaking his hand cordially. "Haynes owes his life to you, and I owe you an apology for speaking as I did last night."

"Don't mention it, sir. But I am sorry I have not a specimen of the rays for you. Won't you wait a few days, and let me try?"

"We leave here tonight," said the millionaire decidedly. Then, smiling, "Those are my daughter's orders, Mr. Leigh."—Penny Pictorial Magazine.

Retrospect.

It is an evil day for the wife and mother when the scans her worn face in the mirror, and asks the question, "Does it pay? Does it pay to sacrifice health and happiness [illegible]?" But there is another question which rightly takes precedence of Does it pay? It is this: "Is it necessary to sacrifice health and happiness to wedded love?" Half a million women answer, No! They have been weak and have been made strong by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. They were sick and "Favorite Prescription" made them well. It will do the same for almost every woman who gives it a fair and faithful trial. It stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves and encourages the appetite.

"I expected to become a mother, and a threatened miscarriage greatly unstrung me," writes Mrs. E. A. Nations, of Wits Springs, Searcy Co., Ark. "Send my old pamphlet returned. My husband got another doctor for me but I seemed to just drag along and get no better. At last I told the doctor that if his medicine did not help me I would go back to Dr. Pierce's medicine. I did so, and by the time I had taken them one month I could do my own housework, except washing, and tended my garden too. I was stouter than I had ever been while waiting baby's coming since my first baby came (this one was the sixth child). She is now eleven months old and is a healthy child. As for me, I feel as young now as I did at eighteen years of age; am thirty now. I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all suffering womankind."

From Foes to Friends.

During a charge of the Dublin Fusiliers in the South African war an Irish lad stumbled into a sconce and almost on top of a hiding Boer. He was so close that he managed to run him through the shoulder with his bayonet at the same time as the burgher fired his rifle from his hip. They both fell wounded, one on top of the other, and lay there while the battle swept on beyond them. All at once the Irishman heard a suspicious gurgling sound. It was not the death rattle of his opponent, but came from the tin water bottle that the Boer was applying to his lips. The Irishman, who was not badly wounded, touched the Boer on his elbow.

"My friend," he said, "could you spare me a little of that?"

"Certainly," said the Boer in good English, and handed it over.

It contained something stronger than water and the man from Dublin smacked his lips. The bottle passed to and fro several times and they began to grow talkative. They helped tie up each other's wounds and were discussing their families, avoiding the painful subject of the war, when a bearer company searching the battlefield found them.

BLACK DRESSES.

They Can Be Made to Perform a Multitude of Services.

Black is now being so much worn that it is possible to be well dressed with only two or three gowns. A black bolero and skirt for morning and general wear are most useful. The tucked silk coats are smart with fancy collars and are certainly smarter than cloth coats to wear with separate skirts and dresses. A loose muslin frock and a linen skirt, look quite smart with a silk coat for country or seashore wear, but they require a smart hat, a parasol and gloves.

The skirt of a thin black gown of some crapy material over glace silk is useful with blouses in black and white or transparent muslin or lace. Unlined blouses are invaluable in black. They must have transparent yokes, and it is advisable to have one underbodice of white and another of black silk.

A thoroughly up to date black evening gown is made of black chantilly lace over white taffeta. The gown is so simple it hardly needs description. It is made with elbow sleeves, which terminate with big puffs of chiffon. The odd part consists in a collarless yoke of tucked white chiffon, which reaches well over the shoulders and gives a quaint, old fashioned effect.

The hat is of black mousseline de soie trimmed with a flat bow and two long ostrich tips. JUDGE CROLLEY.

SEDIMENT IN THE URINE

One of the Indications of Serious Kidney Trouble, That Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets Completely Cures.

Sediment in the urine, no matter what its nature, whether it be brick dust, white particles floating through through it, or slimy deposits, is indicative of serious kidney derangement.

There is no remedy can so quickly clear up the system and cure the kidney trouble as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets—the modern medicine for backache, kidney, bladder and urinary disorders.

Mr. W. Patterson, electrician, Whitby, Ont., says:—"Permit me to say that the bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets I got at the store of J. E. Willis, druggist, Whitby, has done me a great deal of good. I have tried other kidney remedies without result, and find in these just what I want. My water, that used to be dark, had and full of sediment, is now clear, and my bowels move easily, regularly and gently, with no griping. I have worked steadily and the pain I used to suffer with is gone entirely."

RHEUMATISM

KINDS, CAUSE AND CURE.

Rheumatism of any kind is always attended with pain. There are in reality but two causes, although they manifest themselves in five or six different forms of rheumatism. Muscular rheumatism, in which the muscles in different parts of the body are inflamed, swollen and painful; joint rheumatism, heart rheumatism and lumbago all have their origin in the blood. This indicates a kidney weakness and demands a kidney treatment. Then sciatica, neuralgia and shooting pain rheumatism has its origin in a vitiated condition of the nerves, from a general run-down condition of the blood. In each of the above forms and for all manifested symptoms of rheumatism there is no medicine which offers such a chance for cure as Merrill's System Tonic. It is not only a kidney medicine, but its blood purifying properties rid the system of all accumulated uric acid. Then, too, System Tonic is the greatest tonic, blood, bone and tissue maker known, and will enrich the blood, feed and revive the starved nerves, thus making a cure for your rheumatism from whatever cause. Several hundred hopeless cases have already been cured, and more are being cured every day. Will you try it?

CHAPTER V.

It only takes six hours to cover the distance between the two cities, but the storm was so heavy, we were just twice that length of time reaching our destination. Our cars were comfortably upholstered with a liberal supply of mattresses, pillows and blankets, unknown in the early portion of our trip, and the greater part of the time was spent leisurely reposing in the sleeping berths, every one of which had its occupant. We greatly appreciated these comforts, but life was something more than sleep, and we were doubly assured of this, when minus a breakfast, having made no provision for emergencies. Someone said the company had made a mistake, and attached a stationary engine to our train. I don't think this reasonable, since we reached Levis at 11 a.m. It's a poor wind that blows nobody good. Our long fast, from six o'clock the evening before, had whetted the boys' appetite to a razor-like edge, and when they entered the refreshment room the mistress was utterly unable to supply the heavy and insatiable demands for sandwiches, cake and coffee. The boys had ample time to appease the yearning demands of the inner man, and I, generally cautious, you know, grew alarmed at the abnormal capacity of some of our smaller men, and was about to inquire if there was a cooper shop near by where I could secure a supply of hoops to brace them up a bit, when a timely order to vacate the room obviated the necessity of this precaution. At 10 o'clock we had our horses and baggage unloaded, and proceeded to the wharf where we embarked on the ferry boat, which was to carry us across the majestic St. Lawrence. As we stood at anchor on the southern shore and looked over the river, the yawning and sullen guns, as they bristled and frowned on the parapets of the ancient citadel grimly spoke defiance. The wind was high and cold, and as it swept the bare, unprotected decks of the little vessel, as it pitched and tossed among the broken sheets of ice, it made both man and horse shiver like autumn leaves. There are two of these vessels in the Quebec-Levis squadron plying between the two cities every few minutes. Each ferry boat, I learned on enquiry, was solid for 15 feet at bow and stern to encounter the destructive influence of the ice. If the river should become frozen or the vessel collide with a large block of ice, a knife-like instrument placed in a vertical position at the bow enables her to plough through the flow without any serious obstruction or delay. The broken sheets of ice were so thick that the little barque reeled like a drunken man, and it was quite difficult to retain an upright position.

When we reached the farther shore at a point immediately under the frowning guns, we disembarked and collected our baggage. As usual there was a long delay, cause unknown, during which many of us suffered severely from the cold. One young man in particular, was very unfortunate in this respect, having fallen asleep the night before with his new boots on the steam radiator in the car. It is unnecessary to say, even Government leather won't permit of such a crucial test as this without serious and damaging results. None were more convinced of this than the poor fellow himself, who wandered about in the deep snow with his toes exposed to the mercy of an Arctic winter. The long expected order to advance came at last, and we wandered around narrow streets and crooked lanes as we slowly wended our way up Citadel Hill. The snow being deep, and our accoutrements a little cumbrous when the summit was reached we were somewhat fatigued. A non-commissioned officer of the Royal Canadian Artillery, met us, and escorted the troop to our quarters. They were located in that portion of the ancient fortress known as the Chain-Gate Barracks, and from careful observation I concluded the style of architecture belonged to an order in vogue during the antediluvian or prehistoric ages. We followed our leader with breathless silence, in fact, thought we were going down a shaft into a mine. We travelled through about 45 feet of gradual declining hole, with a vaulted roof, and as dark as midnight, when we found ourselves confronted with a door. The sergeant understood the combination, and entered, took two steps down on to a platform, and two more in the same direction landed us on a level with the floor of our quarters. The form of man had not haunted it for almost a century, except a few of the 1st Contingent, who occupied it for a night previous to their departure from Quebec. It had been used as a cartridge factory, and was reported to be bomb-proof. History fails to recall the time when it was used as sleeping quarters for troops, and while I will not question the veracity of it being bomb-proof, I can fearlessly declare it far from being peat proof. The room would be, I presume, 20 feet long and 20 feet wide, and had a single stove in the centre to keep it warm. The old stove strove nobly to heat the house; its sides and pipes frequently assumed a ruddy glow, but the room was, alas, never warm. The frost was, without exaggeration, from one quarter to half an inch thick on the walls, and when it melted the water streamed down in large drops from the ceiling. Dark, damp and dreary was the subterranean dungeon. There were no means of ventilation, and the only light we had was generously furnished day and night by a solitary lamp, with a chimney so deeply clad in mourning that scarcely a ray of light would gain egress through the heavy pall that encompassed it. Our bedding was always damp, and there were few (I don't know of any) who escaped contracting some throat or pulmonary trouble.

Having got settled in our quarters, we repaired to the mess room for dinner, which really was our breakfast, and I couldn't help smiling to myself at the dejeuner in store for the boys, some of whom had never before worn a uniform while others had never experienced what it really meant to soldier on Government rations. When we entered the commodious dining apartments a strange wave of dejection seemed to pass over the happy countenances of many of my friends as they wistfully gazed about for Montreal's choicest viands and genial waiters. The snowy table linen and glistening silverware were conspicuous by their absence. The meats were served in a large platter, or the pan in which they were cooked, and each man took his own ice-cold plate, and helped himself, or the orderly who, if present, waited on you. By the time you had resumed your position at the table your meal was as cold as the plate and the gravy converted into choice lard. The cutlery and spoons were not always scrupulously clean, and being dinner, there was neither tea nor coffee. The old proverb, "the early bird gets the worm," was well exemplified in the mess, for if you weren't present promptly on time the early bird might possibly have captured two, one of which rightfully belonged to you. Some of the heroes were quite indignant, and I knew one or two who contemplated desertion. One young man said he would write home, and have his mother send him some cakes and a turkey. The poor fellow was an intimate friend of mine, and I am sorry he wasn't as good as his word, for I was living in glorious anticipation of having at least one sumptuous repast in Quebec. But, alas, I was doomed to disappointment, the turkey went to grace or somewhere else, but never came my way.

'Twas ever thus from childhood's hour,
I've seen my fondest hopes decay.
—Moore.

Many of the "boys in khaki" did more or less grumbling, and would approach the older veterans with a forlorn look, endeavouring to elicit sympathy or to ascertain if there was any likelihood for an improvement. When we informed them they were receiving regular Government rations, with a few additional luxuries, and the prospect for improvement was dark and gloomy, anything indeed but encouraging, they would unhesitatingly denounce the authorities, with a long, unbroken chain of choice epithets, carefully selected from several languages, but never heard in Sunnday Schools, nor used by theological students. If this was soldiering on Government rations with luxuries, they wanted to know by the powers that be, what soldiering on Government rations without luxuries was likely to be. They repeatedly said they were no members, but I was always of the opinion they judged their time. The real cause for complaint, I believe was due to the rather exalted opinion some few dissatisfied individuals had of themselves, and they imagined the Government should treat them with uncommon respect, but they had no legal claim to such, and the rest of us quite enjoyed their humiliation. Soldiering means something more than beer and skittles, and when you don the uniform, you must lay aside your sensitiveness, and self-esteem with your civilian garments, or they will embroil you in a thousand tribulations, and make your life one of misery. When you are in the service of your country as a soldier, you must be as innocent and ignorant of things in general as an infant. Take all the abuse you get good-naturedly and thank the Lord it wasn't worse and more of it. Never attempt to return any or refuse to accept it, for your superiors are very generous in this respect, and will, despite your most earnest protestations, lavishly bestow it upon you, and they would be very angry indeed if you even intimated that their magnanimity was rather excessive. They apparently consider it more blessed to give than to receive. You need have no grave apprehension for a deficit in the supply, either, for they have enough for each, enough for all, and enough for evermore. They will tell you that you are not supposed to know anything, but simply act like a machine at the pleasure of your commander. Our officers found this doctrine the most difficult to impress, for we would incessantly assert our disapproval, and doubt its authenicity. What a happy and enviable position to occupy, free from all cares, responsibility, ambition and knowledge. However, this rests solely on a basis of supposition. It seems to me military law is very unreasonable and unjust. Here is a man, an agnostic, plain and simple; military law declares his brain a vacuum, and yet when he sets in a manner becoming this condition of affairs mentally, this same ordinance places him under arrest and punishes him severely for his ignorance. Who says there is no room for any reform?

But I must return to the citadel once more. A general description of this ancient fortress would be of interest to many, but our readers must know military law will not permit anyone to describe any fortification or war vessel for national defence. Visitors, consequently, are requested to leave all cameras, and other instruments for securing photos or plans of the fortress, in charge of the guard at the main entrance. However, I shall tell you a little about the fort, that will not incriminate me as a betrayer of the trust reposed in me as a "Soldier of the Queen." A member of the Royal Canadian Artillery acted as guide to a pair of us and gave us a concise, yet very interesting history of the fort. Soldiers I find as a general rule do not cling tenaciously to truth, except when nothing else will answer the purpose but whether our guide followed the rule or was the exception, I cannot say. At all events he made some remarks, that seemed if not entirely false, at least exaggerations. He said the grounds inside the outer walls, contained forty-two acres. There were several forts, a military prison, bomb-proof hospital, magazine and a state residence for His Excellency the Governor General, within the enclosure. None of these excited my curiosity so much however as a little brass cannon, salvaged from the Americans at "Bunker Hill." It was about the size of a modern maxim and since this type of field ordnance was never again used in battle, we may infer it proved a failure or was superseded by some more destructive weapon. We followed our escort to the south-west corner of the outer-wall, and mounted King's bastion, three hundred and seventy five feet above the water-level of the majestic St. Lawrence. It is said the view from this elevation is unrivalled in America, we had a most magnificent view of Levis and the valley of the St. Charles River. Far away in the distance were the Laurentian mountains, and the long level expanse of fertile plain with its humble homes and cottages, presented a very imposing picture. Turning to our right, in the near foreground was Wolfe's ravine still a wooded defile, with the historic Plains of Abraham a little more remote. Montcalm's trenches can be quite distinctly outlined, and as I leaned on a nine-inch gun, surveying the bloody field of carnage, strange visions of contesting armies loomed up in my mind, and I thought of the many gracious lives both French and English that ebbed out thereon, to decide the destiny of this Canada of ours. Had Montcalm remained inside the walls, it is very doubtful if Wolfe would have ever accomplished the capture of the city. His impetuosity and military prowess however ruled his better judgment, and he marched out with bold defiance, at the head of his army, composed of regulars and volunteers. His feeling of surprise can be better imagined than described when the intelligence of Wolfe's unexpected landing above the town was conveyed to him by the Marquis de Vaudreuil, about day break. He would not give it credence, observing, "It is only Mr. Wolfe, with a small party, come to burn a few houses, look about him and return." On being informed that Wolfe was actually at that moment in possession of the Plains of Abraham, he replied, "Then they have at last reached the weak side of this miserable garrison; therefore we must endeavour to crush them by our numbers and scalp them all before twelve o'clock." Wolfe had cleverly scaled a most precipitous cliff, and it is a marvel how he ever accomplished the daring feat, much less successfully drew a cannon up the height. Montcalm was twice wounded, once by a musket ball while fighting in the front rank of the French left, and afterwards by a discharge from the only gun in the possession of the English. The latter proved fatal, and on being informed that he couldn't survive more than 18 hours at most, he replied, "So much the better; then I shall not live to see the surrender of Quebec." In the afternoon he was visited by some of the officials, and received his instructions regarding the further defence of the city; "I will neither give orders nor interfere any further," he answered with emotion, "I have much business that must be attended to of greater moment than this ruined garrison and this wretched country. My time is very short, so please leave me. I wish you all comfort and to be happily extricated from your present perplexities. Gentlemen, I commend to your keeping the honour of France, endeavour to secure the retreat of my army to-night beyond Cape Rouge; for myself, I shall pass the night with God, and prepare myself for death."

It will be of interest to members of the First Contingent to know that Campbell's livery stable, on St. Louis street, where many of our horses were quartered during our stay in Quebec, marks the site of the doctor's office into which Montcalm was carried, only to die. No less glorious was the death of England's heroic general, Wolfe. Thrice wounded, he still fought on; but the firm clutch of death had robbed him of his strength. Sinking to earth, and, while in the awful throes of death, he overheard the remark, "See! they run!" With resolute power he raised himself on one elbow, and asked, "Who run?" On being told, "The enemy, sir," he replied, "Thank God, I die happy." These two brave generals sleep together in death, and an imposing monument in Governor's Gardens, around which we daily exercised our horses, commemorates their noble sacrifice, and will perpetuate their memory so long as Canada remains a nation.

WHY DEAFNESS IS SO COMMON IN CANADA.

To answer the question why Deafness is so common an ailment among Canadians, the medical profession at once point out the severe changes in the climate that occur, especially during the spring and fall months, when people are exposed to taking sudden chills, as the result of great variations of temperature. The nose, throat, and ears are so intimately connected that these repeated colds in the head are certain to affect the hearing at some time, especially if the acute inflammations of the nasal membranes are allowed to become chronic, and thus to assume a catarrhal condition.

The danger lies in the insidious manner in which the catarrhal inflammation creeps along the membranes, through the nose and the throat, and up the eustachian tube into the middle ear, thickening the lining of the middle ear and of the inner side of the tympanic membrane or ear drum. Not only is this progress of the disease unperceived, but the inevitable dullness of hearing comes on so slowly that many people allow the deafness to pass unperceived, until they can hear a watch tick only when pressed against the ear, instead of hearing the sound at a distance of 1 1-2 to 2 yards as they should with perfect ears.

When a person realizes that the hearing is seriously impaired, the case is often given up as hopeless, because so many people say that deafness is incurable. While this was true at a time when the medical profession were baffled by the difficulties of applying treatment to the inner structures of the ear, it has remained for Dr. Drouet to point out the way to cure deafness by utilizing the well known absorbent properties of the skin. Starting with this principle, Drouet worked out the formula of a plastic preparation in the shape of a crescent, to be applied to the mastoid apophysis, the arched portion of the skull behind the ear, which exactly covers the delicate internal structures of the organ of hearing. The active properties of this preparation are gradually absorbed, and reaching the inner ear, the work of regeneration begins. Where there is an inflammation of the nose or throat, an auxiliary treatment is used to subdue this affection, and where there is a discharge from the ear antiseptic precautions are also taken.

This is the whole secret of the success of the Drouet treatment, a success that has become so widely spread in less than a decade, that there have been established Drouet Institutes for the treatment of the Deaf in London, in Paris, and in Brussels. Drouet Institutes are also promised for Canada and the States, but our readers who wish immediate treatment, can address the Drouet Institute, 72, Regent's Park-road, London, England, and the Secretary will promptly send them all the needful information, together with a pathological report form, which will enable them to give a detailed description of their case, and then place the consulting surgeon in a position to prescribe the treatment necessary for their cure.

MARCH PAST THE DUKE.

Duke of Cornwall and York, the son of our alumnus and beloved King, nurtured under the auspicious care of Victoria, our most excellent Queen and Empress, that he may have the degree of Doctor of Laws honoris causa."

The Degree Conferred.

The Chancellor's reply in conferring the degree was likewise in Latin. Sir William said: "Most illustrious Prince, I, by my own authority, and that of the whole University, admit you to the degree of Doctor of Laws, and I thus receive you (extending his hand), the hope of the Empire, into our body."

The scroll of parchment was then presented to the Duke, who retired from his place to sign the historic roll of the University. The presentation was the signal for three cheers, and the singing of "The Red, White and Blue" by the students in the gallery and below.

Very dignified and impressive the Chancellor appeared as he rose to read the address from the University to His Royal Highness.

The Duke's Reply.

Among other things in terse English, in reply, the Duke said:

"I deeply appreciate the high honor of a degree in your distinguished University, which you have just conferred upon me. At the same time you have reminded me that the undergraduates' roll bears the name of my dear father, (Applause), and, I further notice, he has remained in that position for more than forty years. (Applause.)

THE ROYAL RECEPTION.

Dazzling Throng of Statesmen, Judges, Stately Matrons and Fair Maids—2,000 in All Attend.

Queen's Park last night saw the social side of the ducal visit brought to a brilliant climax. For the nonce a portion of the ancient and storied Court of St. James was transferred from London to Toronto, and thousands flocked together to do homage to the heir to Britain's throne, and his royal spouse.

It had been announced that Their Royal Highnesses would hold a reception in the Parliament Buildings at 9 o'clock and long before that hour carriages began to stream from all points of the city to the common centre. As the arriving guests swung into Queen's Park they entered a fairyland of light. Chinese lanterns swung in hundreds along the great tree-planted avenues and the Legislative pile itself lifted its lines and brilliantly illuminated belt against the sky.

This outward brightness was only a forerunner of the still more brilliant scene to be beheld within the building. The Union Jack was much in evidence and above the Speaker's chair was set the Royal Coat of Arms and the royal standard.

At the reception which began at ten minutes to 10 o'clock the Duke wore the dark blue uniform of an Admiral of the British Navy, and the Duchess was attired in a gown of black lisse. A diamond coronet adorned her head and a diamond necklace her throat, and she were the insignia of the Order of Victoria and Albert.

On reaching the throne the Duke and Duchess and the Earl and Countess took up a position on the lower step thereof. The reception then proceeded, a few of the most prominent men and women of the nation being admitted by a private doorway and presented first. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's courtly figure, clad in the resplendent Windsor uniform of a King's Privy Councillor, was the first to come down the brilliant double line of military officers. On reaching the dais as aide announced his name, the Premier bowed slightly, and the Duke of York warmly shook his hand. The Duchess received him in the same gracious manner, and the Earl and Countess also shook hands with the Premier. Lady Lautier accompanied him and then followed the Dominion and Provincial cabinet Ministers and their wives, the High Court judges and other notables, the royal party graciously shaking the hand of each person. Then the less distinguished visitors followed in an unending line.

For two hours and twenty minutes—from 9.50 p.m. till 12.10 a.m.—the crush outside the chamber doors continued, and the long line of guests filed before the royal and viceregal couples. The struggle at the entrance was at times terrific, and many women came near to the fainting point. But all fought it through to the bitter end, and until some 2,000 persons, aged Senators, dignified judges, Ministers of the Crown, stately matrons, fair maids and gallant officers had paid their respects at the foot of the dais.

As the long line filed past the Duke or Duchess occasionally spoke a pleasant word to those presented.

The function concluded, the royal procession reformed and passed out into the main corridor, the royal heir and his spouse bringing up the rear. As it moved away the brilliant throng in the gilded chamber enthusiastically sang, "God Save the King" and finished up with three resounding cheers and a wild tiger for the "Duke and Duchess of York."

The reception was preceded by a royal banquet in the main corridor of the west wing of the Parliament Buildings, to which about 60 guests sat down.

At 1 o'clock this morning thousands of people were still lining University-avenue in the hope of again catching a sight of the royal party on their way to Government House.

Luncheon to Visiting Journalists.

Yesterday afternoon about 60 guests partook of a luncheon given jointly by the Canadian Press Association to the British and United States journalists accompanying the royal party.

The special guests were: J. E. Vincent of The London Times; E. F. Knight of The London Morning Post; Melton Prior, artist of The Illustrated London News; Mr. Maxwell of The London Standard; J. Watson of Reuter's News Agency; Martin Eagan of the Associated Press; Douglas Story of The New York Herald; W. Sauvelle of La Presse, Montreal, and W. Garveau of La Patrie.

Good Bye To-Day.

To-day Their Royal Highnesses bid farewell to the Queen City, to continue their tour through Ontario. The royal train is scheduled to leave the Union Depot at 9 a. m. for Niagara Falls, where the party will remain over night, viewing the scenery around the cataract.

"77" BREAKS UP STUBBORN COLDS

As the Cold numbs your fingers and toes, so taking Cold numbs your vital organs, causing weak heart action, difficult respiration and torpid liver. A few doses of "77" restores the checked circulation, sends the blood coursing through the veins, restoring every organ to its normal condition, and the Cold is "broken up" and passes off of necessity.

"77" is a small vial of pleasant pellets that just fits the vest pocket.

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

Duplicate orders is what makes our business. If you try us once you'll come again. If you have a keg, send it with your order.

LOYAL RECEPTIONS EVERYWHERE

Presentation of Colors to the Seventh Fusiliers—School Children Sing—A Pleasant Feature of All the Receptions—Quiet Sunday at Niagara-on-the-Lake—Royal Party Visited the Falls.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—The royal visit to Toronto is nothing but a pleasant memory now. It terminated at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, when Their Royal Highnesses standing on the rear end of the train, as it slowly pulled out of the Union Station, smilingly and graciously acknowledged the ringing cheers and the waving of handkerchiefs from the couple of hundred or so who were privileged to witness the departure. And thus three of the most memorable days in Toronto's history ended.

Brampton at 30.

Brampton, Oct. 14.—The buildings in the vicinity and the station were all gaily decorated and an hour before the royal pair was due the school children, the band and volunteers, with 5,000 loyal Britons, were assembled. At 10 o'clock Saturday the train drew slowly through the crowd and stopped as the rear coach reached the station. The Duke and Duchess were waiting on the platform smiling and bowing. The Mayor received in his official capacity, and six pretty children presented a bouquet to the Duchess, who graciously received them, smiling her pleasure. The Mayor also presented an address, and gracefully withdrew, the crowds cheering, and the band playing. Everybody got a good view of the royal party.

Guelph at 10.30.

Guelph, Ont., Oct. 14.—The Duke and Duchess of York arrived here at 10.30 o'clock on Saturday amid the cheers of a large crowd of citizens and school children. They were received by the Mayor in his official capacity and, after singing the National Anthem, the principal officials of the city and county were introduced. They then proceeded on their way westward.

Berlin at 11.15.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—At exactly 11.15 the royal train pulled in and this was the signal for a mighty shout from thousands of voices. Their Royal Highnesses stepped off the royal train to a raised platform amidst deafening applause. Surrounding the elevated platform were the school children carrying branches and bunches of maple leaves. Their Royal Highnesses were introduced by Major Maude to the Mayor and Town Council. The school children, accompanied by the 29th Battalion Band, sang "The Maple Leaf." Their Royal Highnesses then walked back to the royal train through the guard of honor, made up of the local companies of the 29th Battalion, while the band played "Rule Britannia."

Stratford at Noon.

Stratford, Oct. 14.—The train bearing the royal party reached here at noon Saturday. An immense throng of people awaited their arrival and cheered heartily when the train drew in. A chorus of school children sang the "Maple Leaf" and "God Save the King." There was no formal presentation of the address, but the Mayor and City Council were on hand and were presented to the Duke and Duchess. After a stay of eight minutes, the train proceeded on its way to London.

London at 1 O'clock.

London, Oct. 14.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York were given a most enthusiastic welcome on their arrival in the Forest City at 1 o'clock, Saturday. The route of procession was a living mass of humanity. Every window along the route was also filled. At the High School, the school children of the city, to the number of about 6,000, had gathered and greeted the appearance of Their Royal Highnesses with patriotic songs.

At the Victoria Park a most interesting ceremony took place after the reading of the civic address, viz., the presentation of new colors to the 7th Regiment. The scene was intensely inspiring, and will long remain in the memory of those who witnessed it. The royal train left the city shortly after 2 p.m. for Niagara Falls.

At Ingersoll at 2.20.

Ingersoll, Ont., Oct. 14.—Sharp at 2.20 on Saturday the royal train pulled into the G.T.R. depot, and fully 8,000 people awaited to welcome the royal party. On arrival of the train Miss Jean Jackson, daughter of J. B. Jackson, K.C., stepped to the platform of the royal car and presented Her Royal Highness with a bouquet of roses. Major Maude then introduced Mayor Miller and Mrs. Miller, Joseph Gibson, sr., and ex-Mayor Walter Mills, all had the great pleasure of shaking hands with the royal party. The G. T. R. depot was beautifully decorated.

Stopped at Grimsby.

Grimsby, Ont., Oct. 14.—The royal train made a short stop at Grimsby, Saturday afternoon. The station was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting. Over three thousand people assembled to see the Duke and Duchess. Major Maude presented Reeve Hewitt, and then two little girls, Misses Bernice Hawke and Marjory Mitchell, and their little escort, Master Gordon Hamilton Burland. These presented bouquets, which were most graciously accepted by Their Royal Highnesses, and won a kiss for each from the Duchess. After three minutes' stop the train pulled out amid great cheering.

AT OLD NIAGARA.

Royal Pair Arrived at Queen's Royal Saturday Night.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Oct. 14. — Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived at Niagara-on-the-Lake about 6 o'clock Saturday evening over the Michigan Central Railroad. The royal party was greeted by an immense crowd of people, who cheered lustily. The train conveying His Excellency the Governor-General and Lady Minto arrived at 2.40 p. m., and they were met on the platform by the Mayor and Council. They were then driven to the Queen's Royal Hotel.

On the arrival of the train with the royal party, His Excellency met them and introduced His Worship Mayor Best, who afterwards introduced the members of the Council and the local clergy. The party were then driven to the Queen's Royal, where everything was in readiness for their reception. An immense number of persons from St. Catharines, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and the surrounding country were present to witness the arrival and get a look at the distinguished visitors.

Sunday morning the royal party started for Niagara Falls, where they spent the day. They were conveyed as far as Queenston by the steamer Corona of the Niagara River Line, and from there to the falls by trolley, passing almost under Brock's monument, of which they were afforded a good view. They returned by the same route, arriving shortly after 6 o'clock, the streets being crowded with people anxious to get one more sight of their future King and Queen.

Very many from a distance, as well as the members of old St. Mark's Church, supposing the royal party would attend divine service, were sadly disappointed when they found other arrangements had been made, and that the Duke and Duchess would not be present.

Last evening was quietly spent, and the royal visitors are expected to take their departure this morning.

With the Duke and Duchess as its guests, Niagara-on-the-Lake acquired an importance for a few hours such as it had not had in many years. It was the first capital of Upper Canada and has sheltered royalty before—as far back as 1791, when Edward Duke of Kent visited the region. In all his world-wide realm (prospective) Prince George could not find a quieter spot in which to spend Sunday.

Sunday at Niagara.

Sunday morning the Duke and Duchess attended a private divine service, held in the drawing rooms of the hotel, and this afternoon they took the steamer Corona to Queenston, whence they visited the Falls by trolley. The royal trains are lying here to convey the party hence at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Duke at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Oct. 14.—The arrangements for the reception of the royal visitors to-day are completed. The streets and fronts of stores and offices in the line of procession look most ornamental.

The program is as follows:

10.30 a.m.—Parade of society men at Court House.

11 a.m.—Parade of society men, headed by S.O.E. Band, to Stuart-street station.

11.45—Arrival of the royal train at station and battery salute from Point Hill.

12 noon.—Royal procession to City Hall, school children's chorus, presentation of addresses, children's chorus.

12.30—Continuance of royal parade, via James, King and James and Reid-streets to William Hendrie's residence, for luncheon.

2 p.m.—Continuance of royal procession via Reid, James and King-streets to Victoria Park.

3 p.m.—Continuance of royal procession to Stuart-street station.

3.30 p.m.—Departure of Royal Highnesses and battery salute from Point Hill.

Ottawa's $7,500 Royal Grant.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Mr. Justice B. M. Britton presided at the High Court sitting on Saturday, when Mr. W. Wyld, on behalf of Ald. W. H. Lewis, moved for an injunction in the well known $7,500 royal reception grant case. Mr. Taylor McVeity represented the city. After the case was argued His Lordship said there were important questions undoubtedly to be tried. There were exceptional matters connected with this case, and unless the plaintiffs were strictly entitled to an injunction at this stage he should not grant it. If the corporation have not the money in hand they ought to have, and if they had to borrow, those they borrow from must look after them. Under the circumstances of the special act, and the fact that the plaintiff had delayed entering his action, he was influenced in using his discriminatory powers, and he would refuse the motion.

TIME FOR FEDERATION

Union of Newfoundland Discussed.

THE FRENCH SHORE.

A Question Which Should First be Settled.

LIBERAL TERMS FAVOURED.

Importance of the Island's Strategic Position—Opportunities for Trade are Many.

(From the Globe)

The union of Newfoundland with Canada seems more reasonable the more the question is examined. Standing at the mouth of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the island occupies a strong strategic position, which might be of great importance in case of continental differences. Its entrance into confederation is desired also for the rounding up of the British possessions on the northern half of the continent, and for trade reasons. Agriculture and manufacturing being little developed on the island, a larger market for our products would assuredly be gained. The feeling of local men of prominence who have been interviewed has generally been in favour of the union, granting that the French shore question be removed before it goes into effect.

CONSOLIDATION IS IN THE AIR.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, on being asked his opinion, said: "I am distinctly in favour of the principle of the annexation of Newfoundland to Canada for both sentimental and substantial reasons. In this age, when consolidation of the empire is in the air, it seems to me that an important part of the process would be the consolidation of the units of the empire. The national symmetry of the Dominion is incomplete while a large geographical integral part of it is detached and floating loose. Newfoundland is the oldest colony of the British empire, and, it may be said, has hitherto had the hardest luck of any British colony. It contains 42,000 square miles on the island, and possesses a kind of ownership over a part of the Labrador coast, with an area of 120,000 square miles, the two possessions being about three quarters of the size of this province. It seems to me," said the Minister, "that this annexation would benefit both Newfoundland and the Dominion. It is not so much a matter of question as it is of certainty that none of the present members of confederation would be as prosperous and as important as they are now, if, like Newfoundland, they had remained outside, isolated and self-dependent. It is not to be supposed that there will be any direct gain to Canada from union with Newfoundland. We not looking for direct gain. We are quite willing that all the direct gain in the bargain should go to Newfoundland. The confederation has not been built up on the narrow basis of 'will it be directly profitable?' If the statesmen who in 1867 sank their political differences and formed our great Dominion had been actuated by narrow views, there would have been no Dominion of Canada to-day. We want to look at this question from the broadest point of view.

"Newfoundland has a population of almost 250,000, and annexation would stimulate commerce with the island to mutual advantage. They have to buy largely of what we have most to sell — flour and grain and dairy products. With our present relations the provision trade with Newfoundland is falling off. Twenty-five years ago it was something over $300,000; in 1900 it was less than $120,000. This trade is therefore capable of expansion with the removal of trade barriers and the more intimate commercial intercourse the union would produce.

TO IMPROVE OUR SEA ROUTE.

"Another seemingly important point: We have spent and are spending millions to improve our internal transportation and our road to the sea. There is need, in order to get full benefit from this, to improve the sea route to Europe, and the relation of Newfoundland to the Canadian end of this route makes it important that the provision of much-needed safeguards to navigation, the lack of which has not improved the good name of this route, should be in the hands of Canada, which could, and would, make them much more effective than could a financially weak, and as she is now, a less interested dependency. Considerable importance might be attached to this, for Europe, and, especially, Great Britain, is plainly destined to be our best market, and there will be money in making the Canadian route the safest, as it is now the shortest.

"Newfoundland occupies an island which for strategic purposes is situated as well as any place in the world, an island which is absolutely necessary to Canada's safety, and should be in our own or Imperial hands. It is a natural fortress, so to speak, and if Newfoundland is not acquired by Canada, it will either remain stagnant and discontented, or must drift away from the empire.

"It is an island of magnificent resources—if not in agriculture, as to which there are some differences of opinion, in fishing, mining and lumbering. The fishing industry, already the most important, is capable of almost indefinite expansion. All that is wanted is the infusion of capital. The skill, courage and the men are all there, and the whole of the northern seas lie open to be exploited from Newfoundland in a manner in which no other country can compete. The island is known to have coal, iron and copper mines of almost fabulous wealth, needing nothing but capital to continue the work that has already begun. As for the wood industries, Newfoundland has her full share of pulpwood, and her nearness to the European markets gives her a very great advantage.

"At present the debt of Newfoundland is rather large. It is about $18,000,000 — nearly as much as the indebtedness of the City of Toronto; or $72 a head, against a Dominion debt of $50 a head. In the event of union, this indebtedness will have to be assumed by the Dominion in the same way that the debts of the old Provinces of Upper and Lower Canada were taken in at confederation. With the debts, of course, we take the assets, too.

A QUESTION TO BE SETTLED.

"We should also have to take the French shore difficulty—a very serious one. It arises out of the strained interpretation put by the French on the treaty of Utrecht. They were to have certain rights of fishing and the right to land with their nets. They now claim that what was conceded to them was an absolute monopoly, and also the right to establish lobster canneries, with permanent buildings, and there is now a very interesting controversy going on as to whether a lobster is a fish. The British Government has been very conciliatory in its dealings with the French fishermen. It has gone to the extreme of inflicting injustice on its own subjects in order that the susceptibilities of the French might be spared. The difficulty, as it stands, is a very grave one. It is reasonable, I suppose, to assume that if union takes place, the Imperial Government will hand over to Canada a great deal of the responsibility in this matter. If that takes place, the affair will soon be in a way for settlement. In those negotiations with the United States in which Canada has had her own way the results have been most gratifying to us. It would probably be the same in any negotiations between Canada and France. We, by virtue of our being one-third or so French, should be in a better position to negotiate than is England, and could probably carry on negotiations in a more friendly spirit, and if the French contention were found to be unfounded there would be less unwillingness on the part of France to yield the point to Canada than there would be to submit to a diplomatic defeat at the hands of England.

"If the French shore question is to be settled, it can be settled with greater ease by Canada than by England. If it is not settled, if the ill-feeling on account of the different claims continues to grow and eventually becomes one of the causes of war, we as part of the empire, should be involved just as much as if Newfoundland were not a part of us. From every point of view, except that of immediate profit to Canada, the union of Newfoundland is desirable, whether of politics, trade or national defence.

"It is fortunate for us that there is now at Ottawa a Ministry of able and broad-minded men who will not let negotiations come to nothing, as they have been said to have failed on former occasions because Canada was not willing to allow the future Provincial Government an annual revenue sufficient to carry on the administration of the Province."

PRESENT DUTIES HURT TRADE.

Mr. G. C. Heintzman said:—"I am thoroughly in favour of the admission of Newfoundland into the confederation. The union should be consummated both on material and sentimental grounds. The settlement of the terms of union should treat Newfoundland generously in the matter of concessions, and the assumption of the debt of the island. The trade which would ultimately be developed with the island would pay Canada to be liberal. From an Imperial standpoint there can not be the slighest doubt that the change would be an advantage, both for military and naval reasons. The French shore difficulty could, I think, be adjusted on an equitable basis, and thus remove a fruitful and dangerous source of friction forever. So far as the business of our firm is concerned it would be benefitted by a removal of the customs barriers between the two countries. We were working up a trade with the island, when the Newfoundland Government raised the duty on pianos ten per cent. This change is to the advantage of English and German instruments, because they are of a cheaper grade than those of Canadian make. Our manufacturers generally would have a new market were Newfoundland a part of the Dominion. So much has been said in detail favourable to the proposition that I need say nothing more than that in my opinion it would be a master-stroke of policy on the part of the Government if they can induce the islanders to throw in their lot with us."

SCHOONER FOUNDERED.

Crew, Found Strapped to Rigging, Taken Off at Amherstburg.

Amherstburg, Oct. 14.—The schooner Montblanc foundered off Barr Point, Lake Erie, Saturday night. The crew were found strapped in the rigging yesterday morning, and were taken off by the tug Cheboygan nearly perished. The cook was the only woman on board, and could not have held out half an hour longer. The crew lost everything but the clothes they had on them. A number of other unknown schooners are at anchor off Barr Point with canvas gone. Vesselmen say it was the heaviest gale of years.

LAID TO REST.

Funeral of the Late Mr. N. Clarke Wallace, M.P., on Saturday at Woodbridge, His Late Home.

Woodbridge, Oct. 14.—All that was mortal of Nathaniel Clarke Wallace, born June 21, 1844, died Oct. 7, 1901, member for West York in the Dominion Parliament, and the Most Worshipful Grand Master and Sovereign of British North America in the local Orange Association, was buried here in Christ Church Cemetery Saturday afternoon. It was, without exception, the largest funeral which ever took place in the rural portion of West York. From east and west, from north and south, teams kept pouring into the village from an early hour, bringing the farmers from the surrounding townships and villages, who desired to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of a political hero around whom the electorate of West York have rallied through contests covering the past 27 years of Canadian history.

Th postoffice, the hotels, the stores and many residences were draped in black out of respect for the deceased, the flags floated at half-mast, and everywhere on the lapels of the gentlemen coming to the funeral were well-executed vignets of the late distinguished Orangeman and Parliamentarian.

A great host of prominent public men and Orangemen were present from all parts of the country.

The floral tributes were very numerous and reached from floor to ceiling. Among others there were: A pink wreath of roses and carnations from Dr. Sproule, M.P.; cross of white dahlias, lilies and picotees from the Right Worshipful Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario West; circle of roses, asters and lilies, with the words, "Grand Orange Lodge of Manitoba," interwoven on a green disc in the background; an anchor of white roses, maidenhair ferns and candytuft, on a foreground of pink carnations, cosmos, phlox and single dahlias, from the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of B.N.A. A floral flag, measuring four feet across, was from the Liberal-Conservative Association of West York.

The pall-bearers, numbering 20, were Dr. Sproule, M. P., Grand Master of British America; Dr. Perfect, President of the Conservative Association, West York; Hon. Geo. E. Foster, John McMillan, Grand Master Ontario West; Thomas Gilray, Grand Master of Quebec; Munro, Deputy B. M. O. E.; E. T. Essery, D. D. M. O. W.; Thomas Crawford, M. P. P., Irish Protestant Association; W. J. Parkham, P. G. M., B. N. A.; George Taylor, M. P., representing the House of Commons; O. A. Howland, C. M. G., Mayor of Toronto; Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, O. M. B. S.; J. P. Whitney, M. P. P., leader of the Opposition in the Local Legislature; Sir Mackenzie Bowell, P. G. M., B. A.; E. F. Clarke, M. P.; G. M. for Ontario West; W. D. McCulla, ex-M. P.; Dr. McFadden, G. M. of Manitoba.

Th services at the grave were entirely in the hands of the Grand Lodge officers. The ritual was administered by Rev. Mr. Walsh of Brampton and Rev. H. C. Dixon of Toronto, and Dr. Sproule, M. P., G. M., B. N. A.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant, and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal times will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents. A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan.

Crowe Will Give Himself Up.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 14.—Chief of Police John J. Donahue yesterday received a letter from Pat Crowe, naming the terms on which he will surrender. Chief Donahue said last night he would request the city and Mr. Cudahy to withdraw the rewards which have been offered for Crowe's arrest and conviction, with the provision that Crowe surrenders himself. He said, if Crowe shall give himself up he will be given all the advantage the law provides.

Caught in the Palace.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The Lisbon correspondent of La Patrie says a telegram has been received at the Portuguese capital from Rio Janeiro, asserting that two Italians were arrested Friday evening last in the corridor of the Presidential palace by an officer of the guard. Both were armed with revolvers and daggers. In Rio Janeiro it is believed they are Anarchists, and intended to assassinate President Campos Salles.

A CANADIAN INVENTION.

Something About the Lee-Enfield Rifle Which Beat the Yankees.

Critics have lately been telling us that the Lee-Enfield rifle is scarcely good enough for the Canadian militiamen, yet with that same weapon a team of Canadian riflemen defeated a picked eight of Yankee shots in New Jersey last week? says the Galt Reporter.

Mr. James P. Lee, who is now residing in Galt, does not claim that the British national arm—his invention — is the best one in existence. Since the British Government accepted his model he has improved the magazine arrangement, but when conferred with, the War Office refused to adopt the improvement. The latest Lee gun is the arm of the American navy; not, however, of the army, which uses the American Krag. People who do not understand the ways of Yankee politicians will doubtless be puzzled over the rejection of the Lee gun by the War Department at Washington. The manufacturers of the Krag rifle have displayed a vast amount of finesse in securing recognition for their gun, but it must rather stagger them to find that in a duel between the national arms of the two nations Canadian shots were able to prove conclusively the superiority of the Lee-Enfield. At the longest range, especially, was the British weapon in the hands of our riflemen most effective.

Had justice been done Mr. Lee the United States army would to-day be using his gun—the weapon now in the hands of the United States navy. As things stand, experiments show that the weapon bearing Mr. Lee's name, and which the inventor claims as just a little inferior to the latest product of his mechanical skill, has outpointed the American Krag in a test that must be regarded as a fair one, though the conditions favored the Americans, shooting as they were on home ranges. We don't think Canada is yet ready to discard the Lee-Enfield—or look with contempt on the Lee-Metford—for the Krag-Jorgessen or the Mauser. The gun now in our hands seems to be just as good as any of them.

A Canadian Labor Federation.

Following is the reference made to national organization in the Presidential address of Mr. Ralph Smith, M.P., the other day at the Trades and Labor Congress at Brantford: "I think it is of vast importance that this congress should accept some method of increasing its own usefulness. There ought to be a Canadian federation, for, whilst I believe that unionism ought to be international in its methods, to meet the necessity of combating common foes, this usefulness is only assured by the strength of national unions. A federation of American unions, represented by a national union, and a federation of Canadian unions, represented by a national union, each working with the other in special cases, would be a great advantage over having local unions in Canada connected with the national unions of America. I think greater success would be accomplished in the settlement of disputes in each country if the leaders of each were the representatives of their own national grievances. I do not reflect on any American officials who have handled our labor troubles in Canada, but I am certain of this, that there are such distinctive differences in the condition of each that a presentment of Canadian matters by Canadian leaders, and vice versa by American leaders, would lead to a greater success, and would not in any way prevent a federation of the national bodies."

An Ideal Ready-made Food.

Prof. Naumann, a most eminent authority on chemical and medical questions, says that cod liver oil is almost an ideal ready-made food. He says it is easy to digest, easily makes fat, and is also a medicine. Scott's Emulsion contains this oil so prepared that it is not at all unpleasant.

CAPE REBELS HANGED

A New Phase of South African War Has Been Marked.

BOER COM. LOTTER EXECUTED

Scheepers, the Boer Commandant, Captured by French's Column—British Had Pursued Him for a Couple of Weeks—Eighteen More Boer Officers, Captured since Sept. 15, Permanently Banished.

Middleburg, Cape Colony, Oct. 12.—Two young farmers, who had twice joined the Boers, have been hanged at Vryburg. The death sentences of a number of other condemned men have been commuted to penal servitude.

Commandant Lotter, the Cape rebel, whose commando, consisting almost wholly of rebels, was captured south of Petersburg in September, and who was sentenced to death, was executed yesterday morning.

Commandant Lotter had been tried and found guilty on eight counts, including sedition, the murder of colored unarmed scouts, the murder of troopers in action, the blowing up of railroads and the cowhiding of British subjects and Europeans. Lotter pleaded that he was a citizen of the Orange Free State, but this was disproved.

Scheepers in Toils.

London, Oct. 14.—Lord Kitchener reports to the War Office from Pretoria under Saturday's date that Gen. French's columns have captured Commandant Scheepers.

Lord Kitchener does not state whether Sheepers' commando, which has been so active in Cape Colony, was captured or not. The British have been in pursuit for a couple of weeks. Scheepers himself was so ill that he was obliged to travel in a buggy.

Commandant Scheepers has been operating in Cape Colony for several months. On July 8 he entered and burned Murraysburg. Later on his laager was captured and it was discovered that while he had some Boers with him, the majority of his men were Cape rebels. Lord Kitchener reported some weeks afterward that a train with stores had been held up and captured by Scheepers' commando eight miles from Beaufort West. Since then Scheepers has been operating in the neighborhood of Mossel Bay, 200 miles due east of Cape Town. Some of the reports said that his commando was made up principally of half-grown Cape Colony boys.

More Boers Banished.

Pretoria, Oct. 13.—Eighteen more Boer officers, captured since Sept. 15, have been permanently banished from the country.

Refugee Death Rate Falls.

Bloemfontein, Oct. 13.—The death rate among the Boer refugees in the camps has decreased considerably. Some of the Boer women in the camp at Heidelberg, it is said, gave their children dog's blood to drink when they were in a critical state. The result naturally was fatal. Forty doctors are now on duty in the different camps, but it is impossible to keep watch on all the refugees and avoid stupid action. It is impossible to obtain fresh meat for all, and the authorities are fixing it so as to get frozen meat. The military people have also provided means for diversion, such as cricket matches, etc.

Arrangements have been made to distribute seed potatoes, cattle, salt and sheep to the farmers.

Cost of the War.

London, Oct. 14.—It was first estimated that the cost of the war would be $50,000,000, with a field force of 47,000 men, which Parliament was assured would complete the conquest of the republics in three months. To-day, when prospect of conquest was never less certain, it has cost $700,000,000, besides 18,000 lives, the aggregate of casualties being 75,000. Since Lord Roberts declared the war over, on the eve of the general election last September, it has cost $350,000,000 in money, 8,000 lives and 27,000 other casualties.

Brodrick Visits King.

London, Oct. 14.—The visit of Mr. Brodrick to Balmoral over Sunday is commented upon with nods and winks in military circles. The summons is believed to have been received on Friday, and is regarded as the sequel of General Buller's amazing speech and the uproar caused by it.

The King Writes Buller.

Manchester, Oct. 14.—The London correspondent of The Guardian says that King Edward sent a letter of warm sympathy to Gen. Sir Redvers Buller, and that this induced the General to make his speech the other day.

At the Change of Life.

This trying period in women's life usually comes between the ages of forty and fifty years and is marked by irrita, headache, dizziness, irregular monthlies, fitful appetite, forebodings of evil, palpitation of the heart and constipation. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all a woman's medicine because it helps her safely through this trying period. It enriches the blood, strengthens the nerves, regulates the functions of the feminine organs and tones and invigorates the whole body.

Damaged by Incessant Rain.

Winnipeg, Oct. 14.—Reports received from various visitors from the country are to the effect that the damage to the wheat crop by reason of the recent wet weather has been very great. Samples of the grain showed that the wheat in shock was growing quite badly. The shocks had been turned and returned in an effort to keep them from rotting.

Lord Pauncefote's Return.

London, Oct. 14.—Lord Pauncefote of Preston, British Ambassador to the United States, will sail for New York on Oct. 26.

NEW ZEALAND WOMEN

PHYSICALLY THE VERY FLOWER OF THE BRITISH COLONISTS.

The Use They Have Made of the Suffrage —91 Per Cent. of Those Enfranchised Voted at the First Election—Now They Are One of the Most Intelligent Voting Classes in the World.

As in Hawaii, the first civilized women who visited New Zealand were the wives of missionaries sent out from New South Wales, and subsequently from England. These pioneer women endured hardships from which those who spent their lives in Hawaii were spared. The Maoris, or aborigines, among whom thay lived, were a warlike people, and from 1814 until their final submission hostilities were always imminent, massacres occuring in which neither age nor sex was spared.

As it was a long voyage from England, only the most enterprising women had the courage to emigrate, and this, undoubtedly, had its effect upon the present British population, who, men and women both are the very flower of the British colonists. They are surprisingly tall, athletic, with fresh, rosy complexions, and notwithstanding the enormous quantities of tea they consume, strong as lye, in huge cups, morning, noon and night.

Because of their fewness, the women of New Zealand were treated with distinguished favor, and their children and grandchildren have reaped the benefits. The universities have been co-educational for many years, awarding women decrees with a justice that Oxford and Cambridge might well emulate. There are several clever young women employed upon the colonial newspapers, while others are making their way in other professions, notably that of medicine.

In 1893, after several years of persevering work, the bill legalizing universal suffrage was passed. A franchise league, of which Mrs. Daldy of Auckland was president and Mrs. Kitson secretary, was the medium through which the preliminary work was carried on.

One of the leaders of the suffrage movement was Lady Annie Stout, the wife of the chief justice. On the day of the first election Lady Stout officiated as an election judge, sitting all day in the polling booths in one of the worst districts of Dunedin, where she then resided. It is a remarkable fact that of the total number of women enrolled at the first election after they were enfranchised over 91 per cent. voted.

After the suffrage bill was passed the franchise league disbanded, but reorganized immediately under the title of the Woman's Political Education League. Systematic study of political questions was taken up, and the result has been one of the most intelligent voting classes in the world. As to the result, its entire success may be inferred from the fact that a few years ago one solitary member rose in Parliament to move the abrogation of the law; he could not get a seconder, and sat down amid roars of laughter; it was the death of opposition to woman suffrage.

The women of Australia are somewhat more conventional than those of New Zealand; and, to the casual observer, the intellectual average does not appear to be so high. The first comers, however, who did not reside in the towns, roughed it in the bush with fathers, husbands and brothers, sharing their privations and ever-present danger of attacks from the savage black fellows, and the still more savage bushrangers, or outlaws, who were generally escaped convicts from the penal colonies.

As the country became more thickly settled and comforts and even luxuries were possible, life upon the sheep and cattle ranges improved. The most open-handed hospitality prevailed, and still prevails; large house parties were entertained, especially at Christmas and Easter, which were observed as generally as at home—a word that the English colonists always write with a capital letter. Native servants were not always to be relied upon, and others were difficult to find, and the Australian girls became, through necessity, expert in domestic arts.

Frank and unspoiled, they were admirable companions, generous and warm-hearted, through the exigencies of a situation where people were thrown together with greater intimacy than is possible in older countries. As much of the continual visiting was done on horseback, Australian women living upon the ranges, young and old, were bold and fearless riders.

Australia is somewhat behind New Zealand in the adoption of progressive ideas; but equal suffrage is already guaranteed, being supported by the ablest men and women in the colony.

Women are admitted to the universities of Sydney and Melbourne, being students in their own colleges, a recognized part of each foundation; and they receive the same degrees as are conferred upon the students of the other sex.

97—98 the Critical Age.

Height of vigour past — nature's power slowing down, vitality less, recuperative power less, endurance less. Stop the progress of decay, tone up the weakened nerve centres, impart vigour to the tiring brain, prepare for the crisis. A means of remarkable protency in the renewal of decreasing vigour is found in Ferrozone. It brightens up the whole being, imparts a sence of power and strength. By the use of Ferrozone, old age is pushed back twenty years. Ferrozone gives strength, vigour, endurance, vim. Ormond & Walsh have it. Get a box to-day.

Sheep in a Glacier.

The Dawson News prints a remarkable story about the prospecting tour, just completed, of H. W. Bracken, who has returned to Dawson after six months in Northern Alaska.

Bracken says that about 1,000 miles from Dawson he and his servants ascended a glacier 8,000 feet high. There they found a herd of mountain sheep frozen in the ice. The theory is that some extreme mid-winter blizzard caught them while stampeding over the dome, the sheep huddled together and perished, the snow gradually forming an icy coating.

Whatever parts of the bodies were above the ice had been devoured by Arctic bears and wolves.

Bracken is said to be a scientific miner, of 25 years' experience, having lived three years in the Yukon.

How Kindness Breeds Kindness.

Like breeds like. Canada's recent expressions of good will and sympathy towards the American people are, it is satisfactory to learn, being reciprocated in kind. The Buffalo Engineer replies in this wise to our royal visitors: "In this great hour of sorrow the citizens of the United States will unite with their neighbors, the Canadians, to greet in America the Duke and Duchess with enthusiasm, and will only hope that their experience in Canada be as pleasant to them as it is to the people whom they come to see." The good feelings thus exchanged may have no marketable value, but they are bound to prove beneficial to both countries.

Yukon Placers' Long Life.

The Manitoba Free Press publishes an interesting interview with Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who stopped off at Winnipeg on his way back from the Yukon. The ex-Premier, who is remarkably energetic for his years, seems to have formed a favorable view as to the long life of the Yukon placers. The chief ground for regarding the placers as virtually permanent was the many new situations in which gold was being discovered. In one mine a tunnel penetrated the hill 600 feet, and at a depth of 125 feet the gravel gave rich returns. The cost of transportation and the high wages were regarded by him as the chief drawbacks.

How to get up an Appetite.

Distaste for food often follows Grippe and Fevers, and is associated with a general weakness of the system. To impart a real zest for food and give power to the stomach to digest and assimilate, no remedy can equal Ferrozone. This is a new and startling discovery. It strikes at the root of disease and by removing the cause, cures quickly and permanently. Ferrozone will quickly enable you to eat and digest anything. Ormond & Walsh, druggists, can tell you a great deal more about Ferrozone, how it cures, and why it cures. Call to-day and see him.

Irregularity and Indigestion.

A common cause of indigestion is irregularity respecting the time of meals. The human system seems to form habits and to be in a degree dependent upon the performance of its function in accordance with the habits formed. In respect to digestion this is especially observable. If a meal is taken at a regular hour, the stomach becomes accustomed to receiving food at that hour and is prepared for it.

If meals are taken irregularly, the stomach is taken by surprise, so to speak, and is never in that state of readiness in which it should be for the prompt and perfect performance of its work.

ABOUT THE RANGERS.

A Few Notes About the Boys in Red and Their Toronto Trip.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers will be held this evening in the officers' quarters of the drill shed at 8.15 o'clock, when the matter of continuing the drill for a while longer will be discussed.

The men of the 57th Regt. have about fully recuperated from the effects of their trip to Toronto, and they are now receiving the congratulations of the townspeople upon the magnificent showing they made. A number of the boys, however, got out on the Nicholls Oval and played Rugby on Saturday afternoon against Trinity College School, Port Hope.

Not the least splendid feature of the trip was the splendid work of the Bugle Band. This organization showed up in fine style, kept splendid time, and won great praise from the men of all ranks.

After the Review by His Royal Highness, the presentation of the medals to South African veterans took place. Amongst those from Peterborough to receive them were Messrs. Chill Turner, Percy Price, R. G. Johnston, Ad. Hall and Sergt. Trussler.

The Examiner has received the following communication, that will be of interest:

Messrs. Boyle, Sculley and Wasson were also amongst those who received medals in Toronto.

Orderly Room Clerk Green had a neat little orderly room in the main building in which the business of the regiment was transacted.

Quartermaster Sergeant Brundrette had a busy time during his stay in the city and proved to be a worthy assistant to Capt. Eastwood, the quartermaster of the regiment.

Through some huge mistake the horse that was brought to the city for Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers, was not brought to the grounds in time and Col. Rogers did not take part in the review as was intended.

Acting Sergeant Jackson, of No. 4 Company, was made Sergeant of the colour party, a very honourable position indeed.

Private Morden joined the regiment on Thursday night and made matters lively from that time forward.

"The Klondike twins" was the name that was given to Pte. George Dawson and Pte. Milne Hamilton. They were together like brothers throughout the trip and amused many with their Klondike stories and songs.

In another place in this issue is a letter from a correspondent dealing with the important question of procuring new colours for the Regiment, which are badly needed.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Girls Guild of St. John's, will meet at eight o'clock to-night.

—St. Paul's choir has been invited to give a concert in Norwood on Oct. 25th.

—Mr. H. Roberts has been doing some grand fishing in Little Lake of late. This morning he landed a beautiful 13 lb. 'lunge.

—The choirs of the town were pretty well thinned out of male members yesterday. A good many stayed in to recuperate from the fatigue of the Toronto trip.

The George street choir will rehearse for this week on Wednesday evening after the praise service. All members are requested to attend the praise service and also rehearsal.

—Messrs. Geo. Wheeler and Alex. Patterson have opened out a butcher shop in the premises formerly occupied by Mr. Bickle, Ashburnham, and keep on hand a full stock of fresh meats.

—Dr. McGrath's favourite fox terrier, "Jack," dropped dead on Saturday evening from the effects of a dose of poison. He picked up a dose of strychinine which had been left out for rats.

There is no doubt that Japan tea is doomed to disappear from the teapots of the Canadian people. The introduction of the delicious Green teas of Ceylon, in the well-known packets of the "Salada" Tea Company—whose famous black teas have revolutionized the black tea trade—will prove to anyone trying them that they are far more healthy than the artificially coloured tea of Japan; and doctors will cease to object to the drinking of Green tea if it is "Salada" Ceylon Green.

ANOTHER NEW INDUSTRY.

New York Capital Seeking an Investment in a Beet Sugar Factory.

A Representative Will be Here This Week to Ascertain What Facilities Peterborough has to Offer—Mayor Denne's Work.

Prospects are bright for the establishment of a beet-sugar factory at Peterborough, and this week will see the matter brought to a head, when the town will be visited by a representative of New York capital, who is looking for a suitable site for the location of an industry of this nature.

Mayor Denne has been in correspondence with New York all summer in reference to the question and has succeeded in drawing attention to the facilities possessed by Peterborough, to such an extent as to secure the stated visit.

As the soil in this district is well suited to the growing of sugar beets, and cheap power can be offered, Peterborough will doubtless be selected as the site for a big factory.

COLOURS FOR THE 57TH.

Peterborough, Oct. 12th, 1901.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir, — Having read your account of the Royal Review, and the part taken in the same by the 57th Regt., I also join with many others in congratulating Lt.-Col. E. B. Edwards, the officers, non-coms., and men of the regiment on the good showing and satisfactory manner in which they conducted themselves under most trying circumstances. My only regret is that their comrades in arms, of the 3rd Dragoons, were prevented from participating in that historic event. Whatever the cause may have been, it is too bad that a regiment that sent so many men to South Africa should not have been represented in Toronto by even one squadron. I agree with you that had they been there they would have held their own with any cavalry corps present.

With regard to your timely remarks about the colours of the 57th, I wish to say, for the information of those desiring to assist in procuring a new stand of colours for the regiment that there is a fund in the savings bank, deposited in 1897, for that purpose, being the proceeds of the sports given by the 57th on the Queen's Birthday of that year. The fund, although not large, will be a good start, and will be handed over to any properly organized committee having this end in view.

Yours truly,
PETERBOROUGH.

Our correspondent does not pay any higher tribute to the 57th than they thoroughly deserve, and his suggestion in regard to procuring a new stand of colours for the regiment, is timely and worthy of being acted upon. It is to be hoped that the ladies of the town will take the matter in hand. The fair should know how to honour the brave, and the ladies, who feel the necessity of having a new bonnet every spring and fall, can sympathise with the gallant Rangers, whose colours have stood the battle and the breeze for a generation, in their need for new colours. Our volunteers upheld the military credit of the town nobly at the Royal Review, and the town could hardly do less than practically recognize this fact, and this practical recognition could take no more graceful form than the presentation of new colours. If the matter were undertaken by the ladies, and a popular subscription started, so that all could contribute, there is little doubt that the necessary funds would be forthcoming.

A GOOD OBJECT.

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir,—As the Peterborough members of the Royal chorus talk of giving a concert, could it not be arranged for them to hold the entertainment in the skating rink and have for an object the raising of funds to procure a new set of colours for the 57th Regiment. The chorus and the Regiment are both so popular that the rink is about the only place which would hold the crowd.

Yours, etc.,
CHORUS SINGER.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Which Were Held in the Mark Street Methodist Church Yesterday.

The services at Mark street, Ashburnham, being of an anniversary nature yesterday, the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Mr. Roberts, of Lindsay, who preached morning and evening to large congregations.

In the morning the choir sang "Wake the Song of Jubilee," by Excell, and during offertory Miss Nellie Courtney sang very effectively "The Ninety and Nine." At the evening service the choir sang "Awake, O Zion," by Excell, the soprano solo in which was pleasingly rendered by Miss Nellie Davies, and the bass solo by Mr. E. S. Watson. During service Miss Katie Hooper sang sweetly the solo "Guard While I Sleep," by Warrington. While the offering was being taken the choir sang the anthem "By The Rivers of Babylon," by Excell, the duet being taken by Miss K. Hooper and Mr. T. Cunnington. In the closing part of this selection Miss Nellie Davies was heard in the execution of a very difficult obligato solo, which she accomplished in a highly pleasing manner.

Mr. V. Thulus presided at the organ during both services.

HUNTING NOTES.

PIANO-TUNER ARRESTED.

Suspected of Theft in Peterborough and Burglary in Cannington.

(Mail and Empire:)

While walking on Queen street east on Saturday night, Dective Forest espied in James Elves a person who is wanted by the police of both Peterborough and Cannington. Accordingly, he took him into custody.

Elves, who is 42 years of age, is a professional piano tuner. In September, 1900, he was employed at the residence of Mrs. Ensign, in Peterborough, and at that time a quantity of jewelry, amongst it a gold chain found in Elves' possession when arrested, was stolen.

WEDDING BELLS.

Celebration of the Sutton-Lowther Nuptials at Bobcaygeon.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. J. Lowther, Bobcaygeon, on Wednesday evening, when her daughter, Miss Eliza Lowther, was married to Mr. John H. Sutton, of Verulam. Rev. G. Horton performed the ceremony in the presence of a company of invited friends and relatives from Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Peterborough and Toronto. The wedding march was played by Miss Clara Thompson. The bride was supported by her sister, Miss Mabel Lowther. Mr. Aylmer Sutton acted as groomsman. A grand supper was prepared for the occasion of which all partook heartily. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. All joined in wishing the happy couple a very prosperous and pleasant voyage through life.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

October Store News

You can find everything here that helps to make this store the greatest and best store in the district. We want to emphasize the fact that you can buy medium price goods here as well as the best that money can buy, but you will find no trash. We positively refuse to handle anything but reliable goods.

DRESS PATTERNS.

You can get here your choice of the nicest patterns ever shown in this store. There are so many attractive shades and just the most comfortable and evenly woven cloths you could desire. They'll hold their colour and will not get pulled out of shape quickly. See them soon.

MILLINERY.

We are showing some particulary stylish Ready-to-Wear Hats just now. Some new American Ideas, the things ladies of fashion are wearing in New York and the other big American cities. And for those who want Hats made to order, there isn't the slighest doubt about it, you can get more genuine style and art in this store than anywhere else in this part of the country. If you haven't tried our Milliners you had better come and see what we can do for you.

JACKETS.

The uncertain weather is with us, and genuine winter weather is not far away. You'll want to look your best and be most comfortable. We have the right kind of Jackets—the ones that keep you cosy and comfortable, and protect your health, and giving you at the same time the air of a stylish dresser, and at prices that are sure to please you, too.

CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

One of the principle reasons of this store's great success and supremacy in Carpets is because we study styles in Carpets just as much as we do in Dress Goods, Millinery, or any other departments. People of taste know that carpet styles change just as much as other fabrics. For instance, this year Green is to be the rage, not only in carpets, but curtains, rugs, hangings and furniture—all show a predominance of green. Now what could be prettier than a soft, green carpet? Our association makes its beauty the memory of close, fine, rain-freshened turf, and fairly like moss and fern in some deep shaded place. WE are showing some beautiful soft, rich colourings of Green in carpets, hangings and rugs. Something decidedly different to what you have seen here-to-fore in carpets, and something that every lady of taste will welcome as a decided change from what they see in ordinary Carpet stocks.

DRESSMAKING.

Just a word or two about our Dressmaking Department. We have two High-Class Head Dressmakers with a staff of about 50 helps. A mammoth Dress Goods Department, with all the popular weaves to choose from. Trimmings of every description, and everything else that is required to make an up-to-date Dressmaking Department.

KID GLOVES.

We want to remind you that we make a specialty of Dollar Kid Gloves, Perrin's make, and every pair guaranteed. They are of fine finish, and their natural sizes will insure wearing without cracking or ripping. Good colours—from very light tan clear into black. Your size is here at a dollar. You might pay $1.25 for poorer gloves.

JUST THE HANDKERCHIEF

That you want and can afford to buy. Can't have too many. Here they are, plain or embroidered, wide or narrow borders and hemstitched. All of them rare quality linen, that will stand unlimited washing and use. Special low prices all through.

TRIMMING THINGS.

Much of the beauty and satisfaction of a dress depends on the trimmings. Every garment is more pleasing because of tasteful selection and use of trimmings. Here you'll find a broad range for your choosing and at prices to encourage buying.

NO NEW RINK.

Annual Meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company—The Officers.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Curling and Skating Rink Company was held last week, there being a fair attendance of shareholders. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, president of the board.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. John Crane, presented his financial report for the season, showing a slight balance on the right side, it is said, after meeting the current expenses.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres.—W. G. Ferguson.
Sec.-Treas.—John Crane.
Directors.—Dr. Boucher, C. McGill, Adam Hall, and Dickson Davidson, in place of Mr. R. S. Davidson, deceased.

The matter of rebuilding the present rink, or improving it to some extent, so as to meet the alleged requirements of the Hockey Club, was fully discussed, but it was felt that the revenue was not sufficient to warrant any action being taken in this regard, and therefore the present season will not likely see a new or improved rink in Peterborough.

THE GAME AT OTTAWA.

The Locals Gave the Senators a Hard Fight.

The Return Game to be Played Here on Saturday—Trinity College School Team Came to Peterborough.

The Peterborough Senior Rugby team arrived home from Ottawa on Sunday morning after having played their first game in the intermediate series of the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Their opponents were the Ottawa 2nd Fifteen, and whilst the locals were defeated, it must be remembered that they were turned down by one point only, and in the return game which will be played here on Saturday next, there is every reason to believe that matters will be reversed.

The match came at a rather unfortunate date as far as Peterborough was concerned, as the 57th Regiment, of which a number of the players are members, was in Toronto for three or four days preceding the match and were not therefore in the best of condition, and again a couple of players were unable to come at the last moment, which necessitated the management rousing Anglesey out of his bed to accompany the team on Friday night. The boys reached Ottawa in due time and registered at the Cecil. The match was played on the grounds of Ottawa College, commencing at 11.30 o'clock. The teams were pretty evenly matched as to size and the game throughout was close and hard fought.

The men lined up as follows:

Peterborough.		Ottawa.
Scott	full back	McGee
Burnham, Capt.	halves	O'Hara
McPherson		Codd
Picard		Hutchinson
Graham	quarter	Austin
Revell	scrimmage	Lion
Dalnard		Kuntz
Noble		Morgan
Dillon	wings	O'Gara
Crowley		Woods
Maher		Dupoulin
Rickey		Doile
R F McWilliams		Chittick
Paterson		B Wood
Angelsey		Fagan

Referee — Eddie Gleason.
Umpire — Mr. Devine.
Touchline Judges — Messrs. King and Cameron.
Goal Judges — Messrs. H R. H. Kenner and A. N. Other.

The game did not develop into a rough exhibition of Rugby and any tendancy on the part of the home team in that direction was kept down by the officials. The Ottawa team had the wind with them in the first half, in which half they scored their first and only point. The work of McPherson and Scott during this period is said to have been great. It was largely owing to their desperate efforts that the Senators did not score more points.

In the second half the Ottawa men gained possession of the ball and by hard play and close scrimmage held it nearly all the time, thus preventing the visitors from scoring by having the advantage of the wind.

All the players speak most enthusiastically of the work of Andy Scott at full back. Altogether the team played a splendid game, and are certain of a victory in Peterborough this coming Saturday. However, the match may, and will in fact most likely be close enough, as there were at least three of Ottawa's best intermediate players that accompanied the first fifteen to Hamilton as spare men.

Eddie Gleason, who refereed the game, gave every satisfaction, and has been invited to referee the return game in Peterborough.

One of the soldier members of the team, overslept himself in Ottawa on Saturday night, but got back to town this morning.

Hon. President Kenner accompanied the boys as usual and gave them every encouragement.

The game on Saturday should draw a very large attendance. The locals will put forth every effort to win.

A meeting of the executive is called for this evening in the Y.M.C.A. at 9.30 o'clock. The meeting is of much importance to members of the executive.

Practices will be held on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights in the drill shed, and on Wednesday afternoon of this week. Every player, Junior, Intermediate and Senior is asked to turn out.

"Mac" McClellan has announced his intention to jump into the game this week.

T. C. S. 14, PETERBOROUGH II. 6.

Owing to a misunderstanding the Trinity College School boys came up for a game with the Peterborough II. team on Saturday and found that no preparations had been made to get a team together to play them. The best efforts of the local hustlers were put forth but unfortunately the fifteen which was gathered up at short notice was not by any means as strong a one as a week's notice would have ensured. The boys, however, did their best and succeeded in holding the score down to 14-0. With the assistance of several men who could not play at such short notice Peterborough II. should be able to win from Trinity on their own grounds.

The teams were composed as follows:—

T. C. S.		Peterborough II.
Langslow	back	Sandy Hall
Walker	halves	Claude Rogers
McPherson		H Armstrong
Tett		Fred McGrath
Lossen	quarter	Norman Bell
Paschal	scrimmage	Pozer
Stinson		Dobbin
Berry		Walkey
Bevan	wings	Hammond
H Rogers		G Rogers
Melghan		McCaffrey
Deacon		HRush
Smith		Mac. Morden
Codwell		Quinn
Curry		F Bradburn

Mr. Hollingshead and Mr. Fred Sawers, the later of whom accompanied the team from Port Hope, looked after the whistles.

The Peterborough boys complain of being considerably rattled by the orders issued by one of the veterans who stood along the line. It is just as well to let the captain do any directing which is to be done.

Unfortunately a horse was driven on the bicycle track on Saturday, which may make it awkward for the football club to get the grounds on another occasion.

RUGBY NOTES.

The Y.M.C.A. has generously placed dressing rooms and other privileges at the disposal of the Rugby team and the boys can dress for the night practices hereafter much more conveniently.

The Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment has very kindly granted the Rugby team the use of the drill shed for night practices, the first of which will take place this evening. There will also be night practices on Tuesday and Thursday. On Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock a grand practice will take place on the P.A.A.A. grounds at which every member is requested to turn out.

ASPHODEL WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Tedie Buck and Mr. Harry F. Wildman.

The marriage of Miss Tedie Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Buck, to Mr. Harry Franklin Wildman, took place on Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents in the Township of Asphodel. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by Rev. R. Taylor, pastor of the Methodist church.

The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of white organdie, trimmed with lace and insertion, and was attended by Miss L. Blake, of Havelock, and Miss Pearl Buck as maid of honour, while Mr. Scott Wildman, brother of the groom, performed the duties of groomsman.

About one hundred relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present to witness the happy event and at the conclusion of the ceremony congratulated the newly wedded couple most heartily. The guests then repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served, after which social amusements were indulged in for a short time, when the happy young couple left for their future residence amid a shower of rice and followed by the best wishes of a host of friends.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of valuable presents.

THE ROLE OF MISREPRESENTATION.

This is an age of enterprise, and the formation of new associations for the prosecution of industries is a feature of it. A new syndicate seems to have been formed in Toronto, to be properly known as the Calumny Syndicate, whose business is to promote political ends by calumnating and slandering political opponents, especially prominent public men. In the Toronto Mail and Empire of Friday last was an article calumniating and misrepresenting the position of Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary. In the Toronto News of the following day, a substantially similar article appears under the heading, "Mr. Stratton's Graft." The article begins with a falsehood, and continues consistently on the same line. It asserts that Mr. Stratton attempted to "obtain possession of a valuable water power on the Trent Valley Canal for himself and a few friends." This is, as has frequently been publicly stated, a falsehood. Mr. Stratton has no earthly interest in the application for, or the acquirement of power at No. 5 dam, applied for by the Otonabee Power Company, except the interest which any progressive citizen had, or has, in seeing power developed for urgently required manufacturing purposes. Play upon the idea as they may, torture the facts as the syndicate may in its endeavour to injure Mr. Stratton as a public man, the truth is as stated. In its eagerness to make its point, the News does not hesitate to repeat another falsehood, that the Otonabee Power Company was given a lease of power by the Government at 60 cents per horse power. The price per horse power agreed upon was $2.00 per horse power, and no lower figure was ever considered. Moved, no doubt by the consideration that if one tells enough lies some of them will stick, the News continues. It asserts what everybody in Peterborough knows to be false, when it says, referring to the granting of a lease to the Otonabee Power Company:

> "As was to be expected, there was a storm of indignation when these terms were made known. Town Council, Board of Trade, private companies, private citizens, everything that represented public spirit in Peterborough, rose in arms against the iniquitous deal."

The only approximation to fact in this tissue of misstatements, is the statement that "private companies (two) rose in arms." And what were these two companies that "rose in arms!" A light company and a power company that had entered into a written agreement binding each other to keep up the price of light and power respectively, and they "rose in arms" because the Otonabee Power Company proposed to break the monopoly (which was retarding manufacturing development), by selling power at $15 per horse power. Three or four manufacturing concerns wished to establish themselves in Peterborough, and needed cheap power. The existing monopolistic power companies had no power to sell; if they had had, when applied to, they held it at a prohibitory price. The Otonabee Power Company was organized to supply power at $15 per horse power, and applied for and was granted a lease at two dollars per horse power, not sixty cents, as falsely stated. Then the monopolists kicked, went to Ottawa, and placed their objections before the Minister. Desiring to disarm objection, the Minister withdrew the lease, and put the power at No. 5 dam up to tender. If the statements made by the monopolists, that the Otonabee Power Company was getting unfair advantages for political reasons, was true, then this action placed them and the Otonabee Power Company on equal terms; whoever made the highest bid for the power would get it. The Otonabee Power Company being a bona fide concern applying for power for development purposes, and power being immediately needed, on the strength of the promised lease, had made contracts and gone to considerable expense in developing power at No. 5 dam, and it was only common fairness to stipulate, as was stipulated, in the notice inviting tenders, that the successful tenderer should recoup the company for the expense to which it was committed, and half actually incurred. There can be no hardship in this, for the successful tenderer will have the advantage of whatever development work has been done. There is no hardship in these conditions, only fair play.

If the Otonabee Power Company should in public competition obtain the lease, that means no monopoly. There are three other dams available, and power may be secured at them on the same terms by anybody who wishes in reality to develop power.

The Toronto Calumny Syndicate misrepresents the whole situation. There was no action taken by the Town Council and Board of Trade, as stated in the above quotation, in reference to the Otonabee Power Company, no indignation expressed, no rising in arms. The News misrepresents the popular feeling, and it misrepresents everything else in regard to the matter. There is hardly a statement in the whole article that is in accord with the facts. The object seems to be to misrepresent the relations of a public man in the transaction in question, and to colour or misstate the facts to justify this misrepresentation. It is a cowardly and mean way of discussing public questions. The Opposition press, having nothing in the record or policy of the Government on which to base attack, resorts to the unworthy practice of vilifying the members of the Government in person, even straight lying and crooked treatment of facts not being too base a means to employ.

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Ottawa Military Store Fittings," will be received at this office until Wednesday, 23rd October, inclusively, for the fittings required for the Military Store Building at Ottawa.

Plans and specification can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this Department.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equel to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the party decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,

A LINER PUNCTURED.

The Tritonia Has a Hole Nine Feet Long in Keel Plate.

MAY HAVE DROWNED HERSELF.

Pitiful Case of Insane Widow's Probable Suicide at Fort Erie, Ont.—Canadian Railways Get Another Breathing Space—Beeton's Bylaw Passed—Santos Dumont Again Fails With Dirigible Balloon.

Beeton's bylaw to raise $7,000 by debentures for the extension of the electric light system and street improvement was voted on Friday, and carried by a majority of 84.

Santos H. Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, made another attempt on Friday to win the Deutsch prize, but, owing to an accident to the rudder of his flying machine, he was obliged to return to the starting place after going fifty yards.

The Canadian railways which are charged with violating the international commerce regulations regarding the carriage of hay and straw have been notified that the enquiry which was to have been held by the Interstate Commerce Commission at New York this month has been postponed for the present.

The Donald Liner Tritonia, from Montreal, ran aground off St. Antoine, Thursday night. She arrived at Quebec Friday morning, where divers found her keel plate seriously punctured about nine feet in length. After being surveyed she was taken into dock to discharge cargo out of No. 1 hold.

Mrs. Charles Crocoll of Fort Erie, Ont., is missing from her home. It is thought she has committed suicide by drowning herself in the Niagara River. She was no doubt temporarily insane. She was a widow. She leaves a family of seven children, the youngest a little girl of 4 or 5 years, with no visible means of support.

BILE POISON IN THE SYSTEM

The Result of Deranged Liver—How the Other Organs are Affected—Dr. Chase's Treatment for the Liver.

No organ in the human body has a greater influence on the general health than the liver.

A torpid, sluggish liver leaves poisonous, morbid bile in the blood, which upsets the action of the whole sytem.

There is indigestion, fullness, fermentation, flatulency and oppression in the stomach.

The tongue is coated, the head aches and there is loss of sleep, depression of spirits, and spells of dizziness and weakness.

The bowels are constipated and loose by turns, and griping pains are frequent.

The skin tells of the poisonous state of the blood, by pimples, blotches and liver spots.

In sympathy with the liver the kidneys become clogged and inactive, the urine highly coloured, and there are pains in the back and under the left shoulder blade.

Shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart and derangements of the menstrual functions are among the symptoms of liver complaint.

You should not expect to find all these symptoms in any one case, but if any of them are present, it is time to take prompt action to relieve the system of these morbid poisons.

The liver must have assistance.

The process of restoration will be hastened if the kidneys are also invigorated and strengthened.

Both these filtering systems are acted on directly and promptly by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is through the liver and kidneys alone that the blood can be freed of all impurities and the morbid matter which collects there when the liver is deranged.

Many a suffering man, many a despondent woman, has been cured of the above distressing ailments by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the only remedy that has a combined action on both liver and kidneys.

The wisdom of Dr. Chase in preparing this wonderful remedy has been proven in scores of thousands of cases of complicated diseases of the liver and kidneys, which could be reached by no other remedy.

You do not require faith to be cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The first dose will help you, and a few boxes at most will positively cure the most severe case of liver complaint or kidney disease. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or postpaid by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 7

Paper Quilts.

In some parts of England there is quite a trade carried on by poor people in making paper quilts for their poorer neighbors. They are simply composed of sheets of brown paper sewed together and perforated all over at distances of an inch or two apart, covered with chints or cretonne on one side and lined with patchwork or old sheets—anything available in fact. They make surprisingly warm covers and are much appreciated.—London Tit-Bits

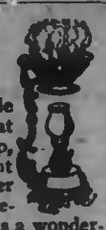
"BEST AND CHEAPEST"

Never was a greater truth than when said of Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills. 10c. a vial.

Little prices, little doses, but little terrors to drive out impurities and leave you a clear brain and a bright eye.

Do you suffer from Constipation or other disorder arising from this cause? Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are safe and pleasant cure. Large size, 25 cents for 100 pills. 53

Do You See It?



Look carefully at this little picture. There's a great deal to it. There's a lamp, that makes the heat. Right over it is the vaporizer that holds the Vapo-Cresolene. This Cresolene is a wonderful medicine. It kills most kinds of disease germs, and is a most remarkable healing agent. You simply breathe-in the vapor of it, that's all; it goes all through your bronchial tubes, curing asthma, croup, coughs, catarrh, whooping-cough. 11

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE Co., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Recommended and sold in Peterborough by H. H. Edmison, druggist.

THE WEAVER.

Through the busy hours, with a thread of brown,
I weave all day a plain brown gown;
It is dull and coarse and commonplace
And the skill of the weaver its chiefest grace.

But, ah, in the realm where I reign a queen
There is royal purple, with silver sheen;
There is cloth of gold, with jewels rare!
Oh, the realm of the soul is a realm so fair!

There's a fabric as pure as a snow white bird;
It is made of the thoughts my soul has heard;
It is chaste and white and soft as spray.
Oh, the realm of dreams that we dream by day!

There's a robe of the deepest crimson glow;
'Twas the blood of my heart that made it so.
The chalice is broken and lies at my feet.
But I drank the drugs and called them sweet.

There's a garment spun of the sunset's gold,
And on dull, gray days, when my heart grows cold,
And the shadows deepen, and the lights burn low,
I wind about me its golden glow.

Oh, the thread of brown is not what it seems,
For in and out in the mesh of my dreams
It is weaving the fabric of life today
That carries my soul in its regal array!

—Muriel Strode in Chicago Post.

Too Realistic.

"Look here," said a Suffolk farmer to a friend, "I'm going to kill my pig, but I owe so much pork to my neighbors that I shall have none left for myself if I pay it all back. What would you do?"

"Quite easy to trick 'em," said the friend. "Kill your pig and leave it hanging outside until late at night, so's every one can see it. Then take it in and say some one stole it. Stick to the tale, and you'll be all right."

The farmer followed instructions, and the kind friend watched his chance and stole the pig. The poor farmer came around next morning to tell what had happened.

"Somebody's stolen my pig!" he cried.

"Good!" said the friend. "Stick to it, and the neighbors 'll believe you, sure enough."

"But it was stolen, I tell you!"

"Excellent!" quoth the friend. "Just you stick to the tale."

"You confounded ass!" yelled the farmer. "Don't you understand? It was really stolen!"

"Superb!" laughed the delighted friend. "You ought to have been an actor, so you ought."

That Suffolk farmer slammed the door and went away fuming.

Fire Among the Redwoods.

Perhaps the most startling phenomenon of the fire was the quick death of childlike sequoias only a century or two ago, says John Muir in The Atlantic. In the midst of the other comparatively slow and steady fire work one of these tall, beautiful saplings, leafy and branchy, would be seen blazing up suddenly all in one heaving, booming, passionate flame reaching from the ground to the top of the tree and fifty to a hundred feet or more above it, with a smoke column bending forward and streaming away on the upper free flowing wind.

To burn these green trees a strong fire of dry wood beneath them is required to send up a current of air hot enough to distill inflammable gases from the leaves and sprays; then, instead of the lower limbs gradually catching fire and igniting the next and next in succession, the whole tree seems to explode almost simultaneously, and with awful roaring and throbbing a round tapering flame shoots up 200 or 300 feet, and in a second or two is quenched, leaving the green spire a black dead mast bristled and roughened with down curling boughs.

To Cure Round Shoulders.

In the case of round shoulders the muscles of the back are likely to stiffen from disuse. A special exercise to get them into a limber condition seems to be necessary. Stretch out and down with the arms until they nearly touch the floor, bending back in like manner. To successfully accomplish the latter sit on a stool before an upright piano or heavy desk, plant your knees firmly against the furniture until you have a good support, then slowly bend backward with your hand pointed over your head. At first you think you will surely crack in half, so stiff are the muscles, but astonishingly soon comes the pliability, and as it is impossible to fall your progress is easy and rapid. This exercise if persisted in will straighten out a curved spine, but it must be done gently and with patience, because the tendons in the back are delicate and must not be coerced.

A Knock out for Asthma.

You have had many disappointments, filled your stomach with nasty drugs, tried lots of things, but they all failed. Not being a stomach complaint, of course Asthma can't be cured by stomach medicine. But Catarrhozone cures Asthma; it gives it a tired feeling in about 15 minutes. Inhale Catarrhozone; it makes breathing easy, cures the cough, makes you well. Doctors say there is nothing like Catarrhozone for Asthma. 25 cents and $1.00.

ENGLAND'S SEA GYPSIES.

A Strange Little Tribe That Lives Always on Boats.

A strange and almost unknown part of the population (if it can be called that) of the British Isles is the queer semiwild folk known as sea gypsies. Real gypsies they are, differing from their fellow gypsies in the fact that they always live on the sea and that, never having mingled with landsmen, their type is much purer and more nearly resembles the original.

There are about 500 sea gypsies in Britain. They cruise along the coast, seldom touching the land, but always close to it, in old and weatherbeaten craft that may have carried their grandfathers.

When the tide is out, the old craft will often drop anchor by a sand bank island far out at sea, and her crew will grub for cockles with their hands, filling a score of baskets, but saying nothing to each other, for they are almost out of the habit of speech. They find fifty shellfish where the ordinary fisherman finds one, but they rarely do the same thing two days running, and in the next hour they may be snaring rabbits on a headland miles away.

The sea gypsies are wild eyed and thickset. Their hair is always either jet black or golden. They are still of almost pure Norse or Danish descent, never having used the land and mixed with the shore folk to any extent. Their hands seem to be all thumbs instead of fingers, so powerful and stubby are the digits, because they have done nothing but haul ropes and dig in the wet sand.

A CLIPPING FROM PLATTSVILLE ECHO

Mrs. J. Barnett Figures in an Interesting Article in the Local Paper.

Interviewed by a Representative of the Echo—Story of Her Trouble as Related by Herself—Her Opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Plattsville, Ont., Oct. 13. (Special).—The case of Mrs. J. Barnett of this town was found of sufficient importance to be published at length in the Plattsville Echo. To the representative of that live local paper she made the following statement concerning her experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills:—

"I have been ailing for years, but in the spring of last year, I grew very much worse. The symptoms of my disease were nervousness, rheumatism in the left arm, pains in the small of the back, up the spinal column and back of the head, through the eyes, left side of the body and occasionally the right side.

"I grew weak, for I had no appetite and night after night I could not sleep. I was a physical wreck. I was treated by doctors, but their medicines afforded me no relief. I chanced to read in Dodd's Almanac of the virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills and the wonderful cures effected by them.

"The symptoms as therein explained corresponded with my own, and I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills according to directions. Before I had finished one box there was a decided improvement in my condition. My appetite returned, the pain was lessened and I was able to sleep. I have taken in all twelve boxes and have completely recovered. No sign of my old trouble remains and I ascribe it only to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful discovery."

This clipping is reproduced as it is typical of the way so many women feel about Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been often truly called "Woman's best friend."

Boring Wasps.

"Wasps were the first paper makers," said an entomologist. "It is very interesting to study the ways of these fierce little insects. For the sake of a grab at the honey store a single individual will sometimes face a whole hive of bees, being in fair combat a match for any three inhabitants of the apiary. Most of us have had experience of the fearlessness with which they will attack human beings."

CAUSE TO REJOICE.

The earth was not made in a day, neither is rheumatism cured in a day. Mrs. Jacob Dairmaid, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. Half a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure gave her ease and five bottles, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, effected a permanent cure. Her many friends are rejoiced at her recovery. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

FIVE LITTLE FOXES.

Among my tender vines I spy
A little fox named—By and By.

Then set upon him quick, I say,
The swift young hunter—Right Away.

Around each tender vine I plant
I find the little fox—I Can't.

Then, fast as ever hunter can,
Chase him with bold and brave—I Can.

No use in trying—lags and whines
This fox among my tender vines.

Then drive him low and drive him high,
With this good hunter, named—I'll Try.

Among the vines in my small lot
Creeps in the young fox—I Forgot.

Then hunt him out and to his pen,
With—I Will Not Forget Again.

A little fox is hidden there
Among my vines, named—I Don't Care.

Then let I'm Sorry-hunter true—
Chase him afar from vines and you.

SMALL CALIBER RIFLES.

How They May Be Kept Clean With a Squirt of Water.

"Now, I'll tell you something that will save you the trouble and expense of bringing this gun to me again," said the expert gunsmith to the owner of a .22 caliber magazine rifle, the barrel of which had become so foul that it would not shoot true.

"The rifles of this gun are not leaded. They are simply caked up with powder. All small caliber rifles get that way when ordinary, soft bullets are shot out of them. This caked powder is as hard as steel, and if I were to try to get it out with instruments I would ruin several dollars' worth of tools. Water is the thing to use. Water is the greatest solvent known, but very few people, particularly people who handle guns, seem to appreciate it. They nearly always try to clean their gun barrels with oil when water will do the work twice as well.

"You use this rifle mostly for shooting frogs, don't you? I thought so. That is what most men use a .22 caliber for. And you sometimes shoot it several hundred times a day, and you find it too much trouble to wipe it out every few shots. Ain't I right? I knew it. Now, let me tell you what to do. Get a small syringe that you can carry in your vest pocket, and after every ten or twelve shots squirt a syringeful of water into the barrel of your gun from the breech, then shoot a cartridge out of it while it is wet. If you will follow this plan, you can shoot your gun 10,000 times and never need to clean it. The water softens the powder that has accumulated in the rifles and the bullet forces it out.

"Use plenty of water in the barrel of your rifle, very little oil in the lock, and never under any circumstances put coal oil in the works, and you will save yourself much vexation and always have a smooth working gun."

Anecdote of Sims Reeves.

An operatic singer tells the following little known anecdote relating to the late Mr. Sims Reeves: About the middle of the sixties, while the eminent tenor was living in a hotel of a town on the south coast, he made a wager with another guest that he would black his face, proceed to the beach and sing a few of the songs which had made him famous without recognition. Sims Reeves duly disguised himself and rendered to a sparse audience "Tom Bowling," "My Pretty Jane," etc.; but, strange to say, he did not receive much in the way of appreciation or financial tributes from the beach loungers. Hat in hand the tenor approached an elderly gentleman who was standing apart and requested a trifling honorarium, but the stranger had recognized the great vocalist despite his ebon hued skin, and he replied with decision:

"Not this time, Mr. Sims Reeves! My wife is mad about your performances, and you have cost me many a guinea. You have just treated me to the luxury of listening to you without any ruinous expense being attached."

"Confound you," said Reeves, "you have made me lose my bet! Come to my hotel and have a drink."

The stranger accepted the hospitable invitation.

Children's Meals.

Children should be taught to be regular at their meals and to take nothing between meals. This rule applies to infants as well as to older children. The practice of feeding the little one every time it cries is a most serious injury to its weak digestive organs. An infant's stomach, though it needs food at more frequent intervals—two to four hours, according to its age—requires the same regularity which is essential to the maintenance of healthy digestion in older persons. The irregularity usually practiced is undoubtedly one of the greatest causes of the fearful mortality of infants from disorders of the digestive organs, as appears in our mortuary reports.

Cornmeal.

Before using cornmeal in a bread always scald it to soften its starch. There is not time enough during the baking for this to be done properly. Do this by scalding half of the milk or water you use, then pour it hot over the cornmeal. Next add the eggs, the rest of the cold liquid, then the flour and baking powder sifted together.—Good Housekeeping.

Pepper.

The value of pepper was known of old. We read that when Rome had to be ransomed from the barbarian conqueror in the year 400 Alaric demanded 3,000 pounds of pepper among the payments and that Hippocrates used it in medicine, applying it to the skin.

Jezebel, the queen of Ahab, according to one of the rabbis, had "black eyes that were set on fire of hell."

When a man is drowning his rescue is a question of timely help. It is the same thing in disease. Many a time the doctor says of a man whose condition is hopeless, "If you'd begun in time you might have been cured."

This is especially true when the disease affects the lungs. Delay is dangerous. The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will result in a quick cure of deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, and weak lungs. Even when hemorrhages have been frequent and profuse "Golden Medical Discovery" has been used time and again with the result of a perfect and permanent cure. Mr. McCauley, of Leechburg, Armstrong Co., Pa., had eighty-one hemorrhages, and after other medical aid had failed he was completely cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine just as good for "weak" lungs.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Ind. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung troubles. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I had Grippe and it settled on my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE HANDY FOLDING RULE

An Old Standby of the Mechanic In Greater Demand Than Ever.

"There are about a million different kinds of rules," said a dealer in hardware and tools, "the rules being something of well nigh universal use in one form or another in pretty much all trades, but here's one old standby that we sell more of now than ever, this being the folding rule.

"There are plenty of rules that fold, the commonly known two foot rule being a familiar example, but this particular old rule that I speak of is known by name as the folding rule.

"It is made in foot long sections, in various lengths, ranging from two to ten feet and over ten, if required, but three feet, five feet, any number of feet, the rule, whatever its total length, folds up completely into a bundle a foot long. The slats are thin and folded up, and even a ten foot rule takes up little room. It can be quite conveniently carried in the pocket.

"Lots of people use folding rules—plumbers, for instance, in measuring pipes and in measuring places for pipes. In measuring a distance greater than the spread of the arms with a tape two men are required, but one man can measure with a folding rule as far as the rule can reach, and with such a rule he can, single handed, measure around corners or in the angles of wall and ceiling or in any other bend or crevice. We sell lots of them nowadays to electricians, who use them in measuring for wiring houses, and we sell them to various other users, the six foot rule being the one most commonly sold.

"Such rules, of whatever length, are sold by the foot, at 8 cents a foot."

The Tunnel Was Forgotten.

At Brussels the visitor is often struck by the extreme thinness of the earth covering the Braine le Comte tunnel and wonders why the common sense of the engineers who made the line did not direct them to continue the cutting and thus avoid a subterranean passage.

The mystery is thus explained: When railways were in their veriest infancy, the Belgian government sent a party of engineers over to England to acquire experience in construction of the new iron highways, and on their return they were instructed to lay out the first railway in that enterprising little kingdom. The work was accordingly put in hand, but on its completion one of the engineers exclaimed:

"Good gracious, we have forgotten the tunnel!"

The consternation was general, especially when it was remembered that there was not a single line in England but could boast of a tunnel. What was to be done? Nothing but to construct the long corridor at Braine le Comte, and when it was finished the earth was put on top. The tunnel was the glory of the line.

Massage For the Scalp.

The hair falls out when the strength of its roots is insufficient to sustain its weight any longer, and a new hair will take its place unless the root is diseased. For this reason each person has a certain definite length of hair. When the hair begins to split or fall out, massage of the scalp is excellent.

Place the tips of the fingers firmly upon the scalp, and then vibrate or move the scalp while holding the pressure steadily. This will stimulate the blood vessels underneath and bring the blood vessels underneath and bring about better nourishment of the hair. A brush of unevenly tufted bristles is also excellent to use upon the scalp, not the hair.

FLOWER AND TREE.

Pruning to excess or too frequent or too long is weakening to the tree.

When a branch is removed, the cutting should be close, leaving no stub.

The apple, pear, quince and thorn can be grafted one on another, with varying success.

Wormy fruit in the orchard is best disposed of by the sheep. They eat all without making any choice, as pigs do.

Planting a few trees every fall or spring, as may be convenient, helps materially to keep up a supply of good fruit.

The cherry, peach, apricot, nectarine and almond require a light, dry and warm soil, but may be grown on loose, sandy soils.

Saltpeter is recommended as a quick acting fertiliser for flower beds that seem to be languishing, especially those that show small and pale leafage.

Peach and plum trees are both less liable to diseases when grown in the poultry yard. The trees will make a better growth, and at the same time afford shade for the fowls.

Geraniums that have been used for summer bloomers will not flower again until the late spring months. Geraniums for winter blooming should be grown especially for that purpose by keeping the flower buds nipped off until August.

Love at First Sight.

We talk of love at first sight, but what shall we say of people who have never seen each other marrying and being not unhappy? "Courting," said an Irishman, "is like dying—sure a man must do it for himself."

In some countries—as, for instance, Sweden—this is not the case. There the marriages of young people are made for them by their parents, and they only begin to court when they are wedded. This sounds wrong and absurd in theory, but it often works well in practice. Indeed young people ask the advice of their parents much too little about that which is perhaps the most serious and important undertaking in life—marriage. Too many of them are like the young lady who said she hoped she might be cut into ten thousand triangles if she did not know more of everything than did her mother. So they consult no one and insist on gaining experience at a great cost to themselves.

BOILS CURED
When oxygen is lacking in the blood it is generally impure. Oxygen is an element of Nature: it is used by Nature to purify impurities—it is Nature's medicine. That's why Powley's Liquified Ozone is such a valuable preparation to cure blood disorders or system weakness of any kind. Read this evidence.
THE OZONE COMPANY, Ltd., TORONTO, ONT.
Gentlemen: I consider it my duty to inform you that having suffered for 14 years from impure blood and very painful boils, I have been completely cured by using one bottle of your preparation, "Powley's Liquified Ozone." I am thankful to you and gladly give you my testimonial, and should I have any further illness of any description, "Ozone" will be my remedy. I cheerfully recommend its use to all those suffers with whom I come in contact.
(Signed) P. TREMPE, 341 Panet St., Montreal, P. Q.
The way to treat all blood disorders is by taking Powley's Liquified Ozone in internal doses and outward applications. If you suffer from pimples, sores and boils, bathe the parts in hot water to which you have added two tablespoonfuls of Ozone. Directly after bathe in cold water to which has been added the same quantity of Ozone, i. e., two table spoonfuls. It won't take long—It's a simple treatment and you'll be cured.
Write our doctors about your case. Give every detail and get advice absolutely free. Your letter is confidential. Address the Consulting Department, The Liquid Ozone Co., 220 Kinzie Street, Chicago.

THE INTESTINES AND THEIR USE
Few people understand that it is in the intestines, which are about 25 feet long, that food is transformed into chyle, which being absorbed into the general circulation, is formed into blood. The intestines are composed of a spiral coil of muscles rrounded by a coating resembling celluloid and filled, with millions of glands. The muscular walls serve to keep in motion the food which has been previously dissolved in the stomach, until the glands have absorbed all the chyle to sustain the human body, and finally force into the rectum all the waste or valueless material. The chief disease of the intestines is constipation through lack of muscular power. Then again many people are thin and emaciated, because the glands of the intestines are insufficiently active to abstract the food matter, hence much valuable nutriment goes to waste. In both these cases Merrill's System Tonic is a most valuable remedy. The alterative properties strengthen the glands and thin people find themselves taking on flesh without any apparent cause and the valuable tonics contained in System Tonic permanently cure constipation by strengthening the muscles of the intestinal walls. This is vastly a superior method to taking irritating pills or physic of which the use of one dose creates a greater necessity for another. If you are unreasonably thin or pale and troubled with irregularity of the bowels, Merrill's System Tonic is the only remedy that guarantees you a perfect cure in a reasonable time.

AN INTERESTING SERMON

At Charlotte Street Church Last Night

By Rev. C. Parker of Colborne—Special Services Yesterday Morning and Evening.

Last evening at Charlotte street church an exceptionally interesting sermon was delivered by Rev. C. Parker, of Colborne, from the text Ecclesiastics xi, 1, "Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shall find it after many days."

Beginning, he said, these were the words of Soloman. He was a great man and great men are like great thoughts—very scarce. We do not appreciate the greatness of some men till after their death, and of some it takes a long time to get their guage.

After some remarks on the exceptional greatness of Soloman, he proceeded to interpret and apply his text, first as to nations and then as to man individually. The idea was taken from the ancient custom prevalent in eastern countries of scattering grain on the water so that when the overflow subsided the grain would find a resting place in the soil. In applying this idea to nations he used various types. All nations had their life and death. The history of the past was strewn with the wreck of great nations; nations that had risen and shone resplendent for a period and now were buried and forgotten in the cemetery of the past from whence they would come at the last before the Great Judge.

For instance, look at Greece, the ancient home of knowledge, philosophy and culture; look at Rome with her 120 provinces, her Caesars, literature, etc. Where were they now? They had sown their seed on the water—the seed of sensuality and immorality and had reaped their harvest. In a like manner fared the Jews. They sowed their seed and as was prophesied were scattered throughout the world, and in this fulfillment of prophesy we have one of the strongest proofs of the authenticity of the Bible.

In referring to modern nations he spoke of Great Britain. England came into the world with Christianity, and by her sowings, i.e. wrongs redressed and truth upheld, we need not fear for her harvest for the bread cast on the waters will return to her a thousand fold.

Turning then to men, as individuals, he said we were every day casting our bread on the waters. The Lord made us to be men, not apes; we must work ourselves, not imitate others, and our destinies were in our own hands. Young men must not look on but must work and succeed by their own courage. We must have the courage to sow at home and in the world.

We cannot expect to reap as soon as we sow. The farmer has to wait between seed time and harvest, and so must we, but we must do the right thing at the right time, and not delay and frolic as some do till it is too late to sow. Remember, too, that "Whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap." If we sow wild oats we cannot expect to reap aright, but if we sow aright we shall reap a great and glorious harvest.

So let us ask help from on high that we may sow sound grain and reap a goodly harvest, and seek strength that at the harvest we may hear the Master say to us "Well done."

WAIT FOR IT—WATCH FOR IT —STAY FOR IT.

The gala opening event of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company will take place in their premises, No. 403 George street, on Wednesday afternoon, October 16th.

The doors will be thrown open at one o'clock p.m. for the reception of the public, and a cordial invitation is herewith publicly extended to the whole town to be present.

This is to be a clothing store, pure and simple. The brand-new stock of high-class overcoats, ulsters and suits is arriving daily and being opened out as fast as the manufacturers can produce it.

The T. O. Rush Company wish to impress upon the public the fact that their stock has not been selected indiscriminately from the stowaways of a wholesale house, but has been specially made to their own order within the past few weeks, with up-to-date styles, designs and finish, in accordance with their own ideas of what first-class ready-to-wear clothing should be.

The store premises will be handsomely dressed and decorated for this opening event, and the services of the 57th Batt. Band has been secured for a concert to be given at the store in the evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

Let there be no engagement to prevent you from attending this interesting event on Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 16th.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

GOLF.

Saturday next is to be field day on the Golf Links, as the President vs. Captain match is scheduled to be played. All players wishing to participate are requested to send in their names to either Mr. Peter Campbell or Mr. R. M. Hamilton in order that they may be drawn against an opponent. Dinner will be served at the club house at half past six o'clock at twenty-five cents a head.

RUGBY.

A despatch from London, Eng., says: "The possibility of a British visit from a Canadian Rugby football team, in December, 1902, is arousing the keenest interest in sporting circles. At the annual meeting of the Scottish Rugby Football Union in Edinburg it was stated the Glasgow clubs were prepared to combine to raise a guarantee fund. The Union grounds in Edinburgh will be provisionally promised for one or two matches. The border clubs also approved the proposal." Couldn't Peterborough supply a player or two?

BOWLING.

The rink championship of the bowling green will be settled on Wednesday afternoon, when the semi-finals and finals will be played off. The first draw is as follows:—

Geo Edmison vs. R Kerr.
E C Complin vs. Alf Terrill.
W J English vs. M Green.

Fifteen point games will be played and the matches begin at 3 o'clock. Skips are requested to notify the bona-fide members of their rinks to be present.

LACROSSE.

The Port Hope team was royally banquetted on Friday evening by the citizens of that town, and as they were waited upon by the young ladies the evening proved one of social enjoyment. The Guide, in its report of the affair, makes the following notes of local interest:

"Messrs. Jack McCabe, of Peterborough, and Jack Nattrass, of Millbrook, two of the Ontarios' speedy home players, made a few remarks, and hoped they would have the privilege of again assisting Port Hope, a town which they had become greatly attached to because of its sporty inhabitants. They also thanked the ladies for this excellent evidence of good will, and assured them it was greatly appreciated.

"Much regret was expressed at the unavoidable absence of Rolly Glover, of Peterborough, another of our star home players, who has played a most conscientious and earnest game for the honour of this town, and has taken severe knocks on several occasions without a murmur."

HOCKEY.

This season Port Hope will be much stronger than last year and have a good team for the O.H.A. intermediate series. Mike McMillan, their speedy forward, will be moved back to goal, he being an acquisition in either position, and besides the Ontarios have a man to replace Michael. They have a splendid new point man, and to cap it all word comes that the Port Hope people are to begin on their new covered rink.

CURLING.

At the annual meeting of the Lindsay Curling Club on Friday the following officers for the year were elected:—

Patron—Dr. A E Vrooman, M.P.

CHURCH CHIPS.

Anniversary services will be held in All Saints' next Sunday.

The Mark street Methodist church will hold its anniversary tea and concert this evening in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. An enjoyable time is looked for.

The anthem last evening in All Saints' church was entitled "Wandering Child Come Home." The solo was taken in excellent taste by Mr. James Browne.

A large congregation assembled in St. Luke's church last evening to hear the second of a series of sermons on "The Sacrifices of the Jews," by Rev. E.A. Langfeldt.

At evening service in George street church yesterday Mr. Mulligan sang a very pleasing solo entitled "Man of Sorrows." The evening anthem by the choir was "If Ye Love Me Keep My Commandments." Baritone solo by Mr. Mulligan.

Is Your Piano in Tune?

RAILWAY COLLISION

Fatal Pitch-in on the C. P. R. at Mackie's Station, Nipissing.

FOUR TRAINMEN WERE KILLED

Freight and Cattle Trains Crash Together —Both Engines and Many Cars Completely Demolished—Dead Belong to Mattawa and North Bay— One a Sergeant in First S. A. Contingent.

North Bay, Oct. 14.—Four men killed, rolling stock damaged to the extent of thousands of dollars, and traffic delayed for hours, are the results of a disastrous accident that took place on Saturday night at 9.30, 3½ miles east of Mackie's, between Mattawa and this place on the C.P.R.

These are dead: James Phillips, fireman; George Thomas, fireman; Lew Morell, brakeman; Herbert Allen, brakeman.

These were seriously injured: George Elliott, engineer; — Christopher, engineer.

The fatalities were the result of a collision between a stock train from Manitoba and a freight from the east. The stock train, in charge of Engineer Christopher and Fireman James Phillips, left North Bay on Saturday afternoon, and all went well until Mackie's was neared, when the freight train in charge of Engineer George Elliott and Fireman George Thomas was crashed into in a sand cut.

Both trains were going at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and the impact was terrific. Both engines and tenders were derailed as well as several cars.

Phillips, Thomas, Morell and Allen were killed instantly.

Herbert Allen passed through the hottest engagements of the South African war unscathed, and only at the Duke's visit to Quebec had received his medal.

The wrecking crews from North Bay and Pembroke were called to the scene. It will take 24 hours to clear the track. Passengers for the east and west last night were transferred to the Soo train.

This was the second accident to the stock train, as at Wolf Lake several cars were duralled.

THROUGH THE NIAGARA RAPIDS.

Peter Nissen Makes a Second Trip in His "Fool-Killer."

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Oct. 14.—Saturday afternoon Peter Nissen of Chicago made his second trip through the Whirlpool Rapids in his boat, the "Fool-Killer." It was a great success, and Nissen has to his credit two trips through the wild waters of the Niagara River that mark him as a man of nerve. He started from a point near the Falls at 3.30 o'clock, but it took him 10 minutes to reach the point where he retired inside the boat and closed the hatch. At 3.41 he floated under the lower steel arch, and a minute later his craft was battling with the white-capped waves. The smokestack was swept away by the first, and the boat rolled heavily under the force of the waters. Many times the red keel was in full view. Nissen received a frightful tossing.

At 3.44 the boat was in the pool, and soon Nissen raised the hatch and waved to the people. When the boat reached quiet water, he crawled out on deck and kept this position until the boat went back to the entrance, where the water is very rough, and there Nissen went inside again. On the Canadian side, near the entrance, men on shore caught the boat and held it while Nissen landed. He secured no soundings in the rapids, but will take soundings in the whirlpool within a few days. He had no power on his boat Saturday? He stood the trip well.

STEAMER HATING SUNK.

Another of the C. P. R. Skagway Liners Wrecked.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 14. — The steamer Hating, sister to the Islander, of the Canadian Pacific Line of Skaguay steamers, was wrecked Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She now lies hard and fast on the end of Jervis Island, 49 miles north of Vancouver. She had 174 passengers from the Klondike aboard, and all of them are now safely landed on Lasquetti Island. The weather was extremely foggy at the time of the accident.

The World's Wheat Crop.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The Department of Agriculture announces that the three most important estimates of the world's wheat crop of 1901, so far made, agree that the crop is larger than that of each of the three preceding years. The estimate follows:

Hungarian Minister of Agriculture, 2,671,860,000 bushels of 60 pounds.

Beerbohm's corn list of London, 2,714,000,000 of 60 pounds.

Bulletin Des Halles of Paris, 2,790,310,000 Winchester bushels.

The Empress Nourishes Vengeance.

Pekin, Oct. 13.—The Dowager Empress has issued two edicts, one of which establishes three new boards and abolishes many minor offices. The other admonishes officials to enforce the reforms decided in recent edicts, and says: "Myself and the Emperor, for the past year have slept on wormwood and eaten gall," a Chinese metaphor for nourishing vengeance.

Heavy Seas Broke Plate.

London, Oct. 14.—The Vulture, another torpedo boat destroyer, has buckled in heavy seas, while on her way from Portsmouth to Portland. She had to return to Portsmouth, where it was found that several of her plates were broken.

REV. C. B. KENRICK.

He is About to Retire From His Charge in New Brunswick.

The St. Johns, N. B., Daily Sun in referring to the pending departure of Rev. C. B. Kenrick from that city speaks as follows: — "A petition has been in circulation among the members of St. John the Baptist, Mission, church congregation for some time, which will be presented to the retiring rector, Rev. C. B. Kenrick, at the end of the week, asking that he withdraw his resignation and continue as the spiritual leader of the flock. The paper has been already numerously signed. Whether or not Rev. Mr. Kenrick will decide for or against the petitioners is not known, but it is quite apparent he has for some time been dissatisfied. A few weeks ago Rev. Mr. Kenrick said he intended leaving by the last of October for his home in Toronto, there to rest for a year. All but a few of his household effects have been sold, and at present he is quite prepared to leave St. John."

THE NOXON COMPANY.

Increased Facilities of Manufacture— Added Financial Strength.

We are pleased to be in a position to announce that the Noxon Co., Ltd., Ingersoll, have completed arrangements whereby they will be enabled to materially increase the manufacture of their well known and popular line of agricultural implements.

Their blacksmith shop, which was recently destroyed by fire, has been entirely rebuilt and enlarged, and is now complete with modern and up-to-date machinery in every detail.

The present management have purchased more than four-fifths of the entire subscribed capital and with increased facilities of manufacture and added financial strength, the permanent success of this firm is established beyond a doubt.

They report the prospects exceedingly bright for business next year, a large number of orders having been already booked in advance for their harvesting machinery.

We feel sure that our readers will be pleased to hear of the renewed prosperity of one of Canada's most important industries.

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

Duplicate orders is what makes our business. If you try us once you'll come again. If you have a keg, send it with your order.

The Time to Buy Carpets.

Robert Fair & Co's early October Sale of Carpets and Floor Oilcloths is one of the features of the month with housekeepers. Many have learned how extraordinary are the values we are offering in New Carpets—UNUSUAL VALUES secured by a favourable purchase seldom offered to the trade.

What is pleasing to shoppers is the knowledge that they are getting Floor Coverings that are perfectly new, fresh and popular ruling patterns. The lot is a big one—all the same, we urge quick buying to give you a good chance.

THE IMMENSE PRICE REDUCTIONS IN THESE CARPETS ARE MADE BECAUSE THE REDUCTIONS CAME TO US FROM THE FACTORIES WHERE THE CARPETS WERE MADE.

DUKE'S HOME-COMING

The King and Queen Will Put to Sea to Meet the Ophir.

THE ROYAL TOUR IN CANADA

Starting From Niagara, Their Royal Highnesses Visited St. Catharines, Hamilton, Paris, Brantford, Woodstock, and Passed Through Toronto to Belleville for the Night—Limestone City To-Day.

London, Oct. 15.—The arrangements for the reception of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York on their return to this country are now under consideration. It is understood that the King and Queen will leave London on the afternoon of Thursday, the 31st inst., and proceed to Portsmouth. On arrival at the dockyard Their Majesties will embark on the King's new yacht, Victoria and Albert (Commodore the Hon. Hedworth Lambton), and remain there during the night. Early on the morning of November 1 the royal yacht will steam out of harbor and put out to sea to meet the Ophir, which will be escorted by ships of war. The details of the naval program have not been settled, but it is certain that it will be most interesting and impressive. The King and Queen and the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York will leave Portsmouth for London in the course of the morning of November 1.

ROYAL TOUR IN CANADA.

Their Royal Highnesses West From Niagara to Belleville, Stopping at Several Towns and Cities.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, Oct. 15. — The Duke and Duchess of York concluded their stay here yesterday morning, and as the royal train pulled out at 10 o'clock Britain's future King and Queen stood on the back platform of their car, smiling their acknowledgments of the acclamations of the enthusiastic populace.

3,000 at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Oct. 15. — The royal train, with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, stopped here a few minutes yesterday morning. The citizens turned out en masse. The different business houses were closed. Ridley College turned out 100 strong, Principal Miller appearing in his clerical robes and mortar board. The other colleges and schools also attended in a body. A company of the 19th Regiment assembled, under Lieut.-Col. Thairs, as a guard of honor. There was also a representation of the 7th Field Battery, under Major Merritt; 2nd Artillery Brigade Division, under Lieut.-Col. King. At 10.56, when the royal train pulled in, the military performed a salute, and as the Duke and Duchess appeared on the rear platform a tremendous cheer went up from 8,000 throats. Mayor McIntyre stepped aboard with little Marion Merritt, daughter of Major Merritt. The little one bowed and presented the Duchess with a handsome bouquet of flowers. The Mayor then made a short address, to which the Duke replied. A number of prominent citizens were then presented.

Hamilton at Noon.

Hamilton, Oct. 15.—The Duke of Cornwall and York and heir to the British throne, the Duchess, and the ducal party, arrived here from Niagara Falls at noon yesterday. The party was met by Major and Mayor Hendrie, Col. J. M. Gibson, and Col. McLaren.

Little time was lost in entering the carriages and forming the procession. At the City Hall the civic address was read by Mayor Hendrie, and the address from the Daughters of the Empire was presented by Mrs. C. Fessenden. The Duke replied appropriately.

Miss Ethel Walker presented the Duchess with a very handsome basket of flowers. This was graciously received by Her Royal Highness, after which the people on the platform were introduced to the royal pair. In addition to the invited guests, were Chief Bill of the Indian Reserve, and John Flockton, an old sailor who had served more than three years on board the man-of-war Bachante along with the Duke, was honored by a shake of the royal hands. The Duke remembered Mr. Flockton, and made a remark to this effect.

From the City Hall the royal party drove to The Holmstead, Bold street, the residence of William Hendrie, where luncheon was served.

When the royal party arrived at Victoria Park they found the place literally crowded. A salute from the Guard of Honor of 77th Regiment, under Major Ptolemy, welcomed Their Royal Highnesses. The Thirteenth Regiment was drawn up. The old colors of the regiment were retired with beautiful and impressive ceremony to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne," played by the Thirteenth Band. The new colors were then presented by the Duke.

The ducal party drove from Victoria Park to the station, and the royal train left for the west about 4 o'clock.

Reception at Brantford.

Brantford, Oct. 15.—The train conveying Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York arrived here at 4.37. Long before this hour there were assembled at the G. T. R. Station and its surroundings between twenty and thirty thousand people to get a view of the royal party. There was a guard of honor from the Dufferin Rifles, the Collegiate Institute Cadets and Mohawk Institute Cadets. The buildings were decorated with flags, bunting and mottoes. His Worship the Mayor welcomed the distinguished visitors, and, passing through a beautiful arch, they proceeded to the platform, when the Dufferin Band played and the school children, some 1,500 in number, sang "The Maple Leaf," after which Prof. Bell, father of Prof. A. Melville Bell, as a souvenir from the City of Brantford, gave the Duke a complete telephone set. The case of the receiver is solid silver, on which is nicely engraved, "Presented to Their H. R. H. the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York by the citizens of the Telephone City, Brantford, Canada, Oct. 14." On the receiver is a silver band with the city coat of arms heavily cut in. The casket is sycamore wood top and bottom, ends birch, the inside curly ash, inside bottom covered with purple silk on which the set lies, on outside on top of cover is engraved the Duke's coat of arms.

Rev. R. Ashton, Principal of the Mohawk Institute, was present with a Bible presented by Queen Anne to the Six Nation Indians, and received Their Highnesses' signatures in it. The Bible had previously the autograph of His Majesty the King, and the Duke of Connaught.

Two Indian Chiefs, in full Indian dress, were presented, after which the Reception Committee and the City Council were presented and were shaking hands with His Highness the Duke when time to halt was called. The band played the National Anthem, while the visitors took the car and left at 5 o'clock sharp. This was the largest gathering that Brantford ever witnessed.

Stop at Paris.

Paris, Oct. 15.—All places of business were closed, all factories were shut down and the people of Paris and surrounding country turned out en masse to welcome Their Royal Highnesses, the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, yesterday afternoon. About 5.20 the royal train arrived. The Duke and Duchess appeared on the rear platform, where the Reception Committee were presented and the Duke and Duchess were presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers. The Oxford Rifles, headed by the band, were in attendance. As the train pulled out His Royal Highness repeatedly bowed in response to the hearty cheers.

Woodstock Visited.

Woodstock, Oct. 15.—The royal train arrived at 5.50 p. m. Early in the afternoon the crowds began to gather at the depot, and by 4 o'clock over 10,000 is the estimated number that had gathered. The station was beautifully decorated. A huge platform was erected where the train was to stop and upon which were massed nearly a thousand school children, who sang patriotic songs, with the accompaniment of the 22nd Regiment Band. On a private platform, roped in to keep the crowd back, were stationed the Mayor and City Council, together with a number of prominent personages, who were presented to the Duke and Duchess. The royal party stayed in Woodstock about 11 minutes, during which the immense crowd cheered wildly.

Passed Toronto By.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The Duke of Cornwall and York and party have left Toronto far behind. They spent a busy day yesterday in Western Ontario and gladdened the eyes of many thousand loyal Canadians.

Out of deference to Their Royal Highnesses' wish there was no demonstration when the train arrived at the Union Station last night. There were very few people in the station even, the public being excluded, and all regular trains stopped from between the hours of 6.15 and 8 o'clock. None of the civic authorities or Government House party was at the trainside, and when the royal train pulled in all the blinds were drawn and the occupants remained inside. It arrived at 7.38 o'clock and left for Kingston at 7.58.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who had remained over in Toronto, joined Their Royal Highnesses, and will accompany the party to Halifax.

The Duke's train stays over night at Belleville, and then proceeds to Kingston, where an elaborate program has been prepared.

Pleased With the Review.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Major-General O'Grady-Haly yesterday morning made public the following telegram from the Governor-General, dated Queen's Royal, Niagara-on-the-Lake, Oct. 12:

"His Excellency has been requested by His Royal Highness the Duke of Cornwall and York to make known to you and to all concerned how much pleased His Royal Highness was with yesterday's review, and with all the arrangements connected with it. His Royal Highness was much struck with the large number present on parade, and the general bearing of the troops under arms."

Gen. O'Grady Haly will not go to Halifax on the occasion of the Duke's visit.

The Croup.

It's a terrible thing, isn't it? Somehow, that awful cough, that hard struggle for air, can never be forgotten. Be a little forehanded and prevent it. Keep Vapo-Cresolene in the house, and when the children take cold let them breathe in the vapor during the evening. It goes right to the throat, just where the croup lies. All irritation subsides, the cough quiets down and serious trouble is prevented. It never fails to cure whooping cough. 12

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamps, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE Co., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

THE AFGHAN SITUATION.

For a long time the enemies of Great Britain have looked forward to the death of the Ameer of Afghanistan as the signal for internal disturbances, which would end in the complete disruption of the buffer State, and thus open the way for further and formidable Russian advances upon British India. They have met, it appears, with a notable disappointment. Ameer Abdur Rahman has been gathered to his forefathers, and his son reigns in his stead. Never before has there been a peaceful transfer of the important sceptre. It has always been reached along a pathway of blood. The late Ameer, like his predecessors, had to justify his right to rule by sheer force. He began his military career in 1864, when he fought to aid his father, Afzul Khan, to wrest the throne from his uncle. In the civil war he gained many victories, but finally was defeated and fled the country. While in exile in Russian territory the Czar's Government paid him a pension of 25,000 rubles a year, by which it expected to purchase his interest and allegiance. In 1880 the time came for Abdur Rahman to make a bold stroke for power. The reigining Ameer, Shere Ali, his cousin, had given offence to the British subjects. He had been driven from the throne, and Yakoub Khan proclaimed in his place. This afforded the exile the opportunity for which he had been waiting. Being assured of the support of the leading men of the country he raised an army to overthrow the British nominee, and ascend the throne. But before he could strike a blow another massacre of British had taken place at Cabul, and Yakoub Khan had been made a prisoner. The advent of Abdur Rahman was, therefore, welcomed by the British, who, instead of opposing him, joined in proclaiming him the Ameer. For twenty-one years Abdur Rahman has thoroughly dominated the country, keeping the tribes at peace and standing as a buffer between the British and Russian territory. During that time the Afghan ruler learned that in spite of the Russian subsidy he enjoyed during his exile, his best friend, and the one most to be trusted, was Great Britain. Moreover, he saw clearly that it was the British policy to respect and maintain the independence of his four million people. In terms that were more positive than diplomatic he announced his attitude towards Great Britain, a declaration which earned for him the cordial dislike of Russia, but also a substantial pension from the British. If the truth were known he was never thoroughly trusted by the English, perhaps on account of his weakness for subsidies, but throughout his career there is nothing to prove that he acted in bad faith towards the British. He gave the Afghans a strong and despotic Government, which was evidently what they needed, and he left them a united and tranquil people. Popular prejudice was against the son he had chosen to succeed him because the mother of the heir had been a slave. The late Ameer had five legal wives, not to mention the others. Among the retinue of the first wife was a beautiful slave girl, who was soon made number three. Her two sons are the only surviving male issue. The elder of these, a worthy prince, in spite of the odium of his origin, is Habibulla, who four years ago was proclaimed heir to the throne. To silence jealousies he has taken wives from the leading families in the kingdom, and thus united in his household the interests of all who were likely to cause trouble. The plan has apparently worked well, for it has brought about a peaceful succession. England has reason to be gratified at the shape events have taken. The new Ameer is brave and clear-headed, milder in temper than his father, and imbued with progressive ideas. It is possible that he will be able to conserve what his father has accomplished, and strengthen the living wall between British and Russian territory in Asia.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people suffer, he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for anyone to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. CLEAN SWEEP AT BUFFALO.

Canadian Clydesdales get Every Prize.

Other Blue Ribbons—First Prize in Thoroughbred Class—French-Canadian Horse-owners do Extremely Well.

(Associated Press Despatches.)

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The awards by the judges of the Pan-American Horse Show were announced to-day. Canadian horsemen are well represented in the list of blue ribbon winners. The Telfer & Olimie Company of Montreal was awarded first prize in the thoroughbred class. Canadian Clydesdales swept everything before them, capturing every prize offered for this class of horses. Graham Bros. of Claremont won first in the three classes for stallions and first for three-year-old mares. Hodgkinson & Tindell of Beaverton were awarded firsts for one-year-old and two-year-old fillies and brood mare with foal. In the French-Canadian classes Henri de Land of l'Acadie, Que., was awarded three firsts, for mare, filly and brood mare with foal. L. P. Sylvester of St. Theodore d'Action, Que., won the blue ribbon for two-year-old stallions, and Samuel G. Mooney of Vankleek Hill, Ont., won first in the class for three-year-old stallions.

ATTENTION TO MACEDONIA.

To Capture Every Foreigner to Get the Eye of Europe.

London, Oct. 15.—The Daily Express has received the following from Vienna:

"Todaroff, the driver who accompanied Miss Stone, when she was kidnapped, has arrived at Sofia. He says her captors are Turks. The Bulgarian police, who are not satisfied with his statements, are keeping him under surveillance."

Another Kidnapped.

London, Oct. 15.—"It is announced from Bucharest," says a despatch to The Daily Mail from Vienna, "that Herr Rosenthal, the representative of a German firm, has been kidnapped by Bulgarian brigands at Silistria.

"It is rumored that the Macedonian Committee has decided to capture every foreigner within reach in order to attract European attention to the bad state of public security in Macedonia."

Do not Experiment With Medicines That Have no Reputation.

Paine's Celery Compound

IS THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT IS FULLY GUARANTEED AS A BANISHER OF SUFFERING AND DISEASE.

Used and Recommended by the Ablest Physicians.

In matters of life and health no man or woman can afford to take risks or experiment foolishly. A heedless move, or following the advice of the careless and ignorant, may result in very serious complications.

When the physical powers are impaired, when you are weak, nervous, irritable, despondent, sleepless, or it may be suffering the agonies of rheumatism and neuralgia, it is wisdom on your part to use the medicine that has banished these troubles for tens of thousands of others around you.

Paine's Celery Compound, a safe and powerful health-giving medicine now within reach of all, is used and prescribed by the best and ablest physicians.

Avoid worthless substitutes that may be offered you for Paine's Celery Compound. Some dealers recommend other preparations simply because they pay large profits. Your special case demands the use of the best medicine, Paine's Celery Compound. See that the outer wrapper and bottle bear the name "PAINE'S," with the trade mark, the Stalk of Celery; no other is genuine.

Pierre Loti Dying on a Warship.

Paris, Oct. 15.—Pierre Loti, the famous French descriptive writer, officer in the navy and academician, is said to be lying at the point of death on a French battleship now cruising in the China seas. He was recently assigned to duty in the Orient, and The Figaro is now publishing a series of articles from his pen on the Chinese war and impressions of Pekin. News of his desperate illness causes general regret in France, where he is immensely popular. His crisp, romantic style of story-telling has given him a wide vogue.

Homemade Mats and Rugs at the Fall Exhibitions and Fairs.

The autumn exhibitions and fairs held in the various towns and cities of Canada this year, demonstrate the important fact that the ladies are deeply interested in the making up of pretty rugs and mats for bedrooms, dining rooms, parlours and halls. We had the pleasure of examining some beautiful specimens of home work, which commanded the attention of all visitors. In every case these pretty ornaments were made from rags, yarns and other materials coloured by the popular Diamond Dyes.

Thousands of ladies are now engaged in the working of one or more of the artistic designs made by the manufacturers of Diamond Dyes. If your dry goods dealer does not put in a stock of Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns for your convenience, send your address to the Wells and Richardson Co., Limited, 200 Mountain street, Montreal, P.Q., and they will mail you free of cost their sheet of designs.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple, Convenient; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and local applications can no more cure catarrh and rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood, and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children may use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not despair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents.

WRECKED ON LONELY ISLE.

Evidence of the Desperate Plight of Sailors of a British Ship.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 15. — The steamship Glenroy brings news from Hong Kong that wreckage has been found on Bikar Island, a small uninhabited island of the Marshall group, which proves that the British ship Manchester came to grief there. The Manchester, Capt. F. Clemens, left New York loaded with kerosene, shipped by the Standard Oil Company just one year ago. Her destination was Yokohama, and shipping men have agreed long since that she must have been lost in a typhoon. Footprints and marks of two boats' keels on the sand, together with other signs, make it certain that Capt. Clemens, his wife, two children and crew have been on the island, and, unable to find water, pushed off again. Plainly marked in the sand were footprints of a woman and children. The body of one sailor was found in a scrubby growth of trees near shore. There were also found bodies of birds, which had been sucked for their blood. As no sign has since been found of Capt. Clemens, his family, and crew, it is supposed that they died of thirst before they reached inhabited islands. The Manchester carried a crew of 25 men, most of them British sailors. The value of the ship and cargo was nearly $500,000.

Displayed Roll of Bills.

Buffalo, Oct. 15.—John A. Clark, a resident of Bullock Corners, Ont., is visiting Buffalo. Yesterday afternoon he started out to do the town. About 5.30 o'clock he found himself in Otto Froelich's saloon at No. 77 Canal street. He bought several drinks and to pay for them had to display a tempting wad. He was seized by one man and searched by two other men who appeared and robbed of $50. John Sylvia, a waiter in Froelich's place, and John J. Luby were arrested. Clark identified Sylvia as one of the men. He had three $5 bills in his pockets. The pair are charged with robbery in the first degree.

Pocket Picking at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Ott. 15.—Officer Miller caught "Bob" Young, the notorious robber, who is a ticket-of-leave man from Kingston Penitentiary, just after he had picked a woman's pocket. The officer recovered the stolen property. Miller also arrested Herbert Thompson, No. 50 Pearl street, on a charge of attempting to pick a woman's pocket.

William Hoth, Locke street, reports that $130 was stolen from his pocket near the City Hall. E. W. Fitzgerald, East avenue, says $22 was stolen from his pocket. A woman named Mrs. Fortman had a gold guinea stick-pin stolen from her.

Czolgosz Awaiting His Doom.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 15.—"Absolutely nothing new with Czolgosz," was Warden Mead's reply to a query yesterday morning. "He has not asked for any spiritual adviser whatsoever. The death warrant has not been read to him yet. He has not suicided, nor given the least intimation that he would like to make away with himself, contrary reports notwithstanding.

"Of course he will not be given the slightest opportunity for this purpose. He ate heartily of his breakfast yesterday morning, and has not a complaint about his health."

Killed by a G.T.R. Train.

St. Mary's, Oct. 15.—A fatal accident occurred at what is known as the "Long Crossing," about a mile west of the Junction Station here yesterday. Mrs. Richard Cannon, who lives about 12 miles from St. Mary's, and two miles from Woodham, in the Township of Osborne, while returning from town alone in her buggy, was run down by a G. T. R. eastbound express train No. 2 and instantly killed. The horse was also killed, and the buggy completely wrecked.

Riot at Kilmarine.

London, Oct. 15.—John O'Donnell (Nationalist) attempted to address his constituents yesterday in Kilmarine, County of Mayo, the scene of recent evictions. He was dragged off the platform several times by the police, and finally, after a fierce struggle, was taken to the barracks. One hundred and fifty police were present at the meeting. The crowd hurled stones, and several persons were injured.

Col. Montizambert Ill.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 15.—Principal Grant is able to sit up. To-day he will see the royal party and see the ceremonies at Queen's from a window at the General Hospital. Col. Montizambert, D. O. C., was attacked by illness on the street yesterday. He will be unable to take part in to-day's reception.

BULLET FOUND WRONG BILLET.

Sapper Henry Gill Intended to Murder Gunner Mahoney, But Shot and Killed Gunner Clinnick Instead.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 15.—A sad tragedy occurred at Work Point Barracks yesterday, as a result of which Gunner Clinnick lies dead, and Henry Gill, sapper, Royal Engineers, aged 20, is under arrest for murder. The murder is a peculiar one, for Gill intended to murder a man other than he shot. He secured a carbine and went to the canteen, where the gunners were playing cards, intending to murder Gunner Mahoney, and on entering the canteen he took aim at the back of Mahoney's head.

Gunner Foster, who was watching the men playing cards saw him and shouted to Mahoney, "Look out!"

Mahoney turned his head just as the carbine was discharged, and the bullet went past his ear and struck Clinnick, who sat opposite, in the mouth. Clinnick slid to the floor bleeding in the mouth, and the others jumped upon Gill, who was borne to the floor.

As he fell he said: "I'm glad I killed Mahoney."

Foster said, "You didn't kill Mahoney, you killed Clinnick."

"My God!" said Gill, "I intended to shoot Mahoney."

Clinnick died soon after being removed to the hospital. Gill is charged with murder.

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhosone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhosone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhosone and it cures. Price 25c. and $1 at druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

De Blaquierie Interviewed.

London, Oct. 15.—The Daily Chronicle publishes to-day an interview with Baron De Blaquierie, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the post of Governor-General of Canada. He says he has not been and does not expect to be approached officially on the subject, declaring that among many reasons why he could hardly accept the position even if offered is the fact that his fortune is not large enough.

Remarriage of Divorced Persons.

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—The House of Deputies of the Episcopal Church of America yesterday adopted the proposed canon prohibiting the re-marriage of divorced persons for causes not arising previous to their former marriage. The canon was adopted as it came from the House of Bishops. The vote stood 182 for, 158 against.

THE SAN JOSE SCALE

More Ontario Fruit Trees Dying Of It Than Ever.

PEOPLE NOT ALIVE TO DANGER

Inspector George E. Fisher on the Situation—Former Methods of Killing the Pest Not Proving Very Successful—Whale Oil Soap and Crude Petroleum Too Severe for Peach and Plum Trees.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The San Jose scale as an enemy of Ontario fruit trees is again getting the start of the farmers, and according to Mr. Geo. E. Fisher, the Government Inspector, who was at the Parliament Buildings yesterday, more trees are dying of it than ever before. Mr. Fisher ascribes this fact in part to the apathy of the people, who have not yet thoroughly realized their danger. "If the scale is anywhere in your neighborhood you may make up your mind you will have it sooner or later," said Mr. Fisher. "Not only peach and pear trees are dying from it, but also apple trees, which at first were thought to be comparatively safe." Mr. Fisher remarked that treatment with whale-oil soap and the crude petroleum had not been very successful, being too severe for peach trees and Japan plum trees. His hope for these was in fumigation with hydrocyanic acid gas. A Hamilton firm sold cyanide at 30 cents a pound and sulphuric acid at 2 cents a pound, and he hoped to soon have a feasible tent apparatus prepared as a model. In any case spraying has to be done at the right time, or the buds will be killed.

WHEAT DELIVERIES.

Shipments From Winnipeg East Have Been 4,700,000 Bushels.

Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—Owing to the wet weather during the week the wheat movement has not been so brisk as during the preceding two weeks, but reports from the C.P.R. indicate that there has been no standstill by any means. Up to the present their reports show that the total shipments east of wheat, not including flour, has been 4,700,000 bushels. This is against 511,000 bushels shipped for the corresponding time a year ago, and more than equals the shipments of wheat for the entire year of 1900. For the week ending Saturday, Oct. 12, the total amount of grain in store at country points was 1,877,595 bushels of wheat and 35,000 bushels of oats. Last year for the same week there was in store only 833,944 bushels of wheat and 8,700 bushels of oats at country points. On Saturday there were 90 cars of wheat loaded. The deliveries for the day amounted to 104,050 bushels, and 7,000 bushels of oats at Fort William.

The amount of wheat in store was 1,789,509 bushels on Saturday, which is not very much larger than the previous week. The shipments from Fort William for the week amounted to 812,619 bushels, and the receipts aggregated 765,791 bushels.

New Vital Force for Cells and Tissues.

Chronic Disease Overthrown and the Whole System Revitalized and Reconstructed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Disease is a tearing down, wasting away, and destroying of the tissues of the body, and a shrivelling up of the nerve cells and blood corpuscles. This wasting process may attack the lungs, the heart, the liver, the kidneys, the bowels, or, as is most frequently the case, result in collapse of the nervous system, prostration, paralysis, or insanity.

You may rest assured that disease will search out your weak spot and gradually gain the upper hand. Nature alone cannot end this wasting process. External assistance is absolutely necessary, as you know too well, if you have been observant of what is going on around you. As a result of centuries of investigation and research, science now offers certain restoratives and revitalizers which have a wonderfully beneficial effect on a weakened and run-down system. These are combined in the most successful proportions in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which is by far the most thoroughly effective tissue builder and nerve restorative that is known to the medical profession to-day.

Mr. Joseph Geroux, 22 Metcalf street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:—

"I was nervous, had headache and brain fag. I was restless at night and could not sleep. My appetite was poor, and I suffered from nervous dyspepsia. Little business cares worried and irritated me. After having used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two months, I can frankly say that I feel like a new man. My appetite is good, I rest and sleep well, and this treatment has strengthened me wonderfully. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."

At least nine-tenths of the ailments from which people are suffering and dying to-day are the result of thin, watery blood, exhausted nerve force, and general debility of the body. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops this wasting process, puts new life and energy into the wasted nerve cells, fills the shrivelled arteries with rich life-sustaining blood, and overcomes disease. It will be interesting to note the gradual increase in weight while using the famous food cure.

Fifty cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 8

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355.92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

DEATH OF JAS. SCOTT.

He was a son of the Founder of Peterborough.

The death is noted at Cartwright, Durham County, on Sunday morning, of James Scott, in his 80th year.

The deceased was the last surviving child of the late Adam Scott, the first settler on the present site of the town of Peterborough. He resided in Peterborough for many years being a foreman with the Dickson Company. Afterwards he conducted Gilchrist's mill at Keene and for the last forty years has lived in Cartwright with his daughter, Mrs. Isaiah Barclay. Another daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wilson, resides in the township of Floss, near Midland. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of the late Peter Macfarlane, of Otonabee.

THE LATE MRS. McINTOSH.

Demise of an Old Resident—Mother of Mr. Angus McIntosh.

The death occurred in Monaghan on Saturday evening of Mary Kennedy, relict of the late John McIntosh, after an illness of only a few days. The deceased lady was the daughter of the late Laughlan Kennedy, and was born in the township of Cavan 72 years ago. She has always resided in this part of the country. For some years Mrs. McIntosh lived in Peterborough, but she returned to the homestead to reside with her son John. Her husband predeceased her about 30 years. The following sons and daughters survive her:—Messrs. Alexander and Angus, of town, Laughlan, of the G. T. R., Lindsay, John on the homestead, William of Hamilton, and James of Milwaukee. The daughters are Mrs. Charles Davidson of North Monaghan, and Mrs. T. McIntosh of Portage la Prarie.

The late Mrs. McIntosh was an ardent Presbyterian in religion and a member of St. Paul's church.

The funeral took place at 2 o'clock this (Tuesday) afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

TOOK FORTY DOLLARS.

Mr. Robt. Baker Sr. of Ashburnam was in Toronto.

Robert Baker, Sr., of Ashburnham, was one of those who was in Toronto during the reception ceremonies to the Duke and Duchess of York. However, the sight seeing cost him a little more than it should have for he was "touched" for $40 by some clever pickpocket. Mr. Baker reported the matter to the police, but, of coarse, the guilty individual was not found.

Home From the Northwest.

Mr. Lewis Downer, who has been in Assiniboia, N.W.T., since July last has returned home, and reports the crops to be abundant, the only difficulty being in harvesting. Mr. Downer took 3000 bushels of wheat off the quarter section owned by his son, who was recently killed by lightning in the Northwest. He states that the grain is still in stooks on thousands of acree, the farmers taking the risk of being caught by the rain in order to make the extra 2 cents a stook which is saved by not stacking. Mr. Downer took no such chance but prudently stacked his grain, and was satisfied with a fair price. It is understood that he has rented his farm for a term of years.

Of all kinds, and the cheapest in town. The variety includes Chinese Sacred Lilies, Narrissus, Daffodils, Hyacinths, Tulips and other beautiful fresh and valuable bulbs. A fine lot of new palms and ferns, well worth seeing. Come and take a look through the Aylmer street Greenhouses; open from 8 a.m., to 10 p.m. Jos. H. Cobb. Phone, 132.

ALMOST A DROWNING.

A Three Year Old Child Fell Into the Creek Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon a three-year-old child belonging to a Mr. Moore, an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company, and who resides near the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets, had a very narrow escape from drowning. It appears that the little girl and her brother, a few years her senior, were playing on the bank of the creek as it crosses Brock street, and the former in some manner fell into the water. A farmer passing down Aylmer street noticed the child and at once waded in and brought her to land again. She was in an insensible state and it was only after extreme means of resuscitation were employed that she was brought back to her normal condition.

This is a rather dangerous place for children to play and a fence along the edge of the creek might avoid further accidents.

A RUNAWAY NEWSBOY

Has Returned Home to Ottawa—He Spent a Winter in Peterborough.

The Ottawa Free Press of yesterday has the following: "Eugene Jambeau, Ottawa's best known news boy whose disappearance nearly four years ago was the subject of much comment returned to the city last night. He had been located at Indian River near Norwood, Ontario, where he pursued the occupation of farmer. He returned because he had heard that his mother was dead. He is greatly pleased to find that the news is untrue.

Jambeau has had quite a number of experiences since he left Ottawa. He rode on the bumpers from Ottawa to Brockville on his departure where he was arrested and sent home. When he got to Carleton Place he disembarked and by mistake took the train to Brockville where he was again arrested. Three times this occurred but the fourth time he made his way west to Peterborough where he remained in the hospital all winter with a disease of the head. From there he went to Indian River, where he started work on the farm. He remained there ever since. He says that the only fun was work. As soon as supper was over at night everyone went to bed. In the morning work was commenced after breakfast. On Sunday all the people did was eat and read the Bible.

Jambeau is not the barefooted Jambeau of old. He is now 16 years of age and is willing to work at all times.

He does not ride on the bumpers any longer but pays his way like a millionaire. He has a big yellow wallet with a considerable lining of greenbacks."

Inquiry at St. Joseph's Hospital elicited the fact that Eugene Jambeau came to St. Joseph's on Aug. 17, 1899, and while he did not remain there steadily he was at the Hospital for about a year altogether.

MILITARY NOTES.

A Class of Instruction Will be Commenced at Once.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, was held last night, at which the proposition to continue the drill a short while longer was discussed. It was decided to conduct a class of instruction for non-coms and for those of the regiment who have not yet put in their full season of drill. Those who have not completed their season's work in this regard should not fail to attend the class.

The citizens of the town would like to see another church parade before the season closes.

The matter for new colours for the 57th is becoming a very lively subject, and all sorts of propositions are being advanced as to how the necessary funds might be raised.

Mr. Walter Parnell receives a great deal of praise from the officers of the 14th Durham Field Battery for the manner in which he handled the Peterborough Fire Team which was attached to one of the guns at the review in Toronto.

"Can you tell me why Lieut.-Col. Neilson, director-general of the Canadian military medical service, permits the field hospital corps and bearer companies to wear bayonets?" asks a writer to the Kingston Whig. "I was in Toronto last week, and was surprised to see that portion of the militia with side-arms. It is entirely contrary to the terms of the Geneva convention, and if the men of these corps were caught so armed on the field of battle, by the enemy, they would be shot. The regulations allow of a Lancaster sword, about the size of a bayonet, one side of which is saw-shaped and the other side a blade, this sword being for surgical and ambulance work. That is what the corps should wear, instead of bayonet. I noticed several times recently that the Kingston field hospital were no side-arms, and that is the proper way they should go, unless supplied with the Lancaster sword."

DIED

GORMAN.—In Peterborough, on Monday, October 14th, Miss Ellen Gorman. The funeral will take place from the residence of her nephew, Mr. W. Rudkins, 195 King street, on Wednesday, Oct. 16th, at 9 o'clock a.m., to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

CANADIAN FORESTERS.

Grand Rally Meeting for Friday Evening.

On Friday evening next a grand rally meeting of the members of the several Courts of the Canadian Order of Foresters of the town will be held in the Forester's Hall, Simcoe street. Mr. J. A. Stewart, mayor of the town of Perth, and members of the Executive Committee of the High Court, together with Mr. Ernest Gartung, Superintendent of Organization, and Mr. W. G. Strong, chief of the organization staff, will be present and address the meeting. A large attendance of the members of the several Courts of the town and visiting brethren is expected as the meeting will be one of very great importance. The initiatory work of the Order will be exemplified by Court Peterborough's team. It is the intention of the members to make a grand effort to largely increase the membership of the Order in town this fall, and the meeting on Friday evening is held with a view of setting the ball a rolling.

GALA OPENING TO-MORROW.

Formal Bow of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company.

The public are reminded that to-morrow is the date fixed for the formal opening of the handsome new premises of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company at No. 403 George street. The store will be all aglow with numerous attractive and novel features for a decorative effect, which will be well worth coming to see.

Come in the afternoon — any time after one o'clock — you're welcome to look, examine and criticise all you like. Take a good look at the clothing, especially — examine the quality of the cloth, the style of the models, the tailor-made effect; test the seams, the buttons, and button holes and how the pockets are lined. Look the garments through and through, and render your verdict accordingly.

In the evening, the band of the 57th Regiment will give a complimentary serenade in the store, rendering a programme of their popular selections, which the public should not fail to hear.

The T. O. RUSH Clothing Co.

BUSINESS COURSES.

Clerks and office men are reminded that the Y.M.C.A. evening school offers special inducements for them as well as for mechanics. These are the courses in Book keeping, commercial law, shorthand, English and arithmetic.

The book keeping will be taught by the Ellis tablet system giving the student at the start a definite idea of business transactions. A sample set can be seen at the association office.

The arithmetic class is most promising and one of the features is the number of older men who are starting — the course is specially adapted to them.

The classes in mechanical drawing and algebra and trigonometry were most promising last night, when the first session was held in each. Over thirty men have started and others are coming.

All who are going in for drawing should come in for Wednesday evening when work will begin.

A list of the supplies and all particulars can be had at the Y.M.C.A.

AN INTERESTING SUBJECT.

"Dark Days and Their Lessons," at George Street Epworth League.

The George street Epworth League held a very interesting consecration meeting last evening. After the usual opening exercises, the president, Mr. Stubbs, conducted a Bible reading on the topic of the reading, which was followed by an address by Rev. Mr. Wilson, on the subject, "Dark Days, and their Lessons." The reading of the pledge and roll call then took place, the members responding to their names by the recitation of their favourite promise.

Next Monday evening the League expect a pleasant time in the discussion of the Lift Lock, the address to be given by Mr. Francis. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to be present.

RICHARD HALL & SON

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

October Store News

You can find everything here that helps to make this store the greatest and best store in the district. We want to emphasize the fact that you can buy medium price goods here as well as the best that money can buy, but you will find no trash. We positively refuse to handle anything but reliable goods.

DRESS PATTERNS.

You can get here your choice of the nicest patterns ever shown in this store. There are so many attractive shades and just the most comfortable and evenly woven cloths you could desire. They'll hold their colour and will not get pulled out of shape quickly. See them soon.

MILLINERY.

We are showing some particulary stylish Ready-to-Wear Hats just now. Some new American Ideas, the things ladies of fashion are wearing in New York and the other big American cities. And for those who want Hats made to order, there isn't the slightest doubt about it, you can get more genuine style and art in this store than anywhere else in this part of the country. If you haven't tried our Milliners you had better come and see what we can do for you.

JACKETS.

The uncertain weather is with us, and genuine winter weather is not far away. You'll want to look your best and be most comfortable. We have the right kind of Jackets —the ones that keep you cosy and comfortable, and protect your health, and giving you at the same time the air of a stylish dresser, and at prices that are sure to please you, too.

CARPETS, HOUSEFURNISHINGS.

One of the principle reasons of this store's great success and supremacy in Carpets is because we study styles in Carpets just as much as we do in Dress Goods, Millinery, or any other departments. People of taste know that carpet styles change just as much as other fabrics. For instance, this year Green is to be the rage, not only in carpets, but curtains, rugs, hangings and furniture—all show a predominance of green. Now what could be prettier than a soft, green carpet? Our association makes its beauty the memory of close, fine, rain-freshened turf, and fairly like moss and fern in some deep shaded place. WE are showing some beautiful soft, rich colourings of Green in carpets, hangings and rugs. Something decidedly different to what you have seen here-to-fore in carpets, and something that every lady of taste will welcome as a decided change from what they see in ordinary Carpet stocks.

DRESSMAKING.

Just a word or two about our Dressmaking Department. We have two High-Class Head Dressmakers with a staff of about 50 helps. A mammoth Dress Goods Department, with all the popular weaves to choose from. Trimmings of every description, and everything else that is required to make an up-to-date Dressmaking Department.

KID GLOVES.

We want to remind you that we make a specialty of Dollar Kid Gloves, Perrin's make, and every pair guaranteed. They are of fine finish, and their natural sizes will insure wearing without cracking or ripping. Good colours—from very light tan clear into black. Your size is here at a dollar. You might pay $1.25 for poorer gloves.

JUST THE HANDKERCHIEF

That you want and can afford to buy. Can't have too many. Here they are, plain or embroidered, wide or narrow borders and hemstitched. All of them rare quality linen, that will stand unlimited washing and use. Special low prices all through.

TRIMMING THINGS.

Much of the beauty and satisfaction of a dress depends on the trimmings. Every garment is more pleasing because of tasteful selection and use of trimmings. Here you'll find a broad range for your choosing and at prices to encourage buying.

Miss Mamie Bogue has fully recovered from her late accident, and has resumed her studies at the Notre Dame Convent, town.

Mrs. F. D. McKay, Homewood avenue, has returned to town, after spending the last month or two in Belleville, Toronto, and Buffalo.

Miss Nellie Tutty, assistant Ashburnham Kindergarten teacher, received first prize for water colours at Norwood exhibition last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Moore, who went to Toronto with the Peterborough contingent, were guests of Mrs. and Rev. Dr. Falling, 148 Berkeley street.

Mr. John L. Armstrong's many friends in town will be pleased to learn that he has secured the appointment of organist at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham.

Mr. W. G. Strong, Chief Organizer of the Canadian Order of Foresters, after a very successful two weeks' work in Lindsay, where he added about fifty new members to the Court in that place, arrived in town last eveping to take up work in the interests of the local Courts in Peterborough, and is staying at the Snowden House.

Miss Carrie Sutherland has just returned from her holidays. She visited Buffalo, Pan-American, Niagara and Rochester in company with Mrs. Wedel and Mr. Geo. Wedel, of Lake avenue, Rochester, whose guest she was during her stay in the Flower city. She enjoyed her visit very much and speaks in the highest praise of the people and the beautiful sights she saw.

The Norwalk Reflector, Ohio, says: "O. F. Walton had the second, third and fourth fingers of his right hand sawed off at the middle joints this afternoon, by a saw at the C. W. Smith factory. The injured man was taken to Dr. Burt, who attended to the wound. Mr. Walton had the first finger of his right hand sawed off two or three years ago." The injured man is a son of Mr. Robert Walton, Water street.

Mr. R. E. Tully, of Assiniboia, N. W.T., abd formerly of Omemee, is in town, the guest of his brothers, Messrs. W. C. and Jas. A. Tully. He is one of the many Ontario people who has prospered in the west, and to-day he owns one of the finest ranches in his district. Mr. Tully has been out west for about thirteen years, during which time he has devoted his time and energy to ranching. His mission to Ontario is principally to purchase some young stock for his ranch.

NEWS NUGGETS.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The Senior Tigers may not be so fierce when it comes down to an argument on the field but the cubs are certainly to be dreaded. Saturday the Hamilton III went to the Forest City and defeated London II 38 to 0 in a junior O.R.F.U. match.

Sarnia defeated London by a score of 1—0 on Saturday, but at London the previous week London won by 25—0.

The members of the Peterborough Rugby Team, had a splendid night's training last evening, and should they keep up such a course of training they will be in the pink of condition by Saturday, when they will face Ottaw II in the return game of the O.R.F.U., Intermediate Series. The boys used the drill shed for several hours, after which they went for a run to the top of Smithtown Hill and back. Every man that went to Ottawa on Saturday was out last night, with the exception of Anglesyc. Morden and Claude Rogers were also out last night.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club was held last night. There were present—Messrs. R. F. McWilliams, H. R. H. Kenner, Hal Burnham, Dr. Scott, C. M. Paterson, A. W. McPherson and and E. S. Clarry.

A statement of the finances of the club was presented, showing the club to be heavily in debt as a result of Saturday's game at Ottawa.

Arrangements were made for the match with Ottawa here on Saturday afternoon next.

The matter of the annual dance was informally discussed.

HUNTING NOTES.

The Roy Roy has returned from a trip down to Rice Lake, where Harry Neil's party was left at Rainy Point. Mr. Roy and Mr. J. D. Craig went down with the party on Saturday afternoon, and made a phenomenally fast run to Rice Lake. On the return trip yesterday afternoon the Rob Roy beat her own record by 35 minutes. The party which is remaining at Rainy Point is composed of Messrs. Harry Neil, R. Tivey, Baptiste Odette, Arthur Ahearn, Albert Talbot, Bert Watley and Sam Currie. Up to date, ten brace of ducks have been secured, but the birds are reported to be wild, and those secured were wanderers, and not with the big flocks.

BOWLING.

The Bowlers who are still in the running, are reminded of the draw which calls for the semi-finals and finals to be played off at the green to-morrow afternoon.

GOLF.

The players are now using the new long course, and while some of the holes have been lengthened appreciably yet the change is not altogether satisfactory, more especially in regard to the second hole, where if the drive is sliced the least particle the ball is lost in the fence corners.

LACROSSE.

The matches last week in which the intermediate and junior championships of the Canadian Lacrosse Association were won by the Stratford and Bracebridge Teams marked the close of the longest, most sensational and most successful season the C.L.A. has ever known. In the number of strong clubs playing the different series, in the quality of the game shown, and in the public interest and support, as attested by the attendance at the matches, the season of 1901 must be set down as a memorable one in the history of the association. Another development of the season was the establishment of the C.L.A. in the estimation of the public in a stronger position than ever. Discipline has been prompt and enforcement thorough, and the association has compelled respect and recognition in quarters where in the past it was accorded neither. Its administration may not have been perfection—human affairs seldom are—but it has been sincere, and because of its earnestness has accomplished much.

MODERN IDEAS

Introduced Into a Pretty new Terrace Which is Just Completed.

Peterborough's greatest need in connection with her new industries is moderately sized houses for rent with modern improvements. This is the first thing the newcomer from the city looks for, and the hardest to find.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham has evidently studied present needs and his handsome new white brick terrace on Reid street, is a model of convenience and comfort.

These houses contain some new departures from the ordinary standards. Each house is 22 feet wide by 38 feet deep, with cellar full size and of extra depth to accommodate the furnaces. All division walls are built sound-proof, insuring perfect isolation.

The first floor contains hall, parlour, dining room and kitchen, with summer kitchen and woodshed in the rear. The dining room is so arranged that it has two windows, while a convenient alcove with a permanent table and shelves, and a slide window connecting with the pantry, insures having things right at hand, while out of sight, saving the housekeeper many an extra trip.

Upstairs there are four bedrooms, each provided with clothes press. All doors upstairs are provided with fan lights. The bath room is fitted up complete with bath, marble basin and closet. A new feature introduced here is provision for heating the bath room from the kitchen, when the furnaces are not in use; while all laundry material instead of being carried down stairs may be taken to the bath room, and sent down a chute direct to the kitchen without further trouble.

All rooms are provided with electric light, and special ventilation is secured for the bath rooms by means of chimney registers. These in connection with the fan lights, ensures that the flow of air shall always be to, and never from, the bath room—an ideal arrangement, superior even to the well known fire place.

These houses will have an inviting frontage, with nearly 40 feet of lawn when new sidewalk is in position, and instead of the regulation verandah a neat double porch, 6 feet wide and 25 feet long, will serve each entrance.

Coal chutes placed in the rear walls convey the coal almost to the furnace doors, while a driveway in the rear provides for delivery of groceries, etc. The end houses have a side entrance also.

These houses are well designed, comfortable, convenient, and sanitary—just what the needs of the times demand, as shown by the fact that the terrace is already rented.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

A Very Lively Debate at Charlotte Street League Last Night.

In accordance with its determination to become a vital force in the live issues of the day, the Charlotte Street League debated last evening the following question; "Resolved that Government ownership is the most practical method of curtailing the drink evil."

Mr. Sololiel, leader of the affirmative, established the premises that any system, to be effective, must do away with the desire for stimulant, must abolish the element of personal profit, should remove the social element, and should be easily enforcible. The speaker next outlined government ownership, and showed how at least three of these elements of the premises would be overcome by this system. It was shown how free distillation and sale or government control as now in force failed to conform to these principles. Mr. Irwin, supporter for the affirmative, established the necessity for the manufacture of spirits from a commercial standpoint, the inability of any government to enforce total prohibition, the failure of prohibition where tried, and the superiority of government over total prohibition.

The negative was ably upheld by Mr. Parks and Mr. Cunningham. The leader demonstrated the danger that might arise from the creation of such a staff of government servants. Further, it was pointed out that increased drunkenness would arise from cheapened liquor involved in government ownership. Many were unwilling to become party to the sale of liquor by placing the traffic in the hands of the government. Mr. Cunningham showed the steady decrease of the evil under our present system, and argued that the system of government ownership was one rather of logic than practice, and gave statistics to prove the steady growth of healthful sentiment under judicious educational and careful government control.

The judges, Messrs. Coltier and Kidd and Rev. Crossley, congratulated the debaters on their forceful and logical presentation of the question. The award was made to the negative by one point.

AT LUNDY'S LANE.

Reinterment of United States Soldiers —Appreciation Expressed.

Washington, Oct. 12. — Col. Wm. H. Michael, chief clerk of the State Department, sent the following telegram to-day to Mr. H. W. Brush, United States Consul at Niagara Falls, Ont., in regard to the re-interment of twelve United States soldiers of the war of 1812 at the battlefield of Lundy's Lane at that place this afternoon: "The part taken by British subjects in the reinterment of our dead soldiers to-day furnishes proof of amity between nations which is possible only under conditions of high civilization and refinement. May this relation of friendship between the two great English speaking nations go on forever. The President expressed to me his approval and appreciation. I regret my inability to be present at the ceremonies to-day."

"LEAD KINDLY LIGHT."

This is the title of perhaps the noblest sacred hymn in existence. It was composed, as is well known by the late Cardinal Newman, and was the favourite hymn of the late martyred President McKinley, of the United States. Mr. J. J. Sheehy, of Chicago, a former well known resident of Peterborough, is the fortunate possessor of the original manuscrip of the hymn. In happy recognition of the double significance of this hymn, Mr. Sheehy has published and has copyrighted, a facsimile in lithograph of this beautiful hymn, showing Cardinal Newman's clear, delicate handwriting, a type of his life and noble character. This is flanked on a large sheet, 12 x 18 inches, by memorial portraits and autographs, of Cardinal Newman and President McKinley. The whole makes a handsome souvenir, suitable for framing, of two great men, who occupied the highest place in their respective spheres, united by a common bond the noble sentiment so sweetly expressed in the immortal words of "Lead Kindly Light."

WHAT PUT OUT THE PIPE.

Pat Knew Just When He Had to Stop Smoking.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning. The Fulton street car stood on the bridge loop. It was well filled with a sleepy, ill natured crowd. Even the motorman and conductor seemed tired and out of sorts. The inspector who directed the movements of the cars was simply bearish. His answers to the few questions asked him were growled out in quick, short monosyllables.

Just as the signal was given for the car to start for Brooklyn a big Irishman, half seas over, rolled aboard and fell into a seat. He was humming a rollicking Irish tune in a rich brogue. His very presence seemed to scatter the bad humor of the sleepy crowd.

Hardly had the car got well upon the bridge when he pulled out a short pipe, filled and lighted it and sent a puff of smoke skyward. The second puff brought the conductor with a rush, and every one looked for trouble.

"You shouldn't smoke," said the conductor.

"That's what me sister tells me," replied the Irishman.

"You mustn't smoke," angrily snarled the conductor.

"That's what me doctor tells me," was the good natured answer.

"You shan't smoke here, and if you don't stop I'll throw you out," shouted the conductor.

The great, hulking Irishman raised himself, keeping one hand on the back of the seat, while even the man in the rear woke up and looked forward eagerly to the expected fight. With a half leer and a grin the Irishman said:

"Faith, now yer talkin'. That's what me wife says. Begorra, I know she manes it, and I sthops."

Suiting his actions to his words, he took his pipe from his mouth, thrust it into his pocket, fell back into his seat and closed his eyes. Every one laughed. The conductor, with a sheepish look, turned back to the platform of the car, while the passengers guyed him. The man on the rear went to sleep again, and the big Irishman snored

Tried and Convicted Too.

Politics in the west, even more than in the east, says the author of "Life and Sport in California," is a profession. I remember two men who were candidates for the office of district attorney. One had served before; the other was a young man conducting his first campaign.

The veteran was speaking in a small town, and after setting forth his own claims he spoke as follows of his opponent:

"I understand that Mr. X. is in every sense a worthy and honorable man, but I ask you to remember that he has never been tried—he has never been tried."

"That's so!" exclaimed a voice. "You've been tried, old man, haven't you—and convicted, too, you know?"

After due inquiry it appeared that the veteran had been, indeed, indicted for horse stealing and convicted. He was not elected.

Norway Fairies.

"Like the Japanese," writes William E. Curtis in the Chicago Herald, "the Norwegians are very superstitious, and as in Japan the forests, the mountains and the gorges are peopled with fairies. Nissen is the good fairy of the farmers. He looks after the cattle particularly, and if he is well treated they are healthy and the cows give lots of milk. To propitiate him it is necessary to put a dish of porridge on the threshold of the cow stable on Christmas morning. Whenever the family moves this invisible being goes along with them and sits on the top of the loads."

Reason For Dislike.

Wife—Mr. Black has no more taste in the matter of dress than a giraffe.

Husband—Why do you say that?

Wife—Because his wife had on the most beautiful gown last night, and when I admired it he said he thought it was dreadful.

Husband—But, my dear, he had to pay $500 for it.

Do You Desire a Clear Brain and Strong Nerves?

Malt Breakfast Food

Fortifies Men and Women for Their Daily Work.

Starchy breakfast foods that tax digestion, and use up vital energy, make thousands of toilers miserable for the whole day. A writer says:—"Men and women should breakfast regularly on foods that keep the brain clear and the nerves strong."

Malt Breakfast Food is the only breakfast grain food in the world that contains food elements in just the proportion needed for perfect and healthy nutrition. Insoluble starch, indigestible particles and irritating properties are always present in oatmeal and other breakfast foods. Malt Breakfast Food has all the health giving virtues that a perfect health food should possess. It furnishes the largest amount of energizing nourishment for brain and body. Ask your grocer for it.

Liverpool Reservoir Burst.

East Liverpool, Oct. 14.—A large reservoir, containing 10,000,000 gallons of water, burst yesterday, and caused great damage. No lives were lost, but a score of people had narrow escapes. The money loss will reach probably $150,000. The reservoir, which is owned by the city and which was only completed a few days ago, was filled yesterday morning for the first time.

"JUST AS GOOD"

Has no glimmer of truth in it when it means a substitute for Dr. Agnew's Ointment.

There are cases on record where men and women too have suffered unspeakable torture from piles; where all kinds of remedies have been applied; where the surgeon's knife has been resorted to as the only hope; where electricity has tried its good offices, but without any permanent cure; and Dr. Agnew's Ointment, as the last resort, has proved its magic—one application has given relief. There is no other "just as good." Don't take chances. 35

Tried Dr. Pitcher As a Last Resort.

A Toronto Lady's Experience With This Famous Specialist's Backache Kidney Tablets.

For many years in the hospitals of Detroit and as professor of Genito-Urinary Diseases in Michigan College of Medicine of that city, Dr. Zina Pitcher gave careful thought and consideration to diseases of the kidneys, bladder, and urinary system.

So profoundedly impressed was he with the fact that many thousands of people suffer from some form of kidney derangement, who were unable to avail themselves of the services of a specialist, that he decided to give to humanity at large his famous prescription for Kidney Diseases, under the name of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

It is of these tablets that Mrs. May Goddard, 332 Adelaide street west, Toronto, speaks in the following terms:—

"After enjoying the most perfect health for many years it was a sore trial for me to realize that my health was failing. I had, in the first place, acute pains in the small of my back, and was losing flesh rapidly. Then other complications arose, which so weakened me that it was only with the greatest amount of determination that I could attend to my work. I tried a number of remedies and consulted several physicians without obtaining more than temporary relief, and as a last resort I thought I would try Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. Their beneficial action was almost instantaneous, and the results highly gratifying. The pain in my back disappeared in a short time, and my general health improved greatly. I am now feeling fine, and am glad to have this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of so valuable a remedy.

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50 cents a box at all druggists or sent by mail, postage free.

It is a curious fact that while Americans have been able to produce wooden matches in the cheapest possible manner they have never been particularly successful in the manufacture of high grade wax matches.

Collapsing and Exploding Boilers.

"There is a good deal of inaccuracy in the popular talk about boilers blowing up or exploding," said an old boiler maker.

"If too much pressure is exerted on the interior of a boiler which is weak in any part, the weak part will give and the boiler will collapse. If anybody is standing near it at the time, he runs the risk of being fatally scalded by the steam, but the boiler stays just where it was and nothing is wrecked but the boiler. This is what sometimes happens to kitchen boilers, which never can, in the true sense, blow up or explode. But when the boiler is equally strong in every part and steam is generated so suddenly that it has no chance to escape through the safety valve a real explosion occurs; the boiler is torn from its fastenings and tears through the air like a tremendous cannon ball. Such an explosion is attended by a general wreck of everything in the path of the boiler and usually by horrible fatalities."

A Learned Rector.

The idea that the business of a clergyman is to maintain and spread belief in a particular religion which he believes to have been revealed and of a bishop to see that he does it is slowly dying away until there is a doubt whether learning is of any use, and the man who possesses it, especially if it be of the older kind, is regarded often with kindness, no doubt, and sometimes with admiration, but usually with a pity from which contempt is not entirely absent. "What could you you expect?" said a county town magnate a few years ago when told that the largest parish was falling into disorder. "Why, E. [the rector] is a Hebrew scholar."

Mr. James Eaton, at one time a well known drygoods merchant, and the only surviving brother of Mr. Timothy Eaton, died on Sunday in Toronto.

Mrs. Eldridge, wife of George Eldridge, G.T.R. engineer, sustained a fractured skull at Brockville, the result of a runaway accident on Friday. She is unlikely to recover.

One hundred thousand dollars will be asked of Congress to pay the physicians who cared for William McKinley in his last illness. This is nearly twice the sum paid for medical attendance upon Garfield twenty years ago, during a period ten times as long, the bill being $57,000.

Trouble Is Feared.

London, Oct. 14.—"A large Afghan force is assembled around Cabul and is maintaining order," says a despatch to The Daily Mail from Simla. "Habib Ullah Khan has appointed a special guard for each European in Cabul, directing that the guards shall answer with their lives for the safety of their charges.

"The Indian Government has postponed the usual move to Calcutta, and Lord Curzon has definitely postponed his projected tour."

Two Warships Disabled.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 14.—It is now reported that the two steamers, one apparently disabled, and being towed by the other whose approach the Cape Race lookout announced Friday evening, are the British warships Alert and Columbine. They left here that morning for Halifax, the former having been ordered to proceed to Panama, owing to the disturbances there and the latter to Halifax for the winter.

Thieves Took $800.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 14.—A daring robbery was committed yesterday about noon at the Central Railway Station, and the thieves got away with about $800 in cash. The thief or thieves got in through a window and broke open the Canadian Pacific and Canada Atlantic ticket offices. In the till in the Canada Atlantic office they got the money. The deed was done when the railway men were away.

Seton-Thompson Acquitted.

Denver, Oct. 14.—Ernest Seton-Thompson, the celebrated writer on wild animals, who, with Guide John Goff, were arrested for an alleged violation of the Colorado game laws, were on Saturday released. Their arrest will cost Warden Bush of Rio Blanco County his position, as Game Commissioner Harris announces that he will be removed. The evidence showed that the two men had baited a bear trap with the carcass of a young deer which had been killed by a snowslide, and the jury promptly acquitted them.

Going Through Canal.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 14.—As a result of the Fulton's collision with the gates in the Poe lock, the following regulation was put into effect last night to guard against more serious damage in the future:

"All steamers must stop their engines when the bow reaches on entering lock, and start them thereafter only upon orders from the canal officials, and never above slow speed."

A CLIPPING FROM PLATTSVILLE ECHO

Mrs. J. Barnett Figures in an Interesting Article in the Local Paper.

Interviewed by a Representative of the Echo—Story of Her Trouble as Related by Herself—Her Opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Plattsville, Ont., Oct. 13, (Special).—The case of Mrs. J. Barnett of this town was found of sufficient importance to be published at length in the Plattsville Echo. To the representative of that live local paper she made the following statement concerning her experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills:—

"I have been ailing for years, but in the spring of last year, I grew very much worse. The symptoms of my disease were nervousness, rheumatism in the left arm, pains in the small of the back, up the spinal column and back of the head, through the eyes, left side of the body and occasionally the right side.

"I grew weak, for I had no appetite and night after night I could not sleep. I was a physical wreck. I was treated by doctors, but their medicines afforded me no relief. I chanced to read in Dodd's Almanac of the virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills and the wonderful cures effected by them.

"The symptoms as therein explained corresponded with my own, and I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills according to directions. Before I had finished one box there was a decided improvement in my condition. My appetite returned, the pain was lessened and I was able to sleep. I have taken in all twelve boxes and have completely recovered. No sign of my old trouble remains and I ascribe it only to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful discovery."

This clipping is reproduced as it is typical of the way so many women feel about Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been often truly called "Woman's best friend."

Natural History.

They were admiring the rattlesnake in the state museum and had been informed that it was much in need of live rats.

"Will he swallow a rat whole?" questioned one.

"Naw," growled the custodian. "We have to take 'em out of the holes first."

Cheerful.

Mistress—But didn't Mrs. Upperten leave any message when you told her I was not at home?

Servant—No, ma'am. She simply gave a sigh of relief and said, "Thank you, Jane," and drove away.

IN AN OLD BOOKSTALL.

Here for a song you may command
Old books, well thumbed and musty;
Along the grimy walls they stand,
Tomes of immortal story.
And out of reach, on lofty shelves,
Beyond our small ambitions
And slender purse, dwell by themselves
The costlier "first editions."

There let them rest till Crumm comes;
We really do not need them.
Content to banquet on the crumbs,
We buy our books—and read them!
The one that bears the marks of use,
Back broken, worn and shattered,
Is dearer that its leaves are loose,
Its poor frame rent and tattered.

This grim old keeper of the stall
Tends these dead things in leather
And sheep and cloth and parchment—all
Close sepulchered together,
And few, alas, besides ourselves
Who prowl about the portals
Seek out along the dusty shelves
The names of these immortals.

Here where the city's life goes by,
Where wheel and wagon rumble,
Wrapped in their cerements they lie,
The lofty and the humble.
Dust unto dust—but from their sleep
Come bright, immortal flashes;
Their spirits into being leap
From out their crumbling ashes.

They are not dead, these silent tomes;
They die not, save in seeming;
Far from these bookish catacombs
They fill the world with dreaming,
And each that some small message gives
Or makes for high endeavor
Puts off mortality, but lives
And works its will forever!

—Boston Pilot.

The HIGHLAND LOVERS

The sun had sunk behind Ben Nevis' towering triple peak, and the mountain cast a deep shadow over the castle of Inverlochy and far out upon the placid blue waters of Lochiel.

A merry group of highland lads and lasses were congregated upon the greensward before the castle's walls, threading with joyous steps the mazes of the dance, to the inspiring notes of the shrill bagpipe.

All was mirth and glee, when an untoward accident disturbed the harmony of the scene. A band of highlanders descended the mountain pass, driving before them a herd of cattle. A bull, shaggy and untamed, broke from the herd and with a ferocious bellow dashed toward the circle of dancers.

With shrill cries they broke up their sport and fled in all directions. The infuriated animal singled out one fair girl, probably attracted by her scarf, the prevailing color of which was red, and closely pursued her.

Though fear lent her wings, the mad beast gained upon her. He was close at her heels, his head leveled for the plunge, when a tall highlander sprang before the flying girl, grasped the bull by the horns and, with a dexterous movement, hurled the huge animal upon its back. Ere it could rise to its feet again the drovers, who had been swarming to the rescue of the girl, bound it securely with cords. When goaded to its feet again, the bull moaned plaintively and looked around bewildered and subdued by its rough tumble.

The villagers of Inverlochy thronged around the man who had performed this great feat of muscular strength, and the fair girl he had saved timidly thanked her deliverer. They all gazed curiously upon him, for it was now perceived that he did not wear the tartan of the Campbells and was a stranger.

He was a boy in years, not over twenty, and yet fully developed, standing full 6 feet 4 inches in height, clad in highland costume, which displayed his well proportioned form to great advantage, and wearing an eagle's feather in his bonnet, the symbol of a chief. His target, or shield, "round as the moon," covered with ox hide and studded with brass knobs, hung around his neck. The hilt of a huge two handed claymore peeped from under his left arm, and a long dirk rested in the sheath upon his right thigh. Clad in this picturesque garb, with long, flowing locks of light brown hair, a ruddy complexion and a bright blue eye, he was a fine type of those ancient warriors of the Gael whom the bard Ossian has immortalized in song.

"What is thy name, pretty lassie?" he asked the girl, when she had thanked him for the good service and stolen a glance of admiration at the frank, open face and stalwart form of her preserver.

"I am called Annie of Lochiel," she answered timidly, yet with a sweet smile that had a strange fascination for the young highlander, who found it impossible to withdraw his gaze from that winning face.

"Are you a Cameron of the Clan Lochiel?" he asked eagerly and with interest.

"Not she!" broke in one of the men of Inverlochy, who wore the badge of an under chief. "She is a Campbell, and we call her Annie of Lochiel because she was born by yonder water. Her mother was a McLean; she died when Annie was an infant. Her father was Duncan Campbell, laird of Morven, and he was slain by the Gordons of Huntley in the raid of Garioch. There's her history in a nutshell. I that tell it to you am Malcolm MacPhie, captain of Inverlochy, and now, my braw gillie, who are you?"

The highlander reared his tall form with haughty pride as he replied:

"I am Alaster MacDonald, son of Coll-of-the-left-hand, chieftain of Mingarry and Kintyre."

A buzz went around the circle at these words. The MacDonalds were a bold and warlike clan, and Coll-of-the-left-hand was not unknown to fame.

"I have heard of the chieftain of Kintyre," returned Malcolm MacPhie, "but why do they call him 'of the left hand?'"

"Faith, I know not," answered Alaster carelessly, "unless it be that he can wield his claymore as well with the left hand as with the right."

A murmur of admiration greeted this announcement. Strength of limb and skill in arms were considered great virtues in those warlike days.

"Come, Alaster," cried Malcolm, his heart won by the bold bearing of the young highlander. "Thou hast preserved our fairest maiden from a cruel death. Bide with me in Inverlochy for a few days and taste the hospitality of our ancient castle."

"There is no feud between our clans," returned Alaster, "and I accept your offer."

They entered the castle together.

Malcolm MacPhie had cause to rue the hospitality which had induced him to invite the young highland chieftain to enter the walls of Castle Inverlochy. It soon became apparent to others besides himself that the bold Alaster had found favor in the eyes of pretty Annie of Lochiel. A strong affection seemed to have arisen at the first meeting of this young pair, an affection which their eyes were not slow to confess and which was revealed in eloquent glances.

Malcolm had detected more than one of these glances as he dispensed the hospitality of the castle, and he resolved in his own mind that Alaster should not bide long at Inverlochy. He prevented all chances of conversation between them until it was time for Annie to retire for the night. He then invited Alaster to walk with him upon the battlements and pointed out the strength of the castle.

A taper gleamed from a low turreted window that looked out upon the parapet.

"Who occupies yon chamber?" asked Alaster.

"Annie of Lochiel," replied Malcolm.

"A winsome lassie," responded Alaster warmly. "I would I could persuade her to go with me into the land of Kintyre and become the mistress of Castle Mingarry. It would glad the heart of Coll-of-the-left-hand to welcome so fair a daughter."

"That can never be," returned Malcolm quickly, with an angry flush. "Annie is the ward of Sir Donald Campbell of Auchinbreck, my chief and kinsman. Seek another bride, Alaster MacDonald, for Annie is to be my wife."

Alaster's eyes were fixed upon the little window as he listened to these words, and he saw a fair face appear there. An energetic shake of the head said very plainly, "No, no!" to Malcolm's assertion, and the fair vision disappeared.

"I wish you joy," replied Alaster, with a quiet smile. "Happy will be the man who calls the lovely Annie his."

A white hand was waved for an moment from the casement and quickly withdrawn. Alaster was understood and answered. Malcolm was totally unconscious of this novel courtship.

"A rare place this for an escalade," said Alaster, leaning over the parapet and pointing to a spur of Ben Nevis that reared its craggy head almost on a level with the battlements.

"For a goat, yes," answered Malcolm disdainfully. "No human being could scale yon cliff. Look at the distance. It is twelve feet from the battlement, with a yawning abyss between. An enemy will never enter Inverlochy from that quarter."

"A lover might scale yonder cliff to speak with his sweetheart," returned Alaster carelessly, "and he would think lightly of the danger for the boon of one sweet smile."

"And break his neck for his pains," answered Malcolm with a laugh. "Come, the night is nearly spent, and you are welcome to a share of a soldier's couch."

They left the battlements without further words and descended to Malcolm's chamber.

In the morning early Alaster departed, for he had no excuse to prolong his stay, and Malcolm MacPhie drew a long breath of satisfaction when he saw the stalwart form of the young highlander disappear up the glen.

That night when the moon veiled her silvery face behind the towering head of old Ben Nevis Annie of Lochiel wandered pensively upon the battlements of Inverlochy, gazing ever and anon upon the craggy platform that jutted out from the mountain's side.

A tall form emerged from the shadows and advanced to the edge of the cliff.

"Alaster?" whispered the maid in cautious tones, bending over the parapet.

"I am not a goat," answered Alaster with a gleesome laugh, "but it is even I, Alaster, fair Annie."

"How brave you are!" cried the maid involuntarily. "You have undergone this danger to see me once again?"

"You know right well what brings me here. Annie, I love you. Short as our acquaintance has been, you have enslaved my heart. I have scant time for wooing. My presence here may be discovered at any moment. If you bide in Inverlochy, it will be to become the wife of Malcolm MacPhie. Fly with me to the land of Kintyre and share a chieftain's home."

"Alaster, I would willingly fly with thee to escape the dreaded fate that awaits me here, but how can I escape? Malcolm MacPhie has watched me closely all the day"—

"Aye, and he watches thee now!" cried Malcolm, suddenly emerging upon the battlement. Fickle jade! Didst think to outwit me?"

Annie uttered a faint shriek of despair.

"Leap, Annie, leap!" cried Alaster in sharp, ringing tones. "The space is narrow—spring boldly from the parapet—thy lover's arms await thee!"

Scarcely conscious what she did—impelled by desperation and that instinctive feeling of obedience which true love prompts—Annie avoided the grasp of the exasperated Malcolm, ran a few steps upon the parapet and leaped boldly across the yawning void. Malcolm paused aghast. He expected to hear her death shriek and the dull sound of her form as it struck the rocks beneath. But he heard only a cry of joy and saw Annie twining her arms around Alaster's neck, while his clasped her in safety to his breast.

To this day the curious traveler who visits the old gray ruins of Inverlochy is shown the spot from which Annie sprang, and that part of the battlement still bears the name of the "Maiden's Leap."

Alaster and Annie disappeared in the gloom, and Malcolm hastened to alarm the castle and urge a hot pursuit. But who could follow the bold highlander as he leaped lightly from crag to crag, bearing his precious burden in his arms? Pursuit was unavailing; the fugitives could not be found, and Malcolm MacPhie returned sullenly to Inverlochy, swearing a deep and bloody vengeance.

There was high feasting in the land of Kintyre, and Castle Mingarry opened its hospitable gates so that all of the Clan Donald might witness the nuptials of Annie of Lochiel and Alaster, their young chief.

Coins and Odors.

Coins fresh from the mint have no smell, but after they have been in circulation for a short time they emit a characteristic odor. Why is this?

Metals do not give forth an odor of themselves, or, at any rate, not one that can be detected in the state in which we generally handle them. The smell, as a matter of fact, is due to the chemical action of the acids that exude from our hands. Take a bronze coin, clean it and lay it on a clean surface in the air; it will emit no smell. Handle it for a minute or so, and you will detect the familiar odor of pennies and half pennies. Silver has a different odor from copper after handling.

Aluminium, tin and zinc will emit the same kind of smell when rubbed with the hand, but this is not like the smell of bronze or copper, which, again, are alike. —London Telegraph.

AFTER

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Many a woman entertains and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief to women would be worth a trial under such conditions. But when the woman's medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, is offered with the proof of efficacy in thousands of well attested cures, what excuse can then be offered for suffering longer?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" says Miss Carrie Johnson, of Lowesville, Amherst Co., Va. "She suffered untold misery with uterine disease and nervousness, and had a constant roaring and ringing noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' she was entirely cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the liver.

Loose Knife Blades.

Sometimes a table or kitchen knife blade becomes loose from the handle. When this occurs, take the blade out and fill two-thirds of the cavity with resin mixed with sawdust. Heat the shank of the knife very hot and press it in quickly and solidly. When it cools, you will find that the blade is fixed firmly.

MERRILL'S SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA, DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

CONSTIPATION

The Greatest Factor in the Death Rate

This trouble has been well named the foe of mankind. More unpleasant symptoms, disease and deaths can be indirectly traced to constipation than to all other causes combined. But strange to say, as true and alarming as the above statement is, the majority of people afflicted give themselves but little concern. And just here is wherein the great danger lies. People do take physic, it's true, and relieve the present symptoms, but they do not press on diligently in search of a cure. By cure we mean restoring the natural healthy movement of the bowels day in and day out the year round without the aid of physic. Now this result is positively and absolutely guaranteed if you take Merrill's System Tonic. The alterative effects of Sarsaparilla, Red Clover and Burdock contained in it restore the glands, and more fluids are secreted in the stomach and bowels. Then the muscular toning effects of Hypophosphites therin restore natural muscular power to the muscles of the bowels which control evacuation. This is the scientific and correct way and differs altogether from the pill or physic idea, in which some irritating principle causes a movement in such a way as to make more necessary a repeated dose. Clear skin, buoyant health, active brain and vivacity follow the permanent cures of this trouble made by Merrill's System Tonic.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

THE USEFUL FOP.

The liberal use of scent on the handkerchief is calculated to make it antiseptic and to destroy the germs in it, owing to the action partly of the spirit of the scent and partly of the essential oils dissolved in the spirit. Before, therefore, we condemn the persons who use scent upon the handkerchief for practicing a foppish or luxurious habit, we should remember that they may actually be doing good to their neighbours by checking the distribution of infectious materials.—Lancet.

The First Schley Witness.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Yesterday in the Schley Court of Inquiry, Judge Advocate Lemley concluded the presentation of testimony for the Government, and the first of Admiral Schley's witnesses was introduced. Captain Francis A. Cook, who commanded Admiral (the Commodore) Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, during the Santiago campaign, and who acted, though unofficially, in the capacity of chief of staff for the Commodore, was on the witness stand the greater part of the day. Captain Cook's testimony was a review of the entire campaign after Cervera's fleet, beginning with the departure of the flying squadron from Key West on May 19, and concluding with the battle off Santiago, July 3. Asked for an opinion as to Admiral Schley's bearing as a commanding officer, he said: "I always regarded him as an enthusiastically, brave and patriotic officer."

Charged With Murder.

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 15.—The formal charge of murder in the first degree was yesterday preferred against Mrs. Mary Belle Witwer, suspected of having caused the deaths of her four husbands and her own children by poison. The affidavit was sworn to by Chief of Detectives Frank McBride, and is based wholly on circumstantial evidence. The chemists' report is promised to-day.

Not Guilty.

St. John, N.B., Oct. 15.—The trial of George McLaughlin, who was charged with the murder of Harris McLaughlin in May last, was concluded at St. Andrew's last evening, and the jury, after three hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty. Judge Gregory then dismissed the prisoner.

Will Not Go to Halifax.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—Gen. O'Grady-Haly has received notification that the War Office wishes him to take command at the royal review at Halifax on Oct. 21, and not Col. Biscoe, the senior Imperial officer there. Admiral Bedford is said to object to Gen. O'Grady-Haly assuming command, and is credited with having refused, if he does so, to land sailors and marines from the British fleet to take part in the review. Having vindicated his position and upheld the dignity of the Canadian militia, Gen. O'Grady-Haly has now decided not to attend the review, but to leave the command of the Canadian troops to Lieut.-Col. Irving, D. O. C.

Big Sentence Asked For.

Havana, Oct. 15.—The indictments in the postoffice fraud cases have been sent by the Fiscal to the Audiencia, but have not yet been made public. It is known, however, that the Fiscal has asked that C.F. W. Neely, Estes G. Rathbone and W. H. Reeves, the indicted officials, be sentenced to imprisonment for terms ranging from 24 to 26 years.

Will Have Waterworks.

Southampton, Oct. 15.—The voting on the waterworks bylaw here yesterday resulted as follows: 145 for, 15 against.

A CALL TO GET READY

Aldershot Garrison of 29,000 Men May Be Wanted.

TO PROCEED ON ACTIVE SERVICE

The Order Is Interpreted to Mean That the Government Wishes to Reassure the Public—Col. Sir. Hector Macdonald Has Arrived in Australia —A Canadian Ill—Effect of Martial Law.

London, Oct. 15.—The Pall Mall Gazette said yesterday afternoon: "Orders have been received at Aldershot to hold every available man in readiness to proceed on active service. The garrison totals 29,000 men."

The above is interpreted as meaning that the Government is desirous of reassuring the public, and not as foreshadowing an immediate demand for the services of the first army corps.

Fighting Mac in Australia.

Sydney, Oct. 15.—Col. Sir Hector Macdonald has arrived unexpectedly at Fremantle, en route to Sydney and New Zealand, where it is understood that he has relatives. He is on 90 days' furlough, and declares that his visit is purely private and quite unconnected with the Federal commandantship, though he acknowledged to an interviewer his willingness to accept it if he were given the chance.

Another Canadian Ill.

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—It is George Douglas, and not Thomas Douglas, who is dangerously ill of enteric fever at Elandsfontein, belonging to the South African Constabulary, and was taken ill on Oct. 8. His father is E. Douglas of Truro, N.S.

Pro-Boer Sheet Suspends.

London, Oct. 15.—A special despatch from Cape Town says that, owing to the restrictions of martial law, the Pro-Boer South African News has been obliged to suspend publication.

Is He a Coward?

London, Oct. 15.—A strong effort is being made to secure the revision of a sentence of penal servitude passed by court martial on Private Sinclair of the Black Watch, for alleged misbehavior at Honing's Spruit on June 22 last. Sinclair was charged with retiring along with others to cover when orders to do so had not been given. Great exception is taken to the evidence given at the court martial, and it is pointed out that a non-commissioned officer declares that he heard the order given to retire. An old commanding officer believes him incapable of cowardice and is backing the appeal.

Five Fatally Injured.

Tunnelton, W.Va., Oct. 15.—By an explosion in a mine here yesterday 13 miners were burned, five probably fatally. The accident was caused by a miner loading a hole with too much powder, causing the dust from the electric machines to ignite and explode.

An East Indian Verdict.

In a case in one of our Indian courts a jury had before them evidence that could not be in any way shaken. When the concluding stage had been reached, the following interchange of conversation took place between the judge and his colleagues in the administration of justice:

"Gentlemen, are you ready to give your verdict?"

"Yes."

"What is your verdict?"

"Our answer is, sir, that you can do as you like with the men that have confessed, but we acquit all the rest."

"But is it possible that you have weighed the evidence?"

"Evidence like this can always be fabricated."

"Do you find that as regards these prisoners it has been fabricated?"

"Evidence can be fabricated."

"So the evidence is untrustworthy?"

"Unless a man confesses who can tell if he is guilty?"

Close to a Fool.

A farmer was working in his field when a sewing machine man came along.

"Good morning," said the sewing machine barker.

"Mornin."

"Your corn seems to be pretty yellow."

"Yaas; I planted yellow cawn."

"You don't seem to have more than half a crop."

"Waal, I planted it on the halves."

"You seem pretty close to a fool."

"Yaas; there's only a fence between us."

When the sewing machine man came to, it required the services of two doctors to get him into such shape that he was able to make the next town.

SHANTYMAN'S DROLLERY.

Heir Apparent to the Throne of Great Britain Thought It Was the Funniest He Had Ever Listened To.

The Duke and Duchess then climbed the steep slope of Rockliffe and took the royal trolley car into the depths of the woods, where a lumberman's camp had been prepared, writes Hector W. Charlesworth in The Toronto Mail. The approach to it, a newly-cut roadway, was guarded by lines of soldiers. At the camp itself was a spot hidden away among towering pines, the air redolent with balsam. Here the lumbermen were lined up in scarlet shirts, and carried the great "gaffs" with which they handle logs, like spears in their hands. There was a genuine lumberman's cook-house or shanty, with a great fire burning in the middle of it, the only chimney a hole cut in the roof. Here Monsieur Adelbert Gauthier, a typical French-Canadian shanty cook, presided with great pride over the feast. He had prepared pea soup, pork, and beans, "sea pie," a combination of beef and potatoes, tea without milk, apples, and prunes. All these dainties were served in tin pans and cups.

To Monsieur Adelbert the Duchess is the Queen and good lady of his devotion. She tasted every one of the dishes he had prepared, and complimented him. "And why no," says Monsieur Adelbert, "dey was good, I tell you dey was; le Duc, he not want to taste ze sea pie, but ze Duchess, she shamed for him I tink, and she made him take some from her pan. She French, ze Duchess, she spik beautifully. I not much Anglais, you know; le Duc he not much French; but he says everything verra nice. Why no, is not all clean? We sleep but one hour last night."

While the Duke and Duchess were regaling themselves with shanty fare, all good and wholesome and clean, the other guests availed themselves of the lavish hospitality of the lumbermen. Rich brands of fine wines were spread forth in the marquees with a special compartment for royalty. Afterward began the sports of the lumbermen, the throwing of gaffs and the like. Then several trees were cut deftly and without danger to any one, so neatly was it done. The great trunks came crashing down in their selected places, scattering the aromatic pine needles everywhere. With many characteristic cries the habitant woodmen set about cutting the trunks into lengths for loading, and proceeded with their gaffs to log the great trunks up on to the carrying sleds. In the meanwhile a fiddler struck up a tune, and the dancing commenced, such as goes on in every lumber camp every Saturday night. Heel and toe, partner against partner, cutting strange pranks, but always keeping time with the music, the big sunburned, sweating woodsmen danced.

The lumbermen's committee had a very pretty souvenir for the royal party. It is a silver log in the form of a badge about an inch long. On either end of the log are inscriptions describing the occasion and the dates, etc. One of these souvenirs was presented to the Duke and Duchess. His Royal Highness quickly had it dangling from the lapel of his coat.

After the entertainment was over the Duke made his first extempore speech. He spoke with a slight hesitancy.

"The Duchess and myself have to thank you for one of the most interesting afternoons that we have had since we left England. We have seen many interesting sights in various parts of the world, but nothing has pleased us more than what we have seen here to-day."

The Duke's observation evidently gave great satisfaction to the shanty men, and when William Whistle, the merry unctuous, 265-pound foreman of the W. C. Edwards Company, stepped into the circle to make reply, he was for a moment embarrassed. William made his most courtly bow to the Duke and Duchess, and Their Excellencies. After a moment or so of hesitation he commenced his remarks in French.

Immediately there was a cry of "En Anglaise." The portly foreman struggled against this demand, but presently acceded to the general wish. He said:

"Oh, I cannot spik vat I vant in English, but I will do de best as I can. I commence on de shantee for Msieu Edward many year ago, and in tam I had charge of de shantee, and I mak some money. He gave me pretty fair wages, but I notice Msieu Edward make much money every year, and I say to myself I will tak up bisness myself, and I am going to mak big money, too. Well, Msieu Edward, he no object, and in tree year I mak big bisness. I mak seventeen tousand dollar debt (great laughter), and I lose all dat I hav. I commence to look pretty sharp, less I lose ma home (laughter), den I met Msieu Edward, and he say to me: 'Well, William, are you done?' I say to Msieu Edward, 'Yes; and I would like to go work for your famlee again.' So I start and go back to Msieu Edward. But der was dat seventeen tousand dollar debt, and Msieu Edward he say to me, 'Well, William, when you are in debt you hav to pay.' Well dat bother me vare mouch, and I did not know what to do, so I went to de church to de mass, and I prayed to de good Lor, and I say to him, 'God Almighty, I cannot pay dat debt. I will give it to you.' (Roars of laughter.)

"It is many, many year since I first work in de shantee for Msieu Edward. He give me good wage, and I am honorable enough to mak shantee to-day for de King and de Queen."

At this point William made a profound obeisance to Their Royal Highnesses, and wound up his characteristic speech with this remark: "An I am sure if I cannot work you (meaning the Duke), will give me a chance somewhere else."

The Duke was convulsed with laughter, and went about among his acquaintances saying, "Wasn't that the funniest thing you ever heard?" and in farewell shook William warmly by the hand.

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

A CALL ON DR. GRANT

First Private Citizen Royal Pair Visited During Tour.

THROUGH EASTERN ONTARIO.

Belleville, Kingston and Brockville Were Visited—The Program at Queen's University—Duke Receives His Degree and Decorates the Principal With His C.M.G.—The Trip Through Thousand Islands.

Belleville, Oct. 16.—A very large crowd, estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 people, assembled at the Grand Trunk station yesterday morning to greet the royal party, whose trains had arrived late Monday night and had been switched on to the Midland siding, where they remained all night. The Governor-General's train was backed down at 9.15, and after Mayor Graham and other gentlemen had been introduced, it left, after a few minutes' stay, for Kingston. A beautiful bouquet was presented by Miss Graham, daughter of the Mayor. The stay of the train was not more than ten minutes. A guard of honor was furnished by the 15th and 49th Regiments and the Veterans' Association, and the pupils of the city schools, Albert College and the Business Colleges sang the National Anthem and "Rule Britannia," in which the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institute joined with the sign language. Cheers greeted the royal party, whose train left at 9.55 for Kingston. The forenoon was observed as a half holiday.

DUKE RECEIVES DEGREE.

Royal Party Visits a Private Citizen, Principal Grant, C.M.G.

Kingston, Oct. 16.—Before the time arranged for the reception of the royal visitors yesterday Kingston's streets were crowded, the whole countryside having emptied its population into the old Limestone City. The day was beautiful, the air cool and invigorating. The decorations were unusually brilliant. There was tremendous enthusiasm as the Duke and Duchess drove up Ontario street from the handsomely decorated Grand Trunk station to the City Hall. Here, under a picturesque pavilion near the entrances and on the site of Gen. Braddock's fortifications, they heard the civic address of welcome, listened to the singing of 3,000 children and saw them wave flags and shout.

The Duke made a brief, well-timed address, and then received several addresses from adjacent places, which were only handed in. Miss Rilla Kent, daughter of Mayor Kent, gave the Duchess a fine bouquet. A few leading citizens and aldermen were presented.

The royal procession then moved to Queen's College through gaily decorated avenues, crowded with shouting spectators, past Monument Park and Hospital, all of historic interest. On the way the Duke and Duchess of York diverged from the route and made a visit to Principal Grant in the General Hospital. This was the first call made on the long tour to a private citizen. The greeting was cordial and greatly pleased the distinguished Principal, who promised, in his joking way, to return it at some future date. The Duchess, during her brief stay, made enquiries of the number in hospital, the staff employed, and spoke tenderly to two sick nurses in a room adjacent to the Principal. Before leaving, the Duke invested Principal Grant with the C. M. G. decoration bestowed upon him by the King.

At the new Arts building at Queen's a huge platform held dignataries of church, judicial and civil life. Sir Sandford Fleming, K. C. M. G., Chancellor of the University for over 25 years, received the Duke and Duchess. On the Duke the degree of LL.D. was conferred. Vice-Principal Watson making the presentation address. The newly appointed honorary graduate made a felicitous reply at becoming a member of a university chartered by his illustrious grandmother. Then both the Duke and Duchess opened the second volume of the Domesday Book with their signatures, and H. R. H. the Duke well and truly laid the corner stone of the new building donated to the college by the citizens of Kingston. There were mighty cheering and lusty songs by the students, while a brief time was spent in exchange of good wishes.

The drive was then resumed to the Royal Military College, the route passing Frontenac Court House, Kirkpatrick memorial, a quartette of fine churches, and then down Princess street, gay with flags, bunting and maple leaves. The party drove across the Cataraqui bridge and at the Royal Military College were greeted by a royal salute by the military staff and cadets, 87 in number, the commandant, Lieut.-Col. Raymond Reade, leading. There was a short inspection by the Duke, followed by a march past, gymnastic display and a salute of 21 guns as the royal pair left. During the visit Miss Mary Reade gave the Duchess a bouquet and presentations were made of the wives of the staff. Shortly after 1.15 o'clock the royal procession retraced its steps to Swift's wharf, where the steamer Kingston awaited them to make a trip to Brockville through the beautiful Thousand Islands. The gracious pair seemed extremely delighted at their reception.

Through Thousand Islands.

Gananoque, Ont., Oct. 16.— The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York and members of the royal suite, accompanied by the Governor-General, Countess of Minto, and Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, yesterday varied their long railway journey by sailing down among the Thousand Islands from Kingston to Brockville, making a stop here of 15 minutes. A hearty reception was given them.

Brockville Was Gay.

Brockville, Ont., Oct. 16.— Never was Brockville so gaily decorated as yesterday, to celebrate the brief visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. The royal party arrived by the steamer Kingston at 6.15 p.m. Their Royal Highnesses were accompanied by Lord and Lady Minto, Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, Hon. Mr. Fielding and others. There was a brilliant display of fireworks from the shore and the island as the steamer approached the town. The steamer was met at the landing by a committee consisting of Mayor Bell, Judge McDonald, Senator Fulford, George P. Graham, M.P.P., John Culbert, M.P., Sheriff Dana and H. A. Stewart, barrister. A cheer went up as the Governor-General and the Premier emerged from the steamer. When the Duke and Duchess appeared the crowd shouted themselves hoarse, and the band played a few strains of the National Anthem. A beautiful bouquet was presented to Their Royal Highnesses by little Dorothy Buell, which was graciously acknowledged. A suitable military escort accompanied the royal party on the drive from the wharf to the G.T.R. station. The greatest enthusiasm prevailed along the route of procession, and Their Royal Highnesses repeatedly acknowledged the welcome accorded them. The party boarded the royal train amidst the cheers of the crowd and a blaze of fireworks, and in a very few minutes the train left for Cardinal, where the royal party will remain over night.

Decorating Victoria Bridge.

Montreal, Oct. 16.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company have commenced decorating the centre span of the Royal Victoria Bridge, and by the time the royal visitors arrive there to-day about noon, they will be welcomed by a very tasty and becoming display. A platform, formed of four flat cars, decorated with bunting will be run out to-day shortly before the arrival of the royal train, to enable the Duke and Duchess to step directly from their car to inspect the bridge, and the famous Ford rivet.

12 Warships Await the Duke.

Halifax, N.S., Oct. 16.—H. M. S. Alert and Columbine arrived from Newfoundland yesterday morning. The fleet in port for the reception of the Duke and Duchess of York on Saturday next now numbers twelve.

Will Live at Marlborough House.

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The North America on Oct. 13 published the following from its London correspondent: The return of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York from their trip around the world will see them in their new home, Marlborough House. The conferring of the title of Prince of Wales on the Duke will also be simultaneous with his return. The documents transferring this honor have already been prepared and await only the King's signature, which will be appended as soon as the ducal party reaches England.

A Farewell Address.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Record-Herald has this from its St. John's, Nfld., correspondent: The Duke of Cornwall and York will leave St. John's Friday next week, bringing to a close his tour of the Imperial colonies. It is expected that before sailing for England he will publish a farewell address to the colonies.

A British Protectorate.

London, Oct. 16.—"It is reported in Teheran," says a despatch to The Daily Mail from the Persian capital, "that Great Britain has declared a protectorate over Koweyt."

Koweyt is the town on the Persian Gulf at which a British fleet has been for several weeks, and near which a large Turkish army has concentrated. This juxtaposition has given rise to stories of hostilities between Turkey and England, but these were apparently set at rest by the announcement of the British Foreign Office that they were there on the same mission, the prevention of hostilities between the Emir of Koweyt and a rival.

Koweyt has always been a semi-independent State. The Sultan of Turkey claims it as a part of his dominions, and not long ago sent an army to force the Emir to pay homage and, presumably, tribute. England has held that the Emir was an independent monarch.

The belligerent talk in St. Petersburg that followed the death of the Ameer of Afghanistan and the possibility of Russia seizing Herat, which would precipitate war with Afghanistan as the theatre, would be sufficient to justify England in taking such an important base as Koweyt, if only to counteract Russia's designs in Persia.

Two Were Fatally Burned.

St. Catharines, Oct. 16.—Anna Phelan, the little 5-year-old daughter of Thomas Phelan, Wellington street, was fatally burned Monday and died last night at 5 o'clock. She was playing in the yard where some rubbish was being burned, and in some way her clothes caught fire. She was frightfully burned over the entire body. She was an only child, and was particularly brilliant and pretty.

William Williams, while working around the furnace at L. M. Schenck's canning factory yesterday afternoon, was probably fatally burned. He threw a pail of tar into the furnace, causing the fire to fly up and burn him very badly in the face, arms and chest. He was taken to the hospital. In the excitement, instead of calling the ambulance, the fire department was called out. He was conveyed to the hospital in the hose cart.

Always something new

Always something rare good value

Appreciated

Are the rare good values continually offered at this store. This time that rareness in values can be applied to the following lines:—

WRAPPERETES

that went on sale this morning are meeting with a hearty response, but the quantity is great enough not to be sold out in a day or even a week, though it's possible you may not get the pattern you fancied while shown in our window. For those who haven't seen or heard of them, the story is summed up in this:—Pretty Veronnes and Wrapperettes, worth 10 and 12½c, for 8c

SHEETINGS

Bleached in twill or plain, and in all widths, from 1¼ yards to 2½ yards wide, selling at less than we could regularly, or at the present time buy them. It was quantity, and striking the iron at the right time that brought us these perfect goods so low in price. They start at 19c a yard and run up to 27c a yard, but these prices are less than wholesale prices.

SUITS TO HAND

Owing to the non-fulfilment of a Suit order on time by one of the foremost suit manufacturers in Canada, we have claimed, and justly so, a recompense for the inconvenience and loss we were put to, and now are in a position to show our customers some natty new Suits AT A SUBSTANTIAL SAVING. Yet the quantity will not last long after those who have been waiting for our Suits get served. Excuse the expression, but "step quick" if you want one of these Suits.

MANTLES

To speak of our values as our customers do, they are the best value in the trade. Lengths the correct lengths. Colours and sizes in pretty fair condition yet, though we would advise an early selection as later deliveries are uncertain. Get your Coat of this store, and you will be pleased with fit, sightliness and value.

UNDERWEAR

scribe the best, and as I know and have proven that there is nothing in Materia Medica which equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female disorders, I unhesitatingly prescribe it, and have never yet been sorry. I know of nothing better for ovarian troubles and for falling of the womb or ulcerations; it absolutely restores the affected parts to their normal condition quicker and better than anything else. I have known it to cure barrenness in women, who to-day are happy mothers of children, and while the medical profession looks down upon 'patents,' I have learned, instead, to look-up to the healing potion, by whatever name it be known. If my fellow physicians dared tell the truth, hundreds of them would voice my sentiments."—DR. WANATA, Lansing, Mich.

GOLD MEDAL FOR CHEESE.

Ontario Beats all America at Buffalo Exposition.

(Toronto Globe.)

Ontario cheese has triumphed at the Pan-American, where it was in competition with the whole of North and South America, and won the gold medal offered by the exhibition. The victory is notable, and is one more triumph to our dairymen and to the officials who selected the exhibit. The Department of Agriculture of Ontario, through a committee of the Western Dairymen's Association, sent over at different times during June, July and August, 140 boxes of cheese, which were scored by expert judges. The exhibits were the product of fifty-seven cheese factories of Ontario, situated in both the east and west, and included a fine lot from the Ontario Agricultural College. According to the rules of the exposition any exhibit scoring ninety-four points or over would receive a diploma, and of the Ontario August cheese, which was last scored, only one package failed to reach this standard, while some of the packages scored as high as ninety-nine and a half per cent.

Provision was also made in the regulations that "an award will be made to the state, country or province having the greatest aggregate score on its individual exhibits of dairy products, and an award made to the exhibitor receiving from the judge the greatest aggregate score on his exhibits from each such state, country or province."

The award decided upon by the board of jurors was a gold medal, and at the meeting held last week this gold medal was awarded to the province of Ontario. Only one gold medal was awarded, and the cheesemakers of the province are to be congratulated on having secured this high honour.

HISTORIC HASTINGS.

What is Going on in the Village on the Trent—Personal Mention.

Mr. B. Huson, who is attending the Norwood Model School, visited friends here last week.

Miss Holdcroft of Norwood, was the guest of Miss Blanche Clarry last week.

The millinery opening here last week was a decided success. Miss Gallivan is to be congratulated on her beautiful display. The fair sex were in the majority that afternoon on Main street.

The funeral of the late Mr. John Foley took place on Tuesday last. Mr. Foley was an old and much respected resident of the town, as was shown by the goodly number that turned out to the funeral. The bereaved family have the respect of the community.

Mr. T. F. Learmouth, who is attending the Norwood High School, spent Sunday under the parental roof.

Last Wednesday was Norwood's fair day. A great number attended from here and reported a large crowd and an excellent display. The 49th Regimental Band, under the able leadership of Mr. Jno. T. Shunk, furnished music on this occasion. The Norwegian musical critics state that the music given was the best they had heard there for years.

The enterprising proprietors of our tannery, Messrs. John Walsh & Co., are erecting a somewhat large addition to their already extensive buildings. When completed this new addition will be furnished with the latest improved machinery, which will greatly increase the already large output of the tannery.

The citizens from here who attended the celebration at Toronto on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, have all returned. They report a magnificent display, and all seem to have enjoyed themselves thoroughly. "Uncle Henry" who has travelled the world over pronounces this one of the grandest displays he has ever witnessed. The South Afican veteran, Capt. T. A. Fraser, of here, was presented by the Duke with a medal of honour, which he displayed on his breast Saturday last. "Tim" seemed to be the centre of attraction, the medal being admired by all, more especially by the fair sex.

The stock books of the pork packing industry will be opened in a few days, and it is expected that all the stock will be taken up in a short time.

Mr. F. Gallagher and Mr. H. Clarke, of Warkworth, visited friends here last week.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Quite a number of young people were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hamblin on Monday evening, the 7th inst. They were so well entertained that the dawn of day and the arrival of some of the party at their homes were contemporaneous.

Mr. Archie C. Carveth and some friends, attended the county fair at Peterborough, which was both interesting and pleasant.

A party of North Dummer rangers, under the skillful management of Corporal Carveth, expect to visit the eastern townships in a few days. Doubtless they will be successful in securing game as their leader is quite an experienced hunter in that locality.

The annual Agricultural Fair of the East Riding was a decided success; a large number of people from this vicinity were in attendance.

A number of persons from this neighbourhood visited Toronto on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, on the 10th and 11th October; where the reception of their Royal Highness was exceptionally magnificent.

THE ONTARIO TANKARD.

The Ontario Curling Association Fixes the Grouping for the Competition.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—The annual October meeting of the Ontario Curling Association was held at the Walker House yesterday afternoon, when 34 delegates were in attendance. The tankard groups were drafted as follows:

Group No. 1—Toronto, Granite, Caledonian, Parkdale, Prospect Park, Queen City, Brampton, Scarboro Maple Leaf. Umpire, A. F. McLaren. Play at Toronto.

Group No. 2—Hamilton Asylum, Thistle, Victoria, Dundas, Glanford, Niagara Falls, Simcoe. Umpire, R. N. Burns. Play mainly at Hamilton.

Group No. 3—Ayr, London, Forest City, Woodstock, St. Thomas, Bright, Paris. Umpire, J. Steele. Play mainly at Woodstock.

Group No. 4—Orillia, Barrie, Collingwood, Churchill, Beaverton. Umpire, B. H. Ardagh. Play mainly at Orillia.

Group No. 5—Bobcaygeon, Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterboro Granite, Peterboro Thistle, Campbellford. Umpire, M. Dobson. Play mainly at Lindsay or Peterboro.

Group No. 6—Windsor, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Toledo, Chatham, Thamesville, Glencoe, Ridgetown. Umpire—G. Matheson. Play mainly at Windsor.

Group No. 7—Stratford, Seaforth, Lucknow, St. Mary's, Forest, Harriston, Brantford. Umpire, Robert Reid. Play mainly at Stratford.

Group No. 8—Milton Minto, Guelph Royal City, Guelph Union, Galt, Galt Granite, Preston, Fergus, Walkerton, Waterloo. Umpire, Dr. Russell. Play mainly at Guelph or Galt.

There was only one district cup group fixed; that being No. 1. The others were left to the Executive to arrange for. No. 1 is as follows: Newmarket, Scarboro, Georgetown, Toronto, Lakeview. Umpire, J. Bain. Play mainly at Toronto.

For Municipal Lighting.

Winnipeg, Oct. 16.—The proposal of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to submit a bylaw for the inauguration of a municipal gas plant for general use of the citizens has created considerable interest. Commissioner Stuart, who has had great experience in connection with the gas business, is busy preparing an estimate of the cost of such a plant, and the city solicitors are preparing a draft bylaw for submission to the ratepayers in the matter, both of which will be submitted at the meeting of the Council.

Damage to Indefatigable.

Halifax, Oct. 16.—The British warship Indefatigable, which was damaged at Quebec by going ashore, will repair here, orders having been received yesterday to that effect. The repairs will cost $200,000.

To Take Over World's Trade.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Journal and Advertiser says that an industrial combination to consolidate the armor plate manufacturers of this country into the building of merchant and warships for the world's trade, and take over the large and growing export trade of the United States Steel Corporation, is about to be organized by J. P. Morgan and his allies.

Move for Balkan Dreibund.

Vienna, Oct. 16.—The Reichswear announces that a conference will shortly be held in Belgrade of the diplomatic representatives of Servia, Bulgaria, Montenegro, and that a Russian Minister will be present. It is believed here that the conference is a Russian move toward the formation of a definite Balkan dreibund.

There Will Be a Crisis.

London, Oct. 16.—According to despatches published to-day by The Daily Mail, a crisis is imminent in Newfoundland unless the British Government pays more attention to the demands of the colony than has been the case.

HON. SYDNEY FISHER

Says Canada Has Done Well at the Pan-American.

THE EXHIBITS AT BUFFALO.

While the Exhibit at the Pan-American Is Not So Compact as That Sent to Glasgow Dominion Exhibitors Made No Poor Showing—Canada Was Strong in Cattle Classes—Gets Big Awards.

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, who has just returned from a visit to the Buffalo Exposition, gave a reporter yesterday some impressions regarding the Canadian exhibits at the Pan-American. "Of course," said the Minister of Agriculture, "as Canada did not make any exhibit as a Dominion, but trusted to Provincial organization or private individuals, the display from this country is not so compact or so thoroughly representative as at Paris or Glasgow. Nevertheless, Canada makes no mean showing at Buffalo. The live stock exhibition has been, I think, of great advantage to beeeders. In dairy cattle the awards of four out of the first five classes will probably go to Canada. Those are Jerseys, Ayrshires, Holsteins and French-Canadians. I was very much pleased with the management and arrangement of the herds and the condition of the cattle, which was quite remarkable considering that for five months and more they had been forced for all they were worth. This was in marked contrast to the state of the cattle at the Chicago Exposition, where a large number of the animals were killed in consequence of overforcing, although the test was shorter than at Buffalo. Our Canadian horses all took a prominent place, and I was particularly glad to see the fine exhibit of French-Canadian stock. This class attracted a great deal of attention, and deservedly, because of their excellence. With respect to the Canadian building, while the display there was not an exhibition in the sense of having exhibits for competition or awards, it was a very creditable representation of the agricultural resources of Canada. I was much pleased to find that there were numerous enquiries from visitors regarding lands in the northwest. Our immigration agents at Buffalo were very busy answering these inquiries. The exhibits of fruit and minerals from Ontario were excellent, and reflected great credit upon those who managed them. The Nova Scotia fruit exhibit, although hastily got up at the last minute, made a splendid showing, more especially the apples."

Awards to Ontario's Minerals.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—The official list of awards obtained by the Ontario mineral exhibit made by the Bureau of Mines at the Pan-American Exposition confirms the opinion expressed by many visitors that the exhibit was not surpassed by any in the Mines Building, if, indeed, there were any which equalled it. In all, three gold medals, seven silver medals, six bronze medals, and five honorable mentions were adjudged the exhibit, a total of 21 awards. Owing to the method of making and announcing the awards, it is hardly possible to institute comparisons with other exhibits, but an inspection of the list leads to the conclusion that Ontario has done very well, indeed. Certainly no State of the Union fared better, and probably none as well. There was no Canadian representative on the mineral jury of awards.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant, and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal times will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents. A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan.

The Canning of Fruits.

In the early work of excavation at Pompeii, in the pantry of one of the old and mostly destroyed palaces, an earthen vessel was found which, when opened, showed a quantity of well preserved figs. Examination proved that they had been cooked and put into the vessel while hot. The cover had a small aperture through which the steam escaped and drove out the air also. The aperture was then securely closed with wax, and the fruit remained sweet for twenty centuries. From this arose the modern practice of canning fruits, vegetables and meats.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

Propose Congregational Union.

Manchester, Eng., Oct. 16.—Dr. Joseph Parker, chairman of the Congregational Union of England and Wales, proposed yesterday the establishment of a federation of Congregationalism throughout the world, under the title of the United Congregational Church. The assembly voted that a committee should take steps immediately to bring the subject before the subordinate unions.

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhozone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it cures. Prince Chun's Fears.

"But why," we asked of Prince Chun, "do you object to knocking your head against the floor of the kaiser's throne-room?"

"Well, you see," he explained, "I am afraid that some barbarian will notice the act and say, 'Wouldn't that bump you.'".

Dogs of War.

The "dogs of war" have been more than a figure of speech for thousands of years. They were used in Egypt 400 B. C. The Romans, the Teutons and other fighting nations of antiquity depended much on them for sentinel and defense purposes. In the middle ages they are said to have even worn armor. The Spanish discoverers used bloodhounds in tracking the Indians in this country, and dogs were likewise, it is stated, made of service by our armies in the Philippines.

Rev. John M. Bacon Is a Most Clever Balloonist.

It is not often, says M. A. P., one finds an Anglican cleric so accomplished a scientist as Rev. John M. Bacon, the clever balloonist, who is now engaged in a series of experiments in war ballooning and wireless telegraphy from the clouds on behalf of the War Office. Mr. Bacon is quite in early middle life. He is a delightfully well informed man, who wields a bright and eloquent pen. No less enthusiastic in scientific and practical ballooning is his daughter. She is one of the few women who have ever had the pluck to ascend into the clouds. She and her father went some years ago to take observations in India on the occasion of a certain great eclipse.

Mr. Bacon's home at Coldash, near Newbury, is a perfect laboratory, and here are conducted some of the most valuable and interesting experiments in wireless telegraphy and acoustics that have been attempted in England. Mr. Bacon gives one curious instance of the public tendency to credibility. He was once advertised to ascend from the Crystal Palace with a battery of fog signals, which he was to fire electrically beneath the car. Observers of aerial sounds were invited to make notes of all they heard, and to duly report their observations. Mr. Bacon ascended as announced. As soon as he was a few hundred feet aloft he suspended a cartridge beneath the car and applied the voltaic current. The result was nil—constantly nil. Nothing happened, and not one of his bombs were fired after all. In due course of time came a flood of letters from correspondents who had heard them distinctly all over the country, and could give accurate information about them!

CAUSE TO REJOICE.

The earth was not made in a day, neither is rheumatism cured in a day. Mrs. Jacob Dairmaid, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. Half a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure gave her ease and five bottles, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, effected a permanent cure. Her many friends are rejoiced at her recovery. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Hands Off.

"What have you got that sign 'Hands Off' posted outside your works for?" asked the curious individual.

"Because," returned the jocular mill owner "my men are on strike."

To discover whether or not there is arsenic in your wall paper take a fragment of it and put it in a solution of ammonia. If arsenic is present, the liquid will assume a bluish tint.

FEMALE FIREBRAND.

EMMA GOLDMAN, "QUEEN OF THE ANARCHISTS."

According to Czolgosz, She Inflamed His Mind Against Law and Order. Personally Quiet, but Publicly a Disturber—Her Checkered Past.

Emma Goldman, to whom the murderous assailant of President McKinley has attributed his incitement to the awful crime, has appeared before the public many times as a firebrand. From one end of the United States to another, wherever the anarchistic fraternity rears its dangerous head, she is known as "the queen of the reds," in strange disregard of the fact that she and her associates are opposed to all rulers.

An unusual and interesting personality is that of Emma Goldman. She is an anarchist, an avowed enemy of law and order, and glories in the fact, yet about her is no personal suggestion of violence. Her speeches are incendiary in tone and significance, and, judging by her other utterances, it is not strange that one of her recent speeches should inflame the brain of Czolgosz. Nevertheless her earnest contention when interviewed is that she has never propagated violence. She contends steadfastly and without emotion that she is only an advocate of "liberty" for the individual.

Her explanation of her peculiar theory and personal attitude toward such men as Czolgosz is interesting if not convincing. "I have never propagated violence," says "the little firebrand." "Where violence comes with anarchy it is a result of the conditions, not of anarchy. There is ignorance, cruelty, starvation, poverty, suffering, and some victim grows tired of waiting. He believes a decisive blow will call public attention to the wrongs of his country and may hasten the remedy. If a man came to me and told me he was planning an assassination, I would think him an utter fool and refuse to pay any attention to him.

"I honor him for the spirit that prompts him. It is no small thing for a man to be willing to lay down his life for the cause of humanity. The act is noble, but it is mistaken. No, I have never advocated violence, but neither do I condemn the anarchist who resorts to it. Perhaps under the same condition I would have done the same."

Emma Goldman is a short, fairly well built woman about thirty-three years of age. Although she is generally known by her maiden name, she has been married, but separated from her husband for a number of years. She is not unprepossessing in appearance, though any description of her as handsome or beautiful would be far from the truth. Her face is quiet, reposeful, with determined mouth and chin. From her low, broad forehead the brown hair is brushed smoothly back, and from underneath sharply marked eyebrows a pair of earnest gray eyes look directly at her interrogator. Intelligence and earnestness are the dominant expressions of her features.

She is a Russian by birth and says with some show of pride that she is "Russian through and through." Most of her life, however, has been passed away from her native country. Miss Goldman's family are respectable, quiet folk, residing in Rochester, N. Y., and her revolutionary tendencies are not inherited. She was educated in Germany, but returned to Russia before coming to America. She came here about seventeen years ago and since then has been actively engaged in anarchistic propaganda. She says that she was an anarchist before her arrival in the United States.

Miss Goldman worked in a New York factory for a time, preaching anarchy in her leisure moments. In 1893 came one of the great events of her life. She was arrested and tried on a charge of inciting to riot. Conviction and sentence followed, and for a year Blackwell's island, New York, held the most dangerous woman agitator of America. Imprisonment brought about for a time some slight modification of her openly expressed views, though it apparently did not curb her spirit. She is now, as she has always been, one of the insidious anarchists who, while not committing violence themselves, have tremendous influence in inflaming the minds of those disposed to violent acts.

"The little firebrand" went to Europe for a time to study nursing. She attended the anarchists' congress in Paris, she says, although it is alleged by the police of Europe that no such meeting ever took place. It seems, however, that Miss Goldman and European anarchism are out of touch, for she soon returned to America. Since then she has been lecturing for the good of the cause. It was one of her lectures, delivered in Cleveland, that inspired Czolgosz with the idea of assassinating the president.

"A human rat, dwelling in a cesspool of life, and yet one of the most potent factors for evil existing in the city, she is at once the oracle and priestess of its most dangerous element and menaces all worthy interests so long as her vicious tongue is left free to preach the gospel of anarchy and death." Such is the manner in which a New York newspaper writer described Emma Goldman in 1896.

Her Eldest Mother.

Little May was showing the pictures in the album to the visitor, and on opening the page containing the portrait of her father's first wife she said:

"That's my eldest mother."

The difference is that there is no reason for anyone to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents, at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Lustrous Pearl.

Pearls, as most readers know, are small bodies found either in the mother of pearl shells or those with a nacreous lining. They are formed either by a disease, by the presence of a parasite or by an effort on the part of the mollusk to rid itself of some foreign substance which has found its way into the shell.

Pearls are composed of many layers of carbonate of lime with organic matter between and are not always pearly throughout and invariably have some small central core or nucleus. Round pearls of fine luster and color are very valuable, and their value increases rapidly with their size.

Training Beer Horses.

An Englishman now in Baltimore, who has spent several years among the Boers in South Africa, said when asked whether the Boers kept their horses in the trenches with them:

"Every Boer warrior has a horse, and they are so trained that they will stand where they are left until their masters' return. I have seen them training their horses in this trick and their method is effective, though heroic.

"A Boer will take a young horse, a 2-year-old or perhaps a yearling, and attach a halter to him. From the halter hangs a rope, and at the end of the rope is suspended an iron ball, which hangs about the animal's knees.

"The horse is then turned loose in a large lot. He immediately begins to prance around and the iron ball keeps striking against his knees. The horse is driven wild and the ball keeps getting in its work. The beast may struggle against the annoyance and pain for four or five hours, but he finally drops from exhaustion.

"Often it takes three or four weeks to nurse the horse, with his cut, bruised and bleeding knees, back into condition, but when he is fit to ride he is just the horse the Boer wants. All the Boer has to do when he dismounts is to throw the bridle over the horse's head. The horse feels the rein hanging from his chin and he remembers the previous experience with an iron ball. He will stand stock still as long as that rein hangs from the bit and he will not move, not even if shells are bursting around him and if the crash of artillery is but a few feet away. —Baltimore Sun.

"CURED TO STAY"

Is the universal testimony for South American Nervine, and what it did for Mrs. Armstrong it will do for any woman living.

"For one who has suffered as I have for over six years from nervous prostration, and having spent nearly all I possessed in doctor bills without any permanent relief, you can imagine what a God-sent blessing I feel South American Nervine has been to me. The first few doses gave me great relief. It took six bottles in all to cure me, but I feel I am cured to stay cured." —Mrs. Geo. Armstrong, Orillia, Ont. 58

In order that those who wish to witness Saturday's football game may not be debarred from playing in the match, it has been arranged that those who wish to do so may play off on Friday. The names mentioned above are those who have notified the president or the captain of their wish to participate. Any others wishing to do so may play by sending in their names any time before the match. Dinner will be served on Saturday evening at half past six, when it is hoped that all the men who can possibly get out will be in attendance.

RUGBY.

The return game between Ottawa and Peterborough will take place on the Nicholls oval on Saturday afternoon. The ball will be kicked off at 3 o'clock sharp. There should be a large attendance.

The Rugby men had an excellent practice in the drill shed last night, after which they took a run through the town. There was a good turn out.

The Management Committee will meet in the Secretary's office at 7.15 this evening.

CURLING.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association was held at the Walker House, terday afternoon.

Mr. J. S. Russell, who is one of the oldest members of the Association, and who has been secretary for most of the time, retired from office.

The Executive decided to adopt the same grouping as a year ago. Copies have been sent to all the clubs, and the matter will come up at the meeting to-day, when, if desirable, a revision can be made. The following are some of the proposed groups:

Group No. 1. — Toronto, Toronto Granites, Toronto Caledonian, Toronto Prospect Park, Toronto Queen City, Brampton. Play at Toronto.

Group No. 2. — Hamilton Asylum, Hamilton Thistle, Hamilton Victoria, Dundas, Glanford, Niagara Falls, Simcoe, Minto of Milton. Play mainly at Hamilton.

Group No. 4.—Orillia, Peterborough Granite, Peterborough Thistle, Barrie, Collingwood, Churchill. Play mainly at Lindsay.

Group No. 5. — Cobourg, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Lindsay. Play mainly at Cobourg.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—A meeting of the Board of Works is called for this evening.

—The Town Council will meet in Committee of the Whole this evening.

—Everybody wants to know when they will have a chance to hear the Royal chorus.

—The usual week night services at St. Luke's will be held this evening instead of Friday evening, owing to the induction services that evening.

—There was a fair sized audience at the opera house last night to hear the comic opera "McCarthy's Mishap." A splendid night's enjoyment was offered.

—Orillia council is asking for tenders for the erection of a new electric light sub-station, in connection with its new power system, which will be completed before snow flies.

The Port Hope Knitting Works this week are showing some very exceptional values in men's warm and comfortable wool cardigan jackets at 75c, $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.

WERE MARRIED TO-DAY.

Wedding of Miss Edith Hall and Mr. Harry McKeown This Afternoon.

An exceedingly pretty house wedding took place this afternoon, at one o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Henry C. Hall, Waterford street, when her daughter, Miss Edith Hall, was married to Mr. Harry McKeown.

The interior of the house was most tastefully decorated for the occasion, the drawing room, where the ceremony took place, and the hall were draped in turquoise blue and white silk bunting, palms and ferns being also used profusely.

The service was read by Rev. Dr. Torrance of St. Paul's church, Miss Hall being given away by her brother, Mr. Leonard Hall, of Montreal.

The bride was very charmingly costumed in white silk with garniture of chiffon. The skirt was tucked in clusters with tucked flounce, and ruching of silk at the bottom. A bolero effect waist was worn, trimmed with silk chiffon. A handsome shower shower bouquet of white carnations was also carried.

The bridesmaid was Miss Ethel Wrighton, who was most attractively gowned in linen coloured silk grenadine over blue, trimmed with white crepe de chene and blue ribbon. She carried pink carnations. Little Miss Mollie Johnston, in white organdie over pink, made a very lovely little maid de honneur.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Percy McLean.

The dejeuner arrangements in the dining room were very pretty. The drapings were of pale green and pink. From corner to corner of the tables were stretched broad green ribbons, with a narrow strip of pink in the centre, and a slender vine of smilax running from end to end, with huge bows of green and pink ribbon at the corners. The floral arrangements were of pink and white carnations.

The gifts which were received were very handsome. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain. He also presented the bridesmaid with a star and crescent set with pearls, and the maid of honour with a pearl pin.

Mr. and Mrs. McKeown left on the afternoon express for a trip west. Mrs. McKeown's travelling suit was of blue cloth with hat to match. On returning to Peterborough residence will be taken up on Waterford street.

ST. LUKE'S NOTES.

Two of the Church Guilds met Last Evening.

The Chancel Guild of St. Luke's church met last evening. The attendance was large and encouraging.

Officers for the year were elected as follows:

Pres.—Mrs. Harry Adams.
Vice-Pres.—Mrs. Sawyer.
Secretary.—Miss Phillips.
Treasurer—Miss Fitzgerald.

At a meeting of the Men's Guild it was decided to hold a concert on November 4th, and a committee to carry out the arrangements was appointed as follows: Mr. J. J. Turner Jr., Mr. H. Nesbitt, Mr. Sawyer, Mr. Pratley and Mr. Harry Adams. During the evening Rev. Mr. Langfeldt delivered a most inspiring address on "Loyalty—to the Home, to the Church and to the Country." Refreshments were served at the close.

THEIR FIRST.

The Social Bible Club Held a Meeting Last Night.

The Social Bible Club at the Y.M.C.A. held their first social of the season last evening, which was attended by over 40 of the fellows, an invitation being given to every member of the Intermediates.

After the usual study for the week conducted by Mr. John Manning, the enthusiastic leader of the club, a very pleasant hour was spent in social intercourse, and in rendering a most enjoyable programme. Among those who took part were Messrs. McNaughton, J. Brown, W. S. Watson, and members of the Club, L. Johnston, M. Miller and V. Morphet.

Refreshments were served and the gathering was closed in the usual S.P.F. manner, but not before the leader had extended a very hearty invitation to the new fellows to investigate the workings of S.P.F., and become members of the club.

The first gym. class for young men over 18 opened last evening, and promises to be most successful.

The Bookkeeping Class in the Y.M.C.A. Evening School opens this evening. All who are joining this school should be present.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. J. J. Lynch and Mrs. John Lynch are visiting Mrs. W. E. Baker, Lindsay.

Mr. Charlie Gale, of the Bank of Toronto, is in town renewing old acquaintances.

Miss Agnes Hall has returned from a trip to Toronto and the Pan-American.

Mrs. J. H. O'Shea is in Toronto attending the Golden Jubilee of St. Joseph's Academy.

Miss Florence Scott left yesterday to enter St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, as a nurse in training.

Mr. Fred H. Pope, inspector of the Ontario Bank, is in town on business in connection with the local branch.

Mr. Hugh Burnett, of town, has been awarded the contract for building the new dam on the Otonabee in connection with the Trent Valley Canal.

The many friends of Mr. Carpenter, of the Trent Valley Staff, will regret exceedingly to learn that he is confined to Nicholl's Hospital with an attack of typhoid fever.

Miss Armstrong, head milliner at the Golden Lion, returned from Toronto last evening, where she has been for the past few days purchasing new novelties for her department.

COUNTY POLICE COURT.

An Alleged Insane Woman From Methuen Township—A Havelock Case.

High County Constable Cochrane this morning brought to town Elizabeth Wallbridge, of Methuen township. She is the wife of Mr. F. W. Wallbridge, a labourer, is about 35 years of age, and is charged with being insane. The unfortunate woman has two children, one a boy of 10 years, and the other an infant. They were taken to the Children's Shelter on Charlotte street pending developments.

The woman at times appears quite rational, but it is feared that it is in her own interests as well as those of her children, that her condition should be inquired into. She was remanded until Friday at Havelock. The reason for having the hearing take place at Havelock is that it is more easily accessible.

County Police Magistrate Edmison will go to Havelock on Friday to hear a complaint that has been laid by a citizen of that village against a number of boys. He claims that they tired a wire around the chimney of his house and pulled it down.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

Officers Were Elected at the Annual Meeting Which was Held Last Evening.

The annual meeting of the Fortnightly Club was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. building. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President — Mr. Sheriff Hall.
Vice-President — J. Jeffries, Esq.
Sec.-Treas.—R. F. McWilliams, Esq.
Executive Committee — Rev. J C Davidson, Dr. Eastwood, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Mr. H. D. Burnett, Mr. Fife, Mr. Dennistoun, Mr. John Green, Mrs. Frank Rogers, Mrs. McFarlane Wilson, Miss Fife, Mrs. R. R. Hall.

The first regular meeting will be held on the 29th inst., when an address will be delivered by the Hon. George E. Foster, who ranks as one of the greatest orators of the day. As it is anticipated there will be a large audience it was decided that the admission should be by ticket. Tickets for the whole series of lectures will be sold at the usual fee 25c.

A very hearty vote of thanks was presented to the retiring secretary, Mrs. R. S. Davidson, in recognition of the excellent work done by her in that office.

A MARCH-OUT.

The townspeople would like very much to see another church parade of the 57th Rangers before the men are dismissed for the season. The regiment was never in better shape and as they have not had many church parades this season an affair of the kind would be quite timely.

Stratton's Wall Paper Sale

House owners are reminded again of the rare opportunity within their grasp for procuring handsome wall paper decorations at a reduction of nearly one half regular prices at the great wall paper sale at the Peterborough Bookstore. The Turnbull stock, bought at a fraction on the dollar of cost, and a large portion of the great regular stock of the Peterborough Bookstore ought to furnish selections enough to suit any taste, and the skeleton price is sure to suit any purse.

THE NORWOOD BUDGET.

Personal Mention in Our Eastern Village—Board of Education.

Mr. D. Sanders, of Toronto Junction, and Mr. A. Sanders, of Buffalo, are spending a few days in town as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. James.

Mrs. Anderson, of Keene, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Davidson.

Mr. G. B. Cameron, of Peterborough, was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. E. P. Cuffe has secured the services of Miss McKeline, of Wallaceburg, an experienced saleslady, for his mantle department.

Mr. J. A. Finlay left last week for a business trip through Quebec Province.

Mr. Wallace Hampton, of Parkbeg, Assa., formerly of Norwood, was in town last week looking up a car of young cattle to stock his ranch with.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church intend giving an old fashioned tea meeting in the basement of the church on Friday evening, Oct. 25th. The choir of St. Paul's church, Peterborough, has been invited to take part in the programme, and a most enjoyable evening may be looked for.

It is with feelings of depest sadness that we are called upon to record the death of the late Lillian E. Ford, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Ford, of this place, and the beloved wife of Dr. J. M. Jory, of St. Catharines. The deceased was in her thirty-sixth year and passed away at her home in St. Catharines on Monday morning, the 19th, after only a short illness. Mrs. Jory was for many years one of Norwood's most popular young ladies, and the bereaved husband and parents have the deep heartfelt sympathy of the whole community. The funeral took place from her father's residence, Ridge street, Norwood, on Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. to the Methodist church, where service was held, thence to the Norwood cemetery for interment.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education met on Monday evening, pursuant to notice. Present—W. E. Roxburgh, Esq., chairman; Messrs. Jas. Cumming, John Brackenridge, Jas. Pengelly, R. W. Waters, P. W. Reynolds, P. W. Stevenson, Wm. Webster, John McNaughton, Thos. Fraser, Thomas Robson.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The action taken by the Executive Committee authorizing the secretary to advertise in the Toronto Globe and Mail and Empire for an assistant principal for the public school rendered vacant by the death of the late J. A. McDermid, was approved by the Board.

Four applications were received and laid on the table.

Mover by Messrs. Fraser and Webster, that Mr. C. L. Gambol, of Carthage, Ont., be given the appointment, at a salary of $75 for the balance of the term, and that the secretary wire Mr. Gambol at once.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Pengelly and Cumming, that Mr. M. H. Dunbar be second choice.—Carried.

A letter from John Heffren was read, asking that the Board allow $2.00 of a refund to be applied on school fee for fall term, the same having been paid by the aforesaid to write on the Junior Leaving Exam., but owing to sickness was not able to write.

Moved by Messrs. J. Brackenridge and F. Fraser, that the $2 be refunded and applied on fall term tuition.—Carried.

A letter was then read from John Leary, asking that part of his tuition fee be refunded owing to his having left school and obtained a situation in Moffatt's drug store.

Moved by R. W. Walters and J. McNaughton, that same be left with the chairman for approval after investigation.—Carried.

A report from John Davidson, principal of the High School was read, as to school enrolment for the month of September as follows, 81 pupils, cadet corps, 32.

Moved by Jas. Cumming and Jas. Pengelly, that the board approve of the action as taken, in ordering the payment of the following accounts as passed by said board owing to no regular meeting in September: D. A. Fraser, repairs on furnace, $34; J. Pengelly, repairs to school, $19.50; W. E. McMillan, work on schools, etc., $16.88.—Carried.

An account from T. Fraser for accompanying body of the late J. A. McDermid, to Prospect, Ont., for interment, as ordered by executive committee, for $7.60.

Moved by J. Pengelly and Jas. Cumming, that an order be drawn on the treasurer for the same.—Carried.

The following accounts were then brought before the board for approval by the Finance Committee:

J. Jotcham, drawing sand	$1 40
D. J. McLean, work on furnace	3 15
John Finlay & Son, flooring	94
Globe, advertising	1 35
Mail and Empire, advertising	2 15
J. G. Keefer, advertising	3 94

Moved by J. McNaughton and R. W. Waters that orders be drawn on the treasurer for the same.—Carried.

Moved by R. W. Waters and P. W. Reynolds, that the teachers be authorized to close school on the afternoon of the burial of the late Mrs. Dr Jory, and that the Board of Education attend in a body at the said funeral.—Carried.

A deputation from Asphodel Township Council re assessors' award on S. S. No. 8, Asphodel and Norwood, addressed the board requesting them to take action as to investigating same more satisfactorily.

Moved by John Brackenridge, and John McNaughton, that a committee be appointed to investigate the same.

Moved in amendment by P. W. Reynolds and Jas. Cumming that no action be taken in the matter.—Carried.

For motion — Messrs. Brackenridge, McNaughton, Robson, Webster.

For amendment — Messrs. Reynolds, Fraser, Cumming, Pengelly, Stevenson and Waters.

The Board then adjourned.

MORE NEW STORES.

The Grand Central Property Being Made Into Many Handsome Apartments.

The old Grand Central property on George street is undergoing extensive alterations. In addition to the several handsome little stores already fitted up, workmen are engaged in making several more of the same sized stores in the apartments formerly used as a general office. Where the old dining room was situated a handsome large store will be fitted up.

The entire building will be heated by steam, for which purpose a large boiler is being placed in the basement.

The second flat will be partitioned off into apartments as required from time to time.

New vigour and energy are soon attained by the use of Miller's Compound Iron Pills. 50 doses, 25c. Sold by W. Madill.

PETERBOROUGH CHEESE BOARD.

Splendid Prices at This Morning's Sale.

A CIRCULAR LETTER READ.

There Will be Two More Meetings of the Board This Season—Every Factory Sold.

The regular meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held this morning. The following buyers were in attendance, Messrs. Fitzgerald, Kerr, Cook, Whitton, Rollins, Wrighton, Bailey, Cluxton and Sauve.

Before the bidding opened the president, Mr. Drummond, read the following circular from the Montreal Butter and Cheese Association:

To the Dairymen of Canada,—

At a general meeting of this association held on the 10th inst., it was resolved to issue a circular to the dairymen of Canada strongly advising them to turn their attention to butter more generally, and to discontinue the manufacture of cheese entirely after the first November for the following reasons:

1. That fodder cheese hurts the consumption, thus diminishing the demand for grass goods and lowering its price.
2. That the outlet for cheese is limited, and everything depends on the quality to induce a large consumption.
3. That the consumption of cheese is not increasing but diminishing, while the consumption of finest creamery butter is rapidly growing.
4. That the price of butter is higher on an average all the year around than cheese for the finest qualities.
5. That the manufacture of butter is more profitable than cheese, not only in the comparative price but in that the farm stock and the land are better sustained.
6. That in order to maintain high prices there must be a continuous supply of the finest butter, and as the flow of milk is lessening now it is most urgent that the quality should be kept up as much as possible, and to divert the milk from cheese to this article, is the only way to keep up the supply.

Butter should be shipped fresh weekly to command the best price.

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours truly,
J. STANLEY COOK.
Secretary.

It is recommended that all factories should be fitted up so as to make either cheese or butter.

Cheese should be held three weeks at a temperature of sixty degrees to ensure proper curing. Serious complaints continue to come of cheese being shipped much too green.

Packages both of cheese and butter are still made of much too thin wood.

This was the limit of the first bid and Mr. Fitzgerald took Fraserville, Keene, Central Smith, Lakefield, Myrtle, Trewern, and Cannington; but Pine Grove refused.

The second bidding jumped very quickly up to 9 1-4 by Mr. Whitton. He called Shearer, Villiers, Westwood Ormonde, Melrose Abbey, Bensfort, Norwood, all accepting.

Ballyduff sold to Mr. Kerr at 9 1-4, Montreal inspection. Buckhorn at the same figure sold to Mr. Bailey.

The board adjourned for two weeks, after which another meeting will be held.

THE PETERBOROUGH BUSINESS COLLEGE.

A Highly Successful School of Business—Excellent Equipment in all Respects—Thorough and Practical Business Training Given.

The Examiner feels that it would be doing an important service if it could bring the people of the town, county and district to a practical appreciation of the excellent educational advantages they possess in having in their midst so practical and thorough a business school as the Peterborough Business College. The Annual Announcement of the College for 1902, sets forth the advantages the college presents to all those who desire thorough grounding and practical instruction in the several practical subjects so practically taught. The aim and object of the school is being practical, to teach the student the subjects of bookkeeping, business forms, commercial law, shorthand, and typewriting in such a way as to make them an anticipation of the real work the student will be called upon to do when he or she takes a position in the arena of real business. To be practical and thorough is the first aim of the Peterborough Business College. Everything tends to this, and the student who does not receive thorough instruction in all things that fit him for business life, will have only his or her own neglect and lack of attention to blame. Evidence that are given is shown by the invariable success accomplished by students who have graduated from the Peterborough Business College, and have, thanks to the influence of the college authorities, obtained responsible situations. As a matter of fact the college has not been able to meet the demand upon it for the services of its young men graduates—the demand exceeded the supply; and as to the young lady graduates, all of them have been placed in good situations.

THOROUGH INSTRUCTION AND TRAINING

THE ATTENDANCE OF PUPILS

is another evidence of the excellence of the instruction given, the report of which has gone abroad, and has been attested by the success of students in real business life. The attendance for the month of September this year has been larger than in any previous year in its history. Last year the premises were enlarged and extended, and facilities improved, and now the attendance justifies the expectation that these increased facilities would be demanded. Everything essential to the teaching in a thoroughly first class manner of all branches of business education has been provided—large and excellently equipped class rooms, a competent and experienced staff of instructors—all possible practical business appliances and aids—a personal and individual attention to the wants of students, all these combine to make the advantages presented by this college second to none provided in any similar institution in the province.

The Night Classes are a special feature of this college, affording opportunities of instruction in the rudiments of education to those who have been deprived of these advantages, and are compelled to fill the duties of other positions during the day. A special feature is the teaching of penmanship, one of the first essentials of a good business and general education. Mr. Pringle, the Principal, is one of the best penmen in the province, and has had great success in teaching this important art. The Peterborough Business College is warmly commended to all those desirous of obtaining a first class business education.

CHEESE AND CONFUSION.

Lindsay Cheese Board Meeting was a Tangle.

1332 Boxes Offered but no Cheese Sold—Salesmen Differed in Opinion—Adjourned Till Next Monday.

(Lindsay Post.)

The Victoria County Cheese Board met in the market room this morning at 10.30. The buyers present were Messrs. Whitton, Flavelle and Fitzgerald.

Factories that boarded cheese: —

Star	80
Cameron	90
Dunsford	121
Mariposa	114
Janetville	65
Omemee	118
Fenelon Falls	113
North Verulam	115
North Ops	81
Pine Grove	60
Reaboro	130
Bobcaygeon	160
Maple Leaf	100
Palestine	48
Red Rock	137

How the Bidding Went

Mr. Whitton was anxious to catch the 11 o'clock train and was given the first bid. He opened with 8c., Mr. Flavelle called 8 1-4 c.; Mr. Fitzgerald raised to 8 7-16c., and Mr. Whitton finished at 8 1-2c. This closed the offer and he called Omemee, Star and Reaboro, all refusing.

There being no possibility of a higher offer the Board on motion adjourned till next Monday.

At this juncture Mr. Fitzgerald said that sooner than adjourn he would offer 8 5-8. He was asked to name his selections and called on Dunsford, Palestine, Bobcaygeon and Mariposa, none accepting.

A motion for adjournment for two weeks was then made, but Mr. Flavelle was anxious to buy cheese at once and not wait and offered 8 5-8, and afterwards raised to 8 11-16 as an inducement to sell. He called Fenelon Falls, North Verulam and Cameron. Fenelon Falls alone being willing to sell.

President Robertson considered the price named too much of a drop and amidst confusion and babble, Mr. Whitton said he would offer 8 3-4 for his selection. This offer was again refused. Messrs. Flavelle and Fitzgerald also offered 8 3-4 for their selections, but the majority of the salesmen were in favour of adjourning.

The motion to adjourn for two weeks was put and lost, and an adjournment till next Monday morning was declared by the president.

Instructor's Fees.

President Robertson called the attention of the salesmen to the fact that the instructors' fees were yet unpaid by many factories, and insisted upon the amount being paid at once.

A GREAT PICK-UP

—IN—

MILL REMNANTS

Of Fine All-Wool Tweeds and Worsteds

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to close out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than One-Half the Regular Mill Prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town.

Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 50c.

Cloths worth 75c and 80c per yard for 35c.

Other qualities proportionately reduced. These Mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing.

Whole Suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $18 to $19, for only $14.00

Trousers made to order, worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25

Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance.

AN AFFAIR OF HONOR.

Undignified Retreat of the Principals—Cause and Effects.

"Do I look like a man who ever fought a duel?" laughed the portly party. "Well, I did, and it was intended to be a duel to the death, too, and, as it often happens, a woman was at the bottom of it. As near as I can figure now I must have been about the ripe age of seven when this deadly affair took place. At that time my heart was wrapped up in a little china doll girl with blue eyes and yellow hair, who kept me in a continual state of bankruptcy buying her taffy and red apples. Unfortunately for my peace of mind, I had a rival, upon whom she smiled with exasperating impartiality. My first impression was to pick a fight with him, but I was always cautious, even as a youth, and I had grave doubts about the success of such a plan.

"Then I conceived the happy idea of challenging him to a mortal combat. I hadn't the slightest idea that he would accept, to tell the truth, but he did and with what seemed to me almost indecent haste. Realizing that I would need a second, I went to an elder brother, explained the matter to him and asked him if he would act for me. He listened to me gravely and then said he would. Here was surprise number two. I had been almost certain that he would frown upon the idea and threaten to tell my father, thus giving me an excuse to retire from the field of honor. But the calm way he accepted the situation gave me a chill.

"'I suppose,' said he, 'that Bobby's brother will act as his second?'

"I moistened my lips and said, 'I suppose so.'

"'Very well,' said he, 'I will talk the matter over with him, and we will let you know when you are wanted.'

"We were wanted the next afternoon, and it was some consolation to me to discover that my rival's face was as white as mine.

"'Now,' said our seconds, 'you two sit down here in the grass back to back, and the first one to desert the spot loses the fight.'

"Then they both retired hastily to a spot that seemed to me at the time to be unnecessarily removed from the place of action. A moment later my rival was going one way and I another. Those miserable brothers of ours had caused us to sit on the top of a big bumblebee's nest."

Chafing and Itching Skin

Annoying Rashes, Inflammations and Irritations Are Soothed, Healed and Cured by the Great Skin Food.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

There is always mystery and doubt about the action of internal remedies. Time is required for the medicine to take effect. It is different with Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is applied externally and you are sure to be surprised at the remarkable change it brings about in a few hours. Its cleansing, soothing, healing action allays inflammation and irritation, removes redness and roughness of the skin, and leaves the skin delightfully smooth, soft and velvety.

Notwithstanding its powerful action in the severest cases of skin disease, Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used with perfect safety on the most tender skin, and is especially suited for the chafings, itchings and irritations which are so troublesome during the hot summer weather. Ladies keep it constantly in their toilet, and mothers who have used it in place of powders for their babies, would not think of changing. It does not clog the pores of the skin, as do powders, does not stain the linen, and is pleasant to use.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when it was scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left. My little girl two years old has also been cured of eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to us."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard ointment the world over. It promptly and thoroughly relieves and cures eczema, salt rheum, and the most turturing forms of itching skin disease. Sixty cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

TWIN NIGHT BIRDS.

The Whip-poor-will and the Night Hawk Have, However, Many Dissimilar Habits—Wild Life in Ontario.

Twin birds of the summer night are the whip-poor-will and night-hawk, though in many ways their habits are very dissimilar. The one never leaves the seclusion of his woodland home; the other, at times, seems to court the widest publicity. Originally, perhaps, the habits of these two birds were very similar, says Ravenspur in Toronto Star. Both are night fliers, both lay their eggs on the bare ground, without constructing the flimsiest attempt at a nest, and both spend the daylight hours, like the owls and bats, in slumber, or, at any rate, in idleness. There, however, the resemblance, as far as habits are concerned, seems to end. The whip-poor-will shuns the presence of man; the night-hawk treats it with indifference. The clearing of the dense bush drives the whip-poor-will to remoter forests; it makes no difference to the night-hawk, which adapts itself to the circumstances, and lays its eggs on the flat roofs of city stores. As a matter of fact the night-hawk is not a hawk at all. He is in no sense of the word predaceous, living exclusively on night flying insects, and the sharp "chee, chee," that residents of city and country may alike hear during the twilight hours of the summer months is the note of the night-hawk as he pursues his tiny prey through the upper air. Occasionally this coursing flight changes and he drops like lead from the upper sky, in pursuit, presumably, of some low-flying insect, emitting as he does a loud buzzing sound, which is rather startling if the bird happens to be near you. As before noted, the night-hawk remains tolerably common in Ontario, while the whip-poor-will grows rarer every year. I can remember places in the Province where, a few years ago, whip-poor-wills were tolerably numerous, but where now only a pair or two of the birds may be heard emitting their peculiar cries. Doubtless in a year or so they will have completely deserted these localities. Old settlers tell me that when what is known as the London road was cut, from London to Sarnia, through the bush, every stump on each side of the road would be crowned at night with its yelping whip-poor-will, the chorus being deafening. Now the birds are few and far between in that locality. They have not been killed off, for they are invisible at night and doubly hard to locate because of the ventriloquial character of their song. They have simply vanished, and are doubtless numerous enough in the backwoods. The name whip-poor-will describes this bird's note with tolerable accuracy, the accent being placed on the first syllable, and the whole three being repeated with rapidity and vehemence. As a matter of fact the song notes of birds are hard to describe on paper, because they sound differently to different pairs of ears, which is doubtless why I fail to agree with the sentiments of a poem which runs in part as follows:

"Winds were softly sighing, sighing,
Through the scented evening air;
Came a bird's song crying, crying,
Like a sad soul in despair.
Rang the measure from the meadows
On the night so cool and still,
Floating down across the meadows
From the singer on the hill:
Whip-poor-will, whip-poor-will."

It depends on the point of view. I cannot imagine a "sad soul in despair" emitting cries like the whip-poor-will. His tone is too emphatic to be sad. The whip-poor-will strikes me as an implacable creature who wants William flogged, and won't be satisfied even when he is.

When the King Paid Toll.

His Majesty has never been a defendant in a police court — not even as the owner of a smoky chimney — but the King has paid a fine for trespassing. When an undergraduate at Oxford the Prince of Wales was a great huntsman, and few men could beat him across country. On one occasion His Royal Highness and some other riders galloped into a farmyard by way of a short cut. The farmer, a sturdy yeoman, closed the gates and told the huntsmen they must pay £1 apiece for trespass. One of the gentlemen smiled indulgently at the rustic and said: "But, my good man, this is the Prince of Wales." The good man was in no way abashed, and retorted: "Prince or no Prince, I'll have my money." And he got it.—London Tit-Bits.

EXTRAORDINARY SCRAP BOOKS.

King Edward Has Eight Big Volumes Made About His Mother's Death.

Amid all the bother of getting himself properly throned, named and crowned, King Edward VII. has snatched time to devise a unique memorial to his mother. Word comes from London that he has ordered, through the leading international clipping bureaus, eight sets of scrap books, each set to contain whatever was printed or spoken of the late Queen at the time of her death. The clippings, gathered in every country and in all tongues, and ranging from the highest illustrated weeklies to the cheapest provincial prints, fill 100 volumes, although the pages are of full newspaper size. They are pasted upon light gray bristol board and each page hinged before binding. The binding is of morocco —half the sets red, corner pieces and each volume stamped with the royal arms in heavy gilt.

The binding would be black were the volumes destined to remain in Great Britain. The destiny of all but one set is to be scattered through Greater Britain, India, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, South Africa; each will receive a set of the gift of the King. The mourning color varies so throughout the Empire it was thought best to use ordinary book tints. His Majesty's loyal colonies will no doubt appreciate the gift.

Recipes From the Veldt.

The following "Recipes from the Veldt" are placed by Tommy Atkins (chef) at the disposal of our readers:

"1. Trek Ox Stew—Take an ox about fifty years old — belonging to some one else — kill it if it is not already dead, and cut it into four or more parts. Boil in a pot of black, muddy water over a green wood fire for an hour and a half. At the end of that time pull it out and wait for a sandstorm; then serve up. (This is thought an excellent dish here.)

"2. Sponge Cakes — Take a few handfuls of Indian meal and sufficient dirty water to make a stiff paste (no fat is needed), and put on a piece of tin or a shovel, over the fire. They will be ready for use when cooked through. (I have jumped at the chance of having some of these cakes since being here.)

"3. Porridge — Take a few handfuls of Indian corn and put in a corn beef tin; fill up with water and boil till soft. Put a bit of salt in—if you have any.

"I have tried all the above and can say they are good feeds when nearly starved to death."—London Outlook.

Interesting Statistics.

Of London's 596,030 houses, 553,019 are inhabited.

Water pipes underlie 1,819 miles of London's streets.

London has 49 fires yearly for 100,000 inhabitants; Manchester, 59; New York, 144.

The death rate of Valparaiso is 64.6 per 1,000 — a world's record. London's is 21.

The average Londoner owns £158 worth of house property; the average Irishman £12 worth only.

Liverpool has the highest death rate for children in the world, 46 out of 100 dying before a year old.

In Paris people give on an average 3s. 6d. a head yearly to hospitals. This is 6d. more than the average given by Londoners; but in New York the average subscription is 7d. only.

A CLIPPING FROM PLATTSVILLE ECHO

Mrs. J. Barnett Figures in an Interesting Article in the Local Paper.

Interviewed by a Representative of the Echo—Story of Her Trouble as Related by Herself—Her Opinion of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Plattsville, Ont., Oct. 13, (Special).—The case of Mrs. J. Barnett of this town was found of sufficient importance to be published at length in the Plattsville Echo. To the representative of that live local paper she made the following statement concerning her experience with Dodd's Kidney Pills:—

"I have been ailing for years, but in the spring of last year, I grew very much worse. The symptoms of my disease were nervousness, rheumatism in the left arm, pains in the small of the back, up the spinal column and back of the head, through the eyes, left side of the body and occasionally the right side.

"I grew weak, for I had no appetite and night after night I could not sleep. I was a physical wreck. I was treated by doctors, but their medicines afforded me no relief. I chanced to read in Dodd's Almanac of the virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills and the wonderful cures effected by them.

"The symptoms as therein explained corresponded with my own, and I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills according to directions. Before I had finished one box there was a decided improvement in my condition. My appetite returned, the pain was lessened and I was able to sleep. I have taken in all twelve boxes and have completely recovered. No sign of my old trouble remains and I ascribe it only to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills are a wonderful discovery."

This clipping is reproduced as it is typical of the way so many women feel about Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been often truly called "Woman's best friend."

STOMACH DISORDER CURED.

The stomach is probably the most important organ of the body because it is required to do real hard work all the time—to furnish the other organs with energy. Mrs. McDonaugh of Montreal was greatly troubled with stomach disorder. She was tortured with head aches, stomach pains and palpitation of the heart. She tells the story of her cure by Powley's Liquified Ozone

Ozone Complny, Ltd.,

Gentlemen: It is with much pleasure I write you my testimony to the wonderful curative powers of Powley's Liquified Ozone. For five years I have been troubled severely with indigestion and headaches, and also palpitation of the heart. I took a great many different kinds of remedies but none did me any good. I saw Ozone advertised in the paper and about the first of August I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before I had taken one large bottle I began to feel my usual health returning. I have taken only three bottles and I am completely cured. I can recommend Ozone to every one suffering as I did.

(Signed) Mrs. Mary McDonaugh,
23 Boyer St., Montreal, P. Q.

The way to take Powley's Liquified Ozone for stomach and bowel disorder is in teaspoonful doses in four parts water after each meal. The Ozone assists the digestion—makes it thorough and prevents fermentation. Powley's Liquified Ozone is the greatest discovery of the age. If you have any distress of the stomach it will cure you like magic.

Consult our physicians about your case. Write full details and you will get a specialist's advice free. Your letters are absolutely confidential. Address the Consulting Department, The Liquid Ozone Co., 220 Kinzie St., Chicago, U. S. A.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

NOVEL FALL SUIT.

and to remember anything at all about them. After a day among the new things one is so confused by the colors and forms that it takes a good night's sleep to sort them out into their proper sequence.

Let us begin with the velvets. The rich Lyons silk velvet will be used in long and sumptuous mantles and in some full costumes, but only in a few of the latter. Such velvet costs very much and is moreover narrow, so that it requires a large quantity to make a full costume. Jet, the fancy lace galloons and silk embroidery will be the favorite garniture, though for outdoor suits fur will also be applied. The fur best liked for velvet will be sable, skunk or real chinchilla—not the nutria imitation of chinchilla, so often seen, but the genuine fur must be used. Probably skunk is the handsomest of them all for the purpose, for it is truly beautiful fur, and there is nothing against it but its name.

After the velvets come the velveteens and velutina. The latter is the only kind suitable for making into handsome suits, as the body is solid and the pile short and fine. The ribbed or corded velutina is one of the most popular of materials for rich and stylish costumes. It is the only kind that will take a tailor finish.

Lyons silks in different weaves are heavier than they have been for several years, and in black they are much affected for dressy visiting gowns. So heavily finished this season are these that they may regain all their old time popularity. Formerly every woman had at least one handsome black silk dress. But the taffeta was never a really rich dress material, and it came to pass that the good dresser preferred a fine broadcloth to the thin silk. Some American silks are not worth buying, but three or four of our manufactories make silk that is even better than the Lyons product. It is pure and is not weighted with sugar of lead and glucose and everything else.

A NEW DINNER GOWN.

Weighted silk takes on a disagreeable shine in a few days' wear. That is why women have in a measure given up the wearing of fine black silks for handsome street gowns. They now favor broadcloth and similar goods.

Brocades are of every imaginable kind and color. They also vary in firmness. The pompadour silks for evening wear are quite well liked for tall women, but the smaller colored designs are in better taste. Much Bomaa stripe and many Persian figures are seen in the lighter silks for house wear.

There is also a great display of silk and wool mixtures. To those who take the pains to look carefully at these goods they will seem a revelation. Wool alone is good and fine, and silk alone is pretty and appealing, but for real beauty and value there is nothing to compare with the silk and wool mixtures. The silk gives a sheen and rustle most alluring, and the wool, which necessarily is of the finest and best, gives a frosty bloom and softness that are marvelous. The folds take on a roundness from the wool and a gloss from the silk and an astonishing strength. The mixtures can be washed like calico. These silk warp goods are many in number, as the manufacturers have found their value and beauty. For the moment I can call to mind melrose, silk and wool crepe de Paris, silk warp colleene and silk warp henrietta, as well as drap d'ete and drap d'alma. Eudora

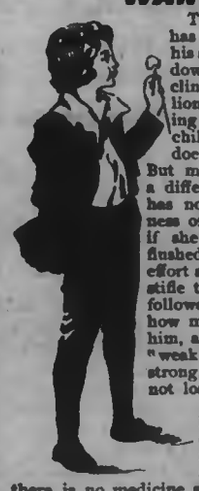
"DOES MOTHER WANT ME?"



The little fellow has blown with all his strength, and the downy tufts still cling to the dandelion stem. According to the oracle of childhood mother does not want him. But mother would tell a different story. She has noticed the weakness of the lungs, and if she saw him now, flushed with his unusual effort and struggling to stifle the cough which followed it, she'd feel how much she wanted him, and wanted those "weak" lungs made strong, that she might not lose him.

For "weak" lungs, obstinate cough, hemorrhage, weakness and emaciation there is no medicine so healing and so strengthening as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is especially valuable for children, building up weak bodies with sound, healthy flesh. It is entirely free from alcohol and narcotics.

"Winter before this, my oldest boy (who is now nearly five years old), had a terrible cough; he had it the whole winter and all summer," writes J. M. Farr, Esq., of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "Physicians did him no good and nothing my wife and I could do did him any good. After your 'Discovery' had cured my cough so quickly, when everything else failed, I wrote my wife to bring him back from the country, she having carried him there to see if the change would do him good. We were living in Savannah, Ga., at the time. She brought him back and after giving him your great 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a time, he entirely recovered."

cloth is another of the beautiful silk warp stuffs and is the finest of all black dress goods. I doubt that the manufacturers, who are always seeking new things, will ever find its equal. It seems never to wear out, even after washing. A good black silk of peau de soie or of armure or of one of the cords is good to have, but unless it is of the very best quality it is better to get a silk warp wool of some kind. So far I have seen few colors in silk warp goods except in the lansdowne, which has all the colors of the season.

The new tucked crape is made with a smooth back to give it firmness; and the tucks are simply woven in, but any one would think it is actually tucked. This will doubtless be liked, as a skirt made of it would not look so close as it really would be. Among the other new woolen stuffs in colors one finds striped camel's hair, canvas sacking mixtures of a dozen sorts and zibeline in invisible stripes. A man may ask how much good stripes are if they are invisible, but the eye of a woman penetrates the fuzzy surface and sees the stripes. Dotted zibelines and striped satin faced dotted cloth are for those who prefer dots. The colorings are all rich and warm. Even the gray has something new in it. Some of the zibeline plaids are colors run riot, yet the whole effect is not garish.

In colored goods there are venetians, broadcloths, Egyptian crape, basket cheviots, albatross, prunella and pebble cheviots. Besides these are all wool granites, diagonals, vigoureux, meltons and hairlines.

For the shirt waists of this season are some beautiful new flannels in Roman and Persian effects. I noticed the doeskin flannels, which are exquisite, in all the new shades, which are beige, nile, turquoise, tan, dark greens, scarlet, blues, golf pink, browns in several shades, gray, crimson, cardinal, maize and white and some others. Black dress goods are to be among the best of all values this season, and no woman can afford to go without one black suit.

An evening gown of the very latest and most elegant style intended for a matron has a pink taffeta slip and over this a lace skirt in cream color. There is a train. This is a revival of a style of many years ago, but it is handsome. The front of the waist is pointed and filled in with a stomacher of fine lace. The train is made of ivory satin duchesse. Venice escurial is the lace employed to make the skirt.

Among the new ways of fitting waists to the figure is that of the shaped pieces in front without darts. In a tailor suit of dappled cheviot an example may be seen. The basque has two little postilions in the back and the shaped and pointed front. This is made to leave open if necessary. The skirt is cut with many seams so as to fit it around the body without fold or plait. It fastens invisibly at the left side. Strap stitching on skirt and bodice forms the ornamentation. This is a modest suit, eminently suitable for a young married lady.

Another gown just right for a young lady was very girlish and pretty. It was of striped canvas in a dark smoke gray. Through open lines the lining, which was crimson, showed faintly. At the bottom of the skirt there were slashes filled with crimson silk and laced with black velvet ribbon. Two rows of that went all around the skirt. The blouse was arranged so that there was a guimpe of the silk, and the top of the canvas was slashed in the same way as the skirt. The sleeves were made with a slash.

The newest and finest shirt waists for ordinary wear are naturally the doeskin flannels, and some of them are certainly lovely from every point. They are in all the colors, but the white are the most elegant. The trouble with the really handsome new waists is they cost terribly, and no one wants the cheap ones. Separate waists, which are considered rather more dressy than shirt waists, are shown in the greatest variety. Some of them cost as high as $75. Of course the materials are of the finest, and the work is perfect.

UNSATISFIED.

Who are the salt of earth?
Who are the truly great?
Men of inherent worth,
In letters, Church, or State?
Why are they crowned as kings?
By nations glorified?
They longed for the higher things,
With self unsatisfied.

With purpose strong and true,
They fought, all undismayed,
And with their aim in view,
They faltered not, nor swayed;
Unflinchingly did breast
The rough, opposing tide,
Never content to rest,
With self unsatisfied.

Oh, ye who long to win
The warfare of the soul,
Know that the foes within
Are hardest to control;
And none can gain the prize
Whose foes are not defied,
We must from sloth arise,
With self unsatisfied.

Then, longing soul rejoice,
Be glad exceedingly;
Thy longing is the voice
Of God, who speaks to thee,
His promise is to bless;
Their prayer is not denied
Who thirst for righteousness,
With self unsatisfied.

Ashes on Cigars.

"Few men professing to be judges of fine cigars know anything at all about smoking them," remarked a cigar dealer. "The ashes on the end of the cigar serve to retain the flavor and should be permitted to remain as long as possible. Then the constant thumping some smokers give their cigars in the attempt to keep them clear of ashes often causes the wrappers to break, and that also lessens the pleasure of a good smoke."

Dogs of Alaska.

The dogs of Alaska are called malamutes. They are a cross between a dog and a wolf and work in harness soon after their birth. They do not bark, but have a peculiar howl. They have long hair and can sleep in the open with the thermometer 60 degrees below zero. Their usual food is fish and seal blubber. They are fed once a day, usually at night.

SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA. DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

It Can't be Done

In spite of the fact that a few months ago the barrel was full of delicious sweet cider, you can't by adding a little soda now since it has become vinegar, transform it back to cider. Neither can you cure dyspepsia by taking a little pepsin, or baking soda, or a few doses of Cathartic medicine. You must take Merrill's System Tonic for the whole system has undergone a change from the effects of undigested and unfermented food. The condition of the blood and of the digestive ferments, and the action of the bowels and kidneys are as unlike what they should be, as vinegar is unlike cider. Merrill's System Tonic strengthens the stomach and nerves, purifies the blood, restores healthy kidney action and cures constipation. This is just what you want. No other remedy knows does it so quickly or so well or makes such a permanent cure. If you have dyspepsia, liver trouble, or headache give Merrill's System Tonic a chance to cure you.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

NOMINATED FOR STORMONT.

Mr. W. J. McCart of Avonmore the Liberal Candidate.

Newington, Oct. 16.—Over three hundred electors of Stormont assembled in McAvoy's Hall in this village yesterday at the Liberal convention to nominate a standard-bearer in the coming Provincial campaign. The morning trains brought in delegates from all parts of the riding, and as the weather was fine many drove miles to attend the convention, the result of which was the unanimous nomination of Mr. W. J. McCart of Avonmore as the standard-bearer of the party. Hon. J. R. Stratton was present at the convention, and delivered a stirring speech, showing the position of the two parties before the electors of Ontario. The Minister was listened to with rapt attention for two hours, and his references to Mr. Whitney's speech at Listowel were loudly applauded.

TO DELAY HANGING.

A Month's Respite Asked for Plaine, the Montreal Murderer.

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—Hon. David Mills yesterday heard Mr. Geoffrion of Montreal argue in favor of Plaine, the Montreal murderer, for a month's respite, so as to get further evidence to establish that Plaine was insane when he committed the murder. The Minister will consider the case. Plaine is sentenced to be hanged on the 25th instant.

Hugh Burnett of Peterboro has been awarded the contract for the construction of a dam on the Otonabee River in connection with the Trent Canal.

Two new cases of smallpox have appeared in Ottawa, making 36 in all, since Oct. 6. There are 27 cases in the hospital on Porter's Island. One fresh case was discovered in Hull yesterday, bringing the total number in the last 10 days to 34.

Baptist Union.

Brantford, Oct. 16. — The forty-sixth annual convention of the Ontario and Quebec Baptist Union opened Monday night in Calvary Baptist Church with a very large attendance. The meeting was chiefly devoted to the appointment of the different committees and scrutineers.

At this morning's session, the secretary, Rev. J. G. Brown, read the 35th annual report of the Foreign Mission Board. In the last 88 years the missionary Baptists have increased from 125,000 to a membership of 4,500,000. He also made reference to the mission work in India, which now shows ten mission stations for a population of 1,500,000 tegulah, occupied by 28 missionaries, assisted by nine ordained and seventy unordained preachers. There are 36 native churches, with a membership of 4,176. The treasurer's report shows receipts for the year $40,242.24, disbursements $36,194.93, deficit $548,199.

Woman Waylaid by Robbers.

Sarnia, Oct. 16.—As Mrs. James Campbell of Point Edward was driving home on Sunday night, she was waylaid on the road and badly used.

At about 10 o'clock the horse arrived at the Campbell residence, and Mrs. Campbell was found unconscious in the buggy. Her face was terribly cut, she having been struck fairly across the nose with a missle of some sort. Her nose was broken, as was also her cheek bone, and the flesh on her face was terribly gashed. Several teeth were also knocked out. From indications, it appears as if Mrs. Campbell had been knocked from the buggy by the force of the blow she received, as her clothes were all smeared with mud and the ground where the assault occurred shows many blood stains. The culprits evidently put the unfortunate victim back into the buggy and started the horse homewards.

IS BOTHA CAPTURED?

Unconfirmed Rumor on London Stock Exchange.

SCHEEPER'S COMMANDO BROKEN

Gen. Kitchener's Columns Moving Against a Considerable Force of Boers Supposed to Be Under General Botha—Kruger Reported to Be Seriously Ill—Poor Pouring Into Cape Town.

London, Oct. 16.—A rumor was started on the Stock Exchange yesterday morning that Gen. Botha, the Boer Commander-in-Chief, had been captured. But a despatch from Lord Kitchener, dated from Pretoria Monday evening, contains nothing more important than the weekly summary of captures, a reiteration of the statement that Gen. Kitchener's columns are moving against a considerable force of Boers near the Natal frontier, with which Gen. Botha is supposed to be, and the announcement that Commandant Scheeper's command in Cape Colony has been broken up.

Kruger Seriously Ill.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—The Muenichenier Zeitung yesterday prints a despatch from Hilversum, which says that Mr. Kruger, in spite of all denials, is severely ill.

The Poor Pouring In.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Times says there has been a renewed influx lately of poor people who hope to reach Johannesburg. Those stranded in Cape Town include many Russian Jews. Efforts are being made to stop the immigration, as the immigrants must be supported by public charity.

Maud Gonne Gone.

London, Oct. 16.—It is reported that Maude Gonne (sometimes called the Irish Joan of Arc) has eluded the vigilance of the authorities, and is now on her way to South Africa. The officers of the principal ports have been notified to watch for her arrival.

More Colonial Troops.

Cape Town, Oct. 15.—No passengers are allowed to sail from Cape ports without military permits.

Four additional squadrons of colonial troops are enlisting for active service.

MISSIONARIES KILLED.

Several Suffer Death at Hands of Miss Stone's Captors.

London, Oct. 16.—"Pastors Dimidroff and Zirkoff, with three female mission workers," says a despatch from Vienna to The Daily Express, "have been killed by the band that kidnapped Miss Stone."

Letter From Miss Stone.

New York, Oct. 16.—According to a despatch from Sofia, further word has come from Miss Stone in a letter, in which she says:

"I beg you to hasten sending the ransom demanded, and that as energetically as possible you will represent to the Turkish Government that it stop the pursuit of us by soldiers and Bashibazouks, otherwise we shall be killed by the people in whose hands we are. I pray you to communicate without delay the contents of this letter to the representative of the United States at the Porte, and request his most serious co-operation. Pray for us. We are at peace with God. With hearty salutations, your friend, Ellen M. Stone."

Justify Admiral Schley.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Only one new witness was heard in detail by the Schley Court of Inquiry yesterday. This was Lieut.-Commander James H. Sears, who was Admiral Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war. He gave a detailed account of the entire Cuban campaign. Captain Cook was recalled during the day, and said in answer to a question by the Court that Commodore Schley, during the battle of July 3, was "cool, brave and enthusiastic. I could not imagine any conduct in battle more admirable."

Bounty on Arsenic.

Madoc, Oct. 16.—A very representative meeting of the mining industry of North Hastings was held in the Masonic Hall here yesterday afternoon, the primary object being to arrange to bring before the Ontario and Dominion Governments the necessity for a bounty on refined arsenic. A committee was appointed for this purpose.

Marriage and Divorce.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—The troublesome question of marriage and divorce was set at rest for another three years yesterday by the action of the House of Deputies of the Triennial Episcopal Convention in rejecting both of the proposed canons on the subject which were passed by the House of Bishops.

Roosevelt for Reciprocity.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The Record-Herald's Washington correspondent says: "President Roosevelt will recommend to Congress in his message next December the general principle of commercial reciprocity with foreign nations. But the President will not suggest any particular form of application of the principle.

FINICKY TURKISH LADIES.

They Are Very Careful About What They Take In Their Hands.

Our Constantinople correspondent writes: It is not generally known that there exists among Turkish ladies of high class a kind of caste feeling similar to that prevailing among Hindoos. It takes the form of a fear of contamination from the outer world and is only observed, as far as I know, by those who cannot afford to keep servants in sufficient numbers. Before meals ladies always wash their hands at a tap from which the water runs into a marble basin. They will turn on the tap when they are just going to wash, but when they have finished they let the water run till somebody shuts it off, as to do it themselves would make them unclean. They cannot open or shut a door, as the handle would be unclean, so a slave is generally kept handy for the purpose.

One of these fastidious ladies was talking to a small niece the other day who had just received a present of a beautiful doll from Paris. The child presently laid the doll on the lady's lap, who was horrified and ordered the child to take it away. As the little girl would not move it and no servant was near, and the lady would be defiled by touching a doll that was brought from abroad, the only thing she could think of was to jump up and let the doll fall, which broke to pieces. The same lady will not open a letter coming by post, but a servant opens it and holds it near her for her to read. If her handkerchief falls to the ground, it is immediately destroyed or given away, so that she should not use it again. This curious state of exclusiveness or fanaticism exists, I am told, in many of the large harems. Among men it is not practiced.—London Telegraph.

ANIMAL LIFE.

In Maryland sparrows have been known to raise six broods in one year. In England there are seldom more than three broods.

Ostrich farms are profitable. Birds are worth $100 apiece, and a good specimen yields about $25 worth of feathers at a plucking.

Cats evince, as is well known, a curious emotional disturbance when in the neighborhood of valerian plant, of which they are very fond. It apparently produces in them a species of intoxication.

There are records of elephants that have lived for 200 years, and an age of 150 years is not regarded as so very old for an elephant. It takes about a quarter of a century to get the elephant to full maturity.

A French anatomist has analyzed the skeletons of 80 chimpansees, gorillas and orang outangs and asserts that he has found in them bone diseases like those which afflict mankind and in about the same proportion.

He Was Satisfied.

A farmer entered an office in central New York and sent this message to a woman in Canada: "Will you be my wife? Please answer quick by telegraph." Although he waited the rest of the day, he got no answer, but the next morning he got a night dispatch, sent collect, but favorable. The operator in expressing his sympathy said, "Little rough to keep you in suspense so long."

"Look a-here, sonny," the farmer remarked, "I'll stand all the suspense. Any woman that'll hold back her answer all day to a proposal of marriage, jest so thet she kin send it half rate at night, is economical enough to make up after I git her for all the loss of time and injury to feelin's I've suffered waitin!"

Icebergs.

The captain of an ocean steamer is often warned of the proximity of icebergs by the men in the engine room. When a ship enters water considerably colder than that through which it has been going its propeller runs faster, and as such water surrounds the vicinity of icebergs for many miles the engineers know when the propeller's action is greatly accelerated without any increase of the steam power icebergs may be expected. Of course the thermometer is the most useful indicator of icebergs.

Two Calamitous Fires.

The two most calamitous fires ever known anywhere in the world occurred in the United States within 13 months of each other. In the first of these, in Chicago, on Oct. 8, 9, 1871, the property loss was $200,000,000, and in the second, in Boston, Nov. 9, 1872, $80,000,000 of property was consumed. In Chicago 100,000 persons were left without homes and 200 were killed. Chicago's heads the list of the world's destructive conflagrations.

Relieved.

"That must be a pretty bad toothache to swell your face like that. Why don't you see a dentist?"

"I did call on your friend, Dr. Pullem, yesterday, and experienced great relief."

"You must be mistaken. Pullem has been out of town for a week."

"I know. I felt relieved when I found that out."

Japan Will Fight for Corea.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—A war between Russia and Japan over Corea is predicted by Dr. Nicholas Senn, professor of surgery in the University of Chicago, who has arrived here from a tour of the Orient. Said he:

"While I was in Japan I noticed on every hand that the Japanese were making preparations for war with Russia, and they made no secret of it. The cause of the trouble is no secret in Japan. It wants Corea. Japan is not large enough for the Japanese. Russia practically holds Manchuria, and Japan does not intend letting this nation extend its influence to Corea if this condition can be prevented; hence the preparations for war."

Noted Artist Dead.

Rochester, Oct. 16.—Edwin Landseer Harris, the well known artist, died at his home in this city yesterday, aged 43 years. Heart disease was the cause. His productions were widely distributed.

Columbia Is Willing.

New York, Oct. 16.—A despatch to The Times from Paris says the directors of the new Panama Company in a circular to the shareholders, say that Columbia has expressed its readiness to sanction the transfer of the canal to the United States. An estimate of the value of the undertaking is, therefore, being prepared at the request of the Isthmian Canal commission. It will be ready by the time Congress meets.

Lived 101 Years.

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Rose Conlin died yesterday afternoon at the residence of her son, Mr. Peter Conlin, 493 Parliament street, at the advanced age of 101 years. Deceased, who was born in Derry, Ireland, has resided in Toronto for the past 75 years, and had been in the best of health until two years ago, when, owing to her advanced age, she was confined to her bed. Her husband, Mr. Patrick Conlin, died in 1885, being 94 years of age. For a number of years he was councillor for St. Andrew's Ward. Mrs. Conlin is survived by four children.

Comparison of Nations.

England has 366 convicts for every 100,000 of population, France, 458.

England uses 26,000 pounds of quinine a year, France 49,000, Germany 55,000.

Forty-six per cent. of British property is insured against fire, 75 per cent. of French.

In 1850 British expenditure was 16 per cent. of that of all Europe. It is now ten per cent.

England's death rate for babies under a year old is 15 per cent., Scotland's 12, Ireland's 11 only.

France has 9,870 yachts, averaging three tons in size and £61 in value. England has 4,080 yachts.

Only 4 per 1,000 English people go to hospital yearly, compared with 12 in France and 15 in Spain.

The Government of the United Kingdom costs only 31 per cent. of her revenue, that of India 64 per cent.

There are five times as many boiler explosions in the United States as in Great Britain. The number last year was 393, more than one a day.

France, with 21 gallons a head, is the greatest consumer of wine; the United States with half a gallon a head yearly, the smallest. English people average a fraction more.

A Story of Lord Morris.

The late Lord Morris, once Chief Justice of Ireland, had a ready wit, and many amusing stories are told in which he was concerned in his official capacity.

Shortly prior to his retirement from the Court of Appeal, Lord Morris, in his capacity of Vice-Chancellor of the Royal University of Ireland, received a royal visitor to the Dublin Flower Show. On such occasions it was incumbent on him to wear his golden-streaked robes of office. Deeming it necessary to explain why he donned such gorgeously hued habiliments, he said:

"Your Royal Highness will observe that, as Vice-Chancellor of the University, I am obliged to wear all this fine toggery. I think it is only fair to offer you this explanation — otherwise you might think I was trying to transform myself into a sunflower."

What the Scot Said to Bobs.

General Hector Macdonald, asked by Lord Roberts during the latter's advance upon Pretoria if the Highland Brigade could reach a certain place by a certain time, replied: "Yes, if your cavalry can keep up with them."

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

Duplicate orders is what makes our business. If you try us once you'll come again. If you have a keg, send it with your order.

ON VICTORIA BRIDGE

Address Presented to Duke of Cornwall by the G. T. R.

WHERE KING DROVE LAST RIVET

Brief Stops at Cornwall, Iroquois, and Points in Quebec—Royal Train Now Speeding to the Maritime Provinces—Face of the Royal Party Turned Towards Home—At St. John.

Cardinal, Oct. 17.—About 3,000 citizens from Cardinal and the surrounding country assembled yesterday morning at the temporary station erected by the Grand Trunk, and where the royal trains passed the night, to show honor to the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. The school children, in charge of Principal Conley, marched from the school, and at the train sang several national songs, and a pretty bouquet of roses was handed to the Duchess by Miss Hendersen, little daughter of Mr. Colin Henderson of this town. The Duchess very gracefully acknowledged the gift, and shook hands with Miss Henderson and two other little girls accompanying her. The Duke and Duchess remained on the platform waving their hands and bowing to the crowd, while the train pulled out.

Gift of Lacrosse Sticks.

Cornwall, Oct. 17.—The royal train bearing the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York passed here at 11 a. m. yesterday. There were 4,000 people at the Grand Trunk station to greet Their Royal Highnesses. When the train slackened up Mayor Campbell presented Their Royal Highnesses with a complete set of lacrosse sticks, especially manufactured by the Lally Lacrosse Company for their children. The sticks were encased in a beautiful gold-mounted case bearing a suitable inscription; a set of flag poles and a ball accompanied the sticks. Little Olive, the 5-year-old daughter of Mayor Campbell, presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers to Her Royal Highness, after which the members of the Town Council, the ministers of the different denominations in Cornwall and Judges O'Reilly and Liddell were presented to Their Royal Highnesses, and the train pulled out amid great cheering.

ON VICTORIA BRIDGE.

Duke of York Receives an Address From the G.T.R.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York are now en route to Halifax, having left this city at 1 o'clock yesterday. Before leaving, however, an interesting function took place on the Victoria Jubilee Bridge. At the suggestion of Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, the president of the G.T.R., it was decided that the royal train should stop in the centre of the new Victoria Bridge and that there, as near as possible to the spot where the present King of England had driven the last rivet of the then world famous Victoria Tubular Bridge, the future King of England should be presented with a souvenir worthy of the occasion, which should mark his visit to the new Victoria Bridge.

When the royal train reached the bridge General Manager George B. Reeve read the following address:

"Your Royal Highness now stands where your illustrious father, the King, stood on the 5th day of August, 1860, when he drove the last rivet in the Victoria Bridge, which was considered at that time one of the wonders of the world. The enormous increase in traffic of the country made it necessary in 1897 to reconstruct the bridge, substituting for the single track tubular bridge the one you see to-day, with double track and double roadway, which is known as the Victoria Jubilee Bridge, in honor of Her Most Gracious Majesty, the late Queen. Early in the spring when our president, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, paid his annual visit, he suggested that we should take advantage of the occasion of the visit of Your Royal Highness to present a souvenir which I have a great deal of pleasure in doing, and trust that you will accept it; and before closing, unless Your Royal Highness commands to the contrary, I would desire, on behalf of my colleagues and myself, to bid you adieu, expressing their wishes and my own that Her Royal Highness and yourself may have a pleasant voyage across the Atlantic and a safe landing on the shores of dear old England."

At the close of the address the general manager handed to the Duke a handsome leather case, containing a souvenir history of the two Victoria bridges, printed on satin, which His Royal Highness was pleased to accept.

In reply, the Duke of Cornwall and York expressed his thanks to the management of the Grand Trunk Railway for the care they had taken of the royal train since it had been upon their system, and stated that it was a great pleasure to identify himself with such a wonderful enterprise as the Victoria Bridge with which his dear father's name was so intimately connected. He wished every prosperity to the Grand Trunk system, and would have great pleasure in telling his father the King, of his visit to such an interesting link between the present and the past as the Victoria Bridge.

Given a Bear-Skin Robe.

Sherbrooke, Que., Oct. 17.—A portion of the royal train came through to Sherbrooke, where half an hour was spent by the Duke and Duchess to the gratification of an enormous crowd. The reception was confined exclusively to the public square in front of the Grand Trunk Station. The Duchess graciously received the bear skin robe, and assisted in carrying it a few steps on returning to the train.

The Caughnawaga Indians duly made their presentation.

St. John Waits.

St. John, Oct. 17.—The city is gay with bunting, and last night the special illuminations were tested for to-night's display. There are thousands of visitors here, and the troops have begun to come in.

Duke Sails for England Oct. 23.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 17.— The Duke of Cornwall and York, by a telegram from Canada, makes large alterations in the program of his reception in St. John's next week, virtually compressing the whole affair into a few hours.

The royal yacht Ophir will arrive Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 23, but the Duke will not land until 11 o'clock the next morning, when the functions will be hurried through.

The State banquet will be given in the evening and the Ophir will sail for England Friday morning.

CAN DO WORK OF 100 MEN.

Track-Laying Machine That Was Invented by Mr. Hugh Mann.

Winnipeg, Oct. 17.—A track-laying machine that will put down one mile of steel per hour is the result of many months of hard work and experiment, combined with the expenditure of thousands of dollars by the Canadian Northern Railway Company. The machine, which has been invented and carefully improved, tested and remodelled from time to time into its present effective form, is the work of Hugh Mann, the well known contractor. It received a final test on Monday, and has since then been working very satisfactorily in the laying of the tracks for the new C.P.R. yards in Fort Range.

This machine, which cost about $4,000, was built in the C. N. R. shops here, and is regarded by railway men and contractors as one of the achievements of the present century in the line of railway construction. It is claimed for it that it can easily do the work of 100 men, and will lay one mile of ties and steel per hour.

Baptists Elect Officers.

Brantford, Oct. 17.—At the session of the Baptist Convention Tuesday afternoon, J. N. Shenstone, Rev. S. J. Moore, Rev. A. Ayer and Rev. R. R. McKay were appointed to fill the vacancies on the Foreign Mission Board.

Rev. G. B. Davis of Woodstock pointed out that 20 years ago there was not a single missionary in the northwestern part of Canada, and the same with India. Ten years ago there were 10 small churches, while at present there are 100 organized churches, with a membership of 7,000 and $20,000 worth of church property.

Following are the officers for the year: President, Rev. A. McNee, Windsor; 1st Vice-President, Rev. W. J. McKay, Stratford; 2nd Vice-President, Hon. John Dryden; Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, Port Hope.

The Khan's Copyrights.

Hamilton, Oct. 17.—A suit in the High Court for $1,000 damages has been entered against J. W. Lyon and The World Publishing Company of Guelph for infringement of copyright. The plaintiff is R. K. Kernighan of Beverly, better known as "The Khan," and the allegation is that the defendants have, without his permission, printed the well known poem, "The Men of the Northern Zone." An injunction is also asked for. Very probably proceedings will also be taken against the Newnes Company, Limited, of London, England, and other publishing houses for alleged infraction of Mr. Kernighan's copyright in other well known poems.

Cup of Sorrowful.

Thorold, Oct. 17.—On Monday morning the death occurred here of Louis Conlon, aged 17 years, the youngest son of Thomas Conlon of the well known lumber firm of J. & T. Conlon of Thorold and Little Current, Ont. On the same night his second youngest son, James Conlon, aged 21 years, who had been ill with typhoid fever at Little Current for some weeks, died.

The deceased young men are survived by their sorrowing father and two brothers, John of Little Current and Frank of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. James Battle of Thorold.

British Soldiers Fight.

London, Oct. 17.—The long standing feud between the Durham and Worcester regiments of infantry culminated last night in a serious affray at Aldershot, when the Worcesters, with fixed bayonets and ball cartridges, attacked the quarters of the Durhams. Severe fighting followed, during which many of the men were injured. A number of the Durhams are suffering from dangerous bayonet wounds.

Always something new
Always something rare good value

Appreciated

Are the rare good values continually offered at this store. This time that rareness in values can be applied to the following lines:—

WRAPPERETES

that went on sale this morning are meeting with a hearty response, but the quantity is great enough not to be sold out in a day or even a week, though it's possible you may not get the pattern you fancied while shown in our window. For those who haven't seen or heard of them, the story is summed up in this:—Pretty Veronnes and Wrapperettes, worth 10 and 12½c, for 8c

SHEETINGS

Bleached in twill or plain, and in all widths, from 1¾ yards to 2½ yards wide, selling at less than we could regularly, or at the present time buy them. It was quantity, and striking the iron at the right time that brought us these perfect goods so low in price. They start at 10c a yard and run up to 27c a yard, but these prices are less than wholesale prices.

SUITS TO HAND

Owing to the non-fulfilment of a Suit order on time by one of the foremost suit manufacturers in Canada, we have claimed, and justly so, a recompense for the inconvenience and loss we were put to, and now are in a position to show our customers some natty new Suits AT A SUBSTANTIAL SAVING. Yet the quantity will not last long after those who have been waiting for our Suits get served. Excuse the expression, but "step quick" if you want one of these Suits.

MANTLES

To speak of our values as our customers do, they are the best value in the trade. Lengths the correct lengths. Colours and sizes in pretty fair condition yet, though we would advise an early selection as later deliveries are uncertain. Get your Coat of this store, and you will be pleased with fit, sightliness and value.

USED HOT WATER

But Everything Proved Useless Except Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mr. Edward Gallagher, of 139 York street, Hamilton, Ont., is one of those who testifies to the power of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Dyspepsia afflicted him for six years, during which he assayed all kinds of cures, tried all sorts of treatments and used almost every kind of medicine in vain.

Mr. Gallagher grew desperate. Friends were foolish enough to advise soda as a temporary relief. This is a fearful mistake. So far from curing stomach trouble it brings on a condition which is worse than the first. Soda has a tendency to destroy the lining of the stomach and the public cannot be too strongly warned against it.

Finally Mr. Gallagher found the one sure radical cure for all troubles of digestion and diseases of the stomach. He tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Did they fail him? Read his letter:

"For six years," he writes, "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia, Headaches and all the miseries of Indigestion. Nothing that I ate would keep the horrible trouble from me. I tried hot water, reduced my diet but still this dreadful disease kept its hold on me. I have many times had to quit my work, the pains were so bad. Friends even advised me to use soda but that did me more harm than good.

"One day I read of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got a box and tried one and then after supper I tried another. I got some relief and so I determined to keep on with the treatment that finally cured me.

"I am now, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the possessor of a sound digestion. For six years I didn't know what it was to relish a meal. Now I have a wonderful appetite and can digest anything. I cannot praise Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too highly."

Sock and Buskin.

In the early ages theatrical performers disguised their faces with wine lees or a rude pigment. Æschylus, the famous tragic poet, introduced masks, which were of various kinds, expressing every age, country, condition and complexion. All were constructed with the greatest nicety and precision. The dresses were also adapted to the characters assumed by the actors. What was known as the buskin was a hunting boot. Those worn by tragedians had soles three inches thick, composed of layers of cork, and were laced up in front as high as the calf.

Sandals were also worn, and many of these had thick cork soles. The colors of the foot coverings were various, red being the favorite hue for warriors and purple for other characters. Slaves wore a low shoe, bearing the name of sock, which was also the ordinary footwear of comedians. From this circumstance arose the well known phrase of "sock and buskin," so generally associated with the drama.

GROWTH OF SIX YEARS

Exports of Canada in 1901 Compared With Those of 1895.

THE INCREASE WONDERFUL.

Figures for the Two Years Inclusive in Merchandise, Produce of the Mine, Manufactures of Canada, Forest Products, Animals and Produce and Agricultural Products—Crow's Nest Coal Lands.

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—A comparison of the exports of Canada during the period from 1895 to 1901, both years inclusive, forms instructive reading, and denotes with what rapidity in recent years the commerce of Canada has grown. Each of the years given consists of the twelve months ended June 30. The total exports of merchandise, excluding coin and bullion, last year were $195,641,838, as against $106,440,244 in 1895, showing an increase for the six years of $89,201,594. During this period the exports of produce of the mine increased by nearly $33,000,000, to which the gold output from the Yukon contributed in a very large degree. In 1895 our total exports of manufactures amounted to $8,737,284, but last year they had grown to $17,845,935, a gain of over $9,000,000. Last year exhibited the greatest expansion, when the increase in the value of manufactured goods sent from the Dominion was nearly $3,000,000. In the preceding year the advance was $2,447,093. Forest products were over $6,000,000 higher last year than they were in 1895. The exports of animals and their produce gained nearly $22,000,000, while agricultural products show a betterment of $19,633,779.

Crow's Nest Coal Lands.

It is stated that a conference will shortly be held between representatives of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, the C. P. R. and the Government, at which arrangements will be made for setting apart the 50,000 acres of coal lands which the Government is entitled to select in the interests of the public. The Minister of the Interior has received the report of an expert who has been over the coal area, and this will be of great assistance to him in selecting lands that are of good average quality.

MANITOBA HOPES.

Threshing Probabilities Are Now More Favorable—Heavy Deliveries.

Winnipeg, Oct. 17.—All over the province yesterday the weather was reported clear and fine, and, with a higher barometer and indications most favorable, the farmers are hopeful of a good week with their threshing.

Deliveries at C.P.R. points yesterday were higher than for several days, 170,000 bushels.

During the day there were 180 cars loaded for shipment, which is equal to about 180,000 bushels of wheat.

W. L. Parrish has returned from a trip over the Gladstone district. "I met one of the farmers there," said Mr. Parrish, in speaking of the wheat prospects, "who had threshed five acres of his wheat that yielded 50 bushels to the acre. The quality was good, too. There are other cases of big yields throughout the province."

Mr. Choate on a Secret Mission.

London, Oct. 17.—A Minister of one of the minor European powers vouches for the following story as to Ambassador Choate's real object in going to America at this time:

The United States Ambassador, according to the Minister, takes with him a message of inquiry from the British Government, which is too delicate to be trusted to the cable, regarding President Roosevelt's attitude toward England in case of European complications. At Ambassador Choate's visit to King Edward, just previous to his departure, says the Minister, the matter was fully discussed.

Canadian Killed in Arizona.

Brockville, Oct. 17.—Word has been received in Brockville of the death of Patrick Hussey in Arizona, a former resident of Brockville, under tragical circumstances. He was an old-time engineer on the G.T.R. between Brockville and Belleville. Moving west several years ago he settled in Arizona and was appointed a traveling engineer. This he resigned quite recently to assume his position on a passenger train, and while making his first trip he was killed in an accident.

Died In South Africa.

Quebec, Oct. 17.—News has been received of the death of Miss Marie Aimee Lucienne Begin, daughter of Mr. Louis Begin, of Bienneville, Levis, which occurred at the Sanitarium of Berea, Durban, South Africa, on Sept. 12. Miss Begin left during last summer with some nuns and young ladies of Quebec and Levis to become nuns in South Africa.

Will Limit Manitoba Millers.

Winnipeg, Oct. 17.—Australia's proposed high tariff on flour will deprive Manitoba millers of a profitable trade. The duty, it is thought, will amount to about $1 a barrel instead of 61c.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple, Convenient; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and local applications can no more cure catarrh and rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood, and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children may use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not despair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents.

BARONESS BURDETT-COUTTS DYING.

Growing Progressively Weaker at Her Summer Country Home.

London, Oct. 17.—Baroness Burdett-Coutts is growing progressively weaker every day at her superb country home, West Hill. Her rapid decline in health dates from the death of Queen Victoria, to whom the great philanthropist was very close and very dear. On news of the Queen's death the baroness lost her customary strength and denied herself to her friends. The depression into which she sank has never lifted, and it is now believed that the end of her active and beneficient life is not far off.

The dying peeress was born on April 26, 1814. She is the daughter of the banker, Thomas Coutts, and inherited from him an immense fortune, which, under her careful management, has expanded into proportions which make her the richest woman in the world. It was in 1871 that the Queen elevated Miss Coutts to the peerage of England in reward for her noble and notable benefactions. In 1881 the Baroness was married to William Ashmead-Bartlett, who has been given royal license to use the surname of Burdett-Coutts. Until a few weeks ago she insisted upon attending to the direction of her banking house in London.

Dr. Pitcher's BACKACHE KIDNEY TABLETS.

(Formula of Zina Pitcher, M. D., Late Professor of Materia Medica and Genito Urinary Diseases, Michigan College of Medicine, Detroit, Michigan, U. S. A.)

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the quickest and surest relief for Backache and Kidney troubles, and can show more evidence to that effect than all other advertised medicines combined. Dr. Pitcher stakes his reputation on these Tablets for Backache and Kidney troubles, and will not allow them to be advertised as a "jack of all trades" medicine.

Mrs. Sarah Bevan, of Port Hope says: "Thirteen years ago I fell and injured my back, and since then have known very little comfort with Backache or Kidney troubles. I have tried all kinds of medicines and seen many physicians, but got no help until I began the bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets that I got from R. Deyell, druggist. They have done me a world of good. I feel stronger; the dizziness and pain are gone, and I cannot tell you how pleased I am, and everyone else says the same of them. They are just what everyone wanted. I hope others will use them and get well."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are put up in wooden bottles, with green wrapper, bearing the portrait and signature of Z. Pitcher, M. D. Each bottle contains fifty tablets; price 50c per bottle. Manufactured by the Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

A Poor Apple Crop.

New York, Oct. 17.—The commercial apple crop of 1901, according to the final report of The American Agriculturist, is placed at 23,000,000 barrels, against 48,000,000 barrels one year ago, and nearly 70,000,000 barrels in the bumper crop year of 1896.

Was Cool and Courageous.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The officers of Admiral Schley's flagship, the Brooklyn, occupied the attention of the Schley Court of Inquiry the entire day. All the witnesses testified that the conduct of the commodore when under fire was cool and courageous.

Immigrants Were 50,000.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

The Ground Hog.

In many parts of Ontario the woodchuck or groundhog still survives. He loves the rolling land better than the flats, because he likes to delve out his home in the hillside. I have spent many hours watching the groundhog on his native heath, writes Revenspur in Toronto Star, and have found much about him of interest. His flesh is not dainty, and his fur is coarse, and that is perhaps why he still survives. The farmer often finds him a nuisance, because of the holes he digs and of the unsightly piles of gravel he throws up, but the farmer is generally too busy snatching out a living for himself to bother much with his agricultural fellow-laborer. It is not so, however, with the farmer's boy. He gets much sport out of the groundhog, and he finds him wary game. The groundhog seldom ventures far from home, and at the first sight of danger vanishes. Then the farmer's boy sits down to wait and watch, training his trusty musket on the spot where the groundhog vanished. In a few minutes a black nose appears, and after a cautious survey a lump of brown fur climbs out on top of the little mound of earth to take an observation. Then the old musket talks, and the little ball of fur lies still forever. When I was a boy I had plenty of sport trapping groundhogs. They are powerful little creatures, and I have lost several good steel traps owing to the trapped animal carrying off trap and stake into the depths of his burrow. Were I to visit the haunts of the groundhog now I would probably leave him in peace, for he is a harmless creature, but while the lust for blood remains in human nature I suppose the life of the groundhog will continue to be one of peril and anxiety, and the chances of his ultimate survival are the reverse of bright.

EVER FELT THAT DEATH WOULD BE WELCOME?

Mrs. Margaret Smith often did until Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart gave her a new hope and cured her heart.

"I was for two years a great sufferer from heart trouble. At times I was confined to bed, at times my pain was so intense that I would have welcomed death with joy. I was attracted to Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart by reading of some wonderful cures wrought by it. One dose gave me relief in 30 minutes. After using four bottles I can truly say I never felt better in my life."—Margaret Smith, Brussels, Ont. 29

RENOVATED POTATOES.

How Old Ones Are Made to Look Like Tubers Just From the Ground.

It is in California, where potatoes are new anywhere from April to July, that this industry is possible and flourishes. The manufacturing gardener is an enterprising genius of foreign extraction, generally Portuguese, Italian or Chinaman, and he makes the most of his opportunities. By his private process of making new potatoes he gets at least two months' advance on the market in many places and thereby reaps a profit many times above what the legitimate natural product would bring him. The extent of this business must be somewhat gigantic, for I have seen these new made potatoes in all the markets from Denver to Albuquerque and Salt Lake City to Cape Nome. The commission merchants and wholesale dealers must certainly know of and abet the fraud or the gardener could not market his wares. The average retail merchant is not aware of the deception to my personal knowledge and deals out to his customers in all innocence the fraudulent new potato.

The method of their manufacture is unique, and it is done as follows: Late in the season, after other crops are out of the way, the gardener plants a crop of late and good keeping potatoes. The time has been chosen from experience and is opportune for a yield of small potatoes before the frosts of winter come down upon the gardener's truck patch. These potatoes are dug and buried in heaps in the open field and left until spring opens and the new potato season arrives. At the proper time the heaps are opened and the potatoes sorted according to sizes. In the meantime a large kettle or vat is set in the field adjacent to the potato heaps and made ready by filling with water and adding sufficient lye to effectually curl the skin of the potato when dipped into the boiling solution. A crane and metal basket are rigged so that the dipping can be done expeditiously, and the way that new potatoes are turned out is astonishing. The effect of dipping any potato, no matter how old, into this boiling lye solution is to crack and curl the skin, and at the same time it hardens or makes the potato much firmer, so that its resemblance to a new potato is so near that it would be hard to pick out the impostor from appearances alone from a basket of the genuine article. After dipping the potatoes are rinsed in another vat and spread out to dry in the sun and cure into perfect new potatoes, and the work is complete.

The only way that you can tell the fraudulent new potato is to cut one open and notice its appearance carefully from circumference to center. For a short distance in from the skin of the made potato you will, if you look closely, see a yellowish white line of semicooked and watery appearance. If this test is not conclusive, put one or two into some cold water and let them come to a boil, and you will notice a faint lye odor, and the water that covers them will have a slippery, alkaline feel that any housewife cannot mistake.

LIFE IN A BIG DESERT

QUEER CREATURES THAT AMUSE AND INTEREST THE TRAVELER.

Insects, Birds and Reptiles Found In the Sand—Funny Freaks of the Tarantula Hawk and the Road Runner—Worrying a Rattler.

There's plenty of life on the desert—not crowds of human insects, rushing and tearing about like crazy ants and keeping up a din day and night that is enough to drive the whole world mad, but interesting, sensible, natural life, full of comedy, tragedy and even humor. If you feel lonesome, you can find company anywhere by turning up a rock or looking under the sagebrush. There's no lack of ingenious, curious little creatures whose ways are worth studying.

Take the tarantula hawk, for example. That's an insect built something like a wasp, or perhaps more like a "devil's darning needle," and it flies about looking for tarantulas just as the hawk soars about keeping his eye peeled for gophers and such provender. When the hawk sees a tarantula, he goes for the big spider, swoops down upon him, stings him and gets away like a flash. The tarantula knows that his only show is to get under cover, and he legs it for home in frantic haste. It's fun to see the big, hairy legged bully duck his head and paddle off through the sand.

If the tarantula is near his house, he may escape by getting to it, tumbling in head first and shutting the door tight, but he's got to hustle for it, because little Jack the Giant Killer is a hustler himself and keeps jabbing away at every jump. If the hairy ogre gets caught out a great way from his castle, his name is Dennis, and he knows it. He flops over upon his back to make a fight, and if he could get hold of the hawk in that position he would make short work of the little chap, but the hawk sees the trick and just keeps sailing around and watching for an opening, and when he catches the spider off his guard he darts in, hits him a lick and gets away like a flash.

Sometimes the hawk will pretend to quit and fly away, but the instant the tarantula is on his feet and scooting for shelter whiz! comes the hawk like a bullet and socks it to him in the back of the head. A few stings like that do up the tarantula. He seems to become dizzy from the poison, staggers a few steps and collapses in a hairy heap. His legs twitch a few times, and that is the end of his marvelous career.

I've been calling the hawk "he" all along, but it isn't that kind of a bird. The tarantula Nemesis is the female hawk, so far as I can judge, because after the spider is knocked out the hawk proceeds to deposit eggs in the remains, and I suppose the eggs are hatched by the heat of decomposition. Possibly the purpose of laying eggs in a defunct tarantula is to provide the young hawks with grub at the threshold of life, so to speak. Whatever the scheme may be, it is death to the tarantula, and for that reason nobody ever harms a tarantula hawk. The insect's sting is said to be poisonous to men, but I never knew one to sting a man.

Then there is the road runner, a joyous, sociable little fellow, whose business in life is worrying rattlesnakes to death. The road runner is a bird somewhat larger than a blue jay, with a saucy topknot and a still saucier tail about a foot in length. He runs as fast as a horse ordinarily travels, and if he once gets into the road ahead of a horseman he will race along for hours and can't be driven out of the road. He could skip aside and get out of the way if he wanted to, but he seems to think that it is his mission in life to keep just ahead of that horse, and nothing can divert him from that occupation.

He is not in the least alarmed, and when he gains too much of a lead he will stop and seesaw with his tail and chirrup merrily until the horse nearly catches up with him. Then away he goes again, as if his life depended upon winning the race. When he wearies of the sport, he disappears in the brush.

I was riding across a cactus desert once when a pair of road runners that had been racing with me turned out of the trail and became suddenly very much excited about something. They paid no more attention to me, and I rode up near enough to see what was going on. They had run across a big diamond back rattler and were preparing to have fun with him. One of them had struck the snake with his sharp bill and the diamond back had promptly coiled himself in a defensive attitude and was springing his rattle wickedly. One of the birds remained near the snake, jumping about and making a great show of hostility, but keeping beyond reach all the time, while the other gathered little bunches of dry cactus, with spines as sharp as needles and almost as hard, which he dropped close to the reptile.

The road runner was as busy as the old boy in a gale of wind, and in a few minutes he had piled a regular little corral of cactus spines all around the rattlesnake. Then the pair of them began to tantalize the snake, and flying at him they provoked him into striking at them, with results disastrous to himself, for every time he launched out he hit into the cactus and got stuck full of the spines.

When the rattlesnake had just about got crazy and was reckless of his guard, the road runners flew up, hovered over him and darted down at him whenever they saw a good chance to hit him. Their sharp bills did great execution, and it wasn't long before they had the rattlesnake laid out as cold as a wedge. They are great generals, these road runners, and they always get away with the rattlesnake. That's why nobody ever shoots a road runner in California.—Exchange.

The Cautious Missionary.

They had strapped the missionary in a huge baking pan and were about to push him into the oven when the cannibal king thoughtfully inquired:

"Have you anything to say?"

"Yes," said the victim gratefully, "will you please remove these few cartridges from my belt? I am afraid they might be prematurely discharged by the intense heat and do me bodily injury."

The humor of the request pleased the cannibal king so much that he set the victim free.

A true test of a man's politeness is the way he treats his wife when nobody else is around.

SHOES THAT ARE FULL OF WORTH AND COMFORT....

The best Shoe Salesman we have is our Stock. A glance at our Stock shows that here's a plenty. Where there's a plenty there's sure to be a variety, and so the range of our Stock widens out until it embraces all that's good in footwear.

It's safe to say that out of thirty people no ten will be shed with shoes alike. That' the result of individual preference, and probably of good sense in selection for the uses to which the shoes are to be put. It's this knowledge that of all the people, with all the tastes and all the uses to consider, that from our store every one can be suited. This fact gives a confidence to the customer that is often lacking when dealing at smaller stores. Our care for the customer is a big care, and we do it in a big way—and do it well.

No Better Soil Anywhere.

"The fertility of the soil is unsurpassed anywhere," said Mr. Gibson, "the climate is not severe, and no early frosts injure the crops. Now that the Canadian Northern runs through this district throughout its entire extent, any objection to the want of transportation, whether eastward or westward, has been removed. Indeed, it would be difficult to imagine a more desirable field for immigration of farm settlers who are not afraid to grapple with the ordinary difficulties and hardships incidental to original settlement."

The timber in the Rainy Lake district seemed more plentiful than he had supposed. There are large areas of excellent Norway pine, which can be sawn into lumber for the increasing and ever-ready market in Manitoba. He had no doubt but that in the near future the Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake and the numerous other waters in that part of the Province would be resorted to by summer tourists from the United States as well as from older Ontario.

CEREAL CO. OFFICIALS.

A Number of Them in Town Taking Note of the Progress of the Work.

A party of American Cereal Company officials arrived in town from Chicago on the midnight train, accompanied by Hon. Senator Cox.

The party includes Mr. H. P. Crowell, President of the company; Mr. Robert Stuart, Treasurer; Mr. F. Pleasants, Assistant-Manager; Mr. L. Richards, Traffic-Manager; and Mr. George H. Cormack, Manager of the works at Rockford, Ill., where the Company constructs its own machinery.

The object of the visit to Peterborough is to observe the progress which is being made on the buildings now under course of erection.

Although tedious delays have been caused in the work through the inability to procure the special quality of stone required as fast as it was needed, yet satisfaction was expressed with the character and present state of the operations. It was urged that the contract be completed with all possible expediency, in order that there may be as little delay as possible in occupying the buildings.

DEMISE OF REV. J. R. PEAKE.

He was Formerly Stationed in South Dummer.

Rev. J. R. Peake, pastor of the Norham Methodist church, died at his residence on Tuesday last. Mr. Peake had been ill for over two years and during the past eight months had been unable to take his pulpit. He was a son of Rev. Mr. Peake, of Campbellford, and was a young man with an expected prominent future before him. He was on his fourth year at Norham and previous to this was stationed at South Dummer during which time he married Miss Knox, daughter of Mr. M. Knox. The funeral was held on Saturday and the remains were taken to Norwood for interment. The services were conducted by the Rev. J. C. Wilson, of Brighton, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference. Fifteen ministers of different denominations were present.

OUR CROSSINGS.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir, — Everybody who uses our sidewalks and crossings must be impressed with the folly of our council in constructing such beautiful sidewalks, and such execrable crossings, as they are used for the one and same purpose at the same time, one being merely the continuation of the other. The utility of the whole is commensurate with the worst part, and so long as these crossings are allowed to remain in their present detestable condition our expensive sidewalks fall so far short of that for which they were intended. Surely our City Fathers must have observed the difference in other cities, if their own common sense did not suggest their error. Our Mayor has been abroad, and others of our council have visited Buffalo during the Exposition, or Toronto, at the time of the Duke's visit, as well as other cities, and should have been impressed with the common sense displayed in making the crossings in keeping with the sidewalks. Usually they are of the same material, whereby pedestrians are enabled to reap the benefit of the expense incurred in their construction.

ANOTHER PRETTY WEDDING

Which Took Place Yesterday Afternoon —Very Handsome Gifts Received.

An event which has been anticipated for some months took place at five o'clock yesterday afternoon at "The Maples," the residence of the late Hugh Davidson, Esq., when his second daughter, Miss Florence, was wedded to Mr. F. H. Dixon, accountant of the Central Ontario agency of the Sun Life Assurance Co.

The wedding was comparatively quiet, only near relatives of the families concerned being in attendance. The interior of the house had been decorated with a great deal of taste for the occasion with flowers, foliage plants and autumn leaves.

Rev. Dr. Torrance, pastor of St. Paul's, officiated.

The bride wore a very handsome frock of white crepe de chine silk with garniture of pleated Brussels net and chiffon applique. Her flowers, which were exceptionally beautiful, were white Bride roses arranged in a shower bouquet. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Davidson, who looked very attractive in white organdie with trimmings of Valenciennes lace.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Dickson Davidson.

A very charming wedding dejeuner was served at the conclusion of the ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon left on the evening G.T.R. express for a trip to Montreal and Quebec, a large number of their friends being present at the station to extend hearty congratulations. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue cloth with hat to match.

Both bride and groom are exceedingly popular in Peterborough and the gifts which were received were very handsome, presents in silver and cut glass being especially noted.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon intend residing, after the first of the month, at No. 535 Downie street, just above McDonel street.

MISS BERTRAM'S WEDDING.

It Took Place in Toronto Yesterday—The Guests in Attendance.

A very pretty home wedding took place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at 9 Walmer Road, Toronto, when Miss Helen S. Bertram, youngest daughter of Mr. John Bertram, was married to Mr. Charles McCaul Home, of Toronto. Rev. W. G. Wallace performed the ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in white duchesse satin trimmed with ptucking and handsome berthe of rose point lace, the gift of her mother, veil and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marion Hall, of Peterborough, wore a white taffeta gown opening over a front of white crepe de chine, lace bolero, knot of chiffon and white tips in the hair. Mr. Robert Bertram acted as groomsman. The bride's mother wore a handsome black silk gown, with white rose and sequin trimming.

The parlour was decorated with red American Beauty roses and, with smilax. Shortly before the ceremony, Miss Margaret Houston, of Paris, sang "Hail to the Bride."

A sumptuous dejeuner was served in the dining room. The table was adorned with American Beauty roses. A reception was held from three until five, during which Mr. and Mrs. Home received the congratulations of their friends. They then left for New York and other points.

The bride's travelling gown was of navy blue, with a white silk blouse, and toque to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond ring, and to the bridesmaid a pearl fleur de lys.

Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Waldie, Senator and Mrs. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. R. Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Pugsley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Home, Mr. and Mrs. William Home, Mr. and Mrs. T. Home Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beebe, Mr. Frank Beebe, Dr. and Mrs. Sam Westman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lowndes, Miss Flo Lowndes, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cox, the Misses Crane, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bertram, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bertram, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bennett, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Roberts-Allan, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Will Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Merrett, Miss Hall, Mr. Jack Hall, Peterborough; Dr. and Mrs. Woods, London; Mrs. and Miss Mackenzie, London; Mr. and Mrs. H. Bertram, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill, Peterborough; Miss Margaret Houston, Paris; Mr. A. B. Wilson, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Messrs. Munro and Miller, London; Dr. J. S. Clarke, Dr. J. C. Roberts, Messrs. Norman Mather, Gordon Mills, Wm. Davidson, and John L. Blaikie.

Miss Bertram's many Peterborough friends will extend heartiest congratulations.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

Induction of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt — Special Services—Other Notes.

The services in connection with the induction of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt as Rector of St. Luke's Church, will take place on Friday evening at 7.30. The ceremony will be conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook, and the special sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Port Hope, formerly Rector of St. Luke's. Special music, anthems, etc., has been prepared by the choir.

Sunday next has been set apart by the Bishop of the Diocese as a day of special intercession on behalf of Sunday schools. At the morning service a sermon appropriate to the occasion will be preached by the Rector. At the conclusion of the morning service there will be corporate communion for Sunday school teachers and church workers.

In the afternoon there will be a special children's service addressed by the Rector. Parents are especially requested to be present.

In the evening the Rector will preach the third of a series of sermons on "Jewish Sacrifices."

On Monday evening there will be a gathering of the Sunday school scholars of St. John's, All Saints' and St. Luke's, in St. John's School Room, at which addresses will be given by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. W. L. Armitage and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. The general public, and especially Sunday school workers and parents are invited to be present.

MAJOR FOWLDS ILL.

One of Hasting's Prominent Citizens may not Recover.

The many friends of Major Harry Fowlds, of Hastings, will regret to learn of his very serious illness, and that there is little hope held out for his recovery. Major Fowlds has been ailing for several weeks but it is only during the last few days that his condition has become critical.

Major Fowlds is one of Hastings' most prominent citizens and is widely known throughout the district. He holds the rank of Major in the 40th Northumberland Regiment Infantry, and was for some years a member of the County Council of Northumberland and Durham.

DAN SPENCE MEMORIAL.

Meeting of Subscribers Will be Held This Evening in the Council Chamber.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Dan Spence Memorial Fund will be held in the Council Chamber this evening at 8 o'clock, when final action will be taken as to the application of the money which has been lying in trust to the credit of the treasurer for some time.

Let there be a representative meeting. Every patriotic citizen who subscribed in any way to the memorial, should be on hand as the matter has been hanging fire too long, and something must be done to-night, or the fund handed back to the various subscribers. Those who come to the meeting should come with well thought out ideas and not merely to criticize any suggestion that may be offered.

PERSONALS.

Mr. F. J. Robson, Fenelon Falls, is in town to-day.

Mr. L. F. Clarry, barrister; Hastings, is in town on business.

Mr. John H. Douglas, M.P.P., Warkworth, is registered at the Oriental Hotel.

Mrs. R. R. Hall, Water street, is home from a pleasant trip to Buffalo and Toronto.

Mr. A. A. Cox returned this morning from Chicago. Mrs. Cox will remain in the west for several weeks longer.

The Lock's Dam.

In addition to the announcement made yesterday that the contract for the new dam at the locks had been awarded to Mr. Barnett, it may be stated that work has already begun. Workmen are employed strengthening the old dam to permit of its serving the purpose of a coffer-dam for the new structure which is to be placed lower down than the old one.

Stratton's Wall Paper Sale

House owners are reminded again of the rare opportunity within their grasp for procuring handsome wall paper decorations at a reduction of nearly one half regular prices at the great wall paper sale at the Peterborough Bookstore. The Turnbull stock, bought at a fraction on the dollar of cost, and a large portion of the great regular stock of the Peterborough Bookstore ought to furnish selections enough to suit any taste, and the skeleton price is sure to suit any purse.

TAKES TO THE WORK.

M. C. Dickson's Experience in Handling Royal Tourists.

Mr. M. C. Dickson, district passenger agent of the G. T. R., upon whom fell no small part of the work of handling expeditiously and smoothly the crowds gathered to welcome the Duke, is, says the Mail getting to be quite a veteran in regard to Royal visits. He was present as a boy when King Edward VII. visited Hamilton. He had to do with the arrangement for moving the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise about, and was one of the party of railway men who accompanied Prince George, the present Duke of Cornwall and York, on his visit to Port Dover in 1883.

IS HE A THIEF?

James Doyle Alias James Elves in Trouble Arrested in Toronto.

An interesting case will come up at the police court on Tuesday, the 29th inst., when James Doyle, alias James Elves, will appear on a charge of having stolen a watch and other articles of jewelry from Mrs. Ensign of town. The theft occurred last year, it is alleged, and Elves has been eluding the vigilance of the police ever since. He has not been a resident of Toronto of late, but returned to see the Duke when he was run down by the Toronto authorities.

FALL SHOW AT CENTREVILLE.

The Concluding Exhibition of the Season.

THE PRINCIPAL EXHIBITORS.

A Good Show of Horses and Cattle—Other Departments not Quite up to the Standard.

What is perhaps the last agricultural exhibition of the season, of this district, took place on Wednesday at Centreville, and was fairly successful. The entries made fell short in many departments as compared with last year. There was, however, a good showing in the most important departments. The entries of horses was creditable, and there were good exhibits of good cattle. The inside exhibition was, however, better than is usual at township shows; there was a splendid display of roots and vegetables, also a fine show of grain, especially creditable in a season when grain exhibits are generally under the mark at other exhibitions, owing to the unfavourable season. There was a beautiful exhibition of cut flowers, and in the ladies department generally there was a profuse and excellent exhibition of fine goods. The department of domestic manufactures was also represented, and there was a fair display of fine arts. An appetizing display of fine home made bread and butter was also made. The fine showing of apples deserves special mention and commendation.

HORSES.

As remarked, the exhibit of horses was good.

The exhibitors of draught horses were A Anderson, sr., span of horses in harness and two year gelding; G Ward, two year gelding and one year old colt; Jos Fisher, one year old colt; N M Breckenridge, mare and foal; J L Fair, mare and foal; John Elgar, pair of horses in wagon, and one year old colt; John Hutchison, mare and foal.

General purpose horses were shown by Benjamin Johnston, two year old gelding; C & W Buttar, pair horses in harness; A Anderson, two one year old colts; Peter Davidson, pair of horses in harness; Howard Barnard, two two year old geldings, J J Heron, pair horses in harness, and one year old colt; John Elgar, pair horses in harness; W J Pritchard, pair horses in harness; Harry Lang, two year old gelding; W Perrin, single horse in harness; Ernest Wood, single horse in harness; Robert White, two year old gelding; George Caldwell, pair horses in harness; N W Breckenridge, mare and foal.

The exhibitors of carriage horses were William Campbell, two year old filly; H B Allen, mare and foal; Thos Wood one year old colt, mare and foal and single driver; R Vance and Son, single horse in harness, and single driver, three years old; W Perrin, single driver, three years old; A Anderson, sr., single horse in harness; W B Stewart, two year gelding and one year colt; John Watt, pair of horses in harness; Howard Barnard, two year gelding; J A Carl, single driver; N M Breckenridge, two one year old colts; J J Heron, one year old cold and single driver, Harry Lang one year old colt; Wm McClung, mare and foal; John Hutchinson, mare and foal and one year old colt; A Anderson, single driver; W Perrin, single driver; Everett Wood, single driver; Geo. Caldwell, pair of horses; Geo. Brown, single driver; Ira Nattrass, single driver.

CATTLE.

Durhams were shown by L M Westington, bull two years old; A Anderson, Sr., bull one year old; N M Breckenridge, bull one year old; Wm Stewart, bull two years old, milch cow and heifer calf.

In the Jersey class exhibits were made by N M Breckenridge, heifer one year old; Moses Sutton, two milch cows, two heifer calves, bull one year old and two bull calves.

The only exhibitor of Ayrshires was N M Breckenridge, who showed, bull one year old, two milch cows, heifer two years old and two yearling heifers.

Grade cattle were shown by Wm Campbell, heifer calf; A Anderson, Sr., two two year old heifers, heifer calf and milch cow; Peter Dawson, milch cow, heifer two years old, two heifers one year old and two calves; Howard Barnard, milch cow, heifer two years old and two heifers one year old; Moses Sutton, milch cow, two heifers two years old and heifer calf; Wm Stewart, heifer two years old, two one year old heifers and heifer calf; J J Heron, heifer one year old.

SHEEP.

Leicesters were shown by L M Westington, James Wood, N M Breckenridge, J J Hern and Wm McKnight.

The only exhibitors of Shropshires were A E Meadows, with a pen of ten head, and N M Breckenridge.

SWINE.

Yorkshires were shown only by Thos. Donaldson.

Messrs. R Vance & Son were the only exhibitors of Berkshires.

NOTES.

There were no speeding events; all the element of sport being represented by a football match between teams representing Hewdley and Centerville.

Several special prizes were offered, which were won as follows:—

WAS A BRILLIANT OPENING.

The T. O. Rush Company's New Premises.

The Band of the 57th Regiment Supplied Music—The Attractive Decorations—Most Successful.

The formal opening of the T. O. Rush Clothing Company, which was held yesterday, could scarcely have been more successful than it proved to be. Mostly every person had been waiting for the event, and mostly every person came, and for a few hours last evening the company's premises, at 403 George street, resembled a small-sized Pan-American.

The T. O. Rush Company's store was decorated very attractively for the occasion. Men had been engaged for some time previous to the opening in transforming the interior of the place into a sightseer's paradise, and the profusion of flags, bunting, etc., were only excelled by the display of mounted birds and animals. These latter formed a leading feature in the decorations, and were viewed by many. Some of them occupied conspicuous places in the windows, while others glared down from the high walls upon the visitor to the new clothing store. Amongst the mounted animal heads were those of three beautiful moose, which represented the three provinces of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec. The largest of these which was mounted on a cherry shield, is from the Duck Mountains, Manitoba. One of the smaller ones, that with the long "chin whisker," is from Lake Kippewa, in Quebec, and the third is from the French River, Ontario. These three valuable mounts are all from the rifle of Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald.

There were many other mounts of a very attractive variety and the manner in which they were arranged, together with the elaborate decorations of flags, bunting, etc., combined to produce a very pretty sight.

However, there was something else that was a big drawing card. The 57th Regt. Band arrived on the scene at about 8 o'clock, and discoursed excellent music until 10 o'clock, while in the meantime the crowds came and went. They filed in and around the large piles of stylish new clothing, examined the same and expressed themselves as delighted with what they saw. Had there not been an hour for closing there is no telling how long they would have stayed, for the T. O. Rush Company's premises were too attractive to leave. The efficient staff was most courteous in their efforts to make everyone feel at home, and altogether the opening was a record breaker in town.

The decorations were by Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, and of course were placed in the firm's well known artistic style.

Mr. T. O. Rush, manager of the new firm, left on the midnight train for Montreal to hurry forward more goods that did not arrive in time for the opening.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Susie M. Latimer and Rev. A. W. Coone, S. T. L.

(Napanee Beaver.)

A quiet wedding was celebrated Wednesday afternoon in the Western Methodist church, the contracting parties being Rev. A. W. Coone, S. T. L., and Miss Susie May Latimer, daughter of Mr. Wm. Latimer, of Thomas street. The officiating clergyman was Rev. J. A. McCamus, of Lakefield, and brother-in-law of the groom, while Rev. S. T. Barlett assisted in the ceremony. Only a few of the bride's more intimate friends were present at the wedding. Many more who have held the young couple in high esteem would have attended had they not understood that the proceedings were not open to all. The groom was attended by Mr. Fred Hooper, while Miss Maud Garrison waited on the bride. Both ladies were attired in dark blue travelling suits.

The newly married couple left on the 4.30 train for the west. Their immediate destination was Toronto; but after a few days' visit to other places they proceed to Manilla, where the groom's mother resides. Here a reception will be tendered them, and they will reach their field of work sometime during the ensuing week. Mr. Coone is a well known young minister of the Bay of Quinte Methodist Conference and is stationed on the Plainfield circuit, residing at Bewdley. Mrs. Coone has for years been an active worker in the choir, Sunday School and Epworth Leagues of the Western Methodist church, and is in every sense a fitting helpmate to her husband in the work of the pastorate. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy life together.

LORD MAYOR OF LONDON.

Title First Bestowed by Edward III. in 1354—some Interesting Historical Information—The City of London.

The new Sheriffs of London were sworn in on Saturday, 28th Sept., and the new Lord Mayor elected. After those important events the Shrieval breakfast took place at the Grocers' Hall, where a company of nearly three hundred assembled. The Sheriffs elected on Midsummer Day last were Mr. Alderman J. C. Bell and Mr. Alderman Horace B. Marshall, M.A., head of the large publishing firm that bears his name. The next Lord Mayor in rotation is Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, Alderman of the Cornhill Ward, and the junior representative of the city in Parliament. He is a banker, was knighted at the end of his year of office as Sheriff in 1894, is a Past Master of the Grocers' Company, a Past Grand Master of the Free Masons of England, and for five years represented the City Corporation in the London County Council.

The first municipal institutions of London were received from the Romans, and they have endured in their main features to the present day. In Saxon times it was in reality an independent state, and William the Conqueror only gained possession of the city by means of a treaty. About eight years after he granted a charter, which is still preserved, addressed to William the Bishop, Godfrey the Portreeve, and all the Burgesses, promising that they shall be "lawworthy" (i.e., possessed of privileges), as they were in the days of Edward the Confessor. The Portreeve, however, received the Norman title of bailiff, which in 1189 was changed to Mayor, the first holder of the title being Henry Fitzalwyn, who filled the office for 24 years. On his death a new charter was granted by King John in 1214, directing the Mayor to be chosen annually, as has ever since been done. The title of Lord Mayor was first bestowed in 1354 on Sir Thomas Legge by Edward III. Aldermen were first appointed by a charter of Henry III. in 1240, and were elected annually until 1394, when a charter from Richard II. directed them to be chosen for life

The Corporation of the City of London consists of the whole body of citizens or freemen, under the style of "the Mayor, commonalty and citizens." The small portion of London which is comprised within the city and its liberties is divided into 27 wards. Each of the wards—except two, which unite in this—elects one Alderman and a number of common Councillors, varying from four to sixteen. There are thus 26 Aldermen and 202 Councillors. An Alderman is elected for life, but the Councillors for one year, although eligible for re-election. The electors in each case are freemen, who may have obtained their freedom by birth, apprenticeship, purchase or gift, but who must be rated householders before they may vote at a ward-mote, as a ward meeting is termed. The Lord Mayor is elected by the Liverymen (members of Guilds) of the several companies assembled together at the Guildhall, and to be eligible must have served as Sheriff of London. The Livery may elect any Alderman so qualified, but they usually select the names of the two senior Aldermen who have not passed the civic chair. The names of the two selected men are then submitted to the general body of the Aldermen, who usually choose the first. The Lord Mayor elected is presented to the Lord Chancellor to receive the assent of the Crown to his election. He is sworn before the retiring Lord Mayor and Aldermen on November 8, and on November 9 is escorted by the citizens in the Lord Mayor's procession to the Royal Courts of Justice to be presented to the Lord Chief Justice and is again sworn. His public duties absorb all his time, and more than the income of his office, $10,000. He is expected to preside during the day over meetings for public and benevolent objects, and to take part in important ceremonies, to open schools, distribute prizes, initiate subscriptions for relief of distress, and at night to entertain eminent and distinguished personages at his official residence, or to preside at charity festivals. As head of the corporation he presides at Common Hall, the Court of Aldermen and the Court of Common Council. He presides at the Justice room of the Mansion House, and is first commissioner of the Central Criminal Court, a trustee of St. Paul's Cathedral, and a Governor of the Royal Hospitals and other institutions, and of several charities. He is head of the City Lieutenancy, is styled Right Honorable, and, although not of the Privy Council, he attends when, on the demise of the Crown, a new Sovereign is proclaimed, and at the coronation is present as chief butler, receiving therefor a golden cup and cover.

The Morning Bell.

The custom of ringing the church bell early in the morning to call people to work, though by no means common, is still kept up in many places, and so accustomed do people get to being roused by this means that, should the bell-ringer by any chance fail to turn up to his task, there are sure to be quite a number late at their work, and it is quite as well that the unfortunate ringer does not hear all the condemnations passed on him in consequence. At Bakewell the morning bell is rung at 5.45 o'clock every day throughout the year except Sundays, Christmas Day and Good Friday, and continues to ring until six o'clock.

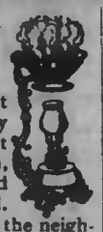
I took hospital treatment for nine months without relief, but a faithful trial of South American Rheumatic Cure permanently cured me." Relief at once. 60

Germs, Germs.



We hear a great deal about them these days, and rightly too; for they are the direct cause of whooping-cough, diphtheria scarlet fever and other diseases of childhood. When any of these are in the neighborhood, you should use Vapo-Cresolene. Every evening purify their sleeping rooms with this perfectly safe remedy. It is so easy to prevent the disease in this way. For whooping cough and croup, the doctors say it is a perfect specific. 13

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. Vapo-Cresolene Co. 70 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

INTERESTING FLAG EXHIBIT.

That of the Seminary of St. Sulpice in the City of Montreal.

During the recent visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall to Montreal, a church building had the most interesting exhibit of all. The building is the Seminary of St. Sulpice, which nestles in quaint, medieval form under the wing of old Notre Dame. The decorations consisted only of a score and a half flags hung over the high stone wall. They were overshadowed, eclipsed, by the displays around about, and the display was positively mean looking to the unobservant, but to the man of eyes the flags betray a history. The flags are white, yellow, blue, the English Jack, the French tricolor, and floating above all the white emblem of the society. The white flags are grey with age, the yellow discolored, and the national emblems look frayed and worn. That big white flag above has been in possession of the society in Montreal since the sixteenth century, when the pioneers of the great order landed at Hochelnga. It has floated from the tower on all church gala occasions. It has floated there with others during the celebration of Canadian victory in 1812. It flaunted in the breeze with the tricolor of France and the Jack of old England when Sebastopol was conquered, and it symbolized the joy of the priests when the Jubilee was celebrated.

Every flag that greeted the Duke of York has a history. Most of them greeted his royal father 41 years ago. The building itself has some pretension to historic interest beyond its age. Within those walls in 1776 Benjamin Franklin and his emissaries tried to seduce the Sulpicians from their allegiance to England's King—and failed most miserably to incite revolt.

BILE POISON IN THE SYSTEM

The Result of Deranged Liver—How the Other Organs are Affected—Dr. Chase's Treatment for the Liver.

No organ in the human body has a greater influence on the general health than the liver.

A torpid, sluggish liver leaves poisonous, morbid bile in the blood, which upsets the action of the whole sytem.

There is indigestion, fullness, fermentation, flatulency and oppression in the stomach.

The tongue is coated, the head aches and there is loss of sleep, depression of spirits, and spells of dizziness and weakness.

The bowels are constipated and loose by turns, and griping pains are frequent.

The skin tells of the poisonous state of the blood, by pimples, blotches and liver spots.

In sympathy with the liver the kidneys become clogged and inactive, the urine highly coloured, and there are pains in the back and under the left shoulder blade.

Shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart and derangements of the menstrual functions are among the symptoms of liver complaint.

You should not expect to find all these symptoms in any one case, but if any of them are present, it is time to take prompt action to relieve the system of these morbid poisons.

The liver must have assistance.

The process of restoration will be hastened if the kidneys are also invigorated and strengthened.

Both these filtering systems are acted on directly and promptly by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It is through the liver and kidneys alone that the blood can be freed of all impurities and the morbid matter which collects there when the liver is deranged.

Many a suffering man, many a despondent woman, has been cured of the above distressing ailments by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the only remedy that has a combined action on both liver and kidneys.

The wisdom of Dr. Chase in preparing this wonderful remedy has been proven in scores of thousands of cases of complicated diseases of the liver and kidneys, which could be reached by no other remedy.

You do not require faith to be cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The first dose will help you, and a few boxes at most will positively cure the most severe case of liver complaint or kidney disease. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or postpaid by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 7

Love's Vision Perverted.

Professor Dabney—Ah, well, love is blind.

Miss Penelope—Oh, no, professor. Love isn't blind; it's cross eyed. It sees a lot of things it doesn't see, and it doesn't see a lot of things it ought to see.—Life.

A Fool For a Physician.

Teaspout—Why are you so angry with the doctor?

Mrs. Teaspout—When I told him I had a terrible tired feeling, he told me to show him my tongue.

A SONG FOR SCHOOL.

Some boys, when they come into school
(And some girls, too),
I grieve to be obliged to say
That this is what they do:
They wiggle
And jiggle,
They hang their heads
And giggle;
They twitter
And titter,
They bounce and flounce
And flitter.
Whatever thoughts their mind may fill,
They've no idea of keeping still.

Some boys, when they take up their books
(And some girls, too),
I weep to be obliged to say
That this is what they do:
They batter them,
They tatter them,
They crumple, rumple,
Scatter them;
They scrawl them
And maul them;
They match and pull
And haul them.
It makes me very sad to state
A schoolbook's is a wretched fate.

—St. Nicholas.

Principal Requirement.

"How's your voice?" the superintendent inquired of the man who had applied for a position as conductor on the street car line.

"Excellent," replied the applicant. "I can call out the names of the streets so every one will understand."

"Oh, that's quite immaterial," returned the superintendent. "Let's hear how you would cry: 'Move up! There's lots of room in front!' That's what counts when it comes to packing a car."

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhozone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it cures. Price 25c. and $1 at druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Since Prices Went Up.

"Ma, ain't we goin' to have any pie for supper?"

"No; something more expensive than pie."

"Ice cream?"

"No; something that costs about four times as much as ice cream."

"Cake with red candles on it?"

"No. Mashed potatoes."

Kindly.

Miss Anteek—She's very rude. She told me yesterday that I was "a homely old thing."

Miss Goodheart—Yes, I heard her, and I took her to task for it afterward.

Miss Anteek—Did you, really?

Miss Goodheart—Yes. I told her she should think how sensitive you must be about it.—Philadelphia Press.

Rheumatic Pains Cured by Nerviline.

This is the testimony of Mr. Benj. Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., who says, "I feel it my duty to proclaim the marvellous value of Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for rheumatic pains—it cures them every time. Nothing I know equals them as a household liniment, and mothers should feel it as necessary as bread itself. Nerviline has cured rheumatism of forty years standing, and can cure you. Instant relief, absolute cure, large bottle, 25c.

Western Australia's Agent-General.

Mr. Henry Brues Lefroy, the newly-appointed London Agent-General for Western Australia, bears names long associated with the progress of that colony. His late father, Hon. A. O'Grady Lefroy, C.M.G., was for 36 years its treasurer under the old Crown colony system of government, while his grandfather, the late Colonel Bruce, commanded the forces there for many years, and was twice acting Governor. Born at Perth, Western Australia, in 1853, Mr. H. B. Lefroy was educated at Rugby, and returned to Australia in 1872. He entered Parliament on the adoption of responsible government, became Minister of Education in 1897, and held the portfolio of mines at the time of his new appointment.

Big Prices for London Land.

Fabulous prices are obtained for land in the city of London. That a freehold on Cornhill should have sold for a little over £53 3s. per square foot, is surprising, but not so much so as the sale of the St. Peter-upon-Cornhill land, which a few months ago brought over £60 a foot. Land within a furlong radius of the Bank of England is worth about 7s. an inch. Five hundred feet of land in Cheapside was sold recently for £13,000, or £26 a square foot.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

IN THE GLOAMING.

When the dusk is slowly creeping, shutting out the glare of day,
When the evening star in beauty trembles with refulgent ray;
When the violets' dewy fragrance subtly soothes the sting of pain,
Then the mind turns inward, backward, to the joys of youth again.

In that hour of dear communion with the voices of the past
Haunting memories throng upon us, bringing joys too sweet to last;
All the anguish of the present for a little space is flown,
And the soul goes forth unfettered to a kingdom of its own.

There is paid in the awaking when the hush of night is past,
And the morning brings its sorrows, and our dreams are overpast,
But the dear God sends his children, lest in trouble they forget,
Glimpses of foretasted heaven nightly when the sun has set.

—Anna C. Porter in Philadelphia Record.

THE ROPE FIRE ESCAPE.

It Would Seem to Be a Delusion and a Snare.

"Strange how people pin their faith to rope as a means of escape from burning buildings," remarked an officer of the fire department. "Hundreds of traveling men carry a coil of light rope habitually in one of their trunks and feel safe on the upper floors of hotels they know are mere deathtraps. A drummer of my acquaintance, who weighs fully 200 pounds and who has taken no exercise for the last twenty years, has a sample case with a special compartment containing fifty yards of silk lifeline, extremely light and strong.

"'Do you really think you could slide down on that in case of fire?' I asked him when he showed me the arrangement.

"'Why not?' he replied. 'It's been tested to three times my weight.'

"The only difficulty that occurred to him was the breaking of the line. That he would have no trouble hanging to it on the way down he took for granted. Now, as a matter of fact," continued the speaker, "a rope is the very worst fire escape imaginable. To begin with, a moment's reflection will show you that the chances are two to one that it will catch on fire and be destroyed before it can be used. The windows of nearly all buildings are arranged in straight vertical lines, one directly above the other, and a rope thrown out of an upper story would necessarily cross every casement on the way down. The probabilities are that some or all of them would be spouting flame and the rope would last about as long as a piece of pack thread.

"But, assuming the coast to be clear, a rope would be almost useless to anybody but a trained gymnast. The average man would find it physically impossible to let himself down hand over hand, and if he attempted to slide his palms would be flayed, and he would let go involuntarily before he went thirty feet. Gloves or cloth are no advantage, as we have proved by tests in the department. If they are thick enough to prevent abrasion, they will also prevent one from obtaining sufficient purchase to ease the descent.

"The only thing of any value in that respect is the handkerchief looped loosely around the rope and then tied firmly by both ends to the wrist. The loop will bind slightly in the descent and act as a brake. That is something, by the way, that is well worth remembering. Getting a hitch or two of the rope around one's leg is of no use whatever, unless somebody has hold of the lower end and is keeping it taut. Altogether, the rope escape is a delusion and a snare, and I wish the fact were generally understood, because the confidence that is reposed in it makes people careless of other and proper precautions."

Tides In Lakes.

Tides of the ocean, as every one knows, are the result of the unequal attractions of the sun and moon on the earth's surface, as compared with its center. As the proportionate difference on account of its lesser distance is greater in the case of the moon, its tide raising influence is rather more than twice as great as that of the sun, notwithstanding the dictum of the man who would not believe the moon had anything to do with it because he had seen tides when there was no moon.

Visitors to the lake country may not be aware that our small inland seas have tides which follow the moon with even more precision than the open ocean. The water in a lake "rocks" as though it were a solid mass, but slowly, the surface changing its level as the meridian of the lake alters its direction with regard to the moon. It requires, however, minute observation to detect this tide. So small is it that the difference between high and low water in a lake a hundred miles broad is little more than an inch.

In some of the lakes of Switzerland, besides the semidiurnal tide, phenomena have been observed, called locally seiches, in which the whole body of water rocks or vibrates in twenty minutes or half an hour

Poisoning In India.

In the middle ages the generally accepted way to get rid of an enemy was to poison him. That the practice has not been entirely discontinued is proved by the record of a year's poisoning cases in the Bombay Presidency, where the practice is still extensive.

Arsenic is the favorite agent, probably owing to the facility with which it can be procured and the rough similarity of the symptoms produced by it to those of disease. An official records one case where two beggars were drugged with opium in order that they might be robbed of eight annas (eightpence). The medico legal cases referred to in the report only show the cases which are brought to light, but it is a common opinion that the crime of poisoning is excessively frequent. These remarks apply to nearly all parts of India. Copper, cerbera, dhatura, mercury, phosphorus and ground glass are other poisons selected.

Bible Eating.

I am told by a lady resident that in the Hampshire parish in which I am writing there is living at the present time a good woman who once ate a New Testament, day by day and leaf by leaf, between two slices of bread and butter, as a remedy for fits. This was treating the Bible as a fetich with a vengeance.

The peanut, from its low estate, has arisen to a front rank in importance among dietetics. It is supposed to cure insomnia, if eaten just before retiring.

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Fashions In Jewelry and Hair Ornaments.

The summer low neck gowns call for necklaces. Strings of artificial pearls are now sold made in such a perfect manner that they defy detection when placed side by side with the real jewels. These strings of pearls are the prettiest things a woman can wear. They are ornamented with crystals or pearl pendants and art nouveau medallions. Pearls also look pretty in long ropes to be used as watch chains or simply allowed to hang carelessly after being wound twice around the neck.

The veil of the moment is of white chiffon with a black ring. The rings are rather large and are placed wide apart. Closely figured veils are no longer worn by fashionable women.

In regard to hair ornaments, flowers still lead. Huge black poppies spangled with rhinestone dewdrops are very effective, and so are black chrysanthemums, but the latter are extravagant to buy, as the petals soon lose their curl. Geraniums in all shades have to some extent taken the place of roses, which are now regarded as too common. Two of the latest artificial blossoms are morning glories and orchids.

PINK DINNER GOWN.

A very smart evening gown is the subject of today's sketch. It is made of pink crepe de chine trimmed with dainty black embroidery and yellow lace. The blouse waist is laid in tucks and is trimmed through the center with a broad band of pink taffeta edged by the black embroidery. The V neck is finished by a bertha of lace. The skirt is composed of an overskirt and two ruffles edged with the black embroidery. The sleeves are long, the upper half laid in fine tucks so as to form an elbow puff. JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Largest Building.

The largest building ever erected was the temporary structure known as the Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building at the Columbian Exposition at Chicago, 1893. It was 787 feet wide, 1,687 feet long, 203 feet high, covered 30½ acres and had 44 acres of floor space, including galleries.

The Secret

Of womanly health would be esteemed as priceless by thousands of suffering women. Each month sees them moaning in a darkened room. At the best they endure pain every day. At the worst the pain becomes torment.

The secret of womanly health is in keeping the womanly organism in a perfectly healthy state. This can be done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It regulates the periods, dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Women suffering from chronic forms of disease are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential and womanly confidences are guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Accept no substitute for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing else "just as good" for womanly ailments.

"I suffered for more than ten years with female weakness of very bad form," writes Mrs. D. Marwood, of Treherne, Macdonald Co., Manitoba. "I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' with good results. I am able to do all my own work now. I do not know how to thank you enough for the kind advice you have sent me by letter. Your remedies did for me more than all other doctor's medicines, and I have taken lots of them."

DOCTORS IN CONSULTATION

Trying Position of a Man Traveling on a Borrowed Pass.

"Traveling on another fellow's pass is sometimes a dangerous thing," said a well known man. "Not long ago I had occasion to go out of town and borrowed a pass from a friend of mine who is a physician in addition to being one of those favored by the railroad for political reasons. The conductor took up the pass, with the others, for overnight, as is the custom, and I thought everything was all right. But about 3 o'clock in the morning I was aroused from a sound slumber in my berth by some one shaking me. I looked up, startled. It was the conductor.

"'Sorry to disturb you, doctor,' he said, 'but there's a man in the car very sick. Won't you take a look at him?'

"'Here's a pretty fix,' thought I. 'But I'll have to make the bluff good or forfeit the pass.' So I got up, slipped on my clothes and looked at the patient. He was breathing heavily. I felt his pulse, solemnly measured it by my watch and then said, as though I knew just what ailed him, 'Is there any one here who has a flask?' I had half a dozen offers in a minute. 'Give him two teaspoonfuls of whisky every ten minutes,' said I, 'and bathe his head with ice water.' I knew that prescription wouldn't hurt him, anyway. After the first dose the patient rallied, and I was just congratulating myself when the conductor came up with another passenger.

"'Here's a fellow physician, doctor,' he said. 'Perhaps a consultation will be in order.'

"I shook hands with the newcomer, trembling in my boots. 'What have you given him, doctor?' he asked sharply. I told him. 'Excellent,' he said. The patient got better, and the next morning when we had alighted at Pittsburg, the joke being too good to keep, I made a clean breast of it to the physician. He laughed. 'So you're not a doctor at all, eh?' he said. Then he laughed again and looked about him cautiously. 'Say, old man,' he said in a whisper, 'that's a good one. Neither am I.'"—Philadelphia Times.

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the kidneys and liver, Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cts. a box.

No Rest For Him.

"John," she said to the dying husband, "you will soon be in the glories of the promised land. As soon as you get there I want you to send me word—some message—some token!"

"For heaven's sake, Molly," was the reply, "ain't you never goin' to give me a holiday?"

Quick Work.

"You," said the angry customer to the clerk, "said this cloth was fast color, and it faded out within two weeks after it was made up."

"Well, madam," replied the clerk, "I don't think you ought to have expected it to fade any faster than that."

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

THE ANATOMY OF THE STOMACH

The stomach is the principal, although not the only, organ of digestion. It is about 12 inches long and four inches in diameter at the largest end. It is shaped like a pear, with large end and entrance to the left, and the small end and exit to the right. In the stomach all solid foods are dissolved, and made ready to be mixed with the bile and pancreatic juices in the second stomach and bowels. If the food is not dissolved in the stomach, it is not dissolved at all, but passes entirely through the system without in any way enriching the body.

Hence the importance of a healthy stomach. The principle trouble is weakness of the muscles of which the stomach is composed, and lack of sensitiveness to the nerves which cause the gastric or food dissolving juices to flow. Two principal features are thus demanded of a stomach remedy. Merrill's System Tonic embodies these features exactly. It tones the muscles and enriches and restores the nerves; not in a transitory, but in a lasting manner. Take it when sour eructation, heartburn, gas on the stomach, pains in the stomach, sense of heaviness in the stomach and a general unpleasant feeling, indicate that your stomach is out of condition. You'll be delighted with the results and pleased to find that you can eat a hearty meal and enjoy it.

Each 50c. bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

GRAFTON & CO'S ENTERPRISE.

Too Ambitious for the "Ambitious City."

Hamilton claims the title of the "Ambitious City" yet it seems that enterprise can be too ambitious to suit the ideas of the city enthusiasts.

The special window attraction of Messrs. Grafton & Co., in Hamilton, met the disapproval of the minions of the law and consequently the manager of the Hamilton branch figuratively languishes in prison according to the following report of the incident: "T. W. Barry, manager of Grafton & Co's clothing store, Hamilton, has been summoned on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk by having a man in his window to attract a crowd. A fine point of law will be raised by defendant's counsel. The man in question was painted to represent a wax figure. He attracted hundreds of persons around the window, blocking traffic. The charge was laid by Constable Lawry, acting on instructions from Chief Smith." The investigation of the charge laid will naturally involve a fine point of law as to how far the enterprise of advertisers may go. However, the prosecution will serve the end aimed at, for the public attention attracted to the trial will constitute a better advertisement than half a dozen wax "figgers."

"T. W. Barry, the manager of Grafton & Co's store was charged at the police court yesterday morning with obstructing the sidewalk by placing in his window a wax figure, which attracted a crowd on the sidewalk. He asked for an enlargement, as his counsel could not be present. Mr. Barry said he was under the impression he had a right to make a display in the window. The magistrate told Barry that the English courts have held that an attraction in a window which causes crowds to congregate and thus stops traffic is illegal. Mr. Barry said he would abide by the ruling, and the case was allowed to stand."

NEW DRESS ERA.

Corsets to be Abandoned and the Wearing of Veils Prohibited.

According to Octave Uzanne, the well-known critic of Parisian life and manners, the French capital is destined ere long to lose its renown in the matter of feminine dress, since the French woman's costume is rapidly approaching the convenience and hygienic character of masculine attire. M. Uzanne, who has made a close study of the gradual evolution of French modes, declares in an article that has just appeared in the Revue Contemporaine that before ten years have elapsed rigidly short skirts will become the fashion on all occasions, while corsets will ere long be abandoned, and the custom of wearing veils prohibited by the health department.

Immense Yield in the Marshes.

There is a superabundance of cranberries this season, the marshes of the back country having yielded a greater crop than has been known for many years. The market has been overstocked, and it is difficult to make sales, except in small quantities, at 7 and 8 cents a quart. In a certain locality one man picked 40 bushels for the local markets.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

The Ottawa papers evidently imagine that there is a great probability of their team defeating Peterborough on Saturday. Here is what the Free Press says: — "The senior Ottawas are taking life easy as they have no match to play on Saturday. Only a few players were out in Cartier Square last night. The intermediates are working hard however to get in shape for their match Saturday with Peterborough in that town. The team placed on the field last week was a poorly conditioned one and every effort is being made to have that defect remedied. The fifteen will also be strengthened for the occasion. Morgans and Hutton who were with the seniors in Hamilton last Saturday will play intermediate and President Cameron may enter the scrimmage. With Harry Kruntz and Dug. Lyon the Ottawa trio should have matters their own way. If Peterborough can be defeated the intermediate championship should be brought to Ottawa."

There was an excellent practice on the P.A.A.A. grounds yesterday afternoon, nearly every man on the first team was out and the boys worked very hard.

There will be a practice in the drill shed this evening. Every member should be present.

The membership tickets are being disposed of to the townspeople and are moving off quite satisfactorily. However, anyone who is anxious to subscribe to the funds of the Club and who has not done so, their donations will be thankfully received.

A letter was received from the Ottawa Club to-day stating that Mr. Eddie Gleason would referee the match here on Saturday.

Charlie McLean, the G.T.R. paddler, got his shoulderbone broken in a Britannia practice last week.

If the O.R.F.U. Exective would engage collegians like Mr. Brown of Varsity to referee their matches, it would be a good thing. — Kingston Whig.

Granites won because of superior team play. They had a system, while Argonauts had none. The latter were completely at sea on many occasions, and seemed unable to take advantage of any chances.—Kingston Whig.

Ottawa College Rugby team has a good goal-keeper in Callaghan. Out of five tries secured by the team Saturday he converted four, which certainly entitles him to honourable mention and the first place in that line in Canada.

It is just possible that Eddie Gleason, the great, will be out playing football with Ottawa College team this season, and it would not be surprising were Tom Clancy to decide to resume the Rugby gear once more. If such should happen Varsity would certainly be in a position to put up an imposing front for the closing games of 1901.—Ottawa Citizen.

The tickets to the Rugby match, Ottawa vs. Peterborough, may be procured at Ormond & Walsh's drug-store.

CURLING.

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association which was held in Toronto this week, Lieut.-Col. E. B. Edwards, of town, was elected to the position of president. This is an honour of which not only Lieut.-Col. Edwards and the Granite Curling Club should feel proud, but it is an honour that curlers and citizens of the town in general will look upon with pride. Col. Edwards has for many years been a very enthusiastic curler and has taken a prominent part in the affairs of the Association. Mr. J. S. Russell, who for 2- years has filled the position of secretary has retired and is succeeded by Mr. Jas. A. McFadden, who is well known in hockey, lacrosse and curling circles throughout Canada.

LACROSSE.

Having won the Junior Championship of the Canadian Lacrosse Association with a record of 14 straight wins for the season, the Bracebridge Lacrosse Club think they are entitled to a match with the intermediate or senior winners on neutral grounds, and would like to hear from either Stratford or Orangeville on the subject. Satisfactory arrangements might be made for a game in Toronto.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

This is the season for potting and re-potting the flowers and preparing them for their winter quarters. Nothing in the line of house decorating gives such life and glow to the rooms as flower-filled windows. Indians Dying Off.

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—The census returns for the Northwest Territories are complete, with the exception of three sub-divisions in East Assiniboia, and six in Saskatchewan, and schedules for some Indian reserves. The total number of Indians returned to the present time is 4,627 for Saskatchewan, 2,420 for East Assiniboia and 1,519 for Alberta, the last named including the population of only two reserves. This is about 5,500 less than the Indian population of the same territories, as published in the report of the Indian Affairs for 1900.

LESSAR AND LI HUNG

Russian and Chinamen Negotiating Concerning Manchuria.

CONVENTION CLEVERLY WORDED

On Same Lines as That Withdrawn by Russia on April 8—Jealous Secrecy Observed—Earl Li Hung Chang Entrusted With Carrying Out Russian Projects—Prince Ching Indignantly in Opposition.

London, Oct. 17.—"The new Manchurian convention, which has been the subject of negotiation between M. Paul Lessar (Russian Minister to China) and Li Hung Chang is on the same lines as the convention which Russia withdrew April 5," says the Pekin correspondent of The Times, "but it is more cleverly worded so as to save China's face.

"In consequence of previous disclosures a jealous secrecy has been observed, but the important negotiations by which Russia seeks to legalize her occupation of Manchuria have been entrusted to Li Hung Chang, who can be better trusted to serve Russian interests than any other Chinese statesman.

LI HUNG CHANG.

"Prince Ching is indignant because he has been kept in ignorance, and both the Yangtse viceroys have twice protested against the negotiations. The same powerful opposition that was employed before is again endeavoring to prevent the signature of the convention, but Russia's promise to restore the railway from Shan Hai Kwan to Nieu Chwang is a powerful lever in the hands of M. Lessar."

Court Is Fatigued.

Pekin, Oct. 16.—The court arrived at Tung Kuan Friday last, Oct. 11, and will remain there for several days in order to recuperate from the fatigue due to traveling over the execrable roads.

Shot Away His Face.

Fort Erie, Ont., Oct. 17.— Young Simons, son of the proprietor of a restaurant at Erie Beach, went out shooting on Monday last, and as he did not return at night, his friends went in search of him, when he was found in the woods with his face badly shot to pieces. It is supposed the gun was in some way discharged while being loaded. Simons was a young man some 17 or 18 years of age.

Fourteen Peasants Killed.

London, Oct. 17.—"The Lemerg papers report bread riots at Taraskova, Eastern Russia," says the Vienna correspondent of The Daily Mail. "In Samara the starving peasants stormed the municipal buildings, and the residences of wealthy persons, setting some on fire. Troops were summoned, and 14 peasants were killed."

Watch Canadian Cattle.

London, Oct. 17.—At a meeting of the Aberdeen Harbor Commissioners Mayor Lyon suggested that the committee should be continued to watch over the cattle question. He also urged that the commissioners should make application for a license being granted for the landing and slaughter of fat cattle.

—Might as well have one! Charley LeGros gives away free a cute little pocket moustache comb, in a neat case, with every 25c. worth of work you get done in his Tony Tonsorial Parlour. Go and get one.

FOR HER BROTHER.

Sixty Square Inches of Cuticle Taken From Brave Miss Mitchell.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—Last July Arthur Mitchell, the 9-year-old son of H. R. Mitchell, dry goods dealer, 595 Wellington street, was severely injured by a railway car near his home, losing his left arm and having a large piece of flesh cut out of his left thigh.

In order that the raw wounds might be skinned over, his sister, Matilda, 17 years of age, offered herself as a subject, and yesterday the hospital doctors removed 60 square inches cuticle from her body and grafted it upon the brother.

Robbed a Comrade.

Windsor, Oct. 17.—A sequel to the grand military review held in Toronto Friday last when the Duke of Cornwall and York inspected 12,000 troops, came up in the Police Court yesterday morning. A. Barber of the Essex Fusiliers was charged with having stolen $35 from the pocket of Hugh McDowell, a comrade, with whom he slept while the regiment was domiciled in the carriage building on the Exposition Grounds. Barber pleaded guilty. He paid into court $18, and promised to produce the balance within a few days. Under the circumstances, the court suspended sentence. Col. Guillott, who was in court, says he will dismiss Barber from the regiment.

MILL REMNANTS

Of Fine All-Wool Tweeds and Worsteds

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to close out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than One-Half the Regular Mill Prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town.

Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 50c. Cloths worth 75c and 80c per yard for 35c.

Other qualities proportionately reduced. These Mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing.

Whole Suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $18 to $19, for only $14.00

Trousers made to order, worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25

Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance.

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

500 BOERS AT THE SEA

Commando of That Strength Reported at Saldanha Bay.

BRISK FIGHT NEAR PIQUETBERG

Capt. Bellew and Four Other British Were Killed and Several Others Were Wounded—Boers' Agricultural Operations in Orange River Colony—Boers Shift Their Camps by Night.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—The invaders have reached the sea, a commando of 500 men having penetrated the rich Great Berg River valley to Hopefield and Saldanha Bay, northwest of Cape Town.

The Republicans have secured a number of recruits and considerable quantities of supplies. Gen. French is directing the operations against them.

Brisk Fight Near Piquetberg.

Cape Town, Oct. 17.—In a brisk fight at Twenty-Four Streams, near Piquetberg, yesterday, Capt. Bellew and four other British were killed and several others were wounded.

The British having surprised several camps, the Boers are now in the habit of shifting camp by night. Lately the British columns, after long night marches, have arrived at their objectives only to find the Boers gone.

British columns penetrating Orange River Colony, miles from the railways, find fields of maize or freshly plowed lands, the Boers making off at their approach and returning when the columns pass on. The herds on the high veit still seem to be numerous. The Boers are living on cattle and mealies, stored in out-of-the-way places.

Teddy May Take a Hand.

Washington, D.C., Oct. 18.—It is firmly believed in certain official circles that Great Britain would welcome intervention in the South African war, if the tender of good offices were made by such a friendly Government as the United States.

The story last night was that our representatives at Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg have been directed to diplomatically sound those governments as to their attitude. Upon their advice it is said President Roosevelt will base action, permitting them to overcome strong personal desires if the reports should be of an adverse character.

Wearing Bandoliers.

Klerksdorp, Oct. 17.—A party of Boers were discovered on some islands in the Vaal River, near Parys. A detachment of Yeomanry was sent across the river to prevent their retreat. Wearing nothing but their bandoliers the Yeomen stormed the islands, and eventually captured 25 of the enemy.

Reinforcements Going.

London, Oct. 18.—The War Office has completed arrangements for nine more vessels with reinforcements of men and horses to leave for South Africa, Oct. 30.

As some of the largest transports have not yet been allotted their loads it is impossible to give the exact number of men and horses, but the reinforcements include drafts of mounted infantry, regular cavalry, engineers and shoeing-smiths.

Mounted Men Wanted.

London, Oct. 18.—The following extract from a letter written by an officer at the front to his parents in England indicates that Lord Kitchener is still short of mounted men, and that convoys have to run considerable risks on that account:

"We left Krugersdorp to take a convoy through to Rustenburg, consisting of four companies of infantry, one field gun, and a dozen irregular horse."

Did He Expect a Plumb?

Winnipeg, Oct. 18.—Trooper Pouncett, just arrived from South Africa, advises Canadians not to join the Baden-Powell Police, as the treatment is not what it should be.

Col. Hudon Ill.

Kingston, Oct. 18. — Lieut.-Col. Hudon is sick at his residence. When he was in Toronto at the royal review he refused to take the South African medal offered him. His reason was that officers his junior, who had seen little or no service, were decorated with C. M. G., or raised a grade, while he fought at the front and was not remembered except by receiving a medal such as given to ordinary soldiers. Lieut.-Col. Hudon commanded "C" Battery, which marched through Rhodesia and participated in the relief of Mafeking.

Nissen Takes Soundings.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 18.—Nissen, the Niagara navigator, got up steam in his little craft yesterday and made a short trip in the whirlpool about 200 feet away from the Canadian shore in his trip around the pool. The Fool-Killer behaved first-class in the swirling waters of the pool and Nissen intends to make some good soundings of the depth of the water. In fact he made a few soundings yesterday afternoon. As soon as he finishes his work he will make his figures public.

Would Try Winter Navigation.

Quebec, Oct. 18.—Captain Bernier is not only prepared to take in the North Pole, but he is, he states, also ready to try winter navigation from Quebec to the Gulf, provided he is furnished with a steamer similar to the Polavis or the Polavis itself. He said that he would be ready in January or February to embark all the newspaper men on board his vessel, and take them on a visit to Anticosti. He was sanguine of being able to go there and back within eight days.

Schley's Side of the Story.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The presentation of Admiral Schley's side of the controversy was continued before the Schley Court of Inquiry yesterday, eight witnesses being examined. Of these, five were ensigns, and the entire eight had served on board the Brooklyn with Admiral (then Commodore) Schley.

Milking by Machinery.

Paris, Oct. 18.—One of the novel inventions at Islington Fair is an apparatus which, by means of pulsators, milks cows and effects considerable saving in time and labor. At first cows do not take kindly to the new machine, but it is said that they quickly get accustomed to it, and then prefer it to the hand method.

Threats Against King Edward.

Dublin, Oct. 18.—Judge O'Connor Morris, at the opening of the Roscommon sessions yesterday, said he had received documents purporting to emanate from the United Irish League, marked with a coffin and containing diabolical threats against King Edward.

Ponton Goes to South America.

Belleville, Oct. 18.—W. H. Ponton left yesterday for Bocas, Del Toro, South America, where he has secured a lucrative situation.

The triennial convention of the Episcopal Church of America has adjourned sine die. The next convention is to be held in Boston in 1904

OVER INTERCOLONIAL

The Royal Party Have a Pleasant Trip to St. John, N.B.

SPEEDED BY CHEERS ON WAY

A Civic Address Read at St. John and Five Others Handed In—British Army and Navy Veterans of Massachusetts Present an Address and Are Presented With a Color—Military Presentations.

Moncton, N. B., Oct. 18.—The royal train proceeded on its journey to the Maritime Provinces Wednesday night, the carriages conveying the Duke and Duchess being transferred to the Intercolonial Railway, that being the fourth road which the royal party has used in its transcontinental trip, the other roads being the C. P. R., the G. T. R. and the Michigan Central. The departure of the royal train from Chaudiere Junction was witnessed by a large crowd, which had been attracted by the presence of the royal visitors. A hearty cheer was given on the train pulling out for the Maritime Provinces. The run throughout the night was uneventful.

At 2 o'clock the train had arrived at Rimouski, where, despite the late hour, a considerable crowd had gathered. At Beaver Brook, some 400 miles from Chaudiere Junction, the royal train stopped for an hour, while the Duke and Duchess and royal suite breakfasted. The Governor-General's train, bearing the Countess Minto, Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, and a distinguished party, which preceded the royal train by 30 minutes, stopped at Newcastle for breakfast.

At Moncton, 490 miles from Chaudiere Junction, a splendid welcome was given the royal party. Moncton is the headquarters of the Intercolonial, and at this point there was a fine turnout of railway employes and citizens generally. The station platform was packed with a surging mass of people as the royal train passed through.

At 2 o'clock the party arrived at St. John, N. B., where the Duke and Duchess were received by the Lieut.-Governor and his Ministers. The royal carriage, with out-riders in scarlet, was in readiness at the station, and the procession immediately formed.

At Exhibition grounds the civic address was read and five others handed in. After this a small deputation of the British Army and Navy Veterans' Association of Massachusetts, stepped forward and was presented with a color without further ceremony.

Mr. Lumb, of Massachusetts, who was born on the same day and hour as Queen Victoria, accompanied the deputation.

Following this, at 3 o'clock, was the presentation of colors by the Duke to the 62nd Regiment on Barracks square.

The troops on parade were 50 Hussars, five regiments and bearer company. His Royal Highness was received by the troops in line of quarter columns. There was also a presentation of colors and medals, including a sword of honor to Capt. Jones for good service at Paardeberg. Her Royal Highness was afterwards presented with a muff and boa of New Brunswick mink and ermine from the ladies of St. John, at Caverhill Hall. A reception in the Exhibition buildings in the evening concluded the day's proceedings.

Halifax will be the next and final point to be visited.

NO EVIL DESIGNS.

Suspicious Characters With Revolvers on Person Released at Barrie.

Barrie, Oct. 18.—The two men who were seen lurking about the Grand Trunk switches here early on Thursday morning, Oct. 10, shortly before the royal train arrived, and who were arrested on suspicion of having some evil designs against the ducal party, came up on remand in the Police Court yesterday. When searched on the morning of their arrest three revolvers, a dirk and a large amount of ammunition was found on them. In court yesterday they said they were only trappers and hunters, and were on their way north on a hunting expedition when arrested, and that they had no evil intentions regarding the Duke. There was no evidence put in to disprove their story, and the men were accordingly discharged from custody.

Duke's Escort Returns.

London, Oct. 18.—No. 1 Company, R.C.R.I., which since the arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York in Canada last month, has performed escort and guard duty at Ottawa and Toronto, returned to London last evening. The full band of the 7th Regiment was at the C.P.R. depot to meet the gallant warriors, and marched them to Wolseley Barracks, where they were given a royal welcome.

Found a Pot of Gold.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—William Howard, who works in McLaren's mill at East Templeton, and owns lot 14 in the first range of Templeton Township, claims to have discovered a pot of gold on his farm. He refuses to tell what the value of the gilded find is.

MAGICAL

is the effect produced on a big family wash by a single cake of SURPRISE soap.

The housewife's labor is reduced one half; the original snowy whiteness is restored to the linens without boiling or hard rubbing and the disagreeable odors so noticeable with other soaps is done away with entirely.

And yet it costs no more than ordinary soaps.

VERY FEW LOTS.

There are very few desirable building lots in the centre of this town at a moderate cost. We have two on the Kingan block, 75 feet of a front on Brock, with a very valuable well of pure spring water, and 50 feet front on Stewart street. These lots being high, dry and central, for all purposes, they should sell quickly or for a very profitable investment. See them at once, and then call at our office for price and terms.

MILES VARY IN LENGTH.

Seventeen Countries That Have Special Measurements of Their Own—Good Article to Cut Out and Keep.

English speaking countries have four different miles — the ordinary mile of 5,280 feet and the geographical or nautical mile of 6,085, making a difference of about one-seventh between the two; then there is the Scotch mile of 5,928 feet and the Irish mile of 6,720 feet — four various miles, every one of which is still in use. Then almost every country has its own standard mile. The Romans had their mil passuum, 1,000 paces, which must have been about 3,000 feet in length, unless we ascribe to Caesar's legionaries great stepping capacity. The German mile of to-day is 24,318 feet in length, more than four and a half times as long as our mile.

The Dutch, the Danes and the Prussians enjoy a mile that is 18,440 feet long, three and one-half times the length of ours, and the Swiss get more exercise in walking one of their miles than we get in walking five miles, for their mile is 9,153 yards long, while ours is only 1,760 yards. The Italian mile is only a few feet longer than ours; the Roman mile is shorter, while the Tuscan and the Turkish miles are 150 yards longer. The Swedish mile is 7,341 yards long and the Vienna post mile is 8,796 yards in length. So here is a list of 12 different miles, and besides this there are other measures of distance, not counting the French kilometer, which is rather less than two-thirds of a mile.

The Brazilians have a milia that is one and one-fourth times as long as our mile; the Neapolitan miglio is about the same length; the Japanese ri, or mile, is two and one-half times ours; the Russian verst is five-eighths as long as our mile, while the Persian standard is a fesakh, four and a half miles long, which is said to be equal to the parasang so familiar to the readers of Xenophon's "Anabasis." The distance indicated by the league also varies in different countries.

Shot Him With a Camera.

During the siege of Mafeking the trenches had grown very close to each other; in fact, so near that conversations could be shouted across the intervening space. An Englishman called out:

"Hey, I say! One of you Boers stand up, and I'll take a photograph of you."

"Have you got a camera?" came back the reply in good English.

"Yes."

"You won't shoot me if I stand up, upon your word?"

"No, we won't shoot."

"Pass it down the line."

The word was passed down the line, and soon it was shouted back that it was all right. At that a young Boer about 23 rose out of the trenches and stood buttoning his jacket in full view. Straightening his 6 feet 8 inches, he smiled pleasantly and said to the Englishman with the camera, who had now stood up:

"TURN A LITTLE MORE SIDEWAYS, THERE."

"How will you have it?"

"Turn a little more sideways. There!"

Click.

"Thanks."

"Send me a picture!" called the young Boer as he jumped back into the trenches.

"What name?" asked the photographer.

"Pretorius," came the answer.

Nothing showed now above the ground for a few minutes, and then one of the Englishmen lifted his hat on a stick and promptly got a bullet through it.

City That Likes Light.

There are probably few cities in the world that are better lighted to-day than the City of Mexico. This city spends more than $26,000 a month for light, using 501 arc lights of 2,000 candle power and 383 of 1,200 candle power in addition to a considerable number of smaller incandescent lights for some of the narrow streets and small squares. During the month of March the large arc lights were burned on an average of 10 hours and 18 minutes per day at an average cost of 11.7 cents per hour. The average cost per hour of the 1,200 candle power lights was 7.48 cents. Both sums are given in Mexican silver.—Modern Mexico.

The Three Stages.

For the early stage, Scott's Emulsion is a cure. For the second stage, it cures many. And for the last stages of consumption it soothes the cough and prolongs the life.

Both Are Well.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 17.—During the night another letter from Miss Ellen M. Stone's companion, Madame Tsilka, was found pasted on her parent's door, announcing that Madame Tsilka had given birth to a child, and that both the infant and the mother were doing well.

Baby's cold may be cured in a night by using Vapo-Cresolene, which has been extensively in use for twenty-four years. All druggists.

That Whoop!

Have you had it in your house? It's cough and cough and cough, and then that terrible whoop! Don't upset the stomach more by giving nauseous medicine. Just let the child breathe in the soothing vapor of Vapo-Cresolene. It goes right to the spot that's diseased. Relief is immediate, and in a very few days the cure is complete. You can't say the same of any other treatment. For asthma, catarrh, and colds it's equally good. 14

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Recommended and sold in Peterborough by H. H. Edmison, druggist.

A GLORIOUS LAND.

There is a beautiful land in a northern clime,
Where the pine grows tall and strong,
And the moose deer roves thru the maple groves,
With his limbs so lithe and long;
Where the beaver dams the silver creek,
And the buffalo was wont to roam;
Where the cascade leaps from the dazzling heights,
To be lost in the feathery foam.
Then row me o'er to Canada's shore,
To the land I love the best;
For beneath her pine and maple groves
I would lay my bones to rest

There are prairies vast, with their waving grass,
Where the browsing herds are seen,
Where fields of waving, golden grain
Do nod to the shimmering sheen
Of the silvery moon, in an azure sky,
And the bright aurora's gleam;
Like the gates ajar in the heavenly land,
I see thee in my dreams.
Then row me o'er to you bright shore,
To the land I love the best,
'Neath the maple leaf and the golden sheaf,
I would lay me down to rest.

The dancing waves of yon inland sea
Are lost on the shimmering sand,
While the wavelets glint in the golden sun,
Like a gleam from the fairy land.
There are the floral bowers in her forest glades,
And the song of her mighty rivers;
The thundering boom of the great cataract,
Which goes on and on forever.
Then row me o'er to Canada's shore,
To the dearest spot on earth,
To the land of heroes brave and true,
To the land which gave me birth.

The stalwart sons of Canadian soil
Shall shoulder to shoulder stand,
With their thews of iron and sinews of steel,
For the good of the mother land;
For the good of the land which gave them birth,
The land of corn and wine,
The land of gold and gigantic weld,
Where the circling ivies twine.
Then row me back to the land I love,
Oh, row me o'er the river,
To the land of the maple, the land of the free—
O Canada for ever!

New Vital Force for Cells and Tissues.

Chronic Disease Overthrown and the Whole System Revitalized and Reconstructed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Disease is a tearing down, wasting away, and destroying of the tissues of the body, and a shrivelling up of the nerve cells and blood corpuscles. This wasting process may attack the lungs, the heart, the liver, the kidneys, the bowels, or, as is most frequently the case, result in collapse of the nervous system, prostration, paralysis, or insanity.

You may rest assured that disease will search out your weak spot and gradually gain the upper hand. Nature alone cannot end this wasting process. External assistance is absolutely necessary, as you know too well, if you have been observant of what is going on around you. As a result of centuries of investigation and research, science now offers certain restoratives and revitalizers which have a wonderfully beneficial effect on a weakened and run-down system. These are combined in the most successful proportions in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which is by far the most thoroughly effective tissue builder and nerve restorative that is known to the medical profession to-day.

Mr. Joseph Geroux, 22 Metcalf street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:—

"I was nervous, had headache and brain fag. I was restless at night and could not sleep. My appetite was poor, and I suffered from nervous dyspepsia. Little business cares worried and irritated me. After having used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two months, I can frankly say that I feel like a new man. My appetite is good, I rest and sleep well, and this treatment has strengthened me wonderfully. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is certainly the best medicine I ever used, and I say so because I want to give full credit where it is due."

At least nine-tenths of the ailments from which people are suffering and dying to-day are the result of thin, watery blood, exhausted nerve force, and general debility of the body. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops this wasting process, puts new life and energy into the wasted nerve cells, fills the shrivelled arteries with rich life-sustaining blood, and overcomes disease. It will be interesting to note the gradual increase in weight while using the famous food cure.

Blunt.

"I should like to go to my mother-in-law's funeral this afternoon sir," said the bookkeeper to the "old man."

"So should I," replied the proprietor as he turned to his desk again.

As His Folks View It.

No man ever fell in love with a woman whom his folks didn't like. He merely becomes "infatuated" with her. —Boston Transcript.

A Little Management.

Minks—Say, Winks, my wife tells me that new servant girl you have is a thief, and you'd better be on your guard.

Winks—I suspected as much. Been missing all sorts of things. But she's so efficient and respectful my wife won't get rid of her.

Minks—She'd send her flying if you'd use a little management.

Winks—What shall I do?

Minks—Kiss your wife in the dark some night and pretend you think it's the servant girl.

Girl's Essay on Boys.

The boy is not an animal, yet they can be heard to a considerable distance. When a boy hollers, he opens his big mouth like frogs, but girls hold their tongue till they are spoken to, and they answer respectable and tell just how it was. A boy thinks himself clever because he can wade where the water is deep. When the boy grows up, he is called a husband, and he stops wading and stays out at nights, but the grown up girl is a widow and keeps house.

Unanswered Questions.

"I wonder why it is," said the man who is always annoyed, "that children and parrots pick up slang so much more readily than they do good English?"

"And I have wondered," said the mild gentleman with spectacles, "why it is that grown people find it so easy to remember the refrain of a silly song and so difficult to recall the text of a sermon?"

A Bargain.

"Say, Jimmie, if you'll gimme a bite of that apple I'll promise ter tell yer all about the circus if pa takes me ter see it."

Rheumatic Pains Cured by Nerviline.

This is the testimony of Mr. Benj. Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., who says, "I feel it my duty to proclaim the marvellous value of Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for rheumatic pains—it cures them every time. Nothing I know equals them as a household liniment, and mothers should feel it as necessary as bread itself. Nerviline has cured rheumatism of forty years standing, and can cure you. Instant relief, absolute cure, large bottle, 25c.

A Rattlesnake's Wisdom.

The writer of this rode bronchos and "punched" cattle on the ranges of Montana and Wyoming twenty years ago and had ample opportunity to study the habits of rattlesnakes. He knows how they went into their holes then, and it is doubtful if any improvement has since been made in their method. They start in head first, and one would promptly come to the conclusion that they reach the bottom of their holes in this manner, but Mr. Snake is too wily to keep his head where he cannot have an eye on the rest of his body; therefore as soon as he enters the hole a few inches he makes a half turn which brings his head to the entrance again and then permits the remainder of his length to glide down out of sight—a very simple performance, you will see. —Exchange.

When Grace Was Said.

A Barnard college girl tells in the New York Times of visiting in a household where grace was said at the table semioccasionally. Her curiosity got the better of her, and she asked the mistress of the house why they didn't observe the rite regularly. "Why," said the lady with some surprise, "we say grace only when we have reason to be thankful. We never dream of giving thanks when we have only roast beef or beefsteak or some simple thing like that; but whenever we have game or something really nice then we say grace, for it's worth while."

Cupid's Guide.

"In all my life," she said, with a sigh, "I have seen only one man that I would care to marry."

"Did he look like me?" he carelessly asked.

Then she flung herself into his arms and wanted to know what secret power men possess that enables them to tell when they are loved

Pens.

In 1820 pens began to be made by Gillott, who manufactured them of steel finely tempered. The pen was handmade throughout and, though very inferior to the machine made article of the present day, was still a great advance upon the iron barreled pens that had been previously made.

At Breakfast.

"Bridget, did you call the boys?"

"Indade an' O! called thim iverything O! cud think of, but they wudn't git up."—Brooklyn Life.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people suffer, he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for anyone to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents, at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BONES TO BE RE-INTERRED.

An Interesting International Military Ceremony at Lundy's Lane.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 18.—Saturday, Oct. 19, promises to be the red letter day in the history of Niagara Falls South, being the day set aside for the re-interment of the bones of the nine American soldiers identified as belonging to the 9th United States Regiment, who fell during the battle of Lundy's Lane. The re-interment will be an international military affair. A company of United States soldiers from Fort Niagara will take part in the ceremonies. They will be met at the centre of the upper steel arch bridge and escorted by a company of the 44th Canadian Battalion, who will act as an escort to Lundy's Lane.

It will be a strictly military funeral. In many respects the exercises will be without precedent. The Canadian Government has given the United States soldiers permission to enter Canada with their side arms, and every courtesy has been extended, both the American and Canadian Governments having endorsed the affair.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant, and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal times will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents. A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan.

To Expel Don Carlos.

Paris, Oct. 18.—A despatch to The Liberte from Rome says it is reported there that the Italian Government intends to expel Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, from Venice, in consequence of information that the pretender has had frequent conferences with the Carlist party leaders from Spain, who are believed to be connected with the present troubles in that country.

Motor-Car Plow.

Paris, Oct. 18.—An engineer named M. Souza of Vitry-sur-Seine, has made successful experiments with a motor-car plough, and hopes shortly to prove its practical utility.

PREMIER OF ONTARIO

Mr. Ross Delivers an Able Address at New Hamburg.

LEAVES PETTY THINGS BEHIND

The People of Ontario Have No Grievances—The Government Is in Sympathy With the People—Dr. Thompson of Galt Chosen as Liberal Candidate for South Waterloo—A Good Speaker.

New Hamburg, Oct. 18.—The Liberals of South Waterloo yesterday selected an able candidate to lead them in the approaching campaign, and last night at a rousing mass meeting listened to an inspiring and statesmanlike address by the Premier of Ontario, Hon. G. W. Ross.

Politics on Broad Lines.

The Premier dealt with Provincial affairs on broad lines, tracing the influential of Governmental action during the past thirty years on the industrial and social life of the community, going back of petty complaints, and demonstrating the sweeping assertion, of which he challenged disproof, that no class of the community has any substantial grievance against the Government. He made effective use of the victories won by Canadian agriculturists and manufacturers at Buffalo and other great Exhibitions as an evidence of advancement. He clearly set forth his policy of development and expansion in New Ontario, and appealed to the electors to give him an opportunity to carry out the great projects he has inaugurated.

Dr. Thompson the Candidate.

Dr. Thompson of Galt, the candidate selected at yesterday's convention, proved himself to be an exceedingly good platform speaker, showing a thorough grasp of Provincial affairs and an original and convincing manner of expressing his views. The weather was by no means favorable, the afternoon being cold and showery, while last night a fall of soft snow made walking and driving unpleasant, but the attendance both at the convention and at last night's meeting was large and representative of the entire riding.

A Musical Welcome.

The Premier was met at the station by the excellent band of which Hamburg may well boast. The band again escorted him to the hall last evening. Another musical feature of the meeting last night was the unusually good work of the Hamburg male quartette, Messrs. Bechtel, West, Geiger and Hostetter.

Baptist Convention in Brantford.

Brantford, Oct. 18.—At the Baptist convention yesterday, Mr. Jas. S. McMaster read the financial statement. It showed total receipts on current account for the year just ended $25,750.75, of which $25,227.93 was from the McMaster estate, $502.82 from interest on an old endowment, and $20 from the late L. Janet McIntyre estate. Total expenditure $28,551.26, of which $417.21 is for interest, $8,468.64 on account of art department, $10,957.66 on account of theological department, $3,088.02 for Moulton College, $5,629.73 on account of Woodstock College. Receipts for campus and chapel funds were $17,200.90, expenditure $23,159.99.

Has Been Superannuated.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—Mr. Ed. Miall, ex-Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue, was presented yesterday afternoon with a gold watch and chain, and locket with diamond setting, by the members of the inside and outside service staff of the Department. The gift was presented in the Deputy Minister's office, the entire inside service and representatives of the outside service were present. The gift cost over $300, and is exceedingly chaste and beautiful in design, and was presented to mark the esteem of the staff for one who for so long wisely and faithfully discharged the duties of the honorable position. Mr. Miall has been superannuated.

Want of Workmen.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 18.—Collingwood Schreiber, Deputy Minister of Railways, who has just returned from a tour of inspection of railways in the west, says that the road between Port Arthur and Winnipeg will not be finished in time this fall to take out any wheat. There is about fifty miles of tract yet to be laid, although the road is graded. The whole reason for the delay, Mr. Schreiber says, is the scarcity of workmen. There is a hue and cry all the way from the Pacific Coast about a lack of workmen. An effort was made to get harvest hands to help in the building, but failed.

Strike Will Go On.

Toronto, Oct. 18.—On Feb. 3, 1900, 100 iron moulders in the Massey-Harris works at Toronto and Brantford went out on strike because their demands for increased wages were not acceded to. Up to the present the strike has not been settled, and although the strikers have obtained work elsewhere, it was decided to continue the strike in the Toronto and Brantford shops of the company until the demands of the men are recognized by the Union on Thursday.

PILL POINTS

Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills are a purely Vegetable Compound. A scientifically studied Formula. The after-effects of the medicine have been given as much consideration as the immediate results.

Not so with many of the Ancient Formulas—Painful Purges and no healing powers. Think of these points.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

The receipts of live stock were not large, 49 car loads all told, composed of 806 cattle, 856 hogs, 1091 sheep and 20 calves.

The quality of fat cattle generally was not good. The market is being crowded with light trashy butchers' cattle, that weigh from 700 to 850 lbs. each. This class are not wanted and of course sell at low prices. Good to choice butchers' cattle, weighing from 1050 to 1150 lbs. each, are scarce, and if anything higher in price. One load of 22 fairly good butchers' heifers sold at $4.35 per cwt. to-day, which would not have brought that figure a short time ago. Export cattle are seemingly neglected by many of the dealers. Of course there are not many being brought forward, and these generally of medium quality. Prices for shippers were unchanged.

In all other classes of live stock prices remained unchanged, with the exception of lambs, which were a little firmer.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Oct. 17.—The receipts of live stock at the East End Abattoir this morning were 800 head of cattle, 75 calves, 500 sheep, 400 lambs. The demand was fairly good at the following prices:

Cattle, choice, sold at from 4¼c to 4½c per lb.; good, sold at from 3½c to 4c per lb.; lower grade from 2c to 3c per lb.

Calves were sold from $2 to $10 each.

Sheep brought from 2½c to 3c per lb.

Lambs were sold from 3½c to 4c per lb.

Hogs brought from 6c to 7c per lb.

SHOES THAT ARE FULL OF WORTH AND COMFORT....

The best Shoe Salesman we have is our Stock. A glance at our Stock shows that here's a plenty. Where there's a plenty there's sure to be a variety, and so the range of our Stock widens out until it embraces all that's good in footwear.

It's safe to say that out of thirty people no ten will be shod with shoes alike. That's the result of individual preference, and probably of good sense in selection for the uses to which the shoes are to be put. It's this knowledge that of all the people, with all the tastes and all the uses to consider, that from our store every one can be suited. This fact gives a confidence to the customer that is often lacking when dealing at smaller stores. Our care for the customer is a big care, and we do it in a big way—and do it well.

Morgan Guarded by Detectives.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—Extraordinary precautions are taken to guard the person of J. Pierpont Morgan during his stay in this city. In driving to and from Trinity Church, where the convention is held, he is constantly accompanied by Detective Ross Whittaker and other officers of the local force are always hovering near. Whittaker remains on guard at the convention door, and as soon as Mr. Morgan reappears the detective becomes his constant companion until he is again safely housed in the Crocker mansion.

CAUSE TO REJOICE.

The earth was not made in a day, neither is rheumatism cured in a day. Mrs. Jacob Dalrmaid, Black River Bridge, Prince Edward County, Ont., suffered intense pain in both limbs for a year and a half, and two physicians were unable to give her relief. Half a bottle of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure gave her ease and five bottles, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, effected a permanent cure. Her many friends are rejoiced at her recovery. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

Drowned in Old Welland Canal.

St. Catharines, Oct. 18.—James Collier, a resident of this city, who has been missing for about a week, was found drowned in the old Welland Canal near Lock 4 yesterday afternoon. It is supposed he was under the influence of liquor and fell into the water. Deceased was 48 years old and a son of the late Richard Collier, one of the first families of the city. He was unmarried. Coroner Goodman decided an inquest unnecessary.

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhozone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it cures. Price 25c and $1 at druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Why We Cheer.

Don't err, it isn't the Duke of York alone the nation cheers, but the throne and the people behind it — the beef-eaters, the sturdy men, those who have made the little island great.

We look at the Duke and pass him away down the long avenue of British history. We cheer because Wellington won at Waterloo; we cheer because the maimed, glorious Nelson fell and every man did his duty; we cheer because of Gordon, the great man with a soul that wanted to reach out and love the whole world; we cheer because of Alfred the Great, the road-maker and burner of pancakes; we cheer because of Cromwell, the old-time rough rider; because of Shakespeare, the poet for all time, and Milton, his brother in immortality; because of Byron and Tennyson, Burns and Gladstone; we cheer because of her whom we loved, our Queen, his grandmother; because of our King, whom we respect, his father.

The arches, the great guns, the hats doffed, courtiers on their knees, the cheers are not for the Duke alone, but in honor of the great past of the little island that he represents, and in whose history he may some time take a vital part as King.

Their Fame Spreading Abroad.

The Peterborough Canoe Co. have made shipments of canoes during the past week to Siam, Asia, Ivory Coast of Africa and Bermuda. The canoes for Siam go west via Vancouver and Hong Kong; the canoes for Africa, east via Liverpool, and those for Bermuda, south from Halifax, and so canoes radiate from Peterborough to all parts of the earth. The canoes that were used by the Duke of York and the Governor General for their duck shooting at Poplar Point in the Northwest were also built by the Peterborough Canoe Co. and shipped out there some time ago and thus the name of Peterborough canoes is made known over the earth.

Stratton's Wall Paper Sale

House owners are reminded again of the rare opportunity within their grasp for procuring handsome wall paper decorations at a reduction of nearly one half regular prices at the great wall paper sale at the Peterborough Bookstore. The Turnbull stock, bought at a fraction on the dollar of cost, and a large portion of the great regular stock of the Peterborough Bookstore ought to furnish selections enough to suit any taste, and the skeleton price is sure to suit any purse.

DAN SPENCE MEMORIAL.

A General Meeting of the Subscribers to be Held on November 21st.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Dan Spence Memorial Fund was held last evening in the Council Chamber, to consider what disposition should be made of the moneys collected, which now total to an amount in the vicinity of $450.00. It was felt however that the attendance was not sufficiently large to allow of any definite action being taken. His Worship, Mayor Denne, presided, and after an informal discussion, the appended resolution, to be issued as a circular, was passed on motion of Messrs. D. W. Dumble and Robert Fair:

"The money subscribed for the said fund amounts to but $400, and is insufficient to purchase an ambulance, as at first suggested; moreover the enterprise of a worthy citizen has supplied the want, and there is now a very useful ambulance in the town.

"It is suggested that the tribute to the patriotism and self-sacrificing spirit of the brave men of our country, who gave their lives in South Africa to maintain the honour and integrity of the Empire should be coupled with the names of two citizens of our country who died in Africa as soldiers of their Queen, and that the County Council should be asked to supplement your gift to enable the erection in the Court house grounds of a suitable memorial in honour of both the brave men who have given their lives for their country.

"The committee requests that you will personally attend a meeting of the subscribers to be held at the Council Chamber on Thursday, 21st of November, at 8 p. m., to consider the above proposition, and the committee will assume that all who do not attend assent to the suggested proposal."

A communication was read from Messrs. Roger & Bennet, stating that the contributors from the Auburn Woollen Mills declined to allow the amount contributed by them to be devoted to any other purpose than the purchase of an ambulance.

As the money in hand was not sufficient to warrant the committee ordering such a conveyance, it was thought that a circular worded according to the resolution would result in a representative meeting of the subscribers, when a final settlement of the question could be reached. Accordingly all subscribers will receive a personal invitation to be present at a meeting on Nov. 21st.

The two Peterborough County men who lost their lives in South Africa were Spence of town, and Hammond, of Norwood.

PETERBOROUGH OLD BOYS.

It is Proposed That a Re-union be Held in July.

No Reason why Such an Affair Should not Prove a Great Success—Mayor Denne's Proposition.

Mayor Denne announces that Peterborough is to have an Old Boys' Reunion in 1902. He has evidently been figuring for some time on the matter, and his plans appear to be in a fair way towards realization. The idea is to rent a vacant store on one of the principal business streets, and instal a secretary therein about the 1st of the year. Regular office hours would be established, and communication would be opened up with as many as possible of the "Old Boys" who have struck off from the town, and taken up residence in other portions of Canada and the United States.

Many of the towns and cities of Canada have been holding these "Old Boys'" reunions within the last year or so, and although Peterborough is little late in getting into line, still there is no reason why such an affair should not turn out to be as great a success here as in other places.

The dates the Mayor has fixed for the reunion are July 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and these should be three gala days in Peterborough. Former citizens, who have not visited the town in late years will be more than amazed at the progress made in their absence. By next July Peterborough's many new industries should be in full swing, and even those who have not been away for more than a couple of years, will view with surprise these material evidences of Peterborough's progressiveness and advancement.

It will take fully six months to get the machinery well oiled for running off a successful reunion, and if the work gets under way, under proper organization and management, by the first of the year, Peterborough's Old Boys' Celebration should be a "hummer."

RECKLESS SHOOTING.

Danger of Fatal Results From the Practice.

The accidents and fatalities resulting from the careless use of firearms are very frequent, and too much care cannot be exercised.

Mr. J. H. Campbell reports that he sees in the vicinity of his farm near Nassau, persons armed with guns. A day or two ago, his son and grandson were working close together in a field not far from the river. They were startled by the almost simultaneous report of a gun and the singing of a bullet which passed between them in most uncomfortable proximity. A variation of a fraction of an inch in the direction of the muzzle of the gun from which the bullet was fired would have sent it through the body of one or the other of the two men, and we should have had another fatal "accident," or act of criminal carelessness, to record. It is to be hoped that persons using firearms, however legitimately, will be careful to see that in the direction in which they fire there is nobody to be hurt.

MR. CHOATE IN TOWN.

A Peterborough Boy Who Has Made a Fortune for Himself.

Mr. Arthur Choate of Toronto, is in town for a day or two, renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Choate is a son of Mr. Thomas G. Choate, formerly of Warsaw, and later of Peterborough. For some years previous to 1888 Mr. Arthur Choate was a member of the reportial staff of the Review, but left in February of '88 to accept a position on the Toronto World. He then joine dthe Mail and Empire staff, and shortly afterwards became the financial editor of that paper. He had an excellent opportunity of studying the stock markets, in which he commenced to deal. It is said that to-day he is worth at least three hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Choate is living retired, and has travelled considerably of late. He spent this morning in hunting up old acquaintances, and will go out to Warsaw to-day.

A GALWAY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Maggie Doherty and Mr. Robt. Allen.

The Galway Catholic church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the morning of Tuesday, Oct. 1st, when about one hundred guests and relatives gathered to witness the marriage of Miss Maggie Doherty, to Mr. Robt. Allen. The bride looked very charming dressed in cream silk; she wore a long veil and carried a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Miss Charlotte Dorgan, cousin of the bride, acted her part well as bridesmaid; she was dressed in cream cashmere. The groom was ably supported by his brother, James. The two little maids of honour, Misses May and Vera Doherty, cousins to the bride, were dressed in cream cashmere, and, following the bride up the aisle to the altar, made the wedding march seem complete. The march was played by Mrs. Frank McGuire. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

After the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father O'Leary, the bridal party, followed by about fifty relatives, drove to Kinmount, to the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. Richard Mansfield, where a grand dinner awaited them. The afternoon was then spent in all kinds of amusements until about 4 o'clock, when Mr. and Mrs. Allen drove to their own home followed by a large number of relatives. here a nice supper was served and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

The presents were many and expensive, which shows the esteem in which the young couple are held. Their many friends join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

MR. FOORD'S RESIGNATION.

The Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery Company Leaving

By the resignation of Mr. W. H. Foord, superintendent of Little Lake Cemetery, which will take effect on Jan. 1st, 1902, the Cemetery Company loses a very valuable official. Mr. Foord's resignation is the result of his having been offered the position of assistant superintendent of Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto. The local superintendent's faithful work and excellent capabilities have been readily recognized by outside people and he is to be congratulated upon his promotion to so responsible a position.

A Board meeting to consider Mr. Foord's resignation will be held at an early date, it is understood.

MAJOR FOWLDS IS DEAD.

Demise of a Prominent Citizen of Hastings.

Major Harry Fowlds, of Hastings, of whose serious illness mention was made in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Hastings after an illness of about three weeks.

The demise of Major Fowlds will be universally regretted and by his passing away Hastings loses one of its most prominent and enterprising citizens. In militia circles throughout the district he was widely known, and at military camps he formed many warm friends. In public and private life too he was highly respected and will be sadly missed.

Major Fowlds was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of Mrs. (Rev.) A. R. Campbell, of town, by whom a daughter is left to mourn his demise. Major Fowlds married a second time less than a year ago, his second wife still surviving him.

LADIES' AUXILIARY.

Mrs. J. A. Hall Unanimously Requested to Again Accept the Presiding Officer's Chair.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held yesterday, when the following officers were elected for the term:—

President—Mrs. J. A. Hall.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. F. Mason.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. W. Davidson.
Secretary—Mrs. R. J. Frost.
Tresurer—Mrs. C. Brown.
Organist—Mrs. McAllister.

Mrs. Sheriff Hall, under whose leadership the Auxiliary has accomplished so very much for the Association, assumes the office of president for the fifth time.

The ladies are now busily engaged re-furnishing the senior member's parlour.

Arrangements were completed at the meeting for the handkerchief sale and concert to be held on the 19th of Nov., the proceeds of which will be devoted to the furnishing fund.

The members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. wish to thank Mrs. McAllister for the donation of a handsome piano drape.

The Port Hope Knitting Works are justly famed for their Scotch fingering yarn stockings. They make them on their own electric power machines. The small size starts at 15c, running up to 35c for the largest size. Every customer praises them.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

It is a Statutory Holiday and the Date can Only be Changed by Act of Parliament.

Complaint is heard in some quarters about there being two legal holidays next month, the King's Birthday on the 9th, and Thanksgiving Day on the 28th, and the inference is conveyed that the Government is in some way responsible for increasing the number. Such is not the case. The birthday of the reigning Sovereign is a statutory holiday, and no proclamation is needed to give it effect. It would suit the public better if the holiday could be changed to a pleasanter month, but this could only be done by act of Parliament, and for this year, at least, that is out of the question.

PERSONALS.

Mr. W. W. VanEvery is over from Scranton for a few days.

Mr. Walter Stocker leaves this evening to spend a day or two in Buffalo.

Mrs. W. J. Chartren has returned home after visiting her mother, in Port Hope.

Mrs. M. Roseboro, of Utica, N .Y., is spending a short time with her mother, Mrs. R. Waram.

Mrs. T. R. Phillips, of Niagara Falls is in town visiting her sister, Mrs. John Nugent, Brock street.

Mrs. Griffin's many friends will be pleased to to hear that she has returned to Peterborough. Any persons who may wish to see her will find her at the residence of Mrs. Dr. Butler, 29 Queen street.

A concert was recently held at Mount Pleasant in connection with the anniversary services of the Presbyterian church of that place. Miss Florence Carolyn Hall, of town, assisted with the programme. The Omemee Mirror, in referring to her number, says: "Her rich, sweet voice was heard to such advantage in a patriotic solo, that she was obliged to respond to an encore. Twice again during the evening did this young lady appear on the programme and each time the listeners compelled her to return. Miss Hall will always be heard with pleasure in Mount Pleasant."

ELECTED OFFICERS.

The Choir of Murray Street Church Organized Last Night.

After the regular weekly rehearsal of the Murray street Baptist church choir last night, a social time was spent by the members, and organization effected. Last night, it might be stated, was the first practice under the leadership of Miss Florence Carolyn Hall.

The entertainment after the regular practice, took the form of a fowl supper, which was supplied by a few of the lady members of the church, and which was greatly enjoyed.

The chair was occupied by Mr. T. F. Matthews, and the election of officers resulted as follows:

Pres.—Mr. C. B. Routley.
Vice.-Pres.—Mrs. Dr. Scott.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. G. K. Martin.
Executive Committee.—Geo. S. Matthews, Miss Taylor, and Miss Smith.

The Murray street choir is getting into excellent shape, and bids fair to outstrip many of the other town choirs in general excellence.

DAUGHTERS OF ENGLAND.

The Local Branch Held a Most Enjoyable Tea and Concert.

The annual tea and concert of Lady Lansdowne Lodge, Daughters of England, was held last night in the Sons of England Hall, Hunter street. There was a large attendance, and the anniversary was a decided success.

Success is the reward of honest effort, and certainly the ladies scored a well merited success. They more than maintained their reputation for hospitality and their well appointed tables and dainty viands were thoroughly enjoyed by the goodly number present..

Supper was served from 5.30 to 7.30. There was an abundance of eatables of an appetising nature, which were supplied by the ladies of the lodge.

After supper was partaken of the gathering was called to order by the chairman, Mr. Sorseliel, and an excellent programme of music, recitations, dialogues, etc., was presented.

The chairman in opening the concert referred to the excellent standing of the Daughters of England Lodge. He told of the good the lodge was doing throughout the country, and of the benefits to be derived by its members. He explained the conditions by which one may join the lodge and invited all to become members.

The chairman then called for the first number on the programme. The entire programme was as follows:

Instrumental duet ..... Misses Browne and Lewis
Recitation (encored)...Miss Carrie White
Song ... ...Mr. Walter Stocker
Tim Toolan and His Songs (encored) Mr. Sid Mitchell
Dialogue ... Misses Taylor, Boys and Harris
Flute Solo ... ...Mr. Dundas
Solo ... ...Mr. Gray
Exhibition of Hypnotism by Mr. Cranfield and his subjects
Recitation... ... ...Miss Boys
Recitation (encored) ... ...Miss Bell
Instrumental solo ... ... Miss Pollock
Recitation (encored) ...Miss Carrie White
Song... ... ...Mr. Alf. Kingscote
Illuminated baton juggling...Mr. Dundas
Song ... ...Misses Boys

The vocal selections by Mr. Gray, Mr. Stocker and Mr. Kingscote were, as they always are, warmly applauded, while Mr. Mitchell's character sketch was a decided hit. The instrumental music was unusually bright, and consisted of a duet by Misses Brown and Lewis, a solo by Miss Pollock, and a flute solo by Mr. Dundas. In the elocutionary part of the programme the honours were fairly divided. Both Miss Bell and little Carrie White had to respond to enthusiastic encores. Misses Taylor, Boys and Harris in their humourous dialogue, Mrs. Finn and the Census, were very entertaining, while the tots, the Misses Boys, performed their parts well.

The unique feature of the programme was the burlesque hypnotic exhibition by six young men, which elicited rounds of applause and roars of laughter. The illuminated baton juggling by Mr. Will Dundas was beyond doubt one of the most attractive numbers on the programme.

The chairman thanked the audience for their kind attention, and congratulated the lodge on the success of their annual tea and concert, and also thanked, on behalf of the lodge, all those who had helped to make it a success. The entertainment closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

$500,000 AND A TRAINED DOG

Twenty-five years ago two young fellows worked in the same shop, at the same bench, on the same sort of job, at the same pay. Each was interested in a certain thing. Each spent three-fourths of his noon hour every day at the thing which interested him. One by use of that time worked out an invention which brought him half a million dollars. The other chap spent all his spare time teaching a little dog to dance. He succeeded. The dog learned to dance better than any other dog in town.

What about the teacher of the dog? Well he is an old man in the same shop, at the same bench, at the same pay. He spends his noon hour grumbling at his luck and blaming the Government because he is poor. The other fellow now owns the shop.

It pays to use your spare time to good advantage. One of the courses in the Y.M.C.A. evening school will bring you good returns. Ask for a circular at the building. Do it at once.

A SOCIAL EVENING

Given by the Ladies' Aid of the Charlotte Street Church Last Evening.

A most enjoyable time was spent last evening in the Charlotte street Church school room by a large number of guests, who met together in response to an invitation given by the Ladies' Aid Society.

On a previous occasion a general invitation was given by this society to the whole congregation, and many responded thereto. But on this occasion invitations were limited to the official and trustee boards and members of the choir, together with the members of the Aid Society.

Mr. Crossley, the pastor of the church, was asked to preside, and an informal programme was presented. Messrs. Morrison, Kidd, Kilgour, and Crossley gave short and very appropriate and happy addresses. Miss Hendren gave two instrumentals and two songs to the delight of all present. The choir surrounded the piano and sang a charming chorus. Mr. Stocker also gave a splendid song, receiving hearty applause.

After this the Ladies' Aid Society furnished refreshments to their guests, consisting of sandwiches and cakes, coffee and tea, which all enjoyed very much.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Hughes, and seconded by Mr. Main, to the Ladies Aid Society for the delightful evening they had furnished, and the hope was expressed that the present gathering would not be the last of a similar character.

Mrs. Hamilton, president of the Society, responded to the motion of thanks, and stated that the Ladies' Aid had quite as much pleasure in having them present as they had in being present, and thanked them all for responding to the invitation.

As it was now considerably after ten o'clock, the gathering was formally dismissed by the choir singing the song, "Good Night, Ladies," and the benediction by the pastor.

The ladies of the Society are now looking forward to their annual Thanksgiving dinner, and are most hearty and united in their purpose of making this year's gathering one of the best ever held.

THE LATE MRS. EARL.

Her Demise Occurred in Cavan on Sunday.

The Millbrook Reporter contains the following account of the demise of Mrs. Henry Earl, mother of Mrs. J. T. C. Lang, of town:—

"There passed away on Sunday last at the home of her son on the 4th line of Cavan, Mary Jane Frances, beloved wife of Henry Earl, and in her death the community has lost a much respected resident and her family a beloved wife and mother. Born in the Township of Cavan sixty years ago, at the early age of seventeen she became united in marriage with her now bereaved husband, and for forty-three years has been a true and devoted help-mate and support. In the toilsome task of gaining a considerable portion of this world's goods, Mrs. Earl was careful, frugal and thoughtful, and her kindness of heart, her charity towards all and her willingness to help those in need, made her respected and beloved by all who knew her. Over a year ago they gave up the active duties of farm life and moved to Millbrook, having purchased a comfortable home, intending to enjoy the afternoon of life in a well earned rest. But He who knows when the labourer's work is done, did not extend to them a long enjoyment of their village life. For months she had been unwell and although every effort was made to restore her health, all was of no avail. She bore up however with true Christian fortitude being willing to follow the command of Him who knoweth what is for our good. Some weeks ago she was taken from the village to the old homestead in the hope that a change might benefit her, but the fondest hopes of herself and friends were not realized. Deceased belonged in early life to the Presbyterian church, but after her marriage joined her husband in worshipping with the Methodist denomination, but irrespective of denomination her great aim was that all her family should so live and walk that when the last call should come, she and they would meet in the Paradise of God. Three daughters, Mrs. J. T. C. Lang, of Peterborough; Mrs. E. Christie, of Cavan, and Miss Earl; and two sons, W. E. and H. A., along with the bereaved husband mourn the loss of a loving and beloved mother and wife. The funeral took place on Tuesday to the front church cemetery, a very large gathering of friends from both townships and village attending as a last token of respect."

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES

The Ottawa Team Will be Here To-Morrow.

The Team Committee Slated Their Men Last Night—Notes of Interest.

RUGBY.

The boys had an excellent practice last night and they are now in the pink of condition and will no doubt give a good account of themselves. There was a splendid turn out of players and the practice was entered into with great enthusiasm.

The Team Committee met last night after the regular practice. Everyone was curious to know what the result would be. The following is the slate: — Full back, Andrew Scott; halves, McPherson, Burnham and Armstrong; quarter, Norman Bell; scrimmage, Revell, Dainard and Noble; wings, Dillon, Crowley Maher, Picard, Graham, Paterson and Rickey. Spare men — Anglesey and Claude Rogers.

Members who have their season's membership tickets are required to wear them at the match to-morrow.

Tickets for the Rugby match to-morrow between Ottawa and Peterborough, are on sale at Mr. Dickson Davidson's drugstore. The match promises to be a very largely attended one, and the ladies of the town will be out in large numbers. Seating accommodation will be arranged for them. A bus will leave town at 2.30 p.m., for the Nicholls oval for the conveyance of the players. The ball will be kicked off at 3 o'clock sharp.

The Brockville Rugby club is calling for help from the police. They want the town's chief constable, who rejoices in the name of Sweet, to come out and play in the scrimmage. From this distance it looks as if the players were trying to get even with the police force for some fancied wrong. If the chief is wise he'll stick to his beat and keep out of the hospital. However, if the experiment works well, the Peterborough boys might send an invitation to Chief Roszel to play centre scrim.

CONSOLIDATION OF RURAL SCHOOLS.

The Minister of Education for Ontario has been distributing a few copies of a bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture on "The Consolidation of Country Schools, and the Transporting of Scholars by the use of Vans." The object in view in centralizing the rural schools is that they may thereby be given the rank and advantages of urban schools, something which the isolation now existing makes impossible. Centralization, it is claimed, will reduce the number of classes a day to each teacher, and give them time to attend to the educational needs of the pupils, it will enable school boards to pay better salaries to the best teachers, who have charge of the higher grades; and it will make it possible to collect proper school appliances for use in the several classes, and avoid the duplication of apparatus which the system of schools separated from each other necessarily involves. The consolidation of rural schools, by means of transportation of scholars, has been experimented with in many states of the Union with very decided benefit. In Ontario, says the Brantford Expositor, the system has not as yet been adopted, save in Manitoulin Island, but the fact that the Minister of Education is now circulating literature explaining what the consolidation of rural schools means, and why it is done, would seem to indicate that its more general application is in contemplation.

PROGRESS IN THE KLONDYKE.

Mr. F. C. Wade, formerly of Winnipeg, and at present crown prosecutor for the Yukon, gives an interesting sketch of the history of the Yukon district. One of the most striking changes to him is the remarkable advance that has been made in methods of transportation, mining and commercial development. In 1897 there was no Canadian system of ocean steamers to Skaguay, such as exists at the present time. Nor has progress been confined to the passenger transportation alone. In four years 3,700 horses perished on the White Pass in the transportation of supplies. At present, with the completion of the White Pass Railway, $100,000 worth of freight were carried in one month. There remains yet a great need for lowering of the freight rates, which at present amount to $125 a ton from Vancouver to Dawson.

In mercantile matters there has been a corresponding change. At one time an offensive monopoly existed in the matter of food suplies, and the consumer was practically at the mercy of the companies that were doing business in 1897 and 1898. Numerous small traders have entered into the supply business, with the result that usually follows competition. When the market happens to be overstocked, especially with perishable goods, prices fall to a remarkably low figure.

There has been many changes for the better in mining methods. Usages of a primitive nature which ushered in the mineral discoveries in the Klondike region have been supplanted by more up-to-date methods. Hydraulic mining has come to the front, where the ground is not frozen and where water is plentiful.

Marked improvements, according to Mr. Wade, have been made in the administration of that northern region. In 1897 and 1898, at the time of the great rush to the goldfields, when some 30,000 or 40,000 people sought to scale the passes and swarm over the gold-bearing creeks, a small handful of officials had to transact the entire business of the country. There were no official buildings of any kind. The gold commissioner's office was no longer than an ordinary office was no larger than an ordinary corner in a small room in the police barracks; the commissioner of the territory lived in a tent; the Supreme Court of the Northwest Territories first sat in a log cabin 12 x 14, in which were six bunks, kitchen and dining-room all in one. At Dawson, later, the accommodation was a little better. The rest of the Government officials occupied a log cabin 10 x 12, on Second street.

With the above contrast the following description of the present situation: Now we have a postoffice containing the most modern equipment, amply officered, and which is considered equal to almost any in the Dominion. The gold commissioner's office is large and commodious and is conducted by an immense staff under the gold commissioner and his deputy. The administration building, now in course of construction, would be a credit to Winnipeg or any other city in Canada. The commissioner is assisted by a large staff of accountants, clerks, stnographers and others, while in 1898 we had only one stenographer in the country. Territorial Court is conducted by two judges, and in appeal cases from the gold commissioner a court sits, consisting of the gold commissioner and the two Territorial Court judges. There are clerks and deputies, sheriff and deputy sheriff, caretakers, a matron, court criers, everything in fact that would be looked for in an up-to-date city.

Truly a remarkable showing for only four years. Whether the Klondike will ever become a place of permanent residence remains yet to be seen. No doubt, so long as gold forms an attraction those northern regions will be frequented by a fleating population. The less adventurous spirit will find a more congenial atmosphere further south in our Canadian Northwest.

PAN-AMERICAN MODEL DAIRY NOTES.

At the end of the twenty-first week ending Sept. 25th, the relative standing of the four leading dairy herds is practically unchanged, as far as the total profit on butter is concerned. The contest, however, is becoming more interesting as the end draws near, and the past week has developed some unexpected features. The Guernseys, as a herd, are showing signs of weakening and stand fourth for the week on profit for estimated butter.

The Jerseys are again in the lead with a profit of 7.41; Ayrshires, second, with 7.36; Holsteins, third, 7.28; Guernseys, fourth, 7.26; Shorthorns, fifth, 6.51; and French Canadians, sixth, 6.34.

The Guernsey cow, "Medora Fern," is falling off badly in her milk, and seems to be going out of business, which is the principal cause of the set back of the Guernseys. It is doubtful if they can be overtaken by any other herd, even if "Medora Fern" dropped out of the race altogether, and if she drops down below the profit line before the contest is over, she will be fed very cheaply. This particular cow was purchased in New Jersey at a high price, especially for this test, and she replaced another cow of less promise, but which would have probably proven much more profitable in the end.

Nearly all the cows are doing well, and the increase of fat in the milk has been very marked during the past weeks in several of the breeds, and some of them have made more estimated butter than at any time during the past six weeks or two months. The Holsteins stand first for quality of butter with 55.59 lbs. to their credit, an increase over last week of 1.63 lbs.; Jerseys second, with 51.74 lbs., an increase of 1.5 lbs. over last week; Shorthorns third, with 50.84 lbs., an increase of 2.88 lbs.; Ayrshires, fourth, with 50.64 lbs. an increase of 3.71 lbs.; Guernseys, fifth, with 50.30, an increase of 1.35 lbs.; Red Polls, sixth, 44.64 lbs., no change; Brown Swiss, seventh, 44.01 lbs., small increase; French Canadian, eighth, with 41.83 lbs., increase 3.89 lbs. The other two breeds are practically unchanged.

It will be noticed that the French Canadians have made the greatest gains, and they have again produced their butter at the least cost. Below will be found the average cost per pound of butter of each breed for the week ending Sept. 24th, also the lowest and highest cost in the herd.

	Ave. Cost.	Low. Cost.	High. Cost.
French Canadian ...	9.8	9.2	11.06
Ayrshires	10.44	9.2	12.43
Guernseys...	10.53	9.12	17.06
Jerseys	10.64	10.15	11.5
Polled Jerseys... ...	10.92	9.4	15.34
Red Polled	11.3	9.72	12.33
Holsteins...	11.9	11.5	14.
Brown Swiss...	12.04	10.	13.06
Shorthorns	12.18	10.34	14.22
Dutch Belted	13.64	10.06	20.0

Taking the total production and the cost of feed since May 1st, it will be found that the Guernseys have been the most economical producers, and below will be found the cost of producing a pound of butter and the value of the butter produced from $1.00 invested in feed, the butter being valued at 25c. per pound:

	Cost of 1 lb. butter May 1st to Sept. 17th.	For $1.00 invested in feed.
Guernsey	9.	$2.77
Jersey	9.2	2.72
Ayrshire	9.5	2.62
Polled Jersey
French Canadian ...	9.7	2.58
Red Polled	9.9	2.53
Holstein	10.7	2.34
Brown Swiss	10.9	2.30
Shorthorn	11.3	2.11
Dutch Belted	13.	1.92

It will be seen from the above table that the French Canadians have produced their butter at practically the same cost all through the term, and it now looks as if they are persistent producers, and four of them are doing better now than they have done since the beginning of August. The fifth cow, "La Bouchette," is far gone in calf and gives less than 15 lbs. of milk per day.

It has again been demonstrated that a temperature of from 65 to 70 degrees is the most conductive to a good flow of milk. A temperature of 70 degrees seems about right to enable the cows to maintain a comfortable bodily temperature, and the flies are less active and troublesome than they are at a higher temperature. A cool atmosphere also gives the cows greater digestive vigour and they seem to assimilate their food to better advantage.

The question of variation in a cow's milk from milking to milking is an interesting one. The fact has been very prominently brought out by these tests, that the higher the nervous system of a cow is developed, the greater will be the variation on the fat content of the milk. Tests have been made to prove or disprove the correctness of the composite sample test where a sample of each milking is added to the composite sample battle, and a test made from the accumulated milk at the end of a stated period. The total milk for the period is multiplied by the test, and the produce represents the amount of fat contained in the milk for that period. The results show that a cow's milk is never constant in the amount of fat it contains, and it may be up one week and down the next without any apparent cause but which many factory patrons refuse to believe possible.

The following is the amount of total solids produced by each herd up to Oct. 1st:—Holsteins, 4030.67; Ayrshires, 3591.23; Shorthorns, 3530.07; Brown Swiss, 3439.39; Red Polled, 3283.73; Guernsey, 3293.21; Jersey, 3252.65; French Canadians, 2839.23; Dutch Belted, 2612.62; Polled Jersey, 2461.68.

NATURE REVOLTS

Because the Kidneys were overworked and weakened and could not do their whole duty. South American Kidney Cure cleared away the impurities—healed the diseased parts—made a sick-to-death man well.

One of the happiest men in the County of Huron to-day, is Mr. James McBrine, of Jamestown. He was suddenly attacked with most severe Kidney disease which culminated in a complication of bladder troubles. He tried the best physicians in the County without avail. Attracted by testimony of most marvellous cures by South American Kidney Cure he procured it, and before he had used one bottle was completely cured. do

USED HOT WATER

But Everything Proved Useless Except Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mr. Edward Gallagher, of 139 York street, Hamilton, Ont., is one of those who testifies to the powar of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Dyspepsia afflicted him for six years, during which he essayed all kinds of cures, tried all sorts of treatments and used almost every kind of medicine in vain.

Mr. Gallagher grew desperate. Friends were foolish enough to advise soda as a temporary relief. This is a fearful mistake. So far from curing stomach trouble it brings on a condition which is worse than the first. Soda has a tendency to destroy the lining of the stomach and the public cannot be too strongly warned against it.

Finally Mr. Gallagher found the one sure radical cure for all troubles of digestion and diseases of the stomach. He tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Did they fail him? Read his letter:

"For six years," he writes, "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia, Headaches and all the miseries of Indigestion. Nothing that I ate would keep the horrible trouble from me. I tried hot water, reduced my diet but still this dreadful disease kept its hold on me. I have many times had to quit my work, the pains were so bad. Friends even advised me to use soda but that did me more harm than good.

"One day I read of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got a box and tried one and then after supper I tried another. I got some relief and so I determined to keep on with the treatment that finally cured me.

"I am now, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the possessor of a sound digestion. For six years I didn't know what it was to relish a meal. Now I have a wonderful appetite and can digest anything. I cannot praise Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too highly."

Both Violated G.T.R. Rules.

London, Ont., Oct. 17.—The jury in the case of Conductor William Birkett, who was killed by a yard engine at London East a short time ago, brought in a verdict to the effect that Conductor Birkett violated a rule of the Grand Trunk by stepping from a moving train at the East London Station the night he met his death. The jury also reached the conclusion that George Ross, the driver of the engine which struck Birkett, broke one of the rules by having a red instead of a white light on the rear end of the tender when backing down the yard, and the jury further declared that Ross was to blame for failing to stop his engine when he saw the passenger train so near to the station.

For an Ottawan's Murder.

Ballston, Oct. 17.—Joseph C. Banks of Waterloo, N. Y., was arraigned in the Supreme Court yesterday on an indictment for murder in the first degree in shooting and instantly killing Herbert G. Tackaberry of Ottawa at Saratoga Springs, Aug. 16. Banks was superintendent of a circus, and Tackaberry a discharged employe. It is said the men were rivals for the affections of an equestrienne, and that jealousy was the motive of the quarrel and shooting. Banks pleaded not guilty, and asserts the shooting was in self-defence. The trial was adjourned until Monday, Nov. 11.

Preparing for the Mint.

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—The Public Works Department is making its arrangements for the erection in Ottawa of the branch of the Royal Mint, which was provided for in the estimates of last session. "I have gone over the ground to-day," said Mr. Tarte, "which we are to use for the mint. The site selected is on Nepean Point. We can get a splendid foundation over on the solid rock, and our purpose is to set up a building that will in every way prove worthy. It will be about 165 feet by 180."

11 Killed, 36 Injured.

Vienna, Oct. 17.—The Neues Abend-Blatt reports that there has been rioting in Kichenef, Bessarabiu, where one thousand students attacked and wrecked the house of the Governor, the headquarters of the police, and the office of the Official Gazette. Many encounters took place between the students and the police, and 11 persons were killed and 36 injured.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

A Leaf That Is a Leaf.

Ex-Warden Slater of Markham has got a maple leaf which he thinks has all other maple leaves beaten out by a good margin when it comes to size. It is 15 inches long, 17 inches wide and 48 inches around, measured with a straight rule. If all the indentations of the leaf could be added in the measurement, it would likely go 5 feet. The leaf was picked from a tree on Mr. Slater's farm on the 4th concession of Markham.

BATTLES.

Battles and wars and combats, man with man
Striving for p' e, supremacy and power.
Not since the first n dawn of life began
On this small sp. : has peace reigned for one hour.
Battles, forever battles!

Why should we marvel? In your heart or mine
Has peace been known to fold its wings and rest?
Nay, nay! Two natures, human and divine,
Wage war alway within the human breast.
Battles, forever battles!

Wars, wars unending. Not in open field
Are fought the mighty conflicts of the earth,
But in the secret hearts of men concealed,
By eyes and lips tricked out in smiles of mirth.
Battles, forever battles!

Strife, always strife. Wild passions day and night,
Like billows on the bruised heart beat and roll,
And that unending war of wrong and right,
Desire and aspiration, builds the soul.
Battles, forever battles!

THE IMPOSTOR

Herr Hartmann was an old friend of my father, and we were all very fond of him. When I came home from vacation, I spent a good deal of time in his house, but my visits had nothing to do with Julia, his daughter, all gossip to the contrary notwithstanding. To be sure, her presence added life to our little gatherings, for, indeed, she was a vivacious, well educated girl, but my heart belonged to another representative of her sex. I was really interested in the old man. He talked most entertainingly on almost any topic under the sun, and he had an easy going sort of humor which was irresistible.

That he had a son I learned from Julia, who was as communicative and gushing as she was gay.

"You know I have a brother somewhere," she once said to me. "First promise on your word of honor that you won't tell father I told you. But no, I won't tell you anything. You shouldn't have let me blab that much either."

"Look here, Fraulein Hartmann," I said, seriously, "if the matter is really a secret you had better think twice before you go on."

"That's all right. I am so full of it I must speak about it to somebody. All I want you to do is to pledge your word of a gentleman that it will go no farther."

I only shrugged my shoulders, but this must have been interpreted by Julia as a sacred oath of discretion, for she immediately proceeded to tell me the story.

"I never saw him," she began. "He was born six or seven years before I came into the world, when our parents lived in Cologne. When he was two years old, the landlady of the house in which they lived took a liking to him. 'A liking' is no word for it. She was all wrapped up in the boy. You see, she was childless and a cranky, nervous creature. Everybody called her a 'crazy loon,' and some people said she was actually out of her mind half the time. Her husband soon died and she sold all her property and went to America, where she had a sister and two brothers. At that time my father did not know she was going away. He found it out when it was too late. You see, she was so fond of my brother that my parents had to let her take him to her house sometimes. They hated to do it, and my mother had a foreboding that it would lead to trouble, but the widow would beg them so hard they could not refuse her. Well, the long and short of it is the crazy woman stole the boy, and before my parents knew where she was she had landed in America with him. She wrote us all about it as soon as she arrived at her sister's and begged us to let her keep the child, promising to bring him up well and to make him her sole heir. My father wrote to some friends in America, but nothing came of it. When she found out that he was bent on getting back the child, she stopped writing altogether and father's friends could not find her. Later on my parents heard from her in Australia. Again she assured them that Victor was well taken care of, but there was no address in her letter and that was the last they heard of him—the last until yesterday. By the way, Victor was his real name, but she changed it to hide his identity."

"Didn't your father try to get the child?" I asked.

"Of course he did," she answered testily. "But all this happened a few years before I came into the world, so how am I to know what he did and what he did not in those days? All I do know is that he did not leave a stone unturned, but that's not what I wish to tell you. You're inquisitive as a woman, and I am sorry I have told you so much."

I must confess my curiosity got the better of my sense of dignity. I begged her to go on.

"Well," she said, with a patronizing smile, "I am not going to torture you. My father received a letter from him yesterday. He would not tell me what Victor said nor where he was, except that he expected to be here in a month or two. When I begged father to let me see the letter, he said I talked too much and that he would wait until Victor actually arrived and he made sure it was not a dream."

It was no dream; at least at the time I was introduced to the man who said he was Victor we had not the slightest suspicion that he was somebody else and that the real Victor—but then I am afraid I have fallen into Julia's habit of "blabbing."

He was a well built fellow of twenty-nine, with reddish hair and regular features. He certainly bore some resemblance to Herr Hartmann, and my old friend was in the seventh heaven. He was both an Australian and an American, having spent his childhood in both countries by turns, but he spoke good German, and his present residence was in an English town in the West Indies, where he was established in business, as he said.

One afternoon, in the course of a walk I took with Herr Hartmann, my friend said to me:

"You must be curious to know the story of my son." And after going over the events with which I had been made familiar by Julia he went on: "The rest of it is very simple. That crazy woman told her relatives a lie. She passed my son for her own. He grew up that way. Only recently—a year or two ago—he learned the truth by mere chance. He came across an old neighbor of ours who told him that the woman he thought his mother was childless and related the circumstances of her disappearance. He investigated the matter, and from a thousand details he came to the conclusion that it was all true. Then it was he wrote to me. It was all so strange, and I was as slow to believe that he was my boy as he was to believe that I was his father, but a correspondence, of which my daughter knows nothing, established the truth beyond a doubt. That's all there is to it."

As he spoke I noticed that his face was clouded and that the ring of good humor which usually accompanied his talk was absent from his voice. It seemed to me as though my friend were worried, as if instead of being overjoyed at the great event he looked pensive, wistful, heavy hearted.

One evening Julia said to me:

"My brother must be in trouble. I know nothing about business matters, of course, but I feel that his affairs are out of shape and that he is a poor man. He is so bashful and reticent, you know, but I can see he is anxious to talk to papa about his affairs and has not the courage to do so. Poor fellow, it keeps me awake nights. I am so fond of him, you know. I wish I could help him. I am sure papa would, but I can't tell him about it. I have tried several times, but my heart begins to beat fast the moment I get near the subject. I can't account for it, but it's no use. I know I won't have the spunk to speak to papa."

"I wish I could help you," I said politely.

"You could if you only would," she answered eagerly. "You are a man. You can talk business with papa. You could work the conversation round to my brother's affairs and ask him whether he was well off, for instance. I tried the trick, but made a mess of it."

I had to promise her. When I made an attempt to redeem my pledge, I experienced the same sensation which Julia had described to me. There was something forbidding in Herr Hartmann's manner when the conversation turned on Victor. He became morose, and he smoked more than he talked.

Meanwhile the newcomer behaved toward Julia in a way which seemed to me rather singular. He was bashful in her presence and lavished attentions upon her which somehow did not impress me as the usual manifestations of an ordinary attachment between brother and sister. I confess it piqued my curiosity, and I watched the two with increasing interest. Julia received these attentions as a matter of course. With all her education and cleverness she was no philosopher of human relations. She was the most credulous girl you ever saw, and she asked no questions.

Finally my old friend lost all patience. He was dying to relieve his heart of its burden.

"I must speak to you. You are the only man I can be perfectly frank with. I am unhappy. This man who calls himself my son is an impostor. I cannot prove it, but I am sure of it all the same. Something told me so from the very beginning. At first I was too overcome to mind the inner voice, but the young man's demeanor makes my suspicion stronger every day. There is something in his manner, his voice, in everything he says or does, which keeps buzzing in my ear that I am being made a fool of.

"If he were my son, I would experience that instinctive feeling which every parent must feel for his child. My heart is cold. It never was otherwise. It was my brain which accepted the logic of all the evidence contained in that correspondence between him and me. My heart has all along refused to believe it. Why, man, can't you see he is after some of my money? It seems vulgar to speak of these things, but he never talks to me in a free and easy manner, and he always seems to be beating about the bush, as if he left a great deal unsaid or wanted to ask a favor and was too bashful to unbosom himself to me."

"But if he is an impostor it ought not to be so difficult to find him out," I remarked. "By a clever system of examination and cross examination it ought to be easy to trip him up."

"I have tried to draw him out. I have examined him as closely as possible on his antecedents, but he answers my questions in monosyllables, and he is so careful of every word he utters that my efforts are all of no avail—except, indeed, in so far as his replies to my queries intensify my conviction—my moral conviction, do you understand?—that the man is not my son. No, no, no! He is not my son!" My friend pounded the table with his fist, and, getting up from his seat, he fell to pacing the floor with great vehemence.

A few days later the young man called on me. It was his first visit at our house, and I could see by his manner that he came on a rather important business. When we found ourselves alone in my room, he said, without looking at me:

"I wish to come straight to the point. Have you time to listen?" I said, "Yes." and he went on. "I know you are a man of honor. I wish to confide in you a matter which has been weighing on my mind almost since I set foot on the soil of this town. Well, I wish to say that my name is not Victor Hartmann and that I am not you friend's son. Yes, I am an impostor, but if you think I am a knave you wrong me. I am an unfortunate fellow, weak and capable of crime perhaps, but I have a heart and a conscience and know how to hate myself for being bad. I am tired of this comedy. I have made up my mind to disappear from this town. Tell your friend his son is dead. I knew him. He looked somewhat like me. He died two years ago in Honduras. When I found myself stranded, the evil spirit came over me. I thought I would impersonate my chum (by that time I had learned who his father was) and get some money out of it.

"I was mistaken. I have made a botch of it. I have been wretched and awkward from the start. That gave it all away. Well—Julia is the cause of it. I would give twenty years of my life to undo it all, so as to be able to sue for her hand, but, of course, that's out of the question. I am going away. Tell Julia I am no knave—at heart, at least. And if I have acted like one, tell her my punishment is severe enough."

Before I could say a word he whispered:

"Remember, I have told you all this because I think you a gentleman. Goodby, and don't interfere with my going. Goodby, sir."

When my friend discovered the truth, he was angry with me for not having handed the wretch over to the police, but he was gone.—Adapted From the German For New York Commercial Advertiser.

Piecing.

That's a word which may not be in the dictionary in this sense of its use, but which is in very common use in some sections of the country. "She's always piecing" they say of the woman who runs to the cupboard at irregular hours and eats a piece of pie, cake, or some other dainty. This irregular eating is one of the chief causes of dyspepsia and "weak" stomach.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are completely cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the supply of rich, pure blood, and gives the body vitality and vigor.

"A year ago I was feeling very badly," writes Mrs. Lizzie Abrams, of 158 Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Had a very poor appetite and when I sat down at the table I could not eat, but would have to go away without even tasting the food. Chancing to hear from a friend who used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for a disease similar to mine, I thought I would give the medicine a trial, and I can hardly express the benefit received from it. The first dose seemed to do me good. My appetite returned and I was able to eat heartily. I have improved so much since taking the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I do not look like the same person. Am to-day well and strong—the result of taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

At one time, says a Kansas editor, we were sure that we had drawn the capital prize; in fact, we had a message to that effect, but our wife awoke us before we could read it. Women should not interfere in business transactions.—Chicago Tribune.

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the kidneys and liver, Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cts. a box.

House Dames Next.

From Cheltenham we hear of a new method of fighting against the ever present servant difficulty, and that is the training and equipment of the house dames. A house dame, as we understand it, is a lady of slender or dilapidated fortune who is willing to take charge of the domestic affairs of another for payment. She does not seek a large salary—from £18 to £35 a year has been mentioned—but, on the other hand, she expects treatment somewhat better than is meted out to the ordinary domestic. She requires a room of her own, where she can either receive visitors or spend a part of each day in solitude, and in matters pertaining to dress she cannot be expected to wear a cap like a housemaid.

Evidences of Nature's Conflict.

Extensive coal deposits have been found in southern Norway, but it is of poor quality. On the island of Ando, one of the Vesteraalen group, in latitude 69 degrees, a bed of coal was recently discovered in which are evidences that the earth must have suffered violent convulsions about the period when the vein was formed. It extends under the sea a long distance, with strata of sandstone, clay and slate lying upon it. Geologists say that the island must therefore at one time have been larger than now and thickly clothed with vegetation. For a long period after it must have been submerged again and then upheaved anew.

SYSTEM TONIC IS A SCIENTIFIC REMEDY AFTER THE SUGGESTIONS OF THE BEST PHYSICIANS IN AMERICA. DISPENSED BY A CHEMIST.

Fac-Simile of Genuine.

THE ANATOMY OF THE STOMACH

The stomach is the principal, although not the only, organ of digestion. It is about 12 inches long and four inches in diameter at the largest end. It is shaped like a pear, with large end and entrance to the left, and the small end and exit to the right. In the stomach all solid foods are dissolved, and made ready to be mixed with the bile and pancreatic juices in the second stomach and bowels. If the food is not dissolved in the stomach, it is not dissolved at all, but passes entirely through the system without in any way enriching the body.

Hence the importance of a healthy stomach. The principle trouble is weakness of the muscles of which the stomach is composed, and lack of sensitiveness to the nerves which cause the gastric or food dissolving juices to flow. Two principal features are thus demanded of a stomach remedy. Merrill's System Tonic embodies these features exactly. It tones the muscles and enriches and restores the nerves; not in a transitory, but in a lasting manner. Take it when sour eructation, heartburn, gas on the stomach, pains in the stomach, sense of heaviness in the stomach and a general unpleasant feeling, indicate that your stomach is out of condition. You'll be delighted with the results and pleased to find that you can eat a hearty meal and enjoy it.

Each 50c. bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

LEADER WHITNEY'S RECENT SPEECHES

Reviewed and Contrasted by Hon. J. R. Stratton

AT STORMONT NOMINATION.

Mr. Whitney's Utterances Trenchantly Criticised—The Opposition Leader's Unpatriotic Pessimism — His Inconsistent Positions.

On Tuesday the Liberals of Stormont met in convention at Newington, and nominated Mr. J. W. McCart, of Avonmore, as the candidate to contest the representation of the riding in the interests of the province and the Ross Administration. His nomination was unanimously made. At the conclusion of the nomination proceedings, Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, addressed the convention. He was very cordially received. The Provincial Secretary congratulated the convention upon the perfect unanimity tha tprevailed among the delegates and Liberals of the riding. He said the gathering of the afternoon was a good omen of success. Stormont was a Liberal constituency, and it had been lost to the Liberal party by local difficulties at the last election, that he was pleased to see, had now been removed. There was no good reason why Premier Ross should not be sustained. The policy of the Government was progressive, and the administration of Provincial affairs had been honest and careful. By a progressive policy this province occupied a front place, and possessed the most enlightened and intelligent population. Substantial progress and enterprise could be seen in every direction from the effects of this policy. The prosperity of any concern or enterprise was dependent upon its financial standing and equipment. A concern with good financial standing argued good management and good prospects of success. This was equally true of a Province or State. The Minister then showed that the financial standing of Ontario was unsurpassed. He showed that its business affairs had been well managed, and pointed out that in respect of its financial soundness Ontario is ready to go ahead with a vigorous development policy. After dealing with the educational question, and giving a brief account of his visit to the Rainy River district recently, he turned his attention to the two speeches recently delivered by Mr. Whitney at Listowel.

MR. WHITNEY AT LISTOWEL.

Mr. Stratton said Mr. Whitney had recently spoken at some length at Listowel, in fact he made two speeches there, and the contrast in their tone was very marked. The first was professedly a "non-political" speech, delivered on the occasion of the opening of the Fair. It was a notably optimistic utterance. It depicted the condition of the country in the most roseate colours. He enlarged in glowing terms on the great prosperity of the farmers as evinced by the magnificent display, and rejoiced over the phenomenal growth of the cheese industry and the open of an extensive market in Britain for Ontario horses. (Hear, hear.)

In the evening of the same day Mr. Whitney spoke again, this time at a Conservative banquet, but in a very different tone. His speech was a continuous jeremiad — a long-drawn-out wail over the iniquities of the Ross Government, the absence of good legislation and the maladministration of Provincial affairs.

Mr. Whitney would do well to keep his non-political and his partisan utterances in watertight compartments. The one destroys the logical foundation of the other. Ordinary hearers who might have happened to listen to both addresses might well stand amazed at the incongruity of the two pictures presented. They would naturally ask themselves whether it were possible that such an intelligent, progressive and prosperous community as Mr. Whitney declared the farmers to be would tolerate the continuance in office for thirty years of an unprogressive Government, which, according to the same authority, had done nothing but squander public money and govern by corruption. Taken in connection with his lavish eulogy of the standard attained by agriculture and his admission of general prosperity resulting therefrom, Mr. Whitney's political deliverance was an insult to the intelligence of his audience. (Hear, hear.) The prosperity over which, as a non-partisan, he rejoiced was largely the direct result of the legislation which, as a politician, he had condemned and opposed. (Hear, hear.)

OUR AGRICULTURAL PROGRESS.

Agricultural progress, Mr. Stratton said, had been promoted by the judicious expenditure of public money in connection with the Agricultural College, Farmers' Institutes, dairy instruction, etc. The total expenditures for such purposes since confederation were $5, 382, 698, for which the country has been repaid many times over by results which could not be gainsaid.

"Men in the Reform party long ago had done well, but the present administrators had sadly deteriorated," was one of the statements of the Opposition leader. The Conservatives were always ready to eulogize Liberals after they were dead or had retired from public life. Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. A. S. Hardy and others to whom they now paid a tardy tribute had been assailed with the bitterest abuse during their active lives. When the present leaders had passed from the scene of their labours their opponents would no doubt do them the justice they now withheld, while lavishing vituperation on their successors.

MR. WHITNEY'S COMPLAINT.

Mr. Whitney had also said that nothing had been done by the Reform party since Confederation to improve existing laws. Other critics of the Government had blamed them for over-legislation, and suggested biennial sessions as a remedy for the evil of continual changes. The truth as usual, lay between these extremes. The Government had always shown itself ready to enact such new legislation as was required by reason of the development of the country and the change of conditions. It had always shown itself alert and responsive to the demands of public opinion for alterations in the law; but had not introduced legislation merely for the sake of change, or to make a pretence of activity.

Mr. Whitney's charges on this ground were like all his accusations, vague and unspecific. What legislation did he want? What important interests were suffering for the lack of new enactments? What fresh laws were the people demanding? Mr. Whitney was a legislator, equally responsible with every member on either side of the House for the acts or omissions of the Legislature. If he thought that any particular change in the law was required why did he not introduce a bill embodying it, and if the Government rejected it, throw the responsibility on them. (Hear, hear.)

In his afternoon speech he had alluded to the supposed necessity for a new municipal act. Let him bring in such a measure by all means, embodying any changes he considers desirable. With some such positive attempt at constructive statesmanship before them the people would be better able to judge of his capacities than from mere negative criticism.

ANARCHISTIC TALK OF MR. WHITNEY.

The Opposition leader had referred to the Government as "men drawing salaries as administrators of the province, who under similar circumstances in private life, would have been consigned to jail." He evidently prided himself on the expression, as he stated that he had used it before on the floor of the House, and would do so again. The people of the United States had recently sustained a great national calamity in the assassination of President McKinley, and the occasion had given rise to much heart-searching as to the causes of the crime. The more thoughtful citizens and the leading newspapers were agreed in regarding the use of violent, inflammatory language in the discussion of public questions, coupled with vile aspersions on the reputations of public men, as not the least of the contributory causes of the growth of anarchism. The opinion of the better class of citizens condemnatory of yellow journalism was recently voiced by ex-Mayor Hewitt of New York in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce in that city, when he said "that Czolgosz was egged on to his crime not only by professed Anarchists but also by the newspapers that have continually depicted the President as a creature too contemptible to deserve the respect of a mongrel dog, is an unquestionable truth." Canada was fortunately as yet free from the spirit of anarchism, but it was just such virulent and untruthful utterances as those directed by Mr. Whitney against those in authority which had deservedly brought American yellow journalism into discredit with all right-minded people. (Hear, hear.)

THE EDUCATIONAL QUESTION.

Dealing with the educational question and the cost of school books, Mr. Whitney had again resorted to his familiar tactics of vague and indirect insinuation. "Mr. Ross," he said, "had stated that the entire cost of a set of school books was $5.98. He would leave it to the parents, who were in the best position to know the actual cost." Why did he not meet the Premier's statement fairly, instead of resorting to such an unworthy evasion? If he knew the cost why did he not state it, instead of shirking the issue in this disingenuous fashion?

Then the Opposition leader, in that evening speech, went on to discuss the financial situation. He accused the Government with having "squandered the surplus for their own purposes." Was it any cause for surprise that the electors have repeatedly refused to vote confidence in a leader who permits himself to repeat reckless and unfounded statements of this sort without making even an attempt to substantiate them? The total expenditure of the Province since Confederation to the close of last year was $107,775,177. Mr. Whitney and his followers had been repeatedly challenged on the floor of the House to prove that a single dollar of this vast sum has been misappropriated. They had failed to do so. The Opposition had charged the Government with extravagance and needless expenditure in the public service, but always in vague and general terms. When they had been challenged to give details, to point out how and in what particulars the pruning-knife of retrenchment should be applied, which services should be discontinued, what officials dispensed with, they have never ventured to place their fingers upon a specific item as a superfluous and unnecessary outlay.

THE FINANCIAL COMMISSION.

"If there was really a surplus, where was the need of experts?" asked Mr. Whitney, referring to the financial commission. There was no need of experts to find a surplus, but experts had been required to set at rest forever the misconceptions and wrongful impressions which had obtained widespread currency by reason of the reckless and unfounded statements of Opposition partisans, and to put the public in possession of the facts. (Hear, hear.)

And then Mr. Whitney had dwelt upon his favourite topic, the West Elgin and North Waterloo election frauds, at length. There were other election frauds, however, upon which he did not dwell — to which he did not even make a casual reference. He said, nothing for instance, about William Smith, who was compelled to admit in court the corrupt expenditure of $1200 in South Ontario, with whom the Opposition leader has repeatedly occupied the same platform. (Hear, hear.) He said nothing about the "brawling brood of bribers," and their endeavour to effect a change of Government by the wholesale corruption of members of the Legislature. He said nothing about the Conservative organizer's circular, giving instructions how to win elections by tampering with the ballot box. (Hear, hear.)

AN UNJUST INSINUATION.

With regard to the West Elgin Judicial Commission, Mr. Whitney had said, "It was a matter of surprise to him that any judge would accept an appointment on a commission that was designed in the very nature of things to strangle inquiry."

There are times when Mr. Whitney had posed as the defender of the honour and the reputation of the judiciary, when he repelled with his wonted vehemence what he chose to regard as aspersions on their integrity. But no public man ever cast a more unjust or more unwarrantable insinuation at the bench than was conveyed in that remark. It clearly implied that the judges accepting the commission either corruptly connived with the Government to suppress the truth, or that they were so ignorant and incompetent as to be drawn into a scheme framed for that purpose without realizing its nature. What other construction can be placed upon his language? (Hear, hear.)

The Opposition leader had concluded his address, said Mr. Stratton, by an exhortation as to the appointment of scrutineers at every polling subdivisions, "men who would not fail in their duty." Only men, he said, of the most determined character should be selected for this position. His insistence upon this point recalled the notorious circular issued by the Conservative organizer and warded to Manitoba in 1896 for the instruction of the party workers in that Province. They were instructed get control of both scrutineers by having some Conservative, "a supposed kicker," apply to the Liberals for the appointment. "By this means," the circular went on to say, "a few plausible men will turn the election in a close constituency. Having control of both scrutineers a large vote can be polled—dead and absent voters, etc., can have their ballots marked—there is no redress. Both scrutineers were present."

The man who was responsible for this infamous document was the trusted organizer for the party at the last election. Yet with this evidence of the methods and practices of his own party on record, Mr. Whitney had the effrontery to affect a zeal for political purity and the sanctity of the ballot. It was fortunate, indeed, for the Province that the appointment of returning officers was not in the hands of a party with such a record. (Cheers.)

On resuming his seat Mr. Stratton was warmly applauded, and a very successful convention was closed by rousing cheers for the Ross Government, Mr. McCart and the King.

At the regular meeting of the Apostles, held in the Temple at Salt Lake, Utah, on Thursday, Joseph F. Smith was chosen and set apart as President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in succession to the late Lorenzo Snow, with John R. Winder and Anthony H. Lund as his first and second councillors respectively.

An automatic flush valve, to be used in connection with the Septic tank system of sewage disposal, has been invented by Mr. Martin Quinp of the Public Works Department, Toronto. The invention is approved of by Dr. Bryce, and it is for the purpose of securing the prompt emptying of the tank retaining the liquid, thereby preventing the blocking of the pipes.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH ILL.

He Is Suffering From Bronchitis at Ithaca, New York.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Prof. Goldwin Smith of Toronto is ill with bronchitis at the Ithaca Hotel here. In view of his advanced age, 75 years, some apprehension in regard to his condition was entertained last night.

Probably a Suicide.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 18.—Yesterday morning about 6 o'clock Mr. William Thomas and Mr. William Ross, who were down at the Maid-of-the Mist landing on the Canadian side, noticed a body on the shore which evidently had been washed up from the eddy near the Maid-of-the-Mist landing. At once Coroner Dr. Jas. McGarry was notified, and Morse & Son, the South undertakers, brought the body to their morgue, where it will await identification. It is supposed to be the body of Mrs. Chas. Crocoll of Fort Erie, who has been missing from her home for a few days, and whose footprints were traced by R. Griffin of the Ontario police to the bank of the river.

Shocking Death Near Whitby.

Whitby, Oct. 18.—Death in an especially shocking form came Wednesday night to a young man on the G. T.R. tracks, 2¼ miles west of this town. The dead man's name was C. Anderson, and he came from Port Dover, as was discovered from a letter found in his pocket. He was one of the construction gang at work on the new double tracking between here and Pickering, and yesterday morning his lifeless body was found near the tracks, having been run over by a passing train, and terribly mangled. The train completely cut off one of his legs at the thigh. It is thought he sat down on the track to rest and fell asleep.

Not So Near Death.

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The North-American's London correspondent says: The reports published in America yesterday and cabled back to London, stating that the Baroness Burdett-Coutts is dying, are hardly justified by the reports of that lady's physicians. It is true that the Baroness is in failing health, which is natural in a woman of 88 years, but it has only been a few days since she made application to be present at the coronation ceremonies next spring.

Earl Russell Released.

London, Oct. 18.—Earl Russell, who in July was sentenced by a court of the House of Lords to three months' imprisonment for bigamy, was released from Holloway Jail early yesterday morning. Earl Russell is in good health.

The application of Countess Russell to make absolute her decree of divorce will be heard Oct. 28. In the event of the application being granted, it is announced, the Earl and Mrs. Somerville will be married a few days later.

Labor Again Wins.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The Department of Labor has been notified that the appeal of the mine owners of Rossland against the conviction under the Alien Labor Law has been disallowed. The convictions were the first under the amended Alien Labor Act, and the effect is to greatly strengthen the hands of the labor people in any subsequent prosecutions.

A Month's Respite.

Ottawa, Oct. 18.—The application for a month's respite in the Leplane murder case will be granted by the trial judge. The Department of Justice referred the matter to him. He has got power under the statute to do this. Leplane was to have been executed on the 25th instant. A month of a respite will likely be given.

MR. N. F. DAVIN IS DEAD

Took His Own Life in a Hotel at Winnipeg, Man.

DETAILS OF HIS TRAGIC DEATH

The Well-Known Parliamentarian and Journalist Had Been Varied Experience—His Life Was Spent in Newspaper Work, Law and Public Affairs—His Career in Parliament.

Winnipeg, Oct. 19.—"Nicholas Flood Davin is dead." This sentence passed from lip to lip shortly after 4 yesterday afternoon, and everywhere it was received at first incredulously, and then with sorrow.

As details became known it appeared that the Demosthenes of the west had died by his own hand in his 59th year. The rash act seems to have been most premeditated, for he failed in his attempt to purchase a revolver at one store, went on to another and succeeded in obtaining one. Then he entered his room in the Clarendon Hotel for the last time.

Thursday morning about 11 o'clock he went into J. H. Ashdown's store and purchased a revolver, and a box of cartridges for $4. He took them away with him, but shortly after 2 turned up again with the weapon. One of the chambers was clogged, and he had been unable to work the extractor, hence he had brought it back to obtain assistance in fixing it.

Lindsay, the manager, noticed that at the time he was a trifle the worse of liquor, and so, after fixing the revolver, drew it back just as he was about to hand it over, and gave Mr. Davin the purchase money instead.

Mr. Davin was not, however, deterred by this, for he went to Messrs. Banker and there succeeded in obtaining what he wanted, telling the clerk, with whom he talked for ten minutes, that he might with practice be able to kill cats with it. This was not the only feature which adds sadness to the tragedy, for the unfortunate man, after failing to secure the weapon he wanted at one store, passed an hour or two in driving around town in a hired hack before trying successfully elsewhere. And even after he had got it safely stowed away in his pocket, he went about much as usual.

It was a little after 2.30 that he dropped into the Queen's Hotel, and there ran across Bernard McEvoy, an old Toronto friend, whom he introduced to Col. Macdonald, and with whom he stopped to discuss the present condition of the redskins for quite a time.

"He seemed," said Mr. McEvoy, in talking of the matter a short time after the tragedy, "very depressed. I could hardly believe it was my old friend talking."

From the Queen's he passed on to another hotel, where he took a solitary drink, and then came at 3.30 to the Clarendon again. Telling the hackman to wait and take him to the station en route for Regina, he went straight to his room, appearing as usual to the boy who ran the elevators.

Twenty minutes later another boy was sent up after him with a letter from Regina, which had just arrived. The youngster knocked at the door, and in reply to the usual answer entered the room and handed the letter in. Mr. Davin was at this time sitting at the table, apparently not doing anything. He said nothing, but, taking the letter, turned and seemed as though about to read it, when the boy went out. This boy was the last to speak to the unfortunate man, though not the last to see him, for his room was an inside one number 37 and its window was overlooked by a room occupied by one of the diningroom girls.

"It must have been about ten minutes to four," she said, "that he came over to the window and began to play with a revolver. I stood watching him. I could not make out what he was doing. He was turning it about in his hand and tapping it on the window sill. At one time I thought he must be cleaning it, but of course I could not be sure of it. At all events I did not see him load it and had no idea of the rash act he evidently must have contemplated. After fully five minutes of this aimless turning over and over of the weapon he turned away from the window, and that was the last I saw of him. A minute later I heard a report and thought to myself that man must have shot himself."

Before the startled girl had time to communicate her fears to anyone, news of the suicide had become known from another quarter. Hotel porter John Baird had orders to fetch Mr. Davin's baggage from his room, and was actually on his way upstairs when the shot was fired. He did not hear anything, but on reaching the room found the door locked, and not being able to obtain any answer to his repeated knocks, climbed in through the aperture, which should have been occupied by the fanlight and unlocked the door. As soon as he got high enough to look in he saw the body of the unfortunate man lying on the bed. His right leg was completely on the bed, but his left hung over as though he had fallen carelessly. He lay there on his back, peacefully and not disfigured.

The porter was too horrified by what he had seen to make a close examination at that time, but hurrying down he told the clerk at the desk what he had seen, and together they went back again. A cursory examination showed that nothing could be done. Mr. Davin was unmistakably dead, and accordingly two men turned away, and locking the door carefully behind them, went downstairs to telephone the news to the police and secure the services of a doctor. By good chance Dr. MacDonell was in, and within 10 minutes was on the spot. He was too late to do more, however, than formally announce that life was extinct.

It was with the arrival of the doctor and the almost simultaneous appearance on the scene of Detective Leatch, representing the police, that the first examination of the body was made. It was apparent from the appearance of the body that the demented man must have placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and fired directly upwards. There was no sign of a wound on the face or head, which looked as in life, only infinitely more peaceful.

The only sign of the tragedy was the still, lifeless body lying there on the bed and the clothes saturated with blood.

"He must have died fearfully," said an eye-witness in describing the scene. "Why, when the detective began the necessary search for documents, he got his hand all covered with blood. It was everywhere. It had soaked into the light, black overcoat he wore and into the bed clothes, he was literally deluged in blood."

Search for documents revealed very little, however, except letters which showed that he had been expected back in Regina for some few days, and an unopened letter from his wife, asking how it was he had been detained so long in Winnipeg. This letter it must have been that was taken up to his room shortly before the tragedy. He had little or no money in his pocket, only some ten dollars, but that was hardly peculiar, as he had settled his hotel bill two days ago with the intention of leaving then for Regina.

A close examination of the room followed, and a box of cartridges was found on a table, with one missing. The revolver itself was tightly clenched in his hand, as though he had shot standing and fallen to the bed, still grasping the weapon with which he did the dreadful deed.

Steps were taken immediately after the tragedy to communicate with his friends in the city, and they conveyed the sad news to his wife.

The body lies at the undertaker's now, awaiting instructions as to the funeral. There will be no inquest.

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

No One Who Was Acquainted With Him But Will Regret His End.

Nicholas Flood Davin was in his 59th year. He was an Irish journalist of the school of John Augustus O'Shea, "Ghost" Porter, Edmund O'Donovan and a score of others whose fame will long live in the annals of the British press. The son of a County Limerick medical practitioner, Dr. Nicholas Davin of Ballynanson, he was educated at Queen's College, Cork, and London University. He was called to the English bar at the Middle Temple in 1879, and got a position in the gallery of the House of Commons as a shorthand reporter for one of the London dailies. During the Franco-Prussian War he represented The Standard and Irish Times, was wounded at Mentanedy, and had the greater misfortune of being in Paris during the siege. He was kept in prison for a few weeks.

He "floated out" to Canada in the early seventies and worked first on The Globe staff. Later on he joined The Mail, and was a popular member of the old U. E. Club on King-street. He was called to the Ontario bar in 1874, and was made Q.C. in 1890. He defended Bennett for the murder of Hon. George Brown. He was one of Sir John Macdonald's star stumpers in the N. P. campaign of 1876-77, and was put up by the Conservative party to contest Haldimand against the father of the present member, Colonel Thompson. One of Mr. Davin's jokes at the expense of his opponent almost gained the young Irishman the riding, and the joke is not yet forgotten in Haldimand. He was sent to Washington by Sir John Macdonald to report upon the Indian schools, and afterwards went out to Manitoba about the same subject. He was secretary of the Regina Commission of 1885 on the C.P.R., and was also secretary of the Chinese Immigration Commission in 1884. In 1886 he stirred out west and established The Regina Leader, returning as member for West Assiniboia in 1887.

His pride was a hard literary worker. He got an amazing amount of later into his brilliant work. "The Irishmen in Canada," and published while in the Northwest "Dan, the Hero of the Dawn," "Culture and Practical Power," "The Fair Girl," "British v. American Civilization," "Ireland and the Empire," "The Hunt of Ballinacahill."

ST. JOHN LEFT BEHIND.

The New Brunswick City Give Their Royal Highnesses a Rousing Send-Off —Halifax To-Day.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 19.—The royal visitors were farewelled yesterday at noon as enthusiastically as they were welcomed the day before. The royal train left at 12.30. There was a dense throng of people about when Their Royal Highnesses drove to the depot. There were farewells to the Lieut.-Governor, Mayor, Consul-General Blount of Boston and others, and the royal train drew out on its way to Halifax, while the cheers of thousands went up. The royal couple stood on the rear of their car and bowed their acknowledgment of what was a magnificant ovation.

Arrived at Windsor.

Halifax, Oct. 19.—The royal train arrived at Amherst about schedule time, and the Duke and Duchess were given a most enthusiastic greeting by the immense concourse of people who assembled from far and near. The royal pair alighted on a profusely decorated platform and were presented to the Mayor and town councillors, while the Amherst band played the National Anthem.

The Governor-General's train reached Windsor, 14 miles from this city, at 10.45, and the royal train 20 minutes later. They will remain there for the night. The first train will reach Halifax at 9.30 a. m., and the second one at 10 o'clock.

IMPRISONED IN A TUNNEL.

Rock Cave in Carrying Death to an Undetermined Number.

New York, Oct. 19.—Fifty tons of rock caved in the Rapid Transit Tunnel at 167th street and Broadway yesterday, carrying death to an undetermined number of the forty men who were at work far down below the surface in the burrow.

The known dead are: Peter O'Hara, aged 65; Daniel Kelleher, aged 60; Luigi Danio, aged 25; Patsick Madden, foreman.

Many of the others were imprisoned in a small chamber of the excavation, and their fate will not be known until the rescuers, who are digging toward them, reach the point where they are entombed. They are 600 feet south of the great shaft at the intersection of 167th street and Broadway, and 110 feet underground, and it is feared that a majority of them have been either crushed or suffocated to death. The cave-in occurred at 2.45 o'clock, and its cause and the responsibility for the deadly results can scarcely be determined until there has been an official inquiry.

AN OAKVILLE GIRL MISSING.

Visited Brother-in-Law in Amherstburg and Disappeared on Monday.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 19.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of Miss Laura Doty, a young and beautiful girl of Oakville, Ont. Miss Doty had been visiting at the home of her brother-in-law, Rev. W. E. Kerr, of Amherstburg, and on last Monday the minister brought her to Detroit and put her on board a Grand Trunk train. She expected to return to her home by the way of Port Huron. Mr. Kerr returned to Amherstburg. When Miss Doty did not reach Oakville at the expected time, her mother waited for a day, and then telegraphed to find if her daughter had left Amherstburg. Possible places along the line were queried, but the girl seems to have dropped from sight. Mr. Kerr will search for some clue in Detroit, and then will go to Port Huron.

The most disastrous times have produced the greatest minds. The purest metal comes of the most ardent furnace, the most brilliant lightning from the darkest clouds.

BOTHA ABANDONS MEN

2,000 of Them Scatter to Escape as Best They Can.

SIGNS OF THE END OF THE WAR

British Cavalry Now Closely Surrounding the Boers—Their Commander-in-Chief Trying to Make His Way North—One Canadian Wounded and Another Dangerously Ill—Interesting Talk.

New York, Oct. 14.—From Newcastle, Natal, a correspondent of The Times sends a despatch, which says that a large number of Boers are near Pongolabosco and Blaauwpan, while a commando of 800 holds a position southeast of Piet Retief.

Commandant-General Botha has dissolved his force, which numbered 2,000, and has left his men to escape as best they can. He, himself, with a few followers, has gone north through a small unguarded space near Piet Retief.

The main interest of the moment, says the despatch, centres in the operations around Pongolabosco, where the British are gradually enclosing the Boers.

Refugee Population.

London, Oct. 19.—Returns from the refugee camps in South Africa for September show a total white population of 149,418; deaths among the whites, 2,411, of which 1,254 were children. The colored population is shown to be 88,456, among whom there were 961 deaths during the month.

Port Perry Fugitive.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 19.—A cable from Hon. Joseph Chamberlain to the Militia Department says that Richard Douglas Muir, whose father resides at Magregor, Manitoba, was wounded in the arm at Rett Point on Oct. 10, and that Frank Nott of Port Perry, Ont., is dangerously ill with enteric fever at Elandsfontein.

Canadians in Danger.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The wives and families of the Canadians serving as officers of the South African Constabulary are said to be stationed at Malmesbury, the place reported yesterday as occupied by the Boers.

Gen Canadian Missing.

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—The following despatch from Mr. Chamberlain to His Excellency the Governor-General has been received at the Militia Department:

"London, Oct. 17.—Please inform H. Tunstead, 666 St. Patrick street, Ottawa, that H. Tunstead is reported missing, Jagersfontein Drift, Oct. 12. (Signed) Chamberlain."

Austria May Intercede.

Vienna, Oct., 19.—The Unterhaus yesterday elected Dr. Kaiser as first vice-president of that House. In returning thanks, Dr. Kaiser seized the occasion to interpellate the Government on its attitude in regard to the South African war. He insisted that Austria ought to intercede to secure through arbitration an end of the "robber war now waged by Great Britain." That country, he added, should be obliged to conform to the exigencies of humanity and international law.

May Get Delagoa Bay.

Washington, Oct. 19.— Gen. James R. O'Beirne of New York, special representative of the Boer Government in this country, was one of the President's callers yesterday, but did not speak to him about the Boer situation. He will seek, however, to go over the situation informally with the Secretary of State, in the hope that some steps may be taken on the part of the United States to bring about a settlement of the war in South Africa. Gen. O'Beirne says the latest advices indicate that the Boers may be able to secure Delagoa Bay and make it a base of operations.

French Miners Are Armed.

Paris, Oct. 19.—The reply of Premier Waldeck-Rousseau, to the Secretary of the Miners' Federation, regarding the Government's intentions towards their demands, is not considered very satisfactory to the men, whose committee will meet Sunday and resolve whether to strike or not on Nov. 1. Ten thousand Gendarmes, from which the rifling has been removed in order to avoid their seizure as military weapons, are now in the hands of the miners. The Government will seize these weapons immediately on the declaration of a strike.

Another Exhibition.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 19.—Hon. Sydney Fisher has received a request from Wolverhampton, England, that Canada will be represented at the Exhibition there in 1902. Offer for space in the main building and for the Canadian building are given. The Earl of Dartmouth is President of the Exhibition. The idea of the Exhibition is to illustrate the industrial and scientific progress of the British Empire and of foreign countries.

Heavy Losses Reported.

Paris, Oct. 19.—Le Drapeau, the organ of Paul Deroulede, a bitter opponent of the Waldeck-Rousseau Cabinet, says a letter recently received from the Ivory Coast, West Africa, mentions a report that Gen. Combes, the French commander there, has lost 370 killed and 200 wounded in engagements with rebels, and that the Government has not replied to his request for reinforcements.

Pope in Perfect Health.

Rome, Oct. 19.—The recurring newspaper reports that the Pope is suffering from weakness and is subject to fainting spells have called out a denial from the Vatican. His Holiness is in perfect health.

MRS. IDA L. ROSER,

Grand-Niece of Ex-President James K. Polk, Writes to Mrs. Pinkham.

Thankful for Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Did you ever stop to realize what keen satisfaction one experiences when we find that some kind and helpful thing we have done for some one else has been sincerely appreciated! At such times, how truly we understand the expression "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Think, therefore, of the pleasure and genuine satisfaction Mrs. Pinkham experiences when such letters come to her as the one from Mrs. Roser which we are herewith permitted to publish.

Think what it means to her; it means first, that one more lovely woman has been relieved from sickness and distress through her assistance; it means second, that this woman who is cured is so grateful that she wants other women in the land to know of it; and it means lastly that Mrs. Pinkham's claims for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are fully substantiated by testimony of such high character that every woman who reads this must believe and hope.

To be appreciated is a great pleasure, but to bring peace and happiness to the suffering is heavenly. Such is the mission of Mrs. Pinkham, and such a letter as the following proves her success!

MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 E. 16th Ave., Denver, Col.
Grand-niece of ex-President James K. Polk, and Assistant Grand Secretary of Colorado, Wyoming, and New Mexico Independent Order of Good Templars.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself today, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, Yours very gratefully,—MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 18th Ave., Denver, Col."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women whose testimony is so unquestionable, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A TEMPORARY BENEFIT.

There is little doubt that the beet root sugar industry can be successfully established in Ontario. Whether that be true or not the activity in beet root sugar exploitation is benefitting the consumer, at least temporarily. The monopolistic cane sugar concerns of the United States are trying to meet beet sugar competition by large reductions. The Sugar Trust has recently reduced prices, and the stiffer the competition the greater the reduction within the limits of profitable production, and perhaps beyond that will be, for it is the way of the trusts to lose money if by so doing competition can be crushed and a return to monopoly prices made possible. Meanwhile the consumer will be reaping the advantage.

A FALLACY EXPOSED.

Mr. Whitney, the leader of the Opposition, condemns the Ontario Government, because, when proposing a bonus to "encourage the growth of sugar beets and the establishment of factories for the manufacture of refined sugar therefrom," there was no proposal to bonus the farmers who produced the beets. The farmer is bonused more than the manufacturer. Every factory established furnishes the farmer with a market for a new crop, more profitable, perhaps, than any he now raises. So great is the profit that the Toronto World, one of Mr. Whitney's organs, in an article reprinted in another columns, calls beet sugar a "mortgage lifter," and shows what an immensely profitable crop sugar beets are. The farmer, to raise beets, is put to no extra expense, except perhaps in increasing the fertility of his soil, and for this he is richly repaid by increased returns. To establish a beet root sugar factory involves an initial expenditure of half a million dollars, and it is reasonable to pay the manufacturer who is put to such large cost a small bonus to assist in establishing the business. The farmer gets a bonus in the market for a new crop, which yields large profits, which he would not have if factories were not established. Every farmer can see that he gets more profit from this arrangement than he would get from a bonus of a cent a bushel on beets, for which he could, without a factory, find no market, and in proposing such a bonus, Mr. Whitney exposes himself to the charge of using the tactics of the demagogue.

FORT FRANCIS AND ITS GOLD MINES.

It is to be hoped that the reported discovery of rich deposits of gold near Fort Frances is true, for it would have great influence upon the future of that village and district. The probabilities of this find being a bona-fide one are good. There is gold all around Fort Frances, gold galore in Rainy Lake Islands and in the Lake of the Woods. Fort Frances is a beautiful little village admirably situated for becoming an important centre of population. It has now railway communication east and west; it has at its very doors a magnificent water power capable of developing 60,000 or 65,000 horse power. The Canadian Northern Railway gives it direct access to the limitless Northwest just beginning to fill up with people, who will be large consumers of manufactured products. There does not seem to be anything chimerical in supposing the possibility [illegible] It is [illegible] Manitoba in Ontario where manufacturing can be done to advantage. What is to prevent the utilization of this splendid water power for the establishment of very large cotton or woollen mills? The raw material could be brought by water cheaply to Port Arthur, and a short railway run by the Ontario and Rainy River Railway brings the raw material to Fort Frances, while the haul for the finished product to the Northwest would be shorter than that from more eastern factories, equalizing conditions and making the Fort Frances enterprise feasible. Lack of capital accounts largely for the lack of development, and utilization of the water power. If there are large gold deposits near Fort Frances the capital needed will be on the spot; and besides large mining operations would attract the attention of capitalists to the facilities for profitable investment. Fort Frances is, moreover, the centre of a naturally most beautiful region of island and lake scenery, that must, when well known, prove an irresistible attraction to tourists. This village and its vicinity are only a sample of the opportunities for untold development that exists in New Ontario. The more that is known about this region the more the advance policy of the Ontario Government is justified. Every new evidence constantly cropping up, indicates that the northern part of this province has the largest possibilities of profitable development.

GOOD ROADS ARE COMING.

Improvements in Ontario Said to be Marvellous.

Mr. A. W. Campbell Speaks Enthusiastically of a Recent Tour—Expenditure in New York State and Ontario Compared.

(From the Globe.)

"The road improvement going on in the Province is simply marvellous," said Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, yesterday, after several days spent in Western Ontario. "Modern machinery is being used almost entirely. Systematic plans are being laid down and followed, the appropriations by municipalities have been wonderfully increased in the last five years, and the very deepest interest is being taken in the work by Council and people." Mr. Campbell said he had recently accompanied a number of engineers, including Norwich, in Oxford, and Bosanquet, in Lambton, examples of levelling grading and seeding with with grass on the sides of the road, where the farmers were taking particular pains to beautify the highway.

Mr. Campbell's attention was drawn to a statement in an American newspaper that New York State had appropriated $30,000 for road improvement this year; also that 45 miles had been improved at a cost of $267,000, and 122 miles further were undergoing improvement at a cost of $732,750. Mr. Campbell admitted that these roads looked rather expensive, but remarked that the policy in New York State had been to first build enormously expensive trunk roads leading to large centres, and that, further, the necessary gravel and stone were not nearly so convenient in New York State as in this Province. Here there but few counties which have not all the raw material that is needed close at hand, and we are able to build roads much more cheaply.

"I should say that in the Province of Ontario this year fully 600 miles of good stone and gravel roads will have been built, and this largely by local appropriation. The people have not yet commenced to take advantage of the recent legislation appropriating one million dollars for road improvement within the next ten years, but as soon as they do much more will be done. Within the past ten years $7,320,449 has been expended for improving the roads by the township municipalities. This is equivalent to almost $750,000 a year, which is all raised by direct taxation. Besides this, there is expended annually in Ontario, 1,100,000 days of labor under the statute labor system.

USED HOT WATER

But Everything Proved Useless Except Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mr. Edward Gallagher, of 139 York street, Hamilton, Ont., is one of those who testifies to the power of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Dyspepsia afflicted him for six years, during which he essayed all kinds of cures, tried all sorts of treatments and used almost every kind of medicine in vain.

Mr. Gallagher grew desperate. Friends were foolish enough to advise soda as a temporary relief. This is a fearful mistake. So far from curing stomach trouble it brings on a condition which is worse than the first. Soda has a tendency to destroy the lining of the stomach and the public cannot be too strongly warned against it.

Finally Mr. Gallagher found the one sure radical cure for all troubles of digestion and diseases of the stomach. He tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Did they fail him? Read his letter:

"For six years," he writes, "I have been troubled with Dyspepsia, Headaches and all the miseries of Indigestion. Nothing that I ate would keep the horrible trouble from me. I tried hot water, reduced my diet but still this dreaded disease kept its hold on me. I have many times had to quit my work, the pains were so bad. Friends even advised me to use soda but that did me more harm than good.

"One day I read of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got a box and tried one, and then after supper I tried another. I got some relief and so I determined to keep on with the treatment that finally cured me.

"I am now, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, the possessor of good digestion. For six years I didn't know what it was to relish a meal. Now I have a wonderful appetite and can digest anything. I cannot praise Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets too highly."

TEACHER SWALLOWS POISON.

Tragic Death of James E. Wallace of Morrisburg at Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 19.—James E. Wallace, a middle-aged school teacher, ended his existence yesterday in his room at the Stag Hotel, corner of King and York streets, by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid. What led Wallace to end his life is not known. But it is known that he contemplated the act as early as Tuesday last. He was well known in Ottawa and Morrisburg, where, from all accounts, he was well liked. Letters found in his possession show that he was on the teaching staff of the Ottawa Collegiate Institute from 1883 to 1898, and held a second-class professional certificate. From the capital he went to Morrisburg, and for two years was employed as salesman in the stationery store of W. A. Plants, who gave him an excellent recommendation. Wallace came to Toronto on Saturday last, and registered at the Stag Hotel, arranging for sleeping accommodation only.

Shortly the body was found a 5-oz. bottle of carbolic acid, from which the label had been removed. A letter was also found, dated Tuesday, which was not addressed to any one in particular.

It read: "I am sorry to have caused so much grief to my friends, particularly to my wife and my mother. If may be, God will sometime forgive me for it all, and for the act which I am now to commit. To my friends, who have shown kindness to me I would say I appreciate it fully, and wish they will not have cause to regret it. To those who have injured me, I would say, I bear no ill-will, but only trust they may yet see what a mistake they made. Goodbye." (Signed) J. Wallace.

Everything pointed to a case of suicide, and Coroner Spencer, who issued a warrant for an inquest to be held to-day at 3 p.m. Relatives of deceased have been notified of Wallace's tragic death.

End Neuralgia's Agony.

Have you failed to get permanent relief? Are you almost frantic with neuralgic pain? If so, why not use Polson's Nerviline? Five times the strength of other remedies, it penetrates the tissues, and drives out the pain instantly. Quick relief, sure cure, large bottles 25c.

Tea Killed, Six Wounded.

Washington, Oct. 19.—The following cablegram was received at the War Department yesterday afternoon:

"Manila, Oct. 18.—Forty-six men, Company E, 9th Regiment, U. S. Infantry, under First Lieut. Geo. A. Wallace, in field Lower Candara, Samar, were attacked by 400 Bolomen, Oct. 16. Our loss 10 killed, 6 wounded, names not received. Eighty-one of the enemy left dead on the field. Enemy beaten off. (Signed), Chaffee."

PAUNCEFOTE SAILS OCT. 26.

New Canal Treaty Will Be Signed in Washington.

Washington, Oct. 19. — Lord Pauncefote will sail for the United States on the 26th instant, before the British Cabinet Council has had an opportunity to review the protocols, which embody in principle the proposed new Hay-Pauncefote canal treaty. It is thought here, however, that that fact will not delay sensibly the final negotiations, which will take place here between Secretary Hay and Lord Pauncefote, for it is the intention that the new treaty, like that which it will replace on the docket of the Senate, shall be finally drafted and signed in the City of Washington. It is said that when the new document is framed the "Fortifications" clause will have been found to have dropped out, leaving the United States at liberty to fortify the canal, but it is distinctly stated that it is not obliged to do so, and in fact there is no present intention of erecting fortifications, which, it is stated, would be much more expensive than a fleet of battleships and less useful.

Minister From Mexico.

Mexico City, Oct. 19.—The President has nominated as Minister Extraordinary to the British Court Alfonso Lancaster Jones, who is a descendant of a Welsh family and familiar with the English language. Minister Jones is a lawyer of distinction, professor of international law, and a close personal friend of the President.

Fast Atlantic Service.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—Sir Christopher Furness arrived from Quebec yesterday and was closeted with Lord Strathcona for the greater part of the afternoon discussing the question of a fast Atlantic service. Sir Christopher left yesterday afternoon for Ottawa and the west.

Will Be the Largest Yet.

London, Oct. 19.—The Admiralty has sent instructions to Devonport to prepare for the construction of a battleship larger than any now existing. Her displacement will be 16,500 tons and her length 425 feet. She will be the first vessel of the King Edward class.

Major Fowlds Dead.

Hastings, Ont., Oct. 19.—Major H. W. Fowlds, 40th Battalion, died at his residence in Hastings, Ont., on the 17th inst. and pneumonia. He will be buried with military honors Monday, 21st inst., at 3 p. m.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple, Common-sense; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and local applications can no more cure catarrh and rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood, and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children may use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not despair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents. Price 25c. and $1 at druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

BRESCI'S ACCOMPLICE

In King Humbert's Murder, Quintavalli, Imprisoned.

EX-GOVERNOR PILLSBURY DEAD

Charles Kenner, Who Said He Was From Toronto, Given 18 Months in the Central Prison for a Murderous Assault on the Tilsonburg Chief of Police—Tobacco War Begun.

It is the intention to prolong the Pan-American till Nov. 15.

Ex-Governor Pillsbury of Minnesota died at 2.35 Friday morning at Minneapolis. He was unconscious all day.

At Sarnia, in the Middleton v. Wilkinson case, the jury Friday morning awarded the plaintiff $5,000. It was a breach of promise case, in which the plaintiff sued for $15,000.

A meeting will be held in Boston to discuss a combination of all the sulphite mill companies in the United States and Canada. Manufacturers are to be paid for their mills in stocks.

By falling 50 feet from an iron frame at the new hotel, Toronto, on Friday afternoon, Andrew Irwin sustained such serious injuries that he died shortly afterwards in the Emergency Hospital. His skull was fractured.

The Provincial Game Warden has issued between 5,000 and 6,000 deer hunting licenses this season, through 225 deputy wardens. He also instructed 40 men to look after the hunters' camps and see that the law is enforced.

The tobacco trade war has already commenced, the American trust having notified its retailers of a large reduction in the price of cigarettes. The struggle between the Titans of British trade and the American trust is likely to be very severe and prolonged.

A despatch from Rome says that Salvator Quintavalli, the Anarchist who returned from the United States with Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert, has been committed to prison by the court at Porto Ferrajo, Island of Elba, on the charge of being an accomplice of Bresci.

At Leamington two storeys of the Wigle House were completely gutted by fire on Friday, with all contents, including in some instances the personal property of the boarders and servants. The building and contents are insured for $4,000, and the damage is thought to be about $2,000.

A remarkable duel with sabres has taken place near Leghorn, between Lieut. Scrivers of the artillery and Major Fuerini. They fought 72 rounds, and, although actually slashing and thrusting at one another for an hour and forty minutes, they both escaped with slight cuts.

A tramp who gave his name as Charles Keenor, and claimed to come from Toronto, attached Chief Pew of Tilsonburg when he attempted to arrest the Weary Walker. Thursday afternoon he was brought before Magistrate Hare to answer to a charge of murderous assault and was given eighteen months in Central Prison.

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhozone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it cures. Price 25c. and $1 at druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Lame Back in the Morning.

There are many people who find it a difficult task getting up in the morning, on account of a terrible pain and soreness across the small of the back that makes rising a painful and discomforting operation. Ever know what it was to have your back so bad that when you'd try to get out of bed you'd almost scream with the pain?

Can't do much of a day's work starting off with a back as bad as that—not fit for pleasure either. Well, all this backache and pain, this stiffness and soreness comes because the kidneys are clogged up, can't do their work properly, and your back has to suffer for it.

Just try a box or two of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. What a change you'll find coming over you! You'll be able to spring from your bed in the morning as lively as a cricket, and feel refreshed and fit for your daily duties.

TOUCHED THE SPOT.

Joseph Weeks, Bookwith Street, Smith's Falls, says: "My back was in a bad way. I was desperately lame, and there was a dull grinding pain over my kidneys. At times I had headaches, and often I was dizzy, particularly if I had been stooping. I tried first one thing, then another, but there was no permanent benefit till I began using Pitcher's Kidney Tablets. They got right to the spot and I found prompt relief. Nothing before ever did me so much good. I would suggest to anyone suffering in that way to try them."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a box, at all druggists or by mail, from Dr. Zola Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

CANADIAN FORESTRY.

Members of Local Courts Met Last Evening.

THE HIGH COURT OFFICERS.

A Most Interesting Address by Bro. Stewart of the Executive—Organizer Strong Also Present.

The event of the year in local Forestric circles took place last evening, when a large number of the members of the three local Courts of the Canadian Order of Foresters, assembled in Court Peterborough's Hall on Simcoe street to hear an address from Bro. J. A. Stewart, of the High Court Executive, and Bro. Strong of the Organisation Department.

Brother Walter Hooper, District Deputy, occupied the chair, and the visitors were introduced to the meeting by Brother F. J. Jameson.

Bro. Stewart in his remarks, expressed his appreciation of the privilege accorded him in being asked to address so large a meeting, and spoke of the pleasure he felt at being brought in contact with the Peterborough brethren for the first time. He referred in complimentary terms to the representatives from Peterborough whom he had met at the High Court. No town, he stated, had received greater recognition at the hand of the High Court than Peterborough. The local representative, Br. Jameson, had been singled out for honours as had no other representative, having been re-elected on the Executive continuously for many years. It was no flattery to say that no brother had given the Order better service than had Mr. Jameson. It was he and the others who composed the Executive in earlier years who were to be thanked for the present prosperous condition of affairs in the Order.

Turning his attention to the Order itself, the speaker claimed that viewing any fraternal society from any standpoint, the Canadian Order of Foresters stood pre-eminent above all in substantiability. He had just been attending a meeting of the High Court Executive, where disposition had been made of $85,000 in investments, and an examination of the Treasurer's books, showed an increase in receipts of $113,000 for the last eight months. Speaking of the investment of the funds, he stated that there was no other society, which took its membership into its confidence in such matters as did the C.O.F. The Forester shows how every cent is being invested. The funds are all put into the best municipal debentures that are available. No speculative investments are made, and such a course must meet with the endorsation of the Order at large. The Constitution provided that not a cent of the Reserve Fund could be touched for any other purpose than the payment of death claims. With other societies certain moneys are deducted from the Insurance Fund and transferred to the General Fund to defray the cost of management. With the C.O.F., not a cent was ever withdrawn in this or any other manner. The straight line life insurance companies claimed that the C.O.F. was not collecting enough money to make provision for the payment of insurance when it matured but they did not take into account that the C.O.F. does not take a cent from its insurance fund for management. All such expense is paid by the Capitation Tax, amounting to only a dollar a head. Three of the principal life insurance companies of Canada had to charge 6.53, 6.91, and 10.3 per thousand per year for management expenses. How did this compare with the C.O.F.? It is interesting to note that it only costs the Order about a dollar a head to manage the whole business. All the work of the agents in straight line companies is done in the C. O. F. by the officers of subordinate lodges for nothing. The straight line companies only gave the C.O.F. twenty years to live, yet the Order was still flourishing, and had as yet seen no reason to change its system of rates. No other society could say the same.

Another feature which was very satisfactory to observe was the steady increase in membership. To the first of October last year the membership had increased by 4249, and this was considered very satisfactory, indeed, but this year the Order was doing even better, as to the first of October this year the membership had increased by 4575. The membership in any society must increase, as if it stands still, up goes the assessment. The average of deaths in the Order last year was only 4.93, and for the last ten years averaged 4.3. This is the lowest death rate of any society in Canada, and as the average age of the members is under 35 years, the Order stands excellently in these two very important features. Only 8 suicides are recorded in the history of the Order compared with 511 in another society of similar size. This is significant of the fact that the C.O.F. has a class of membership much better than that which characterizes other organizations.

There were 7,000 new members admitted to the Order last year, and the cost of organization was $20,000. Of this sum, $11,000 was actually paid by the new members, which deducted from the expense fund would leave $8,000, or a little more than a dollar a head for them. As they would pay $1 a head Capitation Tax, the expense of procuring the new members was practically nothing.

The speaker then made an urgent appeal to the members to assist Organizer Strong in his present effort to increase the membership in Peterborough, and closed by reminding all that the Order was essentially Canadian, remarking at the same time that there was no time in the history of Canada that Canadians should be prouder of their country. On resuming his seat, Mr. Stewart, who is the Mayor of Perth, and therefore well posted on municipal matters, congratulated those present on the condition of the Peterborough streets, which he stated he could observe had been constructed on the right principles of road making, according to the system advocated by the Ontario Government, which was offering aid to the municipalities, and rightly so, to encourage the construction of better roads.

Organizer Strong's remarks were confined entirely to the advocacy of certain lines along which he wished the members to assist him in working, and a meeting of the officers of the various courts will be held on Monday evening at eight o'clock, in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, to further consider his suggestions.

Before adjourning, a most appetizing supper was served under the superintendence of Bro. Thomas Hooper.

The Port Hope Knitting Works are justly famed for their Scotch fingering yarn stockings. They make them on their own electric power machines. The small size starts at 15c, running up to 35c for the largest size. Every customer praises them.

57TH REGT. ORDERS.

Headquarters, Peterborough
October, 18, 1901.

Orders by Lieut.-Colonel H. B. Edwards, Commandant 57th Regiment, P.B.

1. The regular Tuesday evening drills of the regiment will be discontinued from this date until further notice.

2. On Tuesday, October 22nd, at 8 p. m., a class will be formed at the drill hall for all members of the regiment wishing extra drill instruction, as well as for those desirous of qualifying for non-commissioned officers' regimental certificates. This class will meet every Tuesday evening until further orders and will be conducted by the Sergeant-Major.

3. Officers commanding companies will see that the non-commissioned officers and men of their commands immediately return to their respective armouries, or into stores, all regimental uniforms and equipments, such as tunics, serges, trousers, caps, helmets, great coats, belts, haversacks, leggings and rifles, except such as may be actually required by those attending the class referred to in Order No. 2. This order is likewise to apply to all members of the stretcher bearer section and of the drum and bugle corps. For the present, it will be sufficient for members of the regimental band to return tunics and leggings.

4. The commanding officer desires to express to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men, his appreciation of the earnest efforts put forth by all ranks to maintain the credit of the regiment and of the town, upon the occasion of the recent review before H. R. H. the Duke of Cornwall and York, at Toronto, and to congratulate them upon the success of such efforts. The corps not only acquitted itself with credit upon all formal parades, but the conduct and behaviour of the members of the regiment, both on and off parade, were such as to call forth the high praise given them by Col. Otter for their thoroughly soldierly and steady bearing throughout the trip.

By order,
D. WALKER, Captain,
Adjutant.

THE INDUCTION OF REV. E. A. LANGFELDT

A Rector of the Church and Parish of St. Luke's.

A SIMPLE SOLEMN CEREMONY

Rev. Dr. Symonds Preaches an Eloquent and Appropriate Sermon—Special Music and Service—An Interesting Ceremonial.

Last night at St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, the ceremony of the induction of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, as Rector of the Church and Parish of Ashburnham, took place. Though the weather — slush and rain — was very disagreeable, there was a large congregation present. Among the clergy in attendance were, Ven. Archdeacon Allen, of Millbrook, who performed the induction ceremonies, Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, Rev. Dr. Symonds, Trinity College School, Port Hope, and Rev. W. L. Armitage, of All Saints'. Dr. Cornwall was also present, representing the congregation of Christ Church, Omemee.

The special service, an abbreviated form of evening prayer, began with the singing of the hymn, 208:

Ye servants of the Lord,
Each in his office wait,

Then followed the ceremony of induction. Ven. Archdeacon Allen advanced from the sanctuary to the steps of the chancel, where Rev. Ernest Alwin Langfeldt, presented himself for induction. After making his declaration of compliance with the canons of the Synod of the Diocese of Toronto, the Archdeacon read the episcopal warrant appointing the Rev. Mr. Langfeldt Rector of St. Luke's. Whereupon the Archdeacon declaring him duly inducted, handed him a copy of the Holy Scriptures and the Book of Common Prayer, the Rector's Churchwarden, Mr. Frank Adams, presenting him with the keys of the church and rectory. With the benediction of the Archdeacon, the simply solemn ceremony was over, and the newly-inducted Rector took his place within the sanctuary, and the service proceeded, conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. Mr. Armitage reading the special lesson, the 33rd chapter of the Prophecy of Ezekiel, appropriately referring to the duties of the watchman on the walls of Zion. Then followed the Nunc Dimittis, special prayers, and the anthem, "Praise the Lord."

THE SERMON.

Rev. Dr. Symonds was the special preacher, and he delivered a specially effective and appropriate sermon from the text found in the 4th chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke, the 16th, and the following verses.

This passage, the preacher said, was the first recorded sermon of our blessed Lord. The first sermon of a young preacher was necessarily crude and imperfect, because he was merely an apprentice, but Christ was fully prepared for his work. Christ's first sermon was intended to strike the key note of his ministry. It might have been a denunciation of judgment upon sinners, but it was a message of love and the tenderest pity for the lowly and suffering. His was the work of the healer, and in this connection, the preacher said he would like to take the Rector and congregation of St. Luke's to the heart of Jesus Christ. Referring to the occasion, the preacher said, without intention and by coincidence, the induction ceremony of a Rector of St. Luke's had fallen very appropriately upon the festival of St. Luke, whose name the church bore. St. Luke's Gospel especially emphasized the idea of the Gospel of Love. What had impressed St. Luke in recording the life of our Lord which he had seen, was, first, the love enjoined and shown towards the lowly, the suffering and the outcast, and, next, its universal inclusiveness — embracing all creeds and classes. The Gospel of St. Matthew took the genealogy of Jesus Christ back to Abraham alone; St. Luke's went back to Adam, the father of the whole human family. It was St. Luke alone of the evangelists, who recorded the song of Simeon. It was St. Luke alone who recorded our Lord's rebuke to the race prejudice and religious narrowness of the Jews. St. Luke's gospel record was pre-eminently the gospel of the poor and lowly. It recorded the birth of our Lord in a stable, and contained the parable of the prodigal son; it alone recorded the dying prayer of our Lord for His enemies. This Gospel breathed the spirit of toleration; it alone recorded the fact that the only healed leper who returned to give thanks was a Samaritan. It alone records the parable of the Good Samaritan. St. Luke's Gospel records a Gospel for every class and degree of man. This was the kind od preaching needed to-day — no new Gospel but the same message of love to a suffering world. Christ's attitude towards the sinner was one of love and compassion but towards sin, a sense of its awful nature and consequences, something that took man away from God. Here the preacher addressing the Rector implored him to let no cares of his work, no distraction or worry subordinate the idea of the awfulness of sin. He should consecrate all his abilities to show its hideousness. Christ did not confound sin and the sinner, He came, as St. Luke alone tells us, to save not to destroy. Man went away from God and not God from man. Man was always welcomed back no matter how low and vile, as was shown by the beautiful parable of the prodigal son. The importance of personal influence was insisted upon, we could preach what we felt, reflecting the warmeth and light of the sun of righteousness. Healing was the leading idea of the Gospel according to St. Luke, and modern thought was emphasizing the idea of sin as a disease, and the modern philanthropist bent his efforts to the work of healing and ameliorating the condition physical as well as moral of the suffering, fallen and degraded. Patience was an element in the work of saving souls. Christ who would not break the bruised reed nor quench the smoking flax was an example. What was prominently put forth in St. Luke's Gospel was the love of God for the sinner and the hatefulness of sin. It foreshadowed the brotherhood of man by imposing the duty of saving others. We could, to a great extent, save ourselves by savin gothers. Preaching took different aspects at different periods. At the Reformation the preaching of the doctrine of individual responsibility was needed; to-day that of our responsibility in respect of the brotherhood of man was indicated. There was a terrible competition in these days between capital and labour and what was wanted, as a remedy, was a realisation of the brotherhood of man. This was preached more fully in St. Luke's Gospel than any other. In the church there might be divisions in matters of form, etc. These could consistently co-exist in subordination to the brotherhood of men which made all common. This was no new doctrine but was illustrated in the preaching of Christ — wherever a humble and loving heart was found there He saw the Kingdom of Heaven. Rev. Dr. Symonds concluded a thoughtful and impressive sermon with an earnest prayer for the pastor and people of St. Luke's.

Then followed the prescribed prayer of devotion of the newly inducted Rector himself to the work of his pastorate, and the closing hymn and benediction.

Rev. Ernest Alwin Langfeldt is a native of Gnoien, in the Grand Duchy of Mecklenburg, Germany. After preliminary education he studied medicine at the University of Rostock. He came to Canada in 1890, and the circumstances that led up to his entering the Christian ministry would seem like a chapter of romance, were not they, as it may be said with reverence, evidently directed by the finger of Almighty God. At all events these circumstances led him to enter Wycliffe College, Toronto, where at the same time he carried on the study of theology and that of the English language, which he speaks with great purity and elegance, and with only enough of German accent to give it a character of its own. He was ordained deacon May 28th, 1899, and admitted to the priesthood on March 11th, 1900. His first incumbency was that of Christ church, Omemee, where he laboured two years and nine months, was "esteemed very highly in love for his work's sake" there and parted with with reluctance and regret when the Bishop of Toronto appointed him to the Rectorship of St. Luke's, into which he was inducted last night under auspices which promise, with the Divine blessing, a ministry of great usefulness.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt will be tendered a reception by his congregation on Thursday evening next.

THE FEDERATION OF LABOUR

An Interesting Meeting was Held Last Evening.

Several Speakers Make Interesting Remarks to a Large Gathering of the Members.

The regular weekly meeting of the Peterborough Union, No. 9240, Federation of Labour, was held in the Sons of England Hall last night, there being a very large attendance. Quite a number of new members were initiated, and in fact the Union now has the largest membership of any society or lodge in town.

The chair was occupied by Mr. W. Henry, the president of the Union, who introduced the first speaker, Mr. J. B. McClellan.

Mr. McClellan addressed the meeting on the advantages to be derived from the organisation of labour. He first touched upon the subject of lessening the hours of labour, in the course of which he said that if Contractor Hayes would put his men on nine hours a day he would get just as good results from them as if they worked 10 hours. They would feel gratified to the contractor for such consideration, and would work with additional enthusiasm. Some people, he said, were opposed to the Union, claiming that it was a school to raise trouble between employer and employee. Such is not the case, however, and he felt sure that there is not an employer in Peterborough that is not proud of the local possessing such a flourishing organization. However, let them go steady; do not abuse their privileges. Do not mix up politics or religion, and they will find that their lodge will continue to progress.

Mr. Michael Tooley was called upon but disclaimed any pretensions of being a speaker. He commenced by telling an amusing story, and continuing said that many wondered why he was a member of the Union. He had been a member of a union years ago, when he worked for Whiting & Co., manufacturers, of Oshawa, and in this connection he recalled a few interesting reminiscences. Mr. Tooley was warmly received, and he proved himself to be exceedingly popular with the members.

W. A. Renfield, a comparatively young man, spoke a few words. Referring to the matter of unions, he said that there was no organization that he took as much interest in as the Federation of Labour. The speaker had been connected with unions for some years, and had seen many strikes and victories. Continuing, he spoke of the advantages to be derived from becoming members of the union, and he hoped that before long that no man coming into town could get work unless he was a member of the union. He urged upon them to not be discouraged but to stay with the order, and it would not be very long before they would be able to accomplish something that would be of benefit to themselves and to the town as well.

Mr. William Taylor considered that they would shortly have the largest membership of any lodge of any kind in town. As to any reflections that had been cast upon Bro. Tooley's connection with the order, he assured them that Mr. Tooley's connection was a valued one.

Mr. Gibson, one of the members, brought to the notice of the meeting a matter concerning the Moulders' Union, and the same was referred to a committee to deal with.

Mr. James Reynolds addressed the meeting briefly, and in the course of his remarks, he eulogized Mr. Tooley for his kindness in having presented them with such a beautiful banner, and he hoped that he would long live to see it wave. He asked the members to think of their organization first and their employer next, and they would succeed in their work.

Rev. J. C. Davidson, who came in at this juncture, was called upon. He said, however, that he came to listen. He had nothing to say further than to state that he was delighted to see such a large turn out. The order appeared to be progressing at a very rapid rate, and he trusted that it would continue to progress.

The chairman, Mr. Henry, then addressed the meeting. He had been in Toronto recently and while there had made enquiries regarding unions. A man would have a difficulty in obtaining a job in that city unless he was a member of some union. Toronto, in fact, is the greatest union city in Canada. No union man is allowed to stand around idle, said the speaker. Addressing Br. Tooley, the chairman said that he hoped that Mr. Tooley would pay no attention to what had been said concerning his connection with the Union. They all appreciated his membership very much and they knew that he was sincere in his connection with the organization.

Mr. Curtis also spoke a few words, and the meeting then adjourned, after it had been decided to hold another public meeting two weeks hence.

The Peterborough Union is in a flourishing condition and the meetings are exceedingly well attended. Every night new members are being initiated, and organized labour will shortly become a prominent factor in Peterborough. Any labourer has the privilege of joining.

HON. MR. STRATTON AND THE POWER QUESTION.

The Toronto Mail and Empire, the Toronto News, the Toronto Telegram, and the Peterborough Review, all Conservative journals, seem to have entered into a conspiracy to misrepresent the position of Hon. J. R. Stratton in connection with the Otonabee Power Company. Notwithstanding the positive denial of any such connection, which is borne out by the facts as they exist, these journals persist in insinuating what they dare not specifically assert, and what they cannot sustain by any evidence, from any one connected with the Otonabee Power Company, or by the facts themselves. It is not necessary for Mr. Stratton to repeat in Peterborough the denial which has already been made, but those outside the town, and not conversant with the facts, might be informed that the circumstances used by the journals in question, and so persistently distorted, can be easily explained. It does not follow that because those in Mr. Stratton's newspaper employment have taken stock in an industrial enterprise, Mr. Stratton is interested in the matter in a similar way. The manager of the Examiner, Mr. Jameson, has means of his own, and also Mr. Glover, the bookkeeper of the Examiner, who took stock in the Otonabee Power Company, with a view of obtaining the secretaryship of the company. These gentlemen have stock in various companies. Do these yellow journalists for a moment assert that Mr. Stratton's money was in these stocks, or in real estate held by these gentlemen? The idea is as farcial as it is far from the facts, and too ridiculous for serious consideration, but no more ridiculous than the insinuation deduceable from the reasoning of these journals that Mr. Stratton has an interest in the hardware business of the "uncle of Mr. Stratton's brother's partner," whose relationship and his position in the power company are urged as evidence of Mr. Stratton's connection with it. The argument is altogether too far fetched. A prospectus was drafted in triplicate by the promoters of the power company, and Mr. Stratton's name was inserted, thinking that he would take stock in the company. This Mr. Stratton declined to do, as he declined to become a director of the Peterborough Water Company, on the grounds that his interests as a journalist and director might come into conflict in relation to the public interests, and no use was made of the draft prospectus, (which was not even signed), after Mr. Stratton's decision to become a shareholder. If some one surreptitiously obtained or stole one of the two or three unsigned draft prospectuses, and put it in the hands of the journalists in question, that furnishes no evidence of Mr. Stratton's connection with the company, in which he declined to take stock, and in which he has not one cent of interest. The fact simply is that his only interest in the company is, as previously stated, in the Examiner, that of a citizen desirous of seeing the town benefitted. As a citizen he takes the stand that the Dominion Government should permit power to be developed at the dams on the Otonabee River on reasonable terms. No colouring, no misrepresentation, no distortion of facts by any of the journals mentioned, can change the facts in relation to the position Mr. Stratton has taken in regard to power in the interests of Peterborough. The people of Peterborough know that Mr. Stratton is not afraid to express his views on any question that is in the interests of the town. Any journalistic or political conspiracy to injure his standing as a public man, if it have any success, can have only a temporary one, for the facts are stronger than the most plausible and most industriously reiterated misrepresentation. These journals will find that continued misrepresentation will recoil upon those who employ it, and upon the interests they thus seek to serve.

CORDAGE COMPANY NOTES.

The New Buildings Being Rushed Forward by Contractor J. J. Hartley.

Citizens who walk down to inspect the Cordage Company's works on the corner of Aylmer and Perry streets, to-morrow, will be astonished at the progress which has been made in the construction. It seems but the other day that the first sod was turned, and yet the boiler-house is almost completed, the roof being already on, and the main building, 90 by 325 feet in size, which is to be used as the manufacturing department in the works, has been run up a story in height.

Evidently a great deal of light is required in the manufacture of binder twine, as there is an abundance of windows in the north, east and west sides. The north side, in fact, is nothing but windows. The great steel frames for them are now in position, and a fair idea of the magnitude of the works can now be gained by a visit.

It is understood that the house formerly used as a residence by Mr. W. B. Bamford, will be utilised for offices by the company.

THE QUAKER OATS COMPANY.

It has Absorbed Both the Cereal and Hydraulic Companies.

The American Cereal Co., and the Hydraulic Company are no more having both been absorbed by the Quaker Oats Company.

The new company is composed of practically the same men in whose hands lay the control of the affairs of the other two companies. Hon. Senator Cox is on the Board of Directors of the new concern.

A rumour on the street, to the effect that Hon. Senator Cox had withdrawn his interest in the Hydraulic Company, led to inquiry being made of Mr. A. A. Cox, president of the Hydraulic Company, when the above explanation was made of the change, which is in reality simply an exchange of stock.

Yours Truly, George Ball

BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

Duplicate orders is what makes our business. If you try us once you'll come again. If you have a key, send it with your order.

JUST BEFORE DEATH

WHAT FAMOUS MEN SAID JUST BEFORE DISSOLUTION.

Some Thought of Religion, Some of Themselves—Others Jested About Their End—President McKinley's Historic Last Words Bring Up a Host of Memories—When Death Usually Occurs.

"Good-bye, all; good-bye." President McKinley's last words were: "It is God's way. His will be done."

The President died with resignation, but still thoughtful of others. His dying words indicate that his wide sympathy with his fellow-men was genuine and heartfelt. "In the majority of instances," writes John Timbs, F. S. A., "The ruling passion strong in death is found to be exemplified."

Charles II., although he assumed air of frivolity remained with him until near the last and he apologized for being such an "unconscionable time in dying," grew serious at the end. "Don't let poor Nellie starve," he said, and these words proved his affection for "Mistress Nell."

Many men have died with religious sentiments on their lips. "Lord receive my spirit," were the words of Cranmer at the stake, of Hooper, of Ferrar, and of G. Herbert. "Thy will be done," the poet Donne said. Quarles' death-bed prayer was "What I cannot utter with my mouth, accept Lord, from my heart and soul." Sir James Mackintosh, when his daughter reminded him of the love of Jesus, answered slowly, "Jesus Christ — love — the same thing!" A long silence followed. "I believe," he said at last. "In God?" she asked. "In Jesus."

Other men have contrasted eternal pleasures with the ephemeral character of those on earth. "In me behold the end of the world with all its vanities," Sir Philip Sydney's words ran when he was struck down on the battlefield. Wolsey's words are almost too famous to need quotation. "If I had served my God as faithfully as I have served my King," the former cardinal and legate a latere said, "he would not have given me over in my gray hairs."

Pitt's last words breathed a noble patriotism. "My country! My country!" How I leave my country!" Chatham was borne from the House to die, after he had, with his last remaining strength, urged an unpopular course, but one that he believed in strongly. "Sir," he cried, "I rejoice that America has resisted." And his trenchant invectives were launched against the iniquity of the American war.

Napoleon had a clergyman at his bedside. "I believe in God and am of the true religion of my father," he said. "It is not every one that can be an atheist." His love of conquest and glory overcame religion as he died, however. His last words were: "Tete de l'armee" (head of the army.) The words of Captain Laurence, as he died on the deck of the Chesapeake, had a truer ring: "Don't give up the ship." Brock cried: "Push on, brave York volunteers!" Wolfe's strong devotion to duty was reflected in his resignation, when he heard that the day was won. "What!" he exclaimed, "Do they run already? Then I die happy."

Queen Elizabeth's exclamation was: "All my possessions for a moment of time."

Burns could not avoid some expression of humor. "Don't let that awkward squad fire over my grave," he said. Sir Walter Raleigh brushed aside his beard when he laid his head on the block. He thought it a pity that, having done no harm, it too should suffer. Henry VIII. could not forget his troubles with the church. "Monks! monks! monks!" he irritably cried.

Dr. Samuel Johnson's last words, addressed to Miss Morris, were: "God bless you, my dear."

"What will Nelson think of us!" exclaimed Captain Riou, when Admiral Parker signalled "cease firing," in the Battle of the Baltic. The next instant a chain-shot cut him in two.

Nelson's last intelligible sentence was, "I have done my duty; I praise God for it." He died in the dim cock-pit of the Victory, with the roar of Trafalgar filling all the space about him.

The great Roman Emperor, Augustus, never forgot the disastrous defeat of Varus by the Germans, A. D. 9. With his last breath he murmured, "Varus, Varus, give me back my legions."

When Montcalm heard that his wound was mortal, he said: "I am happy that I shall not live to see the surrender of Quebec."

President Garfield, as he passed away, placed his hand on his heart and said to General Swain: "I have have great pain here."

John Hampden, who was mortally wounded in the battle of Chalgrove Field, exclaimed in the moment of his last agony, "Lord Jesus, receive my soul. O Lord, save my country. O Lord, be merciful to—." In that broken ejaculating, as Macaulay says, passed away his noble and fearless spirit.

After six successive recantations, Archbishop Cranmer found that his doom was inevitable. He met death with fortitude. "This was the hand that wrote it," he exclaimed in reference to the recantations; "therefore it shall first suffer punishment." He held it steadily in the flame, and never moved nor cried till life was gone.

In the battle of Newbury Falkland fell crying out, "Peace, Peace!"

When the assassins entered the cathedral, Becket cried, "Here I am, no traitor, but a priest of God."

"Let us commend our souls to God, for our bodies are the foes," Simon Montfort said to his followers on the field of Evesham.

Rheumatic Pains Cured by Nerviline.

This is the testimony of Mr. Neal Dillon, of Leeds, Ont., who says, "I feel it my duty to proclaim the marvellous value of Polson's Nerviline as an infallible cure for rheumatic pains—it cures them every time. Nothing I know equals them as a household liniment, and mothers should feel it as necessary as bread itself. Nerviline has cured rheumatism of forty years standing, and can cure you. Instant relief, absolute cure, large bottle, 25c.

CONSUMPTIVE PEOPLE

Can Secure Renewed Health and Strength.

The Rich, Red Blood Made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Gives New Strength to Every Nerve, Fibre and Organ of the Body.

From the Budget, Shelburne, N.S.

Among the young ladies of Shelburne, there is none to-day who more fully bears the impress of perfect health than Miss Lillian Durfee. Unfortunately this was not always the case, as a few years ago Miss Durfee became ill and her friends feared that she was going into decline. A doctor was called in and prescribed, but his medicines did not have the desired effect. Her strength gradually left her, her appetite failed, she had frequent headaches, was very pale, and frequently grew so weak a walk of a few rods would completely fatigue her. The young lady's family sorrowfully observed that she was steadily failing, and feared that consumption would claim her as a victim. One day a friend urged that she should give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, but the idea at first was not favorably entertained; it seemed hopeless to expect that any medicine would help her after the doctor's treatment had failed. However this good friend still urged, and finally prevailed. By the time the third box was used, there was an unmistakable improvement in Miss Durfee's condition. Cheered by this, the pills were continued, and in the course of a few weeks, the former invalid, whose strength was taxed by the slightest exertion, was almost restored to health. The use of the pills was still continued and a few weeks more found Miss Durfee again enjoying perfect health.

To a reporter who interviewed her, she said, "I believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life and I earnestly recommend them to all who fear that consumption has laid its grasp upon them."

That the facts related above are not in any way exaggerated, is borne out by the following statement from Robert G. Irwin, Esq., the well known stipendary magistrate for the municipality, who says: "I distinctly remember the pale face of Miss Lillian Durfee, and the regrets of friends as they expressed their convictions that she would soon be compelled to say farewell to earth. Miss Durfee, however, carries the unmistakable credentials of good health, and frequently expresses her indebtedness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Pale and anæmic girls, or young people with consumptive tendencies, will find renewed health and bodily vigour through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are an unfailing cure for all diseases due to a watery condition of the blood, or shattered nerves. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent postpaid on receipt of 50 cts. a box or $2.50 for six boxes by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SPONGES AND SPONGERS.

The sponge industry of the United States is carried on in the waters surrounding the Florida keys.

The fishing grounds extend along the south and west coasts of the peninsula and have a total area of from 2,000 to 3,000 square miles.

Key West is the center of the industry and New York city is the receiving and distributing point for the product.

Two hundred small boats and several schooners, managed by about 800 spongers, are regularly engaged in the fishing.

The annual crop of sponges is between 5,000 and 6,000 bales, and would be many times greater but for the ignorance and impatience of fishermen in not allowing time for the "baby sponges" to mature.

Repeated attempts at planting and cultivating the sponges artificially have proved unsuccessful.

The estimated value of Florida's annual crop of sponges is about $550,000.

The quality of the Florida sponge ranks next to that of the West India, the Mediterranean and the Red sea.

The real Turkish sponges are found only in the beds of the Mediterranean, and sell readily for as high a price as $50 and even $70 a pound.

Next in quality to the Turkish sponge is our own Florida sheep's wool sponge, so named because of its softness and fineness of texture, which sells at from $1 to $3 a pound.

The average weight of a sponge when placed on the market is from one ounce to one pound. Only the small sizes are found in American waters.

It requires from three to seven years for a sponge to mature and reach marketable size.

The Monument Swindled.

The widow of a French deputy came the day after the funeral to consult a great sculptor on the subject of a monument for her husband's tomb. The sculptor suggested a portrait bust. "Only a bust," she cried indignantly. "I wish at least a statue with allegorical figures."

A week later, when the sculptor had the model of the group well in hand, came a note saying that she had decided that the bust, after all, would be in better taste. For some months the artist worked on the bust. At length the young widow arrived on the arm of an attache of legation. She opened her lorgnette and inspected the bust. "It is very like him," she said finally, "but a bust is so commonplace; a bronze medallion would be in far better taste."

The monument actually bears a medallion in bronze, under the niche intended for the full length statue of the deputy.

A Wave of Water.

There is no necessary connection between the advance of a wave and the forward movement of the water composing it, as may be seen by running the fingers along the keys of a piano. An inverted wave travels along, but the keys merely move up and down. Similarly, a wave may often be observed running along the ripe ears of golden grain while the stalks are firmly rooted in the soil. The onward progress of a sea wave is easily perceptible, and by watching some light substance floating on the surface the fact is revealed that the water is not moving with the same velocity.—Chambers' Journal.

A Legal Query.

Tired of the long winded oratory of the attorney for the defense, the judge interrupted him.

"Mr. Sharke," he said, "may I ask you a question?"

"Certainly, your honor. What is it?"

"Language," said the judge, "we are told, is given to conceal thought or words to that effect. Inasmuch as you don't seem to have any thought to conceal, I would like to know why you are talking?"

CURING THE BLUES.

Just Try Turning Up the Corners of Your Mouth.

A well known doctor of Minneapolis who has made a specialty of nervous diseases has found a new remedy for the "blues." As no drugs are administered, he has felt safe in experimenting with at least a half hundred melancholy patients and now declares himself thoroughly satisfied with the good results of his treatment. His prescription reads something like this: "If you keep the corners of your mouth turned up, you can't feel blue." The directions for taking are, "Smile, keep on smiling, don't stop smiling." It sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? Well, just try turning up the corners of your mouth, regardless of your mood, and see how it makes you feel. Then draw the corners of your mouth down and note the effect, and you will be willing to declare "there's something in it."

The doctor treats his nervous patients to medicine when necessary, but when the case is one of pure melancholy, without bodily ill, he simply recommends the smile cure. He has the patient remain in his office and smile. If it isn't the genuine article, it must at least be an upward curvature of the corners of the mouth, and the better feelings follow inevitably. The treatments are followed up regularly, and the patients all testify to their good effect. It takes considerable persuasion to induce some of them to apply the cure, and of course the greater number of patients are women, for when a man is blue he is bound to be blue in spite of everything, but a woman is more easily persuaded to try to find a cure.

The doctor declares that if persons will only draw down the corners of their mouths and use sufficient will power they can actually shed tears. On the other hand, if they will persistently keep the corners of the mouth turned up pleasant thoughts will chase away the gloomy forebodings. His discovery grew out of an experience in his own home. His wife was of a nervous and rather morbid temperament, and when in a despondent mood he would ask her to "smile a little" until the saying came to be a household joke. But it brought about good results, and then came the inspiration to try the same cure on others.

The doctor has not patented his remedy, and it is free to all who choose to take advantage of it.

Chafing and Itching Skin

Annoying Rashes, Inflammations and Irritations are Soothed, Healed and Cured by the Great Skin Food.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

There is always mystery and doubt about the action of internal remedies. Time is required for the medicine to take effect. It is different with Dr. Chase's Ointment, for it is applied externally and you are sure to be surprised at the remarkable change it brings about in a few hours. Its cleansing, soothing, healing action allays inflammation and irritation, removes redness and roughness of the skin, and leaves the skin delightfully smooth, soft and velvety.

Notwithstanding its powerful action in the severest cases of skin disease, Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used with perfect safety on the most tender skin, and is especially suited for the chafings, itchings and irritations which are so troublesome during the hot summer weather. Ladies keep it constantly in their toilet, and mothers who have used it in place of powders for their babies, would not think of changing. It does not clog the pores of the skin, as do powders, since not enter the blood, and is pleasant to use.

Mr. Hiram Frey, Norwood, Ont., states: "I was troubled for ten years with eczema on one leg. The itching was terrible, and when it was scratched the blood would come. The doctors could not cure me. Fortunately I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and its persistent use has completely cured me. There is now no trace of the disease left. My little girl two years old has also been cured of eczema by Dr. Chase's Ointment. Her face was a mass of sores and we had to bandage her hands to keep her from scratching it. To-day her face is clear of even the scars which the ugly sores made, and she is thoroughly cured. I am glad of an opportunity to let people know what a blessing Dr. Chase's Ointment has proved itself to us."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard ointment the world over. It promptly and thoroughly relieves and cures eczema, salt rheum, and the most torturing forms of itching skin disease. Sixty cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 9

Unaccountable About His Health.

Robert—Oh, I suppose Tom is all right, but he is so close mouthed. For instance, when I saw him today I asked him, "How are you?" and he gave me an evasive answer.

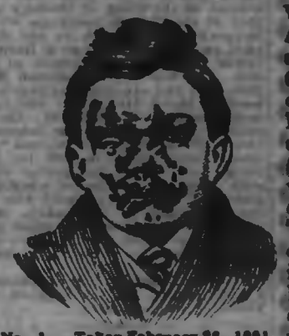
Richard—And what was that?

Robert—He said, "How are you?".

A Terrible Case of Eczema

Powley's Liquified Ozone Works Miracles With Vincent O'Neill of Toronto.

He Was Treated in St. Michael's Hospital Without Improvement.



No. 1. Taken February 28, 1901. when suffering from Eczema.

No. 2. Taken June 12, 1901, cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone.

Vincent O'Neill, 108 Mitchell Ave., Toronto, Canada, a lad aged sixteen years, first came to the attention of our Toronto office about February 28, 1901. He was then suffering from an aggravated case of Eczema, (Lupus Erythematosis), involving the entire right side of the face, both eyes and lips. The affected parts were a mass of incrusted matter, discharging profusely, the appearance being so offensive that it was difficult to remain in the room with him. He reported as follows: The discharge began about the spring of 1899, and steadily became worse. He entered St. Michael's Hospital early in October, 1900, and remained there under treatment three months and a half, until January 27, 1901, without improvement, and was then discharged from the hospital. A month later he came to us.

Powley's Liquified Ozone was administered internally and as a local dressing in strength 1-4, gradually increasing to equal parts. The improvement was observed almost at once; the discharge gradually ceased the general health improved, and at the end of twelve weeks, his face was perfectly clear. He is now entirely well. The above photographs tell the tale better than mere words. We refer you to him.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S STATEMENT.

That there may be no question that the photos numbered 1 and 2 are genuine and reproduce faithfully O'Neill's features before and after taking Powley's Liquified Ozone we present herewith the solemn declaration of Mr. Fred Micklethwaite, Photographer, 11 King Street, W., Toronto, that they are absolutely as he made them. They have not been retouched in any way and represent one and the same person, namely Vincent O'Neill.

DOMINION OF CANADA, PROVINCE OF ONTARIO, COUNTY OF YORK, } To Wit: In the matter of the boy Vincent O'Neill, 108 Mitchell Ave., Toronto.

I, FRED MICKLETHWAITE, of the City of Toronto, in the county of York, Photographer, do solemnly declare that on or about the 28th day of February, 1901, the boy Vincent O'Neill was brought to my studio, and that photograph No. 1 is a correct portrait of the condition of his face, that photograph No. 2 was taken June 12th, 1901, and is a correct representation of the condition of his face at that time. That both the photos, Nos. 1 and 2 represent the same boy, and are not retouched in any way. I understand that his recovery is due solely to the use of Powley's Liquified Ozone, and I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing it to be true and knowing that it is of the same force an effect as if made under oath and by virtue of the Canada Evidence Act, 1893.

FRED MICKLETHWAITE.

Declared before me at the City of Toronto, in the County of York, this 27th day of Aug. in the year of our Lord, 1901. (SEAL) JAMES J. WARREN, Commissioner, Etc., Temple Bldg.

WHAT HIS FOREMAN SAYS:

To Whom it May Concern: July 25th, 1901.

Vincent O'Neill is in my employ and is the young man that was cured by Powley's Liquified Ozone. He is well and works every day, and is free from his former serious face trouble.

Signed, W. D. Varey, Foreman Tin Department, Gurney Foundry Co., Toronto.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is stable oxygen. It supplies the body with this element. It is blood food—purifying and healthening that function. It cures all forms of skin trouble, makes a pure clear complexion. Its life-giving and invigorating action is simply marvelous. The uses of Ozone are as varied as those Nature makes of it. It is the greatest discovery of the age Ozone is life.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

The burning of a sulphur candle in a room infested with pests of any kind will relieve you of them in a short time.

Glasses which have been used for milk should be washed first in cold water and then in hot soapsuds. This will make them clear and shining.

Wilted or drooping flowers may be revived by giving them a quick plunge into moderately hot water in which a few drops of ammonia have been poured.

Never put soda in the water in which you wash china that has any gilding on it. Soda injures the gilding. Instead use soap, which answers just as well and has no ill effects.

In washing cut glass only moderately hot water should be used on account of the glass being of varying thickness, which causes the dishes to expand unevenly if subjected to excessive changes of temperature.

What Comes After Suicide?

On the whole, it is something of a pity that some of these fellows who cut their throats, blow out their brains or swallow poisons in order to rid themselves of their troubles cannot come back, so they might tell others who are troubled whether relief lies in that direction or not. It is more than probable that what they then could tell would deter other reckless men and women from following in their footsteps, and for that, if for no other reason, their return would be welcome. As Hamlet implied, it is better to bear the ills we know than to fly to those we know not of, and there isn't much doubt that the suicides are not long in finding that out.

FAIRLY GONE MAD!

Is a modest way of telling of the torture that thousands of people have suffered from Skin Diseases—before they learned of that wonderful healer Dr. Agnews Ointment.

But "gone wild with joy" only faintly expresses the deep meaning in the thankful hearts that have been relieved from skin tortures by this greatest of skin healers. Have you Piles? Salt Rheum? Eczema? Ring-worm? Pimples? Has baby got Scald Head? Have you any eruption of the skin? One application of Dr. Agnew's Ointment will help—a few will cure—it never fails. 35 cts. 64

INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP.

A REMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION AT GOOD ROADS CONGRESS.

The Congress Itself Was a Great Success Notwithstanding the Gloomy Circumstances Created by the Death of President McKinley—Thanks of the Congress for Premature Adjournment.

In spite of the untoward circumstances created by the death of President McKinley, the International Good Roads Congress at Buffalo, in connection with the Exposition, proved a success highly gratifying to its promoters. The Congress was closed on Saturday morning by an open air meeting in the Temple of Music.

The chair was occupied by Hon. Martin Dodge, head of the Good Roads Bureau at Washington.

Mr. Andrew Pattullo, M. P., representing the Government of Ontario, followed President Moore. He began by reference to the history of road improvement, to the importance of the subject, to the work of the Congresses that had been held throughout the United States, as well as to the work that had been done in his own country. The following is a report of the concluding portion of his address, corrected from the Buffalo Express. Mr. Pattullo spoke as follows:

And now having endeavored to show or to suggest the importance of the good roads problem, the enormous economy of good roads, the incalculable loss through bad ones, to suggest the many sides and phases of this great problem of transportation — affecting as they do the social as well as the economic well-being of the people—let me for a moment draw your attention to another, to what I may call a national and international consideration. You in this country, like ourselves across the line, have been having unexampled prosperity of late. The wheels of industry have been running fast. It will not always be so. Stagnation will come, and with it distress and social disturbance. In the olden days in other lands the cure which wicked rulers found most sought for social disturbance was foreign adventure. There is little fear I trust that your rulers will ever seek such a remedy; for the lives of a long line of brave and good presidents have made it improbable that any but a good man shall ever fill the position of chief magistrate of this nation. (Applause.) But there are people in this country, as in every other land, who for many reasons would love war. You have listened in recent years to the evangels of hate from other lands, and the voices of hate in your own land, against neighbors whose friendship towards you is as sincere as it is universal. May I sound this note of warning? These voices are not for your good any more than for our good across the line. You have had a bitter lesson. It is this: that words imply and lead to acts.

But you have listened to other voices of hate in this land, the voices of those who hate law and order, who are alien and hostile to American institutions, to American civilization, to the principles for which Washington, and Franklin, and Jefferson, and Lincoln, and Tilden, and Garfield, and Cleveland, and McKinley stood. You have had in your midst the two great problems of peace abroad and of social order at home. These, therefore, you hear the voices of foreign aggression or of social disorder, instead of repeating the bitter history of the past as in other lands through blood and tears, through the havoc and the horror of war, as the scarcely less hateful policy of police repression, the National Good Roads Association offers you a better way.

You have to deal in this country with a large class who work only with their mouths, (laughter) and their voices are against law and order and all that you hold dear. They are alien to you and to the genius of your institutions. Instead, therefore, of soup kitchens for the unemployed, give them honest labor. Instead of wasting your resources in watching the lawless element in your cities, or in keeping it in idleness in your jails, offer it on public works, on national highways, the alternative of labor or the lash. (Loud applause.) I submit with all seriousness, that in the development of municipal, state, and national highways, in the improvement of the streets in your cities, there is offered to you the basis for the solution of some of the great and difficult problems that confront you. And it is a solution that does not involve the throwing away of money, but its wise investment. It is an expenditure which while curing social and national ills will yield you an ample economic return. (Applause.)

And now I desire in conclusion, speaking on behalf of the Canadian people, to convey to you our great hope in two respects, our interest in the work in which this Good Roads Congress is engaged, and our sympathy with you in your national sorrow. I shall not dwell on the theme which has been much, perhaps too much, in your thoughts and hearts during these bitter and never-to-be-forgotten days.

It has been said that the voices of nature, of the great sounding ocean itself, are loudest when still. And perhaps the most eloquent expression, in these sad surroundings, of your pent-up feelings would be a reverent silence before this vast concourse on the tragedy that seems so near us to-day.

But I would be failing in my duty if I did not remind you in a few words of events that are unique and, so far as I know, without parallel in the history of any two nations. I said to this Congress the other day that when you buried your President the people of Britain and of Canada would stand with you in imagination as mourners around the open grave. Since that we have been a day of mourning, officially declared, not only in your land, but in our own. Was there ever such an event in the world's history? Was there ever such a tribute to a public man? I should like the press of this country to tell all the people of this country that in our shop windows the face of McKinley is as familiar as here—that the draperies of grief are as profuse and as thorough, we had religious services in our churches, as you had, and that from every evidence our mourning was as sincere and universal as your own. By order of the Governor-General, business was suspended, banks closed, school children dismissed, (and let us pray that the boys and girls of the United States and of Canada may never again be taught to hate, but to love each other) and solemn mourning take the place of business on the one hand, and of rejoicing over the arrival to our shores of the future King of the British Empire. Blood is thicker than water! Have we not shown you that the ties of kinship and of friendship are stronger than the alien voices of national hate? (Loud applause.)

After all that has been said and written during these sad days, no poor words of mine would add to the tributes that have been paid to your dead President. We may well leave his character and his life-work now to the impartial verdict of history. Perhaps his character and work, his life and death are best described in the words of your own poet, speaking to mankind, when he said:

"So live that when the summons comes,
Sustained and supported, meet the mighty trust,
Approach the grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant dreams."

Was there ever a man who in the supreme hour of trial was sustained by a more unfaltering trust than William McKinley? Was there ever a man whose death could be more fitly described as, in the folds of a nation's love, a lying down to pleasant dreams? We leave his character and career as a national statesman with you.

But there is one phase which has appealed to every citizen of Great Britain and Canada, his love of peace. During trying years his attitude, and the attitude of this nation under a fierce trial was correct towards the people of the British Empire. He did not forget, as you have not forgotten, that during your recent years of trial, when you were drawn into a war for freedom and civilization, the hearts and voices of the British people were one with yo:. Then that tribute which he paid — and which the whole American people paid—to Queen Victoria of blessed memory will never be forgotten by us. It is these recollections, added to the ties of kinship, of language, and all the common traditions of the English speaking race that account for the extraordinary tributes that were paid to President McKinley throughout the whole British Empire. Surely the origin of these two peoples, our kinship, and these events in the life of your dead President will unite to form for these two great sister peoples a golden age of peace over his grave that will endure for all time. Standing here as we do to-day on sacred ground—strange paradox that it should be made sacred by a foul crime—what is the duty of the English speaking world—the duty of Americans, and of Britons the world over? It is to learn and unlearn the lessons of the past and of the present, to vow in a spirit of high resolve that our national pathways shall be made new and safer, to liberty without license, to purer government and better social conditions, in a word, to a higher civilization.

And should we not to-day, my kinsmen of the United States, my fellow countrymen of Canada, who are here, clasp hands, in this building of pathetic historic memory, and resolve in the spirit of the good Queen and the good President, who have passed away this year that we shall, united as one people in love and mutual respect, hold this vast continent of America, God's last and greatest earthly gift to man, as a sacred trust for the highest interests of humanity, and consecrate it to perpetual peace.

When Mr. Pattullo took his seat there was prolonged applause during which a delegate in the audience rose and moved that the thanks of the meeting and of the American people be tendered to the speaker, and through him to the whole Canadian and British people, for the kind words which they had heard, and for the sympathy and friendship that had been shown the American people in relation to the death of President McKinley. The motion was responded to with loud applause, and afterwards carried by standing vote.

The proceedings were brought to a close at 12.30. There were a few Canadians in the audience, one of the prominent ones being Mr. A. F. MacLaren, M. P., Stratford.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

EIGHT POUNDS!

Eight pounds of bony, pain-breeding mother-shaking—that's the baby weight one has to lift, bless you! at the advent of puny, wailing children, whose coming brought no gladness to the home. Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a uterine tonic and nervine prepared for the special purpose of assisting functional processes know that it makes all the difference between happy, healthy motherhood and the reverse. It makes the coming baby a welcome guest. And then how soon does the happy, healthy mother regain healthy childhood. "Favorite Prescription" strengthens the whole body for the strain of motherhood. It practically does away with the pains of childbirth, gives the mother abundant vitality and enables her to nurse and nourish a healthy child.

The "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, chloral nor any other narcotic.

"I am mother of six children," writes Mrs. C. A. Briggs, of Millwood, Klamath Co., Oregon, "and always took three or four bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' before confinement and never suffered any to speak of; had no other sickness; my babies were large—they all weighed more than eight pounds, and I was not a large woman; weigh about 125 pounds. I have had female stomach trouble, but a few doses of 'Golden Medical Discovery' would set me all right. I am hardly ever without your medicines. They are all the medicine one needs, if taken in time, to keep one in perfect health.

"I feel that I owe my little boy's life to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, as he had convulsions, and everything he ate would bring them on. I commenced to give him the 'Golden Medical Discovery' in tea drop doses three times a day. Now he is just as healthy a child as can be found and he grows like a weed."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for women.

IT IS WHAT YOU NEED.

Paine's Celery Compound

CURED MR. J. BEECHINOR, OF SHILOH, ONT., OF RHEUMATISM AND SCIATICA.

It Matters not how Serious Your Troubles are, the Great Compound Will Permanently Cure You.

Autumn months bring rapid weather changes disastrous to all who suffer from rheumatism. Pains and tortures increase seven-fold, and death reaps his harvest from the ranks of rheumatics at this season.

If you are a sufferer from any form of rheumatism, cast aside the medicines that you have too long experimented with and test the virtues of Paine's Celery Compound, that great specific for rheumatism that has worked such marvellous cures in all parts of our Dominion. Mr. Beechinor permanently cured after five years of suffering, urges the afflicted to use the remedy that saved his life. He says:

"For five years I suffered from sciatica and rheumatism, at times being so bad that I could not walk or put my hand to my mouth. If I attempted to do any work I would be crippled for weeks. I took medical treatment, patent medicines, Turkish and mineral baths, but all failed to meet my case. I tried Paine's Celery Compound, and after using six bottles I feel like a new man, and can do a hard day's work and feel none the worse for it. I have also gained in weight, and can truly say I am permanently cured."

The Bund.

The bund is the name given in almost all eastern seaports to the street fronting on the water. This street is usually the trade center, and rumors that are likely to affect trade or political conditions fly thick and fast about it. As most of these are unfounded, it is the habit in the orient to call a story whose authenticity is doubted "bunder."

The Full Story That is Told of a Parisian Gourmet.

Paris is par excellence the city of gourmets and cranks, and many a story concerning them has added to the gayety of the nations. Here is one of the latest, told by a well known French head waiter: One of the regular customers of a famous Parisian restaurant used to be a short, thin, shy and shabbily dressed man whose name no one knew, but who gave out that he was a butter dealer, for which reason he was called the butter man of the restaurant in question.

He ate next to nothing, but his soup tureen, filled with a soup specially prepared for him, was always put before him. He took a few spoonfuls and had it taken away. Next came a whole fillet of beef, from which he cut the tiniest slice. Then followed four quails or a large chicken, of which he ate one mouthful, together with two lettuce leaves and one radish. His dessert was four grapes—never a single one more—and a cup of coffee. A bottle of the best claret and another of the best champagne were served with the repast, but he only wetted his lips with a drop from them and let them go. He took two of these meals a day, and the price for each meal was 120 francs.

But this was not all. Every time the butter man got up from his extraordinary meal he gave 40 francs to the head waiter, who put his food on his plate, since the guest did not like to handle spoons or dishes; 20 francs to the waiter, 10 francs to the woman cashier and 5 francs to the porter. Thus each meat came to 200 francs. The head waiter of the restaurant often did slight errands for him, buying his cigars, etc., and took them to the Grand hotel, where the butter man lived. The little old man would then open the drawer of a wardrobe filled with heaps of bank notes of from 100 francs to 600 francs in value and with an enormous mass of goldpieces. "Pay yourself," said the owner, and the head waiter did so, putting the bills before his patron, who never deigned to look at them.

One day the mysterious millionaire went away and was never seen again.

The Flight of the Stork.

The stork is a remarkably picturesque bird. Its snowy body contrasting with the bright red beak and legs and black quill feathers of the wings make it a striking object. The flight is magnificent, bolder and more buoyant than that of a heron. Like most large birds, its powers of flight show best when it is at a great height. When we were on the Bastei rock, in Saxon Switzerland, a pair passed overhead, flying southward. Though high above us, we could clearly see the black pinion feathers, and as we watched the powerful beat of the wide spreading wings we thought of the angels in Zecharish's vision who had "wings like the stork."

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the kidneys and liver, Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cts. a box.

Analyzing His Affection.

The young lovers sat beside the waterfall. The rapids and the nearby whirlpool had a strange attraction for the romantic young girl. She had heard the story of the unhappy maiden and the brave who had gone to their doom clasped in each other's arms to the slow music of the swan song. That seemed very beautiful to her.

"Jack," she said, "if you saw me struggling in the water near the edge of the falls would you jump in after me?"

"What would be the use, my dear, when I can't swim?" he answered.

"But at least we should perish together," she replied bravely.

"Yes, there would be no doubt of that," he returned, shuddering at the sound of the cruel waters.

"But haven't you often said you would die for me?" she asked, piqued at his coldness.

"No, my dear," replied her practical lover, "if you'll remember, I've always told you that I had an undying love for you."—Smart Set.

Lamentable Forgetfulness.

As the steamer pitched and rolled in the waves the traveler heard through the thin partition a wailing voice in the next stateroom exclaim:

"Oh, mamma, it's coming on again worse than ever!"

Then he heard a sleepy voice in reply:

"Marie, why don't you follow the directions you told me about before we came on board?"

"Because I've forgotten whether I ought to breathe in as the vessel rises and let the breath go out as it moves downward or whether it ought to be the other way, and, oh, oh, oh, I wish I was dead!"—Chicago Tribune.

Careless Man.

"Bingle is about the most careless fellow I have ever known."

"What's he done now?"

"Why, he passed the butcher's down the street whistling, 'Oh, Where Has My Little Dog Gone?' and a sausage jumped from the hook and followed him home."

"Was careless, wasn't it?"

"Yes, but that's not the worst of it. Half an hour later he was arrested on a warrant charging him with kidnaping the sausage."—Denver Times.

Her Savings.

"I'm so glad you told me to keep accounts, Henry," she said. "I have just been going over them, and I find that I have saved $200 in the last three months."

"Good!" he exclaimed. "Where's the money?"

"Oh, I haven't got the money," she answered, "but the accounts show that I have saved it just the same."—Chicago Post.

WHY WOMEN
Like Merrill's System Tonic.

The first reason is that the use of this valuable medicine produces a clear complexion, rosy cheeks and ruby lips. You can easily tell a well woman. Her step is light and buoyant, her complexion as described above, and there is a complete lack of that don't-care-to-live air about her. These results can be obtained by any woman, no matter what her complexion may now be, and no matter how old or care worn she may feel, if she persists in using a few bottles of Merrill's System Tonic. It cures constipation and liver troubles, which causes the sallow and muddy complexion. It restores the blood to its naturally healthy condition and this gives the tint to the skin without the use of face powder. It cures female trouble and regulates the female functions, and restores the vivacity of girlhood. Used according to instructions it cures falling of the womb, whites and leucorrhœa. No medicine in the world to-day is more valuable to make sick women well, than Merrill's System Tonic.

Give it to young girls who are pale and nervous. Give it to women who expect to become mothers. Give it to women in all conditions of life and it will more than substantiate its claims. Merrill's System Tonic purifies the blood, builds up the system, strengthens the nerves and cures constipation.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .
WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN
THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $106 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

An Interesting Account of a Local Volunteer's Experience on the 2nd. Canadian Contingent—The Impressions he Gained.

(Lt. Robert Johnston, 40th Regiment)

Quebec, from its natural position, has always been of immiculable strategic importance. From its formidable nature it has justly received the appellation of "Gibraltar of America," and since its foundation by Champlain in 1603, has had its own share of trouble, being five times besieged, 1629, 1690, 1759, 1760, 1775. The visitor need not be familiar with the written page of history to be impressed with the city's military significance. Let him wander along the ramparts, or leisurely saunter through the parks, in fact anywhere inside the corporation, and he will find abundant evidence to convince the most skeptical. Everywhere you may chance to look your eye meets with heavy guns, mortars, howitzers, monuments or tablets that recall the past and reveal vivid visions of more chivalrous times. At a point near the foot of Citadel Hill, a tablet placed in the side of a stone building, states General Montgomery and thirteen of his followers, are buried there in the same grave. A little farther down St. Louis street, another tablet confronts your vision, as it fills a prominent position in a private residence, and modestly informs you the American General Montgomery was conveyed to a small dwelling upon the same site, after he fell in a vain attempt to take the city. Montgomery assisted Wolfe in the assault upon Quebec that culminated in its surrender, and formed the closing scene of French dominion in Canada. He afterwards settled in the United States and eventually married a wealthy American lady. Having gained favour by some means, possibly through the prestige of his wife, he secured a generalship in the Grand Army of the Republic, and to him was entrusted the capture of Quebec, and complete capitulation of Canada. No other general in the Republican army was better qualified to assume command of the expedition, for he was well posted regarding the general plan of the old fortress, and he thought to return to the United States bearing the palm of victory and receive the homage of the American people. But he had ill-reckoned the consequence. He fell a self-made enemy with nothing but a selfish and fiendish motive for disturbing the tranquility of Quebec, and causing deep distress in many Canadian homes.

I make no boast of loyalty, neither has the poetic muse inspired me in any enviable manner, but I must say with due deliberation, I never was so much incensed in my life as a couple of years ago when I became acquainted with the proposal to erect a monument on Canadian soil to this same General Montgomery. I cannot conceive of anything more absurd, more audacious, or more depraved, than such a scheme. It would be just as sane to contemplate going over Niagara Falls in an egg shell, or to endeavour to reach the moon on a bicycle. What think you of Britain placing a monument on the field of Waterloo to Napoleon, or France to Wellington? I cannot, and will not, sanction any such scandalous act. No patriot would. As a soldier, I can only respect my gallant ancestors who in the depth of winter bravely marched out of that ancient citadel at the call to duty, and in the face of an Arctic snowstorm, to intercept an unprovoked enemy, or die in the defence of country, home and sovereign. Those brave fellows who were willing to defend their national rights, and shed their life blood as the price of liberty, are the only individuals who can command my respect and admiration. The army of to-day is only a duplicate of the army of a century ago, and there is little encouragement for our boys to battle against hardships and the many woes of war to defend a people so ungrateful as these tainted individuals who favour the erection of a monument on Canadian soil to a self-made and pugnacious enemy like Montgomery. It is neither for fun nor honour we fight, but to defend our honour, and maintain our national rights and liberties, but if these things are of such little value why should we die in their defence. A nation that would permit an alien to raise a memento on the field of bloodshed to the utter disrespect of her own silent heroes, is void of honour, and if we were assured Canada was so ungrateful to her soldiers I would immediately tender my resignation in the service of a country which I feel an honour to claim as mine.

For why should we Montgomery's name
Engrave on monumental rock?
Or why recall his deeds of fame,
Or make him peer to Wolfe and Brock?

Why dare disgrace the hallowed spot,
With huge memento built inscribed—
And o'er the blood of those who fought
"Twas here Montgomery fell and died."

Our heroes' blood the snow did stain,
Our nation's honour to defend;
A nation's rights they did maintain,
Erect a monument to them.

Alas! let not ingratitude
In any patriot's heart be found,
But manifest the love you should
For those who sleep Death's sleep profound.

Once 'neath fair Britain's banners proud,
Ye stormed the ancient citadel,
And once again 'neath others proud,
The would-be conqueror humbly fell.

Raise not the vile oppressor's name
Above the ashes of our dead;
Mar not the brilliant wreath of fame,
Like garlands twined about their head.

Here let Montgomery rest in scorn,
And all his minions such as he,
And if you MUST the place adorn,
Name honour but your ancestry.

—R. G. Johnston.

Quebec, like most cities of antiquity, is remarkable for its narrow and crooked streets. On some of them the street railway is built to one side to grant other conveyances an opportunity to pass; and some others are so extremely narrow that it is unwise to venture down them in any vehicle, unless assured no other will enter at the other end to dispute your right of way. In some instances the fire brigades' wagons are drawn by one horse, and are quite short to admit of easy operation on such contracted thoroughfares, and in cramped positions. The ancient city was once the metropolis of Canada, and the abode of the French emissaries in our early history. From its precincts many exploring expeditions have started to penetrate the wild forests and return with glad tidings of discovery, and having some trophy for their monarch across the deep blue sea. There is no other city in Canada where the mind is so frequently confronted with sweet reminders or reminiscences of the French regime, and so often the scene of national conflicts.

Our holiday in Quebec was profitably spent from an historical point of view but we were not permitted to dwell very long among the relics of the past. Halifax was the point of embarkation, and I might say of general mobilization, consequently we couldn't tarry long in any other city. The night before we left Quebec the citizens displayed their loyalty, and gave vent to their exuberant feelings of patriotism and enthusiasm by forming a monster procession, composed of military, snow-shoe clubs, firemen and others, including representatives of almost every trade and profession. Everybody was out for a good time, and none were disappointed. It was a late—or rather early—hour when some of our boys returned to barracks. Sleep was out of the question entirely, and reveille at 4 a.m., received a prompt response from every man. The morning air was clear and frosty, and before the average citizen had aroused himself from the effects of the previous night's debauch, we had quietly embarked on the little ferry boat with our horses for Levis. Not a cheer, not a martial note, broke the silence of the grey dawn as we marched to the wharf. When our little vessel reached the further side of the stream we promptly leaped ashore and began loading our horses on the railway palace horse cars. It necessarily required a long time to do this and to lay in an ample supply of forage for the trip. Some of our horses were strongly opposed to travelling in palace cars, and refused point blank to go on board. Nothing would induce them, neither kindly words nor the vile threats of the officers. The latter may sometimes scare a man to do some repugnant duty, but a horse is above such a thing, and says never a word, thus treating them with silent contempt. When all other means had failed a number of us literally carried them into the car and placed them in their narrow stalls, which would not permit of their lying down. Each of these cars was partitioned off into sixteen stalls, four at each end and eight in the centre. The horses in the end and centre stalls faced each other, and a trough placed in front of each group as high as their breasts provided a means of feeding them hay and oats while the train was in motion. Each car was furnished with two barrels of water, and the piquet could feed the eight animals under his care as often as he felt disposed to do so, but watering was entirely out of the question for reasons hereinafter assigned.

There was always two men detailed to perform this piquet duty, and although they were on the same car, each had his own half, and could not communicate with his neighbour nor render any assistance except with the tongue. We were placed on duty and must report if any thing were wrong; how we were to do so I never could understand. Here we were in a box car, with no steps from the door to the roof. If there were a bell-rope there it was beyond our reach. There was no such thing in the cars to be sure, and your next neighbour might be an eye-witness of one of the most horrible tragedies ever enacted, yet could render no assistance. How to report and of what use we were in these frigid cars, more like refrigerators than palace cars, were two questions I could never exactly answer to my own satisfaction. We could keep the animals tied and see that they did not devour each other, I suppose, in daylight, but when night covered the duty was still performed, although we could not see one horse out of the whole number entrusted to our care. Place your microscope over this and let me know if you can discern the reason or wisdom in it.

The excellent band of the R. C. A. came over from the citadel and very solemnly dispersed many appropriate selections, which relieved the spectators from the oppressive monotony during the time we were busily engaged preparing for our departure. It was almost 2 p. m. when all arrangements were completed, and by this time a large concourse of interested citizens had accumulated at the depot. Every ten or fifteen minutes since 8 o'clock or earlier, the little ferry-boats decked in gala colors, were busily plying between the two cities and landing their quota of loyalists. The immense crowd could scarcely keep itself in bounds, and at the appointed hour amid the lusty cheers of thousands, our train pulled out for Halifax. As we slowly rolled away, the rumbling of the wheels delefully intermingled with the pathetic strains of "Auld Lang Syne", as it was gently wafted on the wings of the wintry breeze. We were hardly beyond hearing distance of the animated multitude, till forty of us were ordered to the dining-car for dinner. It was a long time since breakfast, and none disobeyed the command. There was no room for complaint, unless it were because our time was somewhat limited. We were only allowed twenty minutes for each meal, and the boys, I observed considering the time rather short to do justice to the choice viands of the season, invariably dispensed with all ceremonies and began operations at once. This was I believe quite pardonable under the circumstances, since they were greatly hampered in the discharge of their duty, by the frequent snowsheds which cast mid-night darkness in the car, and necessitated a complete and unconditional cessation of operations. At the expiration of the time-limit you were compelled to evacuate the car whether the demands of the inner-man were satisfied or not, and as you returned to your quarters, would meet an emaciated crew impatiently waiting for your welcome appearance. Some indeed would tauntingly inquire if you had eaten the number of your plate. The train came to a standstill shortly after we had returned to our sleeping quarters, and I was ordered on piquet duty in one of the horse cars. We were obliged to run from our coach to our place of duty, a very unwise thing to do, when your stomach is burdened with "choice viands." I either ran or waddled, I won't say which, and by some means managed to scramble up into the car. Everything was in first-class order, but the atmosphere was frigid.

HUNTING NOTES.

An Exciting Chase After Coons by a Local Party.

An enthusiastic coon-hunter contributes the following item concerning a midnight chase that took place a few evenings ago:—

"Last night a few of our leading young men (local sports) started out on a coon hunt, one in particular, who is a very good shot with a "musket" but better with a club, undertook to lead the pack. He afterwards gave them lunch at his parlours. They started for North Monaghan at 7 p.m. sharp, and were eight in number. The restauranter, who was captain, had supplied six clubs, one shot gun, one revolver, two lanterns, three dogs, a team of horses and eight dozen sandwiches, as well as a large box in which to bring home the dead coons. They had a great time. Lots of coons were heard, but no one saw any. It was as black as a dark cat, and the captain in his excitement lost his cap and had to fight what he didn't see bareheaded. He next tried to walk a log over a creek, missed his feet and fell into two feet of water. He says it was wet. If it hadn't been for the presence of mind of a young hotel-man, who was just behind, the gallant captain might have lost his life. The party then spotted a nest of coons in a tree—a dozen. The wet captain walked a mile and a half for an axe and the eight hunters tried to fell the tree. They each took turns at it, and chopped all around it. It fell, but on its butt, still standing up. The coons were as far away as ever—at least as high up in the air, and in darkness. They had now finished this woods and started for the next, two miles further on. At this point the writer, who was one of the party, decided he had already walked fifteen miles, and he quit. He crawled back to the horses, and went to sleep after eating half the sandwiches. The boys got home at 4 a.m., very cold, very dry and very hungry. The captain thinks of organizing another party next week. The date will be announced in the Examiner a few days ahead. Spectators are invited but must pay their own fare."

WHY DEAFNESS IS SO COMMON IN CANADA?

The medical opinions on this subject, and on a new treatment for deafness, which we published about a week ago, has evidently excited great interest in these of our readers who are afflicted, as we have been fairly inundated with inquiries on this subject. Regarding the new treatment which has been so successfully prescribed during some years past, we wish to remind those who are deaf that they can obtain accurate information by writing direct to the Drouet Institute, 71, Regent's Park-road, London, England. The Institute gives free advice to foreign patients and the secretary will gladly send all the information necessary to enable them to use the treatment successfully in their own homes.

Forty Hours Devotion.

At High Mass to-morrow morning at half past ten in St. Peter's Cathedral there will be an exposition of the Blessed Sacrement being the beginning of the Forty Hour's Devotion which will close on Tuesday evening. Special sermons will be delivered on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, and on Monday and Tuesday evenings at half past seven.

Cold Damp Weather

brings in its train Grippe, Colds, Coughs, Catarrh, etc., which are often the forerunners of the dread disease consumption.

Grip-Quinine Tablets

prevent and cure all forms of throat and lung affections, and counteract the effect of exposure of all kinds. Grip-Quinine Tablets will prevent you "taking cold" if used after exposure—They "break up" and cure a cold in a day.

A tablet to-night will make you all right. All druggists sell them. 25 cents per box.

Every member of the Royal Chorus, and any others singers wishing to assist in the grand Festival Concert, are requested to meet for rehearsal on Tuesday night next in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, at 8 o'clock sharp.

The committee of management for the concert will meet to-night at 7 o'clock.

PATTERN MAKERS DINE.

The Annual Banquet Held at Long's—A Most Enjoyable Evening.

The first annual banquet of the Peterborough Association of the Pattern Makers League, was held on Thursday evening in Mr. H. Long's parlours, and proved to be a great success.

The president of the League, Mr. J. G. Scott, filled the chair most acceptably.

After doing justice to a splendid repast, a toast list was run off, and the remainder of the evening spent in song and music.

Most meritorious on the programme were some comical readings by Mr. S. P. McFadden, some violin selections by Mr. F. Hancock, and Mr. C. L. Browne's singing.

The local Branch was pleased to have with them a delegation from the Toronto Association.

The following officers for the ensuing term were elected:

Pres.—J. G. Scott.
Vice-Pres.—A. J. Sharpe.
Fin.-Sec.—S. P. McFadden.
Rec.-Sec.—A. Y. Gerard.
Trees.—G. H. Dawson.
Guard—S. H. Sanderson.

PETERBOROUGH OLD BOYS.

(To the Editor of the Examiner.)

Dear sir,—I see by to-night's Examiner that Mayor Denne claims to have initiated the "Peterborough Old Boys" movement, and purposes to instal a secretary about the first of the year and to have the home-coming about the first of the year. Mr. Denne is a little "too previous" in taking credit for the initiation of the movement. The matter was under consideration by others before Mr. Denne ever mentioned it. If Mr. Denne's heart was in the project, why did he not bring it off during his term of office when other cities and towns all over the Province were having theirs, and not relegate it to the uncertainty of the future, when it would become a chestnut? Might not an unsympathetic public think that his proposal to instal a secretary about election time look a bit like a move to boom Mayor Denne for a second term, and thus enable him to ride in on a popular movement in the absence of something better than his administration?

Yours, etc.,
ELECTOR.

October 18th, 1901.

In reference to the above communication, the Examiner might state that if any movement was on foot to hold an "Old Boys'" Celebration in Peterborough previous to Mayor Denne's suggestion, no word of it reached the ears of the public. If the idea really did occur to "Elector" before it did to the Mayor, we would think that it was his heart which was not in the project, when he kept the scheme to himself, and did not endeavour to make some use of it. As far as the Mayor's term of office extends, there is no one in the field, yet who would stand any chance of ousting him from the Chief Magistrate's chair, and by claiming the date for next year now, Peterborough will receive the assistance of neighbouring towns, instead of clashing with their arrangements.

DAN SPENCE MEMORIAL.

(To the Editor of the Examiner.)

When the movement to erect a memorial to Dan. Spence was initiated, I with others took exception to the narrow view of discriminating against the rest of our fallen heroes, and protested against the memorial taking the form of a grim sombre ambulance, and, from its perishable nature, a thing totally unfit to serve as a lasting monument. I am glad that our protests had the desired effect, and that the wise heads of that movement now admit their folly, and the propriety of our contention to have a fitting monument erected in our beautiful park to the memory of all our fallen heroes alike in both town and county. One of these gentlemen, however, I am told, wishes to "side-track" this rational plan by suggesting that we should make a hole in one of the walls of our Grey Court House and insert therein a slab or tablet for the intended purpose, which would necessitate assistance by a guide and search light to find its whereabouts. Just to put a par with the ambulance. This scrib a head would give us a fund of $4,000, which would be quite sufficient for a suitable monument with which to commemorate the dead and adorn our beautiful park. I take it that ten of our richest men would be disposed to subscribe that much themselves for such a laudable object. If in this large and prosperous town and county we cannot raise the funds, drop the matter at once and return the subscriptions, and let the hollowness of our loyalty be known to the world, and that its evanescence has ceased out at our finger ends.

Yours, etc.,
PATRIOT.

MILL REMNANTS

Of Fine All-Wool Tweeds and Worsteds

We were fortunate enough to come across a rare chance to buy a pile of Excellent Remnants of Tweeds and Worsteds, three-quarters of a yard long to whole webs, which the millmen wanted to close out to some one who would take the whole lot off their hands. We took the pile at less than One-Half the Regular Mill Prices. They are now offered to our customers for less money than similar new cloths were ever sold in town.

Cloths worth 90c and $1.00 per yard for 50c. Cloths worth 75c and 80c per yard for 35c.

Other qualities proportionately reduced. These Mill ends consist of the very same fashionable patterns which some of the best dressed men are now wearing.

Whole Suits made to order from single suit lengths, worth $12 to $12, for only $14.00

Trousers made to order, worth $4.00 and $5.00 for only $3.25

Parents who want short ends or longer pieces for suits or parts of suits for their boys are not likely to miss this chance.

Mr. Kruger Receives Report That That Many Are Armed.

DEWET DEAD OR WOUNDED

Conflicting Stories as to His Whereabouts —Canadian Scouts Successfully Attack Boer Laager—Two Killed—Boers Fled After Short Fight—The Attack Surprised Them.

London, Oct. 21.—(Tribune cable.)—The capture of Gen. Botha is now Lord Kitchener's chief objective point. The despatches are most confusing, representing him one day as heading northward, and the next as doubling back southward. The natural explanation is that, after his retirement to Wakkerstroom, he learned that the British columns were pressing upon him from various directions, and broke up his force into small bands, which are moving north, south and west. The British pursuit of Botha's transport has been unsuccessful, and, while a large force has been concentrated in the Wakkerstroom District, the prospect of making a large capture of Botha's men is unpromising. Diversions in other districts for the relief of Botha have been looked for, but there is no definite information. De la Rey and Kemp have crossed the Vaal into the Orange River Colony for this object, but no British reverse has been reported. Dewet and Steyn are not mentioned in any despatches. The Boer bands in Cape Colony are acting independently, and with increasing audacity, for they have been perilously near Cape Town, but they seem incapable of serious fighting, and exhaust their resources in looting. No reprisals for the drastic British methods of dealing with treason in Cape Colony have been reported. The change of policy was well-timed, since the Boers are apparently unable to take prisoners.

Armed 15,000 Afrikanders.

London, Oct. 21.—"Mr. Kruger has received a report from Mr. Schalkburger that the greater part of Cape Colony is in open rebellion," says a despatch to The Daily Mail from Brussels, "and that the Boers have armed 15,000 Afrikanders within the last three months."

Referring to the movements of Prof. F. De Maartens of the University of St. Petersburg, who is also a member of the Russian Privy Council, the Brussel's correspondent of The Standard denies that he has any mission from the Russian Government bearing upon the South African situation, and asserts that Boer circles in Brussels discredit the possibility of Russian intervention.

De Wet May Be Dead

Durban, Natal, Oct. 20.—General Dewet's recent inactivity has produced the impression among military men that he is either dead or incapacitated through illness or wounds. According to a letter from Pretoria a prominent Boer recently wrote to a friend there, relating the terrible hardships suffered by the Boers in the field, especially from lack of surgeons. "Dewet, for example," wrote the Boer, "suffered the most terrible agony before he died. He was wounded in the shoulder by a splinter from a shell, and the wound gangrened, owing to its being dressed with dirty rags."

Five Boers captured at different places recently said that Dewet was dead, but each gave a different version of his death. Against these reports is the statement of Piet de Villiers, the field cornet recently taken prisoner in the northeastern part of the Orange River Colony, who said that, on the morning of his capture, he took breakfast with General Dewet.

Burghers Take Oath of Allegiance.

Bloemfontein, Oct. 20.—One hundred and twenty-five Orange Free State burghers in the Kroonstad, Harrismith, Durban and Thabanchu districts have recently taken the oath of allegiance to Great Britain.

Two Canadians Killed.

Pretoria, Oct. 20.—A force of Canadian scouts surprised a Boer laager near Balmoral.

The Boers fled after a short fight.

The Canadians had two men killed and an officer and two men wounded.

Boer Lawyers in London.

London, Oct. 21.—Many persons were surprised to find that Dr. Krause, the former Governor of Johannesburg, who was arrested here on the charge of treason, was a member of the English bar. As a matter of fact, however, there are so many men who were formerly subjects of the Transvaal Republic, and the Orange River Free State who are now seeking to practice at the English bar that their claims are to be considered shortly by the Joint Discipline Committee of the Four Inns of Court. The committee will have to determine whether the legal status of some of the applicants is that of an alien, an alien enemy, a rebel, a traitor or a British subject.

Two Men Drowned.

Cross Village, Mich., Oct. 21.—Two men in charge of the famous Skilligalee lighthouse, at the entrance to the Straits of Mackinac, were drowned early yesterday by the upsetting of a boat used at the lighthouse to reach the mainland. The men are named Bourisseau and Grubben. Grubben's body was recovered, but that of Bourisseau is still at the bottom of the lake.

Landslide in Barbadoes.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 21.—Mail advices from Barbadoes give particulars of a landslide covering five hundred acres of land, in the district of Boscobel. Nearly a hundred houses were destroyed, and the island's best plantations were ruined. The district was devastated. The Governor has started a relief fund.

BIG FIRE AT SYDNEY

Much of Business Part of the City Destroyed.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $300,000

Large and Flourishing Mercantile Establishments Burned—Help From North Sydney and Other Places—Several Dwellings Destroyed—Worst Conflagration Nova Scotia Has Seen Since Windsor Fire.

Sydney, N.S., Oct. 20.—Chaos reigns in Sydney to-night. Where large and flourishing mercantile establishments stood yesterday there is now nothing but smouldering ruins. Tall chimneys, charred brick walls and smoking debris tell the story of the greatest conflagration in the history of Sydney. The scene to-night is in striking contrast to the scene of last Sunday night, for there are very few stores standing, and those that are are enveloped in darkness. Disorder and confusion reign, and hundreds of citizens, drenched to the skin from the downpour of rain, jostle and knock one another about in their mad desire to gaze on the scene of devastation.

Citizens and firemen all fought vigorously to stay the progress of the flames. Shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the alarm was sounded, and it was not long before the citizens of Sydney realized that the greatest conflagration in the history of the town was about to launch forth in all its fury, and all on account of the overturning of an oil stove in the large furniture store of Gordon & Keith, on the western side of Charlotte-street, which was being used for melting glue.

A strong northeast wind was blowing, and the flames soon leaped across the street to buildings occupied by H. Balls & Co., butchers; Chappell & Warren, bakers and confectioners, and Isaac Greenwell. A few doors north of the last-named store stood the brick three-storey department store of Prowse Bros. & Crowell, and the flames spread with lightning rapidity to it, and it was soon a mass of flames, and nearly the whole of the Prowse stock was consumed. The blaze shot across the street to Burns' corner, also down Prince-street, toward Bentinck-street.

In less than an hour the whole east side of Charlotte-street, from Prince William to Pitt, was in flames. The next street east of Charlotte is Bentinck, and a number of cottages on the west side of this street proved ready victims of the fire; and their sparks ignited a number of houses on the east side of the street.

But, while the firemen were successful in some quarters, they were unable to cope with the sea of flames in other sections. It was a task beyond the power of human skill. Three blocks on Charlotte-street, two blocks on Prince, one on Pitt, three on Bentinck and one on George were all ablaze at one time, and the spectacle was grandeur. It was then that the firemen worked with might and main. Eight thousand feet of hose were out, which included 800 feet belonging to Glace Bay, 1000 feet belonging to North Sydney, and 1000 feet belonging to the Steel Company. The local firemen had the assistance of the brigades also from the above-mentioned places. Besides this, Mr. J. H. Means, superintendent of the blast furnaces, with 20 negroes from the furnaces, rendered good service.

Mr. J. F. Whitehouse, architect of the Steel Company, secured a large quantity of dynamite, and, with the assistance of some employes of the works, used it to good effect. For three hours the fire burned with great fury along the above-mentioned streets, and it was thought that the whole of the town would be destroyed. But shortly before 5 o'clock the conflagration seemed to centre around the corner of Pitt and Charlotte-streets, and every effort was made to keep it there. It was then quite dark, and myriads of sparks floating about in the air formed a fascination to the gruesome. Several nearby buildings were ignited, but in every case the firemen were on hand and saved them. At length it became apparent that the worst fire Nova Scotia has seen since Windsor was wiped out was under control. Vacant lots at the corner of George and Prince-streets prevented the spread of the flames in that direction. The City Hall and the Baptist Church, both on Bentinck-street, narrowly escaped.

List of Victims.

The following were burned out:

On Charlotte-street—Gordon & Keith, furniture; A. E. Carr, jewelry; A. D. Gillis, groceries; Blanchard, Bentley & Co., drygoods; A. Hagel, bakery; F. Falconer, harness; James Shaw, confectionery; A. D. Ingraham, grocery; John Menzies, jewelry; H. Balls & Co., butchers; Prowse Bros. & Crowell, departmental store; Isaac Greenwell, stoves and tinware; Chappel & Warren, bakery; John McLellan, residence; Maritime Premium Company, clothing; M. Bates, painter; McDonald, Hanrahan & Co., drygoods; S. Bruns & Son, druggists; Dr. Rice, Dr. A. D. McGillivary; J. E. Pattillo, stationery; Union Bank of Halifax; A. McQuarrie, fruits; H. A. Johns, Dr. Forbes; T. Pistone, hotel; W. Reynolds' Clothing Co.; Mrs. Beaton, millinery; Kelly & Dodie, photographers; Neil Ferguson, tailor; Mills, McKenzie & Ross, drygoods; R. Curry, jewelry; C. P. Moore, hardware; Stanfield & McLeod, books and stationery.

On Bentinck-street—O. E. Weeks, harness store and residence; J. P. Conway & Co., hotel; F. A. Crowell, residence; John McKinnon, two residences; A. McQuarrie, residence and barn; C. W. Hill, residence; Mrs. D. Matheson, residence; McNeil & Gough, meat market; Sutherland, residence; Captain Florian, two houses.

On Prince-street—Charles Sullivan, tinsmith; Joy, restaurant; Ball, undertaker; Allan & Reid, victualers; John McLean, residence; Colin McKinnon, forge.

On Pitt-street—McNeil & Gough, meat market; Dick, restaurant, and Tobin, residence.

On George-street—Falconer's carriage warehouse; Mrs. McNeil, residence, and Mrs. McGinnis, residence. The majority of people burned out will rebuild. A. D. Ingraham states that he will commence at once the erection of a brick building, and Prowse Bros. and Crowell will probably do likewise.

Insurance Loss $200,000.

At present only the roughest estimates as to both the total loss and the total amount of insurance carried can be made. The total loss will reach $300,000, of which about $200,000 is covered by insurance.

J. E. Burchell represents the British America, the Canadian, the Imperial, the Liverpool, London and Globe, the Phoenix of London, the Queen, the Sun, the Union, the National and the Western. He says the loss of these ten companies will be about $60,000 to $70,000, fairly evenly divided between them, except that the National had comparatively few risks.

The companies represented by A. M. Crofton, the secretary of the Board of Trade, with their approximate losses are: The Royal, $6000; the Phoenix of Hartford, $2000; the Hartford, $2000; the Caledonian, $4000.

Property Insured.

On the whole nearly all the property destroyed carried fair insurance. Prowse Bros., the large drygoods establishment, had $42,000 on their stock, $8000 on the building. Unfortunately for the drygoods merchants burnt out, they all had their fall stock of fall and winter goods.

Other insurances at present known are: McDonald, Hanrahan & Co., $6000; Bates' Block, $2000; Maritime Premium Co., $2000; Gordon & Keith, $10,000; A. D. Gillies, $4000; Blanchard, Bentley & Co., $10,000; A. Hagel, $2000; W. Falconer & Son, $2000; Acadia House, $20,000; C. P. Moore Block, $15,000; Reynolds Co., $6000; Pattillo's book store, $2000.

A great deal of assistance was received from outside.

WE'VE HAD LINENS BEFORE BUT NOT ANY LIKE THESE.

ON SALE WEDNESDAY MORNING, 9 a.m.

The assortment couldn't be greater, for in this big lot every piece is a different size and a different pattern. Without any doubt they are the most effective Linens we have ever seen. THE ATTACKS ON MR. STRATTON

There is good reason to believe that the attacks which are made in the Tory papers on Mr. Stratton are largely due to the fact that the Minister is regarded as a formidable opponent. It is a very old and familiar Tory game, that of pursuing a public man, not because he deserves censure for his public conduct, but because of his strength with the people. Mr. Stratton is doing a great deal of work on the platform, and his style is so clear and convincing that there are quite as many requests for his services as he can fulfill.

He is a most indefatigable worker in his department and quite fearless in the discharge of his duties, and his worst enemy can find no fault with him on that score. It is his services to the Liberal party that constitute his offence in the eyes of the Opposition journals, and Liberals are very apt to rally about a man whose offence is that of character. Mr. Sifton was greatly strengthened by a series of attacks made with the purpose of driving him out of public life, and Mr. Stratton will probably have a similar experience.—Globe.

ONTARIO'S FIRST FREE SANITARIUM.

We are glad to notice that the National Sanitarium Association is pushing to completion its hospital for free patients. It is expected the building will be ready for occupation within a few weeks. The hospital is situated at Gravenhurst, a short distance from the other buildings of the association. Accommodation will be afforded for 50 patients, and these are eligible from any part of Ontario. The new hospital will relieve the situation to a very small extent. There will still remain thousands of cases in Ontario unprovided for. The opening of the free hospital at Gravenhurst will not obviate the necessity of similar but larger institutions in the immediate vicinity of Toronto and the other large cities of Canada. Ontario is still a long way behind most other countries in providing for consumptives. This institution at Gravenhurst is, we believe, the only free consumtive hospital in the province.—Toronto World.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Toronto News is so anxious to get a drive at Hon. Mr. Stratton, that it charges that the Provincial Secretary, with the sinister purpose of influencing the electorate, has issued a financial statement, which was prepared and issued by the Provincial Treasurer.

Death has recently made breaks in the ranks of the Conservative Opposition in the Dominion Parliament which represent a reduction of strength quite out of proportion to the numerical reduction. Hon. N. Clarke Wallace and Nicholas Flood Davin, were two of the members of the Opposition, who would have been the very last to be dispensed with if the choice had been given.

The latest War Office casualty statement shows that the total number of deaths in South Africa from the beginning of the war to the end of last September has been 17,472—824 officers and 16,648 men. Adding the missing, prisoners and invalids sent home who have either died or left the service as unfit, the total reduction of the forces in South Africa has been 22,289. No less than 37,470 officers and men were invlided home, but have in the majority of cases recovered and rejoined for duty. The total casualty list is 75,562.

The Toronto News finds in the statement of the Provincial finances recently issued, which show our finances to be in a sound and healthy condition, evidence of the near approach of the elections. As to that, that is no particular indication in itself, of an approaching appeal to the people. As far as the finances of the province are concerned, and as far as the general record of the Government is concerned, the Government is ready for an election any day in any year. The finances of Ontario are always in a healthy and sound condition, under Liberal administration. The fact that we have a big surplus of receipts over expenditure upon the current operations of the year, is only further evidence of the careful management of our financial affairs, which extorted even from the Mail itself, the admission that the financial administration of Ontario was "thrifty, judicious and clean."

ONTARIO HAS A BIG SURPLUS.

SYDNEY STEEL WORKS.

Sir Christopher Furness Favorably Impressed.

Montreal, Oct. 18.—Sir Christopher Furness, head of the great London shipping firm, has returned from a visit to the Dominion Iron & Steel Works at Sidney, C.B. He stated today that he was thoroughly convinced from what he saw that in Nova Scotia they can manufacture steel cheaper than in England. He added:—"I do not suppose the company will appeal to the English market just yet, because they have at present more than enough to do to supply Canadian demands. Touching a Canadian fast line of steamers," added Sir Christoper, "I think it is pure nonsense to talk about it until Lloyds have greatly enlarged their connection here. The insurance question is absolutely vital, not a limited company with a capital, say, of $200,000, will satisfy the demands, but a powerful organization of £2,700,000 will be required to meet the exigencies of a fast line of steamers and the ultimate destiny which Montreal ought to achieve. If the shippers of this country, great and small, will undertake this, it will reestablish confidence in the St. Lawrence route. While discriminating rates against Canada are permitted in the general run of shippers from other ports, I think something ought to be done to re-establish this confidence in the St. Lawrence route by the inauguration of an insurance system which will compete on terms favourable to the shipping interests." Sir Christopher had a long interview with Lord Strathcona, and left for Ottawa this afternoon. From there he proceeds to Sault Ste. Marie, to inspect the Clergue enterprises, thence to Chicago and the Pacific.

Finances in Bad Shape.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The State Department has been informed by Mr. U. S. Hill at Amsterdam, under date of Sept. 28, that the project of draining the Zuider Zee and adding new fertile land to the kingdom of the Netherlands, has been withdrawn from the State's Genera by the new ministry. The matter thus has been disposed of, probably for a long period. Mr. Hill says that the state of the Dutch budget renders such an undertaking at this time inadvisable, and, moreover, the fall in the price of land has diminished the demand for new agricultural holdings.

A HELPLESS MAN.

A man is certainly in a helpless condition when he has to sit with his leg on a chair for weeks, unable to move. William Grimshaw, Wolfe Island, Frontenac County, Ont., was in this plight. Doctors could do nothing for him and the pain remained in his legs for six months. Three bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure and three boxes of Climax Iron Tonic Pills routed the disease and restored him to perfect health. He now recommends it to all sufferers. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

A Life-Saver Dead.

Detroit, Oct. 21.—Capt. James G. O'Neil, well known among the vessel men of Detroit for the past 30 years, died at midnight Friday night at his residence in Windsor. Capt. O'Neil was born on Bois Blanc Island, 52 years ago. In early years he was marine reporter for several of the Detroit newspapers. In this capacity he made a remarkable record in life saving. It is said that he saved over 25 persons from drowning during his experience on the Detroit River.

FAREWELL TO CANADA

The Duke of York's Graceful Acknowledgment.

THEIR VISIT WAS TOO SHORT

The Popular Welcome Highly Appreciated—Halifax Reception—South African Heroes' Monument—8,000 Troops Reviewed—The Addresses and the Evening Reception—On Board the Ophir.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The royal party yesterday spent its last day in Canada. In the morning Their Royal Highnesses were expected to attend divine service at St. Paul's Anglican Church, but the Governor-General and the Countess were the only prominent members of the royal party that attended. An immense congregation had gathered in the expectation of seeing the royal couple.

The Bishop of Nova Scotia, Rev. Dr. Courtney, preached a sermon in which he said that the belief in the divine right of kings was dead, and he thanked God that such was the case. Robert Burns, he contended, was the man whom he considered had done more than any other in his generation to establish the equality of mankind.

In the evening there was a dinner at Admiralty House, which the Duke and Duchess attended. The warships were illuminated this evening and presented a very pretty picture.

The royal couple leave for St. John's, Newfoundland, at 11 o'clock to-day by the Ophir. It was announced yesterday that if any foggy weather comes up after the departure of the Ophir from Halifax the royal party will cancel their engagements at St. John's, Newfoundland.

Sunday afternoon, Premier and Lady Laurier and Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Jones lunched on the Ophir with Their Excellencies. Her Royal Highness presented Lady Laurier with a handsome silver snuffbox, on the top of which is a crown made of diamonds.

Photos of Their Royal Highnesses, with their autographs, were presented to the other visitors. To-night, the Duke and Duchess attended a dinner at the Admiralty House.

The Ophir will leave at 9.30 in the morning, and the ships of the fleet will accompany her as far as Sambro. Besides the Diadem and Niobe, the Crescent and another warship will accompany the Ophir to Newfoundland.

The Duchess on Saturday evening, expressed to Lieut.-Governor Jones, her regret at leaving, and her unbounded admiration for Canada, which, she said, was the best place they had seen. She said she would like very much to spend six months in Canada.

Saturday at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The biggest crowd ever seen in this city assembled Saturday to greet the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. The train arrived at 10 o'clock. The royal party were met by Admiral Bedford, Gov. Jones and other dignitaries, while the forts and ships fired salutes of 21 guns. Addresses were presented from the City of Halifax, the City of Charlottetown and various bodies.

This over, the Duke and Duchess, seated in the state coach, which has accompanied them throughout the trip, started off in what was called the royal procession. The streets were lined on both sides with soldiers, standing ten feet apart. All traffic was ordered suspended. Thousands of persons were packed solidly behind the soldiers, and craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the passing show. At the Parliament House a stop was made, while the Duke presided at the laying of the cornerstone of a memorial to the soldiers who fell in South Africa. The Monument Fund was raised by popular subscription, and is said to be the first erected in this way in the British Empire.

The Duke of Cornwall's arrival at the Common, where the review of 10,000 soldiers, with the Naval Brigade, took place, was marked by a royal salute of 21 guns, fired from the citadel. Thirty thousand persons lined the ropes and cheered when the future King appeared. The post of honor was given to the Naval Brigade, and, nearly 5,000 strong, the tars made a fine showing. The regiments marched past in quarter column, saluting the Duke, who was surrounded by a brilliant suite. After the review, medals were presented to South African veterans. Then came the presentation of colors to the 66th Princess Louise Fusiliers, one of the city militia regiments. After a religious service, the Duke made a brief address. He alluded to the fact, which he said was pleasant to him, that the regiment was called after his dear aunt, who still cherished lively recollections of the pleasant years she spent in Canada.

At night a state dinner took place at Government House, and the city and fleet were illuminated.

DUKE'S FAREWELL ADDRESS.

Impressed With the Heartiness and Cordiality of the Reception Throughout the Dominion.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The following farewell address to the citizens of Canada was issued late last night by the Duke of York:

H.M.S. Ophir, at Halifax, Nova Scotia, Oct. 19, 1901.

Dear Lord Minto,—Before leaving Canada I am anxious to make known thru you with what regret the Duchess and I bid farewell to a people who, by their warm-heartedness and cordiality, have made us feel at home amongst them from the first moment of our arrival on their shores.

I should like particularly to express our gratitude for the generous feeling which has prompted all classes to contribute towards that hearty and affectionate welcome which we have met with. This has been strikingly shown, not only in the demeanor of the crowds, and the general manifestations of rejoicing with which we have been greeted, but also by the trouble and ingenuity displayed in the illuminations and street decorations carried out with such conspicuous taste and success by private persons, as well as by the government and local authorities.

We are greatly touched to find in the smallest and most remote places thru which we passed what great efforts had been made by the inhabitants to manifest their kindly feelings towards us.

I recognise all this as a proof of the strong personal loyalty to the throne, as well as a declaration of the deep-seated devotion on the part of the people of Canada to that unity of the Empire of which the Crown is the symbol.

We wish to record our sincere thanks to the Dominion government, the Provincial authorities, the municipal bodies and private individuals, for their generous hospitality, their kind forethought and the extreme care and trouble they have bestowed upon all the arrangements for the reception and accommodation of ourselves and our staff. I feel that we are specially indebted to Mr. Pope, by whom so much of the detail was ably dealt with.

Wherever we have been the police duties were admirably carried out. We wish to express our special obligations to the Commissioner of the Dominion Police and other police officials for the excellent manner in which they have discharged the important responsibilities devolving upon them.

Short as, unfortunately, our stay in Canada had to be, it was sufficient for us to understand something of its boundless possibilities, and the scope which it affords to those who, with a spirit of enterprise, determination and willingness to work, desire to seek a wider, less crowded and richer field than that offered by the congested industries and professions of the Mother Country.

I trust that these possibilities may be taken advantage of in the future, and that suitable emigrants from the Mother Country may come in large numbers. At Calgary, we witnessed a large and representative gathering of Indians. Then and on other occasions addresses were presented from different tribes. I was glad to hear of the progress they have made and the contentment in which they live under the arrangements made for their benefit by the Dominion government.

One of the most important features of our visit was the enormous distance traversed by rail, and we feel a difficulty in adequately thanking the Dominion government for all that was organized and most effectually carried out for our railway journeys. The train built especially for the occasion by the Canadian Pacific Railway was a marvel of convenience and comfort, and nothing seems to have been forgotten which might tend to reduce the fatigue inseparable from such a long journey. Special facilities were afforded to enable us to see the most striking points of interest in the vast regions of magnificent scenery thru which we passed, while we received every possible attention and consideration from the officials and servants of the company.

To the authorities of the Grand Trunk and Intercolonial Railways also our special thanks are due for all trouble and consideration which they devoted to providing for the part of our journey which lay over their lines, and for the efficiency and success with which all the services were performed.

We hope that the public did not suffer on account of the special arrangements made for our traveling, which, perhaps, necessitated some interference with the general traffic.

I am especially anxious to record my appreciation of that splendid force, the Northwest Mounted Police. I had the pleasure of inspecting a portion of the corps at Calgary, and was much struck with the smart appearance of both men and horses, and with their general steadiness on parade. They furnished escorts thruout our stay in Canada, frequently horsed our carriages and found the transport, all of which duties were performed with ready willingness and in a highly creditable manner.

The reviews which were held at Quebec, Toronto and Halifax enabled me to judge of the military capacity of the Dominion and of the splendid material at its disposal. Many of the corps showed smartness and soldier-like bearing. I was glad to find that a field hospital organization has recently been provided, as well as a company of engineers.

I was much interested in our visit to the Royal Military College at Kingston to see what excellent provision the Dominion government has made available for the preliminary military education of its militia officers.

Every country now recognises the necessity of securing the greatest possible military efficiency in return for its outlay on defence, and that the material at hand should not be sacrificed for the lack of adequate training and leading, which can best be insured by a fully qualified staff. I was delighted to have the opportunity of presenting a large number of medals to officers and men for services in South Africa, and it was most gratifying to see with what enthusiasm they were welcomed by their fellow citizens.

It was a great pleasure to us to be accompanied thruout our tour by the distinguished Prime Minister of the Dominion. As this must have been done at a great personal inconvenience we are all the more grateful to Sir Wilfrid Laurier for his valuable help and companionship.

And finally to Lady Minto and yourself we wish to express our most sincere thanks for the unfailing kindness and generous hospitality which we have received as your guests, and also for the great pleasure and valuable assistance that we realized in the presence of either Lady Minto, or both of Your Excellencies, during our long journey. I am further anxious to record my thanks to Major Maude for the efficient manner in which he and the rest of your staff dealt with the exceptionally heavy and anxious work, and overcame the numerous difficulties connected with our tour, and for all that they have done to help me and my own staff.

We wish it had been possible to remain longer in Canada, and by availing ourselves of the many pressing invitations received from different centres. To become acquainted more intimately with its various districts and their people, but we have seen enough to carry away imperishable memories of affectionate and loyal hearts, frank and independent natures, prosperous and progressive communities, boundless productive territories, glorious scenery, stupendous works or nature, a people and a country proud of its membership of the Empire, and in which the Empire finds one of its brightest offspring.

Our hearts are full at saying farewell. We feel that we have made many friends in all parts of the Dominion, and that we owe and gladly extend to its people our sincere friendship and good wishes. May the affectionate regard which all races and classes have so generally shown us knit together the peoples of Canada and strengthen the existing tie that unites the Empire.

Believe me, dear Lord Minto, very sincerely yours.

(Signed) GEORGE.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant, and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal times will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents. A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan.

Will Abolish It.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 21.—The Department of Trade and Commerce is notified that the Government of Jamaica has decided to abolish the commercial travelers' tax. The tax is found to have a deterrent effect on the opening up of closer trade relations between Canada and Jamaica, and its removal is expected to be followed by a considerable increase of business between the two countries.

Will Not Travel on Sunday.

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—The North American's London cable says King Edward has stunned society by placing the ban on Sunday entertainments of every sort. The news came out as a result of his declining to leave Scotland for London on Sunday. It is said he will not encourage Sunday dinner parties at restaurants or other diversions.

The Sufferings of Job.

If the agonies of Job were any worse than the tortures of itching piles from which so many people suffer, he had much to endure. The difference is that there is no reason for anyone to endure the miseries of piles for a single day. Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured tens of thousands of cases and is absolutely guaranteed to cure each and every case of piles. 60 cents, at all dealers or by mail from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Police Saved Her Life.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Edson Taylor made no attempt to go over the Falls yesterday, she having been notified by Chief Dinan of the Niagara Falls, N.Y., police that if she attempted to do so in the city limits she would be promptly arrested.

Disaster in England.

Heywood, Eng., Oct. 21.—The roof of the Nayden colliery here fell yesterday, entombing several of the miners. Two dead bodies have been recovered.

MISS DOTY STILL MISSING.

Oakville Girl Was Last Seen on Train Near Sarnia.

Detroit, Oct. 21.—Rev. W. E. Kerr of Amherstburg has failed to locate his sister-in-law, Miss Laura Doty, who mysteriously disappeared Monday night on her way home to Oakville, Ont. Mr. Kerr successfully traced the girl by Grand Trunk conductors until the train passed Sarnia. The conductor running between Sarnia and Hamilton said he remembered her, as she asked him when he took up her ticket, if the train stopped at Oakville that night. Mr. Kerr returned to Amherstburg last night and wired the young girl's relatives in Toronto and Hamilton. They replied that they had heard nothing of her. This morning Mr. Kerr set out again to search for her between Sarnia and Hamilton. She is said to be a pretty girl, and her mother is wealthy.

Rheumatic Pains Cured by Nerviline.

This is the testimony of Mr. Benj. STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

Obituary.

The death occurred at Nicholls Hospital yesterday of Jacob Hetherington, after an illness extending over some weeks. The deceased was about 75 years of age and his home was in Millbrook where he followed the occupation of a chair builder. The remains will be taken to Millbrook for interment.

Largest Yet.

The largest mens' meeting of the season thus far was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall yesterday. The second of a series of addresses on "Life" was given by Rev. J. Bastow. It was one of interest. The male quartette, composed of Messrs. Watson, Frowde, Turner and Doige, sang "Just as I am" in a forcible manner. Mr. Watson also sang "Throw out the Life Line." All the young men present enjoyed the meeting.

Ladies Can Shop Early.

There was an unusual stir at Messrs. Robert Fair & Co's store, Saturday morning. A special glove sale had brought the ladies out in large numbers, and as early as eight o'clock the store was taxed to its utmost capacity to wait upon them. The sight was an interesting one and proved that the ladies can go "shopping" when it becomes necessary to do so to reap the advantages of first choice.

The Committee of the Whole.

The town council met in Committee of the Whole this morning at 10 o'clock, having been called together rather hurriedly to confer with Messrs. Stewart and Kirn of the Quaker Oats Co., regarding the railway tracks to be laid into their premises. Some alterations were approved of from those set out in the original plan, and a special meeting of the whole council will be held this evening to further consider the matter.

Peterborough's Rapid Growth.

Peterborough is certainly booming these days, and business at our meat market is simply on the hum. The quality of our meats is being appreciated and it is no wonder as we carry the choicest that money can buy. Trade has increased to such an extent that we are compelled to enlarge our premises, this week we have men busy putting the rear of our store facing the public market in shape to handle the wholesale trade. Last week's prices still ruling. Kennedy's Meat Market. 'Phone 275.

The Royal Chorus.

The Examiner has to thank Mr. G. W. Mulligan for a copy of a souvenir, including official programme of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York to Canada. It contains the official text of the Royal Chorus, and its pages are embellished with photographs of Royal and other prominent personages. Mr. Mulligan requests the Examiner to state that one hundred copies of these souvenirs will be given away to the singers comprising the Peterborough contingent of the Royal chorus at the rehearsal to-morrow evening. The members are requested to bring their music with them.

CHURCH CHIMES.

During offertory in the George street church at evening service, the solo, "Calvary," by Paul Rodney, was well sung by Mr. Mulligan.

Mrs. F. E. Walden and Miss Clara Bellegham sang very acceptably the duet "Under His Wings," in St. Andrew's church at the evening service yesterday.

The evening anthem in the George street church was "Hear us, O Father," with soprano solo by Miss B. Butcher, and obligato solo by Miss M. Metheral.

The morning anthem in the George street church yesterday was "How Long wilt Thou Forget Me, O Lord!" by Pfleuger, with solo by Mr. Mulligan and contralto members of the choir.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

There was a special service of intercession for Sunday schools at St. Luke's yesterday. Large congregations were present at all services. The Rector preached on the importance of religious instruction of the young, taking his text, Psalms cxliv, 12. In the afternoon the children's service was largely attended by both pupils and their parents. In the evening the Rector preached on the "Peace Offering."

Remember the Sunday school gathering of St. John's, St. Luke's and All Saints' schools to-night at St. John's school house. Model lesson taught by Rev. W. L. Armitage; address by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt.

ST. PETER'S.

The Forty Hours Devotion began at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday at 10.30 o'clock mass with the exposition of the Blessed Sacrament. At Vespers the Cathedral was crowded to its utmost capacity. Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Young's Point, preached on "The Real Presence." The exercises will continue until to-morrow evening.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The following are a few notes taken as a result of a Sabbath day spent at the Charlotte street Methodist church by a contributor:

"There were large attentive congregations, yesterday, at both services.

The pastor, Rev. D. O. Crossley, preached two practical and helpful sermons.

The singing was hearty and inspiring as well as entertaining.

The services as a whole were calculated to greatly help and encourage any one desirous of leading a Christian life.

The Sunday School in the afternoon was well attended. There being three hundred and thirty-three present yesterday. The school is well officered and equipped, Mr. Kidd being superintendent, and is doing excellent work in training the young in the principles of right living.

The orchestra numbers ten pieces, consisting of two violins and a bass viol, three horns, a flute, a clarionet, a piccolo and a piano. The music was first rate.

The library consisting of over one thousand volumes is beautifully cased in a room of its own, and presents a splendid appearance. It is managed by three gentlemen, the initials of whose names are W. H. Hamilton, T. Barrie and F. Sandy. They are proud of their library, and they have a right to be.

The people of the church might be a little more friendly with strangers to advantage, but nevertheless, if I should locate in Peterborough, Charlotte street church is good enough for me." — "COLO."

BETHANY TABERNACLE.

Pastor Philpott, of Hamilton, will give an address in Bethany Mission this evening at 8 o'clock. All are welcome.

ST. PAUL'S.

The anthem at St. Paul's church yesterday morning was entitled "Praise ye the Lord." Mr. Mein took the solo very ably. In the evening the anthem was "Let there be light," with solo by Miss Montgomery.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

At Murray street Baptist church yesterday morning the anthem "Come ye Disconsolate" was sung, the solo passages being taken by Miss Hall and Mr. C. B. Routley. In the evening Concone's Evening Hymn was sung.

GOLF CLUB DINNER.

It was Held at the Links on Saturday Evening—Short Toast List.

The annual match of President vs. Captain, was held on the Links Saturday, and was followed by a club dinner, which was characterized by many enjoyable features. The match resulted in a victory for Capt. Hamilton's team by 17 holes, and the dinner was therefore furnished by President Campbell's men, and was served at half past six, there being about a score of members present. Mr. P. Campbell and Mr. R. M. Hamilton occupied the head and foot of the table respectively. After full justice had been done the appetizing repast a very brief toast list was run off. Of course His Majesty's health was the first on the list, and then came that of this year's champion, Mr. Sam Ray. It is a well known rule in golf that a player must not be spoken to when "addressing." When Mr. Ray addressed the gathering as "brother curlers," he was naturally spoken to, and as a result he "fooled," and there was a lot of fun over it. His modest statement that he won the championship by a fluke was disclaimed by all present. The toast of the "Colts," brought Captain Complin to his feet. When chaffed by the seniors about the Colts, he routed them horse and foot by his rejoinder that the Colts had never been beaten, and challenged the first team to a match on the basis of the Colts being given the halved holes. The challenge, it might be stated, was promptly accepted by Capt. Hamilton.

This concluded the toast list, and an informal discussion followed about golfing matters in general, and the manner of selecting the senior team, in particular. Many plans were mentioned as an equitable way of picking the best players, but none seemed to exactly fit the case. Mr. Burnham, however, after adjournment, proposed a plan which at first glance seems to fit all the requirements. His idea is for the members of the first team to hold position by reason of their score. Any score made stands good for a month, but by that time a new card must be handed in, and if this is not done the member drops off the team. The box is opened every two weeks, and the players dropping cards are placed on the team according to their score. This plan does away with the rather cold-blooded idea of challenging a man for his place, and at the same time determines a player's ability with equal certainty.

Before the members separated Mr. Robert Neill was warmly congratulated on having established a record for the new course, having gone around in 41.

The score of the members playing was as follows:

President.		Captain.
0	Mr. Burnett	Mr. Ray	8
0	Mr. Burnham	Mr. Hamilton capt	0
5	Mr. Complin	Mr. Parker	0
0	Mr. Hollingshead	Dr Neill	6

PRESENTATION TO MRS. DAVIS

By the Members of the Choir of Charlotte Street Church.

The regular weekly practice of the Charlotte street Methodist church choir was held on Friday evening at the residence of Mr. A. L. Davis. Friday was the 20th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Davis so the choir took occasion to extend their congratulations to Mrs. Davis, their Hon. President. She was presented with a very handsome Eugamara vase and a beautiful palm and jardiniere. The presentation made by Mr. Fred Skitch and the address was read by the president of the choir, Mr. T. J. Main. The address was as follows:—

Mrs. A. L. Davis, Hon. President Charlotte street Church Choir:

To Our Dear Friend,—We, the members of the Charlotte street church choir, desire to express to yourself and Mr. Davis our heartiest congratulations on this, the twentieth anniversary of your wedding day.

During the long period which has covered your connection with the choir you have been one of its earnest and faithful members. The keen interest you have taken in all its affairs led us to expect those zealous efforts for its welfare and prosperity which you have manifested in a marked degree.

Having in all those years been our helper, and of late filled the position of Hon. President, the manner in which you have discharged the duties of that honourable office has earned our sincere respect and esteem. We also desire to convey to you our heartiest appreciation of the many acts of kindness, both socially and otherwise, which you have extended to us as members and the choir as a body.

In recognition of your warm-hearted and kindly efforts in this direction, we ask you to accept this gift as a tangible proof of the esteem in which you are held by us all, and as a slight memento of this pleasant occasion.

Wishing you many happy returns of the day, we remain your sincere friends and well-wishers.

Signed by all the members of the choir.

Mrs. Davis made a suitable reply in which she thanked the members for their kindness and assured them of her deep interest in the affairs of the choir.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Held at St. John's for Sunday School Workers, Yesterday.

Yesterday was the day appointed in the Church of England, both at home and abroad, for intercession on behalf of Sunday school work, and it was duly observed in St. John's. At the early morning service at 8.30 o'clock, there was an exceptionally large representation of Sunday school workers, and a service appropriate to the occasion was conducted by Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rector of St John's. At 11 a.m., and 7 p.m. the services were particularly appropriate, the hymns and prayers being on behalf of the Sunday school.

This evening the Sunday school subject will be discussed at a union meeting of the teachers and workers of the Anglican congregations.

PERSONALS.

Mr. John F. Cummings of Oakwood, was in town to-day.

Sergt. Major Howson, 46th Durham Regiment of Infantry, is in town to-day.

Mrs. G. J. Tovey is at present visiting the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo.

Rev. Carl Smith, formerly of town, has accepted a charge in Washington, D. C.

Miss Marion Hall has returned from Toronto where she was bridesmaid for Miss Nellie Bertram.

Messrs. Dixon Jewett and Con. Wall have returned from a week's duck shooting at Pigeon Lake.

Mr. Even H. McLean, barrister of Bowmanville, has been in town for a day or two, as a guest at the residence of Mrs. John Burnham.

Messrs. J. W. Haight and R. B. Proutt are in Peterborough. Mr. Haight is negotiating for an electric launch.—Marmora Herald.

Mr. George Matthews, of Lindsay, and Messrs. W. E., and A. E. Matthews, of Ottawa, are in town to-day attending the annual meeting of the George Matthews Co.

Mr. Peter Hamilton has returned from a sojourn at Clifton Springs. The course taken evidently was greatly beneficial to Mr. Hamilton's health as he is looking much better.

Mr. Charles McMahon, of Kinmount, and Mr. William Ritchie, of Galway, were in townt o-day. The crops in Galway this year were very good, and these gentlemen say that the prices obtained for all produce of the north are very satisfactory.

A Wesley correspondent writes as follows: "On Thursday last Mr. Stubbs, of Peterborough, gave an excellent entertainment in the Methodist church here. A very large crowd attended, and no one went away disappointed. His lantern gave some splendid views, those of the South African War, Uncle Tom's Cabin, and Curfew being exceptionally good. Very vivid scenes and descriptions were given of the great Northwest, Niagara Falls and the Pan-American. The phonograph selections were of a good order and the whole tone of the concert was elevating. We shall welcome Mr. Stubbs again."

THEIR ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Special Services Took Place in All Saints' Yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Armitage Discussed the Matter of Separation With the Congregation—The Music.

Yesterday was Anniversary Sunday in All Saint's church and large congregations were in attendance at both the morning and evening services.

There was a large attendance at the 8.30 o'clock service when Rev. Mr. Armitage spoke on "Consecration of Life and Efforts."

At the eleven o'clock service he delivered a most timely address from the text "The rich and the poor meet together; the Lord is the maker of them all."—(Proverbs xxii, 2nd verse. In referring to the first part of the text, the speaker stated that there were few places on earth to which it could be considered as applying. The claim that the rich and the poor should meet together carried weight with but few men. It was only when the latter part of the text was read that there was a full realization of the difference which really existed, yet all must stand together before the judgment seat of Christ, no matter what colour or creed or whether rich or poor. God has revealed Himself not particularly to any class or to any nation. When Christ came to the world He came not to the Jews only. He had set aside no particular people, who might call upon His name. He was a God of the people as a whole. It seems strange to many that He in His mercy should permit some to be poor and some to be rich. It could not be interpreted, but all should remember how in the case of Lazarus and the rich man, their positions were reversed in the after life. This is a short life and the poor have not to bear their cross long. How good a thing it is to know that there is nothing to separate the rich from the poor in the church. Before God there was only one division. They that are his and they that are not.

Mr. Armitage considered the name of the church "All Saint's" a happy one. The congregation should be as one family with a common interest, and every member having the welfare of the others at heart. All should bear with the short comings of one another, and assist in building up the weak and lifting those who are down. Still there were divisions in every family. There were those who enjoyed everything to the full, but refuse to work that others may have enjoyment as well. As far as they were concerned the church of God would never exist, yet they claim to be of the same family—Christians. It should be remembered that the responsibility rests on every member. This part of the family of God would not have performed its work if it had not been for the erection of All Saint's. All the different pastors who had been with the church had helped, of course, in the work, but, in reality, the women of the church should have all of the credit. He could feel with thankfulness that the rich and the poor when attending All Saint's realized that they were the same in the sight of God.

For the first time since the matter of separating from St. John's has been mooted, Mr. Armitage spoke on the subject. The question of why there should be a separation was hard to answer except from the stand-point of conditions. The conditions bearing on the case were taken up and carefully discussed by Mr. Armitage, showing that it would be for mutual advantage.

He concluded by speaking of the division of the Diocese, which had long been thought advisable, and which would have taken place some time ago, but for the lack of sufficient funds.

Special music was rendered by the choir. Skilling's "Jubilate Deo" received skillful interpretation and Haydn's anthem "Oh be Joyful" was given with great spirit, Mr. Armitage taking the solo.

A special service was held for the children in the afternoon when Rev. Mr. Armitage spoke on "The Sunday School and its Mission." His subject in the evening was "In the presence of God." The special music, which was all most pleasingly given, included Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, by Eldon, and Himmel's anthem "Oh Come, Let us Worship." Miss Rickey taking the obligato solo.

PETERBOROUGH WON THE ROUND.

Ottawa Beaten out for the Championship.

WAS A VERY CLOSE GAME.

The Visitors Were Much Heavier but did not Have the Stamina of the Local Fifteen.

Peterborough should be very proud of its Rugby team for the splendid game which the boys put up on Saturday against the Rough Riders II, under climatic conditions, which were much in favour of the visitors. There was a high wind blowing from the Northwest, and consequently possession of the ball meant everything to the team which was playing against the wind. The Peterboroughs won the toss, and decided to kick with the wind. It was the visitors game, therefore, to hold the ball as much as possible, and not allow the home team to get the assistance of the wind in punting. The first half, consequently, was characterized by an almost continuous succession of mass plays, in which the Ottawa's heavy scrimmage was used to advantage, necessitating McWilliams coming up from the half back line again and again to assist the lighter local scrimmage in holding its own. Do their best, however, with all their weight, the Rough Riders could not keep possession of the ball all the time and, whenever the Peterboroughs got it, a run by McPherson, or a long punt by Burnham, meant big gains for the locals. McPherson, by the way, played a phenomenal game, and his accurate catching and brilliant runs were the feature of the day. Chris Graham, too, attracted a great deal of attention by the manner in which he "followed up," and his nervy tackling, his quickness in the former particular being responsible for Peterborough's only touch down. Rickey already shows great improvement over last year's form, and Meagher also gives evidence of greater strength on the line. Picard was kept busy by Austin, Ottawa's clever boxer, but he effectually spoiled that player's chances of shining. Crowley is under a disadvantage through having to play at inside wing, as he gets no chance there to utilize his speed. It is a pity he cannot be spared to play his old position. Dillon and Patterson, the new men, both do good work and give great promise. Bell, at quarter, did a lot of heady work and in the second half was exceptionally good. The scrimmage — Noble, Revell and Dalnard—are a trifle light probably, when matched against such a heavy trio as Ottawa put on the field, but their condition and grit enabled them to hold their own under circumstances which would have caused many scrimmages of equal weight to lose heart. It was in fact the combination of these two important qualifications in the entire Peterborough which, without doubt, won the day. Every man played for all that was in him and used every ounce of strength of which he was possessed.

It was twenty minutes after three when the two teams took the field in the following order:

Ottawa II.	Peterborough.
Back.
J. Roberts	H. Armstrong
Halves.
B. Hutton	McPherson
M. Beaulieu	H. Burnham
D. McGee	V. McWilliams

Morgan	Revell
Cameron	Dalnard

Dumoulin	Meagher
Woods	Crowley
Lyon	Dillon
Austin	Picard
Fagan	Patterson

Mr. Eddie Gleason, Canada's greatest half back, officiated as referee, and Mr. O. Leplance was umpire.

As stated before, Peterborough won the toss and decided to play with the wind. Ottawa having the kick off, tried to dribble, but the ball fell into Crowley's clutches, who punted far down the field, Beaulieu on the return, kicking into touch at the 25 yard line. Ottawa had possession of the ball and kept it in the scrimmage for the next ten minutes and worked the play out to centre field. Peterborough was then given the ball as a penalty for Ottawa's foul scrimmage and Bell passed back from the scrimmage to McWilliams, who punted. McPherson followed up fast, and tackled Ottawa's full back before he could rid himself of the ball. This was good for a gain of fully thirty yards. Ottawa again having the ball played close, until being penalized for off-side play it was again given to Peterborough in the scrimmage. Bell passed back to Burnham, but Cameron broke through and blocked the kick. Rickey, however, dropped on the ball, and it was again passed out to Burnham, who punted well down over Ottawa's line, and Patterson following up was successful in tackling Roberts before he could get clear, forcing him to rouge, and thus give the Peterboroughs their first point.

Ottawa kicked off from the twenty five yard line to Bell, who returned the ball into touch about the mark from where it was kicked off. Peterborough got the ball on the throw in, and for Ottawa's offside in the ensuing scrimmage were given a free kick. Burnham punted over Ottawa's touch line. Beaulieu returned the ball low, and it was blocked by Crowley. Graham came up like a whirlwind and fell on the sphere for 4, scoring Peterborough's first, and only, touch down. Burnham converted the try, and the score stood 7—0.

Ottawa played closer than ever after this, but Peterborough was beating them at their own game, and forced the play to within a yard of Ottawa's goal line, when McGee got the ball on a pass from the scrimmage and made a twenty-five yard run. Half time was called before any further scoring was done.

As Peterborough was playing against the wind in the second half, it was up to the locals to adopt the same tactics as were pursued by the visitors in the first half. This was done to a degree, but occasionally the halves got a chance to do a little running. Burnham's kick-off was returned to McPherson, who made a nice catch, followed by a fine run and a splendidly placed kick into touch far down in Ottawa's territory. Ottawa worked the game back to centre-field and when awarded a free kick as a penalty on Peterborough's off-side, it looked dangerous, but McPherson got under the ball and made another run and punt, which gave the spectators another chance to breathe easy. A free kick for Peterborough a few minutes later gave further assistance. It gave Ottawa the ball, however, and in a succession of scrimmages, Nolan bucked the line for great gains. A Peterborough offside gave Ottawa a free kick and as the play at the time was within a few yards of Peterborough's goal line, Armstrong was given a hot chase after the sphere and he was so closely followed that he was forced to rouge, giving Ottawa a point. Score 7—1.

It was but a few minutes later that Armstrong had to again rouge for safety, through not being able to get rid of the ball and the score stood 7—2.

Burnham's kick-off from the 25-yard line was returned, with interest, but McPherson took the ball with a flying leap and carried it to centre-field before he was stopped. Bell passed back to Burnham from the scrimmage and Hal. went through the line for another gain. Everything seemed to be coming Peterborough's way now and the crowd cheered madly along the touch lines. Unfortunately the run of luck didn't last long as Ottawa was given a free kick, as a penalty on Peterborough's off-side play, and away went the ball back over the ground that the boys had fought so hard to gain. McWilliams returned into touch, but Ottawa again got a free kick and the ball soared away up into the old apple tree at the south-east corner counting another point for the visitors.

Beaulieu got the ball from Burnham's kick off and it looked as though he would get around the end with it, but Graham brought him low in the nick of time to save the game. On a pass back from the next scrimmage, however, Beaulieu kicked well behind the Peterborough goal and McPherson had to rouge. Score 7—4.

Ottawa took the ball from the kick off and with sheer weight attempted to work it over the Peterborough line. As the thirty brawny athletes struggled, gasped and panted in the desperate struggle it was hard on the enthusiasts who had weak hearts. For fully five minutes the ball was within a few feet of the goal line and Ottawa had possession of it. If it was once forced over Peterborough's chances of the championship would vanish into air. And this was the time when the battle went not to the strong, for the hard close game had begun to tell on the visitors, whilst the Peterborough's, though not possessing the weight of the Ottawas had the stamina to outlast them. McWilliams was not playing half-back now, but was half way under the scrimmage, assisting that trio in holding the Ottawa heavy weights. For five whole minutes the struggle lasted and then it dawned on the spectators that the crisis had been safely tided over, for slowly but surely Peterborough was working the ball out into the field, and the day was once more saved. There was only one more critical moment and that occurred when the ball came slipping and rolling from the scrimmage and no one could lay a hand on the elusive sphere. Three Ottawa men had got away from their checks and were almost on it when Armstrong, by a long slide at the risk of his neck, was able to secure it. Everybody who had a watch was calling time and presently the referee decided that the game was over and when the whistle blew, the crowd rushed on the field and bore the victorious Peterboroughs on their shoulders to the tent.

NOTES.

The visitors played seven men, who have figured in championship matches with the Senior Rough Riders, so that it was no ordinary intermediate team which the Peterboroughs turned down.

Andy Scott was unable to play on account of illness and he was replaced by Vic. McWilliams, who was press into service although he had only had two practices in uniform.

The Ottawas have a plucky little fellow in Quarter-back Nolan, who took all that was coming to him, without a murmer.

Kuntz, one of the Ottawa scrimmagers, weighs 210 pounds and boasts of putting up two 56 pound dumbbells 62 times.

Eddie Gleason gave the Peterboroughs great praise.

The Torontos come here for a sudden death game next Saturday, and then it will be the Londoners.

The Ottawa men were so confident of winning that they offered odds of two to one and even three to one that the Peterboroughs would lose.

A very pleasing feature in connection with the game was that not a man was ruled off for rough play.

ST. ANDREW'S BY THE SEA.

A Striking Contrast to the Bustling Western City of Winnipeg—What the Town Is Noted For.

I can imagine no greater contrast than that experienced by a resident of Winnipeg who comes from the Windy City to spend the summer at St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea. The dolce far niente of this place is the perfect antithesis of the "snap" and "vim" of prairie air, and one feels that for certain purposes a wise Providence has ordained this climate that the busy Canadian business man may find a place where he is compelled to rest in spite of his naturally energetic temperament, which may present many an obstruction in the way of this desirable end. The air is a wonderful sophorific and the quality of the slumber it induces is something astonishing and delightful to those who have need of perfect rest and repose. But this atmosphere has had a curious effect upon the enterprise of the townspeople, and the place is a veritable sleepy hollow. At present the most enterprising feature of the town is the livery stable, where you can hire a very good double trap for the afternoon for the sum of $3, or a delightful Bar Harbor buckboard, holding nine people and the driver, for about $5. The drives are numerous and through indescribably beautiful scenery. A number of the summer residents have their smart turnouts stabled in the vicinity of their residences or close to the hotel. These are, however, more often occupied by the very small children with their governesses or by the more elderly ladies, the younger people spending their time sailing, golfing or bathing, for, in spite of the rumor that the water was too cold to allow of bathing been indulged in with comfort, there are always a number of people and twenty or thirty children who take their daily swim as the tide rises. The old block house, a remnant of the days when Indian warfare menaced the early inhabitants, is the favorite bathing place, and many a pretty scene is enacted as the small children bathe or paddle about the shore amusing themselves with the curious jelly fish, one species of which is said to sting, though the prospect of suffering in this way only seems to add to the joy with which they are pursued by the small fry who hunt them. Then there is the delight of fishing for flounders and smelts from the long wharf where the fish "factory" is situated, and as the tide comes in the edge of the wharf is lined by small children with long fishing rods, who cause their parents no end of anxiety as they crane their necks over the edge, watching with delight the hungry smelts nibbling at their hooks.

A curious and most unsavory locality is this same wharf, but strangely attractive in the variety of interests it presents, for it is here that the fishermen bring their hauls of pollock and haddock and cod, great boatloads, holding many hundreds of pounds of fish taken from the fishing grounds miles beyond the island which shelters the harbor. Just at this season the wharf is covered with huge hogsheads of herring, which are brought in from the herring weirs, the boats fairly laden down with their wonderful freights of glittering silver fish, which are soon strung on slender wooden bars and hung in the smoking compartment of the factory, where the sweet black-birch smoke dulls the gleam of the silver scales before they are packed and sent to the wholesale fishmongers in Montreal. No words can describe the unsavory details of the trade which is in the hands of two men, and as the haddock and pollock and hake and cod are cleaned at the wharf, offal is thrown down by the shore to be swept away by the out-going tide, or devoured by the flounders, and hideous "scaulpins," which swarm greedily about the boats. This is, however, the reason that one feels the spot a good one for catching smelts, for as the tide rises the dainty little fish come to the wharf for their hideous meal, and with one's hook baited with the throat of the smelt, or a tiny bit of herring, one can catch them before they reach the unsavory feeding ground at the inner wharf.

It is worth spending a morning in this most odoriferous "factory" to learn what thrift and industry can do, writes Sama in Toronto Globe, and the extraordinary manner in which nearly every portion of the fish is turned to coin. The livers of the fish are all thrown into great barrels, and left exposed to the burning sun, soon become a valuable oil used in the preparation of leather, a by-product of the "factory," which brings in 30 cents per gallon, and necessitates little or no labor in its preparation. "Hake sounds," a muscular bit of flesh, which lies in the backbone of the hake, is a valuable asset when dried and sent to the glue factory, where it is used in making fine mucilage, while the fish skins are used for the coarser grades. "Finnan haddie" is one of the most delicious of their products, and the fishermen who bring in the fresh haddock from the sea get about one dollar per hundred pounds for their fish. Strange to say, the owner of the factory, who has only run the business for seven years, finds it most difficult to get enough men to handle the boats and bring in the fish. Where there is work to be found on the farms the men desert the seafaring life, and nearly every man who partly owns a boat has some trade at which he works from time to time. The sardine industry does not pay in St. Andrew's, as the duty on canned goods going into the States is prohibitive, and consequently nearly all the catches of sardines in Canadian waters are taken over to Eastport and tinned there.

The owner of the fish factory tells me that in the winter, when the cod season is at its height, he employs about seventy boats, and that the work for the men is perilous and most uncomfortable.

Coughs, colds, hoarseness, and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Vapo-Cresolene tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

Asthma.

You've tried almost everything for it, haven't you? And we presume you are about discouraged. Now what do you think of our idea of breathing-in the medicine, bringing it right up to the diseased part? It looks reasonable, doesn't it? And it's successful, too.

When you inhale Vapo-Cresolene your breathing becomes easy, the wheezing ceases, and you drop to sleep. For croup and whooping-cough it's a quick cure. 16

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamps, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

THE CHICKEN YARD.

No henhouse that is frequently dusted with lime will be infested with lice.

Lime purifies the quarters and dries them. It is cheap and should be used plentifully.

Always have the nests so low that the hens can step in rather than be obliged to jump down.

If the fowls get too fat, oats as a single food are one of the best grains that can be given to lessen fat.

Mating birds to breed to a feather is a high art, to be acquired only by long practice, aided by close study.

A flat perch is best because of being the most comfortable to the feet and the best support to the breast.

There are three breeds of fowls that are pre-eminently valuable as egg producers. These are the Minorcas, Leghorns and Black Spanish.

A medium sized active male is twice as valuable as one that is large and extra heavy. If large size and weight are desired, select large hens, but the male should be active and vigorous.

When a fowl has canker and the mouth and throat are sore and ulcerated, wrap a soft rag around a lead pencil, dampen it slightly, dip in chlorate of potash and swab out the mouth clean and inject a drop of turpentine.

Cultivate Good Health

Feed the Nerves Enrich the Blood, Revitalize the Whole Body by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Whenever there is an ache or pain, when the appetite fails, when there are sleepless nights, and momentary spells of weakness, look for the cause and see that it is removed at once.

Cultivate good health while yet there is something to build on, instead of waiting until the nerve force is depleted and vitality completely exhausted.

To persons suffering the results of thin blood and wasted nerves, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies all the needs of the system and brings perfect health.

Mrs. E. McLaughlin, 95 Parliament street, Toronto, states:—"My daughter was pale, weak, languid and very nervous, her appetite was poor and changeable, she could scarcely drag herself about the house, and her nerves were completely unstrung, she could not sleep for more than half an hour at a time without starting up and crying out in excitement.

"As she was growing weaker and weaker I became alarmed, and got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She used this treatment for some weeks, and from the first we noticed a decided improvement. Her appetite became better, she gained in weight, the colour returned to her face, and she gradually became strong and well. I cannot say too much in favour of this wonderful treatment, since it has proven such a blessing to my daughter."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food occupies a field by itself, and is unique in the respect, that it cures by forming new, rich blood and nerve force, building up the system and increasing the weight.

It is a reconstructant, restorative and revitaliser of most unusual merit, which sends new life and new vigor to every part of the body, and gradually and permanently cures all nervous troubles and diseases, resulting from weak blood and low vitality. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

EXPLOSIVENESS OF DYNAMITE.

Some of the Peculiarities of This Dangerous Compound.

Whether dynamite explodes easily or not is apparently a moot question; at least it is one that dynamite workers are not agreed on among themselves, according to Cleveland Moffett's report in St. Nicholas of a conversation he took part in.

Farther down the road, he writes, I came to a railroad track where a long freight train was standing on a siding. Some men were busy here loading a car with clean looking wooden boxes that might have held starch or soap, but did hold dynamite neatly packed in long, fat sticks like huge firecrackers. Each box bore this inscription in red letters: "High Explosives. Dangerous." I looked along the train and saw that there were several cars closed and sealed, with a sign nailed on the outside: "Powder. Handle Carefully."

In this case "powder" means dynamite, for the product of a dynamite factory is always called powder. I think the men feel more comfortable when they use that milder name. There was "powder" enough on this train to wreck a city, but nobody seemed to mind. The men laughed and loitered. They might have been laying bricks for any interest they showed.

I asked one of them if it is considered safe to haul carloads of dynamite about the country. He said that some people consider it safe, and some do not. Some railroads will carry dynamite, while others refuse it.

"Suppose a man were to shoot a rifle ball into one of these cars," I asked; "do you think it would explode?"

This led to an argument. One of the group was positive it would explode. Concussion, he declared, was the thing that sets off dynamite. Another knew of experiments at the works where they had fired rifle balls into quantities of dynamite and had only concluded that sometimes it exploded and sometimes it did not.

Then a third man spoke up with an air of authority. "You've got to have a red spark," he said, "to set off dynamite. I've handled it long enough to know. Here's an experiment that's been tried: They took an old flat car and loaded it with rocks. Then they fastened a box of dynamite to the bumper and let the car run down a steep grade, bang into another car anchored at the bottom. And they found that the dynamite never exploded unless the bumpers were faced with iron. It didn't matter how much concussion they got with wooden bumpers, the dynamite was like that much putty, but as soon as a red spark jumped into it out of the iron, why, off she'd go."

Then he instanced various cases where powder cars had gone through railroad wrecks without exploding, although boxes of dynamite had been smashed open and scattered about.

"How about that car of ours the other day up in central New York?" said the first man. "Everything was blown to pieces, and six lads were killed."

He smiled grimly, but the other persisted: "That collision only proves what I say. The redhot locomotive plowed through a car of dynamite, and of course she went up. But it wasn't the concussion did it. It was the sparks."

All right, the other man said; his friend could sit on a dynamite car whenever anybody began shooting rifle balls into it. The friend was positive it would be a safe enough place to sit, if the rifle balls didn't strike iron.

"You say that it takes a red spark," I observed, "to set off dynamite. Do you mean that a white spark wouldn't do it?"

"That's what I mean," said he. "It seems queer, but it's a fact. Put a white hot poker into a box of dynamite, and it will only burn. Put in a redhot poker and it will explode."

She's as White as a Ghost.

The Greatest Ship Afloat.

The Celtic weighs 36,700 tons.

She is 700 feet long and 75 feet beam.

Her plates are 1⅛ inches thick, and some weigh four tons apiece.

There were put into her 1,704,000 rivets by hydraulic machinery.

She will carry 62,000 pounds of meat and 39,208 pounds of flour.

She will carry 2,742 passengers and crew and 12,000 tons of cargo.

She has 12 decks, and the captain's bridge is 100 feet above the keel.

She will carry 22,000 bottles of ale and a quarter of a ton of tobacco.

She is one-fourth larger than the Oceanic, hitherto the biggest ship.

She will draw too much water to come into New York harbor when loaded to the mark.

She measures 700 feet long, only nine feet longer than the Great Eastern, but will draw 11 feet more water.

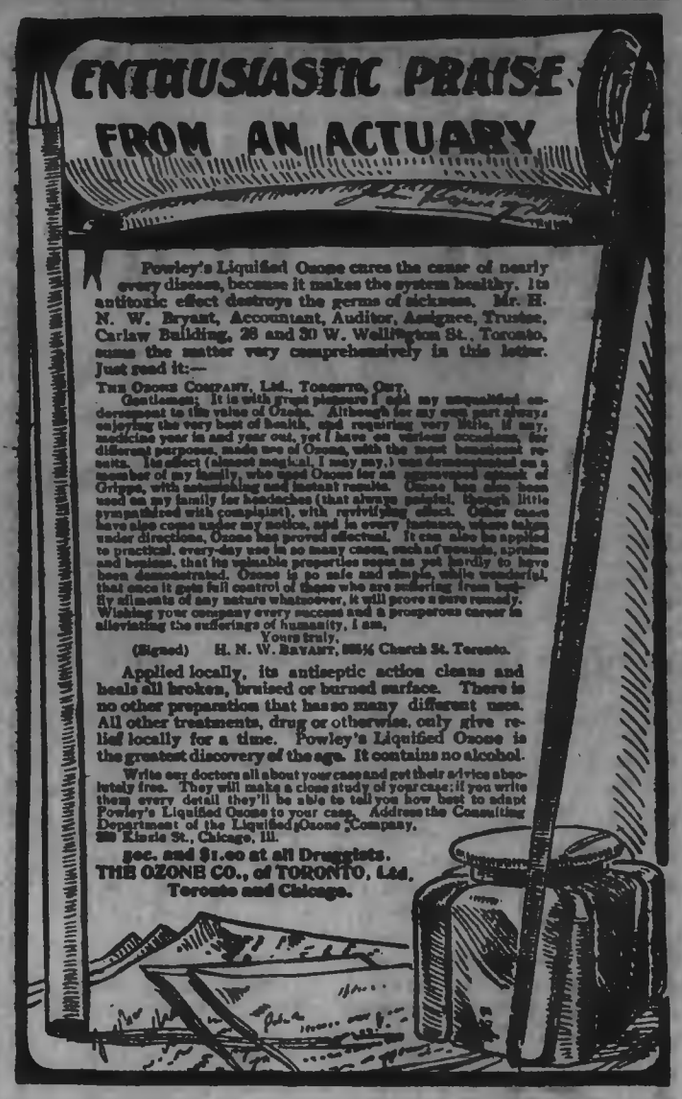
The Celtic, the greatest ship in the world, has been launched. The event took place at Belfast on April 4. She is almost a fourth larger than the Oceanic, previously the largest. Both these ships completely surpass the Great Eastern, which was regarded for nearly 50 years as beyond all practical size.

It is funny that though pretty nearly everybody is at the bottom of the ladder of success that is where the greatest room is for more.

A "SWEET" STOMACH

Is the key-note of a happy heart. Dr. Von Stan's Pineapple Tablets make and keep the stomach sweet, because they aid digestion and prevent ferment.

Stomach ferment induces Indigestion. Indigestion produces distress after eating, weight in the stomach, wind on the stomach, loss of appetite, dizziness, nausea, impoverished blood, catarrh of the stomach, sick headache and many other disorders—but Dr. Von Stan's pineapple tablets nip the trouble in the bud, and prevent the seating of diseases. Eminent physicians prescribe them. Sixty tablets, 35 cents. 64



Powley's Liquified Ozone cures the cause of nearly every disease, because it makes the system healthy. Its antiseptic effect destroys the germs of sickness. Mr. H. N. W. Bryant, Accountant, Auditor, Assignee, Trustee, Carlaw Building, 26 and 30 W. Wellington St., Toronto, sums the matter very comprehensively in this letter. Just read it:—

THE OZONE COMPANY, Ltd., TORONTO, ONT.

Gentlemen: It is with great pleasure I add my unqualified endorsement to the value of Ozone. Although for my own part always enjoying the very best of health, and requiring very little, if any, medicine year in and year out, yet I have on various occasions, for different purposes, made use of Ozone, with the most beneficent results. Its effect (almost magical, I may say,) was demonstrated on a member of my family, who used Ozone for an aggravated attack of Grippe, with astonishing and instant results. Ozone has also been used on my family for headaches (that always painful, though little sympathized with complaint), with revivifying effect. Other cases have also come under my notice, and in every instance, where taken under directions, Ozone has proved effectual. It can also be applied to practical, every-day use in so many cases, such as wounds, sprains and bruises, that its valuable properties seem as yet hardly to have been demonstrated. Ozone is so safe and simple, while wonderful, that once it gets full control of those who are suffering from bodily ailments of any nature whatsoever, it will prove a sure remedy. Wishing your company every success and a prosperous career in alleviating the sufferings of humanity, I am,

Yours truly,
(Signed) H. N. W. BRYANT, 26½ Church St. Toronto.

Applied locally, its antiseptic action cleans and heals all broken, bruised or burned surface. There is no other preparation that has so many different uses. All other treatments, drug or otherwise, only give relief locally for a time. Powley's Liquified Ozone is the greatest discovery of the age. It contains no alcohol.

Write our doctors all about your case and get their advice absolutely free. They will make a close study of your case; if you write them every detail they'll be able to tell you how best to adapt Powley's Liquified Ozone to your case. Address the Consulting Department of the Liquified Ozone Company, 220 Kinzie St., Chicago, Ill.

BUCKWHEAT.

Planting Time in Various Sections. Some of Its Uses.

The bulk of the buckwheat produced in this country is grown in New York and Pennsylvania. While a fair crop may be made on very poor soil, like everything else, it does a good deal better on good soil well prepared. Sandy loams are a favorite soil for buckwheat, especially when it has been an old pasture or meadow that is to be plowed up, but it will do well on almost any soil that is not too wet. It should not be too rich or the crop will lodge, and no fresh manure should be used. The ground should be quite thoroughly prepared.

In western New York planting time is the week before the 4th of July. In the extreme north it may be as early as the middle of May, while in some of the southern states planting is deferred until August. It may be sown broadcast or in drills, and half a bushel of seed is enough on good soil. It ripens very unevenly and if not harvested will bloom all through the season. The best crop comes from the earliest ripening grain, however, and if not cut when the first seeds are ripe these will be lost, as it shatters easily. Many cut when the dew is on to prevent shattering as much as possible. It must be handled carefully in harvesting on this account. In addition to the foregoing advice the Iowa Homestead has enumerated some of the uses of the crop as follows:

As to the uses of the crop, it is good poultry feed and mixed with corn makes good pork. It is also a favorite grain for fitting up horses quickly and giving them a nice, sleek coat. The straw, if well cured, is relished by both sheep and cattle, and it is also a good crop to plow under and is often used as a catch crop when something occurs to interrupt one's original plans. When employed as a crop to plow under, two crops a year are often grown. It is, of course, not as good as clover for this purpose, but it has the advantage that it will grow on soils that will not produce a crop of clover, and hence it is often used to renovate very poor lands. It is one of the best crops known as a smothering crop for quack grass or other weeds of a similarly tenacious character, but when it is used for this purpose the ground should be very thoroughly prepared and the seeding should be heavy, as much as two to two and a half bushels per acre, and as soon as it is in bloom it should be plowed under, and, after being harrowed, reseeded again the same season. Quack grass yields to this kind of treatment more readily perhaps than to any other.

Box For Shipping Belgian Hares, Etc.

Having had some experience of the cost of shipping rabbits, a Farm and Fireside writer has been considering how to lessen the express charges and arrives at the conclusion that he will reduce the size of the package as much as possible first by shipping younger and therefore smaller animals and then by the selection of lightest packages. He says: Just at the present time a great deal of shipping Belgians is being done. In the comparatively few instances that I have been shipping rabbits, pigeons, etc., I have made use of a light box the upper corners of which had been cut away and the cover replaced by light slats. The illustration makes this plain. To have the boxes especially light I prefer to make them of white cedar or linden, of course well seasoned. Common store boxes, however, may be fitted up in this way and come handy for shipping small animals.

SHIPPING BOX.

The Cowpea in the North.

In advising an eastern New York correspondent Country Gentleman says: The black eyed cowpea is considered the best. Sow 1½ to 2 bushels per acre. There is no need of planting them until the weather is rather warm, from the first of June until the last of July. In many places in New York they do not form a dense mass of green material, as the climate is hardly warm enough to fully develop them. They are often planted in the south after the corn is 6 to 12 inches high three or four peas being put in near the hill. The corn serves to keep them up, and the two plants are harvested together. A few have succeeded admirably in raising the cowpea in New York, but it is doubtful if it is any better than the Canada or marrowfat pea. In our experience we have been led to prefer the marrowfat to the Canada pea because the leaves are broader, it grows more erect and clings better to the oats with which it is sown. The only possible objection to using the marrowfat instead of the Canada pea is that the seed costs about 75 per cent more. The green manure crops should be plowed under just before or at the time they are fully mature. If left to die upon the ground, the vines or stalks do not lighten up the soil and produce the beneficial physical results that they do when plowed under. In the case of the cowpea it should be plowed under before frost or immediately after. Rye may then be sown in order to cover the ground during the winter. It should be plowed under not later than the last of May the following spring.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

The bather sometimes finds the sand soft and yielding to his feet. It does not trouble him and he goes on until presently he sinks to his knees and discovers to his horror that he has to fight for his life in a quicksand.

Disease is much like the quicksand. The first symptoms of stomach trouble do not cause anxiety. But when the body grows weak through lack of nourishment and disease of the stomach breeds disease of heart, lungs, liver or kidneys, the sufferer realizes his danger and seeks for medicinal aid.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures diseases of heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc., when these diseases have their origin in disease of the stomach and its allied organs.

Thomas A. Swarts, of Sub-Station C., Columbus, Ohio, Box 103, writes: "I was taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble, and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once, and the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die. Then a neighbor said, 'Take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles, in about six weeks I was weighed and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I have done more hard work in the past eleven months than I did in two years before, and I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

OVERWORKED EXPRESSIONS.

Two That One Critic Thinks Should Be Laid on the Shelf.

"There are some expressions which I believe ought to be outlawed," said a well known writer who prides himself on being a good conversationalist, "and I am surprised that they are used with such persistence. They have always played an important part in the events of the world. They represent nothing and everything.

"There is, for instance, that dear old soul 'everybody.' 'Everybody' says so and so, or does this, that and the other thing. 'Everybody' denies that. And so it runs. 'Everybody' wears a heavier responsibility than most persons could stand up under, and no doubt 'everybody' is accused of doing and saying a great many things that 'everybody' doesn't do or say. In spite of the fact that we all know the ridiculousness with which the expression is used, we frequently gather impressions that are at variance with the facts of the case simply because we are told that 'everybody' so and so. Poor old 'everybody' should be given a rest, and the expression should not be used except in cases where the legitimate meaning of the word can be brought into play.

"The expression 'they say' is even worse. This is probably the most cowardly expression used by the English speaking people. It has been more harmful than any other expression. It has been the most potent weapon of the slanderer and has probably destroyed more reputations than any other expression known to the English tongue. 'They say' all sorts of things, do all sorts of things, believe all sorts of things. So there you are. The expression is used so often and for so many different purposes that it would be impossible to figure out the damage that is done daily to reputation and to fortunes by these two simple words. 'They say' is used to hammer stocks down and to cause men to question the integrity and stability of certain financial institutions, and it is frequently used with telling effect. 'They say' is used to cause trouble in the family or to taint a reputation out of pure malice of heart and for many other purposes equally as low.

"I am inclined to believe that we would be better off if we would taboo the expressions 'everybody' and 'they say' and never use them except in cases where their use is legitimate."

Ivy Poisoning.

A peculiarity of poisoning by ivy, dogwood or sumac is that a cure which will be of avail to one patient will give no relief to another. Country people who live in districts where poisonous plants luxuriate keep ready all sorts of simple home remedies, and if one does not help another will. Carbonate of soda dissolved in hot water, making a very strong solution, will frequently cure at once if it can be applied at the very earliest symptom of poisoning. Salt in hot water will sometimes relieve when soda does not.

Other simple country cures are a strong lye made from wood ashes, sassafras tea, made as strong as possible, and limewater. A doctor's remedy is a solution of sugar of lead mixed with opium in equal quantities. Water as hot as can be borne affords relief from the terrible itching. Poison ivy is easily recognised by its triple leaf.

Some people are so susceptible to it that merely passing in its vicinity is sufficient to bring out the irritating blotches. Washing the exposed parts of the body immediately after coming in contact with it will often prevent unpleasant results. Care should be taken never to wipe the hands or face after exposure on a towel another is likely to use, for though you may not be poisoned yourself another may become frightfully so.

Long Heads.

We are told of Faraday (the writer of the article being Tyndall) that he had an abnormally long head, so that his hats had to be specially made for him, and we are told of Tyndall himself (the writer here being his widow) that in this respect Tyndall resembled Faraday. This scrap of evidence, so far as it goes, would confirm the proverbial belief in favor of the intelligence of long headed persons. It is, however, believed by many, who can bring forward good evidence on their side, that intellectual ability goes with broad-headedness. It may well be that in this matter, as in that of stature, the range of variation is great and that both extremes tend to prevail to an undue extent. This has been found to be the case in another abnormal group—that of criminals.

LIGHTNING CALCULATORS.

Wonderful Ability of the Negro Children in the West Indies.

"One of the oddest things I came across in my wanderings," said a traveler recently returned from the West Indies, "was the extraordinary aptitude of negro children for mental arithmetic. I visited a good many of the public schools and saw some astonishing exhibitions of this faculty, which is probably the last with which one would credit the grandchildren of African savages, as many of the West Indian negro children are. The currency of the islands is of course British, so that calculations of any sort are more complicated than with us. Yet an inspector or visitor can ask a school full of ragged urchins what would be the cost of seven gross of handkerchiefs at 5 pence 3 farthings apiece and receive the answer almost as soon as the words are out of his mouth, and doubtless long before he had himself worked it out. This can be kept up all day to the great enjoyment of the children, who regard that sort of thing as sport.

"The same children, when confronted with a reader, may make sad work of it and seem certainly little above the average. Even when made to do sums on a slate they are not brighter than most white children. Perhaps that statement should be qualified, for there is no doubt that the children of pure blooded Africans develop phenomenally for the first five or six years of their lives and, indeed, until twelve or thirteen years old are fully the equals, intellectually, of white children. I have never seen white babies as intelligent as some of these negro infants at the same age. But when past twelve their minds seem full grown, and it is not easy to teach them, except in cases here and there. All these observations, however, apply to children of negroes whose parents or grandparents were brought from Africa when full grown.

"There are many West Indian negroes who do not speak English, and there are large societies named according to the part of Africa from which the members or their parents came. A Nangobar, for instance, would not think of joining a Kongo society. So they all stand much nearer to Africa than do our negroes, which makes the observation of their characteristics very interesting. Unfortunately, they do not seem to retain to any marked degree this faculty for rapid calculation when they reach manhood. And even if they did they would be so backward in other respects that their value as clerks would be slight."

A Marvellous Medicine.

Having a direct and combined action on both the kidneys and liver, Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will positively cure many complicated ailments which cannot be reached by any other medicine, and hence its extraordinary success and popularity. Biliousness, liver complaint, Bright's disease, deranged kidneys and stomach troubles are promptly and thoroughly overcome by this great family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cts. a box.

The Peach Legend.

Almost all fruits and flowers have their legend. One about the peach comes from Japan and tells how a poor, pious old couple were searching for food by the roadside. The woman found a peach, which she would not eat of, though starving, till she could share it with her husband. He cut it exactly in half, when an infant leaped forth. It was one of the gods, who had, he said, accidentally fallen out of the peach orchard of heaven while playing. He told them to plant the stone of the peach, and it brought them happiness, friends and wealth.

How a Plant Protects Itself.

One little plant of South Africa protects itself by assuming a curious likeness to a white lichen that covers the rocks. The plant has sharp pointed green leaves. These are placed close together, with their points upward, and on the tip of each leaf is a little white, scaly sheath. The resemblance of the smooth surface these present to the lichen growing on the rocks, beside which it is always found, is so great that it is not till you tread on it that you discover the deception.

Facts about your Liver

The liver is a large gland, the largest in the body. Its work is to secrete bile and also to destroy certain poisonous compounds in the blood as the blood passes through it. It stores the bile thus obtained in the gall bladder from where it is conducted by two ducts, one leading into the stomach and the other into the intestines. The bile thus made is the most important factor in the process of digestion, for without a certain definite proportion of it none of the solvents or digestive fluids are sufficiently active enough to do their work. The liver occasionally dries up, so to speak, and no bile is secreted. This soon becomes apparent by a feeling of torpor or laziness, yawning and a yellow appearance to the skin, and in bad cases a pain in the side. The liver being a gland requires an alterative medicine, as alteratives are medicines which promote glandular secretion. In Merrill's System Tonic is found a combination of the best mineral and vegetable alteratives known and when you take it the liver is quickly restored to its proper condition. Then, too, System Tonic purifies the blood of all accumulated poison and acts on the bowels, unloading the foul matter that has accumulated through lack of bile. The use of half a dozen bottles will give to those persons known as sallow complexioned, a clean, rosy skin.

Each 50c bottle contains 50 pleasant-to-take doses, and is sold

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

What is Being Done in Connection With the Local Association.

The regular gospel meeting was held last Sabbath afternoon, led by the Secretary. The message was taken from Psalm 107, 4-9. If you were not present, come to-morrow—there will be a message for you.

At the regular monthly board meeting on Monday afternoon, very encouraging reports were submitted by the treasurer and by the General Secretary, who reported 19 new members enrolled since October 1st, with several new members just received, and a junior department of 103, steadily increasing. The question of domestic science was discussed and plans undertaken for the opening of that department in January.

The junior department continues in its flourishing condition. The members of the Alexandra Club were out in full force on Tuesday, and the Victoria Club has grown so large that it was found necessary on Thursday afternoon to make two divisions of the club for the gymnasium work. These physical culture classes will meet on Friday afternoon of each week, and will be under the direction of Miss Denniston. The regular club meetings will continue on Thursday afternoons.

The senior gymnasium classes, also those in English composition, bookkeeping, stenography and dress-making have been organized during the week, to begin the winter's work.

The I. W. T. held its first regular meeting on Friday evening. Six new members were admitted, and the first of the series of Bible lessons on the "Life of Christ," and "The Annunciation," was studied. All young women will be cordially welcome at these meetings.

Bulletin for this week:—

Tuesday, Alexandra Club, 4.15; Gymnasium class, 8 p.m.; Dressmaking, 7.30 p.m.;

Wednesday, Bookeeping, 8 p.m.; Gymnasium class, 7.30 p.m.;

Thursday, Victoria Club, 4.15; English Composition, 7 p.m.; Gymnasium class, 8 p.m.;

Friday, I.W.T. Club, 8 p.m.;

Saturday, Junior Sewing Class, 3 p.m.

ABOUT GYMNASTICS.

Great Interest Being Taken in the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium—A Record Breaker.

Interest in the gymnasium at the Y.M.C.A. during the past week reached fever heat. No less than 300 young men have attended since Oct. 1st, and prospects are that the classes will fill the floor each night all winter. Ask a man if the exercise benefits him, and if he says, "Yes," take it yourself; it may prolong your life. Monday and Thursday nights at 7.30 the working boys from 14 to 18 congregate; and Tuesday and Friday, young men over 18 meet from 8 to 9.30. On Tuesday after regular class work, teams will be chosen for basketball, and good hard work may be expected as there are about six teams to be formed into a city league. Every gym. man will have a chance on Tuesday. Friday night will be devoted mainly to apparatus work and miscellaneous exercise. Wednesday night will be devoted to young business men who are only able to attend one night a week. Get your gym. suit together and be with the boys in blue and white this week. A class of leaders will meet on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8 o'clock. The attendance of school boys average 100 each week.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club will be held in Messrs. Poussette & McWilliams law office to-morrow night when arrangements will be made for the match with Toronto on Saturday, and preliminary arrangements made for the annual dance.

GOLF.

The autumn competition of the Ladies' Golf Club will be held on Wednesday morning. The ladies intend taking lunch, and playing 18 holes in the afternoon for the prize kindly donated by Mr. W. H. Hill. Further particulars to-morrow.

CANOEING.

Mr. W. J. English has received the following communication from Louis A. Hall, of Boston, Mass., Commodore of the American Canoe Association:

Dear Sir, — The annual meeting of the Board of Governors and the Executive Committee of the American Canoe Association will be held at the Club House of the Wabawawa Canoe Association, Auburndale, Mass., on Saturday, October 26th, 1901, at 10 o'clock a.m.

It is hoped that all the members will be present, as several matters of much importance to the association will be acted upon at that time, including the election of a secretary-treasurer, action on the proposed amendment to the racing regulations, and to contract for an official organ. We have an option on a magazine to be delivered free to all members of the association provided it is made the official organ. Please come prepared to thoroughly discuss this matter.

The dinner will be held at the Woodlawn Park Hotel, Auburndale, at 6.30 p.m.

The visiting members of the executive will be provided with sleeping accommodation by members of the Wabawawa Canoe Association Saturday night.

Yours truly,
LOUIS A. HALL.

ASYLUM POPULATION.

At Present 5,241 Persons Are Confined in Those of Ontario.

A return just compiled by the Provincial Secretary's Department shows that the number of lunatics in the various institutions of the Province on August 31 was 5,241, compared with 5,152 a year ago, 5,084 in 1899, 5,029 in 1898, and —to go back to the beginning—1,366 in 1871. The returns of the department show that the number of this unfortunate class to be cared for by the Province is steadily on the increase, always taxing the accommodation to the utmost, but not perhaps—recently, at any rate—more than the increase in population warrants.

The greatest pressure at present is on the Asylum for Idiots, Orillia. There are there 651 at present confined, while no less than 388 applications are standing from those desiring to be admitted. There are applications for 74 lunatic patients, not confined in jails, or 158 altogether of that class. It is expected that the new asylum at Cobourg will be completed by the first of November, when accommodation will be available for those at present not provided for.

The following are the populations at the various Provincial asylums:

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Toronto 358	363	721
London 458	536	994

What Amateur Gunners Shoot.

Amateur gunners frequently shoot coots in mistake for ducks. Coots, or mud hens, as they are called, are not ducks in any sense of the term, though their semi-webbed feet make them expert swimmers. They breed all over the American continent, from the sloughs of Manitoba to the salt marshes of the California coast. I have found their nests in Sarnia bay, made of rushes and containing about a dozen eggs, clay-colored, with black specks. In the fall they start south with the wild ducks, and when ducks are scarce they sometimes catch it hot and heavy. Their flesh is not fishy, for they are vegetable feeders, but it is coarse and dark and rank, and I never ate it but once. That was at the St. Clair flats, when a party of gunners with whom I was staying made a wild duck pot-pie and put in a couple of coots for luck. The mixture tasted well enough that way, but I wouldn't care for coots stewed in their own juice. I played a mean trick on an old friend of mine once. I had been out shooting, and as ducks were scarce and my mood was murderous, I bagged four coots. Passing my friend's house on the way back I laid the four coots as an humble tribute on his front door step. Of course he thought they were ducks, and would, I dare say, have cooked and eaten them but for a younger member of the family, who knew a duck from a mud hen. The old man buried these coots in the back yard, and I blush to think even yet of the remarks he made to me on the next occasion on which we met.—Ravenspur, in Toronto Star.

Close Call in a Big Shop.

It used to make me mad to find the backs of the new-bought periodicals disfigured by the aniline stamp of the newsdealer, writes Lue Vernon of Vancouver, B.C., to the press. What right, I used to think, have these fellows to print their advertisements on things I pay for? Now I think and feel differently about the matter. It came about through a visit I paid to another city last week. As I passed through the depot I bought a magazine at the newsstand, and later on, when I was up town, I had occasion to step into a large departmental store.

As usual in such stores, they had a book counter, and, while looking at the volume that caught my eye, I laid my magazine carelessly on top of a pile of periodicals. When I was walking away a man stepped up hastily and said: "Excue me, sir, but you have forgotten to pay for that magazine."

"Why," I replied, greatly startled, "I didn't get it here. I had it with me and have been holding it in my hand all the time."

As soon as I spoke I realized that that wasn't strictly true, and the girl clerk, who had rushed around the corner, contradicted me at once.

"It ain't so," she said breathlessly. "He wasn't holding it in his hand. I saw him pick it up myself right off the top of the pile."

"I witnessed that myself," said the floor walker; "you have probably forgotten," he said.

The matter was becoming serious to me, yet I did not know what to say. A thousand and one things rushed into my mind. Of course, I could prove myself innocent by the man at the depot, but that would involve the scandal of an inquiry — probably an arrest — and some people would always have doubts. On the other hand, payment would be a confession of guilt. I held the magazine mechanically, wondering what would be best for me to do, and there on the cover was the big, hideous, blessed stamp of the dealer! We all saw it at once, and oh! I wish you could have witnessed the abasement of the swagger moustache-curled floorwalker. He grovelled. The very curl came out of his moustache. He told me he had a wife and children, also a mother, which I took the liberty to doubt. His anguish was all that saved me from—getting very angry myself. The girl clerk shed tears and hoped I would bear her no malice. I treated them both with scorn. When I went home I bought peanuts of the depot newsdealer.

OTTAWA MAN WHO WRITES THIS TIME

Grants Full Permission to use His Name in Behalf of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was in the Clutch of Bright's Disease—Suffered all the Symptoms of This Fearful Malady—But he Took Dodd's Kidney Pills in Time.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Special. — A fortunate young man is Frank Chartrand of this city, for by the merest chance he was saved from that modern curse so dreaded by doctors, Bright's Disease, the incurable malady of the kidneys.

The story of Mr. Chartrand's escape from this dreadful disease is best told in his own words.

"I had been greatly troubled by my Kidneys for two years since having a dose of the grip. I suffered with headache and always felt drowsy and very heavy in the limbs, with frequent severe headache and oftener still severe pains in the top of my head, which prevented me doing my work as I would like to do. Often my fingers and legs would cramp, and occasionally I felt pains in my loins and a very dizzy feeling with shortness of breath and pain in side. Sometimes I would eat very good meals and other times I would take a biscuit and a cup of tea and that would finish my meal. I had tender spot over the back of the spine and felt very tired in the region of the kidneys, with a dragging heavy feeling across the loins, in short there was no doubt I was suffering from Bright's Disease.

"I kept taking the medicines the doctors gave me all this time but they did me no good. A few weeks ago I chanced to tell a friend that I had given up hope.

"Why don't you try Dodd's Kidney Pills?" he told me.

"I went directly to the drug store and got three boxes which I have used and which have so much improved my health that without hesitation I say I am sure it is but a matter of a short time till I become completely and permanently cured."

Part Of Face Shot Off.

Lanark, Oct. 21.—Saturday evening L. Jackson and George Fair, two young boys from Watson's Corners, seven miles from here, went out partridge hunting. They became separated in the bush, and Jackson returned home alone. A search was at once instituted for young Fair, who was only 13 years of age, and kept up all night, but not until about 4 o'clock Sunday evening was the body found, cold in death, part of his face having been shot off. The supposition is that the gun was discharged in some unaccountable manner. Deceased was the youngest son of Mr. George Fair, sr., Watson's Corners.

Many Seriously Injured.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 21.—A freight train collided with a passenger train on the Southwestern Saturday afternoon at Wise, Ga., and ten of the crew and passengers from Montgomery and elsewhere along the line were seriously injured. Those seriously hurt are: Mrs. Georgia Smith and three children of Smithville, Postal Clerk Albert Stanton of Atlanta, Ga.; Ben Epperson, baggagemaster; Nash Everett, a negro fireman on passenger train; Wallace Scoville, engineer on passenger train; Sam Knowles, express messenger; Munroe Barnes, a negro porter; Fred Hill, colored, Atlanta.

Fool Killer Has Vanished.

Niagara Falls, Oct. 21.—Peter Nissen nearly lost his life in his strange little craft "The Fool Killer" on Thursday, and now the craft is nowhere to be found. He went out into the whirlpool to take soundings, and was knocked about in the eddy for over seven hours, having entirely lost control of his craft. When an opportunity presented itself he abandoned the boat and jumped to shore, falling in shallow water and climbing up on the rocks. He was almost exhausted. Friday Nissen went down to the pool in search of "The Fool Killer," but it had disappeared.

Foundered Off Long Point.

Buffalo, Oct. 21.—It was learned Saturday night that a vessel foundered in Lake Erie off Long Point in the 50-mile gale that swept over the lake Friday night and this morning. The captain of the steamer Donnaconna, which arrived at Port Colborne this afternoon, brought the first news of the disaster. He reported having passed through the wreckage of what was evidently a two-masted vessel, with a single smokestack. Large quantities of lumber, ties and shingles were floating about. A tug put out from Port Colborne to investigate, and has not yet returned.

Tug's Crew Drowned.

Detroit, Oct. 21.—The tug Christian, supposed to be from Toledo, Ohio, with a crew of five men, in command of Capt. Harlow, was run down and cut in two by the steamer J. J. Albright, Saturday night, at the upper end of Grosse Isle, which is about nine miles below the city. The five on the tug were drowned. Capt. Harlow is supposed to be one of them. The names of the others have not yet been learned.

Third Attempt at Suicide.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 21.—Robert Nichols, grocery clerk, attempted suicide by cutting his throat from ear to ear. Disappointment in love was the cause. This is the third time he has made the attempt. When he went to his room to commit the rash act his sister followed him, but was too late to prevent the attempt.

DR. CROZIER'S WORK.

A Canadian in London Who is Winning the Highest Kind of Literary Recognition and Deservedly So.

M. A. P. contains the following interesting reference to the latest work of Dr. Crozier, the well-known Canadian author:

"Dr. Crozier has just published a new volume in his great series on the 'History of Intellectual Development on the Lines of Modern Evolution.' The extraordinary courage with which this wonderful man has stuck to this gigantic undertaking is one of the finest chapters in the history of letters. I told the full story in these columns some years ago; and I need only here repeat that twenty years ago Dr. Crozier, then a young doctor in a big practice, was seized with the idea of writing a history of the intellectual development of humanity. Amid all the confusion and apparent chaos and anarchy—amid all the changes of time and clime and creed; from the religion of the Greek and the Roman to that of the Hindoo, the Buddhist and the Christian — he thought he could see one great connecting and intelligent plan and clue, and to trace all that out became the great ideal and object of his life.

"I have met many learned men in my time, but I never met one who struck me as having grasped so wide a sphere of human knowledge. A critic of The Daily News said very justly that to know Dr. Crozier's books was to know several libraries. And it is just that feeling I always have when I take up one of the volumes in which he has set forth his philosophy. I was able to form some judgment from old classic reading of his chapters on the philosophies of Greece and Rome; but I am told that his chapters on Buddhism and the other religions of the east have been found quite as correct and inspiring by men who have devoted their whole lives to that one subject. One can understand the huge, patient, gigantic industry which this must have meant, and the wonderful power of assimilation and understanding. The volume before me deals with politics, and deals with them in the true philosophic spirit. It brings to bear on the problems of to-day the lessons of history, and judges the problem of the hour, not merely by the passion or even the need of the hour, but by the great lessons of history. I am glad to hear that the book is selling largely. Longmans are the publishers of this, as of all the preceding volumes of Dr. Crozier."

Whitefish Is King.

Whitefish are more plentiful in the Georgian Bay this year than they have been for fifteen years. Mr. S. T. Bastedo, Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, who recently returned from a tour of the Georgian Bay and North Channel fishing stations, reported the fishermen are very well pleased with the season's catch, particularly those at Point au Baril, Bustard's and Killarney. The catch of whitefish is many times that of salmon trout. The fishermen attribute the increased run to the departmental regulations, which prevent for a number of years the taking of immature fish. The prices for fish are good. The larger portion of the product is sent to the American market.

How One Million is Spent.

Not less than one million dollars is annually spent by people seeking an absolute cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. Numerous are the remedies, but the one standing pre-eminently above all others is Catarrhozone. It cures these diseases because it is sure to reach them. Catarrhozone is inhaled into the lungs, throat and nasal passages, and bathes every part of the diseased membrane with its germ-killing, healing vapour. You simply breathe Catarrhozone and it cures. BRING A FLASK ALONG WITH YOU

It has not yet been made part of the game laws to bring a flask along with you when you go hunting, although it would be much more sensible than some of them and less liable to infraction. Every good hunter knows how necessary it is in an emergency, being a small medicine chest in itself.

Don't think that because the prices of our Whiskies, Brandies and Wines are moderate that there is anything wrong with the quality. We not only give you quality that is beyond suspicion, but we save you considerable on every purchase you make.

Duplicate orders is what makes our business. If you try us once you'll come again. If you have a keg, send it with your order.

AN URGENT DEMAND

Lord Kitchener Wires for More Trained Mounted Men.

THIRD YEAR OF WAR BEGUN

Commandant Scheepers and Eleven Other Boer Leaders Permanently Banished —How the Scouts Were Caught— Details of Col. Wilson's Engagement at Rhenoster River— Marais Is a Prisoner.

London, Oct. 22.—The Daily Express learns that Lord Kitchener has wired an urgent demand to the War Office for more trained mounted men.

Third Year of War Begun.

London, Oct. 22.—Two years ago yesterday, Oct. 21, the Boers invaded British territory and began the war.

How Scouts Were Caught.

Heilbron, Oct. 21.—Further details are to hand concerning Colonel Wilson's engagement on the Ithenoster River.

The Boers having heard that a column without guns was marching from Kroonstad to Heilbron, concentrated five commandoes, about 500 strong, under Commandants Boshoff, Talgaand, Venter, Mayer and Went, on the Rhenoster River, presumably with the object of capturing our convoy, which had to pass through an awkward drift.

By a smart night march Colonel Wilson arrived at the Rhenoster River at dawn on Oct. 4, and sent a squadron of fifty men to reconnoitre towards Paardekraal.

The Boers, who were occupying strong positions on the hills, allowed the squadron to proceed undisturbed for three miles, when they suddenly opened a heavy fire. A desperate fight ensued, the scouts fighting pluckily until their ammunition was nearly exhausted, and finally 18 of them were captured.

The casualty list shows that in addition to the prisoners the British lost 12 killed and wounded.

Dartnell in Zululand.

Eshowe, Oct. 21.—General Dartnell and staff and Bethune's Brigade, with the Imperial Light Horse are now here.

Rain has been falling continuously for the last 36 hours, and the roads are in a terrible state. The difficulties of transport are enormous, and both men and animals are suffering great hardships.

Boer Leaders Banished.

Pretoria, Oct. 21.—Twelve more Boer leaders, including Commandant Scheepers, whose capture was announced Oct. 12, have been permanently banished from South Africa.

Commandant Marais a Prisoner.

London, Oct. 22.—A despatch from Kroonstad, dated Oct. 16, says 14 Boers, who were captured at Reit Vlei, have arrived there. Among the number was Commandant David Marais, whose laager was captured on Oct. 1.

Killed in Action.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—A letter from the War Office to Mr. John Brown of No. 6 Lippincott street, tells of the death of his son Walter, who was killed in action at Stoffelberg, Cape Colony, on Sept. 12. Walter Brown had been away for seven years, and was a member of Methuen's Mounted Infantry.

ROOSEVELT NOT TO INTERVENE.

Authoritative Denial of Rumors That He Contemplates Such Action.

New York, Oct. 22.—The Herald has this from Washington: "President Roosevelt is entirely in harmony with the policy of the late President McKinley in all matters connected with the war in South Africa, and so far as known among his most intimate official associates there is no reason to believe he will change his attitude in the least."

STRICKEN WITH LEPROSY.

Sad Fate of Amelia Burder, Missionary in India.

Paris, Oct. 22.—Word has been received from India that Amelia Burder, a missionary to the lepers, has been stricken with leprosy in India. She is well known in Canada. Years ago Dr. and Mrs. McLaurin brought home with them from India a young native girl, Amelia Keller. On her return to India with the McLaurins she became the wife of Jonathan Burder, a young native preacher of acknowledged talent. It was a happy union, and the young couple exerted a wide influence for good in the Telugu field, but last year Jonathan was stricken down with cholera and now comes the more terrible intelligence that Amelia and her two sons have been pronounced lepers. It seems that Charlie Burder, a brother of Jonathan, was a leper, and instead of driving him out to wander in wretchedness as the natives do, these Christian relatives kept him in their home and took care of him as long as he lived.

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN IN FORCE.

Chicago and Southwestern Railway Resume Its Operations.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 22.—The Chicago and Southwestern Railway resumed operations yesterday under the co-operative plan after having been tied up by a strike for more than two weeks. The office and trackmen resumed their respective places, and the road is running as usual in every department. The officers of the company now believe that with the heavy shipment of coal from the Indiana fields the future of the road and workmen as well will be very satisfactory. The profit-sharing experiment is being watched with much interest.

ROYAL LEAVE-TAKING

The Ophir Leaves Halifax for St. John's, Nfld.

FORTS SALUTED ROYAL YACHT

Thousands of Spectators Lined the Wharves—Sailed Down the Harbor to the Tunes of "Far Away," and "Auld Lang Syne"—Royal Sympathy for Sydney in Her Fire Trouble.

Halifax, Oct. 22.—The royal yacht Ophir, with the royal party, left for St. John's, Nfld., yesterday. The wharves were lined with thousands of spectators, who gathered and waved handkerchiefs as the royal yacht, accompanied by the fleet, steamed down the harbor. The band on the Ophir played "Far Away" and "Auld Lang Syne."

The Ophir had a narrow escape from grounding. She collided with a buoy because of the very bad handling of the vessel by Commodore Winslow. The engines had to be reversed, and the steamer finally got straightened out, and the consternation that prevailed for a time subsided.

The forts saluted the royal yacht, and the troops of the garrison lined Point Pleasant and cheered and waved their handkerchiefs as the fleet passed.

Sympathy With Sufferers.

Halifax, Oct. 22. — Last night Mayor Crowe of Sydney received the following telegrams from the Governor-General:

The Mayor of Sydeny: I have just received the following message from H. M. S. Ophir: "The Duchess and I are distressed to hear of the disastrous fire at Sydney. Please express our sympathy with the sufferers. Trust no lives have been lost.

"(Signed) George."

To the Mayor of Sydney: "Her Excellency and I sincerely sympathize with the people of Sydney in the damage caused by the disastrous fire, which we trust may not be as heavy as at first feared.

"(Signed) Minto."

Will Greet the Duke.

New York, Oct. 22.—The Times has the following from London: The King returns to town early next week quite recovered, it is said, from his recent touch of lumbago, and he stays in London until the end of the month, when he goes to Portsmouth to welcome home the Duke of Cornwall and York, whose return is gratifying to the nation.

Lost Both Feet.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—In an accident yesterday morning on the Grand Trunk Railway, near Dunbarton, Frederick McCune, a cook for the construction gang of the railway, was so badly injured that it was found necessary to amputate both of his feet. McCune in some way was struck by a railway van between Port Union and Whitby. The trucks of the van passed over both his feet, crushing them terribly and fracturing his leg just below the thigh. He was brought to Toronto and removed to the General Hospital. Shortly after his arrival the physicians amputated both of his feet. McCune last night was resting easily. He is 19 years of age and lives at Port Union.

Canada's Pulp Wanted.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—The Department of Trade and Commerce has received a report from C. E. Sartum, the commercial agent in Norway and Sweden, for the month ending Sept. 30. He says that the waters in the rivers are so low that the lumber mills have had to shut down. There is, he says, a scarcity of pulp on the Continent. Last year 10,931 people emigrated from Norway and Sweden.

Amputated Both Legs.

Kingston, Oct. 22.—Joseph Goodwin, aged 35, sailor on the schooner Acacia, left his boat yesterday morning to go up street to make some purchases, and was run down by a K. & P. locomotive as he crossed the tracks and had both legs taken off at the knees. He was taken to the General Hospital, where he died within an hour. He was a native of Newfoundland and unmarried.

Charged With Murder.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—A former Haysville young man, Charles Simmons, has been arrested at Blue Earth, Miss., charged with the murder of a Mrs. Porter. He was sentenced to seven years in Kingston Penitentiary from Cobourg some years ago, but the night before he was to be taken to Kingston he broke jail and has not been heard of until now.

Dead in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—Jeremiah J. McCarthy, general western passenger agent for the West Shore Railroad, and a railroad man for sixty years, is dead here, the result of heart failure. He was a native of Canada. His body will be taken to his old home in London for interment.

St. John As a Winter Port.

St. John, Oct. 22.—At a meeting of the Civic Board of Works yesterday afternoon it was stated positively that the Elder - Dempster steamers would run from St. John this winter, giving a direct weekly passenger and freight service to Liverpool.

HIGH-CLASS TAILORS AND MEN'S FURNISHERS

355 George Street, - Peterborough.

WE'VE HAD LINENS BEFORE BUT NOT ANY LIKE THESE.

ON SALE WEDNESDAY MORNING, 9 a.m.

The assortment couldn't be greater, for in this big lot every piece is a different size and a different pattern. Without any doubt they are the most effective Linens we have ever seen. The class of goods is that so much wanted kind—the Plain and Fancy Hemstitched sort, that cannot usually be purchased inside of a reasonable limit, but these, you'll grant us, are unusually fetching in character and much under the ordinary in price, for had they not been we shouldn't have bought this goodly sized shipment.

THEY COMPRISE Doylies, Napkins, Tray Cloths, Five O'clocks, Breakfast Cloths, Dinner Cloths, Dresser Tops, Washstand Covers, Sideboard Runners, etc., etc.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS can be easily and most appropriately selected from the above lot. Christmas just two months away—put on your thinking cap, then select at Sutcliffe's.

TABLE CLOTHS—2x2½ yards and 2x3 yards, in beautiful floral designs, neatly bordered and woven from pure Irish Linen. The values we know you will concede to be much better than could ordinarily be expected. The prices are $2.50, $2.75, $2.90, $3.15.

TABLE NAPKINS.—5-8 size in Pure Linen, double damask, a weighty Napkin and splendid pattern, special, per dozen, $1.25.

ANOTHER LINEN NAPKIN, 5-8 size and sufficently heavy for every day use, extra value, per dozen, 75c.

MANUFACTURER'S ENDS of Bleached Linen Damask Tablings, running from one to six yards in length, assorted into the prices 40c, 50c and 60c a yard. How about your every day wants? Come Wednesday and replete your Linen closet.

Sharp Attack of Lumbago.

Know what Lumbago is?
Pain catches you right in the small of the back,—makes stooping over or rising up excruciating agony.
Wrong kidney action is the cause of the trouble, and if you let Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets set the kidneys working right you'll be quickly cured.
Here is some evidence:

Mr. James A. Searls, the well and favorably known boot and shoe merchant of Norwich, Ont., made this statement:—"During a recent sharp attack of Lumbago, in which the pain was extremely severe, I took a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They took the pain out of my back so quickly, and so far as I can see made a cure that is so permanent, that I consider them unequalled for that most prevalent and painful affliction. I am only too pleased to recommend them to other people who may be suffering as I was."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are 50c. a box, at all druggists or by mail, THE DR. ZINA PITCHER CO., Toronto, Ont.

TUESDAY, OCT. 22, 1901.

THE HALF IS NOT KNOWN.

Reports from a reliable railway man come to us that the Klondyke mining district "is the richest mining district in the whole world." This confirms a pleasant suspicion that has long been entertained. Is it not worthy of remark that a region under the shadow of the North Pole, practically locked in everlasting ice, should be the greatest source of mining wealth in existence? It however also confirms the contention often made in these columns, that there is hardly an acre of the immense area of Canada that cannot be turned, if not now, sometime, to profitable commercial and industrial use. If not within, then on the very edge of the Arctic Circle, exists a city with several thousand inhabitants, with all the conveniences and importance of a city in older Canada, a city built in a region where a generation ago no sane man would have given a dollar for a million acres. Mr. John Charlton, in an interesting article on the Canadian North West, tells us that there is a broad belt north of the latitude of Manitoba of wheat-bearing and grain-growing land, stretching almost clean across the continent, consisting of millions of acres, capable of producing grain enough to supply the import wants of the whole world. Canada is a great country, and the future has great things in store for it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Duke's farewell letter, "by George," is a good one.

The yellow journals that are pursuing — and advertising — Hon. Mr. Stratton might, in their own interests, remember the aphorism, "Success often depends on knowing when to quit."

Toronto evidently delights in being the under dog. The architect of the city buildings has had the city by the throat for years, and can't be shaken off, while the street car people run all over the city as they like.

The Royal yacht Ophir in leaving Halifax harbour, collided with a buoy. Boys, says a harassed mother, are always a nuisance, always in the way, and a Royal yacht needn't hope to escape their attentions.

If the strong feeling the average ratepayer has respecting municipal management, when he pays his taxes, were kept up till the ballot box is before him, then he would be looking more sharply after his interests.

The Mail and Empire, a vicious opponent of the Ontario Government, declares in shock-headed type, that the Ontario Legislature will meet in a few weeks, certainly in December, and possibly in November. The Globe, possibly as much in the confidence of the Government as the Mail, says the Legislature will probably meet in January. This is only a sample of the consistency of the Mail's facts. What it doesn't know, it guesses at, or invents. Thus we have a way of gauging the accuracy and reliability of the organ's political information.

The Lindsay Post says: — "The Conservative papers have felt the force of some remarks made by Mr. Stratton at Stormont, condemning the inflammatory language indulged in by the Opposition orators and papers. They are becoming more and more unscrupulous and reckless in their baseless charges and mud slinging. The Athenians had a very salutary law that would not work badly here. If any one made an accusation against his fellow citizen of conduct injurious to the state or community and failed to substantiate it, he should pay a heavy fine and quit the city. It is to be feared that if this law prevailed in Ontario there would be a reduction in the ranks of Conservative politicians and their scribes."

President Roosevelt of the United States has some lively political rough riding before before him if he aspires to be a candidate at the next Presidental election, that is if he is allowed to keep his "sit" that long. He has been having a coloured man dine with him at the White House. Decent treatment of a negro, even though an educated and cultured man, is so rare a thing in the United States, that entertaining a black man at the White House becomes an enormity at which the Southern press is highly indignant in its criticisms. A country with a populace whose favourite amusement of roasting and lynching negroes, is tolerated, wont be likely to be restraned by any fine spun distinctions in lynching methods applied at the ballot box.

The Mail and Empire has a dictionary of its own. It accuses the Provincial Treasurer of "cooking the accounts again." "Cooking" accounts is generally regarded as manipulating items so as to present a false statement. The Provincial Treasurer simply issued a statement, of Provincial receipts and expenditures for the nine months of the fiscal year, and because this does not show the figures for the whole year, the organ shouts "cooking the figures again." When the Mail may have need to cry "wolf," when the beast is really upon us, nobody will feel like believing it. Anyone who wishes his reputation for veracity to remain unimpaired, might risk an occasional whopper, but anyone who makes perversion of the truth a habit can't expect to be believed.

A POLITICAL PAMPHLET.

A curious feature of the Ontario campaign is the issue of a pamphlet entitled "Our Progress," by Mr. C. R. Mabee. Mr. Mabee is described as a lifelong Conservative, but he appears to be exceedingly dissatisfied with Mr. Whitney's leadership. There is a good deal of comment on some quarrels within the Conservative household, on which an outsider is hardly in a position to give an opinion. The writer, for instance, thinks that it was unwise to spend so much Conservative money on protests after the election of 1898. It was hoped that the result of these protests would be to destroy the majority of the Government, which was then very small, but a contrary result has followed from the election trials and the bye-elections, and the Government is now stronger than ever. Liberals, of course, cannot pretend to regret this result, but as a Conservative Mr. Mabee criticizes the policy very severely.

From this the pamphlet proceeds to a review of Mr. Whitney's career and attitude in the Legislature. The writer regards him as prone to make carping, unreasonable and contradictory criticisms of the policy of the Government, while unable or unwilling to put forward any policy of his own. In the chapter, "Mr. Whitney on the Stand," the leader is put through a severe examination, in which he is compelled to admit the groundlessness of many of his own complaints. Conservatives are described as being placed under a heavy disadvantage owing to the mismanagement of their affairs, and by contrast the progressive character of hte Ross policy is placed in a stronger light. On the whole, Mr. Mabee says that 'Mr. Whitney's career does not justify the Conservative voters of Ontario in aiding him with their support." He has "wrecked the organization and left his party without a progressive and aggressive policy." No doubt this attack from the camp will call forth some reply, but in the meantime Mr. Mabee has collected a lot of interesting information into a pamphlet of about 95 pages. The art of the caricaturist has been freely employed to illustrate the text, and the frequency of the pictures and the piquancy and originality of the style make the book more attractive than the ordinary political pamphlet.—Globe.

Malt Breakfast Food

Is a Perfect Health Food For The Young and Old.

Malt Breakfast Food, delicious and appetizing, combines the health giving properties of pure Malt with the strength-yielding virtues of the choicest Wheat. It is the most nutritious of all grain foods because the greatest concentration of nutriment is gained when the elements of the choicest whole Wheat are presented in a form which the stomach most easily assimilates. The action of the Malt on the Wheat produces effects in Malt Breakfast Food which make it the most nourishing and satisfying of all grain foods. Malt Breakfast Food in its manufacture is predigested, so that the weak stomach perfectly appropriates every particle. No dyspepsia, no indigestion, no stomach troubles, when Malt Breakfast Food is made a regular morning dish.

Jailer Back at Work.

Sarnia, Oct. 22.—Sheriff Flintoft has received word from Toronto to the effect that Jailer R. G McArthur has been reinstated as governor of the Sarnia jail, the order to take effect immediately. Mr. McArthur was at once notified, and resumed his position. This action on the part of the Government carries with it the complete exoneration of Mr. McArthur from any neglect of duty with regard to the escape of the prisoner Robert Thompson from the county jail recently.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple, Convenient; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and local applications can no more cure catarrh and rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood, and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children may use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not despair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents.

Khedive to Visit the Soudan.

Cairo, Oct. 22.—Abbas Hilmi, the Khedive, has decided to leave Cairo Nov. 20, to pay his first visit to the Soudan. The Province is now entirely pacified, and is enjoying unwonted prosperity. Sir Frederick Wingate, the Sirdar, is making great preparations for the reception of the Egyptian Sovereign, and it is hoped that the Khedive's visit will eventually induce many of the Egyptian fellaheen to settle in the Soudan.

Burglars Make Big Haul.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—A sensational robbery, which netted the perpetrators $76,068 in stamps, was discovered here yesterday when the Wholesale Stamp Department of the postoffice was opened for business. Investigation developed the fact that the burglars had crawled under the flooring about 300 feet, bored a hole in the bottom of the vault, secured the stamps and escaped, carrying their booty in a wagon.

No News of Missionaries.

Constantinople, Oct. 22.—The officials of the United States Legation are still without news from the missionaries who are seeking to make an arrangement with the abductors of Miss Ellen M. Stone and her companion, Mme. Tsilka. It is regarded as probable that the missionaries will use the nearest telegraph when the terms of the ransom are settled, directing where and how the cash shall be sent.

Struck by Boston Express.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Harry Smard of Point St. Charles, an employe of the Grand Trunk Railway, was struck yesterday at 8.30 o'clock by the Boston express, near the Victoria Bridge, while the train was running at the rate of about forty miles an hour. The unfortunate man was hurled into the air and thrown about 75 feet. His skull was fractured, and he was otherwise badly smashed up.

A Complete Hospital.

That's what Merrill's System Tonic is. It is one of the most powerful blood purifiers and the best bowel regulator known, besides being a muscular and nerve tonic. Hence it cures a wider range of disease than most medicines. It is skillfully prepared in one of Canada's largest drug stores and is extremely pleasant to take. Price 50c. for three week's treatment. Ormond & Walsh's.

The Dowager Duchess of Abercorn.

The Dowager Duchess of Abercorn, who celebrated her ninetieth birthday during the first week of August, has more living descendants than the late Queen had. Her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great grandchildren number 128, among them being four dukes and heirs to dukedoms. The Dowager Duchess is a daughter of the sixth Duke of Bedford, and was married to the Duke of Abercorn in 1829. On her eighty-second birthday, in 1894, there was a family reunion, at which 101 of her descendants passed before the venerable Dowager, led by her eldest daughter, the Dowager Duchess of Lichfield, with her 13 children and 13 grandchildren, who were followed by the 13 children and 15 grandchildren of the Countess of Durham. The children of the Dowager Duchess who are still living are the present Duke of Abercorn, Countess Winterton, Lord Claude Hamilton, Lord George Hamilton, the Marchioness of Blandford, the Marchioness of Lansdowne and Lord Ernest Hamilton.

Proof of Wisdom.

With reference to the revived use of incense and processional lights during the present patronal festival at St. Alban's, Holborn, a parishioner is alleged to have asked his pastor whether the reintroduction of these forbidden ceremonial luxuries was quite "wise" under existing circumstanres. Father Stanton is fabled to have replied: "There are only two classes of persons who are emphatically termed 'wise' in the New Testament—namely, the 'Wise Men,' who offered incense, and the 'Wise Virgins,' who carried processional lights."—London Chronicle.

Will Reduce Steamer's Expenses.

Remarkable results have been reported from a change of natural to forced draft on a steamship. Two Scotch boilers are now doing the work that formerly required four, the saving of coal is four tons per day, although the average revolutions have increased three per minute and considerable space been gained for freight.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355.92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

Little Boy Killed.

St. Thomas, Oct. 22.—A fatal accident occurred on the Michigan Central at Ruscombe yesterday morning, Willie Woodward, aged 14, a lamp boy in the employ of the company, being the victim. How the accident occurred no one knows. Conductor Abbott found the dead body of the lad. The head had been severed from the body.

City Wants Power.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 22.—At last night's meeting the City Council decided to write to the Minister of Railways asking upon what terms the Dominion Government would sell or rent to the City of Winnipeg the electric power to be developed at St. Andrew's locks.

TRADING STAMPS FOR THE ASKING.

WILL RESTORE THREE PROVINCES.

Summary of the Agreement Between Russia and China.

London, Oct. 22.—A summary of the Manchurian Convention, which Li Hung Chang and M. Lessar, Russian Minister at Pekin, are negotiating, is telegraphed by the Shanghai correspondent of The Standard.

According to this Russia agrees to return to China the three provinces of Lian-Tung, Kirin and Hei-Lung-Kiagh, north of Sunga River, and to withdraw the Russian troops from Lian-Tung during the current year, from the other two provinces gradually, within two years.

China agrees to employ Russian officers to drill the Manchu troops of Tsing Chi, the Tartar general of Mukden. This convehtion is so favorable to China that it is considered probable another agreement exists, which is still kept secret.

To Choose an Heir.

Pekin, Oct. 21.—A new heir to the throne will be appointed when the Dowager-Empress meets Prince Ching and several of the viceroys at Kai-Feng, capital of the Province of Honan, where there will be a general discussion of the affairs of the Empire. This news is believed to be authentic, as it was received from high Chinese officials. The present heir has proved to be dissipated and uncontrollable. Moreover, his father's status as a banished prince makes his succession contrary to Chinese traditions. The candidate of the Empress is said to be Peitze, a nephew of Prince Tuan, who is intellectually weak.

Arranging for Electrocution.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Warden Meade of Auburn Prison spent seven hours yesterday in conference with Superintendent of State Prisons Cornelius V. Collins, arranging the details for carrying out the sentence of death imposed on Leon F. Czolgosz, the murderer of President McKinley. There will be but 26 witnesses admitted, the law limiting the number. It is believed that the execution will take place before 6 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 28, or, if everything cannot be gotten ready on that day, on a similar hour on the 29th.

Tried Two Routes to Death.

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—On Saturday Robert Nichols, a young Englishman, aged 24, an employe of F. E. Weldon & Co., grocers, made an attempt to take his life by cutting his throat. This proving unsuccessful, late Sunday night, after his removal to the General Hospital, he suddenly assaulted his attendant and made a second attempt to end his existence by jumping headlong from a second storey window of the hospital. Although this attempt was not a success, the unfortunate young man now lies at the point of death.

British Steamers Preferred.

Wellington, N. Z., Oct. 22.—Parliament strongly favors the proposition to assist a British rather than an American line for the mail service. The Chambers of Commerce urge the Government not to propose a retaliatory tariff against the Australian Commonwealth, preferring a conciliatory attitude. The plan for state-owned coal mines, if adopted, would enable the Government to acquire mines and compete with private owners. After a profit of 5 per cent. is secured the price of coal is to be reduced.

Pleuretic Pains a Danger Signal

Prompt treatment is essential. Bathe the region of pain immediately with Polson's Nerviline and quickly bind on a hot bandage sprinkled with Nerviline. Never known to fail. Cures almost instantly. Neuralgia, toothache, rheumatism and lumbago are cured by Nerviline just as readily. Polson's Nerviline cures all pain, and is the best household liniment known. Large bottles, 25c.

Ended Her Life.

Dutton, Oct. 22.—Miss Nancy McNabb, who resides with her brother, Mungo McNabb, at Lawrence Station, committed suicide Sunday, while the rest of the family were at church, by taking a large dose of Paris green. Several hours afterwards she told the family of her deed, when medical aid was of no avail. The deceased was subject to melancholy.

EAST KENT LIBERALS

Mr. John Lee of Highgate Nominated for the Legislature.

ADDRESS BY HON. R. HARCOURT

Only Two Names Before the Convention—Minister of Education Makes a Telling Speech—The Progressiveness of Hon. Mr. Ross and the Retrogression of Policy of Mr. Whitney—Mr. Gibson at Fergus.

Ridgetown, Oct. 22.—The East Kent Liberal convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislative Assembly to succeed the late Robert Ferguson convened here at 1 o'clock yesterday. John Lee, of Highgate, President of the Liberal Association, presided, and H. D. Smith of Ridgetown, acted as Secretary. While polling the delegation the election of officers took place, with the following result: President, R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim; Vice-President, John Howatt, of Thamesville; Secretary, H. D. Smith, of Ridgetown. When nominations were called for but two names were presented, those of John Lee, of Highgate, and George Jones, of Bothwell. Speeches were made by the nominees, and on a ballot being taken 160 were polled for Mr. Lee and 48 for Mr. Jones. The nomination of Mr. Lee was made unanimous amidst much enthusiasm, and after resolutions of approval of the Laurier and Ross Governments were passed the convention was dissolved and a mass meeting was held, which was addressed by Hon. R. Harcourt, Minister of Education. For nearly two hours Mr. Harcourt kept the close attention of the large crowd while he told of the progressiveness of Mr. Ross and of the retrogression of the policy outlined by Mr. Whitney. He told with a terseness characteristic of the attitude of the Conservative leader on the Algoma Central proposition, on the appointment of a Provincial Auditor, on the maintaining of a Superintendent of Homeless Children, of the objection of Mr. Whiteny to having another normal school, of his constant ridicule of the Ontario Agricultural College, and of his desire now for more agricultural colleges. Hon. Mr. Harcourt's speech created a splendid impression, and the prospects are that the old East Kent majority will be increased, if the Conservatives go to the trouble of naming a candidate in the event of a bye-election being held.

MR. GIBSON AT FERGUS.

Minister's Masterly Review of the Record of the Government.

Fergus, Oct. 22.—Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General of Ontario, last night addressed a splendid meeting of the electors of East Wellington in the Town Hall here. His speech was a masterly review of the record of the Liberal Government, and the frequency with which he was applauded showed how thoroughly his constituents, who have honored him by asking him to again lead them in the coming election, appreciating the clarity and force of what he said. The chair was occupied by Mr. James Argo, and on the platform were seated Messrs. Hugh Guthrie, M. P., Guelph; Andrew Semple, ex-M. P., Fergus, and Stephen Springer, Elora, Warden of Wellington County. The Attorney-General was the first speaker.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures Sick People and Makes Them Feel Young Again.

A CURED MAN SAYS: "I FEEL JUST AS BRIGHT AND YOUNG AS A BOY.

After Many Failures With Physicians and Medicines, Mr. McGruer Was Saved by

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

All the combined powers on earth cannot stem the tide of truth that sweeps over the Dominion of ours in regard to the curing and life-restoring virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. The thousands cured year after year send such strong and convincing letters of testimony that the most hardened skeptics are forced to admit that Paine's Celery Compound does possess medical powers unknown to other medicines.

The following letter from Mr. A. R. McGruer, Dixon's Corners, Ont., assures you that, no matter how desperate your case may be, Paine's Celery Compound will do more for you than you can possibly hope for. Mr. McGruer says:

"Some time ago my condition of health was alarming, and I suffered very much. I was laid up three days out of every week, and I often said to my friends that it would be better if it was the Lord's will that I should be called away. Three of best doctors attended me, but could not relieve me in any way. It was then I was advised to use Paine's Celery Compound, which brought relief at once. After using this great remedy, I find myself a new man, and feel just as bright as a boy of eighteen years. I think Paine's Celery Compound is the greatest medicine in the world."

New Plague Cases.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, Oct. 22.—There were two new cases of bubonic plague here Sunday. There were three new cases yesterday. At the hospital there are 52 plague patients.

Will Give Others a Chance.

New York, Oct. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton will not be a challenger for the America's Cup next year.

SHOES THAT ARE FULL OF WORTH AND COMFORT . . . .

The best Shoe Salesman we have is our Stock. A glance at our Stock shows that here's a plenty. Where there's a plenty there's sure to be a variety, and so the range of our Stock widens out until it embraces all that's good in footwear.

It's safe to say that out of thirty people no ten will be shod with shoes alike. That's the result of individual preference, and probably of good sense in selection for the uses to which the shoes are to be put. It's this knowledge that of all the people, with all the tastes and all the uses to consider, that from our store every one can be suited. This fact gives a confidence to the customer that is often lacking when dealing at smaller stores. Our care for the customer is a big care, and we do it in a big way—and do it well.

The King Closely Guarded.

London, Oct. 22.—The Despatch announces that unprecedented precautions against Anarchists have been taken for the return to London of King Edward and Queen Alexandra on Monday. Scotland Yard detectives have been despatched to the north, and the whole line of the railway is being vigilantly guarded by men who have been specially selected for that purpose. The paper attributes this vigilance to the assassination of President McKinley.

The Worst Is Feared.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—The worst is feared for Mr. Walter E. H. Massey. Last night, the physicians in attendance on the sick man handed out the following bulletin:

"We have to announce a sudden change for the worse, with grave complications, which took place the day previous, in the condition of Mr. Massey. There is only a possible chance for his recovery."

Accident or Design.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Lying at the Western Hospital in an unconscious condition is Sadie Patterson, aged 18 years, who last night swallowed a quantity of poison at the residence of John Irving, 68 St. Patrick street. It is not known what prompted the girl to commit the act, but it is believed that it was taken accidentally. The physicians hold out hopes for her recovery.

The Work is Now Easily and Well Done by DIAMOND DYES.

The perfect colouring of all cotton and mixed cotton and wool rags for the making up of mats, rugs and carpets, is easily accomplished when the Diamond Dye special Cotton colours are used. These scientifically prepared cotton colours are the only unfading cotton dyes now before the ladies of Canada. They are fast to sunlight and washing. They produce the most lovely and brilliant shades, and so simple to use that a child may dye successfully with them.

If you are a lover of homemade mats and rugs, collect your cotton rags, send to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, for pattern sheet of "Diamond Dye Mat and Rug Patterns," which will enable you to choose your own designs of any required size. When you have selected your design, use the Diamond Dyes to colour your rags as per shades on mat or rug pattern. Pattern sheets mailed free to any address.

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

WEDDING BELLS.

A Quiet but Interesting Event This Afternoon.

A quiet but interesting event took place at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 392 Charlotte street, when Miss Maude Allin, daughter of Mrs. J. Allin, was united in marriage to Mr. A. B. Cunningham, of the Canadian General Electric Works. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. O. Crossley, of the Charlotte street Methodist church, in the presence of only a few intimate friends and relatives.

The bride wore a gown of white organdie and was attended by her sister, Miss Annie, who was similarly attired. The groom was supported by Mr. Jack Milne. The newly married couple left on the afternoon train for New York and other points, and will, on their return take up their residence on Reid street.

HYDRAULIC LIFT LOCK.

An Interesting Talk by Mr. Francis Last Night at George Street League.

The lecture room of the George street church was well filled last evening with an attentive and interested audience, assembled for the purpose of listening to a talk on the Hydraulic Lift Lock, in course of erection on the Trent Canal, in Ashburnham, this being the subject chosen by the League for their regular literary meeting.

The services of a thoroughly competent man had been secured in the person of Mr. Francis, of the engineering staff of the canal, and after a duet by the Misses Grey, Mr. Francis was introduced by the chairman, Mr. Stubbs, and held the attention of all in a clear and concise explanation of the construction and mechanism of the hydraulic lift lock, illustrating his remarks by a number of sketches of the parts of the lock, and furnishing to those present a very comprehensive idea of the immensity and power of this great structure. A number of slips distributed among the audience, containing an excellent idea of the lock after its completion, aided very much in an understanding of the appearance of the work when finished.

At the close of the lecture a number of questions were asked and satisfactorily answered by Mr. Francis. The opportunity was also given by Mr. D. W. Dumble for a few remarks setting forth some of the advantages to accrue from the waterway now in course of construction between the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario.

After the audience had shown their appreciation of Mr. Francis' kindness in a hearty vote of thanks moved by Mr. Wilson, a delightful vocal solo by Mr. J. Miller brought the programme to a close. The Literary Committee are to be congratulated on the foresight which provided such a very pleasant evening.

Next Monday evening the topic will be taken by Mr. Dumble, and a very pleasant time is anticipated. The reading of the Record, the monthly journal of the Society, will also take place.

Bishop-Brownlee Nuptials.

The marriage took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Chamberlain street, last night, of Miss Magdalen M. Brownlee, daughter of Mr. James Brownlee, to Mr. Arthur Thomas Bishop. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret, and the groom was supported by Mr. Charles Jones.

THE BOARD OF WORKS

reported as subjoined through its chairman, Alderman Best:

1. Your Board having examined a petition from A. B. Cunningham and others for a granolithic sidewalk on the west side of Reid street between Charlotte and Simcoe streets, as a local improvement, and found it sufficiently signed, recommend that it be granted, and that the work be proceeded with by contract. We also recommend that the tender of F. Lawless for this work at 14 cents per foot be accepted.

2. Your Board recommend that before any action is taken to let the contract for the sidewalk on Reid street the plans be filed and advertised in accordance with the statute, unless the consent of the property owners to the plans be obtained and shown by them signing the plans.

3. Your Board gave instructions for repairs to the road at the corner of Reid and Smith streets; for a ventilating shaft to be constructed at the outlet of the sewer, and for an apron to be constructed in the sidewalk at the lane beside Mr. F. J. R. Mitchell's grocery on Hunter streets.

4. Your Board recommend that the request of the Auburn Power Co. for permission to place five to seven poles on the north side of Dublin street between Aylmer and George streets be granted, subject to the approval of the Town Engineer.

5. Your Board recommend that E. Archambault be paid $36 for gravel in accordance with a certificate of the Town Engineer.

6. Having examined a petition for a sewer on Perry street between George and Aylmer streets, and found it sufficiently signed, your Board recommend that the petition be granted, and that the Town Engineer ask for tenders for the work at once, and that tenders also be asked for the construction of a sewer on Perry street from Aylmer to Bethune streets, to be built if a petition sufficiently signed is presented asking for it as a local improvement.

7. Your Board examined a petition for a sewer on Rubidge street between Dublin and Edinburgh streets, and finding it sufficiently signed, recommend that it be granted and that tenders be asked for the work.

8. Your Board recommend that the grade of the sewer on Perry street at the corner of Aylmer street, be such as to allow for the connection of a sewer when constructed on Aylmer st. from Rink street south.

9. Your Board recommend that John Henry be appointed inspector of the construction of the granolithic sidewalk on Reid street, between Charlotte and Simcoe streets at $1.50 per day, and that he be paid on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. BEST,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

reported through Alderman Roger as appended.

1. Your committee made a grant of $50 towards the expenses of the chorus that went to Toronto to sing at the reception of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, and recommend that this be approved.

2. That the treasurer be authorized to pay Mrs. Fowler for the time she has been acting as Janitrix at the rate of $4 per week, and to continue to pay her at that rate until further action is taken.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. M. ROGER,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

The report was adopted.

BYLAWS.

Ald. Best introduced the bylaw authorizing the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company to construct two railway sidings across Hunter street. The bylaw provides that the Company construct gates at the sidings and arrange for the presence of a caretaker at no expense to the town. It received its several readings and was passed.

The bylaw was also passed authorizing the execution of a contract with Francis Lawless for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on the west side of Reid street between Charlotte and Simcoe streets.

Ald. Best and Corkery moved, that the town clerk be instructed to publish the necessary notice concerning the closing of Mill street and the opening of a new street in lieu thereof through the Cereal Company's property. The motion was passed. The council will meet to pass the bylaw in connection therewith on December 2nd.

The town engineer was instructed to establish the grade of the new street in accordance with the Company, and a motion was passed in connection with the town's agreement to put metal on the new street.

On motion of Ald. Roger and Rush, the treasurer was authorized to pay the selection of jurors $30.00 in accordance with the certificate of the Clerk of the Peace.

Mr. Alex Rutherford addressed the council, asking that the main be extended off Rubidge street 180 feet south from King street.

The matter was referred to the Fire Water and Light Committee.

On motion of Ald. Clinkscale and Batten, the matter of placing a hydrant on the corner of Perry and Bethune street for the Cordage Company, was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee with power to act.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

AUTUMN WANTS!

No matter what you want for autumn—whether it be for your own wear or something of service for your home, you'll find by experience that it will pay you to buy the best you can get. Inferior goods are not cheap at any price. We are proud of this store and proud of the kind of goods that we keep. We have customers complimenting us every day on our Goods. You don't require to spend a long time trying to find out the difference between our goods and ordinary goods. It's quite evident at a glance.

WARMTH MEANS HEALTH

It's time now to be looking out for winter's warm things. These cool days for fall will be bad for health unless you are dressed for comfort. Our big stock of Underwear comprises everything desirable in that line, from the very heavy woolen ones to the medium and light weight ones that are health-giving and comfortable as well as light-weight. Yes, we have just what you want in Underwear, and the price will suit you, too.

PLEASANT WORK

Clean, whole Pillow Cases and Sheets make the housework more pleasant. Clean beds give pleasure by day and by night. You can buy the best material made for Sheets and Pillow Cases right in this store. The best standard makes of the world, and prices are about the same as the ordinary makes. It will pay you to buy the best.

KEEP WARM

Now it's time for Blankets, and when you buy Blankets you are buying something for comfort, and something you don't intend to replace next winter again. We have the kind that are comfort-giving and long enough to tuck under your feet without exposing your shoulders, and for their wearing qualities, we'll guarantee them. They are made by the best blanket man in Canada.

MILLINERY and JACKETS

Our Millinery and Jacket Department covers a goodly amount of space in this Big Store. They are two of our busiest corners these days. Our assortments are large, our styles are correct, our prices are moderate. Come and see for yourself.

NEW COATS

Comprising Children's Ladies' and Misses'

JUST OPENED

98 of these Coats were shipped to a Montreal firm by the makers in Germany, but for reasons not necessary to mention were not delivered to them. There are some very stylish garments in this lot, as well as some moderate priced ones, 27 to 54 inches in length, light and dark fawns, browns and blacks. We purchased them at the Sterling Cost—netting us quite a saving.

59 The other 59 Coats are made up of Children's Reefers, Ulsters and Misses' Coats, and were cleared from a Toronto manufacturer at a favourable price.

These 157 New Garments, together with our already very large Stock, makes our offering of Coats the most comprehensive range in town.

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES

Rugby Men Turning out for Practice.

The Game With the Torontos on Saturday—Executive Meeting This Evening.

RUGBY.

The Rugby men had another excellent practice in the drill shed last night. The Peterborough Rugbyists take no rest. Fresh with the laurels of victory upon them they went into the practice last night with additional enthusiasm and will keep in condition for their game against the Torontos on Saturday next. The people of the town are getting educated up to the fine points of the game and are looking forward to the match this week with great expectancy. Saturday would have been an ideal day for Rugby had it not been for the very strong wind that swept over the oval and made it most uncomfortable for those who attended the match. Nothing but the excitement of the match could have kept the crowd in good humour and even the lady spectators bore the piercing wind nobly and kept their minds fixed firmly on the game. A very pleasant feature, in fact, in connection with Rugby in Peterborough this season is the great interest that is being taken in the game by the ladies of the town. They have become great enthusiasts and on Saturday they formed a very creditable portion of the crowd in attendance. Next Saturday should see even a larger representation of the fair sex.

A deplorable feature in connection with the games on the Nicholls oval is that there are very poor facilities for collecting a gate. The Club has, in fact, to depend on the good nature or rather the honour of those who attend, for no one who witnesses a match should fail to pay his admission fee. It is to be hoped that next Saturday the weather will be somewhat more favourable and there will be a big attendance. The men are all rounding into shape and the team will be stronger than ever for the next game. Scott, who was indisposed on Saturday last and unable to play, will be additional strength on the local team. The Torontos may not be quite as heavy an aggregation as the locals but they are speedy and never know when they are beaten. They promise to give the locals a good hard game. Should the locals win on Saturday, they will then run up against their old time rivals, the London team.

The Peterborough Club has to thank the citizens of the town for the hearty response which they have made to the call for finances. The merchants, professional and business men in general have purchased membership tickets quite readily and the Club is creeping out of debt. There are a few more membership tickets available and those desiring to become members of the club may yet be provided.

The annual dance of the Rugby Club has become one of the leading features in social circles in Peterborough. It is looked forward to each year by the young people of the town and in fact by many of the older people. This annual event is near at hand and the dance this year promises to be a greater success than ever before. A committee meeting of the executive of the Rugby Club will be held in the office of Messrs. Poussette & McWilliams this evening when preliminery arrangements for the annual dance will be made. Arrangements will also be made for the game on Saturday between the Torontos and locals.

Another matter that will likely come up for discussion this evening is the proposition of having new athletic grounds in Peterborough. A committee will likely be appointed from the Rugby Club this evening to confer with the executives of other Clubs in town concerning this matter.

Is London getting weak at the knees as the Peterborough team climb to the top of the series? A special despatch from London says:

"The London Football Club may drop out of the O.R.F.U. The reason is lack of funds. The Club does not feel kindly towards the O.R.F.U. for refusing to re-instate players and for the schedule. One match only has been, or is to be, played in London this year and that on October 5th against Sarnia, which was a walk over and no crowd attended. Hamilton defaulted here on Saturday. London has a bye in the next round. So London will go into the final in the O.R.F.U., which they believe will be played in Toronto, and might win the championship while playing but one game here. For that reason London people have given no subscriptions. London players are not turning out well to practice. A meeting of the Club will be held to-morrow to decide.

Mr. McKenzie of Lakefield, on Saturday brought his pupils down to see the game. They were welcome visitors, and the management hopes that they will come again.

The Toronto Rugby team figures on winning from Peterborough here on Saturday, according to the Toronto papers.

BOWLING.

In the semi-finals yesterday in the bowling tournament, M. Green defeated W. J. English by 15 points to 14.

LADIES' GOLF.

The Ladies' Golf Competition will be held on Wednesday morning at 10.30. Prizes will be given for driving, cleeking, approaching and putting. Lunch will be served at 12. In the afternoon a handicap round of 18 holes will be played for the prize kindly given by Mr. Hill.

A bus wil lleave Miss Barlee's house at the corner of Park and Charlotte streets, at 10 o'clock, and the post office at 10.10. If the weather is not favourable on Wednesday, the competition will be held on the following day.

GOLF.

Mr. Robt. Neill's record of 41 for the long course at the golf links was not allowed to stand long, as, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Burnham both got after it and succeeded in making the nine holes in 40. Mr. Hamilton played the 18 holes in 83.

The Colts go after the scalps of the First Team on Thursday.

CEREAL WORKS NOTES.

Contract Let for the Foundations of the Big Elevator.

Mr. James Bogue has been awarded the contract for the construction of the foundations of the big 500,000 bushel elevator in connection with the Quaker Oats Company's operations here. The building will be 65 x 160 in size and 130 feet high and the contract calls for the completion of the foundations by January 1st.

The contract for the erection of the buildings, which Mr. Bogue is now working on for the Company calls for their completion, also, by January 1st. Great progress will have to be made within the next couple of months.

Mr. Robt. Stewart and Mr. Richards, of Chicago, are still in town.

The work of constructing the roadbed for the new spur line to run between the building now under construction and the river, is now in progress and a large force of men is at work at this point to-day.

OUR SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK

Union Meeting of Anglican Teachers and Workers.

Interesting Addresses by Rev. Mr. Langfeldt and Rev. W. L. Armitage—Large Attendance.

Every year special Sunday school days are set apart in the Anglican communion, when the claims of Sunschool work are brought before the public, and united intercession offered on their behalf. The days this year were Sunday and Monday, and following the special services of Sunday, there was a union meeting of the three Anglican Sunday schools of the town in St. John's Sunday school house last evening. There was a good representative attendance of workers.

After offering prayer, Rev. J. C. Davidson extended a warm welcome to all present, remarking that they were all closely united to one another in this important work. It gave them renewed cheer and confidence, after working separately, to meet together in one large body. He then called upon Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, who gave a very pointed address, first to the teachers and then to parents.

The reverend gentleman said that teachers needed to be filled with greater devotion, and to realize the supreme importance and privilege of their work. It was most important that the lessons should be thoroughly prepared, and the teachers should come to their schools full of their subject. Greater even was the responsibility of the parent. The teaching in the Sunday school should go hand in hand with the teaching at home. After being taught the duty of prayer in school, a child should not find family prayer and grace before meals, conspicuous by their absence in the home life. The authority of the Sunday school teacher should always be loyally supported by the parents, and the kindness of the teacher in giving time and work should be duly appreciated.

Rev. W. L. Armitage gave a model Sunday school lesson, bringing out many useful principles of teaching. He showed all present how to picture the story graphically, and to draw out the different lessons for it. In answer to questions he gave his opinion on alternate reading of Sunday school lessons and preparation at home.

Mr. W. H. Walkey made a few comments on the subject of teaching, and after devotions had been offered the meeting came to a conclusion, every person expressing the greatest pleasure at being present, and hoping that similar opportunities might be given for conference and instruction in the future.

ESTIMABLE LADY DEAD.

Mrs. J. Frith Jeffers Passed to Her Reward on Sunday Night.

The Belleville Intelligencer refers as follows to the death on Friday, of Mrs. J. Frith Jeffers, who had many close and warm friends in Peterborough:

"Many were the expressions of regret heard to-day when it became known that Mrs. J. Frith Jeffers had passed away. She had been seriously ill for some time and her demise was anticipated. At 10.30 last night she expired. Deceased, whose maiden name was Mary Adelaide Ketcheson, was a daughter of Mr. Elias C. Ketcheson of the 1st concession of Sidney, where she was born 52 years ago. Some 29 years ago she was united in marriage to Mr. J. Frith Jeffers, during which period they have resided in Picton, Peterborough, London, Toronto and this city, coming here four years ago. Mrs. Jeffers was in every sense of the word a true Christian lady, having been for many years a member of the Methodist church. A husband but no family survive. To Mr. Jeffers will be extended the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends and relatives.

"The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, and was numerously attended. The teachers and students of the Belleville Business College attended in a body. The religious services at the home of the deceased were conducted by Rev. Dr. Crothers, assisted by Rev. J. H. Locke and Rev Chas. E. McIntyre of Napanee. The bearers were Messrs. W. R. Aylesworth, R. J. Graham, Wm. Johnston, F. E. O'Flynn, Chas. M. Reid and J. A. Tousaw.

"Amongst those in attendance from a distance were Mrs. Jeffers' sister, Mrs. (Rev. James) Graham, of Toronto; her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. Wellington Jeffers and Mrs. Jeffers, of Lindsay; a nephew, Rev. John W. Graham, Jr., pastor of Great Saint James Methodist church of Montreal; and Hon. Geo. A. and Mrs. Cox, of Toronto.

"The floral tributes from friends in the city and different parts of the province were many and beautiful."

Bookkeeping Class.

The book keeping class of the Y. M. C. A. course will be larger than any previous year. The subject is being taken up by the Ellis tablet or Learning to do by doing system. The student will handle all papers connected with the running of a business. It will be an easy way to grasp clearly the principle of double entry. Sample sets can be seen at the office of the Association. It will not be too late to join the class on Wednesday evening at 7.30, when the first regular session will be held.

THE POLICE COURT.

Several Matters Came up Before His Worship This Morning.

At the Police Court this morning, Austin Dunn, the proprietor of the Southern Hotel, pleaded guilty of permitting persons to be in his bar after 7 o'clock on Saturday night. The magistrate will deliver judgment tomorrow.

Michael Dunn, a vag, was sent up on the bill for six months this morning.

James Elves, who was remanded a week ago on a charge of theft, was further remanded this morning and will come up for trial on Tuesday morning next.

Margaret Williamson was charged with being drunk and disorderly. She was allowed to go with a warning.

The New Treatment.

Hundreds of people who have gone the rounds of physicians and patent medicines have found a cure in Merrill's System Tonic. This new medicine cures disease by toning all the principal organs in the body, thus enabling nature to throw off the disease. It is the greatest blood purifier known. Price 50c. per bottle, at Ormond & Walsh's.

VARICOCELE

No matter how serious your case may be or how long you may have had it, our NEW METHOD TREATMENT will cure it. The "wormy veins" return to their normal condition and hence the sexual organs receive proper nourishment. The organs become vitalized and manly powers return. No temporary benefit, but a permanent cure assured. NO CURE, NO PAY. NO OPERATION NECESSARY. NO DETENTION FROM BUSINESS.

STRICTURE

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are troubled with this disease—many unconsciously. They may have a smarting sensation, sharp, cutting pains at times, weak organs, and all the symptoms of nervous debility — they have STRICTURE. Don't let doctors experiment on you by cutting, stretching or tearing you. This will not cure you, as it will return. Our NEW METHOD TREATMENT absorbs the stricture tissue, hence removes the stricture permanently. It can never return. No pain, no suffering, no detention from business by our method. The sexual organs are strengthened, the nerves are invigorated, and the blues of manhood returns,

Cures Guaranteed

TWO GREATEST LONDONS.

One Is in England and the Other in Ontario —Similarity Between the Two Places —York Has Most Namesakes.

Scarborough is at this present moment enjoying a temperature of some eighty degrees in the shade. Palms and giant ferns, orange orchards and banana plantations, environ it, and its streets are crowded with gaily-dressed swarms of jabbering negroes and negresses.

Of course, though, the particular Scarborough referred to is not the famous Yorkshire watering place, but the other town of that name in the West Indies, the capital of the Island of Tobago.

In Massachusetts, U. S. A., is a Sheffield where they make knives. It consists of one long street, shut in and overshadowed by lofty hills, down which tumble innumerable cascades. Up till about ten years ago the town had no industries. Then, one day, an enterprising citizen suggested that they should ape their prosperous British progenitor, using the water power ready to hand. No sooner said than done; and to-day the American Sheffield has over a score of forges going, and turns out some thousands of blades every week. Up to the time of writing, however, it is not on record that Sheffield, Yorkshire, is in anywise disturbed owing to the competition of Sheffield, U. S. A.

There are thirty-two Londons in the world, some of them places of considerable importance. The best known of them all is London, Ont., Canada, with a population, including the suburbs, of fifty thousand souls. It is situated on the River Thames, which is spanned by a Westminster and a Blackfriars Bridge; and it also possesses a Hyde Park, a Covent Garden, a Crystal Palace, a Tower of London, a St. Paul's Cathedral, and a Pall Mall, Piccadilly and Cheapside.

There are not many instances of a foreign town outstripping its British namesake in wealth and importance; but one such is afforded by Boston, in America, which has grown to be more than fifty times the size of Boston, in Lincolnshire.

Yarmouth has one solitary namesake. It is situated in Maine, U. S. A., and there is not a herring within five hundred miles of it. Bath gives its name to an important seaport in the same State; also to nine other places in America, and one in Tasmania. There are exactly a round dozen of Bristols in the various quarters of the globe, in addition to the one in Gloucestershire. The Canterbury in New Zealand is familiar nowadays by name to most people, owing to its being the headquarters of the frozen meat trade; but there are, in addition, seven places of that name in the world. Winchester, once the metropolis of England, gives its name to but one little American hamlet of about twenty log cabins, hidden away in the backwoods of Michigan.

Windsor is the capital of Hampshire, in Nova Scotia; and there are fourteen Windsors in the United States, two in Canada, and one in New South Wales. There are no fewer than sixteen Oxfords in America, eight Exeters, seven Bradfords, and four Prestons.

The Irish-Americans have given the name of Erin's capital to no fewer than seventeen villages and hamlets in the land of their adoption; while Edinburgh, curiously enough, considering the Scots' passion for wandering abroad, can boast of but one namesake in the wide world, a tiny village in the Canadian wilderness. Leeds has four towns called after it — two in the United States, and two in Canada. There are six Glasgows — three in the United States, one in Canada, one in Prince Edward's Island and one in Nova Scotia. In the latter island, also, is a Liverpool, on a Mersey River, a well and regularly built town; and there is another in New South Wales, not far from Sydney. Of the 10 Brightons of the world, the only one anywhere near the sea is the original one in Sussex, although one of them — that in Munroe County, New York State — has a suburb called Kemp Town, and another (also in America) has recently had a municipal wrangle with its neighbor—Hove.

Of all English cities, however, York can boast of by far the largest family of namesakes, there being no fewer than eighty-six places, big and little, called after it.—Answers.

Answers is incorrect in saying there is only one namesake Yarmouth, and that it is in Maine, for there is one in Canada in the Province of Nova Scotia.

John Burns and the Trusts.

My greatest hope for future peace and assertion of labor's rights is in awakening the public to the scourge of such institutions as trusts. They have it in their hands, and if rightly managed the ballot can be made just as effective as the bullet.

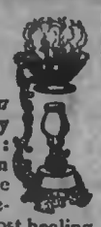
Whether the employers be successful or not in the present strike the men's protest has brought America one step nearer to the conviction that the only solution of the difficulty is municipalization of monopolies and nationalization of trusts. Till that is accomplished workers must resist every encroachment on their rights and improve their organizations and get more and more command over the appointment of rulers.—John Burns.

Bronze Age Skeletons.

While some excavation for railway cutting was being carried out close to Amesbury, a place of great antiquity within two miles of Stonehenge, several skeletons which probably belong to the bronze age were unearthed. The skeletons were found some four feet underbround on part of the circumference of a circle about 60 feet in diameter. The bodies lay lengthways round the circle at regular intervals At the feet of some were found wrought iron nails similar to hobnails, with the ends clinched. A small vase and other broken pottery, a ring, and a bronze bracelet — the latter being on the arm bone — were also found.

Vapo-Cresolene quickly cures colds, coughs, sore throat, whooping cough and croup.

Want This Lamp?



Ask your druggist to show it to you. This is the way you use Vapo-Cresolene: You put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and breathe in the vapor. It is the most healing, most soothing and most penetrating vapor that is known. Not a single disease germ can live in it. For whooping-cough and croup it is a positive and quick cure, while for all throat and bronchial troubles it is the best remedy you can use. 17

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.5 ; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE Co., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

HAD NEVER BEEN ABROAD.

But For All That He Had Traveled "Far and Wide."

"Have you spent all of your life right here in this one place?" asked a stranger of an old fellow he came across seated on a rail fence whittling in front of a log and slab cabin in one of the back counties of Arkansas.

"Not by a derned sight!" was the terse reply. "I been hyar the better part o' the time; but, la, I hev traveled fur an wide!"

"Ever been abroad?"

"Well, not eggsackly to say abroad, onless you call it goin abroad to go from here way over to Petersville. I been over thar twice in the last 40 year. It's 38½ miles to Peterville, an I been further than that, fur my ole woman an me went clean to Hogback ridge on our weddin tower, an that's 41 mile from here. Then I been over in Pettis county to see my wife's folks twice, an that's twenty odd mile from here. Then I been over to Rocky Hill es meany es four times, an that's 18 mile. Es I say, I been here most o' the time, but then I've traveled fur an wide all the same. I've seen the big four story mill over to Petersville an the engine kyars over to Peaville. I rid three miles on 'em, an it's all I want o' the pesky things. I've seen a calf with two heads an a feller that could eat fire and dance on broken glass in his bare feet. I see a man hung once an a hoss race fur a purse o' $65. Yes, sir; I been fur an wide, an I reckon I've seen the biggest part o' what there is to see in this world, an I don't lot on doin no more gaddin about."

Cultivate Good Health

Feed the Nerves Enrich the Blood, Revitalize the Whole Body by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Whenever there is an ache or pain, when the appetite fails, when there are sleepless nights, and momentary spells of weakness, look for the cause and see that it is removed at once.

Cultivate good health while yet there is something to build on, instead of waiting until the nerve force is depleted and vitality completely exhausted.

To persons suffering the results of thin blood and wasted nerves, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies all the needs of the system and brings perfect health.

Mrs. E. McLaughlin, 95 Parliament street, Toronto, states:—"My daughter was pale, weak, languid and very nervous, her appetite was poor and changeable, she could scarcely drag herself about the house, and her nerves were completely unstrung, she could not sleep for more than half an hour at a time without starting up and crying out in excitement.

"As she was growing weaker and weaker I became alarmed, and got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She used this treatment for some weeks, and from the first we noticed a decided improvement. Her appetite became better, she gained in weight, the colour returned to her face, and she gradually became strong and well. I cannot say too much in favour of this wonderful treatment, since it has proven such a blessing to my daughter."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food occupies a field by itself, and is unique in the respect, that it cures by forming new, rich blood and nerve force, building up the system and increasing the weight.

It is a reconstructant, restorative and revitalizer of most unusual merit, which sends new life and new vigor to every part of the body, and gradually and permanently cures all nervous troubles and diseases, resulting from weak blood and low vitality. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Too Particular.

A business man who had eaten a meal at a restaurant where he frequently took his midday luncheon walked up to the cashier and said:

"I find I haven't a cent of change about me today. If you will kindly let me owe for this until I come in again, which will certainly be in a day or two, I will square up then."

The cashier was not a good judge of human nature, or was under the influence of momentary irritation, for she replied:

"We don't run any accounts at this shop. If you haven't anything to pay with, you can leave something with us as security."

"I didn't say I hadn't any money," the customer rejoined. "I said I had no change. Please take the amount of my check out of this."

And he took a fifty dollar bill out of his pocketbook and handed it to the astonished cashier.

"It will be better to pay it now perhaps," he added, "than to leave something as security, for you will not be likely to see me here again."

Then picking up his change, which comprised about all the money the cashier could find in the establishment, he bowed and walked out.

BOERS AT ST. HELENA.

Governor Describes Their Happy Surroundings—Cronje Contented, But Does Not Show Any Literary Tastes.

Mr. R. A. Sterndale, Governor of St. Helena, who has come to England on three months' sick leave, arrived in London the other morning. Mr. Sterndale said to a representative of The Daily Mail: "Everything is moving on smoothly in the island.

"The most prominent prisoner among the 4,600 Boers who are quartered there is, of course, General Cronje. He occupies a small eight-roomed cottage not far from Government House, and lives there with his wife, grandson, a secretary, and adjutant. His house has a comfortable verandah in front, where he passes most of the day smoking his pipe. He is in good health and seems very contented. He is not allowed to leave his home without an escort. Whenever he expresses a desire to go out a carriage and pair, together with an escort, are always sent from Government House. I have also offered him the use of saddle horses, but he has only twice availed himself of the privilege.

"On two Sundays in each month he attends the open-air service of the Dutch Reformed Church. He is not at all literary in his tastes, and I think reads but little. He is never intruded upon. His secretary, whose name is Keazer, is a pleasant-faced thoroughly intelligent man.

"There are two camps for the rank and file of the Boer prisoners. Broad Bottom, which is 1,500 feet above the level of the sea, accommodates 2,000 men, and at Deadwood, 2,000 feet above sea level, 2,600 are housed. Both encampments are surrounded by a double line of barbed wire fence, and are guarded by about 1,000 men. The prisoners live mostly in huts built by themselves, and constructed of empty packing cases and kerosene tins. The only restrictions made is that they shall be portable, in order to move from place to place, and arranged in regular lines. The men do their own cooking, and are very ingenious in arranging their huts.

"The rations consist of one pound of fresh meat five days in the week, and a like amount of preserved meat on the other two. They are given one-and-a-quarter pounds of bread each day, together with vegetables and condiments, sugar, coffee, etc. All the provisions served are of the very best.

"There has been no sickness among the prisoners. Many of them were suffering from enteric when they arrived, but this was speedily stamped out. There was a severe epidemic of influenza recently, to which many of the islanders succumbed. There were no cases, however, among the Boers.

"The prisoners amuse themselves in many ways. They are very fond of cricket and football. They have a recreation hall, in which their musical club frequently give concerts. They have among them a musical composer named Schumann, who claims to be a collateral descendant of the great composer. He has written a Boer hymn since his captivity.

"There are many tradesmen among them, and they are constantly encourage to ply their trades. They carve napkin rings from beef bones, and make fine walking sticks, for which they are granted material from the Government forests. We recently had an exhibition of articles manufactured by the prisoners, and it was highly creditable.

"There are few relics of the great Napoleon remaining at St. Helena. We have at Government House his bookcase, two cabinets, and pier glasses. Some eighteen months ago Miss Bagley died at the age of ninety-one years. She saw the great Emperor land, saw his funeral, and witnessed the exhumation of his body."—London Mail.

OTTAWA MAN WHO WRITES THIS TIME

Grants Full Permission to use His Name in Behalf of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was in the Clutch of Bright's Disease—Suffered all the Symptoms of This Fearful Malady—But he Took Dodd's Kidney Pills in Time.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Special. — A fortunate young man is Frank Chartrand of this city, for by the merest chance he was saved from that modern curse so dreaded by doctors, Bright's Disease, the incurable malady of the kidneys.

The story of Mr. Chartrand's escape from this dreadful disease is best told in his own words.

"I had been greatly troubled by my Kidneys for two years since having a dose of the grip. I suffered with headache and always felt drowsy and very heavy in the limbs, with frequent severe headache and oftener still severe pains in the top of my head, which prevented me doing my work as I would like to do. Often my fingers and legs would cramp, and occasionally I felt pains in my loins and a very dizzy feeling with shortness of breath and pain in side. Sometimes I would eat very good meals and other times I would take a biscuit and a cup of tea and that would finish my meal. I had tender spot over the back of the spine and felt very tired in the region of the kidneys, with a dragging heavy feeling across the loins, in short there was no doubt I was suffering from Bright's Disease.

"I kept taking the medicines the doctors gave me all this time but they did me no good. A few weeks ago I chanced to tell a friend that I had given up hope.

"Why don't you try Dodd's Kidney Pills?" he told me.

"I went directly to the drug store and got three boxes which I have used and which have so much improved my health that without hesitation I may I am sure it is but a matter of a short time till I become completely and permanently cured."

HOW DAIRYING PAYS.

Many Ways In Which the Industry Is a Good Thing.

First and foremost, dairying pays in the superior education and training it brings to the mind of the farmer, says Hoard's Dairyman. No other class of farmers meet as often in convention or have as much literature devoted to their interests and progress.

Second, it pays in its splendid promotion of the fertility of the farm. Here is the bank we draw on in every emergency. So many farmers in many sections are living with starved minds and a starved soil. Go into any dairy section and note the different appearance of the farm buildings, the better crops and the appearance of intelligence among the farmers. All these results are the natural effect of the business.

Third, it pays in its forced training of farmers in a study of cattle. The man who has a dairy of 20 to 40 cows can see before a great while the constant necessity for the exercise of a thorough, sound judgment concerning dairy cattle. He will have to acquire this judgment if he makes any profit with cows, and in acquiring it he will become a broader man every way.

Fourth, it pays in a larger and steadier yearly cash revenue than is achieved by almost any other branch of farming. It keeps the man on the farm, holds him down and makes him attend to his business and consequently makes a business man of him.

Let any man embark in dairying and follow out the leadings of the business, and we will see that man grow in wealth and intellect, his farm increase in fertility.

There will be a growth of nice farm buildings, and, last but not least, the value of farms in the market is always greatest in well developed dairy districts.

Every farmer ought to understand that there is the greatest of vitality in the dairy business. For 30 years men have been prophesying that it would be overdone and bring ruin on those who embarked in it.

Evidently it pays all around, for the most prosperous farmers in the United States and Canada are the dairy farmers.

Making Bulls Work.

A thoroughbred bull full of vitality, well fed and with no means of working off his superabundant vitality is about as dangerous a combination as can be found on the farm, says Hoard's Dairyman. The farmer has the best intentions of handling the bull so that he will be in no danger, but as familiarity always breeds contempt of danger it is soon assumed that the bull is perfectly safe. Many men have assumed this once too often, with death or serious injury as the result. Much of this danger could be obviated if the animal had systematic exercise either in a tread power or harness, as shown in the accompanying picture.

GUERNSEY BULL IN HARNESS.

Gilt Edge Butter.

Give your product a definite name by which it may become advertised and known, says The American Agriculturist. Make the one pound piece of butter into two half pound stamps, as is usual, wrap in oil paper and then in heavier white paper on which is printed in gold letters in script type "Gilt edge butter," followed by the maker's name. On the opposite side place the same with any further remarks that will be explanatory and convincing to the purchaser who seeks a fine grade of butter and is willing to pay a fair price for it as against a low price for inferior or average.

Appearances may be deceitful, but one thing is certain—good appearance gives the possessor of it a chance in the world, and that is all merit asks. There is always room for fine, uniform butter, and if it is named and placed on the market right the demand will grow and become permanent. It pays to make good butter, but whether or not the full value is received depends to a certain extent on how it is put up. The taste of a discriminating public has to be considered in more senses than one.

Cod Liver Oil For Calves.

Many dairymen who grow calves are accustomed to use a little oil meal as an addition to the skimmilk to replace the butter fat taken out in skimming or separating milk, but in New Zealand they supply the fat by using cod liver oil. They give each calf about two ounces a day from the time they begin using skimmilk for about 80 days, when they think the calf no longer needs milk, and they stop it. The crude oil costs them 75 cents a gallon, and there are 160 ounces in a gallon, so that it adds about a cent a day to the cost of raising the calf. We think it costs but about 40 to 50 cents a gallon here.

Cow Census.

The number of cows per 1,000 inhabitants in this country, according to government figures, is 264 and has increased in 20 years from 232. The greatest relative proportion of cows are kept in the central western states, where dairying is the chief agricultural industry. Thirty years ago New York and the New England states composed the dairy farming section of the country.

TOO MUCH

Exercise is as bad as too little for the growing girl. It is very easy for her to overdo, and this is especially dangerous at that critical period of a young girl's life when she crosses the line of womanhood. It is not an uncommon thing to lay the foundation for years of after misery by neglect of necessary precautions at the first "change of life."

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription not only establishes regularity, but it gives health to the entire womanly organism. It is the best medicine for diseases peculiar to women because it cures the causes of disease completely and permanently.

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine nor any other narcotic. It cannot disagree with the most delicate constitution.

"For a number of months I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1213 Bank Street, Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies, but none seemed to do me any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worst case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to you for help. I received a very encouraging reply and commenced treatment at once. I had not used your 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved, and is improving every day."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE EYE OF AN ARTIST.

A Case Where It Was More Reliable Than a Sailor's Optic.

Mr. N. Chevalier, the well known artist who accompanied the late Duke of Edinburgh on many of his travels, was once going from Dunedin to Lyttelton, New Zealand, by steamer. Anxious to catch the earliest glimpse of the coast he went on deck at dawn and was alarmed to see that the vessel was heading straight on to the land. Calling the officer's attention to the fact, he was told that it was only a fog bank. The artist maintained his point, but the second officer looked and confirmed his mate.

The artist then said: "Well, gentlemen, I will back my artist's eye against your sailor's eye, and I say that what you mistake for a fog bank is a low range of hills, and there is a range of mountains appearing above them."

But he was only laughed at, until the captain coming on deck found in the growing light that the artist was right and the seamen wrong. The vessel was out of its course, and there was only just time to avert disaster. The helmsman was dismissed in disgrace and the course given to the new steersman, but the vessel's head still pointed landward—the compass was all wrong.

The cause was discovered later. A commercial traveler had brought a box of magnets on board and deposited them in a stern cabin, causing what might have been a fatal deflection of the compass.

To return to the question of interpretation, the artist was dealing with the appearances which his eye was trained to see and his mind to interpret. A speck on the horizon might have remained a mere speck to him long after the sailors had interpreted the speck into a vessel of definite rig. There can be little doubt that the trained eye is accompanied by a sort of mental seeing, an instinct outrunning optics.

Painful.

A little story comes from way back concerning Forrest, the tragedian.

It was during his last appearance played at Niblo's. At the time he was suffering untold torture from the gout. A sort of runway had to be constructed from the stage to the dressing room, for he was quite unable to step up or down stairs.

The performance had been "Coriolanus," and Forrest was petulant from pain and tired with his work. He stumbled against the runway, causing such a twinge in his toe as to make him cry out with the pain.

A young actor standing by unfortunately addressed the tragedian at the wrong time, saying:

"Dear me, Mr. Forrest, that must have been exceedingly painful."

"Not half so painful as your acting," was the crusty response.

He Saw Double.

Mr. Lushleigh came up the stairway with his shoes in his hand and his hat hanging precariously upon one ear, singing "We won't go home till morning" with wondrous disregard for pronunciation and melody. Mrs. Lushleigh met him with a cold stare and exclaimed:

"Well! To see you in such a condition! William Henry Lushleigh, I am beside myself with indignation!"

"Thash ri'," agreed Mr. Lushleigh, moodily watching the bureau as it waltzed about him, "thash ri'; you're beshide y'shelf. I c'n see you right shere beshide y'shelf. Glad you tol' me. Was beginnin' to think I'sh a bigmisht."

The Stomach's Hard Lot.

Sixty per cent of canned vegetables have been found to contain food preservatives, and of thirteen popular brands of extract of lemon not one contained any oil of lemon, and most of them were colored with aniline dyes. Alas for the American stomach! What shall be done to preserve that?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SYDNEY.

For years she drowsed beside the sea,
And the seasons came and went,
Her one desire apparently
Was but to dream and be content;
Around her nature spread a scene
Of field and forest, vale and hill,
The harbor nestled in between
And made the landscape fairer still.

The linnet sang beside her doors,
The robin nestled in her trees,
The wild rose grew along her shores,
And spent its fragrance on the breeze,
And strangers came from far away,
Attracted by her quiet moods,
And gave their too brief holiday
To Sydney's drowsy solitudes.

Then on a day stern Ferrum came,
And whispered in her startled ear
Some words that set her cheek aflame
And made her tremble. "Do not fear,
I love thee—henceforth thou shalt be
My Sovereign Lady," Ferrum said,
"And I'll abide, my love, with thee

Forever. Be thou not afraid."
And strength and beauty mated. Then
The dreaming maid of rural charms
Became a queen of dusky men—
He smiled, allaying her alarms,
They digged the pit, they wrought the ore,
They built the furnace and the pier,
She saw her sylvan scenes no more,
Nor heard the songs she used to hear.

To quiet shades and rendezvous,
Where happy lovers used to meet,
She bade a long, a fond adieu,
And welcomed in the crowded street
The babble of the noisy crew,
The clash, the clamor, and the strife,
And ever growing on the view,
The City rose to light and life.

And often when the moonbeams dance
Along her turrets lovingly,
Three forms from out the night advance
And gaze on her approvingly;
And one is Wealth, and one is Thought,
And one is Labor, and they smile
As they behold the changes wrought
Upon this happy northern isle.

She sits upon her iron throne;
She gazes out upon the sea;
She does not mourn her beauty gone,
But dreams of greater things to be;
And through the hours of the night
Strange sounds are heard, the trains speed by,
And broad and brilliant flames the light
Of Ferrum through the summer sky.

Wonders of the Heart.

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a minute, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2 1-2 ounces of blood a second, 656 lbs. an hour, 7 3-4 tons a day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich blood, that the heart, an organ, 6 inches long, by 4 inches wide, can accomplish this enormous amount of work, and rebuild its own wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective remedy available for heart affections because it forms new, red corpuscles in the blood, and gives to it that life sustaining quality which is necessary to the health of every organ.

Population of Dublin and Belfast.

The population of the municipal area of Dublin, including the independent townships, is returned as 347,104, and Belfast as 348,965, which gives the northern city a majority of 1,861.

"Asking a widow to marry you when you don't mean it, my son," replied the sire.

A Perfect Boy.

"I never heard of but one perfect boy," said Johnny pensively as he sat in the corner doing penance.

"And who was that?" asked mamma.

"Papa—when he was little," was the answer, and silence reigned for the space of five minutes.

PETFRBOROUGH OLD BOYS.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear sir,—You do me the injustice, in Saturday's Examiner, of misquoting my letter, for by reference to the Examiner of that date your readers will see that I did not say that the idea of having the celebration in question occurred to me before it did to Mayor Denne, but did say that the matter was under consideration by "others" before Mr. Denne ever mentioned it. Your remarks, therefore, as to what I did not say, are not to the point. If those other gentlemen did not wish to put their ideas into execution or make capital out of them, it is a matter that does not concern me. I agree with you that there is no one in the field "yet" who would stand any chance of ousting Mr. Denne, for the very best of reasons—because there is no one in the field at all at this early day. It is a paltry excuse, that we will get the assistance of neighboring towns by deferring our celebration instead of clashing with them. What clashing has there been between neighboring towns in the past, or how could there be when these celebrations are purely local? Nor was it necessary, nor did it ever happen, that any two of these celebrations came off in the same day.

Yours, etc.,
ELECTOR.

If "others" had the matter of a reunion under consideration before Mayor Denne thought of it, it would seem but natural that "Elector" should get after them rather than after the Mayor. And if it did not concern him in one case, why in the world does he jump into print now trying to create trouble and throw cold water on the scheme? It may be a "paltry excuse" in "Elector's" opinion, for the mayor to wish to have the co-operation of surrounding towns and villages rather than their opposition, but he should know that when a celebration is about to be undertaken in any town, the first thing taken into consideration is this very question and for this reason he is placed in the position of being able to say at the conclusion of his communication "that it never happens that any two of these celebrations come off on the same day."

HAVE A MILITARY DAY.

Editor Examiner:

Dear sir,—I notice that Mayor Denne and a few others are already out with a proposition for a celebration in Peterborough some time next summer. The idea of having a celebration in town once a year is, I think, a good one, but care should be taken as to the style of demonstration determined on. The Mayor, for instance, suggests an Old Boys' Re-union, and throws out various schemes as to how the preliminary work should be carried on. Correspondents to the Examiner appear to favour the idea.

As for myself, I do not take kindly to the idea of having and Old Boys' Re-union. To get up such an affair requires an immense amount o f work and a corresponding amount of money. Besides, the Old Boys' Re-union scheme was merely a fad that even now is fading away. There was a time when such an affair was a great success under even the most adverse circumstances. But now, however, every city, town, village and hamlet on the continent is having the Old Boys' Re-union scheme until the principle is overdone. Peterborough is now only taking up the matter, which should have been tried several years ago.

Would it not be much better for the town to put on a grand military day on May 24th next? I venture to say that for half the money that it would take to run an Old Boys' Re-union, we could bring the Highlanders from Toronto, the 13th Regiment from Belleville, the 45th or 46th Rural Regiments, and the 3rd Dragoons to Peterborough for a day's manoeuvering. By that time too, the ladies of the town might have new colours for the 57th Regiment, and the important and very interesting ceremony of trooping the colours might take place. By all odds, if we are going to have a day in Peterborough next year, let us have a military day. There is nothing that arouses so much enthusiasm, there is nothing that looks so magnificent, and it will not cost as much as our last year's 24th of May demonstration.

Yours Very Truly.
PATRIOT.

TO AUSTRALIA AND BACK.

A Peterborough Boy has Travelled Over 30,000 Miles.

Two Very Interesting Letters From Wilfred Staunton—Description of His Voyaging.

Mr. Wilfred Staunton, son of Mr. Wm. A. Staunton, Benson street, has within the last eight months covered more ground and sea than, as a rule, falls to the lot of the average Peterborough boy. The appended most interesting letters have been received from him by Mr. Jas. Tully, Water street:

Sidney, Australia, N.S.W.,
August 24th, 1901.

My Dear Jim,—I arrived here by the Steamer "Aorangi," of the C. & A. Line a few days ago, and have been all over the city, which has a population of 200,000 people. Before coming to Sidney I had a trip to Honolula, U. S. A., and different Hawaiian Islands I leave here on Sept. 3rd for San Francisco, via Auckel and New Zealand and the Samoa and Fiji Islands I meet many people here that I know. Enclosed you will find a sprig of the Corneyana Tree, of China, which I got in the Botanical Gardens here yesterday, and which I might add are one of the best in the world. You can see the banana tree with bunches of bananas on it and also different kinds of palm trees and fruits and flowers from all over the world. It is a regular Paradise.

Well Jim, here I am now about twelve thousand miles from Gough Bros., Peterborough, and since seeing you last I have travelled altogether about thirty-four thousand miles, and never cost me a cent. Always have good clothes and a few dollars, so what more does a man want? I have a first-class certificate as a Steward, which enables me to travel to any port in the world and get a first-class salary.

Well, I must close, but will write again soon. I have just written to mother. Remember me to all the boys.

Yours as ever,
WILFRED J. STAUNTON.

San Francisco, California,
October 10th, 1901.

My Dear Jim,—I arrived in 'Frisco a week or so ago, and like the city fine. Since seeing you last I have travelled close on thirty thousand miles. In the first place I took a trip to Skaguay on the ill-fated steamer "Islander." Then I signed on the "Aorangi" as a saloon waiter for Honolula, Hawaiin Islands, and from there to the New Hebrides, and next to Brisbane, Queensland, then to Sidney, N.S.W., Australia. I then signed as a saloon steward on the "Sierra" for Auckland, New Zealand, and from there to the Fiji Islands, and next to Pago Pago and Apia, in the Samoan Islands, and then to Honolulu, and then back to San Francisco. It would take too long or I would give you a description of my voyage, which I am sure would prove very interesting. The Hawaiian Islands have more to attract and fascinate from a traveller's standpoint than any place I have yet seen. Hawaii is indeed the ideal "Island Paradise"—a perpetual spring—sunshine, birds and flowers all the year! The celebrated volcano of Kilauea is the largest known active volcano in the world, its ever living liquid lakes of fire are so easy of access that even ladies and children are frequently taken to the very brink. If you ever take a trip to the Pacific coast you should not omit a trip to the Sandwich Islands. The voyage on the blue Pacific is usually as pleasant and calm as on a mill pond. Samoa is the realization of the poet's dream of the "Land where it is always afternoon."

The charms and fascinations of the happy tropical life are there in abundance. Apia was the home of the illustrious author—the late Robt. Louis Stevenson. New Zealand is the Switzerland of the southern hemisphere. Its "Southern Alps" are snow-capped the year round, yet not far distant are the ever-boiling hot lakes, excelling even the Yellowstone in abundance and in natural wonder. The country is one of beautiful landscapes and happy homes and its climate is a marvel of perfection for the constitution of the European.

I must close as it is now late, and I am both sleepy and tired. Give my best to all the boys and tell them I love them in the same old way. Write me often and dinna forget —The deer hunters are beginning to move to the back country.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—The Y.M.C.A. orchestra held its first practice last evening when a very encouraging start was made.

—A letter from the Auburn employees re the Dan Spence memorial is inadvertantly held over until to-morrow.

—It is said that there are a great many wild ducks at Rice Lake this season, but the number of hunters is correspondingly large.

—The fine team of high-stepping bays on the Geo. Matthews Co's handsome delivery van, attract a great deal of attention on the street.

—The Intermediate Social Bible Club will hold its first annual meeting to-night at 7.30 in the Y.M.C.A. All members are urged to attend.

—The work at the Canadian General Power House at Nassau is progressing quite favourably. The work of laying the concreting is being proceeded with.

—The new Mud Lake bridge is being planked longitudinally. The county council at its recent special meeting decided this most advisable and the work is now in progress.

—Those desiring to qualify for non-commissioned officers' certificates and those who have not yet completed their full season's drill are asked to be on hand to-night at the drill shed when a class of instruction will be formed under Sgt.-Major Britton.

—Ottawa and Georgian Bay lumbermen are predicting a diminished cut this season owing to the scarcity of men, high wages and increased cost of food supplies. Men are being offered $28 and $30 per month, but are slow to accept.

In This Locality.

The medicine dealers in this place say there is no preparation in the market to-day that has anything like such an enormous sale as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Would this extraordinary demand for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills continue and gradually increase if people were not being benefitted and cured by their use? Certainly not. One pill a dose. 25c a box.

The Port Hope Knitting Works are showing a splendid range of ladies' vests and drawers. Their lines at 25c, 35c, 50c, 60c, 75c and $1.00 are most exceptional value. Call and look them over.

Official Trades Union.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 22.—The furniture and cabinet workers of Minsk have organized a club of 400 members under official control. The workingmen of Nicolayeff have also been encouraged to organize a union. It appears that it is now the Government's avowed policy to direct the workingmen's movements by means of organizations under official control. The president of the club at Nicolayeff is the local chief factory inspector.

Three Lives Were Lost.

Victoria, B.C., Oct. 22.—A telegram received here tells of the wreck of the steamer H. Goddard, running on Lake Labarge, in Northern British Columbia, and a loss of three lives. The only name given in the despatches is that of Charles Edward McDonald of this city, captain of the steamer, who has a widow and children, who are at present in Seattle. The Goddard was owned by the Upper Yukon Consolidated Company of this city.

Burned to Crisp.

Windsor, Oct. 22.—The three-year-old daughter of Pierre Dupont, a well-known farmer, residing in Sandwich East, was left alone by its mother yesterday, and, in some way, obtained a box of matches, which became ignited. The little one's clothing was a mass of flames in an instant, and when the parents arrived soon afterwards, the body had been burned almost to a crisp. The mother is nearly insane with grief.

Fast Atlantic Line.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Lord Strathcona said yesterday that he believed Sir Christopher Furness would submit his proposals for a fast Atlantic steamship line to the Government if the subsidy was suitable. It will be necessary first to improve the St. Lawrence route, so as to make it as safe as possible. Lord Strathcona favors a point in Cape Breton, probably Sydney, as the terminal for the line.

Poison As a Cancer Cure.

Berlin, Oct. 22.—Injections of malarial blood as a cure for cancer are proposed by Professor Frederick Loeffler. Finding that amid tropical conditions most conducive to malarial cancer is of extreme rarity, he was led to the conclusion that when malaria is administered as a therapeutic it acts as a antidote to cancerous disease.

A Singular Suicide.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The failure of Boden Credit Bank at Oedenburg, Hungary, led to a singular suicide. Manager Schladere, whose defalcations caused the failure, made a confession to his wife, who handed him a pistol and advised him to kill himself, which he did. His wife will be arrested as an accessory to the act.

GEN. BULLER RETIRED

Relieved of His Command of the First Army Corps.

SIR REDVERS PUT ON HALF PAY

The Speech He Made Oct. 10 at the Banquet Given in His Honor by the King's Royal Rifles Caused This Decision by Lord Roberts—Dr. Leyds a Person of Secondary Consequence Now.

London, Oct. 23.—Sir Redvers Buller has been relieved of the command of the army corps in consequence of the speech he made on Oct. 10 after the luncheon given in his honor by the King's Royal Rifles, dealing with his famous despatch to General White at Ladysmith. He has been placed on half pay, and General French has been appointed to succeed him.

In the official announcement the War Office says that the Commander-in-Chief, "after full consideration of all the circumstances and the explanations furnished," recommended that General Buller be relieved, which has been done.

The Press on General Buller.

London, Oct. 23.—This morning's papers, almost without exception, sympathize with General Buller. In fact they express so much appreciation of his services to the country that it is easy to see they wish Mr. Brodrick and Lord Roberts had not terminated his professional career. They express, however, the opinion that no other course was possible if public confidence in the administration of the army was not to receive a very severe shock. The Daily News stands alone in its outspoken condemnation of the official decision, and urges General Buller's friends not to rest until they have got Mr. Brodrick out of the War Office.

Leyds Put Down.

London, Oct. 23.—Advices from Brussels states that Dr. Leyds at present occupies a subordinate position to the Boer delegates, Messrs. Fischer, Wessels and Wolmarans, who are now practically supreme in the Boer councils owing to Mr. Kruger's growing age and fatigue. Mr. Kruger was 76 on Oct. 10.

Immediate Boer Reprisals.

New York, Oct. 23.—The Vienna correspondent of The London Times, quotes The Pester Lloyd, which says it learns from The Hague that Mr. Kruger, Dr. Leyds and Messrs. Wolmarans and Fischer have held a council of war at Villa Caracasa to consider what answer is to be made by the Boers to the executions in South Africa. There is said to be no doubt among the Boer leaders that diplomatic protests are inadequate. All present at the meeting, except Mr. Kruger, says the report advised immediate reprisals, that for every Boer prisoner executed a captured British officer be shot. Mr. Kruger opposed this plan on the ground that he did not wish to give the campaign the character of a war between savages, although it had already become a war of extermination.

To Them Dewet Is Alive.

The Hague, Oct. 23.—The former residents of the Transvaal who are now in this city entirely discredit the rumors of the death of General Dewet, emanating from Durban, Natal.

A Far Reaching Decision.

Hamilton, Oct. 23.—In Holden v. G.T.R., a suit for damages brought by Mrs. Holden for the death of her husband, who was an engineer, Judge Falconbridge heard argument yesterday morning.

Mr. Cassels set up that the fact that the deceased had membership in the Grand Trunk Provident Society, and that as the plaintiff had accepted the $250 insurance, it acted as a release of the company from further liability on account of death.

Mr. Staunton took the opposite view.

Judge Falconbridge found that the formation of the Grand Trunk Provident Society, the membership in it of the deceased, and her receipt of the $250, constituted an answer to the action, and the action must be dismissed with costs.

This decision was looked upon as a most important and far-reaching one. It was stated that it would entirely overrule the Workman's Compensation Act in all cases where a company, by a system of insurance, protected its employes, provided the employes took advantage of such insurance.

The case will be appealed.

Miss Laura Doty Found.

London, Oct. 23.—Miss Laura Doty, the handsome young girl who has been missing for over a week, having disappeared while on the way from Amherstburg to Oakville, was arrested here yesterday by Detective Thomas Nickle. The detective met the girl on the streets and recognized her at once from the description which he had received only an hour before. When taken to the police station and questioned by Chief Williams, the girl at once admitted her identity, but refused to make any explanation whatever. Miss Doty's friends in Oakville have been notified. Miss Doty positively declines to be interviewed. John Mason of Oakville has been arrested at the Western Hotel, having been in company with Miss Doty. Mason is a married man.

Dutch Troops Loose Heavily.

The Hague, Oct. 23.—The latest news from the Dutch East Indies is of the most unfavorable character. In Achoen, Sumatra, where a warlike, brave and devoted native tribe has set Dutch aggression at defiance since 1873, there have been vigorous assaults on the Dutch troops, who have lost considerably.

The number of the killed and the wounded on the Dutch side during September has exceeded largely that of any previous month for some years.

From Java come reports of an alarming shortage in the coffee crop, which only amounts to 96,000 piculs (12,700,000 pounds), against 223,000 piculs (29,735,333 pounds) last year.

St. John's Wait.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 23.—The British royal yacht Ophir and her consort are expected to arrive here this morning with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. Elaborate preparations have been made for the reception. More than 500 fishing vessels are here to participate in the festivities.

Closed November 2.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 23.—The Board of Directors of the Pan-American Exposition yesterday afternoon adopted the following:

"Resolved, that Saturday, Nov. 2, at midnight, be fixed as the time of the final closing of the Exposition."

250,000 Bushels a Day.

Winnipeg, Oct. 23.—The weather has been remarkably fine the past few days. The C. P. R. is now carrying wheat to Fort William elevators at the rate of three hundred and fifty thousand bushels per day.

TRIAL OF MRS. WHITE

Accused Woman is Charged with Poisoning Her Husband.

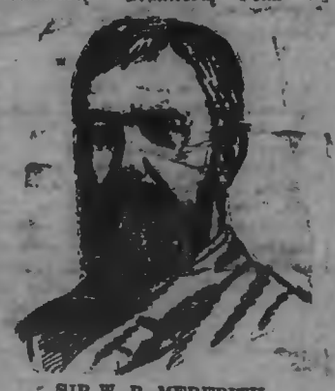
GREAT INTEREST IN THE CASE

Quite a Number of Jurymen Challenged by the Defence—The Panel As It Was Finally Accepted—Mr. Anglin, K. C., for the Crown, States the Case Against the Prisoner—Sir W. R. Meredith, Judge.

Brantford, Oct. 23.—The trial of Mrs. Josephine White, who is accused of the murder of her husband, commenced at the Assize Court at 1.30 yesterday afternoon. The great interest taken in the case was shown by the fact that the court room was crowded. The Crown prosecutor in this case is Mr. F. A. Anglin, K. C., of Toronto, and Mr. L. F. Heyd, K. C., is acting for the prisoner.

Mrs. White was arraigned before the court adjourned Tuesday afternoon and pleaded not guilty. The Crown was ready to proceed yesterday morning, but Chief Justice Meredith preferred that there should be no break in the receiving of evidence, and appointed that the hearing should commence during the afternoon.

The work of selecting a jury commenced at 2 o'clock, Mrs. White having been brought in a few minutes before that time. John Gilbert, farmer, of South Dumfries; Robert Armstrong, laborer, Paris; William Creighton, jr., butcher, Burford; Ellison Cooper, machinist, Brantford; William Dalton, tailor, Brantford; Joseph Broadbent, Charles Carroll, machinist, Brantford; John D.



SIR W. R. MEREDITH.

Grant, clerk, Brantford; James Secord, farmer, Burford; Chris. Eaton, steamfitter, Brantford, were challenged by the defence.

The jurymen accepted for the trial were: Russell Cooper, farmer, Burford; William Bridge, farmer, Burford; Thomas McGrory, farmer, Brantford; Thomas H. Brown, carpenter, Brantford; Alfred Hess, farmer, Burford; William Aulseybrook, farmer, Brantford; Thomas Helliker, farmer, South Dumfries; John Roberts, farmer, Brantford; Walter Ash, farmer, Brantford; C. B. Longstreet, farmer, Brantford; John Detwiler, foreman, Brantford; David Papple, farmer, Brantford.

Mr. Anglin, Crown prosecutor, addressed the jury, referring to the fact that it was a rare thing to find direct evidence in cases of premeditated crime. What had to be taken into consideration were the motive, the opportunity and the means. The facts were not of a complicated character, but they required the closest attention. The circumstances attending the death were then reviewed on behalf of the Crown. There would be evidence adduced to show, he said, that strychnine was the cause of death and to show that the unpleasantness which existed between Mr. and Mrs. White was of a serious character, since witnesses would say that Mrs. White had said that she intended to secure a divorce. There would be evidence to show that the prisoner bought, used and knew the use of arsenic and also that arsenic was found in the remains of the deceased. The Crown did not charge that the arsenic was administered by Mrs. White with murderous intent, but rather to cause an illness which might make the death from strychnine poisoning less suspicious.

Still Exporting Gas.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 23.—Government Inspector Charles Stiff claims to have discovered that natural gas is still going to Detroit from Windsor. He has reported the find to the Ontario Government, and recommended that the Interior Construction Company of Detroit, which imports the gas across the river, and which has a lease of the river bed from the Ontario Government, be ordered to remove its submarine pipes from the Canadian channels. Mr. Stiff returned to Toronto yesterday morning.

Found Dead in the Woods.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Todd, an aged woman of Fallowfield, who was missing since Friday, was found dead yesterday morning in the woods near her home. It is supposed that she went out to gather firewood and succumbed to heart failure.

A. W. Fowler, M.P., Safe.

Hampton, N.B., Oct. 23.—In the Election Court yesterday the petition against the return of A. W. Fowler, M.P., Conservative, was dismissed with costs.

MRS. HULDA JAKEMAN

Wife of President Jakeman of Elders of the Mormon Church, Salt Lake City, Utah, Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound For Woman's Periodic Pains.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A generation has not sufficed to close the "bloody chasm," between the North and South in the United States. President Roosevelt invited a "nigger" to dinner at the White House, and the solid south, south of the "bloody chasm," is up in arms. It seems there never can be a fusion and homogenity between the north and south so long as the colour problem is on the slate unsolved. On this question—and it comprehends political interests, too—there is apparently no hope of a compromise. The line of demarcation is as sharp as it was forty years ago.

Corporations are said to have no souls and according to Belleville's Police Magistrate, they cannot commit the moral offence of Sabbath breaking. He has dismissed the charge laid against the Trent Valley Paper Company for requiring or allowing their employees to work on Sunday on the grounds that the Act does not apply to corporations. Then according to this ruling all that is needed to make universal Sabbath-breaking a safe enterprise, is to organize joint stock companies for the purpose.

The Buffalo Express naturally takes comfort in the fact that while the Pan-American Exposition has not paid expenses, it has helped to bring about good feeling among the peoples of the American continent, has extended knowledge, and given pleasure. There are things better than money gain, but, unfortunately, one can't discount moral advantage at the bank, and moral success is in the minds of the average Yankee a mighty poor equivalent for cold cash. How comes it that the greatest nation on earth made a financial failure of an exposition which a city of an effete and crumbling monarchy made the Glasgow exposition a howling success? Glasgow will make half a million clear profit out of its exposition. It evidently pays better to be solid and slow, than swift and showy.

"Protection," says an American exchange, "like many other developments of man's selfishness, is a most shortsighted and dangerous fallacy. It has led to the monopolies by which vast interests are now consolidated and the markets controlled."

A temporary fillip to prosperity doesn't prove that the protective principle is right. The aftermath of poisonous weeds, like monopolies, trusts and combines, makes the cost of an apparent good crop too great. The directors of the Pan-American Exposition when they counted on Sunday night the cash gains of Sunday opening of the Exposition, thought no doubt that a wide open Sunday was a paying thing. Now the fair is a loss, while the Glasgow Exhibition which was closed hermetically on Sundays comes out with a big profit. Cause and effect may not be involved in either case but they serve to illustrate and suggest the fact that principle alone is paramount and that expediency has, if any, only an ephemeral success. This applies in every other sphere and why not in trade?

MR. GIBSON AT FERGUS.

E. Wellington Trusts Her Representative.

THE LIBERAL RECORD

A Review of Recent Legislation.

COMPANIES NOT FAVOURED.

The Settlement and Development of New Ontario—Reference to Mr. Whitney's Utterances.

Fergus, Oct. 21.—Hon. J. M. Gibson, Attorney-General of Ontario, tonight addressed a splendid meeting of the electors of East Wellington in the town hall here. His speech was a masterly review of the record of the Liberal Government, and the frequency with which he was applauded showed how thoroughly his constituents, who have honoured him by asking him to again lead them in the coming election, appreciated the clarity and force of what he said. The chair was occupied by Mr. James Argo, and on the platform were seated Messrs. Hugh Guthrie, M. P., Guelph; Andrew Semple, ex-M.P., Fergus, and Stephen Springer, Elora, Warden of Wellington County. The Attorney-General was the first speaker.

HON. J. M. GIBSON.

Mr. Gibson was received with great heartiness when he rose to address his constituents. He first thanked them for the unanimous nomination tendered him at the convention. When he first entered the constituency in 1898 the understanding was that the representation should be given to him for the balance of the Parliamentary term, and he then gave the assurance that a nomination for a further term would not be sought by him. That assurance had been lived up to by him in good faith, and the consideration that it might be thought he was seeking to make himself solid for a second nomination had deterred him from making as many visits to the constituency as he would have liked to make. There was much excellent material in the constituency from whom a selection could have been made, and he was not without some misgivings that his connection with the constituency might stand in the way of some aspirants for Parliamentary honours. The invitation of the convention seemed to him, however, to come with such a degree of unanimity as to justify his immediate acceptance in response to the telegraphic message sent from the president of the association, asking his reply on the afternoon of the convention. The honour of having represented East Wellington had been greatly appreciated by him. It could safely be said, without flattery and without any insincerity on his part, that East Wellington stood second to no constituency in the Province in the material advantages it enjoyed as an agricultural section of the country, and certainly not as regards the solid, sterling and intelligent qualities of the people.

MR. WHITNEY'S UTTERANCES

He had had some difficulty in deciding on what subjects to speak. Mr. Whitney recently made a speech in Toronto which it was said was intended for the whole province. The most striking characteristics of that speech were its enormous length and its remarkable thinness. Eliminating the worn-out diatribes about West Elgin and North Waterloo, and the extracts from The Farmers' Sun and other newspapers, and making a substraction of items of policy taken with colourable variations from Mr. Ross' speeches, and laboured efforts to show that because some time or other someone on that side of the House had said something or other consistent with some of the numerous items of the business policy of the Ross Government, therefore the Government were stealing the Tory policy, there was not much left of the speech. He did not propose to follow Mr. Whitney throughout his speech, but would naturally answer some of his statements before he concluded. Col. Gibson devoted a great part of his speech to the important Department of Crown Lands, over which he presided at the time he first came into the constituency, and which has played such an important part in the policy of development which is making such strides in new Ontario. He reminded his hearers that under his administration of the department considerable interest had been taken in the development of the pulpwood industry. Regulations had been framed similar in regard to home manufacture, to the pine cutting regulations, but with conditions calling for the establishment of extensive industries for the manufacture of pulp, which must result in the encouragement of agriculture in the surrounding country. He explained the rental conditions on which concessions were granted, and the regulations giving the Governor in Council power to fix rates in cases where other parties desired to obtain power from the lessees of waters powers. The Government charged a rate of 40 cents a cord on all pulpwood cut, and could at any time increase the rental. He indicated on the map the places where these industries are being established, pointing out the immense possibilities of development that they opened up by the exploitation of the 289,000,000 of cords of pulp timber which the Government exploring parties estimated exists in northern Ontario.

NEW ONTARIO.

Mr. Gibson spoke with some detail of the resources of New Ontario, pointing out on the map the location of the most important features and resources, so that his hearers were able to very readily grasp the importance of the subject. He enlarged on the immense mineral development that is now taking place, and pointed out that in the third division of the Province, north of the height of land there are 80,000 square miles of fertile land well adapted for wheat raising and general agriculture. He also explained the Government's policy of constructing a Government railway through this north land, which would serve to regulate the rates charged for all time to the thousands of settlers who would in the future people the great north land. Turning to the general timber policy of the Government, he refuted the claims of Conservative leaders that the policy of requiring the manufacture of timber in Ontario had been originated by them, and forced on the Government. Mr. Whitney had not announced any policy on the question until the legislation had been foreshadowed in the speech from the throne. Then Mr. Whitney became frantic and stated that he was prepared to legislate the next morning. He soon went the length of insisting that the Government policy should be made to apply to the logs cut under the outstanding annual licenses. Had this policy been adopted, the Province would have incurred most serious obligations to license holders, for whatever right the Province may have to vary the conditions it was not contended by the strongest advocates of the manufacturing conditions among Ontario lumbermen that we should interfere with operations under the then outstanding annual licenses by imposing these conditions. This simply illustrated Mr. Whitney's habit of, whenever he found the Government pursuing a course which was calculated to please the public, going them one better. In this case his policy of going one better would have been detrimental to the best interests of the province from every point of view.

CORPORATIONS NOT FAVOURED.

Col. Gibson devoted some time to a refutation of the charge made by Conservative speakers and journals, without the slightest foundation, that the Ontario Government unduly favoured corporations. "We deny," he said, "that we have unduly favoured corporations or companies, or that to any extent or in any sense, any corporation or company, or corporations or companies have acquired any special or undue influence with the Government. We owe no corporation or company anything beyond the obligation which we owe every individual in the community, the right to be heard and the right to fair and just treatment. To that they are entitled, and more than that they have not had. The number of companies which have during recent years been incorporated has been unprecedently large. A spirit of enterprise has manifested itself in the formation of companies all over the Province, for manufacturing, mining and trading purposes. Everyone is glad that this is so. It is a sign of progress. It means the development of our natural resources, on which the future development of Ontario will largely depend. Then there have been numerous railway companies and street railway companies chartered and companies for the development of electric light and power. In nearly every town will be found a system of electric lighting provided by local companies, generally composed of the most enterprising citizens of the community. Ordinary railway companies are chartered by special acts of the Legislature, and all those other companies apply for and obtain their charters of incorporation under general acts to be found among our revised statutes, and obtain only such powers and rights as are warranted by the general laws of the province. It has never been charged that in dealing with applications for charters the Provincial Secretary's Department, which primarily deals with these applications, or the Government has acted otherwise than on the general principles adopted in all cases, and with strict fairness and impartiality.

MUNICIPALITIES' POWERS.

"Between certain classes of companies and the communities where they operate questions do undoubtedly arise and conflict of interests manifests itself. In case of companies chartered for the promotion or operation of what may be termed public utilities, such as gas or water companies, electric light or power companies, and street railway companies, questions frequently arise between the municipal councils and such companies. Indeed, the company's charter as a rule is of less importance than the municipal bylaw setting forth the terms and conditions under which the city, town or village, as the case may be, permits the company to operate, and local communities very properly through their municipal councils, view with much jealousy the placing in the hands of a few individuals who have become incorporated as a company monopolies of these public utilities. They are called monopolies, inasmuch as in many cases from the nature of the circumstances there cannot be competition, or at all events effective competition. No doubt, in some instances valuable franchises have been granted under municipal bylaws without the interests of the public being amply protected, but these are matters of dealing between the companies and the municipalities, over which the Government exercises no control. The laws of the Province for many years past have given the municipalities the right to establish under municipal controls systems of waterworks, and also of lighting and heating by gas.

THE CONMEE AMENDMENT.

"A few years ago power was conferred to establish electric lighting systems under municipal control, and then serious questions arose as to the exercise of this power in cities, towns or villages where there already existed systems of lighting provided by private enterprise, whether as incorporated or unincorporated companies. Manifestly it would be grossly unfair where by private enterprise a system of lighting sufficient for the purpose of a town or village has been established with the consent and authority of the municipality that a competing system should be established by the town or village, depriving the company not only of the public lighting contract, but perhaps of a large proportion of its business with private consumers. This would mean confiscation and ruin of private enterprises, unjustifiable disregard of principles of equity and fair dealing. To meet such cases the amendments to the municipal act known as the Conmee clauses, because the bill containing the provisions was introduced by the member for West Algoma, provide that the Municipal Council shall, before establishing the municipal water, light or heating plant, as the case may be, purchase the existing system, the price or compensation being fixed by arbitration where not mutually agreed to. The basis of valuation in such a case is a very important matter, and I have yet to learn that in the clauses in question, to which the late Premier Hardy gave a great deal of personal attention, anyone had ever suggested that partiality has been shown to the companies. The interests of the public have been most carefully and effectively guarded. Questions of policy as between the alternatives of public control on the one hand and public ownership of the public utilities to which I have been referring, on the other hand, have been by our legislation left to the decision of the communities interested. Large powers have been conferred on the municipal councils demanded by the voice of public opinion, and the growing tendency of public opinion is in the direction of public ownership, and in no sense can it be said that either the Government or the Liberal party has stood in the way of or discouraged this tendency for the benefit or advantage of companies or private corporations."

THE SCRAP-IRON ASSESSMENT.

Col. Gibson then reviewed the history of the scrap-iron assessment, showing that the decision of the court was responsible for the unsatisfactory state of affairs that existed for some time. There had never been legislation relieving any of the companies from taxation burdens. On the contrary, large additional burdens had been imposed on all these companies by the act of 1898 to supplement the revenues of the Province. He assured the audience that the form of bill prepared by the Assessment Commissioners and introduced by the Premier had been held over until the next session, not, as Mr. Whitney alleged, owing to pressure from the corporations, but simply and solely to allow ample opportunity to the Municipal Councils and the country to consider the bearing and effect of the provisions proposed by the commissioners. Mr. Gibson countered on his opponents by pointing out that Mr. Whitney and his followers voted against the bill providing for the taxation of corporations.

LIBERAL LEGISLATION.

He entered upon a general review of the legislation of the Liberal Government, showing that it had been wise and progressive, while in their administration they had been equally fortunate. Not a charge of corruption had been made in connection with the administration of any department of the Government. He pointed with pride to the educational system of Ontario, and to the financial position of the Province, which he contrasted with that of Quebec and other Provinces. In speaking of election frauds, Mr. Gibson said that the persistency with which Mr. Whitney harped on this subject showed the weakness of his general attack on the Government. While two blacks did not make one white, he pointed out some of the glaring instances of electoral corruption that have been brought home to the Conservative party in the Dominion, quoting from the notorious circular of instructions issued to Tory workers. "We have," said Col. Gibson, "not a word to say in palliation or excuse of any electorial wrongdoing in West Elgin or North Waterloo. The election courts at once remedied the wrongs, but one's faith in the genuineness of Mr. Whitney's moral indignation is not strengthened very much by the blind apathy and indifference he has always displayed with reference to the iniquitous record of his party. Some might accuse him of hypocrisy. I prefer to consider the course he has adopted the matured result of his notions of the best way of achieving a little party capital or advantage." Mr. Gibson concluded with an eloquent tribute to the statesmanlike qualities of the Premier, who in the coming election would make his first appeal to the people.

Brief addresses were delivered by Messrs. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., Andrew Semple, ex-M.P., and S. Springer, Warden of the County. The meeting broke up with hearty cheers.

HERE'S A HEART POINTER

No beating about the bush for Aaron Nichols—he believes Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart cured his wife, and he says so straight.

"This is to certify that I bought two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart for my wife who has been for twenty years a great sufferer from Heart Disease. She had more benefit from it than from all the doctors that have attended her, and I am pleased to give this certificate of its wonderful curative powers."

CRUELTY IN PHILIPPINES.

American Soldier Who Shot Four Children Playing on the Road Will Be Hanged.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The records in 20 court martial cases, wherein the charge was murder, have been received at the War Department from Philippines. In the majority of cases the headquarters of division of the sentences of death by hanging were imposed and approved. All of them bore features of unusual barbarity and cruelty, in some so marked as to warrant special mention.

From the records in one of the cases, it would appear that depravity in the Philippines is not confined to the Filipinos. Harry Cline, employed as a teamster by the United States army, while stationed at Paranaque, P. I., took a bicycle ride into the country one day, and came upon four small native boys gathering grass.

"While there was no other apparent motive than natural depravity," says General Chaffee, "he proceeded to shoot these boys with his revolver, wounding three and killing the fourth. He was sentenced to be hanged."

Uncle Sam Has His Troubles.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The Navy Department has received the following from Rear-Admiral Rodgers:

"Cavite, Oct. 22.—Active insurrection in Samar, New York leaves to-day for Catbalogan with 300 marines to return to Basey and Balangiga to co-operate with army. Nearly all naval force concentrated on Samar patrol. Services Arethusa and Zafiro, two colliers, needed and being utilized. (Signed) Rodgers."

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way also the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half-digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant, and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless, digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular, persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal times will cure any form of stomach trouble, except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets are sold by druggists at 50 cents. A little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Michigan.

Mr. Massey's Condition.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—The condition of Mr. Walter E. H. Massey was a little improved yesterday morning, but he is still critically ill, and has only a bare fighting chance for recovery. On Monday night his life was despaired of, and it was thought that he would not live until morning. Last night the report handed out by the physicians was that the improvement in the morning had continued throughout the day.

Fear New Chinese Revolt.

London, Oct. 23.—European merchants in Hong Kong and Shanghai are convinced that there will be a renewal of the disturbances in China at no distant period, according to General A. W. Gresly, who is at present in London, homeward bound from the Philippines.

A TARIFF QUESTION

Preference to New South Wales May Be Withdrawn.

THE QUESTION ONE OF POLICY

The Whole Government Must, Therefore Act in Determining Its Settlement—Matter Has Been Engaging Attention of Minister of Customs—How the Preference Was Granted.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—The point which has been raised as to whether New South Wales is entitled to continue in the enjoyment of the tariff preference extended to her by Canada, now that she has been merged into the Australian Commonwealth with its proposed protective tariff, is exciting considerable interest in official circles at the capital. For some days past the matter has been engaging the attention of the Minister of Customs, but Mr. Paterson declines to express any opinion upon it, the question being one of policy, which must be determined by the Government as a whole. New South Wales obtained the concession when she enjoyed all the constitutional powers and privileges of a self-governing colony and had a separate existence of her own. Her customs tariff then was so low as to conform to the requirements of the first clause in the Canadian tariff, which provides that the British preference may be accorded to any other British colony or possession the customs tariff of which is on the whole as favorable to Canada as the British preferential tariff is to such colony or possession. The aspect of affairs, however, would appear to be completely changed now that New South Wales is federated with the rest of Australia, and part of a Commonwealth which is seeking to put in force a fairly high scale of duties against the outside world. The cabled despatches relating to the fiscal policy of the Commonwealth, however, are so meagre that until complete official information has been furnished it will be very difficult to estimate the probable consequences of the change. For example, a new tariff has been proposed for Australia, but no person here knows what the duties are to be or when they are to take effect. Officials are equally at a loss to know what the precise position of New South Wales will be in future, but it is taken for granted that the new tariff will be common to all the former colonies. The question also arises as to whether the New South Wales tariff has ceased to operate, and, if not, when it no longer takes effect. These are matters upon which the Dominion Government seemingly would require information before it sat down to consider its future policy with respect to Australia. What the Government may do it is of course impossible to predict at the present stage, seeing that there has not been any opportunity for the Cabinet to consider the matter. Some people affect to believe that as a preliminary the tariff preference to New South Wales will be abrogated, leaving this Government free to treat with the Commonwealth as a whole. This may or may not be the first step taken. In the case of a great sister colony, however, it would seem to be desirable that friendly negotiations should precede any tariff legislation. Should it turn out that Australia has adopted a protective tariff which excludes Canadian products, such action would of course be regarded with great disfavor in the Dominion. Nevertheless no harm would result from an interchange of views concerning trade matters between the two countries. Possibly an offer to extend the British preference to the whole of Australia might be a good thing, and might result in substantial concessions to Canada.

England Gets a Setback.

Constantinople, Oct. 23.—The Sultan has refused to sign the convention giving to England a local foothold at Koweyt, the proposed terminal of the Bagdad Railway.

London, Oct. 23.—Official news from Constantinople must always be accepted with a mental reservation, and not believed until corroborated from some more reliable source. But if this announcement be true it is likely to bring to a crisis the trouble that has been brewing in the Persian Gulf.

Big Seizure of Furs.

Montreal, Oct. 23.—A thousand dollars' worth of mink skins and coon tails, belonging to the Russian Fur Company of Montreal, have been seized by the United States Customs authorities at Rouse's Point, it being alleged that the goods were undervalued. The firm claim that they were valued at what they paid for them, and state that they will carry the matter to the higher officials at Washington.

Appeal Direct to the Czar.

Stockholm, Oct. 22.—The Finnish Senate has decided to forward to the Czar the people's great petition against the new army law promulgated by Russia. It was feared that the Senate would deny the right of the people of Finland to petition the Government. The petition, which is couched in caustic language, will now be read by the Czar, and his answer will be awaited with much interest.

INSPECTOR ARMSTRONG DEAD.

Toronto Officer Took Overdose of Strychnine to Induce Sleep.

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Police Inspector Robert Armstrong is dead as the result of an overdose of strychnine, which he took about midnight in the form of a sleeping powder. Despite all efforts of the physicians the popular officer passed away at 12.55 this morning. Deceased was 58 years of age, a native of Ireland, and was one of the oldest and most respected officers on the force. He was an active church worker. He is survived by his widow, three sons and one daughter. One son is Rev. G. A. Armstrong of Waterloo.

OTTAWA MAN WHO WRITES THIS TIME

Grants Full Permission to use His Name in Behalf of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Was in the Clutch of Bright's Disease—Suffered all the Symptoms of This Fearful Malady—But he Took Dodd's Kidney Pills in Time.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—Special. — A fortunate young man is Frank Chartrand of this city, for by the merest chance he was saved from that modern curse so dreaded by doctors, Bright's Disease, the incurable malady of the kidneys.

The story of Mr. Chartrand's escape from this dreadful disease is best told in his own words.

"I had been greatly troubled by my Kidneys for two years since having a dose of the grip. I suffered with headache and always felt drowsy and very heavy in the limbs, with frequent severe headache and oftener still severe pains in the top of my head, which prevented me doing my work as I would like to do. Often my fingers and legs would cramp, and occasionally I felt pains in my loins and a very dizzy feeling with shortness of breath and pain in side. Sometimes I would eat very good meals and other times I would take a biscuit and a cup of tea and that would finish my meal. I had tender spot over the back of the spine and felt very tired in the region of the kidneys, with a dragging heavy feeling across the loins, in short there was no doubt I was suffering from Bright's Disease.

"I kept taking the medicines the doctors gave me all this time but they did me no good. A few weeks ago I chanced to tell a friend that I had given up hope.

"Why don't you try Dodd's Kidney Pills?" he told me.

"I went directly to the drug store and got three boxes which I have used and which have so much improved my health that without hesitation I say I am sure it is but a matter of a short time till I become completely and permanently cured."

About Shamrock III.

Glasgow, Oct. 23.—Sir Thomas Lipton, while desiring to avoid monopolizing the British side of the America's Cup contests, has already taken a step towards a third contest for the trophy. Captain Robert Wringe had a long conference with Mr. Fife, jr., as to whether he would undertake designing the Shamrock III. for a series of races in 1902. It is understood that Mr. Fife considered the time too short to do his best work, but was willing to design a challenger to race in the autumn of 1903. No absolute arrangements can be made until Sir Thomas Lipton arrives, but there is little doubt that a challenge will be sent.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

Blew Hole Through His Body.

Dauphin, Oct. 22.—Archie McFayden, engineer of a threshing engine, was instantly killed on Thursday afternoon. He was in the act of backing the engine to the separator to couple up to move. He backed too far, and was jammed, some steam valves were broken and the escaping steam blew a hole into his body and almost cooked him before the engine could be moved up. He was 25 years old and unmarried. His remains were shipped home to Sherbrooke for burial.

Social Bible Club.

The first annual meeting of this most successful organization of the Y.M.C.A. was held last evening, being largely attended. Cheering reports for the year were given by the secretary, Mr. L. Johnston, and club director, Mr. Manning. The following are the new officers: — Hon. Director, G. H. Williamson; Director, J. Manning; Vice-Director, A. Upton; Secretary, L. Johnston; Librarian, M. Miller; Treasurer, E. Carr; Executive Officers, H. Kingscott, W. Faux and R. Duncan.

THE ROYAL CHORUS.

The Concert Will be Given for the Purpose of Raising Funds for the Purchase of Colours.

A very large and enthusiastic practice was held at the Y.M.C.A. last night and the handsome souvenir programmes were distributed to the choir.

It was unanimously voted to devote the proceeds of the coming concert in equal proportions to the Children's Aid Society and the fund being raised for the purchase of new colours for the 57th Regiment.

The date of the concert had to be left open for a few days owing to the difficulty in obtaining a sufficiently large hall, but this will be arranged and a definite date announced in a day or so.

Meantime the chorus is requested to meet again for practice at the Odd Fellows' Hall, corner of George and Hunter streets, on Tuesday next at 8 p.m. sharp.

AT GILMOUR MEMORIAL.

The Anniversary Services Were Very Successful—Concert and Entertainment.

The anniversary services in connection with Gilmour Memorial church were held on Sunday and concluded last night. As is usually the case with the anniversary services in connection with Gilmour Memorial church the affair proved to be highly successful and realized a neat little sum towards the funds of the church.

The special sermons were preached on Sunday by Rev. Mr. McGreggor, of Western Ontario.

Last night the annual tea and concert was held and was exceptionally well attended. The attendance included people from every part of the township of Smith and several 'bus loads from town. The tea was, of course, served in the basement of the church, and was supplied and superintended by the ladies of the congregation, who, as is well known, have a record for their ability in this line. At eight o'clock the entertainment in the body of the church opened, the chair being occupied by Rev. W. A. Gunton. In opening the proceedings he announced that the proceeds of the tea amounted to $75. Rev. J. H. Hanna, of Park street Baptist church, followed with prayer, and the musical portion of the programme opened with a selection by the choir.

Rev. Mr. Hanna was called upon for a short address, which he gave in a good humoured style, and in which he congratulated the church upon the success of their anniversary services. Mrs. Dr. Morgan rendered a solo quite acceptably, which was followed by an address by Rev. Mr. McGreggor. He intimated in opening his remarks that he would make an old fashioned tea meeting address which, for the first few minutes, he did, keeping the audience in excellent humour. Continuing with his remarks he spoke on the subject "Sow a thought reap an action; sow an action reap a habit; sow a habit reap a destiny." The points taken from this subject were forcible, and those in attendance should be greatly benefitted thereby. In conclusion he congratulated the church upon the great success of their anniversary services.

A very excellently rendered number was that by the ladies' quartette, the title of the selection being "Praise the Lord." This was followed by a vocal solo by Miss Bickle, of Lakefield, her number being entitled "Hello Central." She was compelled to respond again. Mrs. Dr. Morgan gave a reading and before the closing selection Rev. Mr. Gunton, pastor of Gilmour Memorial, thanked, on behalf of himself and his church, those who were present, for their attendance, those who had helped so ably in getting up the tea and concert, the choir for their splendid services, and the others who had assisted so willingly in the programme. All appeared to have thoroughly enjoyed themselves and in fact the only way for each person to enjoy himself is by seeing that everyone else is having a good time.

A selection by the choir followed by a prayer brought the entertainment to a close. Altogether the anniversary services of Gilmour Memorial were highly successful and thoroughly enjoyed by those who attended them.

FUR STORE ENTERED.

Mr. Fred Clarke's Establishment Broken Into During the Night.

Sometime during last night burglars entered the Hat and Fur Store of Mr. Fred Clark, George street, and carried off a quantity of furs. An entrance was gained through the window in the rear of the store which was left wide open by the intruder after taking his departure. The burglary was first noticed by Mr. Henderson, Mr. Clarke's head salesman, when he came down in the morning. Furs were misplaced and there were other indications that someone had entered the store during the night. Mr. Clarke, the proprietor of the establishment, is in Toronto, and it will not be exactly known until his return what articles are missing, but it is believed that a lady's Persian Lamb coat is amongst the articles taken.

The matter was reported to the police, but as yet there is no clue as to the guilty parties.

THE APPLE CROP.

Government Fruit Inspector Lick in Town—Crop is Very Light.

Mr. Elmer Lick, Government Fruit Inspector, of Oshawa, is in town today, for the purpose of ascertaining if the fruit packed in this section for export, is done according to the regulations of the Act, the principal clauses of which are as follows:

Every person who, by himself or through the agency of another person, packs fruit in a close package, intended for sale, shall cause the package to be marked in a plain and indelible manner, before it is taken from the premises where it is packed,—

1.—With the initials of the Christian names, and the full surname and address of the packer;

2.—With the name of the variety or varities; and

3.—With the designation of the grade of the fruit.

No person shall sell, or offer, expose or have in his possession for sale any fruit packed in a close package, upon which package is marked any designation which represents such fruit as of finest, best or extra good quality, unless such fruit consists of well-grown specimens of one variety, sound, of nearly uniform size, of good colour for the variety, of normal shape and not less than ninety per cent. free from scab, worm holes, bruises and other defects, and properly packed.

No person shall sell, or offer, expose or have in his possession for sale, any fruit packed in any package in which the faced or shown surface gives a false representation of the contents of such package; and it shall be considered a false representation when more than 15 per cent. of such fruit is substantially smaller in size than, or inferior in grade to, or different in variety from, the faced or shown surface of such package.

The object of the Act is to keep up the reputation of Canadian fruit in the English market.

Mr. Lick states that the crop of apples is very light in his district, which lies east of Toronto. The shipment will be fairly heavy from Brighton, Colborne and Prince Edward, but nowhere is there more than half a crop this season.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

It Will be Held in Norwood on Friday and Saturday.

The annual convention of the teachers of Peterborough county, will be held in Norwood next Friday and Saturday, October 25 and 26.

No doubt most of the teachers will go down by the Thursday evening train, as the Friday forenoon session is important and interesting.

If there are ten or more to go on Thursday evening the fare will be reduced. Tickets to be procured at the station.

Not only teachers, but the general public, are welcome at these conventions. The convention promises to be interesting, successful and well attended. It opens at 9 o'clock sharp each day. Mr. Kindred of Havelock is president, and Mr. M. W. Matchett, of Ashburnham, is secretary-treasurer.

MECHANICAL DRAWING CLASS.

The attendance at the drawing class at the Y.M.C.A. is increasing rapidly. It is again in charge of Mr. W. H. Collier, B.A., chief draftsman, C.G.E. Company

Mr. Collier's ability as an experienced draftsman is well known, as he had charge of the class last year, and is fully aware of the needs of the students.

Mr. Clift is a draftsman and engineer of vast experience, having been connected with several firms in England, with the General Electric of Schenectay and the Algoma Iron Works, at the Soo.

With two hours a night for two nights a week, Mondays and Wednesdays, under such able instructors, we feel that the class will obtain superior advantages in drafting to that given in any school or college in Canada. As drafting is one of the most important branches of technical education, every young mechanic or student in town who desires to become an engineer should take advantage of this opportunity. Those who do should join now, so as to obtain all the notes on engineering given in the talks by the instructors.

The class is open to all men, whether whether members of the Association or not. Full particulars can be had at the Y.M.C.A.

ADVERTISING THE TOWN.

The Lift Lock Envelope Plan—Success of Alderman Rush's Scheme.

The business men of the town are now using in their business correspondence envelopes bearing on the face a fine sectional view of the Trent Valley Canal lift lock, as it appears completed—the only one of its kind on the continent. The idea of using the picture of this lock for this purpose originated with Alderman Rush, and was endorsed by the Council, but to Mr. Rush must be given the credit of bringing the project to a successful issue. The envelope under remark has, as has been intimated, on the face a fine cut of the lift lock, with the superscription, "Largest Lift Lock in the World," and on the observe flap a condensed summary of the advantages offered by the town to manufacturers and tourists, and it constitutes an excellent advertisement of the capabilities of the town.

Alderman Rush is not much of a "spouter" at Council meetings, but he has a level head, and his counsels are always mixed with common sense, and a shrewd business practicality. The town has been advertised in many ways, but it is safe to say in no more effective way than in the distribution of 150,000 of the Lift Lock envelopes, brought through the correspondence of our business men under the notice of prominent business men throughout the Dominion. It is only fair to mention that it is largely due to Mr. Rush's quiet enterprise that these envelopes have been so largely adopted, and made the medium of so extensive and excellent an advertisement of the facilities of the town.

Mr. Harry Neil's Party has Returned—Splendid Luck.

The Steamer Rob Roy returned Saturday evening with Harry Neil's duck shooting party. The shooters had good luck the last half of the week, as the weather was more favourable for them. Baptiste Odette and Sam Courier tried hard to beat the Duke's record, and killed 39 ducks in an hour and a half. Altogether the party got 84 ducks for the week and 3 partridge, also Mr. Tivey's dog brought them a pair of rabbits, so that the party had a good week's outing.

Mr. Chris. Woods, of the Bank of Commerce, accompanied by Dan Holland, of the McAllister Milling Co., have got the hunting lodge for this week.

DAN SPENCE MEMORIAL.

(To the Editor of the Examiner.)

Dear Sir,—Your daily issue of the 18th inst. contains the report of a meeting held in the council chamber on Thursday evening the 17th, inst., of the "Dan. Spence Memorial Fund."

We, as subscribers to the fund, wish to state the case from our point of view and is as follows:

First—It was decided at a public meeting that the memorial should be an ambulance.

Second—That the ambulance was to be presented to the town—a free gift.

Third—The town was to accept it and place the same in the fire hall or some other convenient place and the town horses were to be used in drawing the ambulance whenever required, free of expense to the citizens.

Now, Mr. Editor, it was upon this understanding that subscriptions were solicited and obtained, and nothing has occurred since to change the position. Everyone will allow that the way our sick people are carted around at present is a disgrace to the town. They are moved about in trucks, carts, lumber wagons, express vans, cabs and buggies, in fact, anything on wheels, and it makes no difference whether it is smallpox, diptheria, typhoid fever or broken limbs, the same cab, after taking a patient to the Hospital perhaps with some infectious disease, will immediately afterwards be used in drawing passengers to and from the railway stations. Accidents happening at any of our numerous factories, the unfortunate victims generally has to find his or her way home the best way they can, be they men, women, boys or girls.

The fact that Aaron Comstock has bought an ambulance does not alter the case in any way. Mr. Comstock purchased an ambulance as a business investment, and his charge of $1.00 a trip is more money than the poor employee earning small wages can afford to pay.

Mr. Dumble and Mr. Fair, wealthy men, would no doubt in case of need use the Comstock outfit, but what we want is a free service for the benefit of the poor and our working men especially, in case of accidents at any of the various factories in town.

We have already protested against the money subscribed and paid by the employees of the Auburn Woollen Co. being diverted to any other purpose than that originally intended, and we purpose standing by that protest.

We are informed that $800 will buy a suitable ambulance, and the fund is reported to be some $450. The additional money we are sure can easily be collected.

Mr. Williamson is the originator of the Ambulance scheme. We feel confident that this matter will be brought to a successful issue.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Signed on behalf of the Auburn Woollen Co's. Employees.—James Burnit, T. E. Kendry, Richard J. Chowen, V. P. Thewlis, Walter Anderson, Charles Dunn.

IN LATEST SPORTING CIRCLES

The Rugby Men and Their Annual Dance.

London Trying to Work the O. R. F. U. Executive—Other Spring Notes.

RUGBY.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough Rugby Club was held in the office of Messrs. Poussette & McWilliams last night, when the following members were in attendance: Messrs. R. F. McWilliams, President; Hal. B. Burnham, A. W. McPherson, Dr. Scott, V. McWilliams, H. R. H. Kenner, C. M. Paterson, W. Crowley, Herb Wood and E. S. Clarry.

The secretary-treasurer gave a statement of the finances of the club, which proved to be very satisfactory.

Arrangements for the match on Saturday afternoon between Toronto and Peterborough were fully gone into.

The matter of the annual dance came up for discussion, and it was decided advisable to make a start at once towards getting up the same.

Messrs. R. F. McWilliams, A. W. McPherson, Hal. Burnham, Dr. Scott, Victor McWilliams and E. S. Clarry were appointed a provisional committee for the purpose of obtaining information as to dates, and finding out if possible what team from out of town can visit Peterborough on the date of the dance. The committee will report to the executive on Friday night.

A discussion then took place regarding the matter of new athletic grounds. It is not any secret that Peterborough is sadly in need of new athletic grounds, and as the Rugby Club is generally looked upon as the premier athletic organization of the town, it was felt that they should take the initiative in the matter. Accordingly Messrs. R. F. McWilliams and H. R. H. Kenner were appointed a committee to confer with the other clubs of the town and see what preliminary steps might be taken towards furnishing a suitable new athletic grounds at the disposal of the Peterborough public. It is believed that if representatives from the different clubs would unite in the matter the scheme might be easily accomplished.

The executive will meet on Friday night again.

At It Again.

The boys had a fair practice last night. The turn out was very good and a short skirmish in the drill shed was held. They then took their usual run, and returned to their dressing room in the "Y." The boys enjoy a good bath each night of practice.

This afternoon they will hold a grand practice on the P. A. A. A. grounds. Every man is supposed to be out. The personnel of the team will most likely be the same as last Saturday with the exception that Scott will replace Armstrong. Of course the team committee has not handed out its slate yet, but the impression exists that this will be the only change. The team is in the best of spirits and can scarcely wait until Saturday.

London's "Game."

The London Rugby Club has issued a manifesto to the sporting public in which they intimate that there is a very great probability of their dropping out of the series. Should London drop out of course it would not cause much surprise, as they have in the past proved themselves unsportsmanlike enough to do almost anything. But the London club has no intention of quitting the series. They have a bigger dodge in view. They know that their opponents in the finals for the championship of the Intermediate Series of the O.R.F.U. will be Peterborough; they know further that the final game should, and in fact will, be played in Peterborough, and the deplorable way they sent up on Monday was merely for the purpose of creating sympathy for them in the hope that the final game might be ordered to be played in London. They protest that they have only had one match in their city this year, and that therefore they have little or no means of collecting finances; but London must understand that if the other towns in western Ontario defaulted to them, it is believed that is was because of the unfair treatment generally dealt out to a visiting team to the Forest City. London Rugbyists alone are to blame, so they need not attempt to hoodwink the O.R.F.U. executive with any such despatches as they are now sending out. Peterborough went to London last year, they went twice, in fact, and this year, should the locals win from Toronto on Saturday the Londoners will come east for a change.

How They Took It.

The Ottawa Free Press refers to Saturday's game here as follows:

"The Ottawa Intermediate fifteen are out of the race for honours in the Intermediate series of the Ontario Rugby Union. In Peterborough, Saturday, they were defeated by 7 points to 4. This gives Peterborough the round, as Ottawa only defeated them here by one point. The total of both matches is—Peterborough 7, Ottawa 5.

The match Saturday was hard fought from start to finish.

The grounds were perfect, but are on the top of a hill where the players get the benefit of all the wind that is blowing. Saturday it was blowing a gale.

The hard luck of the locals started at the toss, which was won by Peterborough. Play commenced with the benefit of the gale, and Ottawa was forced to play a scrimmage game. Orders were given to the backs not to kick. Peterborough secured two rouges and then kicked over the line again. Hutton started to run out with the ball but when he found the could not succeed he kicked. The kick was blocked and a touchdown was secured. The goal was not made. A rouge was added to Peterborough's total before the call of time. In the second half the wind died away considerably. The Ottawa backs started a kicking game, but the halves of Peterborough put up phenomenal play. Ottawa secured four rouges and then Peterborough commenced to hold them. The ball for twenty minutes was in Peterborough territory, but the Ottawa's could not get over. The Ottawas tried every means to score, but the wing division of Peterborough broke through at will and the men were downed without a gain.

The scrimmage and the backs with Ralph, Fagan, O'Gara and Dumoulin on the wings put up good games. Lack of practice together was painfully evident in the general work.

The work of Eddie Gleason as referee was splendid, but Umpire Plaunt, of Peterborough, gave Ottawa the short end.

The Peterborough men entertained the Ottawa team after the game.

The locals state that Peterborough put up a good game, and the half backs are said to be as good as any in the business."

Free Kicks.

It may not be generally known but it is a fact, nevertheless, that D'Arcy McGee, Hutton, Sandy Cameron, Beaulieu, Morgan and Austin, who played with Ottawa II here on Saturday last are senior men, and have seen considerable senior Rugby. The Peterborough men, therefore, deserve all the more credit for having so successfully turned them down.

Mr. G. L. Bourchier, of the T.V.C. staff, is an old Rugby enthusiast, and takes a deep interest in the game. Mr. Bourchier, in fact, was one of those who first introduced the game into Ottawa.

SUGAR BEET CONTRACTS.

Four Companies Submit Their Terms to the Ontario Government for Ratification.

The indications are that next year the Ontario sugar beet industry will make a start worthy of the importance of the crop. This year, as last season, most of the product will be shipped to Michigan for use in the Michigan factories, but Mr. C. C. James, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, has already received copies of the contracts which four sugar beet companies in Western Ontario intend to use in securing the crop of next season. These contracts have to be submitted to the Government for approval before the terms can be enforced. Though none of the companies have as yet erected their factories it is more than likely that they will be completed next summer and the machinery installed in time to handle the crops for which their contracts will call.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mrs. D. A. Fraser is spending a few days in Peterborough visiting friends.

Mr. George Cumming was in town over Sunday.

Mrs. Bert Cress is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs Jas. Harper.

Mrs. Anderson, of Keene, who has been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, for the past two weeks, returned to her home on Tuesday.

Mr. A. J. Raddon, of Peterborough, spent Sunday in town calling on his friends.

A meeting of the Norwood Hockey Club was held in the McGregor House on Wednesday evening last. Quite a number of the boys were present, and it was decided that they would not play this winter unless the Rink Company had the rink boarded up, so as to lessen the danger of accidents.

A meeting of the curlers was called for Monday evening, but as only a few turned up it was postponed to a later date.

Mrs. J. G. Keifer and Master Harland, who have been visiting relatives in western Ontario, returned home on Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Roxburgh was in Peterborough on Monday.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Church here intend giving a dinner in the church here on Friday evening. Mr. John Crane, organist and choir master, of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, accompanied by several members of his choir, will be present to assist in the musical part of the programme. Every one who wants to spend a thoroughly enjoyable evening should be present.

SOME LOST SECRETS.

FAMOUS PROCESSES THAT WERE KNOWN TO THE ANCIENTS.

Things That Our Forefathers Were Able to Do That We Now Find Well Nigh Impossible—Cement of the Greeks and Romans.

Taking into consideration the marvelous strides we have made in almost every branch of knowledge during the last 200 or 300 years, it seems exceedingly strange that our forefathers should have been able to do things which we find impossible and that we cannot discover secrets which were almost common knowledge hundreds of years ago. But despite the fact that the average modern man knows more than did the learned men of long ago, there are mysteries of knowledge and science which our most advanced scientists cannot solve.

Thousands of years ago, for instance, the Egyptians used to embalm the bodies of their dead kings and nobility so perfectly that the bodies are in wonderful preservation today, as may be seen at the British museum. Clever as we are in this age, we cannot do the same. The valuable secret is lost and modern science cannot recover the lost knowledge. We can, of course, and we do embalm bodies, but only for temporary preservation and, comparatively speaking, in a most unsatisfactory manner. Bodies which are embalmed nowadays will not be preserved for more than a few days at most. Very many of the bodies the Egyptians embalmed before the birth of Christ are still so perfect that the lines of their faces are still as clearly marked as when they were first embalmed.

Sheffield turns out the finest, hardest and most perfect steel the world produces, but even Sheffield cannot produce a sword blade to compare with those the Saracens made and used hundreds of years ago, and the Saracens never possessed the machinery we have or had the advantage of knowing so much about metals as we are supposed to know. A huge fortune awaits the man who discovers the secret which enabled the Saracens to make sword blades so keen and hard that they could cut in two most of the swords used today.

There are a dozen different methods of making artificial diamonds, but none of the stones produced by these methods can compare with those made of old French paste, the secret of which is lost. So perfect were paste diamonds that it was difficult for even a person with expert knowledge of diamonds to tell that they were artificially produced, whereas most of the modern artificial diamonds can easily be detected, and their durability is nothing like so great as the old paste diamonds.

Probably not one out of every ten thousand buildings standing in all parts of the world, and built by modern masons, will still be standing 500 years hence. We do not know how to put stones and bricks together as the ancients did, and consequently the buildings we raise nowadays are really mere temporary structures and will be in ruins when the ancient buildings of Greece and Italy, which were built thousands of years ago, are in as good condition as they are now. The secret is not in the bricks or the stone, but in the cement and mortar, neither of which essentials can we make as the ancients made them.

In modern buildings the cement and mortar are the weakest points; in buildings which the Romans and Greeks raised thousands of years ago the cement and mortar are the strongest points and hold good while the very stones they bind together crumble away with age. We cannot, with all our science, make such cement and mortar, and therefore we cannot build such buildings as the ancients raised.

Chemistry, one might imagine, is the science which has, perhaps, made the greatest strides. Yet modern chemists cannot compound such dyes as were commonly used when the great nations of today were still unborn. Now and again it happens that searchers after antiquities come across fragments of fabrics which were dyed thousands of years ago, and they are astonished by the wonderful richness of the colors of the cloths, which, despite their age, are brighter and purer than anything we can produce.

Modern artists buy their colors ready made and spend large sums on pigments with which to color their canvases. The pictures of modern artists will be colorless when many of the works of ancient masters are as bright as they are today. Just as the secret of dyeing has been lost, so has the secret of preserving the colors of artists' paints. Yet the secret was known to every ancient artist, for they all mixed their own colors.

How to make durable ink is another great secret we have lost. Look at any letter five or ten years old and you will probably notice that the writing has faded to a brown color and is very indistinct. Go to any big museum and you will find ancient MSS., the writing of which is as black and distinct as if the MSS. were written the day before yesterday.

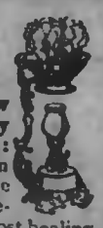
The secret of glass blowing and tinting is not yet entirely lost. There are still a few men who can produce glass work equal to the things of this kind which the ancients turned out hundreds of years ago. But the average glass manufacturer cannot produce anything that could at all compare with some of the commoner articles the Egyptians, and later, the founders of Venice, manufactured, and those who still hold the ancient secret guard it so closely that it will probably die with them and be added to the long list of things in which our ancestors beat us hollow.

JOHN LEE'S FEAR

Was averted by the timely use of South American Nervine—Doctors did their best but were powerless.

Mr. John Lee, of Pembroke, says:—"I had indigestion. I had lost my appetite. I was run down in flesh. I was so sick that I feared fatal results, and was almost in despair because my physician seemed powerless to cope with the disease. I was induced to try South American Nervine. I received so much benefit from one bottle that I persevered in the treatment, and to-day I am a new man and am cured completely. 66

Want This Lamp?



Ask your druggist to show it to you. This is the way you use Vapo-Cresolene: You put some Cresolene in the vaporizer, light the lamp beneath, and breathe in the vapor. It is the most healing, most soothing and most penetrating vapor that is known. Not a single disease germ can live in it. For whooping-cough and croup it is a positive and quick cure, while for all throat and bronchial troubles it is the best remedy you can use. 17

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. A Vapo-Cresolene outfit, including the Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a life-time, and a bottle of Cresolene, complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Recommended and sold in Peterborough by H. H. Edmison, druggist.

Few People Escape Piles

And Dr. Chase's Ointment is the Only Positive and Guaranteed Cure for This Torturing Disease.

There is usually very little satisfaction in consulting a physician regarding a case of piles. In nine cases out of ten he will recommend a surgical operation, forgetting, it may be, the risk, suffering and physical as well as financial expense which this treatment entails. For this reason very many people are going about in misery with piles, believing that they cannot be cured except by means of the surgeon's knife.

It is to such persons that this advertisement will bring good news of great value. Dr. Chase's Ointment has grown in popularity until to-day it is recognized the world over as the standard ointment for the cure of itching, burning skin diseases, and as absolutely the only preparation that can be relied upon to cure every form of piles.

It seems strange that anyone should suffer the wretched uneasiness and acute torture of burning, itching piles when it is so easy to procure Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nearly every dealer in medicine keeps Dr. Chase's Ointment, and you can apply it at home without any inconvenience. The first application is usually sufficient to put an end to the itching, and it is rarely that more than one box is required to make a thorough cure.

Mr. F. Stokes, 116 Dunlop street, Barrie, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with blind, itching piles for years, and could get nothing to stop the constant itching. I was always in pain until a friend of mine told me of the wonderful cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made among his acquaintances.

"I only used one box, and am entirely cured. In gratitude for this marvellous cure, and for the benefit of others suffering as I did, I send you this record of my case."

Mr. Geo. A. Booth, of Trenton, Ont., writes:—"This is to certify that Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely cured me of itching piles from which I suffered for two years inspite of all the remedies I used and which failed to cure me."

Hosts of cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has actually cured serious and long-standing cases of piles have been reported in the Canadian press. Should you want to know more about it ask your druggist or your neighbour. There are few people in Canada who are not familiar with the record of this famous preparation. If your dealer does not have Dr. Chase's Ointment in stock it will be sent post-paid on receipt of price, 60 cts. a box, by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 12

To buy the maid a diamond ring.
They're married now, and he today
Flew back to me what it would bring.

Very Rude!

"How do you like my new song?"
"It needs ventilation."
"In what way?"
"The air is bad."

The man that's overdressed you'll most
Too oft 'mongst housemaids find.
He wears his polish on his feet
Instead of on his mind.

SEVERE COATS AND SKIRTS.

They Continue to Be Worn by Many Smart Women.

The severe tailor made will always be with us in spite of adverse prophecies. The reason is that there is a type of woman to whom this sort of dress is pre-eminent. I refer to the woman who does not look well in a fluffy waist or an evening dress. In spite of the craze for ornateness, the foremost tailors have made many skirts perfectly plain this season, with the exception of gored and fitted flounces. These flounces are put on so skillfully that often they could not be detected were it not for the added fullness at the bottom.

GRAY TAILOR MADE.

Black continues to be widely used, but a newer color is gun metal gray. This is seen in broadcloth, and it has a fine luster. Suits of this shade are often trimmed with strappings of black panne. Blue is a useful color for cheviot morning suits, and brown comes last of all in the public estimation, as it hardly ever makes a smart looking costume.

A perfectly plain steel gray broadcloth is here pictured. The jacket is made Eton fashion, with revers and collar of white broadcloth with three rows of black soutache braid. The front and lower edges of the coat are outlined with a deep band of black stitched panne. There is also a pointed effect of the panne over the top of each sleeve. The sleeves are made bishop style, with cuffs of the stitched panne. The skirt is cut with a wide gored flounce. JUDIC CHOLLET.

An old Friend in Town.

There arrived this morning at Ormond & Walsh's drug store a large consignment of Four T's, that great guaranteed cough medicine, cured so many people last winter. If you or your children have coughs or colds, don't neglect them, but get a 25c bottle of Four T's and be well in two days.

Fell From the Yards.

Halifax, Oct. 22.—The barquentine New Dominion arrived at North Sydney yesterday afternoon and the captain reports that on Friday afternoon when off the Prince Edward Island coast George Pyke, one of the crew, fell from the yards and was drowned. He belonged to Newfoundland.

Suicide of a Scotchman.

Hamilton, Oct. 22.—Robert Millen, the young Scotchman, who cut his throat at the farm of Benjamin Hunt, about a mile over the mountain, last Friday, died yesterday morning about 10.30. He had no relatives in this country, but his body will be buried by his employer.

The Lizard at Valleyfield.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Mrs. P. Godin, a woman living at Valleyfield, near Montreal, who has been suffering from supposed stomach trouble for the past three years, was seized with a coughing spasm a few days ago, and coughed up a lizard over five inches long.

Tendency of Catarrh is to Spread.

Just a slight matter at first, and because slight, neglected; but the seed sown brings forth a dangerous harvest, Consumption, which is the harvest of death. Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic antiseptic that relives at once, clears the nasal passages, and restores lost sense of taste and smell. The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical, so prompt and efficient. Cure is certain and permanent if you use Catarrhozone. Price $1. Small sizes 25c., at Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Plague in Foochow.

London, Oct. 22.—The Church Missionary Society has received mail reports showing that the bubonic plague is ravaging Foochow and vicinity. Fifteen hundred cases of the disease are reported daily, and for a couple of weeks upwards of a thousand coffins have been carried out of the city each day.

96 Years Since Trafalgar.

London, Oct. 22.—Yesterday was the ninety-sixth anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar, and the Nelson monument in Trafalgar Square was again gaily decorated by the Naval League.

In This Locality.

The medicine dealers in this place say there is no preparation in the market to-day that has anything like such an enormous sale as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Would this extraordinary demand for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills continue and gradually increase if people were not being benefitted and cured by their use? Certainly not. One pill a dose. 25c a box.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,-92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

THE LICK LENS.

Wonderful Effect Upon It of the Heat From a Man's Hand.

Some years ago the writer paid a visit to Alvan Clark at Cambridgeport to witness the testing of the huge lens for the famous Lick telescope. At the end of the long, dark room the largest flint glass then in the world was set up on edge. From a distance of about fifty feet a pencil of light was flashed into the heart of the disk and reflected back into the observer's eye. The slightest imperfections, if any, in the glass would then be revealed by the curves of light and the lines of polarization.

"Now," said Mr. Clark, "I will show you the wonderful sensitiveness of the lens to outside influences. Every human body gives out heat and when brought near to extremely sensitive substances affects them to a greater or less extent. Now watch."

He walked down to the lens and held his hand under it about two feet away. Instantaneously a marvelous spectacle burst into view. It seemed as if the great glass disk had become a living volcano, spurting forth jets of flame. The display was dazzling. Waving, leaping, dancing, the countless tongues of light gleamed and vibrated; then, fitfully, reluctantly, they died away, leaving the lens reflecting only a pure, untroubled light.

"What is it? How do you account for the wonder?" were the eager questions.

"It is only the radiation of heat alternately expanding and contracting the glass. If I had put my hand upon the lens itself, the phenomenon would have been even more violent."

To a person ignorant of lenses the almost supernatural sensitiveness of a mass of glass weighing several hundred pounds was astonishing, but to the scientist it is an everyday matter, for he has instruments that will register with unfailing nicety the approach of a person fifty or a hundred feet away

CONQUERED HER RIVAL.

A Pretty and Pathetic Story of Jenny Lind and Grisi.

We have recently read a beautiful incident. Jenny Lind and Grisi were both rivals for popular favor in London. Both were invited to sing the same night at a court concern before the queen. Jenny Lind, being the younger, sang first and was so disturbed by the fierce, scornful look of Grisi that she was at the point of failure when suddenly an inspiration came to her.

The accompanist was striking the final chords. She asked him to rise and took the vacant seat. Her fingers wandered over the keys in a loving prelude, and then she sang a little prayer which she had loved as a child. She hadn't sung it for years. As she sang she was no longer in the presence of royalty, but singing to loving friends in her fatherland.

Softly at first the plaintive notes floated on the air, swelling louder and richer every moment. The singer seemed to throw her whole soul into that weird, thrilling, plaintive "prayer." Gradually the song died away and ended in a sob. There was a silence—the silence of admiring wonder.

The audience sat spellbound. Jenny Lind lifted her sweet eyes to look into the scornful face that had so disconcerted her. There was no fierce expression now; instead a teardrop glistened on the long, black lashes, and after a moment, with the impulsiveness of a child of the tropics, Grisi crossed to Jenny Lind's side, placed her arm about her and kissed her, utterly regardless of the audience.

An Outrage.

An old gentleman was present at the reading of the will of a distant relative. He had hardly expected to find himself remembered in it, but pretty soon a clause was read in which a certain field was bequeathed to him. That was good, but the document went on to bequeath the old gray mare in the said field to some one else—a man with whom the old gentleman was not on friendly terms. That was too much for his equanimity, and he interrupted the solemn proceedings and brought a smile to the faces of the company by exclaiming:

"Then she's eating my grass!".

The Highest Court.

The Denver Times says that when Tom Bagnell was justice of the peace at Altman, the highest incorporated town in the country, standing 12,000 feet above the sea level, he had occasion to fine a disorderly character $10 and costs. The victim of the operation of justice objected to the finding of the court and announced that he would take an appeal.

"What? Appeal, would you?" asked the astonished court. "You can't come any o' that, now. This is the highest court in the United States, and you can't appeal."

She Was an Observer.

"Did George write to you every day while he was traveling around?"

"Yes, every day."

"What regularity!"

"Yes, but I discovered that every one of the letters was written here in his office before he started, and all he had to do was to drop one in the postoffice wherever he chanced to be."

"And how did you find that out?"

"The 'e' in his office typewriter is broken."

Its Good Point.

Gentleman (to house agent)—The great disadvantage is that the house is so damp.

House Agent—Disadvantage, sir? Advantage, I call it. In case of fire it wouldn't be so likely to burn.

GLUTTONY

Is more common than we may think, if we define gluttony as eating beyond the body's need of sustenance and beyond the stomach's capacity for digestion and assimilation of food. That is a fair definition, and it fastens the name glutton on many a person who would resent the term as an insult. The fact of this gluttony is marked by its consequences. The overloaded stomach becomes diseased. The popular term for the condition is "weak" stomach. The "weak" stomach fails in furnishing adequate nutrition for the body, and soon the "weakness" spreads from the stomach to other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food, by which alone the health and strength of the body is maintained.

"Your medicine helped me so much that I cannot praise it too highly," writes Mrs. C. L. Brooks, of Poland, Androscoggin Co., Me. "The first dose I took helped me. I cannot forget how I felt when I took it; I was suffering everything with indigestion, and my stomach was so bloated that it seemed as though it must burst. My husband said he was going for the doctor, but I said if he would get me a bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I would try that. I had not taken it long when I felt relieved, and have not had a touch of indigestion or stomach trouble since. I had been sick for four years, and less than four bottles cured me. Some people that knew me before I began to take the 'Golden Medical Discovery' tell me that they never saw such a change in any one, and they also say they don't see how I can do such large washings as I do now, when I had not done a washing for so long."

CONCERNING ECHOES.

Effort to Find a Scientific Explanation of Their Eccentricities.

To the eccentricities of echoes there is no end. Some return faithfully to the sender of the original sound, but others are never heard by those who set them in motion. Sometimes an echo returns so quickly that the human ear cannot distinguish it from the original sound. The penetrative power of the human voice is often affected in this way—much to the disgust of speakers—in churches and large buildings. Sometimes, again, one sound will produce several echoes, when it happens that there are several reflecting surfaces in the direction taken by the sound waves—while you may hear echoes of echoes when two sound reflecting surfaces face each other at the proper angle. The subject has been little studied, but is full of interest.

More attention has been paid to the behavior of water waves and light waves than to sound waves, yet the same characteristics are to be found in each form of wave motion. What happens, for instance, when sound waves meet with obstacles is known to happen also to rays of light and may be seen to happen in the case of water waves. Thus, if an Atlantic roller were sweeping inshore, an isolated rock would form no protection. The big wave would simply swirl round the rock, enveloping it equally on all sides and passing on with very little decrease of force. A smaller wave, on the contrary, coming in with the roller, might be wholly checked and flung back by the rock, while a tiny wavelet could be stopped or reflected by a mere pebble.

So it is the same with regard to the phenomenon of sound, which is but another manifestation of wave motion. You may often notice when standing in a field skirted by a wood that a clap of the hands will awaken an echo, though you may shout ever so loudly without response. This is because a clump of trees cannot appreciably arrest the full, deep tones of the human voice or the barking of a dog, while at the same time the minute sound waves set in motion by a short, sharp clap are readily returned off every twig. The analogy might easily be carried farther.

Scotch Names.

A gentleman inquired of a carter in Maryhill the other day how far it was to Milngaire (pronouncing the name of the place exactly as it is spelled), relates The Scottish American.

"There's no' a place of that name hereabouts," replied the carter.

"Oh, yes, it's out this way, but I would like to know how many miles."

"'Millingavee,' ye ca'd it?"

"Yes."

"Let me see, noo. There's Canniesburn, Bearsden, Stra'blane, Mulguy. Na. I never heard of that place you want."

"How far is it to Mulguy?" asked the gentleman.

"Mulguys fist oot aboot six mile, if that'll dae as weel," responded the carter.

The Mistakes of Our Friends.

Venerable Dr. Thurston, who is much more at home in mazes of theology than in the amenities of social life, not long ago was introducing to a younger clergyman a handsome widow, a former parishioner of his own, no longer young and extremely sensitive to the fact.

"My brother," said Dr. Thurston, leading the lady forward while his face beamed with genuine affection, "this is Miss Almeda Jennings, one of my old sheep."

Manifest Superiority.

"A poor excuse is better dan none," said the philosophic hobo. "I like it better dan a good one," remarked his companion. "It's more gentlemanly. It ain't so apt to work."

THE MILKMAN IN BRAZIL.

Takes His Cow to the Customer. Tricks in His Trade.

"There are two ways in which you may buy milk in Brazil," said the man who had just returned. "The milk isn't first rate, and milk and cream are scarce, but there is originality in one way of selling it.

"Sometimes milk is delivered from house to house in glass bottles, carried in wire baskets, something after the fashion of the milkman here, but there the difference begins. The cart used in Brazil is a three wheeled push cart, always painted some dull, dark color. The bottles are typically Brazilian. They are long, small necked, dark green, secondhand wine bottles, which have advantages of their own for the merchant. The customer cannot see the water which he knows is in the milk, and the dark color simplifies the task of washing, which is quite a point to the native.

"But the other way of delivering milk is simon pure Brazilian, and it is a sort of case of the mountain coming to Mohammed. The milk merchant leads his cow around to his customers by a halter. Tied to the cow's tail is a small halter, and at the other end of that rope is a small muzzle halter, which is fastened around the head of a calf. The Brazilian milkman believes that the cow will not give milk if unaccompanied by her calf.

"The merchant, thus leading his merchandise and source of supply, walks barefooted over the uneven stone pavements from customer to customer. In his hand he carries an ordinary sized drinking glass and a tin one pint measuring cup. These he ingeniously raps one against the other, and this is his gong to notify his customers of his approach. A customer reached, the merchant gets down on one knee and proceeds to execute the order while the customer waits.

"The stranger sees no chance for diluting the milk in this system by which the consumer sees with his own eyes the goods produced, but the natives—and they all agree on this point—insist that the milk merchant has under his coat a rubber bottle filled with water and with a rubber tube attachment which enables him to inject the water into the measure along with the milk. Another way the artistic milk merchant has for milking his customer is by producing as much foam as possible. This is done by holding the glass as far as practicable from the source of supply during the process of filling the measure.

"In the best hotels and restaurants on the eastern coast of Brazil I did not once see cream used or offered, and milk as a beverage was very seldom seen, and I did not once see it mentioned on a bill of fare. Milk, such as it is, brings about 15 cents a quart, United States money, and a better supply even at this price would increase the demand materially."

Wonders of the Heart.

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a minute, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2 1-2 ounces of blood a second, 656 lbs. an hour, 7 3-4 tons a day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich blood, that the heart, an organ, 6 inches long, by 4 inches wide, can accomplish this enormous amount of work, and rebuild its own wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective remedy available for heart affections because it forms new, red corpuscles in the blood, and gives to it that life sustaining quality which is necessary to the health of every organ.

All Willing.

Deadly microbes may lurk in a kiss,
But when she casts coquettish glances
You just caress the beautiful miss
And proceed right away to take chances.

Literally and Otherwise.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM CURED.

Physicians of the modern school claim that Rheumatism is caused by the poisons or toxins eliminated by certain germs. From recent research this theory is undoubtedly correct. What you need to correct such a disorder is Powley's Liquified Ozone. The antiseptic effect of the oxygen it contains destroys the germs and antidote the poison or toxins they form. We don't make this claim without being able to substantiate it. Read our proof.

THE OZONE CO., LTD., TORONTO, ONT.

Gentlemen: I have much pleasure in stating that I have fully recovered from an attack of muscular rheumatism, due undoubtedly to the use of your "Ozone." I consider it an excellent remedy as a tonic and blood purifier, and will never be without it.

(Sgd.) C. L. BUCHANAN, 460b St. Urbain St., Montreal, P. Q.

There is no other preparation known that has the power to cure disease that is possessed by Powley's Liquified Ozone. It is made up of oxygen in stable liquid form and makes cures where all other means fail. Powley's Liquified Ozone is endorsed by a great many Canadian physicians and used by them regularly in their practice.

If you desire our physicians to give you advice on your particular case, make a detailed statement of just how you feel and the way you are afflicted. MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Presbyterian Church held its anniversary services on Sunday, 13th inst., the Rev. W. W. McCuaig, of Port Hope, preaching interesting and instructive sermons both morning and evening to large congregations. The church was very beautifully decorated for the occasion, and looked lovely in the evening under the soft, rich, mellow light of the new and elegant hanging lamps provided by the Ladies' Aid. The music by the choir was a special feature of Sunday's exercises. The following evening a fowl supper and entertainment was given, the former being held in the I.O.G.T. Hall and the latter in the church. There was a large attendance and plenty of good things served. There was no foul complaint heard after the supper, as every one secured the fullest measure and there was plenty left, so much that a ten-cent social was announced for Wednesday evening. The programme was decidedly entertaining, and continued to a late hour. Rev. Mr. McCuaig seemed to be the premier entertainer, with his witty sayings and his comic recitations, added to an exhibition of ventriloquism, he carried away the hearts of his audience. Miss Florence Hall of Peterborough, a talented vocalist, made a favourable impression on this, her first appearance. She has a pleasing platform etiquette, and her enunciation was clear, harmonious and easily understood. Rev. Mr. Mounteer, of Cavanville, delivered a very instructive address, which was concise and logical. Rev. Mr. Johnston, of Millbrook, gave a short speech, which was full of humor and amused the audience very much. The chair was occupied by Rev. W. M. Kannawm, B.D., pastor of the church, in a very able and pleasant manner. The choir rendered some very difficult numbers, and are deserving of great praise for their assiduous labours in getting up so admirably their musical programme. The ladies of the congregation are to be congratulated for so successful an issue brought about by their unwearying efforts. The gross proceeds for Sunday's collections and Monday's supper amounted to about $65. Just before the close of the programme a vote of thanks was passed to all outsiders who had helped to make the annual exercises so grand a success, and dismissal was reached by singing "God Save the King," and the pronunciation of the benediction by Rev. Mr. Mounteer.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Joseph Foster, elder son of Mr. George Shield, at the age of 17 years and 10 months. The funeral took place on Wednesday, when a large number of relatives and friends turned out to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased and their sympathy to the afflicted family. The deceased was familiarly and favourably known in the community, having endeared himself to all who knew him. We extend our deepest sympathy to the sorrowing family.

Mr. Wm. Greig has rented the shop lately occupied by Mr. Wm Smith, and is now ready to give his able services to the public in all kinds of repairing and blacksmith work.

We are informed that the partnership of Messrs. Handley & Preston has been dissolved and the business will be hereafter carried on by Mr. Handley.

Mr. Wm. Petty will move to town and will occupy the late residence of Mr. Robert Henry.

Our present public School teacher, Mr. T. A. Mills, has been re-engaged for 1902.

We regret that Mr. S. Casey, who has been cheese-maker in our factory for some years, has decided to leave town. Sam and his family will be very much missed.

A few of our citizens attended the reception tendered the Duke and Duchess in Toronto, and were gratified by a sight of their Royal Highnesses.

We are pleased to see in the village Mrs. Richard Thexton, of North Dakota, who is at present visiting friends in this locality. Mrs. Thexton lived for many years adjacent to our village, has many friends who are glad to see her again, and renew old acquaintances.

POTTING AND RE-POTTING.

FROM HISTORIC HASTINGS.

Funeral of the Late Major Harry Fowlds.

Other Interesting Notes From the Village on the Trent—Personal Mention.

The funeral of our most prominent and highly respected citizen, Major H. W. Fowlds, took place on Monday. Deceased was taken ill about three weeks ago with pertonitis. During the first two weeks of his illness he suffered extreme pain, but seemed to improve during the forepart of last week. On Thursday morning he took a change for the worse and passed away at noon on that day.

Major Fowlds was a son of the late M. T. Fowlds, who died about three years ago. He was a very active, business man, full of perseverance, energy, clearness of perception, fixedness of effort, and strength of will. He was senior partner of the firm of H. W. Fowlds & Co, who carried on here a very extensive lumbering business. This firm also are sole owners of the electric plant which furnishes light for the village. Mr. Fowlds was gentlemanly in his bearing, honourable in his transactions, genial in his intercourse with men—with honourable men — though his frown was sufficiently scathing toward the man, fraudulent, conniving and false, his indignation sufficiently marked, and his work of denunciation sufficiently pointed and personal towards those unworthy of confidence; scrupulously honest as a business man, he could not but command the respect of those engaged in similar pursuits, and enjoy the confidence of those familiar with him in the ordinary walks of life. He was a man of good natural abilities, as the most casual observer could notice, his noble bearing well calculated to command respect, not less than confidence.

For a number of years he was a member of the counties' council, and as a member did his duty nobly. He was also an honourary member of the Independent Order of Oddfellows, enjoying all the benefits of that noble Order. A true patriotic man he was always ready to act for his King and country. He held the rank of Major in No. 5 Co., 40th Regt., and was much beloved by all his inferiors.

The funeral, which took place on Monday, was largely attended. He was buried with full military honours. After leaving the house, the hearse conveying the corpse proceeded to the Presbyterian church, where a few appropriate remarks were made by Rev. D. A. Thompson, his text being, "We have fought a good fight." After the service Mr. J. B. Pearce who acted as marshall, formed the funeral service in the following order:

Minister.
Military escort, in command of Major Floyd, Lt. Wilson.
40th Regt. Band.
Hearse.
Pall bearers — Capt. Fraser, Major Bonnycastle, Capt. Russell, Major Major Snelgrove, Capt. Birdsall, Col. Graer.
Relatives.
Military Mourners.
Major McNaughton, Durham Field Artillery, Lieut. Scott, Major Willoughby, Major McGowan, Capt. McKee, Lieut. Cameron, Capt. Wilson.
I.O.O.F.
County Council.
Village Council.

The sorrowing friends have the sympathy of the entire community.

Mr. W. S. Anderson, of the Surrogate Court, Osgoode Hall, was in town on Saturday.

The tax collector, Mr. A. C. Huycke, is now on the war path. The rate this year is eighteen mills on the dollar, and is the lowest for several years. This speaks volumes for our Finance Minister, and judging from the happy smile on the faces of the taxpayers there is no doubt but that the present Government will be sustained at the next general elections.

Messrs. H. M. Fowlds & Son received a large barge of grain last week by the steamer Rainbow. The grain was shipped from their store house on Rice Lake. Their popular buyer, Mr. R. Campbell, at that point reports business good.

Mrs. Muldrew, who has been spending the summer at our popular hotel, the Clarendon, lost her purse with a sum of money, when attending the celebration at Toronto, on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

The new Government wharf at Robin's Landing, Rice Lake, is completed. The structure, which cost one thousand dollars, is a fine piece of work, and speaks well for the ability of the overseer, Mr. M. Brisbin, of Alnwick.

The hog business is still booming. The price has dropped, but still they come. Two carloads were shipped from here last week.

We are pleased to learn of Willie Payne's safe return from the city of Toronto, where he spent some time on business affairs with some of the leading merchants.

Mr. D. Brown spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. H. Brown, in South Dummer, where he enjoyed a pleasant day.

The many friends of Mrs. Greystock, of Warsaw, are pleased to have her in their midst again, having recently recovered from a severe illness.

The report of the adventure of the hunting party who arrived home last week from a tour to the numerous lakes in the eastern townships, was listened to with interest. As game of all sort is very plentiful here, their success was greatly envied, so much so that a number of others are anticipating the said trip before the game is all captured.

Mr. W. H. Payne is already contemplating the extension of his lumbering facilities for this winter; he intends that this winter's accomplishment will exceed that of last year. We fear that as good men are very scarce in this vicinity, he will probably find the securing of such very difficult.

KINMOUNT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Quite a number of new buildings are going up in our village this fall. Dr. Frost's pretty dwelling is about completed.

Miss B. Smith, of White Lake, is the guest of her friend, Miss B. Butts.

Mr. G. Scott has greatly improved the appearance of his hotel by a coat of paint.

Mr. W. Wilson, of Golden, B. C., is home on a visit to his father, Mr. J. Wilson, of this village.

We are having Indian summer now, the days are quite warm.

Mrs. A. Watson has returned home after a week's visit in Toronto.

Miss M. Dolan, of Mount Irwin, left for home Saturday after spending the summer in the village. She will be greatly missed by her many friends.

Miss Jennie Grady, who has been visiting friends in Lindsay, returned home Saturday.

Quite a number from the village took in the fall fair at Fenelon Falls.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Ontario last year indulged in a very desirable form of record-breaking. The output of cheese for the Province was over $12,000,000, and increase of $800,000 over the previous year, which, again, was $400,000 ahead of the previous year. A very gratifying feature of this branch of our agricultural industry is the exceedingly large proportion of this, no less than $11,682,000, or 89 per cent., which went directly into the pockets of the farmers who supplied the milk. Deducting the cost of haulage, this meant ten millions and a half realized from the milk of the cows. These returns represent an advance of $100,000 upon the sum received by the farmers in 1899. There was a slight decrease in the number of factories, from 1,203 to 1,173, and in the number of patrons, from 60,400 to 58,300; the milk gave slightly better results than in 1899; the amount of cheese made was greater by over 2,000 tons, and the price showed an average advance of 38 cents per hundred pounds.

The statistics for the creameries also show a general advance. The creameries are fewer by 15—their number now stands at 393—and the patrons are 21,800, as against 2,200 in 1900, while there was also a decrease of 72,000 pounds of butter. But there was a considerable increase in the price, and the sum realized was a record—$1,512,000, as against $1,746,000 in 1900 and $1,632,000 in 1899. The patrons of the creameries pocketed $1,530,000, or $140,000 more than they did in the previous year. A number of the creameries which did not operate were deterred from doing so by the good cheese season.

Butter and cheese thus in 1900 brought into the pockets of the farmers of Ontario twelve millions and a quarter. On the supposition that no farmers were both patrons of creamery and cheese factory, the Province contained 51,800 men who contributed milk to factory or creamery, and their average receipts in the year were $163.50.

A Cheap Hack

Just a little exposure to this changeable weather gives one the "hack," which when neglected, leads to pneumonia, congested lungs, or perhaps consumption, unless Pour T's, the great guaranteed cough and cold cure is taken, which does away with hacking in 24 hours. Belleville Electric Road.

Belleville, Oct. 23.—The City Council last night decided to purchase the electric street railway from the Bank of Montreal for $6,700 and sell it to Mr. Vandyke of Grimsby, who agrees to pay 10 per cent. down with interest balance at 5 per cent., and extend the road to Trenton by August next.

From Crow's Nest Pass.

Petrolea, Oct. 23.—Mr. James Peat of this town, who has had 40 years' experience in the oil business in Petrolea, has just returned after a month's visit in the Crow's Nest Pass. Mr. Peat is confident that crude oil can be obtained in large quantities and a far higher gravity than the Petrolea crude. All it requires is to develop the country.

A HELPLESS MAN.

A man is certainly in a helpless condition when he has to sit with his leg on a chair for weeks, unable to move. William Grimshaw, Wolfe Island, Frontenac County, Ont., was in this plight. Doctors could do nothing for him and the pain remained in his legs for six months. Three bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure and three boxes of Climax Iron Tonic Pills routed the disease and restored him to perfect health. He now recommends it to all sufferers. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

WHITE MURDER CASE

Prosecution Gets All Its Evidence In on Second Day.

EVIDENCES OF POISON ADDUCED

Dr. Marquis Pronounced It a Case of Strychnine Poisoning—Told of the Symptoms and Described Vividly White's Last Hours on Earth—No Evidence Showing the Purchase of Strychnine.

Brantford, Oct. 24.—The White murder trial was continued yesterday morning, and when the court adjourned in the evening all the evidence for the Crown had been put in.

Mrs. Partridge of Hamilton, was the first witness called in the morning. She said she knew Mrs. White. The last time she saw her in Hamilton was a couple of days after Good Friday. She was then at her son's home. When Mrs. White visited at the home of the witness in Hamilton previously, she said that she fairly hated her husband, that the world was wide and she had lots of money to go over it. The prisoner also said that her husband would follow her wherever she went. This conversation took place upon the witness asking if Mr. White was living at home. She said that he was not, that she could marry another man in Brantford if her husband were dead, and that she would marry over his coffin.

ALWAYS SOMETHING DIFFERENT AT SUTCLIFFE'S.

J. SUTCLIFFE & SONS

369 George St., Peterborough.

Witness, on cross-examination by Mr. Heyd, said she had had a difference with George White, who owed her money for board. Mr. and Mrs. White had been separated, but any time she had visited them they seemed to get on well together.

Albert H. Strickland was called to prove the absence of one of the Crown's witnesses, Mary Irving. The witness said that the woman had gone to the United States, but he did not know to what place. He had bought her furniture some time in July. She was employed as a collector. The witness could not say that the woman was not still in Canada, but inferred that she was going to the "other side" to live, because she was persecuted in Brantford. The girl lived with her mother at 75 Chatham street.

Other witnesses were called to show that an effort had been made to locate the witness, and Mr. Anglin, Crown prosecutor, asked that the evidence given by Mary Irving at the police court hearing be admitted. The defendant's counsel opposed this, and His Lordship ruled that he would not allow the admission of the deposition.

Charles Williams testified that he was at Strowbridge's livery stable on the Sunday morning of White's death. Mrs. White came across the road and telephoned to Dr. Marquis to come as quickly as possible, that Mr. White was seriously ill. Ten minutes later Mrs. White came to the front door and called him over, saying Mr. White was very sick. Witness went into the house and found White sitting in a chair and complaining of pains in his legs. Witness went after Frank White, and then after Dr. Marquis, and when he returned to the house White was lying on the bed, his arms and legs stiff, his face drawn to one side and his hands clinched.

Cross-examined, witness said Mrs. White, while at the telephone, was very anxious to have the doctor come quickly. She was frightened and seemed to feel very badly. Her manner was natural.

Dr. Marquis was then called. He told of Mrs. White coming to him the day before White's death, when she described what her husband appeared to be suffering from. The doctor told her people did not often die of that complaint. The next day Mrs. White telephoned for witness, and shortly afterwards sent a messenger for him. Witness described the condition of White when he arrived, and said: The convulsions came on absolutely without warning, and there were general symptoms of convulsive seizure. There were symptoms characteristic of strychnine poisoning. The first convulsion lasted from one to two minutes, and was followed by an interval of rest, during which there was relaxation of the muscles. As soon as the first convulsion was ended, the witness turned the patient over, and the deceased went into another convulsion. This was scarcely as bad as the first one. Witness put a glass to the lips of deceased, and another convulsion followed. Then the patient became unconscious. Witness also made two hyperdermic injections of whiskey to keep the heart going. He was at the time quite decided that it was a case of strychnine poisoning.

Mrs. White asked what was the matter with Mr. White and he replied that the deceased was suffering from decided brain irritation or something to that effect. He did not tell her that strychnine poisoning was the cause of the attack. Mrs. White said nothing as to what her husband had taken.

He gave no certificate of death until two days after the death. He made a post-mortem examination and found indications of the individual having died from convulsions, but from the examination made with Dr. Bier, he could not say what the cause had been. Half a grain of strychnine, the witness said, was a fatal dose, and the effect of strychnine would be noticed very shortly after the drug was taken. Convulsions would follow very raidly. Strychnine placed in solid food, if swallowed, would not be tasted, and if it were taken by a person addicted to smoking or drinking, the taste would not be very noticeable. The witness said that arsenic taken in small doses not sufficient to kill would give a person the feeling of having a cold, and would cause vomiting. A full dose would be from two to two and a half grains. If arsenic were administered in small grains for two or three days, there would be symptoms of cold in the head, which symptoms would continue for several weeks.

On cross-examination, Dr. Marquis said that on Sunday of the death he was sure of strychnine poison and he did not change his opinion. He said he did not adopt any means recommended in the books for overcoming strychnine poison, because he recognized that there was no hope and that the poison had been taken half an hour or more before his arrival.

Dr. Bier was the first to take the stand in the afternoon. He said that he had conducted a post-mortem examination with Dr. Marquis upon the body of the late Charles White. There were slight traces of organic disease, but nothing sufficient to cause death. Half a grain of strychnine, he said, was a fatal dose, although death was sometimes caused by less. Death would ensue in from ten minutes to half an hour. The symptoms would be tightness of the chest, cramps, spasms, and a fear of impending death. The cramps usually were felt in the legs first, affecting the rest of the body afterwards. The bending of the body backwards was characteristic of the poisoning. Death usually ensued within two hours, if the patient survived that time he had a chance for his life. If strychnine were covered up in food it need not be tasted at all. If arsenic were administered in small doses on successive days it would probably cause nausea and then vomiting. If it were administered for three days it might cause nausea within two days. In reference to the treatment of the case by Dr. Marquis, the witness said that he would have to see the case before he could say anything about it.

P. C. Chapman testified that he had made enquiries at the drug stores in Hamilton and in Brantford with a view of finding if Mrs. White had purchased any strychnine. He had not been able to find that she had bought strychnine.

Re-examined by Mr. Anglin, the witness said that he could not find that any strychnine had been purchased by Mrs. Charles White.

H. S. Pierce, the undertaker, gave evidence concerning the embalming of the body of White, saying no strychnine or arsenic was used.

The defence, it is expected, will occupy the greater part of Thursday.

BOTHA HAS 4,000 MEN

Encamped Between Ermelo and Wakkerstroom.

DENOUNCED WAR OFFICE POLICY

In So Doing, Mr. Winston Churchill Makes a Suggestion—Greater Danger and Depleted Means to Meet Strain of War Than Two Years Ago—Death of Another Canadian.

London, Oct. 24.—A despatch from Brussels says it is reported there that Commandant - General Louis Botha is encamped with 4,000 men between Wakkerstroom and Ermelo.

Mr. Winston Churchill Speaks.

London, Oct. 24.—Winston Churchill, M. P., in the course of a speech at Leicester last night, which is much commented upon to-day, declared that the war in South Africa had become "an unmitigated nuisance."

"The danger is greater to-day than it was two years ago," Mr. Churchill declared, "and the means of meeting the strain are being seriously reduced."

He urged the Government to "relieve Lord Kitchener of the heavy detailed work and prepare for a new campaign with a refreshed army and a definite plan."

GEN. BULLER IS NOW OUT.

His Notice of Dismissal Was Not Long in Being Obeyed.

London, Oct. 24.—The afternoon newspapers yesterday agree that the dismissal of Gen. Buller from the command of the First Army Corps, and placing him on half-pay was inevitable. It appears that the General was only officially notified of the decision late Tuesday evening, the notification being delivered at his official residence at Aldershot, by a special messenger from the War Office, at about the same time that it was issued to the newspapers. Yesterday's army orders at Aldershot announce that Gen. Buller has already given up his command.

Canadian Casualties.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The following casualties among Canadians in the South African Constabulary were reported to the Militia Department yesterday:

Harvey Gale Milne, died from enteric fever at Petrusberg, Oct. 21; father is J. Z. Milne, Qu'Appelle.

Trooper J. B. De Wolf, dangerously ill with enteric fever at Bloemfontein; father is J. De Wolf, Ingersoll.

Henry Tunstead of Ottawa, who was reported missing, has re-joined his corps.

LIABLE TO DEATH.

Ordering a Strike in France—Testament to Civil War.

London, Oct. 24.—"It has transpired," says a despatch from Paris, "that the Government warned each member of the Miners' Committee, who adjourned yesterday at St. Etienne without making public the result of their deliberations, that in ordering a strike under present conditions he would render himself liable to a sentence of death for inciting to civil war, and that the Government would prosecute, if necessary. This action, it is believed, caused the committee to temporize."

Slashed With a Razor.

Hamilton, Oct. 24.—At about 5 o'clock, William Green, Strachan street, had an altercation with John Nolan, who resides at the corner of Picton and John streets, and Nolan pulled a razor and slashed Green on the head. Green fell bleeding. He was taken to Dr. Balfour's surgery, where the cuts were sewed up. Twelve stitches were required to close the wounds. The police caught Nolan, and locked him up on a charge of feloniously cutting and wounding. The prisoner is about 22 years of age. Although Green lost a great deal of blood, there is no danger of his losing his life.

Corea Gets a Big Loan.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 24.—The Government of Corea has raised a loan for a year from the First Japanese Bank of £7,000,000 at 10 per cent. One of the conditions is that a portion of the loan shall be spent on rifles and guns, purchased in Japan.

STILL THE DOUBLE GAME.

Your Conservative political orator is a rare trimmer. Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P., the right hand man of Mr. R. W. Borden, leader of the Conservative Opposition, appeared with Mr. Monk when he was introduced to Ontario at Massey Hall, Toronto, doubtless speaks what his leader approves. In a recent speech—delivered in Quebec, you may be sure—he claimed that Sir Wilfred Laurier had not done justice to Quebec, that the interests of Quebec had been sacrificed to those of the other Provinces. That's the song of the Conservative leader and his right hand man in Quebec. In Ontario the Conservative leader's organs and friends are shouting that Sir Wilfred Laurier is sacrificing the interests of Ontario, at the dictation of Mr. Tarte, to the benefit of Quebec, whose specially favoured treatment constitutes the tremendous evil of "French domination." The Conservative leader and his allies should learn how to play a single game of politics before attempting to play a double game. In attempting, in the name of party success, to set Ontario and Quebec against each other they are in danger of being squeezed in the process.

THE QUESTION AT ISSUE.

Years ago it conducted a campaign on the boundary question, when the point at issue was whether the dispute should be settled by the courts at once or by a tribunal, the award of which was subject to the decision that later on the courts might reach.—Mail and Empire.

You've been forgetting, old fellow, remarks the Hamilton Times, you've been forgetting; and you haven't any valid excuse for forgetting a matter in which you were so badly mixed up. The question at issue was whether Ontario was to be robbed of the great territory in dispute; that and nothing else. And the leader you supported swore that "not one stick of timber, not one pound of ore" should belong to Ontario; and he fought the case from court to court, with your approval and support, in the hope of beating the province out of its own. And in anticipation of beating the Province the Tories had already arranged to beat the country by parcelling out the assets of the disputed territory among their followers as spoils "for the boys." The Mail can never forgive the Grits for making its friends disgorge that ill-gotten plunder. And it now has the hardihood to denounce the Government for expending in the people's interest the revenues derived from that very territory which it helped the Tories to try to steal from the Province.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The new ruler of Afghanistan proposes to rule—he won't be Ameer figure-head.

How things might have been, if they were not as they are, commends itself to those who act without thinking.

If all the 5,000 men who are going out deer-shooting this season, could shoot, the deer would be a thing of the past. Barring accidents, however, the deer are comparatively safe at the hands of many of the Nimrods.

A queer kettle of fish, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, they have in Nova Scotia; only two Conservatives returned to a House of 38. The leader of the Opposition will not be able to throw on even the style of a canal boat captain who, when he calls, "All hands on deck," can at least sing down the hatchway, sotto voce, "Come up, the two of yese."

Sir Christopher Furness speaking of the tremendous enterprises he saw in operation at the Soo, said that if he had seen nothing except what he saw there he would be amply repaid for his visit to Canada, which is to say that the great industries now under way and in operation at the Soo are worth coming all the way from England, the home and centre of great industrial undertakings, to see. Would there be anything like this to see at Sault Ste. Marie if Mr. Whitney's opposition to the Algoma Central Railway had succeeded, or if his political friends had succeeded in their attempt to give away northern Ontario to Quebec and Manitoba?

It's all very well for Mr. Whitney to claim that New Ontario should have been developed long ago. How long ago? Was the Conservative plan of development exemplified by the aid extended to the Conservative Federal Government, to rob Ontario of this northern section, to split up the territory and give half of it to Manitoba, and the other half to Quebec? Mr. Whitney's party opposed the efforts of the Liberal Government of Ontario to keep this territory for this province. Is Mr. Whitney sincere? He complains that the development of New Ontario should have taken place sooner. Does he think it worth developing? Was he in earnest when he sneered at New Ontario as the "land of the stunted poplar," a phrase representative of a worthless country? If Mr. Whitney was honest, why did he oppose measures of development inaugurated by a Liberal Government, and with such fatuous stultification as to alienate the support of some of his most prominent and influential followers? If Mr. Whitney is not a trimmer, and a demagogue, he has great fondness for the demagogue's weapons.

AN INTERNAL REMEDY.

A Pleasant Tasting Tablet; Simple, Convenient; Cures Every Form of Catarrh.

The use of inhalers, douches, sprays, salves and powders for catarrh is a nuisance and inconvenience at the best, and cannot compare with antiseptic remedies in tablet form for internal use.

Internal remedies are the only ones which can really reach the seat of the disease, which is in the blood, and local applications can no more cure catarrh and rheumatism or kidney trouble, the excessive secretion in nose and throat being local manifestations of a deep seated poison in the blood.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, the most successful of the various internal remedies, is composed principally of highly concentrated antiseptics, which destroy the catarrh germs in the blood, and causes them to be eliminated through the natural channels.

Progressive physicians use and advise Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because they contain no cocaine, no opiate, no enervating drug whatever, but are composed of Guaiacol, Hydrastin, Red Gum and similar catarrh antiseptics, and are so safe and pleasant that even little children may use them with excellent results.

Catarrh sufferers who have wasted time and money on local applications should not despair of a radical cure until a trial of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets has been made.

A complete treatment may be purchased at any drug store for 50 cents.

VISIT TO SAULT STE. MARIE.

Sir Christopher Furness Impressed With the Clergue Industries.

Sault Ste. Marie, Oct. 22. — Sir Christopher Furness concluded a visit here yesterday, and left with his party for Chicago. While here he was the guest of Mr. F. H. Clergue, who showed him the whole of the industries under his control, and took him for a trip over the Algoma Central.

Sir Christopher said he was much impressed with the two "Soos," and said that if he had seen nothing but what he had gazed upon here he would feel amply repaid for his trip to Canada. He characterized the Clergue industry as simply marvellous, and paid a high tribute to the genius and ability of Mr. Clergue. Further, he said that in view of the enormous tonnage required on the great lakes, he felt sure a ship-building yard and engine works, with all modern machinery and appliances, would not be long in following in the train of the other works already established here.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE.

Of Katie S. Cameron, wife of W. J. Carter, who died May 15th, 1901.

It was a tender voice that called our dear one,
And sweetly bade her "Enter into rest,"
We know that she is safe at home forever,
Within the "Many mansions of the blest."
Yet deep within our hearts we sadly miss her,
And Heaven seems nearer, dearer, and so fair,
We've one friend less on earth — one more in Heaven,
Since this dear treasure of our heart is there.

Vanished from our sight, yet still we cherish
Fond thoughts of her, who through life ever proved
A loving wife, fond mother, tender sister,
In friendship ever true to those she loved;
Though hard it seemed to her to leave her dear ones,
When first she felt that death was drawing near,
Yet to her Heavenly Father's care she gave them,
And Christ was nigh, and whispered words of cheer.

And though the surging billows bore her onward,
She clung to Jesus and His power to save,
Praying, "Lord Jesus, do, I pray come quickly,
And bear me safely through the dark, cold wave."
And peacefully she fell asleep in Jesus,
To wake in that bright, better land above,
Now free forever from all pain or sorrow,
She's resting happy in her Saviour's love.

There, in her lowly bed within Mount Royal's
Quiet "City of the Dead," she's laid away
To rest — to sleep her long last dreamless slumber,
To waken at the resurrection day.
Then let our hearts take refuge in the promise
That God has given to comfort those that weep—
"The dead in Christ shall rise to live forever,
For so He giveth His beloved sleep."

She waits for each and all her dear ones yonder,
In that bright city by the crystal sea;
May we be ready when the Master calleth,
And thus be safe through all eternity.

Otonabee, October 16, 1901.

IN MEMORIAM

Of Mary Ann Devlin, who died September 16th, 1901.

Darling Mary Ann has left us,
Left us, yes, forever more;
But we hope to meet our loved one
On that bright and happy shore.
To the household she was attractive,
To her comrades their delight,
Each seemed so enamoured,
With this pretty, flower bright.

This lovely bud—so young, so fair,
Called home by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower
In Paradise would bloom.
Ere sin could harm or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care,
The opening bud to Heaven conveyed
And bade it blossom there.

Through all pain at times she'd smile—
A smile of heavenly birth,—
And when the angels called her home
She smiled farewell to earth.
Heaven retaineth now our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps,
And the sunbeams long to linger,
Where the sainted daughter sleeps.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber,
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more shall join our number,
Thou no more our sorrows know;
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord,
When love has bound the heart;
'Tis hard, so hard, to speak the words—
"We must on earth forever part."
Dearest loved one, we have laid thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

DAIRY PRODUCTS.

Montreal, Oct. 23rd. CHEESE.—The situation is more enigmatical than ever. An English firm writes:—"The cheese trade is desperately dull, and there is no life whatever in the situation. Although retailers have no stocks, they will not buy, the only conclusion being that the consumption of cheese has almost ceased." Prices were rather higher this week than last in the local market, but no advance was made in England. In fact, stocks in Liverpool, London and Bristol are actually increasing, notwithstanding the light exports. Another bearish factor is the probability of a certain number of cheese damaged in a recent fire being thrown upon the market. With all these influences holding the market down it is difficult to see how it can rise for some time to come, particularly as stocks here are heavy, and the fall make likely to be pretty large. The strong factors are the light stocks in retailers' hands, and the fact that the ordinary held cheese has already cost about 1 1-2c more than fine goods can be had at to-day, so that the bulk of the goods will likely be held pretty firmly as long as a chance of selling if remains. Quebecs are quoted at 9 3-4 to 7-8c. Townships at 9 to 9 1-2c, and Ontarios at 9 1-2c to 9 3-8c, though some are asking more. Receipts reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 3,440 boxes.

Montreal, Oct. 23rd. BUTTER.—The market was steady to firm to-day, though the anticipation that the goods damaged in the recent fire might be put upon the market was quite a bearish influence. It is said that the damaged goods will number around 18,000 packages. However, 21 1-4c was paid for the finest creameries, exclusive of pet brands, this morning, and it is thought 21 1-2c will have to be paid before the day is over, so that prices are firm. Western dairies sell in quantities at 16c for fine qualities. Receipts reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 4,641 packages.

Toronto, Oct. 23rd. BUTTER.—The market is steady. Good dairy prints are coming in freely and are cutting down the demand for creamery. Low grade and medium stuffs continue to offer in great quantity. The best dairy pound rolls are now quoted at 17c, and the choicest pails and tubs at 16 1-2c. The lowest price for off-grades is 12c, anything which has to sell from 12c to 16 1-2c is dragging, as the consumers of low grade or medium goods wish to get them at 12c.. Creamery is in fair demand and steady at 18c to 20c for solid, and 21c to 21 1-2c for prints.

THE OUTLOOK FOR CATTLE.

Complaints are coming from Toronto owing to the poor quality of cattle that are being offered on the Toronto market. The offerings consisted principally of feeding bulls and common to inferior butcher's cattle. A noteworthy characteristic is the preponderance of grade cattle offered. The market report in the Farming World a few days ago stated that choice, well-bred steers were very scarce. A great many ill-bred bulls are offered daily on the Toronto markets.

This may or may not speak well for the outlook of the Ontario live stock trade. If one may look upon the large number of scrubby bulls that are being placed on the market as an indication that the farmers are anxious to rid themselves of such stock to replace it by thoroughbreds, then we may entertain hopes for the better. A great number of cattle, including Shorthorn, Galloway, Polled Angus and Hereford breeds, have been imported, and the advantage in breeding thoroughbred stock is becoming generally recognized. The thoroughbred stock is at present for the most part retained for breeding purposes, and the influence of our importations on common stock is not as marked as is desirable. Where there are so many inferior bulls a considerable time is necessary before the effect of pure breeds will become at all marked.

The mongrel stockers and feeders, according to authentic reports, are not worth from fifty cents to one dollar per hundredweight of what choice well-bred ones would bring. The farmers of the Province will do well to eliminate all scrub cattle from their breeds as speedily as possible, and an effort should be put forth to use better bulls in their breeding stock. Of course, it is evident that other things must be considered as well as the mere raising of good breeds of cattle. Good stabling is an item quite as important as good feed. Stock barns are yearly becoming more numerous, and with the general failure of the wheat crop, doubtless farmers will be induced to make more a specialty of raising cattle that will meet the demands of the markets.

COARSE GRAINS.

Montreal, Oct. 23rd.—Firmness of the market for oats has developed into an advance in price. Export has already ceased some days ago owing to the high prices asked because of the active local demand. Now prices have advanced anywhere from 1c to 2c a bushel. One buyer claims to have bought No. 2 oats at 41 1-4c, ex store, this morning, but others say that 41 1-2c is the very lowest quotations allowable, as 42c is a general ask price. Buckwheat is rather interesting also, owing to the reported decline. One firm reports having stocked up recently at 56c store, and that they would not pay over 55c to-day, and can buy them at that. Another firm claims they are not worth over 54c ex store, others say the situation is confused, and prices are only nominal. Rye, nominally, 56c afloat. No. 2 peas, 1-2c up at 80 1-2c, 81c afloat; No. 2. barley is quoted at 54c afloat.

TRADING STAMPS FOR THE ASKING.

THE COURT'S FINDINGS.

The Enquiry Into the Islander Wreck Concluded With Censure of the Pilot, Leblanc.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 24.—The finding of the Court of Inquiry into the Islander wreck was given out yesterday morning. The finding says, in part:

The steamer Islander was totally wrecked at 2.15 a. m., Aug. 15, by contact with an unknown substance, presumably an icedrift, much submerged. The Islander sunk in less than 20 minutes after the collision, in deep water, resulting in the loss of life of the master, 16 of the crew, 28 passengers, and two children.

She was fully officered and manned, with a crew of 65, completely equipped and seaworthy previous to the accident. She was navigated as customary in trade navigation, being left alternately with the master and pilot. The master had no special instructions from the owners, and distribution, management and discipline of the crew were left with him. The master did not realize the danger, hence, the lack of prompt and resolute measures in rousing the crew and placing officers and crew to each boat.

The capacity of the boats was sufficient, but the rush to the boats at the last minute was beyond control of the few officers and crew putting out the boats, thereby preventing the rescue of several valuable lives.

While praise is due those who remained till the ship sank under their feet, the fact cannot be ignored that there was unpardonable lack of appreciation of the existing danger to their fellow-passengers shown by those in the boats, regarding the rescue of others who were unable to reach the boats.

No special instructions were given to the pilot regarding navigation or speed, in the event of falling in with ice, and the pilot, Leblanc, is open to censure for keeping the ship full speed at the rate of 14 knots an hour where he had seen ice ten minutes before.

The court condemned the custom of leaving but one officer in charge at night, and found no proof in the evidence that the wreck was due to the intemperance of the mate or officers.

MR. BLAKE AT OTTAWA.

Discussed Ontario Mines Act With Hon. David Mills.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Hon. Edward Blake arrived in the city yesterday morning by the Toronto train and returned again at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. He had an appointment with Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice. Mr. Blake met Mr. Mills and Mr. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, at the Russell House. It is understood that the business which brought Mr. Blake here was to discuss with Mr. Mills the Ontario Mines Act. This is an act which was passed by the Ontario Legislature, but it is said to, in some way, infringe upon Dominion rights, and has not yet been put in force. There is a clause which provides that the act will not come into force except by the proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

A HELPLESS MAN.

A man is certainly in a helpless condition when he has to sit with his leg on a chair for weeks, unable to move. William Grimshaw, Wolfe Island, Frontenac County, Ont., was in this plight. Doctors could do nothing for him and the pain remained in his legs for six months. Three bottles of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure and three boxes of Climax Iron Tonic Pills routed the disease and restored him to perfect health. He now recommends it to all sufferers. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days treatment. Price 50 cents at all drug stores or The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

S. NORFOLK LIBERALS

Mr. Charlton Nominated by Them at Great Convention.

A SPEECH FROM HON. E. J. DAVIS

A Unanimous Nomination Despite the Stories of Alleged Split in Ranks of Liberal Party—Candidate a Very Popular Man—Crown Lands Commissioner Replies to Mr. Whitney's Charges.

Vittoria, Oct. 24.—Mr. W. A. Charlton, M. P. P., was yesterday nominated by the Liberals of South Norfolk to contest the riding in their interests in the forthcoming general Provincial election. It was a unanimous nomination, tendered in such a hearty spirit as augurs well for the result on election day. The day was perfect for the purpose, and as a result there was not an absentee when the roll of delegates was called. More than local interest was imparted to the convention by rumors repeatedly circulated in different portions of the Province by those to whom the wish was doubtless father to the thought, that there was a split in the Liberal party in South Norfolk, and that Capt. Killmaster of Port Rowan would make a fight for the nomination. Capt. Killmaster is President of the local Liberal Association, and yesterday it was his privilege, as he stated at the time, to withdraw in favor of Mr. Charlton, whom South Norfolk delighted to honor. Mr. Charlton is proverbially a modest man, and his ears must have tingled as he listened to the compliments paid him as a representative by every speaker. He seems to be equally popular in the riding as in the House, where his quiet, manly qualities, his judgment, patience and tact in filling the important and sometimes stormy positions of Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee and of the Committee of the Whole House, have won for him many and warm friends on both sides of politics. Mr. Charlton made a brief but able speech of acceptance.

Hon. E. J. Davis Speaks.

After the nomination proceedings, Hon. E. J. Davis, Commissioner of Crown Lands, addressed the convention. It was Mr. Davis' first appearance in South Norfolk, and he was given a very enthusiastic reception. He spoke for an hour and a half, and as it was his first public utterance since Mr. Whitney's Victoria Hall speech in Toronto, when the leader of the Opposition paid particular attention to the Commissioner, Mr. Davis took advantage of the opportunity to demonstrate that, to speak charitably, Mr. Whitney has a very bad memory and a passion for romance. Besides disproving several statements of Mr. Whitney's at the meeting referred to, Mr. Davis intimated that matters had now so far progressed with regard to soldiers' grants that certificates for upwards of a thousand locations would in a few days be issued to those with indisputable claims. He made an interesting reference also to the colonization of New Ontario, and the good results of Premier Ross' visit to England, that are already apparent, and made public some gratifying statistics showing the great progress made in Ontario mining circles during the nine months of this year, for which figures are available.

FRIEND INDEED.

Advice That Led a Poor Sufferer to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Many is the poor dyspeptic that has been happily led to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through the advice of a friend. Never was better advice ever tendered one friend by another. Those who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, who have experienced their wonderful power over Indigestion and all Troubles of the Stomach, should feel it their duty when they meet some poor sufferer who is going through the misery they, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, have escaped, to put him in the way of finding relief from his affliction. Tell him what cured you. Tell him about Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. You know what they did for you. They will do the same for him. It costs you nothing to tell him and it will mean the restoring of him to happiness.

Thousands and thousands of people have been induced to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through reading the testimony of some grateful convalescent in the papers. But far more have been first introduced to the knowledge of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through the kind offices of some friend. Therefore, you who know the value of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets tell your friends about them.

"Through the advice of a friend," writes Mrs. Amanda Guimond, Grand Metis, Que., "who told me to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablet, I found a cure for my Dyspepsia and Stomach Troubles which had troubled me for years. I bought a box and had not taken them all before I felt ever so much better. I have now taken three boxes and am cured. You may publish this so as to help others and I certainly will let all my friends know about Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

Anglo-Brazilian Question.

Rio Janeiro, Brazil, Oct. 24.—The Anglo-Brazilian boundary question is being pushed to a solution. The British and Brazilian commissioners have decided to refer the question to the King of Italy for arbitration.

S. S. Convention.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Yesterday, the second day of the Provincial Sunday School Convention, which is being held in the Metropolitan Church, was highly successful. The papers read were very instructive.

The Japs Are Determined.

London, Oct. 24.—"The Japanese press is unanimous and resolute," says a despatch to The Times from Tokio, "in declaring that Japan cannot suffer Manchuria to become a Russian possession."

THE ROYAL PARTY.

The Duke Dined the Governor of Newfoundland on Board the Ophir—A Fishermen's Welcome.

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 24.—The royal yacht Ophir, having on board the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, convoyed by four British cruisers, arrived here at daylight yesterday morning. The city was profusely decorated, and over 600 fishing vessels had assembled in these waters, all decorated with bunting. People from the warships say the marine prospect was one of the finest witnessed throughout the tour of the Duke and Duchess. The fleet arrived here ahead of time, allowance having been made for foggy weather, which was not encountered. There is no program for the day, but the Duke, last evening, gave a dinner to the Governor, Sir Cavendish Boyle, and the state dignitaries, on board the Ophir.

The celebration last night was exceedingly enthusiastic. The weather was clear, and the town fairly blazed with illuminations and fireworks. The Ophir, Crescent, Diadem, Niobe, Prosper and Charybdis were electrically lighted. Fifteen sealing steamers, moored in a long line, showed festoons of marine lanterns, while eight hundred fishing vessels were similarly decorated, making a veritable forest of twinkling lights spread over the whole harbor. From the hills surrounding the city 60 bonfires flamed. A thousand torch bearers paraded the city, and then massed near the wharf where the Ophir was moored, to be inspected by the Duke and Duchess. Five hundred fishing boats paraded the harbor, lighted with lanterns.

The Duke and Duchess expressed themselves as delighted, and said the assemblage of shipping in the port, with the abundant bunting, formed one of the finest displays they had witnessed during the tour. It is reported that the Diadem grazed a rock while entering the port.

By Wireless Messenger.

London, Oct. 24.—Cruisers belonging to the Channel Squadron will be stationed, 100 miles apart, down the Channel, and out to sea, to send, by wireless telegraphy, the first greetings of the Duke of Cornwall and York to King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

More Than 150 Killed.

Colon, Oct. 24, via Galveston.—The Colombian Government formally announces that General Pompilio Gutterrez defeated Oct. 15, near Ambalama (on the Magdalena River, west of Bogota), insurgent forces from the Department of Tolima and Condinamarca, united under General Marin and General Durban, after a desperate engagement lasting three hours. According to the official announcements the insurgents retreated, after losing 160 killed, among whom was General Vicente Lombana, and several captured, together with a large supply of ammunition. The Government loss exceeded 50.

Thos. Miscampbell in Algoma.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Oct. 24.—At the convention of the East Algoma Liberal - Conservative Association, held here yesterday afternoon, and at which there were in attendance about 115 delegates from all over the district, Andrew Miscampbell, M. P. P., for East Simcoe, was chosen the candidate to contest this riding at the next provincial election. Dr. Fell of Gore Bay, a prospective candidate, resigned in Mr. Miscampbell's favor.

Kicked to Death.

Cremore, Oct. 24.—William Dougherty, a respectable and well known farmer of this district, living about one mile from Meaford, went out to attend to his horses last night. About an hour later his wife, wondering at his not returning, found him lying dead behind his horses. He had been kicked in the head, and death had been instantaneous. He was 37.

Two Babes Abandoned.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Two babies, only a few minutes old, were found lying in a pillowcase on Notre Dame street yesterday morning at four o'clock. The infants are both girls. They were taken in by Mrs. Jean Lablance, and the whole neighborhood flocked to see the children. One was blue with the cold and may die. The police are looking for the mother.

Uncle Sam Is Anxious.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—That the Samar disaster has put a new aspect upon affairs in the Philippines, appears in a telegram received this morning at the Detroit Recruiting Office. "Enlist all stations for infantry and cavalry with applicants fitted for foreign service."

80 Persons Drowned.

Vienna, Oct. 24.—The Neues Weiner Tagblatt reports a serious inundation at Broussa, near the Sea of Marmora. The water rose with terrible suddenness in the night time. 80 persons being drowned, and 776 houses destroyed.

Eczema Easily Cured.

Merrill's System Tonic has cured more cases of blood and skin diseases such as Eczema, Scrofula, Pimples and Syphilitic Sores, than all other remedies combined. Besides being a most powerful blood purifier it is an excellent tonic and cures by assisting nature to throw off the disease. A fifty cent bottle lasts three weeks. Sold at Ormond & Walsh's.

No English Trust.

London, Oct. 24.—On the authority of the secretary of one of the largest steel companies in England, it is said that there will not be any steel trust formed here. There may possibly be some combinations of the smaller concerns, but the steel trade of England is practically in the hands of three firms, and these concerns emphatically deny that they contemplate amalgamation or absorption.

Mr. Massey's Condition.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—Mr. Walter E. H. Massey is still at death's door. Yesterday morning there was a little improvement noticeable in his condition, but at noon hour it was apparent that he was sinking. During the afternoon and last night he showed no signs of improvement, and continued to grow weaker. Very little hope is held out for his recovery.

The King's Birthday.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The Governor-General has received a cablegram from the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain to the following effect: "It is His Majesty's wish that the usual birthday dinner in the colonies be given in 1901 and 1902 on 9th November." His Excellency will observe the King's wish so far as Canada is concerned.

A TILSONBURG BUTCHER.

Pins His Faith to Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets.

Mr. C. H. Parker, Tilsonburg, Ont., the well known butcher of that town, has been using Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets for a backache and kidney trouble that had been bothering him. When asked to give his opinion of these Tablets he made this statement:—

"During a recent sudden and sharp attack of backache and kidney trouble, due to cold caught in the shop, I was induced to try Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. I got a bottle and after I had used half of them the pain was gone. This I think is rapid enough results for anyone. I think they are a mighty good medicine."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the newest and most effective remedy for backache, lame or weak back, Bright's disease, diabetes, dropsy, puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, gravel, rheumatism, specks floating before the eyes, kidney weakness of children and old people and all urinary troubles. Price 50 cents a box at all druggists or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

Daly's Impecunious Employee.

The late Augustin Daly had in his employment a man who always addressed him a note periodically asking for an advance of money. This note was invariably answered by a most abusive letter, in almost insulting terms and threatening instant discharge if the offense was ever repeated—and inclosing a check for the money!

At regular intervals of about three months the man invariably made the same request, with the same results, always, however, getting a check inclosed. And thus it continued until Mr. Daly's death.

HERE'S A HEART POINTER

No beating about the bush for Aaron Nichols—he believes Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart cured his wife, and he says so straight.

"This is to certify that I bought two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart for my wife who has been for twenty years a great sufferer from Heart Disease. She had more benefit from it than from all the doctors that have attended her, and I am pleased to give this certificate of its wonderful curative powers."

Last Night's Dance.

A delightful dance took place in the Water street Assembly Hall last night, and was attended by about 65 young people of the town. The music was supplied by the Misses Hurley and the floor was in excellent condition. The patronesses were, Mrs. Peter Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Mrs. E. C. Complin, Mrs. R. R. Hall, and Mrs. C. B. McAllister.

Schubert Symphony Club.

Manager Bradburn of the local opera house, received a communication to-day from Manager T. T. Gaunor, of the St. Mary's opera house, which says:

"The Schubert Quintette gave a very satisfactory entertainment. They are all good. There was a good house, although the night was very wet. The audience was well satisfied."

Death of Mrs. Minnecolo.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital, Tuesday evening of Matilda LaPenne, wife of Mr. Nicholas Minnecolo, and daughter of Mr. Lovernso LaPenne, of town, aged 34 years. She was born in Italy and coming to this country about thirteen years ago, she was wed to her now bereaved husband. Two daughters, Lucy and Mary, also survive her. The funeral took place this morning from the family residence, 67 Elm street, to St. Peter's cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

REGARDING FLAGS.

The Public Should Pay Attention to the Signalling of the Watchmen.

Since the Grand Trunk Railway Company has placed watchmen at their crossings on Simcoe and Charlotte streets the safety of the public from accidents is more assured. However, the great majority of the public is not apparently properly informed as to the various flags, etc., used by the flagman. It must be understood that when the red flag is waved it means danger for not only the approaching train but for vehicles or pedestrians as well. When the white flag is waved it means danger for everything excepting the approaching train. Many persons do not realize this and when the white flag is waved they attempt to cross the railway track, running imminent danger of being run down by the approaching train. Again it must be remembered that there is a heavy fine for those who disobey the signal of the flagman. It is hoped that the public will make a note of these facts.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. C. B. McAllister and Miss Louise Barnett are in Toronto for the day.

Mr. Gus Sawers of the Kirkfield section of the Trent Valley Canal, was in town to-day.

—Wm. H. Leonard, Tammany candidate for Assemblyman, was complimented on his good voice at the close of a campaign speech, and was asked what he took to produce such pleasant tones. "It's a secret," said he, "but I don't mind letting you in. I swallowed three raw eggs on my way to the hall and kept one in my pocket as a reserve. I sat down on the pocket, and now I don't know whether it was that egg or the other three that did me good."

AN OTONABEE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Miss Edith Scollie and Mr. William C. Stewart at St. Mark's.

The wedding took place, on Wednesday, at St. Mark's church, Otonabee, of Miss Edith Scollie, niece of Mr. Robt. Scollie, and Mr. William C. Stewart.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, and the church was very prettily decorated for the occasion.

The bride wore a pretty white silk blouse and grey silk skirt with coat and hat to match. She was assisted by Miss Kathleen Wilson.

The groomsman was Mr. W. J. Scollie.

Miss Rose Greystock officiated at the organ and as the bridal party entered the church the strains of "The voice that breathed o'er Eden" were heard, a wedding march being afterwards played.

A reception was afterwards held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Scollie, uncle and aunt of the bride, and a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served. A large number of very handsome gifts were received.

MARRIED IN LINDSAY.

The Bride was a Former Resident of Peterborough and has Many Friends Here.

The Lindsay Post makes the following reference to the marriage yesterday of Miss Jean Henderson, who formerly resided in Ashburnham, and was a frequent visitor in town:

"A very pretty wedding was solemnized this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Henderson, 14 Cambridge street, when their second daughter, Jean Mercer, was united in marriage to Arthur Hugh Waite. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Macmillan, pastor of St. Andrew's church, in the presence of a company of friends from Toronto, Hamilton, Cobourg, Peterborough and Lindsay. The bride looked charming, being prettily attired in white silk organdie. Her sister, Miss Mabel Henderson, was bridesmaid, and was dressed in yellow organdie, trimmed with black. The groom was supported by Mr. Claude Preston. After the usual congratulations had been extended to the happy couple the party sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner. The presents to the bride were numerous and costly, and indicated her popularity with her friends. The happy couple left on the 6 o'clock train for a honeymoon trip to Toronto, Buffalo and other places. On their return they will take up their residence in the house occupied by Mr. A. Jewett, York street. The bride's going away dress was a broad cloth tailor made suit, with grey toque to match."

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. W. G. Fowler to Miss Aggie Tully of Smith.

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, October 23, at the residence of Mr. David Tully, in Smith, when his daughter, Miss Aggie, was united in marriage to Mr. W. G. Fowler, of Toronto, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Kannawin, of Omemee. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler left on the 5.45 G.T.R. train for their home in Toronto.

INTERESTING BANK CASE.

Question of a Bank Manager's Personal Liability for Loans to Customers.

The Court of Appeal, Toronto, on Wednesday, gave judgment in a case of great interest to bankers, involving as it does the question of a bank manager's personal liability for loans engineered by him. Mr. W. J. McGill, now deceased, was manager of the Western Bank branch at Port Perry in 1888, and on the instruction of the general manager, Mr. McMillan, gave Messrs. Paxton, Tate & Co. a line of credit that finally totalled $20,000. Still, with the knowledge of the manager, he signed a note for $9,200 to set against this loan among the bank's assets. Similar transactions followed on other occasions, until after six years' service, McGill's paper, with some endorsations, was held by the bank for $21,200. On his death the bank sought to recover, but the trustees of McGill's estate held that the transactions were simply a matter of manipulation at the bank, and that McGill had got no value for the notes and should not pay them. The jury, on trial took the ground that McGill was coerced as an employee, of the bank into signing. The Divisional Court, on appeal, held that the bank should recover, the notes being genuine records of business transactions. Now the Court of Appeal decides against the bank by three judges to two, Armour, MacLennan and Lister being for McGill's trustees, and Osler and Moss against.

—Although Charley LeGros is now doing the biggest barber business in town, he's hustling to do better. Another new luxurious chair, making the fifth, will be put in right away. Life is too short to have to wait in a barber shop.

The Robbery.

Mr. Fred A. Clark has returned from Toronto, and in going over his stock of furs, finds that about $200 worth of fur garments were stolen from his store by the burglars who entered the same on Tuesday night. Among the articles taken were a lady's Persian lamb coat, and fourteen caperines. An effort is being made to locate the guilty parties, suspicion having fallen upon several persons.

Children's Wool Headwear.

Mothers are respectfully invited to call and have a look at my nice stock of childrens wool hoods, touques, tams, bonnets, mitts and coats. Soft, fleecy and warm goods in white and colours, just the thing for the little tots at this season. The most extraordinary part of this offering is the fact that I can sell them so cheap. Goods worth a dollar for only 25c. for Thursday only. Miss Rudkins.

MARRIED.

STEWART—SCOLLIE.—At St. Mark's Church, Otonabee, on October 23rd, 1901, by the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, M. A., William E. Stewart to Edith Sophia Scollie.

DIVERTING PUBLIC ATTENTION.

The Review seems determined to take the most unworthy means to clear itself of the guilt of assisting the effort that has been made, and is being made, to perpetuate a monopoly of electric light and electric power in Peterborough, whose supremacy in this regard is threatened by an undertaking designed to afford cheaper power for manufacturing purposes. It continues harping upon an exploded charge against a public man, who it alleges, is interested personally and financially in the Ontario Power Company. This is not the truth, as has been shown, and, besides, if it were, it would be no crime, and, besides, it is not the matter in which the town is most deeply and most directly interested. What Peterborough wants and what Peterborough must, and will have, is cheap power and light. If the Review feels called upon to discuss further the Otonabee Power Company question, and what it really involves, it will find itself called upon to clear the ground by explaining why it has taken, and takes, such an active interest in baulking an enterprise which meant, and means, the breaking of the practical monopoly of power and light under which teh town has long suffered. It is incumbent upon the organ to explain what particular interest a gentleman closely identified in business intereats with the Review Printing Company, and a power company, had in fighting through his newspaper to uphold a monopoly in high prices of what in this progressive age, is as necessary for the advancement of the town in manufacturing affairs, as is air to living men—cheap motive power. One need not go far for a sufficient explanation of the animus shown by the Review against the Otonabee Power Company, which is none the less attacked and antoganized, though a side issue is drawn across the trial to divert public attention from the real object. The Review is perhaps not altogether to blame; when it reflects that the Mail and Empire and Toronto News are enjoying the benefit of power at 35 cents per horse power through the favouritism of a moribund Conservative Government, it doubtless feels that it should have its share of a compensating advantage in the form of a monopoly of power, which means an impost on the people of Peterborough, who are not getting light and power at any too cheap a price from their present source of supply.

You don't require to spend a long time trying to find out the difference between our goods and ordinary goods. It's quite evident at a glance.

WARMTH MEANS HEALTH

It's time now to be looking out for winter's warm things. These cool days for fall will be bad for health unless you are dressed for comfort. Our big stock of Underwear comprises everything desirable in that line, from the very heavy woolen ones to the medium and light weight ones that are health-giving and comfortable as well as light-weight. Yes, we have just what you want in Underwear, and the price will suit you, too.

KEEP WARM

Now it's time for Blankets, and when you buy Blankets you are buying something for comfort, and something you don't intend to replace next winter again. We have the kind that are comfort-giving and long enough to tuck under your feet without exposing your shoulders, and for their wearing qualities, we'll guarantee them. They are made by the best blanket man in Canada.

PLEASANT WORK

Clean, whole Pillow Cases and Sheets make the housework more pleasant. Clean beds give pleasure by day and by night. You can buy the best material made for Sheets and Pillow Cases right in this store. The best standard makes of the world, and prices are about the same as the ordinary makes. A MODERN ESTABLISHMENT.

The Well Known Fur Store of Thos. Barrie.

The Stock is Most Complete—A Glance Through the Premises — Facilities Excellent.

An establishment in Peterborough that is well known to the purchasing public is that of Mr. Thomas Barrie, manufacturing furrier, successor to Mr. J. W .T. Fairweather, corner of Simcoe and George streets. As the winter season approaches it finds Mr. Barrie in a better position than ever to cater to the wants of a fashionable public, and his establishment was never more complete in its stock of high class furs and fashionable fur garments than it is to-day. A glance through the store will convince one of this. Mr. Barrie's stock of manufactured furs was never more extensive, varied and choice, the greatest care having been exercised in the selection of the skins, and in the manufacture. His facilities for fine ordered work, also remodelling, dressing and dyeing cannot be excelled; the very latest styles and novelties are shown from home markets and abroad, and as a fur store it stands alone in Peterborough. He knows the fur business thoroughly and he does it satisfactorily.

In ladies' fur jackets extra attention has been given to this department and a very handsome stock of Alaska seal, Persian lamb, Electra seal, Russian lamb, Astrachan lamb, Bockharen lamb, coon, and Australian coon, is shown, whilst in men's fur coats there is on hand a choice assortment at low prices, of raccoon, wombat, wallaby, Australian coon, Corsican lamb, Astrachan, Matussana and Buffalo. Quite as up to date in every respect is the stock of men's fur lined coats, gauntlets for ladies and gentlemen, muffs, boas and scarfs, collarettes and capes, caps and children's furs.

Mr. Barrie constantly has in stock a very attractive assortment of ladies' fur-lined capes, cloaks and jackets. A large and choice stock of these are to be seen at the present time, and are shown in plain cloth coverings, and also silk and worsted brocades, with linings of Kaluga, Marmot, Hampster, Squirrel, Muskrat, etc., with trimmings of all the leading fashionable furs.

In the matter of robes, too, Mr. Barrie is to the front, carrying, as he does, a very complete stock of grey goat, black goat, mountain bear, African buffalo, matussana buffalo, bear and musk ox. There are plenty of varieties to choose from and the prices are astonishingly low, considering the quality of the goods.

In fact, it would be difficult to find anywhere a more up-to-date establishment of its kind. The handsome store downstairs with its immense stock of costly and elegant looking articles, is by no means the extent of Mr. Barrie's stock, for not the least behind in this regard is the second floor. The bright, cheery and commodious apartments show off the extensive stock on this flat to great advantage, and convinces one as to the magnitude of the entire business.

On the third floor the manufacturing department is situated, and an efficient staff is kept busy endeavouring to keep up with the many orders ahead of them.

Altogether Mr. Barrie has an establishment that is a credit to himself and to the town, and is such that the public can reckon on being supplied with a reliable article, a serviceable article and a stylish article in every particular at a price which cannot but capture the fur trade of Peterborough and vicinity.

THE CANADIAN BOY.

This magazine is the only journal of its kind published in Canada, and for patriotic reasons alone is deserving of a hearty support by the reading public of Canada. American boys' papers, full of Yankee sentiment and often anti-British feeling, though sometimes otherwise unexceptional, have a large circulation in Canada. They are fast instilling American ideals into the minds of our young people. It is high time this were stopped. The best way to effect a change is to produce something good and attractive to take the place of the American papers and crowd them out. Those patriotically inclined should rally to the support of a good Canadian boys' paper. The Canadian Boy is such a journal. The October number is out, and has no reason to hide its head beside much older ventures. It is full of what is elevating and stimulating for boys to read. Many sides of a boy's nature are appealed to; his love of stories, interest in nature, talent for business, love of sport, mental ingenuity, constructive ability, etc., etc. It is attractive in form and well illustrated. Boys will read it, and profit by the reading. A dollar cannot be better invested than by sending it as a subscription for one's own or some other person's boy. The Turnbull-Wright Co., of Guelph, are the publishers.

LABOUR STRIKES ARE JUSTIFIABLE.

This Was the Decision in a Debate Last Evening.

A GREAT ORATORICAL BATTLE

The St. Peter's T. A. S Lecture Room Crowded to the Doors—A Choice Musical Programme.

Standing room was at a premium in the lecture room of St. Peter's T. A.S. last evening, the occasion being the debate on the question, "Resolved, that Strikes are Justifiable." The affair was one of the most successful ever held in the rooms, and those present were treated to a display of oratory of the highest order.

Mr. James Hickey, chairman of the Literary Section, occupied the chair, and introduced an excellent musical programme. It opened with a well-rendered chorus by the T.A.S. Glee Club, "I've a Longing in My Heart for You, Louise," the solos being taken by Messrs. Thos. Lane and J. Roach. Little Nellie Hallihan, the talented child singer, followed with two delightful solos, "The Tale of the Kangaroo," "I'll Tell My Mamma, on You." This little tot gives promise of being a prodigy. Gilbert Scott gave two rattling comic songs, "Cock-a-Doodle, Do," and "Farmer McGee." Little Jas. O'Brien in his singing of "Little Black Me," and "The Song I Love Best," pleased the audience immensely, while Miss Lila Bell, in her recitation, "The Circus Rider's Story," showed herself to be possessed of considerable histronic talent. The Glee Club again furnished a number, "My Georgia Rose," Mr. Sam Houlihan taking the solo. For an encore number Sam danced a jig as only he can dance.

The debate proved the treat of the evening. Rev. Dr. O'Brien acted in the capacity of judge. Messrs. J. Hampden Burnham and George Ball were the speakers on the affirmative, while the negative was championed by Messrs. F. McPherson and R. F. McWilliams.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien stated that he felt considerably embarassed in filling the position of judge when he considered the display of oratorical talent.

Mr. J. Hampden Burnham opened the debate with a beautiful word-picture of the condition of affairs in the world to-day arising from the greedy, grasping and tyrannizing attitude of capital towards labour. The subject of the debate simply meant that some strikes sometimes are justifiable. Human laws are so erratic and contradictory to such an extent as to call for amendment every session of a legislature. How could men be perfect under such laws? A workman, toiling incessantly for an honest livelihood under such a condition of affairs, made him, the speaker argued, the noblest man on earth. If he was born under different circumstances he would be happy. A beautiful comparison was here made between the humble toiler and the wealthy plutocrat. It was unfortunate that men were placed at the head of affairs to-day at the polls, whom, the speaker considered as not fit to black the boots of an honest workingman. These men rule the country, and this state of affairs has always existed. Power lies in the hand of capital; they can extract the last drop of blood from the toiler. We can see this every day. What blame therefore if men strike? If such a course is not justifiable, why then the man who toils is a slave, on a par with the negro. As regards the question of arbitration between employer and employee, it was almost impossible to effect a remedy, on account of the hocus-pocus system in vogue, which absolutely prevents mediation. Mr. Burnham cleverly depicted the injustices under which labour existed, and argued that under the circumstances the labourer was justified in striking, when he was not breaking a contract.

Mr. Frank McPherson, the leader of the negative, followed with an address bristling with statistics. He opened by depicting the terrible sufferings as well as the chaos that reigned when strikes were resorted to. In England 60 per cent. of the strikes, which had occurred, were lost to labour, while in the United States 54 per cent. were disastrous to the strikers. He made reference to the recent steel strike across the line, and characterized its leader as a "wind-bag," who had nothing at stake, but who in reality was after a good thing in the shape of a fat purse. He next took his hearers to New Zealand, a democratic country with a democratic people. Compulsory arbitration was in force here, and the speaker gave a number of instances in order to show the beneficial effect it had in the settlement of all labour disputes. Prosperity existed on every side in this island—there was no friction between capital and labour, and the working man was contented and happy. He strongly condemned strikes, because it was always uncertain which side would triumph.

Mr. Geo. Ball followed in a rattling speech which caught the audience. He immediately proceeded to lacerate and chisel desolation into the arguments of the previous speaker. In regard to the condition of affairs in New Zealand, mentioned by the leader of the negative, Mr. Ball contended that all this was brought about through strikes and the introduction of the single tax system. In 1893 fifty thousand people were out of work in New Zealand, and to-day there is not one. Why is this? he asked. Simply because labour organized and struck for their rights. Besides New Zealand was in a position to give employment to a large amount of the surplus labour of Australia. Mr. Ball claimed that labour came before capital — capital was only the effect of labour. Therefore the cause should certainly receive every consideration. In reference to the charge made by the negative against labour agitators, the speaker argued from experience that these men were noble characters, imbued with only one idea, and that was the bettering of the conditions of the labourer and the stamping out of injustice. He next referred to the great strike in Ireland instituted by Michael Davitt — the land strike against the tyranny of the landlord, and contended that as a result of this agitation the people of Ireland to-day were benefitted. Mr. Ball next referred to the condition of affairs in England, more especially among the miners. They were formerly getting 60c. per day for a day of 16 hours. As a result of organization and a strike they demand and receive to-day $4.50 for a day's work. He further referred to the successful outcome of strikes on this side of the water, and argued that our journey through life was, in fact, a strike against existing evils. Mr. Ball brought down the house in his allusion to the reverend chairman organizing the young ladies of the Cathedral into a temperance branch—to strike against going with any man who indulged in strong drink. The speaker showed that he had a thorough grasp of the subject and was loudly applauded on resuming his seat.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams followed in a very forcible and logical address, replete with good sound arguments. He was of the opinion that strikes were not justifiable because they were harmful to both the political and economic conditions of the country. In New Zealand arbitration had been a complete success, and tranquility prevailed on all sides. Mr. McWilliams here gave a very clear and concise explanation of the successful results of arbitration in labour disputes. The labouring people are the ones who are directly interested in strikes. They have three-quarters of the votes of the country and they have it in their power to place men at the head of affairs in order that their condition may be benefitted. He was sure the affirmative would not contend that all strikes were justifiable. The negative argued that in the vast majority of cases strikes were not justifiable. There may in cases of course, have been a slight increase in wages as a result of a strike, but they were very injurious to the employer, and certainly not in the interests of the labourer, who sometimes strove to exact all he could from his employer. Then again a strike affects the whole community and the loss is sometimes very much greater than the gain. Strikes were opposed to personal liberty. The men who strike sacrifice their will to the labour agitator and such a condition of affairs was a direct interference with personal liberty. The work of this century is going to be a work of organizing the people into the proper use of the franchise. The only ground, the speaker claimed, upon which strikes were justifiable was in the same extent that civil war was considered justifiable. In concluding a brilliant address Mr. McWilliams considered that national socialism would undoubtedly be the outcome of the next fifty years.

The leader of the affirmative, Mr. J. H. Burnham, was then given an opportunity to reply to the arguments of the negative. He denounced socialism, which he contended was the very opposite of individualism, and was clothed in vice and hypocrisy.

The chairman, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, then gave a masterly summing up of the arguments put forth, and in the course of his deliberations stated that in a case where there is no compulsory arbitration, where all the circumstances are considered in reference to capital and labour, then strikes are justifiable. He referred to the good feeling which invariably existed where arbitration was introduced in settling disputes, and cited an instance in Tours, France, where in an institution in that city, the employees participated in a share of the profits at the end of the year. After carefully going over the arguments adduced the chairman decided that strikes were justifiable.

Bobcaygeon! How we celebrate thy praise,
O, let a bard thy brows with bays entwine,
Born to the poetic purple, all my days,
Consumed in worship of the sacred Nine.
Albeit my muse appear but half divine,
Yet dare she launch upon a lofty song,
Glad to propel thy fame's broad bark along,
Enthroned on downs, and rich in comely kines,
O, well may poet loudly chant thy fame,
Noble Bobcaygeon of the classic name.
One moment grant of Vigil's golden pen,
Now would I write thy name among the stars,
To shine forever there with me and Mars.

WEAKNESS

OF MEN AND WOMEN

Could we read the hearts of every man we meet, what a load of sorrow and despair would be disclosed. Indiscretions and Blood Diseases have caused more physical and mental wrecks than all other causes combined. They strike at the foundation of manhood; they sap the vital forces; they undermine the system, and not only do they often disrupt the family circle, but they may even extend their poisonous fangs into the next generation. If you have been a victim of early sinful habits, remember the seed is sown, and sooner or later you will reap a harvest. If your blood has been diseased from any cause do not risk a return later on. Our New Method Treatment will positively cure you and you need never fear any return of the disease. We will give you a guarantee bond to that effect. We would warn you sincerely against the promiscuous use of mercury, which does not cure blood poison but simply suppresses the symptoms.

WE CURE OR NO PAY.

Don't Let your Life be Drained Away, which weakens the intellect as well as the body. There is no room in this world for mental, physical or sexual dwarfs. Our New Method Treatment will Stop all Unnatural Losses, Purify the Blood, Strengthen the Nerves, Restore Vitality, and make a man of you. If you are in trouble, call and consult us. Consultation is Free. We treat and cure Drains, Blood Diseases, Varicocele, Stricture, Unnatural Discharges, Ulcer, Kidney and Bladder Diseases. No cutting or operations. No detention from business. CONFERENCE OPENED.

Pan-American Nations Meet in the City of Mexico.

City of Mexico, Oct. 23.—The Pan-American Conference was formally opened yesterday afternoon by Hon. Ignacio Marsical, Minister of Foreign Relations, who, in the course of his address, commented on the fact that more than eleven years have elapsed since an international American conference, destined to promote a friendly understanding and material harmony between the nations of this hemisphere, met at Washington for the first time in history.

"Since then," he said, "events which have occurred in the whole world and the efforts made in Europe with the noble object of attaining similar results, may serve us as a guide and example to push forward such a delicate understanding. Every step that humanity takes in the true path to progress, if taken along the true direction for every step, having for its object humanitarian interests, is a conquest that can never be lost. It is therefore the duty of statesmen to obtain the greatest practical results from these advancements and impressions which are really indestructible.

"There is no doubt whatever of the sentiment of the friendship and sympathy cultivated to such a high degree to our northern neighbor among the representatives of the three Americas and the marked tendency of our age is well defined.

"Gentlemen, I am sure that in your approaching labors you will take advantage of such favorable elements. I am also certain that you will do your utmost to avoid all spirit of dissension. Love of country and our absolute identification with it is undoubtedly an obligatory virtue, and one of our most sacred duties."

Buried at Beechwood.

Ottawa, Oct. 23.—The remains of the late Nicholas Flood Davin of Regina, whose shocking death in Winnipeg last Friday startled his many friends, were laid away in Beechwood Cemetery yesterday afternoon. At the cemetery chapel a short service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Moore of Bank Street Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Thurlow Fraser. Hon. John Haggart, Sir James Grant, Hon. J. C. Patterson, Charles Marcil, M.P., N. A. Belcourt, M. P., Thomas Birkett, M.P., and a number of leading citizens attended the funeral. Among the floral tributes was a wreath from the Manitoba Government.

Islander Inquiry Ended.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 23.—The Islander inquiry closed yesterday and the findings of the court will be given on Wednesday morning. Capt. LeBlanc, pilot of the lost steamer, advanced the opinion that some of the bulkhead doors must have been opened and denied all the stories of the drunkenness on the part of himself and the late Capt. Foote. Firemen and others testified that the doors were shut.

Fatal Rush in a Theatre.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Hundreds of people attempted to rush out of the Temple Theatre yesterday afternoon because the cry of fire was raised, when a little flame was seen about the Polyscope machine. In the scramble scores of people were knocked down and more than 20 were badly hurt, while it is feared that two or three will not survive their injuries.

An authority on such matters advises the starting of forest seedlings in the seed bed and growing in the nursery till they are strong enough to maintain themselves in the forest plantation.

Active interest appears in the subject of devising measures to save the New England forests. "Systematized forestry goes hand in hand with progressive agriculture, and they together form the backbone of any nation's life and prosperity," as Frank William Rane says in New England Homestead.

The annual crop of mushrooms in France is valued at $2,000,000, and it is said that there are 60 wholesale firms in Paris dealing exclusively in them.

The Cornell experiment station has found beet pulp a good food for milk cows and worth about half as much as silage.

One hundred bushels or more of lime per acre is now seldom applied. It is now recognized that on poor soils and sandy soils the quantity applied at one time should be small.

Not New.

Don't think our Vapo-Cresolene is something new, for it isn't. For more than twenty years it has been extensively used for all forms of bronchial and throat trouble. Mrs. Ballington Booth said of it, years ago, that "No family where there are young children should be without Vapo-Cresolene." You breathe in the vapor, it goes all though the bronchial tubes, soothing, healing, curing. It's pleasant, safe, economical.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists everywhere. The Vaporizer and Lamp, which should last a lifetime, and a bottle of Cresolene complete, $1.50; extra supplies of Cresolene 25 cents and 50 cents. Illustrated booklet containing physicians' testimonials free upon request. VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 180 Fulton St., New York, U.S.A.

Charges Against Inspector.

Stoney Creek, Oct. 23.—The investigation into the charges made against Thomas Macklem, license inspector of South Wentworth, began here yesterday morning. Before the hour set for the commencement the hall was well filled with both residents of the district and also of Hamilton. Provincial Inspector J. K. Stewart, Toronto, is in charge of the investigation, and with him, at the head table, were seated Rev. Charles Deacon, who made the charges, supported by Rev. C. E. Morrow of Bartonville. The charges are seven in number. Among them are the following: "That Mr. Macklem is an incompetent inspector," and that in specific instances he did not do his duty.

To persons suffering the results of thin blood and wasted nerves, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food supplies all the needs of the system and brings perfect health.

Mrs. E. McLaughlin, 95 Parliament street, Toronto, states:—"My daughter was pale, weak, languid and very nervous, her appetite was poor and changeable, she could scarcely drag herself about the house, and her nerves were completely unstrung, she could not sleep for more than half an hour at a time without starting up and crying out in excitement.

"As she was growing weaker and weaker I became alarmed, and got a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. She used this treatment for some weeks, and from the first we noticed a decided improvement. Her appetite became better, she gained in weight, the colour returned to her face, and she gradually became strong and well. I cannot say too much in favour of this wonderful treatment, since it has proven such a blessing to my daughter."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food occupies a field by itself, and is unique in the respect, that it cures by forming new, rich blood and nerve force, building up the system and increasing the weight.

It is a reconstructant, restorative and revitalizer of most unusual merit, which sends new life and new vigor to every part of the body, and gradually and permanently cures all nervous troubles and diseases, resulting from weak blood and low vitality. 50 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Wheat Damage Minimized.

Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—C.P.R. officials recently wired to their agents at the grain stations in every part of the province and Northwest Territories to furnish reports as to results of threshing. These have now been received, and, with but a few exceptions in the Red River Valley, they greatly minimize damage done by recent bad weather. The quality of the wheat will, as a rule, grade No. 1 Northern.

Accidents at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—Pat Murphy, the clever quarter-back of the Rough Riders football team, had his jawbone broken at practice yesterday afternoon. It is not yet known how serious the injury is, but he will be out of the game for some time. Fraser of the Collegiate team had his collarbone broken.

A Complete Hospital.

That's what Merrill's System Tonic is. It is one of the most powerful blood purifiers and the best bowel regulator known, besides being a muscular and nerve tonic. Hence it cures a wider range of disease than most medicines. It is skillfully prepared in one of Canada's largest drug stores and is extremely pleasant to take. Price 50c. for three week's treatment. Ormond & Walsh's.

EIGHT CONVINCING REASONS . . .

WHY YOU SHOULD INSURE IN

THE IMPERIAL LIFE ASSURANCE CO'Y OF CANADA.

1. It is a purely Canadian Company, having all its funds invested in Canadian securities, and transacting business only in Canada.

2. It maintains the largest Government Deposit of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

3. It maintains relatively the strongest policy reserves of any Canadian Life Insurance Company.

4. Its past record — the greatest guarantee of the future — has been unparalleled in Canadian life insurance.

5. Its policy contract is one of the most liberal issued, consistent with safety and equity.

6. It has a Capital of $1,000,000, which makes policy-holders' security unquestionable. At the same time, the assured is practically in the same position regarding profits as if he held a policy in a mutual company, the Imperial's charter providing that at least 90 per cent. of all profits shall be divided amongst policy-holders.

7. For every $100 of liability to policy-holders it holds $180 of securely invested assets. These assets are all of the highest order, and will bear the closest scrutiny.

8. An Imperial policy never depreciates in value, but, on the contrary, is constantly becoming more valuable. It is the most valuable estate you can leave behind you.

FOR ROYAL TOURISTS

MAGNIFICENT TRAIN FURNISHED BY CANADIANS.

The Duke of Cornwall and York Will Travel In Truly Regal Style—Triumph of Car Building Achieved by the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

From one end of Canada to the other the people of the Dominion are preparing to extend an enthusiastic and loyal welcome to the Duke of Cornwall and York, who is now visiting our neighbors. Before he sets sail for England, about the middle of October, the duke will tour the entire country from east to west. He is now en route. It has been well said that the Canadians are even more loyal to the reigning family than the people of Britain itself. Their welcome to their future king has been spontaneous and sincere.

The itinerary as planned includes the following: Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Victoria, Toronto St. John, N. B.; Halifax and intermediate towns and cities. Ceremonies of various kinds mark the stays at the various places, though they are tempered by the fact that the English court is still in mourning for the duke's grandmother, the late Queen Victoria. But this does not interfere with the exhibition by the Canadians of their magnificent western scenery.

Nothing finer in the way of a special train has ever been constructed than that which carries Canada's guests over the 7,000 miles of travel. It is truly regal in its decorations and is well fitted for its purpose of carrying the heir to the throne.

The train consists of the day coach Cornwall and the night coach York for the especial use of their royal highnesses, the compartment car Canada, the sleeping cars Australia, India and South Africa and the dining car Sandringham. Cars for baggage and the railroad employees, making nine coaches in all, have also been provided. The train is hauled by heavy locomotives of standard types used on the Canadian Pacific road.

The royal train is finished throughout in natural mahogany. It is vestibuled from end to end, allowing free communication even in stormy weather. Electric lighting is employed, and an ingenious and novel system of telephones permits free communication throughout the train. Other appointments are in keeping with the most advanced ideas of luxury in railroad cars. The greatest endeavors are of course made to insure in every particular the safe and speedy progress of the train. The luxuries and comforts of first class hotels are at the command of the duke and duchess.

At the rear end of the train is placed the day coach Cornwall. This allows an uninterrupted view of the country, for it is provided with a sheltered observation platform. The Cornwall is divided into a reception room, a boudoir, a dining room and a kitchen. The reception chamber opens directly upon the observation platform and is the largest of the suit. It is paneled in Circassian walnut and, although plain, gives the effect of great richness. The ceilings, moldings and decorations are finished in blue and gold, and the hangings and drapings are of dark blue velvet. The furniture is upholstered to match the drapery. A beautiful feature of this apartment is a piano, a splendid instrument of Canadian manufacture.

The boudoir of the duchess, a perfect gem of a room, comes next. To adequately describe this chamber would take columns, for it has been fitted up to be as nearly as perfect a lady's room as possible. Silk, gold, glass and painting have all been called on to lend their aid to making the future queen of England believe that the car is a royal palace. The dining room is finely ornamented with armorial designs, showing the royal arms, the coats of arms of the duke and duchess, the arms of the Dominion and other heraldic devices. The draperies are of green velvet, and green, brown and gold are the predominating tints of this room.

The kitchen and pantry of the car are models of their kind and are completely furnished with porcelain, cut glass and silver. The remaining appointments of the Cornwall are in keeping with the chief features of the car. In the York also the same precautions have been taken to insure the comfort of the party. The central portion of the car is occupied by two bedrooms, with adjacent sleeping apartments for servants. The draperies of the duke's room are of crimson silk armure, while those of the duchess' chamber are of pale blue moire. The furniture is of satinwood. Staterooms, baths, baggage rooms and similar apartments, all splendidly furnished, complete the York.

The remainder of the train is fitted up on a like plan for the use of the royal entourage. Baths, staterooms, writing rooms, smoking rooms, a medical dispensary and a number of other features combine to make the train a complete place of residence during the month or so that it will be occupied by the party. The train was built in the shops of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and the best decorators and furnishers of Canada assisted in its fitting up. It is 730 feet in length and weighs 595 tons.

Sympathy

Is a good thing for the young husband to give the young wife. But sympathy will not abate one jot of her nervousness or lift her to that plane of sound health where alone the wife and mother can find happiness.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription meets every womanly want and need. It tranquilizes the nerves, restores the appetite and induces refreshing sleep. Its use previous to maternity makes the baby's advent practically painless and gives the mother abundant nutrition for her child. "Favorite Prescription" is a woman's medicine and has no equal as a cure for womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." No other medicine is "just as good" for weak and sick women.

"It affords me great pleasure to be able to say a few words in regard to the merits of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Flora Arn, of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo. "I was tempted to try these medicines after seeing the effect upon my mother. At an early age of married life I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that one he got two more, and after I used those up there was no more pain, and I began to gain in flesh very rapidly."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HORSE-POWER PUMP.

This Device May Seem Complicated, But in Reality It Is Simple.

The plans herewith shown are of a homemade contrivance for pumping water with a farm horse. An upright shaft, a, supports a large cog wheel, b, which fits into a smaller gear wheel, c, with cogs outside of rim. The wheel, c, is attached to shaft, d. On the opposite end of shaft, d, is another wheel, e, which is keyed fast. There are different holes in wheel, e, to make different length strokes of pump rod, f. The wheel, e, turns as a cog into the wheel on the end of plunger, f, on the force pump, g. There is a joint in f; the part above the joint being a pitman, the part below a sucker rod. Pump, g, stands in reservoir, h, dug and walled up like a cistern.

HOME-MADE PUMP POWER.

In the centre of this reservoir is a tubular well pipe. The well is pumped by windmill and the windmill may be detached and this horse power attached to the windmill pump rods. Any length of hose may may be attached to the pump spout and convey water wherever required. A lever, k, is attached to shaft, a, as shown, with whiffletree to attach a horse. A derrick post is shown at l, and made firm by braces, m. The support, n, is for the upright shaft, a, and support to oo. The windmill pump and rods are not shown.—J. A. Sheffield, in Farm and Home.

Care of Dairy Utensils.

The ordinary cleansing that is given to pails, cans, strainers and other dairy utensils takes out only a portion of bacteria. Just to the extent that carelessness prevails in this part of the dairy work, just to that extent will these utensils contain a larger number of organisms. The kind of utensils has considerable to do with the case with which they are cleaned. Wooden pails are to be avoided. Tinware is now so generally used that but little need be said as to the other kinds of vessels, but much of the tinware now on the market is so imperfectly constructed as to shelter germ life. The sharp re-entering angles to be noted in pails, and the open seams in the sides, are harbors of refuge for the bacillus in its fight for existence.—H. L. Russell, in Farmers' Review.

Secret of Good Butter.

Cleanliness is the secret of good butter making, and if the individual farmers guard closely the conditions of their barns, thus co-operating with the work of the creamery, much of the trouble of defective butter will be done away. There should be cleanliness all the way through. The adage of the weakest link in the chain determining its strength is especially true in dairying.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

Good Forgetory.

Giles—Old Skinner is awfully absentminded, isn't he?

Miles—Really I never noticed it.

Giles—Well, he is just the same. Why, he actually fell into the river one day last week and forgot to drown.

A Girl Visitor In Town.

When there is a girl guest in town, the first question asked is, "Is she engaged?" If she is, there is a sigh of general relief among the town girls.

Why He Closed.

A youth went forth to serenade
The lady he loved best,
And by her house at evening,
When the sun had gone to rest,
He warbled until daylight
And would have warbled more,
But morning light disclosed the sign
"For Rent" upon the door.

In the Future.

First Billionaire's Son—What did you get for your birthday?

Second Billionaire's Son—I got a railroad.

"That's nothing. I got a whole system."

He Saw It.

Farmer's Wife—You said you would saw my wood if I would give you a good dinner.

Weary—Well, madam, I saw your wood, didn't I?

Well, It Was Dark.

The room was dark; their favorite chair was in its wonted place.
He stole up quietly and dropped a kiss on some one's face.
A light! It was her pa! And now he muses like to this:
"In striving thus to kiss a miss I surely kissed amiss."

The Anglomaniacs Again.

"Did you notice, deah boy, that they say King Edward is steadily growing fatter?"

"Is he, old chappie? I weally must eat more myself."

When Her Hour Strikes.

The saddest words of tongue or pen
For her who used to star are that
She cannot be engaged again
To sing and dance and dazzle men
Because she's grown too fat.

Their Firstborn.

Fond Parent—Isn't he a fine little chap?

Prize Idiot—Rummy little shrimp, I call it. How long have you had it?

Wonders of the Heart.

All the blood in the human body passes through the heart in about three minutes. The heart beats 70 times a minute, 4200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, throwing out 2 1-2 ounces of blood a second, 656 lbs. an hour, 7 3-4 tons a day. It is only when supplied with pure, rich blood, that the heart, an organ, 6 inches long, by 4 inches wide, can accomplish this enormous amount of work, and rebuild its own wasted tissues. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most effective remedy available for heart affections because it forms new red corpuscles in the blood, and gives to it that life sustaining quality which is necessary to the health of every organ.

Care of Pastures.

Whether you intend to try white dairying or depend simply upon summer dairying, it is necessary to have good pasture through the summer, and in the late summer and autumn it is necessary to help the pasture out, says W. Conway of Indiana in American Cultivator. This is simpler than many imagine. Sometimes it simply means fencing off a portion of the field, so that grass has a chance to grow while the cows are feeding on the other part. Constant daily cropping in hot, dry weather kills the grass and keeps the plants from ever getting any headway. If the pasture field is sufficiently large, fence part of it off in August and in this way keep it green and healthful. Also be sure that the weeds and briers are kept cut down. Do not let any of these go to seed. Their spread will ruin a pasture lot quicker than anything. The cows do not disturb the weeds and briers, and consequently they have the opportunity to grow and thrive while the grass has not. At least give the latter a fair chance in the race.

STRENGTHENS THE STATE.

Life Insurance is for the protection of those dependent on a man's life; their dependence makes it an unavoidable duty. Those dependent we assume to protect by our contract, at his personal cost; our duty to them is to make that contract as large, as secure, and as certainly available to them as possible; thus every Policy written conserves the interest of the State. A man with a Life Insurance Policy is apt to be a good citizen. Anarchists have no use for Life Insurance, and the state has no use for anarchists. The State should encourage every citizen to carry insurance. This Strengthens the State, abolishes alms-houses, and creates property that can be taxed. Further, the income from Your labour ends with Your life. The cost of living to the family continues. Take measures to have the income continue also. The Life Insurance Policy Does It.

The most enterprising and progressive of all the Canadian Life Offices to-day is the Sun Life of Canada. Ten years ago the Company had Life Assurance in force to the extent of $16,759,355,92. On the 31st of December last, this amount had been increased to $57,980,634.68. The increase, therefore, of Life Assurance in force during the last ten years amounted to the tremendous sum of $41,221,278.76.

SPORTING PASTIMES.

RUGBY.

Matters have turned out just as anticipated. The London Club is carrying out its plan of campaign very nicely, but the probabilities are that it will come to a sudden termination. Following the despatches from London to the effect that their team would most likely withdraw from the intermediate series of the O.R.F.U., the following item in the Toronto Star will show what the Westerners really are after:—

"Secretary J. D. McMurrich of the Ontario Rugby Union received a letter to-day from the London Rugby Club, asking that the final game for the intermediate championship of the Union be played in London.

London is in the finals by virtue of the defeat of Sarnia and the default of Hamilton II. The team will meet the victor in the Peterborough-Toronto series in a sudden-death game for the championship.

Therefore, if London is compelled to play away from home the people of that city will not have the opportunity of witnessing more than one championship game, and that was with the weak Sarnia team.

The application will be brought up before the O.R.F.U. Executive Committee at the meeting at the Rossin House on Thursday night."

For "nerve" London stands pre-eminent amongst the Clubs in the Union. After Peterborough making two trips to London last year to settle the championship, they come along and ask that the same two teams meet in London again this year. Wouldn't that scald you? London must think that the Union is pretty easy, and the public at large would think likewise if it were to order any such extraordinary piece of work.

The London Advertiser says: — "Last night's football meeting was highly satisfactory. There was a large attendance of enthusiasts from the ranks of both seniors and juniors, every individual player pledging himself to work to the utmost to defend the intermediate trophy. Practice is the thing most needed, and this has been provided for. Beginning to-day, practice will be held every afternoon. At last night's meeting Jack McNee was appointed acting captain with C. A. Fisher as executive, to look after the practices. Frank Reid, George Macbeth, Barney Dunlevy and all the old guard will turn out and make the players get into the game."

A meeting of the team committee will be held this evening when the team to play against Toronto on Saturday will be picked.

The dance committee will meet this evening. As the opera house is engaged for every night in November excepting the 6th and 7th, it is quite probable that the annual affair may take place on the last mentioned date.

Hugh Labatt, London's crack full-back, is out of the game for the season, owing to an injured knee received in the game at Sarnia.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The men behind the football
Again are to the front,
And on the grid the pigskin
They toss and push and punt.
Again they're fiercely plunging
And striving for the goal,
And with the same abandon
Again in mud they roll.

They're just as brave and brawny
As they were in the past,
And when it comes to sprinting
They prove they're just as fast.
They care not for the weather,
For, be it dry or wet
They're eagerly contesting,
For glory that's to get.

Again the football maidens
The chosen colours don,
And at the grid they rally,
To cheer their heroes on.
Again the football rooters
Let loose discordant yells,
And every tin horn blower
The noisy chorus swells.

Again the ambulances
Are rushing to and fro,
Each bearing hero wounded
In battling with the foe.
The surgeons and the nurses
Are busy in each room,
And druggists are reporting
A sticking-plaster boom.

Again attention centres
On touchdowns and on goals,
Again is fame inscribing
New names upon her rolls.
Though summer has its heroes,
Their praise no more we sing,
The men behind the football
Are now the real thing.

P.S.

Again the Peterborough's
Have struck their usual gait,
And for the Champion Pennant
We shan't have long to wait.
When London is turned under
And Toronto bites the dust,
The Peterborough girls can wear
Our colours on their blouse.

LADIES' GOLF.

Yesterday may be said to have been the most successful day in the history of the Ladies' Golf Club. In the morning the autumn competition was held. This was particularly satisfying, there being such a large number of entries. The following was the result of the competitions:

Driving—Miss J. White, 116 yards.
Cleeking—Mrs Campbell, 124 yards.
Approaching and putting — Miss G. Dennistoun.
Putting — Miss Barlee.

Special prizes were given for the beginners. Miss Fair carried off the one for driving and Miss Edwards for cleekin'.

Lunch followed at one o'clock and immediately after the rounds were begun for Mr. Hill's two prizes, which were given for the best handicap scores, medal play. The first was won by Miss J. Fairweather; the second was tied by Miss Halliday and Miss Tucker, and will be played later.

It was particularly noticed the great interest that was taken by the large number of non-players, who seemed to thoroughly enjoy the day spent on the links. The ladies have once more to thank Mr. J. H. Burnham for having kindly acted as judge.

THE GUN.

Messrs. George Milne Hamilton and George Skagway Dawson, the Klondyke Twins, are going deer hunting. They are becoming impatient for the season to open, and spend their spare moments in looking down the muzzle of their new rifles, and patting their borrowed hounds on the "anouts," and speaking kind words to them in Rocky Mountain Indian tongue. They intend to exterminate the monarch of the forest in Ontario and if an outfit is necessary, such will be the case. They have had fifteen dogs living on one meal a day for the past two weeks, and therefore in prime condition.—Com.

CURLING.

The Thistles meet for reorganization in the rink parlours on Monday evening next. The annual reports will be submitted and officers elected. New members wishing to identify themselves with the club are requested to send in their names in order that they may be allotted positions on the rinks.

OUR MANITOBA LETTER.

My last letter was written to you during the last week in August, at a time when harvesting was general.

Ideal weather prevailing, all the early grain and most of the later grains, were cut and shocked before the downpours of rain which began during the first week of September. Frequent showers continued during the month and during the first few days of October. Since October 6th, we have had pleasant weather, but frosty nights.

The frost visited us rather earlier than usual this year, coming about the tenth of September. As a result of such early frosts, many gardens suffered, and there will be a scarcity of beets, onions, beans, citrons, tomatoes and other tender vegetables; potatoes, which are an exceptionally good crop this year, were not injured.

Surely our western climate, aided by our rich soil, must be one specially suited to the rapid development of plants and cereals. Owing to the late spring frosts, seeds were not planted till well on in May of this year; then came dry weather, and the seeds did not germinate till the rains fell in June. Notwithstanding the late start, I have seen ripe corn, ripe tomatoes, ripe citrons and some ripe melons, all of which had ripened before the frosts of September 10th.

Threshing operations had begun before the September rains, and lucky indeed were the men who had got "threshed out," and their grain delivered and sold. At that time all wheat graded No. 1. Hard, and a good price was realized. The market opened at 58c in car lots, or 56 1-4c in the elevators. In a few days the price dropped to 55c, where it remained for a few days, when it went down a little lower; at the present time the price is 51c.

There has been too much hurry after a rain on the part of threshers and farmers to get to work again, and as a consequence a great deal of damp wheat has been marketted. This was a very serious mistake, and means a loss of thousands of dollars to the farmers of the west.

To give an instance of the loss in such cases, I know of a farmer who was drawing grain direct to the elevators and selling at 54c. After the rains his wheat graded No. 2 Northern, and the price dropped to 47c. In many of the eastern papers we notice articles advising the farmers here to store their grain, and sell later. Very good advice, indeed! but where will we store it? Very little of the grain now going direct to the market is grading No. 1, but if the present weather continues all wheat should be in good shape in a few days. The great wheat combine is officered by shrewd men and they are not slow to take advantage of a favourable opportunity to lower the grade of wheat. In this way the farmers stand to lose most, for even after the grain is in fair condition the elevator grain-buyers will have their doubts and of course the company will get the benefit. During a favourable Autumn, grain which this year will grade "Northern" would grade No. 1 hard without any hesitation.

Regarding the estimates placed on the yield of Manitoba and the North West, they were fairly accurate. The grain is turning out well to the acre though not very well to the straw. I have seen large areas threshed which yielded over 30 bushels to the acre. In this district the average yield will be in the neighbourhood of 26 bushels.

The wheat growers of Manitoba are greatly disappointed on account of the failure of the Roblin Government to secure a reduction on wheat rates this fall which they had promised to do. Roblin now says that no reduction can take place until the "Canadian Northern" line is completed to Port Arthur, and that the time for such completion has been extended. Hugh John's Prohibition, Hill and Roblin's railway deal were all right to bait the electors but promises without results will never keep a Government in power.

Many complaints are going the rounds of the press this fall, as to the manner in which the labourers from the east were used, the scarcity of work in the west, and the low wages prevailing in this country. Now what is the true state of affairs? Thousands of men came from the east and south and instead of taking branch lines and dropping off at small places on the main line, where work could have been secured, hundreds flocked to Brandon and Winnipeg. How could they expect work there? There are not enough men in the country at the present time to meet the demands, nor has there been at any time this fall. I know of scores of labourers who are being paid $40 and $45 per month. The day labourers gets $2 per day, and I have not heard of one man in this district working for less than $1.75; on the other hand I have seen $3 per day offered for men to stack, and they could not be secured. For working on the threshing outfits the lowest wages paid is $1.75 per day. The men from the east thought they could force the farmers here to pay $60 and $75 per month, and when they found that such wages could not be got, they centred in the towns and consoled each other as best they could in such a serious case.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall found many things to interest them in the Wild West. In Winnipeg they viewed an arch built of wheat, here also, they saw a large threshing outfit in operation. At Calgary an immense assembly of Indians gathered to do homage to the descendant of their "Great White Mother." At Banff the Royal party viewed the mineral springs, the picturesque scenery of the Rockies and enjoyed the embracing air in that high latitude. At other places novel drills, performed by North-West Mounted Police, took place, or the cow-boys of the Plains delighted their Royal visitors, by their clever work in lassoing the broncbos and riding them despite all efforts of the horses to "buck" the riders from their backs. We can now truly say that we have the Royal hunting grounds of Canada for did not some two hundred ducks fall before the Duke's gun on Lake Manitoba?

In conclusion I feel safe in saying that Manitoba will receive an influx of immigration next spring such as she has never experienced since the Fort Garry—Winnipeg — boom.

McGUIRE RELEASED.

A Noted Convict Leaves the Kingston Penitentiary.

Andrew McGuire, a celebrated prisoner, was released from Kingston Penitentiary on Monday. McGuire was a resident of Cobourg for many years. He became infatuated with a Cobourg young women, but her father objected to McGuire's keeping company with her, claiming the young man was of a dissolute character. Some time after this the father was filled full of buckshot, but was not seriously wounded. The charge was proven against McGuire, and he got five years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

After serving his sentence McGuire returned to Cobourg, and brooding over his troubles, was one day at the railway station there. Seeing the girl he was infatuated with standing on the platform, he, in a fit of desperation, attempted to shove her in front of a moving train, which had just come in from the west. Her escape from death was miraculous, a portion of her clothing being torn by the moving wheels, so near was she to the engine.

The case was a sensational one, there being a strong feeling against McGuire, the former attempt against the father's life being brought out in the evidence. McGuire was sent to the Penetentiary for life.

The judge said when he sentenced him that he would have to stay in the Penitentiary until the girl and her father were dead, and that then he might possibly sign a petition for his release. Although handcuffed, and in charge of two constables, the prisoner, on his way from the court house to the Cobourg jail, managed to jump out of the rig and escape. He for some time hid in a swamp, but was soon re-captured.

He was hurried to the Portsmouth "Bastile," and there began his long sentence.

Farley, the Philadelphian, who was in 1899 sentenced to imprisonment for life for killing an Indian who travelled with Miller & Freeman's circus, was a great friend of McGuire's. This Farley killed the Indian on a Sunday afternoon at Peterborough. He was sent to the Kingston Penitentiary, and was a particular friend of McGuire's, until last year, when he was pardoned.

Farley used to pump the organ at the Roman Catholic chapel at the "pen." McGuire is a born artist, and during his term of imprisonment has made many fine paintings, including one known as "Christ's Ascension," now in the chapel at the "Pen." In both both the Protestant and Catholic churches and at the Church of the Good Thief are wonderful products of McGuire's genuis.

The late Archbishop Cleary made several efforts to have both Farley and McGuire pardoned, but the then premier, Sir John Thompson, would not consent.

Both men were Roman Catholics. At times they became very devotional, and one of them who shaved his head close was dubbed "The Monk." McGuire is a small man of slight build. He stoutly denies that he ever attempted to murder his former lady love. He says her falling on the track was an accident.

Tendency of Catarrh is to Spread.

Just a slight matter at first, and because slight, neglected; but the seed sown brings forth a dangerous harvest, Consumption, which is the harvest of death. Better spend a few moments each day inhaling Catarrhozone, an aromatic antiseptic that relives at once, clears the nasal passages, and restores lost sense of taste and smell. The immediate effect of Catarrhozone is magical, so prompt and efficient. Cure is certain and permanent if you use Catarrhozone. Price $1.
